David was the one the neighbor talked to. The neighbor did not know Dave's name but described him to a T and did say he would know him if he saw him.

On another note: I noticed David had the order of cutting down the apple tree before or after the pine tree goofed. Not a big deal but I think Bill, Carols and my own deps agree it was done prior. I remember the same neighbor talking about that day prior to the big trees coming down.

That neighbor has a better view from inside his house of the McGuires back yard than the McGuires do from their own house.

I think David wasn't just confused about the timing, he was trying to show he hadn't done any work prior to this incident. Not sure why but the complete fabrication as a whole shows that David was right, he wouldn't lie to help me but he would lie to help himself.

I'm done ranting...
Reading that dep got me going. Need to let this thing rest for a bit.

Have a good day and enjoy your holidays,
Paul

Hi Hans,

A while back I sent you the name and number of the McGuires neighbor. I don't have it in front of me at the moment but it's in our correspondence.

The neighbor claimed that the McGuires had asked him to borrow his chainsaw to cut down the trees on the McGuires property just a few days prior to the trees coming down.

It would seem to reason that the McGuires did not own a chainsaw at that point and tried to borrow one from a neighbor before going out and purchasing one specifically for that project.

So my question is, if the McGuires can be proved to be hiding the reason and timing of purchasing the chainsaw can this benefit us in any way?

Thanks,
Paul

Hans,

I read through David's dep. it's mostly lies with a few truths.

Where should I begin or better yet where would you like me to begin?

Almost everything he said was made up, from which end of the branch I was holding, at who's direction I was doing it under and even as to why I was even there on the McGuires property, etc...

Not to mention the nonsense of $10,000.
The only good thing he has coming from me is my ability to hold back my primal side be civil.
It's a shame we don't live in ancient times under the old eye for an eye philosophy of justice.
I'd much rather take a chainsaw to his arm than get any money.

As far as the McGuires are concerned give me a call.

Is the typed version of the dep actually verbatim or edited somehow?

After reading my own it made me realize not everything said was included.

Hans,

I wanted to review David Gagnons dep before letting the McGuires off the hook.

And that word "foreseeable" in the McGuire suite...
Well I suppose if I gave anyone a chainsaw and told them to use it, given enough time, an injury is foreseeable, very foreseeable just not hoped for.

And the comment about people not liking friends who sue friends, um well we all should know other than entirely random acts such as auto accidents, train derailments, air plane accidents, etc. Etc.. That most of the time it's those we know who hurt us most often than not. and if it's serious we must be able to sue even if it is or once was a friend.

Hi Hans,

After reading the McGuire deps it lead me to do a lot more searching online and now I realize the difficulties I created in my own dep when asked about the right elbow and left arm tennis elbow being a natural progression of injury from the original cause. I probably shouldn't have commented on them at all even though I believe it's all connected.

Is there any way to amend the suit to correct for my ignorance and confusion?

I'm not a dr and tried to say in my dep that I don't want to pretend to know what dr's mean when they say things.

Thanks,
Paul

I hope not.
Sounded to me like they claimed to be hiding in their home all day when the neighbor saw them outside actively participating all day.
And carol seeing me pick up a 200 lb. tiller alone with her own eyes when it was really someone she knew very well since the 1970's and sees once a week at least. This shows a desperate wanting to prove my claim of injury as false.
Those are a bit more than a bad recollection by anyone's standard.
I would feel better if we had in reserve and were ready to use all tools needed to win.

Hans,
If we take the McGuires off the suit can their deps still be used against us in any way?

John Choyinski stopped by yesterday and I asked him about the tiller. He openly admits being the one who loaded and unloaded the tiller. I recorded the conversation and my Mom was also present and on the tape. Both knew I was recording it in my home. I can send it to you if you need it.

Brian Beebe, McGuires neighbor told me he saw the McGuires out working in the yard most of the day. He doesn't know their names but said he would recognize them if he saw them.

If their deps can or will be used in any way against us can or should we bring provable perjury charges and have them thrown out?

Thanks,
Paul

Hans,
Just got done reading those deps.

First off, Glad I'm not a lawyer.
Secondly, it's full of half truths and flat out lies.

Your right, going after those half truths are probably not worth anything in the long run but I do have to comment about the tiller because that one was hysterical.

Dave's best friend John Choyinski was with me when I delivered the tiller and he was the one unloading the trailer and I'm more than positive he would testify to that effect.

Even after reading the McGuire deps and seeing how things easily get skewed in all honesty, I can't blame Carol or Bill for Dave's actions I just thought I was covered under their insurance. I know Carol & Bill thought I was covered as well irregardless of all the half truths in their dep.

Hi Hans,
Talked with the McGuire neighbor Brian Beebe

Brian Beebe
1015 oak leaf ave.
McHenry, IL 60051

He remembers the day the tree work was done and said he watched for a while and talked with the people over there because they had asked him to borrow his chainsaw for the same project but doesn't remember the incident itself. He did tell me he has been used as an expert witness for chainsaw incidents because of the kind of work he does.
He did say that his "x" lived with him at the time and is going to ask her if she remembers anything at all and will get back to us. He seems very willing to help.
He has both yours and my number.

Morning Hans,
Ok we can meet. I will call Sheila today and set up a time.
Please send me a link to the current Illinois statute citing that the property owner is not liable for work done on their property resulting in injury to a neighbor.
I need to read it myself and any links to recent case law in this area would be helpful as well.
Thanks,
Paul

The legality of it all is that a property owner does not have legal liability for a worker (whether friend, son or otherwise) who does the work on his time, using his own independent skills. Here, I deposed the McGuires, and they had nothing to do with how Dave did the work other than to request the work to be done. They had no control on how Dave wielded the chain saw and cut you. its that simple. We don't have to accept the $5,000, but if we do not, the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion. So that's the situation.

Hans,

A while back you told me that the jury's here in this county are primarily conservative and that they know the only reason we are before them is for money.

Not sure if that statement was meant to scare me or not but I do agree, they are, for the most part conservative and I would hope we should make it known we want money for damages, lawyers fees and the medical bills, etc... loud and clear.

We should also make it known to the jury that the parties or their insurance companies have never even offered to pay 1 cent for any of the medical damage and that's why we seek the juries help in settling this dispute. Perhaps if the insurance companies would have paid for these basic things none of us would even be here. but they didn't and now yes after years of waiting I am seeking money to pay for the medical treatments, you as the lawyer and finally myself as I'm the one who has had to suffer the consequences of the Gagnon/McGuire choices on that day.

I cannot believe that a conservative jury isn't going to award anything less than the cost of the medical damages and lawyer fees from them unless something catastrophic changes. I do see them being conservative as to what I will end up with at the end but not the real medical and lawyers bills. Even the conservative juries in this county are not so conservative that they won't give the base bills.

The McGuires insurance is free to go after David for damages if they lose.

Other than fearing a motion to dismiss the suit against the McGuire's insurance based on some false concept that because they didn't have their finger directly on the chainsaw trigger they hold no responsibility for damages.

what are the real benefits of letting them off so easy?

And I don't want to hear its because 2 parties vs 1 is much easier.

Letting off the McGuires insurance for such a small amount is anything but reasonable and I just can't see any ethical judge in this county not keeping them in the suit all the way for a jury to decide whether they had any part to play in the days events and the level of responsibility they share with David for the consequences considering it was the McGuires project, their land, their choice of who did the labor etc. etc...

When you advised me to seek a settlement with the McGuires insurance, I agreed to look at it only because they didn't have their hands directly on the trigger of the chainsaw and That you would get at the least the medical bills paid for out of it. I thought that was made clear in your office.

I know you work on approximately 33%. Is 33% of 5,000 even worth the time and money you already invested? It's only $1650 for you and I'm sure your hourly fee eats that up rather quickly, I know mine did back when I had hands and arms that worked so I could charge.

That's their personal issues of control with their own son. I will testify all day long about the things they wanted him to do that he did do throughout the day.

By claiming they had no control over the work dave did after all the preparation, money and time spent out in the yard yelling at him that they wanted certain things done in a particular way I don't see how they get out of the direct over site of the project because now that there is an injury they don't feel they had any real direct control over their own workers actions?
This is ridiculous.
Hans, they have to do better than claim they had no control over David that day. If that's the case why were they there watching the work most of the day? Even Bill had hands on doing some of the work and rarely let David go to long without checking and seeing if things were being done the way Carol and Him wanted it.

If you want a negligence case for the homeowners ask what happened immediately after the accident.

Neither of them offered me any medical assistance nor did either of them call 911 and all Carol could think of besides calling David an idiot was calling her homeowners insurance.

Thinking of what I just wrote,
Should we take the 5 and let them off David's suite and then charge them with the aftermath?
The same can be done with David.
He absolutely refused me a ride to the hospital in his car because I was bleeding so bad.

Hans,
Just spoke with John Choyinski again about talking with you.
I am leaving your number with him as he has agreed to talk with you about David Gagnon.
I believe he will try and call sometime tomorrow.
Paul

Oh and I know that nothing that happened right after the incident makes any difference as to the validity of the injuries but David's conduct immediately after the incident does show his lack of moral values for other humans and what he was willing and was not willing to do to help me get medical help. For his actions towards me or any other human being is enough to sue the shit out him alone. It is the things that happened afterwards that upset me the most.

Sorry for the rant but Dave was a complete ass all the way and deserves this.

Subject: Sagerman deposition

Hi Hans,

Reading through the summary of Dr. Sagermans Deposition I'm curious as to whether Dr. Levin has been deposed? The reason for this question is because of the EMG tests. Dr. Levin only conducted both the tests from just above the scar in the right forearm to the right hand and fingers. She never tested the right elbow which most likely would have identified the compression in the ulnar nerve earlier. She told me she didn't see any reason to give a full test beyond the scarred area even though The Dr asked for a full test of the nerve. She did tell me that all of the branch nerves in the forearm were severed but that is considered minor nerve damage and most likely wouldn't repair itself. Those minor nerves that were ripped out is what caused the loss of feeling in the right forearm and loss of fine motor skills in the areas they control. Again, no major nerve damage was found, only minor nerves but they still hurt like hell and play a significant part.

As far as the MRI, I was told the test cannot tell the difference between scar tissue and good tissue by both Dr. Sagerman and Dr Levin and neither expected to see much from the test.

As far as proving the elbow is a direct, indirect or hypersensitive result from the chainsaw, I don't think anyone can prove or disprove this let alone bet their medical license on this. All I can say to this is that it never bothered me before the incident and I didn't have any of the numbness or tingling prior to the incident. It is possible that the compression existed before the incident and that the trauma to the arm aggravated the nerve causing a hyper sensitivity resulting in the sensations or lack of them. I don't know how or when the compression in the elbow happened. I believe it happened during the incident but cannot prove it. I was in panic mode followed by extreme shock following the chainsaw being lifted into my arm. All I do know is it didn't bother me at all prior to the chainsaw incident or I would have seen a Dr. about it.

On another note, Dr. Sagermans comment about sitting in front of a computer all day shows he has no idea how repetitious keyboarding is or how much work a graphic designer does. I'm curious as to the context of the question he was asked to reply this way and why he doesn't see typing as an extremely repetitious task requiring good dexterity. Every time I try to go at the keyboard, mouse or even write I don't get very far without suffering a spasm in the damaged muscles. It affects much more than just typing. My grip is shot as well and I have a lot of trouble doing regular daily activities like cooking, cleaning, driving, etc... Those spasms happen anytime I try to use those muscles for more than a few minutes repetitiously. Sit at your keyboard and type with your right hand and feel the muscles in your forearm at the same place the chainsaw entered, dug deep and tore out a huge chunk of my arm and ask yourself if issues in those muscles would affect your ability to type or use your fingers for anything. This is a no brainer, of coarse they do. I don't believe dr Sagerman gave this much thought or may have been asked this question in a context that would put computer keyboarding as a physically non stressful job overall but did not consider the extreme repetition, dexterity or fine motor control it takes to be a professional keyboardist 40-70 hours a week. If all I did was sit in front of a computer all day his statement would be true but to do my job requires one hell of a lot of keyboarding. Wish I could get paid to just sit in front of a computer and not have to type anything. Lol.

On another note, I did not see anything about the self dissolving stitches the Hospital used the day of the incident that never dissolved and Dr. Sagerman had to remove later. He said that accounted for the feeling of needles poking me in my arm and I believe he was right as those feelings stopped after he removed them. That was over a year of feeling those stitches aggravate the forearm and was a huge relief when they were found and removed. Removing those helped to pinpoint the Dystonia.

As far as the disability claim. This incident is what triggered me to file for disability but is only the piece of straw that broke the camels back so to speak and not the sole reason I filed. Disability looks at the whole body and not just this incident. In no way do I suggest the chainsaw is the sole reason I may or may not get disability. It is a cumulation of serious injuries I have suffered that will be the determining factor.

That's all I have for now but I'm sure more will come to mind as time goes on.

Oh, one more thing... You said a trial is like a theatrical production. If we had to go to trial how much approximately would you need in cash to make an overwhelmingly convincing production happen. Let me know so I have an idea of the ballpark figure and can secure the funds needed.

Hans, I'm asking that when you consider either a settlement or a trial that you ask yourself what it would be worth to you if you had to suffered this type of injury that profoundly changed your day to day living and career.

Thanks again,
Paul

Below is a link to an article talking about the integration of digital cameras at the centegra facilities.

A friend of mine who works at NIMC for well over a decade just replied to me and she says everything is recorded and available exactly for the purposes we discussed.

Hi Hans,

Just spoke with John Choyinski a lifelong friend of myself and David Gagnon.

First off I should mention that John has suffered a brain injury in his youth and did spend a few months in a coma and rehab but that was over 20 years ago and he's improved dramatically since. If you should talk with him you will notice something's off about him and I thought the heads up would help. One important note and you have to take my word for this till you talk to him and realize it for yourself, it is that John is damn near incapable of lying. Ask him anything and he's so darn honest he gets himself in trouble and doesn't know it. He often says way too much and I'm sure that can't be good except its what makes him so darn believable.

John is willing to talk about certain aspects of what David has said to him in confidence. John is extremely hesitant to go against David in fear of retribution and rejection from his lifelong friend and is on guard in his reactions and words but this can easily be avoided by asking him questions that skirt around the issue rather than directly at it until he already answered it.

John explained to me tonight that Dave is not the same person I knew a decade ago. These days Dave is all about himself and he has become money hungry. John told me I would have known that if I hadn't been off working all those years and been around more often. John went on to say that he knows that David is lying about how it happened because David seems to think he will have to pay more for insurance and he's so cheap he'd rather screw Paul over than paying 1 penny more or have to admit he did something wrong for no money. John went on to say that David was upset at having to do his Moms tree, didn't want to be there because he wasn't getting money for it and that he was trying to go too fast, didn't tell Paul what he was doing and that's how it happened. At this point Johnny showed confusion and said "um well I mean Paul moved his arm.... Ohhh whatever, I don't want to talk about it any more."

Hans, Johnny is David's longest lasting friend. These two were the closest of buddies growing up. Johnny said he would be willing to talk with you not to go against David but because he knows the troubles I have doing normal things that I used to be able to do very well.
If you start by asking Johnny about my grip or things I have trouble with like hand shakes or opening jars, writing or typing he will go on and on, he needs to be guided a bit in the right direction and soon you will have what you should need about his conversations with David.
But be forewarned, Johnny can go off on tangents and most of what you hear won't have anything to do with what he is there for and I'm more than positive he will say things that will ruin his own credibility.

When I asked johnny if it was ok for you to speak with him he said yes but to give you his home number and not his cell because he doesn't answer calls if he doesn't know the number. He also went on to say his parents told him to stay out of the issue between Dave and I because of David. They fear David may do something drastic if he feels Johnny went against him.

Best time to call him at home is either early morning before 9 am or at 6 pm but he is in and out all day.

John Choyinski Jr.
Home. (815) 385-8483

Hans, John has issues and may not make the best witness in my opinion but he is Dave's lifelong friend and if handled correctly can't lie or should I say can't keep one up for very long.

Paul

Hans,
I don't believe that any reasonable person sitting in a jury is going to give dr talerico's 5 minute evaluation much credit next to dr Sagerman's extensive examinations. I'd bet the farm on Dr. Sagerman over Talerico any day.
Next issue?

And in cases that have complicated medical issues, many times the jury will not be so accommodating and give you the benefit of the doubt. That's why Plaintiff's always have a more difficult time at trial, because they have the burden of proof. And, if the jury doesn't like the evidence they can find against you.

Paul, here are my thoughts regarding your case. There are two issues. The first liability, or whether Mr. Gagnon is liable for your injury. If he is not proven liable, then it does not matter how badly you were hurt since he will not be found responsible for your damages. The second issue is your damages, or to what extent you were injured due to Mr. Gagnon's acts.

Both of these issues are strongly contested in your case.

As to liability, there were no witnesses to the accident. So, whether Mr. Gagnon will be held responsible for your damages is uncertain and a gamble. That is because it is your word against his word. Our argument is that you were simply holding a limb when he caused the chain saw to strike you. His argument is that you moved your arm in the path of the chain saw unexpectedly. If the jury determines that we did not prove your "version" of the accident, then they can find against you and in favor of Mr. Gagnon at trial.

As to damages, the issue is complicated. That is because your treating physicians do not all agree on exactly what injury you suffered or whether your had a fully recovery or not.

Dr. Talerico at MidAmerica Hand and Shoulder, saw you twice. The first time was in December, six months after your injury. He was not supportive of your claim in most respects. He didn't really feel there was anything wrong with you - as to the forearm. He said that you complained mostly of pain radiating down the forearm from the laceration site with numbness and tingling. On exam he noted no tenderness and it was mostly a normal presentation. Strength was good. He did not see any nerve problem. He prescribed physical therapy due to a muscular sort of symptomology - not nerve related. Apparently you did only 2 sessions of therapy and returned January, 2012. No new complaints at the time. The EMG was normal. He did not believe you were disabled. He continued you on therapy. He saw no evidence of nerve problems. The only symptoms were subjective - not represented by any abnormal exam finding.

Dr. Sagerman has also been deposed. I will summarize his testimony for your soon. His was more favorable, but still limited in what he related to the chain saw accident. Apparently he does not believe you presently have any symptoms relatable to the chain saw injury.

Think about these issues. I will provide you Dr. Sagerman's summary soon.

Subject: Medical depositions
Morning Hans,
Wanted to touch base this morning because the call from you about something not being medically linked has been on my mind.
I'm not sure what was said during that deposition with the drs that prompted the call but I have been thinking about what it could be. Most likely it was the right elbow procedure.
During my deposition I remember being asked if the two were linked and I answered yes. Let me explain my answer to you.
If the chainsaw had not gone through my arm then the procedure on my elbow wouldn't have happened. That procedure was exploratory to find what was bothering the arm from the chainsaw. Upon opening up the arm they did find some compressions which from my understanding was nothing unusual for a male of my age and very well may or may not have happened during my retreat from the chainsaw when I ended up half way across the yard on the ground. Incidental finding or not it still would not have been found if I hadn't had the chainsaw incident. So as I see it they are linked good or bad and cannot be separated. The exploratory procedure was to find and possibly fix issues relating to the chainsaw incident. They also removed a ton of scar tissue in the forearm on the same day during the same exploratory procedure that was a direct result of the chainsaw.

Hope this helps explain things better.
Let me know,
Thanks,
Paul

Hans, if your sick and this dr you don't know says your not, do you go see someone else or do you take his word for it and continue to suffer?
Ask dr Talerico that question.

This dr Talerico guy has no intimate knowledge of my injuries other than 2 very short visits that I walked out of feeling like I was waisting my time because there was no real examination.

I don't even agree with paying for his services.

Incidental finding or not it still would not have been found if I hadn't had the chainsaw incident. So as I see it they are linked good or bad and cannot be separated. The exploratory procedure was to find and possibly fix issues relating to the chainsaw incident. They also removed a ton of scar tissue in the forearm on the same day during the same exploratory procedure that was a direct result of the chainsaw.
Hope this helps explain things better.
Let me know,
Thanks,
Paul

Quick ?
Are they pitting Dr. Talerico against My other dr's?
He only saw me twice for approx 5-10 minutes and there is a reason I stopped seeing dr Talerico.

His argument is that you moved your arm in the path of the chain saw unexpectedly. If the jury determines that we did not prove your "version" of the accident, then they can find against you and in favor of Mr. Gagnon at trial.

He didn't really feel there was anything wrong with you - as to the forearm. He said that you complained mostly of pain radiating down the forearm from the laceration site with numbness and tingling. On exam he noted no tenderness and it was mostly a normal presentation. Strength was good. He did not see any nerve problem. He prescribed physical therapy due to a muscular sort of symptomology - not nerve related. Apparently you did only 2 sessions of therapy and returned January, 2012. No new complaints at the time. The EMG was normal. He did not believe you were disabled. He continued you on therapy. He saw no evidence of nerve problems. The only symptoms were subjective - not represented by any abnormal exam finding.

I'm not sure what was said during that deposition with the drs that prompted the call but I have been thinking about what it could be. Most likely it was the right elbow procedure.
During my deposition I remember being asked if the two were linked and I answered yes. Let me explain my answer to you.
If the chainsaw had not gone through my arm then the procedure on my elbow wouldn't have happened. That procedure was exploratory to find what was bothering the arm from the chainsaw. Upon opening up the arm they did find some compressions which from my understanding was nothing unusual for a male of my age and very well may or may not have happened during my retreat from the chainsaw when I ended up half way across the yard on the ground. Incidental finding or not it still would not have been found if I hadn't had the chainsaw incident. So as I see it they are linked good or bad and cannot be separated. The exploratory procedure was to find and possibly fix issues relating to the chainsaw incident. Hi Hans and Janet,

Today I met with Dr. Kathryn Kujawa at Alexian brothers hospital. She diagnosed my right arm as task specific Focal Dystonia and said it can be treated on a temporary basis with Botox injections every 3 months or so. My next appointment is for November 19th at 9:45 am to start the treatments. She said it is definitely caused from the trauma in my right arm. I have included her offices contact info below.
If you need anything else please let me know.
Thanks,
Paul

Hans,

Mike Thomas just told me he doesn't want to be involved because he is afraid that it will be found out he paid me in cash rather than a 1099 or w2 and he doesn't want any trouble with the IRS.
I tried to tell him none of that matters but he is afraid and won't call you.

Here is his contact info if you want to try.

Hi Hans,

Thanks for the reminder on the bills. Should have new printouts of the totals by next week.

I have scheduled an appointment with Dr.Kathleen Kujawa on November 14th, 2:30pm at alexian brothers hospital for an evaluation/consultation to see if is in fact Dystonia affecting the severed muscles and branch nerves in my right arm.

Dr. Sagerman told me to finish physical therapy at home for the left arm and left scheduling another visit up to me if I should need it.

Thanks,
Paul

Ok,
Thanks

One more thing, I am calling dr Sagerman this morning to set up an appointment. He offered cortisone shots and I had decided to give it more time to heal. Enough Time has passed and it has improved but still catches me off guard and is quite acute so I'm going to go ahead with the shots. I'll let you know.

Thanks,

Hi Hans,
Missed your call this morning. I'm here all day so feel free to call when you have time.

I'd suppose they want to know what I did for Mike Thomas.

Here is a brief summary,
I placed an ad to sell off some printing equipment and Mike Thomas came out to see if he wanted anything. This was the first time I met him.
In the process he mentioned that he was setting up a print shop in Richmond IL and asked if we (Mike McArtor and myself) could help. We did help him on and off over the next few months. Mike McArtor still helps out to this day and I do offer them advise when asked. My brother Scott Dulberg and Tom Kost also help Mike Thomas from time to time.

Mike Thomas wanted me to work for him on a regular basis. He offered many different proposals from direct employment, sub contracting, part time, etc... I had to decline after a few months of working with him on and off because I knew I couldn't do that type of work anymore on a regular basis. My arms and hands just can't be relied on.

Working with Mike Thomas taught me what I was and was not capable of doing. I did try to do many things for Mike Thomas that probably was things that I now know I shouldn't do anymore. I had to try, how would I know what i could do if I didn't.

It was a good test to see if I could go back to work on a regular basis. I did try many different types of work for Mike Thomas. It was everything from graphic design to doing little fix it up jobs around his building and even his house in Twin Lakes WI. I introduced my brothers, Scott & Tom, to Mike Thomas to recruit their help with what needed to be done because I wasn't able to do all the things myself anymore. All three, Tom, Mike McArtor and Scott filled in and acted as my hands to get things done.

I did receive compensation in the form of cash for my time. It wasn't much perhaps a few thousand in total but I'm not exactly sure what the exact total was. All the money went to my mother to help out with the bills she was paying on my behalf.

Other than that there isn't anything else I can think of that the defense counsel could hope to get from him.

Feel free to call or I could come in to discuss.

Thanks again,
Paul

Hi Hans,

I dropped off the billing today. There is still dynamic hand therapy and Dr. Sagerman who have more to add to the list.

If you have any questions please let me know.

Hans,

Mike is what/who your looking for. He seen and heard David's rant and threat about a lawsuit and any possible monies paid out. I expect him to be off work around 6 pm and I'm sure once he gets your message he will call you.
I'm not sure Mike has even thought about that event since it happened but he doesn't forget things too easily. I'm sure whatever he remembers he would be happy to testify to.

You can check with whoever was working the ER that day. It's not really my word against David's but David's word against those that were working in the ER.

There is one witness as to David talking about making money off of this accident. Mike Mcartor heard David say this to me in David's garage the day I went up to David's house to get his home owner's insurance policy number per your request.
Mike Mcartor is a friend that grew up with David and myself and is currently living at my residence.

Will sign and drop off the medical release forms you requested.

Thanks,
Paul

Hi Hans,
Just wanted to say its a good thing we rescheduled the deposition because I'm simply not doing well today at all after having the hemroids removed yesterday. I wouldn't have been able to make it in today at all and from what the surgeon said, I wont be able to walk or sit very well for 3 to 5 days. Let me know when you want to do another practice session but its probably best to do anytime after this weekend.

Thanks for all your help,
Paul

Hi Janet,
I met with Dr. Sagerman (hand and arm surgeon) for a follow up on Monday for both my right and left arms. He scheduled another follow up in March and prescribed more physical therapy.

I mentioned a new issue I had to Dr. Sagerman, (hemroids) that I first noticed on Saturday and asked him where I should go. He sent me to Dr. Rosenova an internist. Dr. Rosenovas office had me come in the same day. Dr. Rosenova took one look and sent me to Dr. Daniel Conway a general surgeon to have it removed ASAP.

Dr. Conway took one look and surgically removed the hemroid right there on the spot. I have a follow up with Dr. Conway on February 13th.

I was told by the dr's that hemroids can happen at any age however it usually doesn't happen till after 50 years of age. One of the things that may cause it earlier that seemed to hit home with me as to the cause is stress. With everything I've been through stress makes the most sense to me. Hemroids hurt bad and it's going to take me a few days to recuperate. It hurts to walk, sit, stand, etc...

On another note, I missed my appointment at rosecrance earlier this month because I had a bad neck day and didn't get out of bed all day. I rescheduled with them and will be meeting with them again in February.

I have those forms from SSDI and am going to try and fill them out today and get them to you but i cant promise that i will get it done. The pain meds are simply kicking my butt. With everything that happened this week (hemroid issue) I don't know if I am over the 10 day demand they gave me but I am doing my best. I need to go lay down.

Thanks for everything,
Paul

Hi Hans,

I went to see Dr. Sagerman this morning for a follow up from the surgery on my right arm almost 6 months ago. He wants to see me again in 6 weeks for another follow up.

My Mom, Barb, went with me this morning to make sure I talked to him about my left arm. It has been hurting bad for 3 to 4 weeks now and she wanted me to get his advice. Dr. Sagerman had an X-ray done and said it looks good but I have what is called lateral epicondylitis or tennis elbow in my left elbow. He said it was probably just from over use due to me not using my right arm and could be treated. He said I need therapy for the left arm and prescribed 6 weeks of therapy 2 times a week and would follow up with it at the same time as my next appointment for my right arm.

I went to Fox Lake dynamic hand therapy with the prescription to schedule the appointments. They set the appointment for this Friday at 1:30 pm.

When I got home Dynamic Hand Therapy called. They said they cannot see me because this is not part of the litigation pending from my right arm unless the Dr. says it is. And because I have no insurance it would cost me $70.00 a visit.

Which there is no way I can afford. I have no income.

Any advice?

Thanks,
Paul

Hi Janet,

Just met with Dr. Sagerman. He suggested that I do physical therapy at home rather than go in to the clinic from this point forward. He set up an appointment to see me in 6 weeks on 12/3/2012.

I told him that I had applied for disability and he said he would fill out any paperwork needed but is still hopeful my arm will regain some strength over time. He also left me on full restrictions.

He had a suggestion for getting my neck looked at. He said to just walk into cook county hospital and have them perform the MRI then take it to a neurologist or Otho to have it read. Hi Janet,

I had to go in for more X-rays this past Saturday for SSDI's independent evaluation at physicians North in Lake Zurich. Two Saturdays ago they took several X-rays of my cervical spine and this past Saturday they took 2 X-rays of my lower lumbar spine. Not sure why they need the lower lumbar but I'll do whatever tests they need.
I did ask to get a copy of the reports for you and I was told I wasn't allowed to receive any from the dr's office but you could request them from SSDI on my behalf.

Hi Hans,

I looked into the MedChex question.

When I called Open Advanced MRI of Round Lake to get the amount owed I was referred to their corporate office. The corporate office had told me my balance was $0.00. They looked into who paid the bill and mailed me a breakdown of everything they charged, payments made and any adjustments. The corporate office at OPEN ADVANCED MRI did not know who MedChex was. They said it looked like an insurance payment was what paid my bill. Below is a breakdown of the billing from the corporate office at OPEN ADVANCED MRI.

$1510.00 for the MRI on 02/03/2012
$75.00 for the injection on 02/03/2012

$1585.00 total charges from open advanced MRI of round lake on 02/03/2012

MedChex paid

$0.00 for the injection on 02/23/2012

An adjustment was made to the original charges from open advanced MRI in the amounts of

$710.00 for the MRI on 02/23/2012
$75.00 for the injection on 02/23/2012

My balance due reads $0.00

After a bit of searching the web I came across the contact info for MedChex, gave them a call and asked how they came to pay off my bill with OPEN ADVANCED MRI and what their terms were for paying off the bill.

MedChex claimed I owe them $3,390.00 for the MRI as of 08/22/2012

The customer Representitives supervisor I spoke with at medchex was named Tish.
Telephone number: (866) 959-1100
Extension: 109

Tish would not provide me with the terms or how MedChex came to negotiate and pay off my bill with OPEN ADVANCED MRI. She would simply repeat that they are a service to help those with no insurance and will be receiving a settlement for injuries. She told me that i did not need to worry about the increased amount from the original billing from OPEN ADVANCED MRI because a settlement would be paying for it. She demanded that I fax her a copy of the billing breakdown from Open Advanced MRI at 888-317-0260. She said that I was never supposed to see what the original billing was and that it is just wrong that I have it and that she would not discuss the terms or how MedChex became involved till I sent this copy to her office. That ended the conversation.

Hans, the only person/firm I ever authorized to handle any and all of my negotiations for medical billing is you and your firm. I will bring in the breakdown from OPEN ADVANCED MRI to your office on Monday along with a few other bills I have collected.

Hi Hans,

Had another Dr's appointment with Dr. Sagerman at hand surgery associates. He read me the findings from the surgery. He said the chainsaw did not cut the ulnar nerve but the nerve was compressed in the ulnar groove at the elbow. Probably from scar tissue growing in the forearm and pulling the nerve tight in the ulnar groove. The scar tissue had apparently grown and attached my muscles to the skin and each other. Dr Sagerman said they managed to separate the muscles and skin.

I have another appointment with Dr.Sagerman in a month and am doing physical therapy.

I will send a few pictures of what the arm looks like 1 month after the surgery as soon as I can get someone to use the camera for me today.

Thanks,
Paul

Hi Hans,

I couldn't help but to laugh at that. The reason I left Dr. Talerico and went to Dr. Sagerman was because he couldn't listen worth a darn and went on a 20 minute rant about prescribing pain medication to me when I never received any prescriptions from him nor did I ever ask him for any pain medication or any other prescription for that matter. Each time I went there it was as if he confused me with someone else. On my last visit with him he couldn't even remember why I was even there and went on another rant about insurance companies. He never even asked or looked at the X-rays from the hospital and I had to ask him numerous times just to get him to read the physical therapy reports. Honestly, he scarred the heck out of me and we were at odds, so I went to see someone else whom I had more confidence in (Dr. Sagerman). I'm sure Dr. Talerico is a good Dr., just one that I felt was probably over worked, was getting confused between his patients and couldn't give me the attention I needed. In retrospect, it fits that his notes are messed up and confirms my feeling about him and why I went to another Dr.

I just called the libertyville office for MidAmerica Hand and Shoulder Clinic. Talked with Gabby. She told me she could not change the record but would make an addendum to the record to clarify that I was not the one operating the chainsaw. She apologized for the confusion and said that it was lost between the Dr.'s notes and the person who transcribes the records. She is going to call your office and fax over the addendum.

Please let me know if you get the addendum and if it is ok

Thanks,
Paul

Hi Hans,

Wednesday I met with Dr. Sagerman and I signed the papers for surgery on my right arm. They are going to do an ulnar nerve decompression and transposition, and a neurolysis in the forearm. They are also going to explore and repair any other damage they find with the muscles, tendons and remove scar tissue. I am waiting on a call to find out when and where the surgery will be. They said it should be in the next 4 weeks.

I also need to get some sort of medical release signed by my primary care physician for the surgery so I met with Dr. Sek yesterday and he gave me a checkup and signed the forms.

On another note, when we last met you asked if any of the Dr.'s had been paid yet. I answered no but that wasn't true. I have paid Dr. Sek in full for each visit and Dr. Levin has been partially paid. I also had to just sign a form for Dr. Sangerman allowing them to charge my credit card $40 a month till my bill was paid in full. I asked if they would do the surgery on a lean against a settlement and gave them your name and number to contact you. They said they would but still required I give them permission to charge my credit card.

If you need anything else please let me know.

Thanks for everything,
Paul

Hi Hans,

Just set up an appointment with Sheila for 10:00 AM tomorrow to meet with you.

Just after I set up that appointment with your office my physical therapist called and discharged me until I see the Dr. Said my evaluation was bad and they sent the report to Dr.Sangermans office and for me to call them. After calling the Dr.'s office they bumped up my appointment to Wednesday of this week to discuss surgery.

See you in the morning,
Paul

Hi Hans,

Today Dr. Levin my neurologist increased my medication of Gabapentin from 300 mg twice a day to 600 mg twice a day. I'm not happy about the increase, it already makes me extremely tired but it's supposed to help with the nerve pain in my right arm.

Not sure if you needed to know this but it is a minor change in the medical condition.

Hi Hans,

I'm curious if David Gagnons home owners insurance policy number checked out?

Also, from what I understand this surgery that has been suggested by two different arm specialists, the neurologist and my primary physician is going to run in the neighborhood of $60,000.00. I want to be sure that it will be covered under the settlement before I decide to do it.
It is a direct result from the chainsaw cut and not anything else. Will it be covered or am I on my own to pay for it?

I am extremely nervous about the cost and getting stuck in bankruptcy and losing my house if it isn't covered.

Thanks,
Paul

Hi Hans and Janet,

I just got back from an appointment with Dr. Sam Biafora, another hand, wrist, elbow & shoulder specialist at hand surgery associates. He did what seemed to be a very thorough evaluation. He dug around pretty deep in my arm and did many different tests on my hand, arm and elbow. He recommended doing surgery to get the scar tissue out of the affected nerve and surrounding area. He said not to have any hope of restoring strength, feeling or reversing the paralyzed muscle that pulls my pinky finger in. But he said that going in and removing the scar tissue from the area will bring relief to the nerve and should stop the pains I get. He said that it will leave a long scar from the back of my elbow to the wrist and they will need to move the ulnar nerve to the inside of the elbow and that it will take approximately 3 months to recuperate. I mentioned the new medication I just started taking that was supposed to help fix the signals from the nerve. He said that all that will do is mask the symptoms for a while and that the only way to actually fix it is to go in and remove the scar tissue and see if any of the cut fibers can be grafted back together. He said that grafting the fibers probably won't work since its been almost a year since they were cut but removing the scar tissue should release the pain and should make a huge difference. He was ready to set up the surgery and I told him I needed a some time to talk with my mom and think about it. He set up another appointment for a month from now so I have time to think it over and said to call Dr. Sagerman if I should decide sooner.

Hi Hans and Janet,

Forgive me for combining this e-mail to both of you but both of you need the same information.

Met with Dr. Levin today at Associated Neurology. She prescribed Neurontin / Gabapentin 300 MG. I am supposed to take it in the evening for 1 week then move to 2 times daily. Then call her in 2 weeks to see how it's going. She said that it is supposed to help correct the signals from the misfiring nerve in my right arm which is causing the pain when I use my hand. And that the dosage may change depending on how and if it's working. This treatment was suggested by Dr. Sagerman to help try and avoid surgery. If it works I think this is a long term treatment because the prescription lasts for a year and the pharmacist said it goes hand in hand with the other medications I'm taking for long term pain management treatment.

I see Dr. Sagerman and his partner tomorrow for an evaluation at Hand Surgery Associates in Vernon Hills. I will let you know what happens.

Thanks to both of you,

M. Margaret Bradshaw,

I received the results from the MRI done on my right arm and Dr. Levin said the MRI came up negative. The physical therapist had already told me that this type of damage seldom shows up on an MRI. Dr. Levin said it was all muscle and tendon damage. Dr. Levin and the physical therapist both suggested I see an hand and arm orthopedic specialist.

Today my GP, Dr. Sek, wants me to get an MRI done on my neck. This would not be covered in the lien against the claim for my right arm. So I am at a loss as to how to go about getting this done. While talking to you, I heard you mention Northwestern University. How do I go about applying for this? I would appreciate any help or assistance you may have that will allow me to get this done.

I applied for help at DHS in Woodstock. They received a copy of all my medical records and approved a two month SNAP benefit. Not sure if this will be extended or if they will do any further follow-up. This is a new process for me and I'm not sure how all this works. They said they sent my application for Medicaid to the state and I guess I am waiting for a response.

Thank you for any help you can provide.

Yes, this is the correct application form. You could go ahead and complete the application yourself and send it in now. Margaret should be sending you some information soon on your claim. We have a process that we have to complete to open new files and we are still working on yours. Once you receive anything, please give me a call if you have any questions or concerns.

Thank you.

Hi Janet/Margret,

At our appointment you mentioned you could perhaps help me get medical work done thru Northwestern University. I have e-mailed you twice requesting the forms/applications needed to get this medical help. You have not yet responded. I did try to do a search for these forms and came up with the PDF attached to this e-mail. Is this the correct form? Not sure if you want me to contact NU myself or if you are the one that should be handling this for me. Dr. Sek wants to get another look at my neck because he thinks disc bulging may have increased and that there is further degeneration. There is no way I can afford to get this procedure done and you said you would assist me in getting some sort of medical assistance.

The interview we had is somewhat fleeting as I did get extremely tired. I remember something about family services but can't recall what it was I was supposed to do. Please feel free to call me with anything I should be doing.

Thanks again for all your help,
Paul

Hi Meredith,
Today I received a letter for authorization to disclose information to SSA.
The letter was addressed to your office.
Should I sign and return the letter or have you already taken care of this?
Thanks,
Paul

Your case is in prehearing review as of 10/28/16. I don't think it will be much longer but we have to wait for the judge's scheduler to call us. It all depends on the judge's schedule and order of cases to be scheduled. They schedule the older cases first.
We will notify you as soon as we get a date.

Hi Hans,
Just picked this up today from Centegra when I was getting the reports.
It's the original x-ray from 6-28-11. It looks much deeper than I thought.

I have 2 dr's visits on Monday and Tuesday next week. will let you know how they go.

Thank you very much for helping me with all this,

Hans,

I have found in the paperwork you provided me of the notice of discovery for the Dr's depositions.

All of the paperwork clearly states they were to be deposed before Merrill Legal Solutions on various dates.

Upon contacting Merrill Legal Solutions, none of the Dr's depositions were recorded by that company. In fact, Merrill claims that they did not record any depositions in my case whatsoever.

So, what company did the recording of the Dr's depositions you claimed to have attended?

Sorry I need to bother you again.
I need your electronic case file for Paul Dulberg along with all paper files you have.
I did get the paper files from Brad Balke however of the plaintiffs/defendants depositions I received sections are missing in each and there are no dr's depositions at all. Brad promises he turned over everything he received from you.
Please collect all relevant information you have for this and notify me when it will be available to be picked up.
Thank you in advance for your help with this matter,

Any chance I could get the electronic file anytime soon?
In the Paper file I received It appears that it is incomplete, sections of the depositions are missing as well as all the Dr's depositions.
Makes me wonder what else isn't included.
Any chance you have the complete file?
Thanks,

Hans,
No need to get back together next Thursday.
Didn't know that brad balky holds the entire lean and paid your expenses.
Sorry for the bother.
Hope the rest of the vacation is wonderful,

Hi Brad,
Called your office numerous times today and was told you would return my call.
You failed to call me back each time.

I want a copy of my file including the digital file along with a release of all interest in any fees in the case before 9am court at the McHenry County Courthouse.

If not I'm informing Judge Meyer of your attempts to block this case from moving forward by Holding both the file and the Lean and calling the Illinois State Bar.

Paul

Hans,
If your referring to Brad Balky, he no longer represents me in this case And I am unaware of the deal you two agreed upon.

Here's the deal;
I'm offering cash in return for all leans on this case before Friday or no one gets anything.
Let me know what you want, cash amount or nothing?

Hope your vacation is wonderful,
Paul

Brad,

Before I decide to sign this release I'd like to know exactly why it is you don't think this case is easily winnable?
And please don't spout that it's his word vs mine. That is obvious and is the situation in most cases.
And don't give me the old your only getting 15k no matter what excuse because that's not about this case being winnable or not.

I want some honesty
I deserve that much

Brad,
You could have just stopped with this is the best deal you could get but you didn't.
You pulled a Hans and assaulted me when you threatened to remove yourself from this case if I didn't sign this release before you see the judge.

That's an ultimatum and it's not something I'm going to react to positively.

The way I see it, there is more than just the 2 options in your ultimatum...

A.) I can take this deal, shut up, go away and keep suffering and praying for SSDI

B.) I can refuse to take this deal, lose you as an attorney and have to find new council or simply represent myself and start over with the same 15k on the table and possibly an extra 15k in bankruptcy surplus while still suffering and preying for SSDI.

C.) I can stop this suit all together and lose 15k, in which no one gets anything while I suffer and prey for SSDI

Any which way I go, I'm the one who's getting thrown under the buss and I'm tired of being a victim of others threats.

As of now I'm leaning towards option "C".
As you said, the medical providers have already written off my accounts as loses and that leaves Option "C", me losing 15k, well, it is kind of a cheap way of saying how I feel about the state of my legal representation and their efforts because their afraid they can't prove the defendant put a chainsaw into my arm and that the defendants mother is an elderly woman with whom the jury may sympathize yet didn't see the actual incident, refused to call 911 for help, but did call her insurance followed by a call to the hospital and lied to the staff claiming to be my mother only to disrupt the emergency room treatment not to ask how I was doing but to tell me she was insured. Good for granny, she is insured. Where was her slick phone skills when I needed an ambulance and for god sakes why lie to the hospital staff and call me in the emergency room to tell me the most important thing on her mind... The fact that she was insured. Big deal what did it do to help me?

These people had no concern for anyone's well being other than their own.
They are the type that deserve to get sued. Granny or not.

This may all make a great documentary one day about the state of legal representation and their ethical commitment to following through once they commit themselves to a client. A series false dichotomies of sorts.

It is just a leaning towards option "C" not an actual commitment yet.

I need to sleep on the options for a couple nights

I'll get back to you with my answer just before court starts later this week.

Please remind me, what is the time and date the judge set?

Thanks for everything,
Paul

Just started to read this and I think all those years of proofreading my work in the printing industry gets me in trouble.

The address of the location of the incident in the first paragraph is incorrect. If the address was in Wisconsin wouldn't we be in a different court?

Morning Brad,

Talked with my mom and it seems to us that if all I'm going to get is 15k even if we max out the defendants policy limit then I should seriously look at taking this to trial and leaving it up to a jury to decide an appropriate amount. 15k might as well be 0 because it doesn't even begin to pay for the damages I've suffered.

I know the risks and that it would cost me almost 20k more in expenses and that the defendant can run off and pay nothing beyond his insurance limits.

Assuming that Allstate may claim the act was criminal and that their not responsible has to be overcome. I'm not a mind reader and can't make any claim as to their clients intentions and their client isn't going to self incriminate himself so I don't see how their claim of something criminal can hold water. Especially since their client hasn't been charged with any crimes associated with his actions on that day.

At the last court date, The judge asked if I was doing this for principles. I answered no.
However, after thinking it through... Seeing as how I'm getting virtually nothing out of this and will eventually lose my home, that I was working most of my life to keep, because SSDI can't cover living here or almost anywhere that I can consider worthy, my principles are evolving and I'm not opposed to going the distance and taking this to trial. I'm willing to make a principled point that people should not get off 'scot free' other than having to find a new insurance company after using a chainsaw on another person causing real life threatening harm with permanent damages.

I'm more than positive that a jury will award more than the insurance limits and that we will not recover anything more than those limits, but one thing is almost for sure, the defendant will most likely have to file bankruptcy to protect his assets and the next person he hurts over the next 7-10 years will have full access to his assets because he won't be able to file bankruptcy again for that period.

Either way, I get virtually nothing so principles are all I have.

On the positive side, If the jury does award an amount more than the insurance limits we get to see if the defendant has any assets that can't be protected and if he does I stand to get the costs of a trial covered a perhaps a smidgen more than 15k, if not, well then I'm in the same boat I am already and nothing changes.

Have you talked with the trustee?

My understanding was its over and that if I felt strongly about paying those I owed I still could but wasn't required to anymore.

If it turns out the suit is still in play for the bankruptcy I wonder why the order from the court I sent you doesn't list the suit as an exemption from the order. On the back of the order it details what the exemptions listed on the front mean and my order didn't have any exemptions listed.

Either way it doesn't matter.
My thoughts are, if we get enough to pay the debts all the better.
Perhaps we can get enough to undo the bankruptcy altogether.
Would be nice not having a bankruptcy on the record.

Thanks again,
Paul

Hi Brad,
My mom came up with a good question.
Doesn't David Gagnons homeowners insurance have different parts to the policy that apply?
Parts for just the medical, parts for just damages, parts for pain and suffering, etc...
I suppose it depends on his actual policy and how it's written but I wanted to understand your take on David's policy

Hi Brad,
Thanks for the heads up.
My understanding was the 15k bankruptcy protection limit included all my assets, not just the proceeds from this settlement. I was also informed that I can receive much more than just 15k if the settlement or trial verdict produced enough to satisfy the creditors.

Just so you know...
I won't settle just for the insurance. It isn't enough.
I don't know what a crippled dominate hand/arm is worth but it would seem to me that it is worth a whole lot more than the insurance limits the defendant has.

Thanks and feel free to call me,
Paul

In it is the pretrial settlement memo you wanted to see.
There is also the printed depositions of both the homeowners, the defendant and myself.
I picked these up this morning.

Hi Brad,

As we discussed, I was to receive via certified US Mail depositions and communications between Hans Mast and myself from Saul Ferris an attorney in Gurnee, IL. Saul Ferris number is (847) 263-7770

I called Saul Ferris office last week and was assured they were sent. I was told to give it another week.

I called Saul Ferris office again today to find out they were mailed to and signed for at 3416 W. Elm St. McHenry, IL. by someone named Anne Oupl on March 7th. This is Hans Mast office.

I called Hans office and apparently no one by that name works there and no one knows anything about receiving the certified mail.

I'm at a loss as to how these documents were sent to the wrong place and am a bit furious because it has the memo about the pre-trial settlement you wanted to see.

Please advise.

Thank you in advance for your help with this matter,
Paul

I'm giving you the opportunity to remedy this coarse of action you have chosen.

Do you chose to be professional and do the job your capable of or do you chose to remove yourself for some made up reason. Our emails alone show there is no breakdown in communication. We are still communicating. This email proves that.

So, unless you can explain your action to remove yourself from this case for some excusable reason I see no reason why you feel your entitled to being able to get excused from it at all.

I put you to task to do as you agreed to and represent me to whatever ends this case comes to. Will you be professional and finish what you started?

Damn these emails hurt to type...

Wish you had it in you to go after the bad guy who did this and not your innocent client.

But 9 out of 10 times you will lose this case for trial. As I told you before that is why the defense is never going to offer the policy limits. To settle the case you will need to take far less than the limits. But you don't have to you definitely can go to trial. That is your personal choice. In my view your case is not worth the limits given the issues we've already discussed. So I have done what I can do for you.

Find an attorney and I will talk to them about the lien.

Hans,

Your cornering of me and my brother in your office, bullying me into signing off on The McGuires policy citing cases that have nothing to do with the agency clause in the homeowners policy, which clearly makes her policy accountable.
You sir are the one whom told me that I would never see a dime from either case if I didn't sign that piece of paper before leaving your office that day. You wouldn't even let me sleep on it as I had asked. You said you needed the $5,000 settlement with the McGuire's insurance to help fund your costs for the case with David Gagnon.

Then when the physical therapists tried to demand payment in full you told me and my mother that medical leans against lawsuits often expire before the case is resolved saying yes the medical providers can proceed in collecting funds from my assets. Meaning my home. Forcing me into bankruptcy. Then, after filing for bankruptcy, denying you ever said that to both me and mother and going on to say to us that filing for bankruptcy protection had ruined the case.

All that followed up by getting a brief to review from you on the David Gagnon case that was of such a poor understanding of the facts are what lost any hope of respect I had.

I am and have been trying to get you to be professional and earn that respect back at every step.

If you had not taken advantage of my ignorance you would not be receiving this letter nor trying to squirm your way out of representing me today.

As far as your costs and in light of your poor performance to date, it throws into question all of the work you have done on this case. Even the depositions you sat in on are in question. Do you actually think anyone in their right mind wouldn't see it that way.

You may argue strategy as a defense for incompetence but since you sat in on the medical depositions and don't even know what medications I was and wasn't prescribed after almost 3-1/2 years on this case I highly doubt anyone will see your defense as viable.

Exactly, What part of being harmed by both the McGuires and Gagnon through no fault of my own is 9 out of 10 times a losing case?

Exactly what part of you manipulating me into a settlement for only $5000 was seeing to my best interests?

Exactly how is lying in a briefing you were prepared to put before a judge is in my best interests?

Exactly how is giving you chance after chance to correct yourself not giving you the respect you think you deserve from me?

I can keep going...
I have witnesses to all of this. It's not just your word vs mine.

Bottom line is if you want out simply because you feel I have no respect for you then all of your fees are subject and any lean you have is subject.

I'm giving you the opportunity to remedy this coarse of action you have chosen.

Do you chose to be professional and do the job your capable of or do you chose to remove yourself for some made up reason. Our emails alone show there is no breakdown in communication. We are still communicating. This email proves that.

So, unless you can explain your action to remove yourself from this case for some excusable reason I see no reason why you feel your entitled to being able to get excused from it at all.

I put you to task to do as you agreed to and represent me to whatever ends this case comes to. Will you be professional and finish what you started?

Damn these emails hurt to type...

Wish you had it in you to go after the bad guy who did this and not your innocent client.

Paul

Instead you continue to focus on issues that have nothing to do with your case. You don't listen to my advice. Which is fine. You don't have to listen to my advice. But 9 out of 10 times you will lose this case for trial. As I told you before that is why the defense is never going to offer the policy limits. To settle the case you will need to take far less than the limits. But you don't have to you definitely can go to trial. That is your personal choice. In my view your case is not worth the limits given the issues we've already discussed. So I have done what I can do for you.

The only breakdown was a very poorly written brief you asked me to look over in which the only truthful substance in it was the names and dates. Oh and the fact that you did manage to put the chainsaw in the correct persons hands.

I hope to be able to review your revised copy of this brief again soon.

Hans,
I have found several attorneys and none are willing to represent me as long as you hold the lean on this case and apparently it is not legal for me to finance their representation by other means.

Respect for your thoughts does not constitute a breakdown in communications.

Respect is earned through truth, hard work and results.

I am asking for an honest brief to go before the judge. That is all.

Earn my respect and you will receive the best recommendation I have ever given anyone.

Today I had another appointment with her. She set me up to see her again in 6 months on September 15th and it will be every 6 months from this point on. This visit is not included in the Billing you received.

Hans,

If I have to get a new attorney in the 11th hour of this, The damage done to my case far outweighs your lean.

If you sign off the lean I'll see to it your paid for your real costs.

Hans,
I'm just a laymen but my eyes are opening, As you should very well know, I can't have a new attorney until we are dissolved. So, your suggestions to me for over a year to get a new attorney is in error, one of many to my dismay.
I no longer feel you or your firm are seeing to my best interests and most likely haven't been since I signed on.
It's a shame because you come across to me as a Jon Stewart type and I honestly thought you would be good.

Hans,
I'm not asking to see you.
I'm asking for a copy of the policy numbers and an accounting of all the fees your firm feels it's entitled to.
Please have someone at the office print them out and have them available for pickup.
Thanks in advance again,

All that needs to be done is deposing experts and going to trial. But don't get me wrong I think we can work out something very reasonable. Typically any type of lien arrangement is done when the case is concluded.

In effect he did admit it was his fault.

This is as total as it gets for us in the working class short of being paralyzed or dead.

I need someone who is on my side, top of their game and will see to it that I'm comfortable after all this is over.

What I feel is an attempt to settle for far less than this is remotely worth just to get me off the books.

I know you don't believe I'm hurt...
I'm not interested in belief, I think the facts speak volumes above belief

I question who's side your on?
Your comments about believing David's deposition, etc...

Hans, I have no degrees but I was better at my career in printing and graphic design than anyone I ever worked with who did. If I need character references from past clients, employers, coworkers, teachers, etc... I have an army of people who know I'm one of the most genuine, honest, dedicated hard working persons who takes responsibility for my actions. David on the other hand isn't a stand up guy at all. He couldn't even take responsibility for his actions not to mention his attempts at collecting from this, which I believe constitutes insurance fraud.

Oh and I'm contacting the McHenry county states atty... I know too much time has passed since the threats but those threats were for a future time once all this was settled. If he attempts to collect or make good on his threats and if I end up back in the hospital I want everyone to know who to go get. I'm done playing nice with this guy and I can only hope I have an attorney who feels the same.

I have to ask since you think I don't understand, what is it your trying to do?

Paul

important. This is just a memo to introduce the judge to the case. If there are different ways you want to say things I'm happy to do that. It's going to serve it's purpose perfectly.

To believe David's version of events you must believe I was committing suicide.
Who in their right mind puts his arm into a chainsaw?

I figured you would cop out again...

Now I'm left wondering...
How hard is it to sue an atty?

And yes I am and have been looking for someone who will take this case...

The issue of my word vs David Gagnons... Did he cut me or did I cut myself?

Of coarse he cut me.

Next issue please?

One more ?
Why isn't David Gagnon being charged for either the chainsaw incident or his coercion and intimidation to try and get money out of this in a criminal court?

Also, many statements in the memo appear inaccurate. Not sure if it really matters.
I'd ask for more $ in the demand... There is no way what is written is enough

I have to wonder...

Is it the fact that David Gagnon doesn't have a bigger insurance policy?

Or perhaps that I didn't lose my arm?

What is it that isn't good enough for your firm that they would actually drop a client they chose to represent?

I'm betting in the end it's all about the amount of money your firm can make off of my injuries because I've done nothing to exaggerate or hide anything.

Have a merry Xmas, now I'm late to see a dr and my arm muscles are in spasm from trying to type this waisted email as fast as I can.

Oh and that stupid statement I heard you say in the past that part of my injuries were to distal from the cut...

I dare you to Try fending off a chainsaw that's violently cutting into you unexpectedly and survive without any other issue other than where the chainsaw cut you.

And if during that event you should twist an ankle, hit your head, another part of the body or anything else from trying to save yourself... Remember it's too distal from the wound so you lose...

That is absolutely retarded to think that my elbow was too distal from the cut... Think about what it takes to fend off an aggressive chainsaw cutting into you and then tell me if any other smaller, at first unnoticed injury is too distal to be real?

I'm tired of this crap

Talk with you after Monday,

On another note,

David Gagnon already received more than any lawsuit will bring me...
If this was someone I didn't know...
I'd find out how to put the guy in prison for as many years as I could.

No one should be allowed to use a chainsaw like he did and get away with it!

The gift I gave David by providing him with the benefit of the doubt has turned out priceless for him...

What I received is a life sentence even if I win some lawsuit...
What can I do with the money, pay someone else to do the things I would have been able to do myself if this didn't happen?
What part of life makes that appealing?
And how long will that last?

I went from being a doer with some potential to being a watcher and beggar. There is nothing that can change that...

Neither David nor his insurance policy can fix any of this.

Your position of fear in this case is appalling.

Oops, hit send accidentally. . Another issue from a shaky muscle in my forearm...

Hans,

What and where does "you weren't hurt that bad" mean or come from?

It was a deep laceration from a chainsaw and I'm only hurt as bad as it is and that's it.
I obviously have long term issues with/from the injury so no exaggeration is needed on my part.

Whether or not it's considered disabling is the only real question and that is being decided for us at the federal level with other dr's and vocational experts that I didn't pick.

All that I hope for is that I'm treated by those like you as you would want to be treated.

Thanks for the honesty and I will get back with you after Monday.

Hans,

At first my goal was to get my medical paid for...
That's changed because it's turned out worse than I thought...
Now it's simply to get as much as we can and move on with my life...

What are your goals in this case?

Subject: Associated Neurology

Hi Hans,

Just got a call from associated neurology because of the bankruptcy notice they received.

Tried to explain that the leans on the lawsuit expired after 3 years and I really don't have any choice.

They said they never heard of such a thing and are looking into the lean issue and will get back to me.

On another note, Baudin's firm must not be interested because they never called me.

Do I need to find a new firm or what?

Thanks,

Paul

Hans,
Your risk...

I just had to file bankruptcy because of that incident 3-1/2 years ago. I could no longer make all the payments to my creditors. I also have a disability suit because of it.

I don't care about a settlement unless it's enough to drag David Gagnon through bankruptcy for his idiotic use of a chainsaw and made up story under oath. Gagnon sure showed his true colors when he was deposed, he just isn't a standup guy at all.

Either way it goes, (settlement or trial) I'm not going to make anything near what I've already lost or what my future losses are going to be so it just doesn't matter.

The only thing that would be remotely satisfying is knowing that David Gagnon had to go through a settlement or trial and lose, then find himself actually having to face bankruptcy.

I can only hope he has enough assets that it actually hurts.

Paul

I just had to file bankruptcy because of that incident 3-1/2 years ago. I could no longer make all the payments to my creditors. I also have a disability suit because of it.

I don't care about a settlement unless it's enough to drag David Gagnon through bankruptcy for his idiotic use of a chainsaw and made up story under oath. Gagnon sure showed his true colors when he was deposed, he just isn't a standup guy at all.

Either way it goes, (settlement or trial) I'm not going to make anything near what I've already lost or what my future losses are going to be so it just doesn't matter.

The only thing that would be remotely satisfying is knowing that David Gagnon had to go through a settlement or trial and lose, then find himself actually having to face bankruptcy.

I can only hope he has enough assets that it actually hurts.

Hi Hans,
Just got a call from associated neurology because of the bankruptcy notice they received.
Tried to explain that the leans on the lawsuit expired after 3 years and I really don't have any choice.
They said they never heard of such a thing and are looking into the lean issue and will get back to me.
On another note, Baudin's firm must not be interested because they never called me.
Do I need to find a new firm or what?
Thanks,
Paul

I just found out from John Choyinski that David Gagnon took apart the mustang. It's down to the frame. John said that David did that to make sure he doesn't lose it and won't put it back together till the mess he caused with me is finished.

I'd really like to nail this asshole to the wall Hans. I need help to do it.

Hi Hans,

I heard from Meredith (my lawyer for SSDI) about when I should expect a response from SSDI.
Apparently the SSDI courts are understaffed and it may take up to a year or a little longer from the date the appeal was filed.

I'm unsure of the exact date it was filed but the last hearing was in April or May and I believe the appeal was filed just after that so it may be a while before I hear anything and then it all depends if it's dismissed and I actually have to sue or its remanded back to the lower court for reconsideration.
Either route it's going to be many months before I know anything more.

At my last visit with Dr. Kujawa she said she is filing my injury as permanent but I'm not sure if that is admissible to the appeal at this point. Meredith is working on that.

On another note, I called Randal Baudin's office again and am waiting to hear back again.

Thanks for everything,
Paul

Hi Hans,

Coleen at dynamic hand therapy called with a proposal.
She is going to write up an agreement.
It will be $25.00 per month till the SSDI judgement is finished.
After that it will increase to $100 per month if the SSDI judgement is favorable or stay at $25 per month if it isn't.
Payments end once your case against David Gagnon is settled and they receive their share of the settlement.

This keeps it out of collections.

Does this sound fair?

Just so you know...

Last week when Coleen from dynamic hand called to inform me that the lean against the suit expired, I offered to make payments and that was also refused.

So technically this is the second time they refused compensation.

I can send a List of Providers to you. We don't need the Medicaid info unless they end up paying your bills.

Hans,
Any chance I can get a list of all the medical providers in my case so I can turn in my insurance info to each of them?
Also, I spoke with Rene at dynamic hand therapy and tried to give her my insurance info. she informed me that they only take Medicaid once and a while and probably won't in my case. She is having someone named Colleen call me tomorrow about it.
Can medical providers actually deny my insurance after they already treated me knowing before hand that with my injury I was most likely going to end up disabled and on the states medical insurance?
Also, does it help to give you or your secretary a copy of the Medicaid card?
Thanks,
Paul

Hans,

Apparently Dynamic Hand Therapy has a lean that expired.
It's for $23,900.00 and they said they will give me a 30% discount if I pay within the next few days or they could take me to trial over it.

Colleen with their corporate office said she contacted you on Aug. 6th about this.

Her number is 815-986-1564

Please advise,
Paul

Hans,

Last evening I was in the hospital with the most severe migraine I've ever had.

This morning I filed for bankruptcy with David Stretch.

This afternoon I spent with my regular physician Dr Zaide doing a follow up from yesterday.

And right now, I have to email you. All when I still have a slight residual headache and should be in bed.

At first I thought the migraine was brought on by the medications I'm taking but it wasn't, it was brought on after our discussions. Now I can't prove that but it seems pretty obvious to me. Joke no pun intended there!

That migraine made me realize I need the stress of this situation over with. All the stress on top of losing everything is too much and I'd rather live than die from it all before my body does something worse.

My body is not reacting well and the migraines are getting more frequent and worse. Have you ever vomited at the same time as deficating while being in some of the most excruciating pain in your life?

If not, neither did I till the chainsaw went through my arm. That's when the migraines became more frequent, stronger and faster coming on. And now for the first time during the day.

Ever since I awoke this morning, all I can I think is the stress of it all is killing me more and more as the reality sets in and I just can't afford to care about it anymore.

My health means more than some lawsuits and the lure of money.

All because some idiot named David Gagnon forgot to tell me to move out of the way and he can't seem to admit it.

Yes, after reading his deposition and hearing it was my fault I was pissed.

In my anger I suspected all sorts of things. Including it being intentional especially after my discussions at his home only trying to get his homeowners policy number and him wanting money and threatening me for it.

Yes, my arm and elbow were hurt from his stupidity irregardless if some dr can link the two together or not.

Yes, there will be ongoing medical as a result of all this because it still hurts and doesn't work right.

Yes, I am now disabled irregardless of what SSDI appeal goes because of this.

Yes, I understand I'm screwed because of a system that allows one person to hurt another and even after a trial and judgement entered all they have to do is go file for bankruptcy in the same courthouse on the same day.

Yes, it just took me almost an hour just to type this.

Yes, yes, yes...

but none of it matters anymore!

Bottom line Hans... Do the best you can with what you got, I've got nothing more to lose or give. I need it all to just go away.

Paul

case to trial. I just don't think we have enough evidence to prove our case and to invest the time and cost and preparing for trial and moving to trial just in my mind does not make sense to me. I have to be very realistic about things and honest with my opinion. It doesn't do you any good if I do not feel strongly about the case.

That's the very reason why I wanted to have this discussion. I want to give you the option of finding other counsel at this point if you really want to take the case to trial which I think ultimately will be necessary. I just do not believe strongly that defense counsel will offer much in the way of a settlement. Although I will ask him if he is going to make an offer and maybe that will allow you to make a better judgment on this.

Hi Hans,

I spoke with dr. Kujawa's assistant Elsie by phone on Friday. I updated her on how the increased dosages of Neurontin/Gabapentin are having an effect on the burning spasms in my arm. I told her that each week that I increased the dose I was able to get a 75-80% reduction in the amount of burning spasms for approximately 2-1/2 to 3 days tops before I adjusted to the new dosage and the beneficial effects wore off. Unfortunately, I also sleep for 2-1/2 to 3 days each time the dosage is increased.
I am now at the recommended level of 1800mg a day and don't have anymore dosage increases scheduled and it's as if I'm not getting any relief again. She said dr. Kujawa wants to keep me at that dosage until our next office visit.
As far as the Botox injections go, I told her this time it definitely had an effect. My hand is now weaker and I can't even my full coffee cup up straight. She said that's what it's supposed to do and that as it wears off the spasms may get stronger and that we will do another round of injections at the 3 month office visit. She also said that I shouldn't be grabbing anything more than a couple of pounds.

Hi Hans,
I spoke with David Stretch, a bankruptcy lawyer, about possibly going the route of Bankruptcy. He said if I have a pending a suit that it is considered a possible asset and may allow the court to hold off any bankruptcy judgement pending the outcome and that I would only be able to exempt 15,000 before the creditors get their share.
He also said if all I default on is credit cards but keep up on the mortgage and basic needs all that can happen is a judgement will be issued against me and it goes on my credit report and it can be cleared later by filing.

I know my personal financial issues are not your problem but I am to a point for the first time ever that I am stopping all payments to my credit cards and focusing on the house, food and utilities. Or rather I should say my Mom is thanks to the chainsaw.

Does filing bankruptcy make any difference on your end and would it complicate anything?

In your opinion what would be the better route, file bankruptcy now or just default on the credit cards and deal with it later?

I added the contact info for David Stretch below

Thanks,
Paul

Hi Hans and Meredith,

I had an appointment with Dr. Kujawa yesterday.
She said the Botox injections will not solve the spastic pains you saw marked on my arm in the video I sent you but it should help with opening and closing my hand so I did another round of injections.

Of coarse I asked, am I stuck with those pains the rest of my life, it's been almost 3 years?

She replied, most likely but that's what the Neurontin/Gabapentin are for and it should help curb some of those pains.

She prescribed Neurontin/Gabapentin for the pains and asked that I report any changes to her and to see her again in another 3 months.

My next appointment is set for August 14th.

Thanks again,
Paul

I spoke with my counselor at Rosecrance, Dennis, he said the issue is the old records are kept on their old system. He is going to try and have them for me Monday morning.

I got the records from rosecrance (minus the original councilors stuff and gave them to Meredith the day of the hearing. Rosecrance was in the process of getting the original records. I'll call and see if they have them.

I hope the dep with dr Kujawa is after the May 8th appointment.
Her assistant Elsie is the one who told me to start logging the issues and Dr. Kujawa hasn't seen any of the video logs I have yet.

My case is "gross negligence" causing "untreatable, irreversible and debilitating harm"

Never had a lawyer who needed me to help write or correct anything before.
The SSDI lawyer pulled everything from the record and it was perfect.

Yes, I would like to reword much of it because I wouldn't want anything used in it twisted later if we do go to trial.

Yes, I understand that your firm won't back me but it doesn't mean I'm not going to take it to trial anyway. I need the wording to match exactly what I need should I go the distance.

I can honestly say the dollar amount you listed I would never agree to. It wouldn't even cover my wages for the years in physical therapy yet the rest of my life.
If I end up with a structured settlement where I have to chase this guy I believe we can always sell the settlement and cash out. Is that possible?

Im happy to try to settle the case for you, but it will probably be a low amount. So, I want to advise you now should you wish to retain other counsel to try the case for you. Please advise how you wish to proceed. I know this is not good news, but I have learned a long time ago, some cases just are not proveable - not because you are not credible, but because jurys demand more than we can give at trial.

Paul,

I was able to get this email! I had written Meg to see the status of the records.

Again, here is what we discussed:
(1) the medical expert gave you a closed claim of benefits - we don't want to take that (i want you to have the ability to appeal any unfavorable decision/not be foreclosed from getting a closed period of benefits and then reapplying if need be) so that is why we went to the vocational expert testimony.
(2) when we went to the Vocational Expert, he gave jobs that conflicted with his testimony so I eliminated the jobs through his testimony (I just need to write a post-hearing memo for that and I am holding off and waiting for the medical records from Dr. Kujawa so i can address ongoing treatment in a memo to the judge as well)
(3) your psych records also reflect you can't do the jobs the vocational expert listed because they all require social contact which your records reflect that you really shouldn't do and the ALJ didn't develop the testimony there - kept saying we were running late - i will address that as well in the memo to the judge.

The records we addressed were requested previously by Meg and from my knowledge we are still waiting on the records (medical records often take quite a long time to come in).

I'll be happy to follow up with Meg/Janet tomorrow to find out the status of the records and if we may require you to get the updated records. While the Dr. Kohn records would show old treatment, it is Dr. Kujawa's records that are more useful (they show ongoing issues during the period in which you are claiming disability). Old records from 2002 will only show that you had problems in 2002 - updated records (from 6/28/11 onward) are key to your case at this point.

I'll be in the office tomorrow to speak further as well (312) 561-3030 if you have any questions.

Hi Janet,
I had the SSDI hearing last Thursday. It was a learning experience and I am not sure how it went. Much of it I didn't understand.
We were missing some of the reports. Particularly anything from Dr. Kujawa showing ongoing care for post traumatic Dystonia in the right forearm and some old reports from Dr. Kohn who was the Dr. who gave me over 100 shots in my neck, shoulders and back for severe muscle spasms after the car accident over a decade ago. Dr. Kohn from Kohn medical group in McHenry, I completely forgot about until the questions about muscle spasms came up in the hearing.

The judge left open the record for 30 days for us to add anything to the medical record.
Should I be the one to get the old reports from dr Kohn and the ongoing reports from dr Kujawa?
Also, Meredith Marcus, the attorney from Daley Disability law, asked me to send her Dr. Kujawa's contact information but her email (mmarcus@fdaleylaw.com) keeps getting sent back to me with an error saying its undeliverable. I'm not sure how to get around the emails being sent back. What should I do?

Thanks again for everything,
Paul

Ok, it's signed and in the mail.
Hope that some yahoo in the govt. doesn't someday decide to go after everyone they think they might get a dollar out of and end up holding me responsible for the McGuires fees incurred while they fight it out.
I'm not in the business of warranting, insuring or protecting the McGuires from government. Especially for only 5 grand. For that kind of protection it could cost millions but I trust your judgement.

What and why do those questions have any relevance at all and why do they need to be part of this agreement?
Particularly the one about being eligible.

Also, I cannot warranty against what SSDI, Medicare or any other government institution wishes to do.

Is it possible to make this agreement blind to the McGuires or David Gagnon?
What I mean is can we make it so that the amount of money cannot be told to them in any way?
It would drive David's ego crazy if he thought it was a large sum and was banned from seeing how much it is.

Hi Hans,

A while back I sent you the name and number of the McGuires neighbor. I don't have it in front of me at the moment but it's in our correspondence.

The neighbor claimed that the McGuires had asked him to borrow his chainsaw to cut down the trees on the McGuires property just a few days prior to the trees coming down.

It would seem to reason that the McGuires did not own a chainsaw at that point and tried to borrow one from a neighbor before going out and purchasing one specifically for that project.

So my question is, if the McGuires can be proved to be hiding the reason and timing of purchasing the chainsaw can this benefit us in any way?

Thanks,
Paul

Hans,

I read through David's dep. it's mostly lies with a few truths.

Where should I begin or better yet where would you like me to begin?

Almost everything he said was made up, from which end of the branch I was holding, at who's direction I was doing it under and even as to why I was even there on the McGuires property, etc...

Not to mention the nonsense of $10,000.
The only good thing he has coming from me is my ability to hold back my primal side be civil.
It's a shame we don't live in ancient times under the old eye for an eye philosophy of justice.
I'd much rather take a chainsaw to his arm than get any money.

As far as the McGuires are concerned give me a call.

Hi Hans,
Just picked it up in the mail and haven't read it yet.

Is the typed version of the dep actually verbatim or edited somehow?

After reading my own it made me realize not everything said was included.

Thanks again and I'll have an answer sometime tomorrow. This thing looks like a novel.

Hans,

I wanted to review David Gagnons dep before letting the McGuires off the hook.

And that word "foreseeable" in the McGuire suite...
Well I suppose if I gave anyone a chainsaw and told them to use it, given enough time, an injury is foreseeable, very foreseeable just not hoped for.

And the comment about people not liking friends who sue friends, um well we all should know other than entirely random acts such as auto accidents, train derailments, air plane accidents, etc. Etc.. That most of the time it's those we know who hurt us most often than not. and if it's serious we must be able to sue even if it is or once was a friend.

Hi Hans,

After reading the McGuire deps it lead me to do a lot more searching online and now I realize the difficulties I created in my own dep when asked about the right elbow and left arm tennis elbow being a natural progression of injury from the original cause. I probably shouldn't have commented on them at all even though I believe it's all connected.

Is there any way to amend the suit to correct for my ignorance and confusion?

I'm not a dr and tried to say in my dep that I don't want to pretend to know what dr's mean when they say things.

Thanks,
Paul

I hope not.
Sounded to me like they claimed to be hiding in their home all day when the neighbor saw them outside actively participating all day.
And carol seeing me pick up a 200 lb. tiller alone with her own eyes when it was really someone she knew very well since the 1970's and sees once a week at least. This shows a desperate wanting to prove my claim of injury as false.
Those are a bit more than a bad recollection by anyone's standard.
I would feel better if we had in reserve and were ready to use all tools needed to win.

Hans,
If we take the McGuires off the suit can their deps still be used against us in any way?

John Choyinski stopped by yesterday and I asked him about the tiller. He openly admits being the one who loaded and unloaded the tiller. I recorded the conversation and my Mom was also present and on the tape. Both knew I was recording it in my home. I can send it to you if you need it.

Brian Beebe, McGuires neighbor told me he saw the McGuires out working in the yard most of the day. He doesn't know their names but said he would recognize them if he saw them.

If their deps can or will be used in any way against us can or should we bring provable perjury charges and have them thrown out?

Thanks,
Paul

Hans,
Just got done reading those deps.

First off, Glad I'm not a lawyer.
Secondly, it's full of half truths and flat out lies.

Your right, going after those half truths are probably not worth anything in the long run but I do have to comment about the tiller because that one was hysterical.

Dave's best friend John Choyinski was with me when I delivered the tiller and he was the one unloading the trailer and I'm more than positive he would testify to that effect.
It's just amazing how families lie and exaggerate to protect each other but I do understand it, it is Caroline's son.

If there is anything in them we could use or need to be weary of let me know and we can go over it.

Thanks,
Paul

Hans,
I'd like to read David's dep before accepting the McGuire offer.

Even after reading the McGuire deps and seeing how things easily get skewed in all honesty, I can't blame Carol or Bill for Dave's actions I just thought I was covered under their insurance. I know Carol & Bill thought I was covered as well irregardless of all the half truths in their dep.

Thanks again,
Paul

Hi Hans,
Talked with the McGuire neighbor Brian Beebe

Brian Beebe
815-669-0655
1015 oak leaf ave.
McHenry, IL 60051

He remembers the day the tree work was done and said he watched for a while and talked with the people over there because they had asked him to borrow his chainsaw for the same project but doesn't remember the incident itself. He did tell me he has been used as an expert witness for chainsaw incidents because of the kind of work he does.
He did say that his "x" lived with him at the time and is going to ask her if she remembers anything at all and will get back to us. He seems very willing to help.
He has both yours and my number.

Morning Hans,
Ok we can meet. I will call Sheila today and set up a time.
Please send me a link to the current Illinois statute citing that the property owner is not liable for work done on their property resulting in injury to a neighbor.
I need to read it myself and any links to recent case law in this area would be helpful as well.
Thanks,
Paul

The legality of it all is that a property owner does not have legal liability for a worker (whether friend, son or otherwise) who does the work on his time, using his own independent skills. Here, I deposed the McGuires, and they had nothing to do with how Dave did the work other than to request the work to be done. They had no control on how Dave wielded the chain saw and cut you. its that simple. We don't have to accept the $5,000, but if we do not, the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion. So that's the situation.

They all left me out in the yard screaming for help while they were busy making sure they were covered.

She even went as far as to finally call the Emergency Room after I was already there just to tell me she was covered.

How selfish are people when they worry about if their insured over helping the person who was hurt and bleeding badly in their yard.

I'm glad she got her answer and had to share it with me only to find out her coverage won't even pay the medical bills.

I'm not happy with the offer.

As far as John Choyinski, he knows he has to call you and said he will tomorrow.

Hans,

A while back you told me that the jury's here in this county are primarily conservative and that they know the only reason we are before them is for money.

Not sure if that statement was meant to scare me or not but I do agree, they are, for the most part conservative and I would hope we should make it known we want money for damages, lawyers fees and the medical bills, etc... loud and clear.

We should also make it known to the jury that the parties or their insurance companies have never even offered to pay 1 cent for any of the medical damage and that's why we seek the juries help in settling this dispute. Perhaps if the insurance companies would have paid for these basic things none of us would even be here. but they didn't and now yes after years of waiting I am seeking money to pay for the medical treatments, you as the lawyer and finally myself as I'm the one who has had to suffer the consequences of the Gagnon/McGuire choices on that day.

I cannot believe that a conservative jury isn't going to award anything less than the cost of the medical damages and lawyer fees from them unless something catastrophic changes. I do see them being conservative as to what I will end up with at the end but not the real medical and lawyers bills. Even the conservative juries in this county are not so conservative that they won't give the base bills.

The McGuires insurance is free to go after David for damages if they lose.

Other than fearing a motion to dismiss the suit against the McGuire's insurance based on some false concept that because they didn't have their finger directly on the chainsaw trigger they hold no responsibility for damages.

what are the real benefits of letting them off so easy?

And I don't want to hear its because 2 parties vs 1 is much easier.

Letting off the McGuires insurance for such a small amount is anything but reasonable and I just can't see any ethical judge in this county not keeping them in the suit all the way for a jury to decide whether they had any part to play in the days events and the level of responsibility they share with David for the consequences considering it was the McGuires project, their land, their choice of who did the labor etc. etc...

When you advised me to seek a settlement with the McGuires insurance, I agreed to look at it only because they didn't have their hands directly on the trigger of the chainsaw and That you would get at the least the medical bills paid for out of it. I thought that was made clear in your office.

I know you work on approximately 33%. Is 33% of 5,000 even worth the time and money you already invested? It's only $1650 for you and I'm sure your hourly fee eats that up rather quickly, I know mine did back when I had hands and arms that worked so I could charge.

If you want a negligence case for the homeowners ask what happened immediately after the accident.

Neither of them offered me any medical assistance nor did either of them call 911 and all Carol could think of besides calling David an idiot was calling her homeowners insurance.

I believe he will try and call sometime tomorrow.

Hans,
Just spoke with John Choyinski again about talking with you.
I am leaving your number with him as he has agreed to talk with you about David Gagnon.
I believe he will try and call sometime tomorrow.

Oh and I know that nothing that happened right after the incident makes any difference as to the validity of the injuries but David's conduct immediately after the incident does show his lack of moral values for other humans and what he was willing and was not willing to do to help me get medical help. For his actions towards me or any other human being is enough to sue the shit out him alone. It is the things that happened afterwards that upset me the most.
Sorry for the rant but Dave was a complete ass all the way and deserves this.

Only 5, That's not much at all.
Is this a take it or leave it or do we have any other options?

If you want a negligence case for the homeowners ask what happened immediately after the accident.

Neither of them offered me any medical assistance nor did either of them call 911 and all Carol could think of besides calling David an idiot was calling her homeowners insurance.

They all left me out in the yard screaming for help while they were busy making sure they were covered.

She even went as far as to finally call the Emergency Room after I was already there just to tell me she was covered.

How selfish are people when they worry about if their insured over helping the person who was hurt and bleeding badly in their yard.

I'm glad she got her answer and had to share it with me only to find out her coverage won't even pay the medical bills.

I'm not happy with the offer.

As far as John Choyinski, he knows he has to call you and said he will tomorrow.

Paul

In addition, the McGuire's atty has offered us (you) $5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only. As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery....

Subject: Sagerman deposition

Hi Hans,

Reading through the summary of Dr. Sagermans Deposition I'm curious as to whether Dr. Levin has been deposed? The reason for this question is because of the EMG tests. Dr. Levin only conducted both the tests from just above the scar in the right forearm to the right hand and fingers. She never tested the right elbow which most likely would have identified the compression in the ulnar nerve earlier. She told me she didn't see any reason to give a full test beyond the scarred area even though The Dr asked for a full test of the nerve. She did tell me that all of the branch nerves in the forearm were severed but that is considered minor nerve damage and most likely wouldn't repair itself. Those minor nerves that were ripped out is what caused the loss of feeling in the right forearm and loss of fine motor skills in the areas they control. Again, no major nerve damage was found, only minor nerves but they still hurt like hell and play a significant part.

As far as the MRI, I was told the test cannot tell the difference between scar tissue and good tissue by both Dr. Sagerman and Dr Levin and neither expected to see much from the test.

As far as proving the elbow is a direct, indirect or hypersensitive result from the chainsaw, I don't think anyone can prove or disprove this let alone bet their medical license on this. All I can say to this is that it never bothered me before the incident and I didn't have any of the numbness or tingling prior to the incident. It is possible that the compression existed before the incident and that the trauma to the arm aggravated the nerve causing a hyper sensitivity resulting in the sensations or lack of them. I don't know how or when the compression in the elbow happened. I believe it happened during the incident but cannot prove it. I was in panic mode followed by extreme shock following the chainsaw being lifted into my arm. All I do know is it didn't bother me at all prior to the chainsaw incident or I would have seen a Dr. about it.

On another note, Dr. Sagermans comment about sitting in front of a computer all day shows he has no idea how repetitious keyboarding is or how much work a graphic designer does. I'm curious as to the context of the question he was asked to reply this way and why he doesn't see typing as an extremely repetitious task requiring good dexterity. Every time I try to go at the keyboard, mouse or even write I don't get very far without suffering a spasm in the damaged muscles. It affects much more than just typing. My grip is shot as well and I have a lot of trouble doing regular daily activities like cooking, cleaning, driving, etc... Those spasms happen anytime I try to use those muscles for more than a few minutes repetitiously. Sit at your keyboard and type with your right hand and feel the muscles in your forearm at the same place the chainsaw entered, dug deep and tore out a huge chunk of my arm and ask yourself if issues in those muscles would affect your ability to type or use your fingers for anything. This is a no brainer, of coarse they do. I don't believe dr Sagerman gave this much thought or may have been asked this question in a context that would put computer keyboarding as a physically non stressful job overall but did not consider the extreme repetition, dexterity or fine motor control it takes to be a professional keyboardist 40-70 hours a week. If all I did was sit in front of a computer all day his statement would be true but to do my job requires one hell of a lot of keyboarding. Wish I could get paid to just sit in front of a computer and not have to type anything. Lol.

On another note, I did not see anything about the self dissolving stitches the Hospital used the day of the incident that never dissolved and Dr. Sagerman had to remove later. He said that accounted for the feeling of needles poking me in my arm and I believe he was right as those feelings stopped after he removed them. That was over a year of feeling those stitches aggravate the forearm and was a huge relief when they were found and removed. Removing those helped to pinpoint the Dystonia.

As far as the disability claim. This incident is what triggered me to file for disability but is only the piece of straw that broke the camels back so to speak and not the sole reason I filed. Disability looks at the whole body and not just this incident. In no way do I suggest the chainsaw is the sole reason I may or may not get disability. It is a cumulation of serious injuries I have suffered that will be the determining factor.

That's all I have for now but I'm sure more will come to mind as time goes on.

Oh, one more thing... You said a trial is like a theatrical production. If we had to go to trial how much approximately would you need in cash to make an overwhelmingly convincing production happen. Let me know so I have an idea of the ballpark figure and can secure the funds needed.

Hans, I'm asking that when you consider either a settlement or a trial that you ask yourself what it would be worth to you if you had to suffered this type of injury that profoundly changed your day to day living and career.

Thanks again,
Paul

Hi Hans,

Just spoke with John Choyinski a lifelong friend of myself and David Gagnon.

First off I should mention that John has suffered a brain injury in his youth and did spend a few months in a coma and rehab but that was over 20 years ago and he's improved dramatically since. If you should talk with him you will notice something's off about him and I thought the heads up would help. One important note and you have to take my word for this till you talk to him and realize it for yourself, it is that John is damn near incapable of lying. Ask him anything and he's so darn honest he gets himself in trouble and doesn't know it. He often says way too much and I'm sure that can't be good except its what makes him so darn believable.

John is willing to talk about certain aspects of what David has said to him in confidence. John is extremely hesitant to go against David in fear of retribution and rejection from his lifelong friend and is on guard in his reactions and words but this can easily be avoided by asking him questions that skirt around the issue rather than directly at it until he already answered it.

John explained to me tonight that Dave is not the same person I knew a decade ago. These days Dave is all about himself and he has become money hungry. John told me I would have known that if I hadn't been off working all those years and been around more often. John went on to say that he knows that David is lying about how it happened because David seems to think he will have to pay more for insurance and he's so cheap he'd rather screw Paul over than paying 1 penny more or have to admit he did something wrong for no money. John went on to say that David was upset at having to do his Moms tree, didn't want to be there because he wasn't getting money for it and that he was trying to go too fast, didn't tell Paul what he was doing and that's how it happened. At this point Johnny showed confusion and said "um well I mean Paul moved his arm.... Ohhh whatever, I don't want to talk about it any more."

Hans, Johnny is David's longest lasting friend. These two were the closest of buddies growing up. Johnny said he would be willing to talk with you not to go against David but because he knows the troubles I have doing normal things that I used to be able to do very well.
If you start by asking Johnny about my grip or things I have trouble with like hand shakes or opening jars, writing or typing he will go on and on, he needs to be guided a bit in the right direction and soon you will have what you should need about his conversations with David.
But be forewarned, Johnny can go off on tangents and most of what you hear won't have anything to do with what he is there for and I'm more than positive he will say things that will ruin his own credibility.

When I asked johnny if it was ok for you to speak with him he said yes but to give you his home number and not his cell because he doesn't answer calls if he doesn't know the number. He also went on to say his parents told him to stay out of the issue between Dave and I because of David. They fear David may do something drastic if he feels Johnny went against him.

Best time to call him at home is either early morning before 9 am or at 6 pm but he is in and out all day.

John Choyinski Jr.
Home. (815) 385-8483

Hans, John has issues and may not make the best witness in my opinion but he is Dave's lifelong friend and if handled correctly can't lie or should I say can't keep one up for very long.

Paul

Hans,
I don't believe that any reasonable person sitting in a jury is going to give dr talerico's 5 minute evaluation much credit next to dr Sagerman's extensive examinations. I'd bet the farm on Dr. Sagerman over Talerico any day.

And in cases that have complicated medical issues, many times the jury will not be so accommodating and give you the benefit of the doubt. That's why Plaintiff's always have a more difficult time at trial, because they have the burden of proof. And, if the jury doesn't like the evidence they can find against you.

Paul, here are my thoughts regarding your case. There are two issues. The first liability, or whether Mr. Gagnon is liable for your injury. If he is not proven liable, then it does not matter how badly you were hurt since he will not be found responsible for your damages. The second issue is your damages, or to what extent you were injured due to Mr. Gagnon's acts.

Both of these issues are strongly contested in your case.

As to liability, there were no witnesses to the accident. So, whether Mr. Gagnon will be held responsible for your damages is uncertain and a gamble. That is because it is your word against his word. Our argument is that you were simply holding a limb when he caused the chain saw to strike you. His argument is that you moved your arm in the path of the chain saw unexpectedly. If the jury determines that we did not prove your "version" of the accident, then they can find against you and in favor of Mr. Gagnon at trial.

As to damages, the issue is complicated. That is because your treating physicians do not all agree on exactly what injury you suffered or whether your had a fully recovery or not.

Dr. Talerico at MidAmerica Hand and Shoulder, saw you twice. The first time was in December, six months after your injury. He was not supportive of your claim in most respects. He didn't really feel there was anything wrong with you - as to the forearm. He said that you complained mostly of pain radiating down the forearm from the laceration site with numbness and tingling. On exam he noted no tenderness and it was mostly a normal presentation. Strength was good. He did not see any nerve problem. He prescribed physical therapy due to a muscular sort of symptomology - not nerve related. Apparently you did only 2 sessions of therapy and returned January, 2012. No new complaints at the time. The EMG was normal. He did not believe you were disabled. He continued you on therapy. He saw no evidence of nerve problems. The only symptoms were subjective - not represented by any abnormal exam finding.

Dr. Sagerman has also been deposed. I will summarize his testimony for your soon. His was more favorable, but still limited in what he related to the chain saw accident. Apparently he does not believe you presently have any symptoms relatable to the chain saw injury.

Think about these issues. I will provide you Dr. Sagerman's summary soon.

Hans

Subject: Medical depositions
Morning Hans,
Wanted to touch base this morning because the call from you about something not being medically linked has been on my mind.
I'm not sure what was said during that deposition with the drs that prompted the call but I have been thinking about what it could be. Most likely it was the right elbow procedure.
During my deposition I remember being asked if the two were linked and I answered yes. Let me explain my answer to you.
If the chainsaw had not gone through my arm then the procedure on my elbow wouldn't have happened. That procedure was exploratory to find what was bothering the arm from the chainsaw. Upon opening up the arm they did find some compressions which from my understanding was nothing unusual for a male of my age and very well may or may not have happened during my retreat from the chainsaw when I ended up half way across the yard on the ground. Incidental finding or not it still would not have been found if I hadn't had the chainsaw incident. So as I see it they are linked good or bad and cannot be separated. The exploratory procedure was to find and possibly fix issues relating to the chainsaw incident. They also removed a ton of scar tissue in the forearm on the same day during the same exploratory procedure that was a direct result of the chainsaw.

Hope this helps explain things better.
Let me know,
Thanks,
Paul

Lol, ok.

Hans, if your sick and this dr you don't know says your not, do you go see someone else or do you take his word for it and continue to suffer?
Ask dr Talerico that question.

This dr Talerico guy has no intimate knowledge of my injuries other than 2 very short visits that I walked out of feeling like I was waisting my time because there was no real examination.

I don't even agree with paying for his services.

I have been seeing Dr. Levin and Dr. Sagerman for a couple of years now. And I get to choose who is the best dr for me. Not David or his insurance.

That is because it is your word against his word. Our argument is that you were simply holding a limb when he caused the chain saw to strike you. His argument is that you moved your arm in the path of the chain saw unexpectedly. If the jury determines that we did not prove your "version" of the accident, then they can find against you and in favor of Mr. Gagnon at trial.

As to damages, the issue is complicated. That is because your treating physicians do not all agree on exactly what injury you suffered or whether your had a fully recovery or not.

Dr. Talerico at MidAmerica Hand and Shoulder, saw you twice. The first time was in December, six months after your injury. He was not supportive of your claim in most respects. He didn't really feel there was anything wrong with you - as to the forearm. He said that you complained mostly of pain radiating down the forearm from the laceration site with numbness and tingling. On exam he noted no tenderness and it was mostly a normal presentation. Strength was good. He did not see any nerve problem. He prescribed physical therapy due to a muscular sort of symptomology - not nerve related. Apparently you did only 2 sessions of therapy and returned January, 2012. No new complaints at the time. The EMG was normal. He did not believe you were disabled. He continued you on therapy. He saw no evidence of nerve problems. The only symptoms were subjective - not represented by any abnormal exam finding.

Dr. Sagerman has also been deposed. I will summarize his testimony for your soon. His was more favorable, but still limited in what he related to the chain saw accident. Apparently he does not believe you presently have any symptoms relatable to the chain saw injury.

Think about these issues. I will provide you Dr. Sagerman's summary soon.

Hans

Subject: Medical depositions
Morning Hans,
Wanted to touch base this morning because the call from you about something not being medically linked has been on my mind.
I'm not sure what was said during that deposition with the drs that prompted the call but I have been thinking about what it could be. Most likely it was the right elbow procedure.
During my deposition I remember being asked if the two were linked and I answered yes. Let me explain my answer to you. If the chainsaw had not gone through my arm then the procedure on my elbow wouldn't have happened. That procedure was exploratory to find what was bothering the arm from the chainsaw. Upon opening up the arm they did find some compressions which from my understanding was nothing unusual for a male of my age and very well may or may not have happened during my retreat from the chainsaw when I ended up half way across the yard on the ground. Incidental finding or not it still would not have been found if I hadn't had the chainsaw incident. So as I see it they are linked good or bad and cannot be separated. The exploratory procedure was to find and possibly fix issues relating to the chainsaw incident. They also removed a ton of scar tissue in the forearm on the same day during the same exploratory procedure that was a direct result of the chainsaw.
Hope this helps explain things better.
Let me know,
Thanks,
Paul

I'm not sure what you meant by saying there was no medical link from dr Sagermans deposition.
Medical link to what?
Weakness, spasms, loss of feeling, etc...
What has to be linked and why?

Hi Hans and Janet,

Today I met with Dr. Kathryn Kujawa at Alexian brothers hospital. She diagnosed my right arm as task specific Focal Dystonia and said it can be treated on a temporary basis with Botox injections every 3 months or so. My next appointment is for November 19th at 9:45 am to start the treatments. She said it is definitely caused from the trauma in my right arm. I have included her offices contact info below.
If you need anything else please let me know.
Thanks,
Paul

Hans,

Mike Thomas just told me he doesn't want to be involved because he is afraid that it will be found out he paid me in cash rather than a 1099 or w2 and he doesn't want any trouble with the IRS.
I tried to tell him none of that matters but he is afraid and won't call you.

Here is his contact info if you want to try.

Thought I would ask you the same.

Hi Janet,

Not sure if your the right person to ask this question but thanks in advance for any insight or help you may be able to provide.

Is it ok to file for bankruptcy while applying for SSDI?

If so, do you work with anyone who handles this?

I have been living off of credit cards for over 2 years now since I was injured and my mom was paying the minimum payments for me. The minimum payments are going to exceed what she can afford. She also pays my mortgage payment every month. It's too much and I have to do something. I have never considered bankruptcy before and know nothing about it. I would like to keep my house if it is possible. I don't have anything else of real value. Most of the credit card usage was for gasoline and medical treatment.

Thanks again in advance for any insight or help you may have,
Paul

Hi Hans,

Thanks for the reminder on the bills. Should have new printouts of the totals by next week.

I have scheduled an appointment with Dr.Kathleen Kujawa on November 14th, 2:30pm at alexian brothers hospital for an evaluation/consultation to see if is in fact Dystonia affecting the severed muscles and branch nerves in my right arm.

Dr. Sagerman told me to finish physical therapy at home for the left arm and left scheduling another visit up to me if I should need it.

Thanks,

Hi Hans and Janet,

Sorry for sending you both the same letter but you both need the info.

I saw Dr. Sagerman today. He gave me an injection of cortisone and prescribed 6 more weeks of physical therapy.

Ok,
Thanks

One more thing, I am calling dr Sagerman this morning to set up an appointment. He offered cortisone shots and I had decided to give it more time to heal. Enough Time has passed and it has improved but still catches me off guard and is quite acute so I'm going to go ahead with the shots. I'll let you know.

Thanks,
Paul

Hi Hans,
Missed your call this morning. I'm here all day so feel free to call when you have time.

I'd suppose they want to know what I did for Mike Thomas.

Here is a brief summary,
I placed an ad to sell off some printing equipment and Mike Thomas came out to see if he wanted anything. This was the first time I met him.
In the process he mentioned that he was setting up a print shop in Richmond IL and asked if we (Mike McArtor and myself) could help. We did help him on and off over the next few months. Mike McArtor still helps out to this day and I do offer them advise when asked. My brother Scott Dulberg and Tom Kost also help Mike Thomas from time to time.

Mike Thomas wanted me to work for him on a regular basis. He offered many different proposals from direct employment, sub contracting, part time, etc... I had to decline after a few months of working with him on and off because I knew I couldn't do that type of work anymore on a regular basis. My arms and hands just can't be relied on.

Working with Mike Thomas taught me what I was and was not capable of doing. I did try to do many things for Mike Thomas that probably was things that I now know I shouldn't do anymore. I had to try, how would I know what i could do if I didn't.

It was a good test to see if I could go back to work on a regular basis. I did try many different types of work for Mike Thomas. It was everything from graphic design to doing little fix it up jobs around his building and even his house in Twin Lakes WI. I introduced my brothers, Scott & Tom, to Mike Thomas to recruit their help with what needed to be done because I wasn't able to do all the things myself anymore. All three, Tom, Mike McArtor and Scott filled in and acted as my hands to get things done.

I did receive compensation in the form of cash for my time. It wasn't much perhaps a few thousand in total but I'm not exactly sure what the exact total was. All the money went to my mother to help out with the bills she was paying on my behalf.

Other than that there isn't anything else I can think of that the defense counsel could hope to get from him.

Feel free to call or I could come in to discuss.

Thanks again,
Paul

Hans,

Mike is what/who your looking for. He seen and heard David's rant and threat about a lawsuit and any possible monies paid out. I expect him to be off work around 6 pm and I'm sure once he gets your message he will call you.
I'm not sure Mike has even thought about that event since it happened but he doesn't forget things too easily. I'm sure whatever he remembers he would be happy to testify to.

Hi Hans,

Mike McArtor is at work today and will be working everyday this week.
His cell phone is (815) 347-8014.
Mike is willing to do a deposition but needs to schedule it around work.

Thanks again,
Paul

David's description of the accident made sense to him and he described it in a way that "could have"occurred even though different from your description. I think the only way to prove him wrong is to show him to be incredible in other ways...for instance his assertion that you told him "you could be rich" in front of your room mate. If your room mate will cooperate and say that David is wrong - that you did not say this, this could be a very good way to show him to be wrong. Would your room mate agree to a deposition in the case? if so, have him call me...thanks Paul....

In the second place, if you have ever been cut by a chain saw, the last thing on anyone's mind would be making a profit. I was in so much pain that I could not have talked seriously about anything other than stopping the bleeding and getting to a hospital fast.

David did not come into the hospital with me. He dropped me at the door and was parking the car. He was brought into the ER and questioned by the staff that was there. You can check with whoever was working the ER that day. It's not really my word against David's but David's word against those that were working in the ER.

There is one witness as to David talking about making money off of this accident. Mike Mcartor heard David say this to me in David's garage the day I went up to David's house to get his home owner's insurance policy number per your request.
Mike Mcartor is a friend that grew up with David and myself and is currently living at my residence.

Will sign and drop off the medical release forms you requested.

GOOD RESPONSE: Yes.

REASONING: You were not asked how long you missed from work or how much income you lost. Therefore, don't volunteer this info.

QUESTION: Were you injured in the accident?

BAD RESPONSE: Yes, I hurt my head, back and neck.

GOOD RESPONSE: Yes

Get the idea? If not, we can discuss any questions you have. Please call.

Hi Hans,
Just wanted to say its a good thing we rescheduled the deposition because I'm simply not doing well today at all after having the hemroids removed yesterday. I wouldn't have been able to make it in today at all and from what the surgeon said, I wont be able to walk or sit very well for 3 to 5 days. Let me know when you want to do another practice session but its probably best to do anytime after this weekend.

Thanks for all your help,

Hi Janet,
I met with Dr. Sagerman (hand and arm surgeon) for a follow up on Monday for both my right and left arms. He scheduled another follow up in March and prescribed more physical therapy.

I mentioned a new issue I had to Dr. Sagerman, (hemroids) that I first noticed on Saturday and asked him where I should go. He sent me to Dr. Rosenova an internist. Dr. Rosenovas office had me come in the same day. Dr. Rosenova took one look and sent me to Dr. Daniel Conway a general surgeon to have it removed ASAP.

Dr. Conway took one look and surgically removed the hemroid right there on the spot. I have a follow up with Dr. Conway on February 13th.

I was told by the dr's that hemroids can happen at any age however it usually doesn't happen till after 50 years of age. One of the things that may cause it earlier that seemed to hit home with me as to the cause is stress. With everything I've been through stress makes the most sense to me. Hemroids hurt bad and it's going to take me a few days to recuperate. It hurts to walk, sit, stand, etc...

On another note, I missed my appointment at rosecrance earlier this month because I had a bad neck day and didn't get out of bed all day. I rescheduled with them and will be meeting with them again in February.

I have those forms from SSDI and am going to try and fill them out today and get them to you but i cant promise that i will get it done. The pain meds are simply kicking my butt. With everything that happened this week (hemroid issue) I don't know if I am over the 10 day demand they gave me but I am doing my best. I need to go lay down.

Thanks for everything,
Paul

Hi Hans,

I went to see Dr. Sagerman this morning for a follow up from the surgery on my right arm almost 6 months ago. He wants to see me again in 6 weeks for another follow up.

My Mom, Barb, went with me this morning to make sure I talked to him about my left arm. It has been hurting bad for 3 to 4 weeks now and she wanted me to get his advice. Dr. Sagerman had an X-ray done and said it looks good but I have what is called lateral epicondylitis or tennis elbow in my left elbow. He said it was probably just from over use due to me not using my right arm and could be treated. He said I need therapy for the left arm and prescribed 6 weeks of therapy 2 times a week and would follow up with it at the same time as my next appointment for my right arm.

I went to Fox Lake dynamic hand therapy with the prescription to schedule the appointments. They set the appointment for this Friday at 1:30 pm.

When I got home Dynamic Hand Therapy called. They said they cannot see me because this is not part of the litigation pending from my right arm unless the Dr. says it is. And because I have no insurance it would cost me $70.00 a visit.

Which there is no way I can afford. I have no income.

Any advice?

Thanks,
Paul

Hi Janet,

Just met with Dr. Sagerman. He suggested that I do physical therapy at home rather than go in to the clinic from this point forward. He set up an appointment to see me in 6 weeks on 12/3/2012.

I told him that I had applied for disability and he said he would fill out any paperwork needed but is still hopeful my arm will regain some strength over time. He also left me on full restrictions.

He had a suggestion for getting my neck looked at. He said to just walk into cook county hospital and have them perform the MRI then take it to a neurologist or Otho to have it read. I had to go in for more X-rays this past Saturday for SSDI's independent evaluation at physicians North in Lake Zurich. Two Saturdays ago they took several X-rays of my cervical spine and this past Saturday they took 2 X-rays of my lower lumbar spine. Not sure why they need the lower lumbar but I'll do whatever tests they need.
I did ask to get a copy of the reports for you and I was told I wasn't allowed to receive any from the dr's office but you could request them from SSDI on my behalf.

Hi Hans,

I looked into the MedChex question.

When I called Open Advanced MRI of Round Lake to get the amount owed I was referred to their corporate office. The corporate office had told me my balance was $0.00. They looked into who paid the bill and mailed me a breakdown of everything they charged, payments made and any adjustments. The corporate office at OPEN ADVANCED MRI did not know who MedChex was. They said it looked like an insurance payment was what paid my bill. Below is a breakdown of the billing from the corporate office at OPEN ADVANCED MRI.

$1510.00 for the MRI on 02/03/2012
$75.00 for the injection on 02/03/2012

$1585.00 total charges from open advanced MRI of round lake on 02/03/2012

MedChex paid

$800.00 for the MRI on 02/23/2012
$0.00 for the injection on 02/23/2012

An adjustment was made to the original charges from open advanced MRI in the amounts of

$710.00 for the MRI on 02/23/2012
$75.00 for the injection on 02/23/2012

My balance due reads $0.00

After a bit of searching the web I came across the contact info for MedChex, gave them a call and asked how they came to pay off my bill with OPEN ADVANCED MRI and what their terms were for paying off the bill.

MedChex claimed I owe them $3,390.00 for the MRI as of 08/22/2012

The customer Representitives supervisor I spoke with at medchex was named Tish.
Telephone number: (866) 959-1100
Extension: 109

Tish would not provide me with the terms or how MedChex came to negotiate and pay off my bill with OPEN ADVANCED MRI. She would simply repeat that they are a service to help those with no insurance and will be receiving a settlement for injuries. She told me that i did not need to worry about the increased amount from the original billing from OPEN ADVANCED MRI because a settlement would be paying for it. She demanded that I fax her a copy of the billing breakdown from Open Advanced MRI at 888-317-0260. She said that I was never supposed to see what the original billing was and that it is just wrong that I have it and that she would not discuss the terms or how MedChex became involved till I sent this copy to her office. That ended the conversation.

Hans, the only person/firm I ever authorized to handle any and all of my negotiations for medical billing is you and your firm. I will bring in the breakdown from OPEN ADVANCED MRI to your office on Monday along with a few other bills I have collected.

I called the McHenry Community Health Center and set up an appointment for October 4th at 10:45 am with Dr. Elizabeth McMasters.

I don't think I've ever had to see a psychiatrist for anything before. What should I expect and what kind of questions should I be prepared to answer?

Any other advice would be appreciated.

Probably from scar tissue growing in the forearm and pulling the nerve tight in the ulnar groove. The scar tissue had apparently grown and attached my muscles to the skin and each other. Dr Sagerman said they managed to separate the muscles and skin.

transposition because he said it seemed like it would be stable enough still in the ulnar grove.

Hope that was a good explanation of what happened. I'm not all with it just yet. I should be feeling better in a few days.

Hi Hans,

I couldn't help but to laugh at that. The reason I left Dr. Talerico and went to Dr. Sagerman was because he couldn't listen worth a darn and went on a 20 minute rant about prescribing pain medication to me when I never received any prescriptions from him nor did I ever ask him for any pain medication or any other prescription for that matter. Each time I went there it was as if he confused me with someone else. On my last visit with him he couldn't even remember why I was even there and went on another rant about insurance companies. He never even asked or looked at the X-rays from the hospital and I had to ask him numerous times just to get him to read the physical therapy reports. Honestly, he scarred the heck out of me and we were at odds, so I went to see someone else whom I had more confidence in (Dr. Sagerman). I'm sure Dr. Talerico is a good Dr., just one that I felt was probably over worked, was getting confused between his patients and couldn't give me the attention I needed. In retrospect, it fits that his notes are messed up and confirms my feeling about him and why I went to another Dr.

I just called the libertyville office for MidAmerica Hand and Shoulder Clinic. Talked with Gabby. She told me she could not change the record but would make an addendum to the record to clarify that I was not the one operating the chainsaw. She apologized for the confusion and said that it was lost between the Dr.'s notes and the person who transcribes the records. She is going to call your office and fax over the addendum.

Please let me know if you get the addendum and if it is ok

Thanks,
Paul

Hi Hans,

Wednesday I met with Dr. Sagerman and I signed the papers for surgery on my right arm. They are going to do an ulnar nerve decompression and transposition, and a neurolysis in the forearm. They are also going to explore and repair any other damage they find with the muscles, tendons and remove scar tissue. I am waiting on a call to find out when and where the surgery will be. They said it should be in the next 4 weeks.

I also need to get some sort of medical release signed by my primary care physician for the surgery so I met with Dr. Sek yesterday and he gave me a checkup and signed the forms.

On another note, when we last met you asked if any of the Dr.'s had been paid yet. I answered no but that wasn't true. I have paid Dr. Sek in full for each visit and Dr. Levin has been partially paid. I also had to just sign a form for Dr. Sangerman allowing them to charge my credit card $40 a month till my bill was paid in full. I asked if they would do the surgery on a lean against a settlement and gave them your name and number to contact you. They said they would but still required I give them permission to charge my credit card.

If you need anything else please let me know.

Thanks for everything,
Paul

Hi Hans,

Just set up an appointment with Sheila for 10:00 AM tomorrow to meet with you.

Just after I set up that appointment with your office my physical therapist called and discharged me until I see the Dr. Said my evaluation was bad and they sent the report to Dr.Sangermans office and for me to call them. After calling the Dr.'s office they bumped up my appointment to Wednesday of this week to discuss surgery.

See you in the morning,
Paul

Hi Hans,

Today Dr. Levin my neurologist increased my medication of Gabapentin from 300 mg twice a day to 600 mg twice a day. I'm not happy about the increase, it already makes me extremely tired but it's supposed to help with the nerve pain in my right arm.

Not sure if you needed to know this but it is a minor change in the medical condition.

Hi Hans,

I'm curious if David Gagnons home owners insurance policy number checked out?

Also, from what I understand this surgery that has been suggested by two different arm specialists, the neurologist and my primary physician is going to run in the neighborhood of $60,000.00. I want to be sure that it will be covered under the settlement before I decide to do it.
It is a direct result from the chainsaw cut and not anything else. Will it be covered or am I on my own to pay for it?

I am extremely nervous about the cost and getting stuck in bankruptcy and losing my house if it isn't covered.

Thanks,
Paul

Hi Hans and Janet,

I just got back from an appointment with Dr. Sam Biafora, another hand, wrist, elbow & shoulder specialist at hand surgery associates. He did what seemed to be a very thorough evaluation. He dug around pretty deep in my arm and did many different tests on my hand, arm and elbow. He recommended doing surgery to get the scar tissue out of the affected nerve and surrounding area. He said not to have any hope of restoring strength, feeling or reversing the paralyzed muscle that pulls my pinky finger in. But he said that going in and removing the scar tissue from the area will bring relief to the nerve and should stop the pains I get. He said that it will leave a long scar from the back of my elbow to the wrist and they will need to move the ulnar nerve to the inside of the elbow and that it will take approximately 3 months to recuperate. I mentioned the new medication I just started taking that was supposed to help fix the signals from the nerve. He said that all that will do is mask the symptoms for a while and that the only way to actually fix it is to go in and remove the scar tissue and see if any of the cut fibers can be grafted back together. He said that grafting the fibers probably won't work since its been almost a year since they were cut but removing the scar tissue should release the pain and should make a huge difference. He was ready to set up the surgery and I told him I needed a some time to talk with my mom and think about it. He set up another appointment for a month from now so I have time to think it over and said to call Dr. Sagerman if I should decide sooner.

Hi Hans and Janet,

Forgive me for combining this e-mail to both of you but both of you need the same information.

Met with Dr. Levin today at Associated Neurology. She prescribed Neurontin / Gabapentin 300 MG. I am supposed to take it in the evening for 1 week then move to 2 times daily. Then call her in 2 weeks to see how it's going. She said that it is supposed to help correct the signals from the misfiring nerve in my right arm which is causing the pain when I use my hand. And that the dosage may change depending on how and if it's working. This treatment was suggested by Dr. Sagerman to help try and avoid surgery. If it works I think this is a long term treatment because the prescription lasts for a year and the pharmacist said it goes hand in hand with the other medications I'm taking for long term pain management treatment.

I see Dr. Sagerman and his partner tomorrow for an evaluation at Hand Surgery Associates in Vernon Hills. I will let you know what happens.

Thanks to both of you,
Paul

M. Margaret Bradshaw,

I received the results from the MRI done on my right arm and Dr. Levin said the MRI came up negative. The physical therapist had already told me that this type of damage seldom shows up on an MRI. Dr. Levin said it was all muscle and tendon damage. Dr. Levin and the physical therapist both suggested I see an hand and arm orthopedic specialist.

Today my GP, Dr. Sek, wants me to get an MRI done on my neck. This would not be covered in the lien against the claim for my right arm. So I am at a loss as to how to go about getting this done. While talking to you, I heard you mention Northwestern University. How do I go about applying for this? I would appreciate any help or assistance you may have that will allow me to get this done.

I applied for help at DHS in Woodstock. They received a copy of all my medical records and approved a two month SNAP benefit. Not sure if this will be extended or if they will do any further follow-up. This is a new process for me and I'm not sure how all this works. They said they sent my application for Medicaid to the state and I guess I am waiting for a response.

Thank you for any help you can provide.

Paul

Yes, this is the correct application form. You could go ahead and complete the application yourself and send it in now. Margaret should be sending you some information soon on your claim. We have a process that we have to complete to open new files and we are still working on yours. Once you receive anything, please give me a call if you have any questions or concerns.

Thank you.

Hi Janet/Margret,

At our appointment you mentioned you could perhaps help me get medical work done thru Northwestern University. I have e-mailed you twice requesting the forms/applications needed to get this medical help. You have not yet responded. I did try to do a search for these forms and came up with the PDF attached to this e-mail. Is this the correct form? Not sure if you want me to contact NU myself or if you are the one that should be handling this for me. Dr. Sek wants to get another look at my neck because he thinks disc bulging may have increased and that there is further degeneration. There is no way I can afford to get this procedure done and you said you would assist me in getting some sort of medical assistance.

The interview we had is somewhat fleeting as I did get extremely tired. I remember something about family services but can't recall what it was I was supposed to do. Please feel free to call me with anything I should be doing.

Thanks again for all your help,
Paul

Hi Meredith,
Today I received a letter for authorization to disclose information to SSA.
The letter was addressed to your office.
Should I sign and return the letter or have you already taken care of this?

Your case is in prehearing review as of 10/28/16. I don't think it will be much longer but we have to wait for the judge's scheduler to call us. It all depends on the judge's schedule and order of cases to be scheduled. They schedule the older cases first. We will notify you as soon as we get a date.

that he had no contraband or U.S.C. on his person, this occurring @ approx 2020 hours this date. A specific amount of U.S.C. was then turned over to the C.I. ( with officer Cundiff ) for the purpose of purchasing CANNABIS from the suspect offender(s) located at 1016 W.Elder, McHenry. R/O at this time lost eye contact with the C.I. but officer Cundiff was with the C.I. at all times, including the drive to and back from the suspect(s) residence.

At approx 2125 hours this date, R/O met the C.I. & officers Cundiff accross from Johnsburg High School where the suspect CANNABIS was recovered and secured by R/O. The C.I. paid $125.00 for forty (40) grams of CANNABIS packaged in a clear plastic bag. It should be noted that initially the C.I. stated that he bought the CANNABIS from Dave Gagnon but subsequently related that he in fact bought it from Dave's mom, referring to Carolyn Gagnon. When asked why he did not tell the truth initially, he stated that he likes Mrs Gagnon and she trusts him but he knew that he would have to tell the truth about the person who sold it.

Officer Cundiff related that he and the C.I. arrived at 1016 W.Elder at approx 2045 hours this date where the C.I. entered but returned moments later. He asked officer Cundiff if the brown stuff was O.K. (2046 hours) and returned to the same residence where the purchase was made and he returned to the auto at 2054 hours. They then met R/O at 2125 hours. As noted above, after the suspect CANNABIS was secured by R/O the C.I. again was checked for additional contraband or U.S.C. (except for change from controlled buy). The C.I. returned to his residence at approx 2135 hours, with R/O and officer Cundiff proceeding to the MCSP detective divsion. The suspect CANNABIS was field tested using the NIK, Narcotics Identification System and tested positive for the presence of CANNABIS @ 2200 hours. The total weight, including the clear plastic bag container is forty and half (40½) grams.

05-30-86 @ 1905 hrs. R/O arrived at 1016 W. Elder, McHenry, pursuant to a search warrant.

05-30-86 @ 1913 hrs. R/O and Det. Hay interviewed Donna J. Gagnon, age 15, in David Gagnon's room at 1016 W. Elder, McHenry. R/O read Donna her rights under Miranda and she stated that she understood and would talk with us. Donna said that she did not know anything about what was going on in the house and that she was not directly involved with anything to do with narcotics or marijuana and she assumed that her brother David was the only one with any knowledge of that. She said that those types of things were hidden from her and she assumed that was because he might be afraid that she would use them if she knew where they were. Donna said that she is going to go to work with her 20 year old sister, Diane Gagnon, at the Bucket Brigade, McHenry, part-time doing cleaning, etc., this summer.

At 1935 hrs. Donna was searched in the bathroom of the residence prior to her using the facilities. She was returned to another part of the house pending disposition and at 2145 hrs. she was released with her mother's permission into Diane Gagnon's custody and left the house. Prior to her leaving the house, R/O checked her purse and found a clear plastic bag containing green leafy plant material, a small pipe, and a driver's license belonging to Wendy L. Carter, DOB 11-30-63. She said that the things were hers but refused to say where she got them and that the driver's license was found. She then left the house with Diane Gagnon. The contraband was taken into custody.

05-30-86 @ 1940 hrs. R/O and Det. Hay interviewed Carolyn J. Gagnon in David Gagnon's room at 1016 Elder, McHenry. R/O read Carolyn her rights under Miranda and she stated that she understood and would talk with us. Carolyn said that she is employed at Baxter-Travenol in Round Lake and has been employed there for about 8 years and earns eight dollars and something an hour working as a technician.

She said that they have had marijuana in the house on and off and that her son, David, is the one who mostly sells it. She said that she and her ex-husband, Alan, have also sold it on occasion but she was mainly selling it to people that had been at the house before and thought she was doing her son, David, a favor when he wasn't home. She said that Alan has been living out of state for quite a while since they have been divorced and that Alan and David went somewhere the other night and got some marijuana and brought it back to the house. When there is marijuana in the house, it is mainly kept in the basement near the work bench. She stated that as far as she knows, there has never been anything but marijuana in the house and has never been any narcotics of any other type. Carolyn said that Alan has sold some marijuana, also, but that none of the three ever went out selling it and that people came to them.

At 2010 hrs. R/O searched Carolyn and she then wrote out a brief statement.

05-30-86 @ 2045 hrs. R/O and Det. Hay interviewed Alan A. Gagnon in David Gagnon's room at 1016 Elder, McHenry. R/O read him his rights under Miranda and he stated that he understood and would talk with us. Alan said that he is unemployed at the present time and is an engineer. Alan said that there has not been anything in the Gagnon house but marijuana and that he has been out of state for a while and since he's been back in the last month or two, he has been trying to get David to quit having anything to do with selling marijuana because of the likely consequences. He took David on a trip to California recently and he believes that he has David convinced to get out of the business of dealing with marijuana. Alan said that he had rarely sold anyone marijuana but that he had on occasion done so but had not gone out on the street to sell it to anyone and that people had come to the house. He said that he knew that Carolyn had also done so in the past but that it was mainly David who sold the marijuana. He also said that he used marijuana sometimes. Alan said that the marijuana that was most recently purchased was bought by David and brought into the house the night before last.

Alan said that the charge on the criminal complaint was not true and that he had not sold anything to anyone on May 29, 1986. Alan said that he wanted to talk to someone to get out of jail tonight and that if allowed to do so, he could do something with a supplier from Rockford. Alan said that the marijuana he had in his pocket earlier in the evening was for his personal use and not intended to sell.

He said that he told David that something like this would happen if he didn't quit and he said that the marijuana David had now was going to be the last. Alan said the only stuff in the house was in David's closet and Det. Hay looked and saw a brown paper bag containing several clear plastic bags with green leafy material and some U.S.C. and Alan said that was all that was in the house.

05-30-86 @ 2120 hrs. R/O and Det. Hay interviewed Diane Gagnon in David Gagnon's room at 1016 Elder, McHenry. R/O had earlier searched Diane after she had been found on the street in possession of contraband. R/O read Diane her rights under Miranda and she stated that she understood and would talk with us. Diane said that she did not have anything to do with any of the marijuana in the house and did not use or sell any of it. She said that her mother, father, and brother David were the ones who handled it. Diane also said that she thought the last time there was any marijuana in the house was about a month ago.

Diane said that people who purchase marijuana from her brother are Joe Choyinski, Peter Dubin, Dante Garcia, Tim Kinsland, and Glenn Sabaj. Diane and Donna Gagnon left the residence at 2145 hrs.

On May 30, 1986 @ approximately 1915 hours, while executing a search warrant at the Gagnon residence, 1016 Elder, McHenry, I was requested by Under Sheriff Hendle to interview a subject later identified as Jeffery A. Callahan (M/W, DOB 08-10-69). I was advised by Under Sheriff Hendle that this subject had come to the residence looking for a subject taken into custody David A. Gagnon.

I then took Callahan to a bedroom located at the northwest corner of the home and interviewed him. Prior to the interview, I conducted a pat down search of Callahan and located a silver colored pipe containing a small amount of residue in Callahan's right front jean pocket. I removed the pipe from the pocket then questioned Callahan as to the reason he was at the Gagnon residence. Callahan stated that he had come to the residence to visit David Gagnon as they had been friends for a long time. It was also learned that Callahan has purchased small quantities of marijuana from Gagnon in the past. Callahan stated that approximately one month ago he purchased one gram of marijuana from Gagnon for an unknown amount of money. I advised Callahan that I would be seizing the pipe found in his pocket and entering it in evidence. Callahan was then released.

At approximately 2027 hours, Detective Lockhart requested I assist him with a black over gold older model Chevrolet Nova (IL 86 RYJ 758) which he had stopped on the roadway approximately two houses east of the Gagnon residence. Detective Lockhart advised me that he had questioned these subjects, then searched their vehicle obtaining several items which could be used for "snorting" cocaine. Upon arrival, I was advised by Detective Lockhart that he had located a mirror, partially smoked hand rolled cigarette, a "Stanley knife" knife blade, a piece of white rolled plastic, a wire clip and a package of Zig Zag Kutcorners rolling papers. These items were sitting on top of the right side of the roof of the vehicle. I then questioned the driver of the vehicle, a David K. Hopp (M/W, DOB 09-11-69) and learned the following: On the evening of May 29, another subject in the vehicle a Rob Ridge had purchased a quarter gram of cocaine from the Wright residence on Coolidge Drive, McHenry for $25.00. Prior to being stopped, Hopp, his cousin Michael S. Hopp (M/W, DOB 05-22-69) and Rich had taken the cocaine to a beach somewhere along the river in the Sunnyside area and snorted the cocaine. Through further questioning, it was learned that at the time of the stop, they were enroute to the Gagnon residence to purchase marijuana. I then requested and Hopp agreed to make a written statement reference the incident. Copy of statement attached to this supplement.

At approximately 2050 hours, I interviewed Michael S. Hopp (M/W, DOB 05-22-69) reference the incident. It was learned that Michael Hopp was a passenger in the vehicle and Hopp agreed to make a statement reference the incident. Hopp stated that he has been dealing with David Gagnon but not fo. the past four or five months. He stated that on May 29, he bought a quarter gram of cocaine from Gagnon and that the week before on what he believed to be Thursday, May 22, he bought a gram of marijuana from Gagnon. Hopp stated that he has purchased marijuana from Gagnon on nine or ten occasions and that they were enroute to Gagnon's residence to purchase marijuana when they were stopped by Detective Lockhart. Michael Hopp stated that he has purchased marijuana from Gagnon in his bedroom where Gagnon normally keeps it in his roll top desk and another time it was sold to him by David Gagnon in the kitchen of the home. Michael Hopp also agreed to make a written statement reference the incident which was completed at 2058 hours. Copy of statement attached to this report.

The paraphernalia located by Detective Lockhart within David Hopp's vehicle was seized

14. That prior to the confidential informant's first entry to the residence aforementioned, your affiant searched the confidential informant and he did not possess any contraband or United States Currency, and that your affiant gave the confidential informant United States Currency for the sole purpose of purchasing cannabis from David Gagnon at the above premises, and that the confidential informant was under constant surveillance by the undercover police officer until the time that the purchased cannabis was turned over to your affiant;

15. That your affiant obtained the purchased cannabis from the confidential informant and that your affiant tested and weighed said cannabis, said cannabis testing positive for the presence of cannabis and weighing 56 grams;

16. That on May 29, 1986 at 10:20 p.m., your affiant had a conversation with the undercover police officer who accompanied the confidential informant to the above described residence for the purchase of cannabis on May 29, 1986, and that the undercover police officer informed your affiant that he was present during the initial conversation about the $200.00 being needed by David Gagnon to purchase one pound of cannabis, and was also present during the actual delivery and purchase of the 56 grams of cannabis in the basement of the above described residence.

WHEREFORE, your affiant believes that based upon the above information, that there is still a quantity of cannabis in the residence located at 1016 W. Elder, McHenry, McHenry County, Illinois.

I, Paul Dulberg, hereby agree to retain and employ BAUDIN & BAUDIN, an association of attorneys, to prosecute and/or settle all suits and claims for damages, which may include personal injuries and property damage, against responsible parties, including their insurance companies and my insurance companies, or any other responsible insurance companies, arising out of events which occurred on or about the 28th day of June, 2011, at or near 1016 W. Elder Avenue, McHenry, Illinois.

I agree to pay BAUDIN & BAUDIN as compensation for services (1) a non-refundable retainer fee of $3,333.33; AND (2) a sum of money equal to one-third (1/3) of the gross amount realized from this claim by settlement prior to trial of this matter, OR, if this matter proceeds to trial, which is defined as any time after the final pre-trial conference with the Court has concluded, I agree to pay BAUDIN & BAUDIN as compensation for its services a sum of money equal to forty percent (40%) of the gross amount realized from such action. It is further agreed and understood that there will be no further charges for legal services over and above the $3,333.33 non-refundable retainer fee by BAUDIN & BAUDIN (with the exception of the aforesaid expenses and costs referred to in paragraph 3) unless recovery is made in this claim, and that no settlement will be made without the consent of the claimant(s).

I hereby authorize and direct that BAUDIN & BAUDIN is authorized to endorse and deposit any proceeds received in regard to the aforesaid claim herein, and to disburse those funds for purposes of client payments, resolution of liens, reimbursement of costs advanced, and attorney's fees.

MOTION FOR SUBSTITUTION OF JUDGE

Your Petitioner, DAVID A. GAGNON, respectfully represents to this Honorable Court that he is the Defendant in the cause now pending before your Honor, one of the Judges of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit.

Your Petitioner further represents that he fears that he will not receive a fair and impartial trial in said cause if he is tried before your Honor, because of the prejudice of your Honor against Petitioner, the cause of such prejudice being more fully set out in the affidavit of Petitioner in support of this motion which is attached hereto and incorporated herein.

WHEREFORE, Petitioner respectfully prays this Honorable Court to transfer this motion to the Chief Judge for hearing by a judge not named in this motion, and further prays for an order permitting the requested substitution of judges.

Re: Your File: Paul Dulberg v. David Gagnon, et al
My File: Bankruptcy Estate of Paul Dulberg; Case No. 14-82297

Dear Attorney Mast:

Thank you for the information you sent on January 23rd. At this point in time, I am unable to determine if my bankruptcy case may be an asset case. (If it might be an asset case, my Estate needs to retain you to continue the pending pi case -- assuming you can be and want to be retained.)

I received from you a list of medical bills (which bills total over $58,000.) In addition, I just received from Debtor's counsel a copy of a letter from US Phy, by which this creditor claims a medical lien.

Can you please advise:

1) What is the total amount of medical liens filed against the pending pi case? (I received a copy of a document, listing medical bills totaling $58,387.33, but I don't know if any of these bills are unpaid and, if so, if the unpaid providers timely filed a medical lien).

2) As to the medical lien apparently claimed by US Phy (via its letter of January 8, 2015 - a copy of which is attached for your ready reference) is this letter the first lien claim it made against the personal injury cause of action? If so, based upon the little research I've done, to date, I don't think this letter is sufficient to claim a lien -- post-bankruptcy filing -- on Debtor's right to recover in his pi case. (It may be that I need to file something in the bankruptcy case to cause this lien to be removed. Investigation continues.)

3) Once I know the above facts, I will need to know the potential range of recovery, and, assuming the potential recovery is large enough, if you want to be retained by the Bankruptcy Estate to continue to represent the Debtor/Estate in the pending personal injury cause of action.

I look forward to hearing from you again soon.

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Accardo:

I was asked to perform an independent medical evaluation on Mr. Dulberg on October 4, 2016. This examination took place in my office in Glenview, Illinois.

As part of this independent medical evaluation, Mr. Dulberg's identifying documentation was obtained, xeroxed, and placed into the medical records. The information from these documents appeared to corroborate with his appropriate information.

I explained to Mr. Dulberg, with his mother Barbara as well as his attorney Randy present, the purpose of the independent medical evaluation as well as the fact that no patient-physician relationship was established with him during today's visit. Additionally, I explained to them that no treatment, outcomes or diagnoses would be discussed with him during this evaluation.

All opinions expressed in this report are made to a reasonable degree of medical and surgical certainty as a board certified orthopedic surgeon with a certificate of added qualification in hand and upper extremity surgery.

I spent 65 minutes with Mr. Dulberg in face-to-face time today obtaining a history and performing a physical examination.

HISTORY: Mr. Dulberg is a 46-year-old right-hand dominant gentleman who previously worked in graphic design who is here for evaluation of his right upper extremity. He states that he had no symptoms referable to his right upper extremity prior to an injury that occurred in June 2011. He states he is not sure of the exact date, but on the date in question he was holding a tree branch at his neighbor's house to help David, his neighbor's son, cut the tree branch with a chainsaw. He stated he was holding a pine tree branch, which was a few inches thick, still attached to the tree and while David was cutting the branch, he inadvertently cut Mr. Dulberg's right forearm. Mr. Dulberg went to NIMC ER where the wound was irrigated and sutured. He had radiographs there which showed no fractures. He followed-up with his primary care physician, Dr. Sek, who removed the sutures two weeks later. Mr. Dulberg noticed significant pain in his forearm after the injury. Due to persistent symptoms, Dr. Sek referred him to see Dr. Levin, who Mr. Dulberg states is a neurologist, who performed a nerve conduction study and Mr. Dulberg was told the study was normal he had no nerve injury, but was told that the superficial branches of the nerves were severed. Due to ongoing significant pain, he was referred to a hand specialist. He initially saw a hand specialist, although he is not sure of the name but per the medical records that I reviewed was Dr. Talerico, who referred him for occupational therapy. He states that he performed occupational therapy for multiple months which provided him with no benefit. He states that he was still having significant problems with his right forearm and hand and so he returned to see Dr. Levin. Dr. Levin referred him for a second opinion to see Dr. Sagerman in 2012, although he is not sure of the date. Dr. Sagerman prescribed more occupational therapy, which he states was "somewhat helpful". Dr. Sagerman also repeated the nerve studies as he stated the initial nerve study was not complete. Mr. Dulberg does not remember the date of the repeat nerve studies. Subsequently, he followed-up with. Sagerman but is not sure of the results of this nerve study, but thereafter Dr. Sagerman suggested exploring the nerve. He wanted to think about this and returned a month later after discussing this with Dr. Sek and elected to undergo surgery. He underwent surgery by Dr. Sagerman in June or July 2012 whereby he states he underwent a cubital tunnel release, and was told that the "nerve was okay." He also underwent exploration of the ulnar nerve in the forearm and tells me that Dr. Sagerman told him "this was the most scarred tissue, I have ever seen." (This is interesting as the MRI was normal and the operative report states that no scar was noted around the nerve and the muscle belly that covers the nerve was pristine only with sutures in the fascia covering the muscle). He was then enrolled in more occupational therapy, which he did for another two months. He states that this helped his forearm temporarily. He followed up with Dr. Sagerman and ultimately plateaued. His complaint at that point as well as prior to the surgery was numbness and tingling in his fourth and fifth finger as well as pain and spasms in his left forearm. Due to a plateau in his improvement after surgery, Dr. Sagerman referred him to Dr. Kujawa. Mr. Dulberg states that he was referred for "cramping" and "spasms of the muscles in the forearm." Dr. Kujawa has treated him from after this surgery until the present time. Mr. Dulberg states that Dr. Kujawa tied injecting Botox in the muscles of the forearm twice. The first time he states it provided him with no benefit and the second time he states that the muscles in his forearm got significantly weaker, which he states Dr. Kujawa confirmed that the Botox was in the correct area; however, besides having temporary weakness in the arm, did not change the cramps and spasms that he was complaining of at that time. He states that both Botox injections were performed within a year of his surgery. He has continued to follow up with Dr. Kujawa who started him on Gabapentin. He states that the Gabapentin has helped the smaller and minor cramps, spasms and pain in his forearm; however, the larger and more significant cramps and spasms in the forearm have not been affected by the Gabapentin. He sees Dr. Kujawa every six months. He did follow up to see Dr. Sagerman for left lateral epicondylitis in 2012, who performed a cortisone injection into the elbow, which cured this problem. Of note, Mr. Dulberg had previously seen Dr. Sagerman in early 2000 for "pain in the left elbow" as well as "numbness and tingling in the fingers." He underwent a cubital tunnel release on the left at that time, which helped tremendously. He currently has no similar symptoms in the left upper extremity.

I asked Mr. Dulberg about a motor vehicle accident in early 2000 in which he was involved. He states he sustained a whiplash injury and he hit his left elbow against the inside of the car and developed pain in the left elbow and numbness in the fingers. He was diagnosed with left cubital tunnel syndrome. He had nerve studies and a year later underwent a cubital tunnel release. He was also diagnosed with degenerative disk disease in his cervical spine after the motor vehicle accident affecting him from C3 to C7. He takes occasional Naproxen for his neck, which he states helps somewhat. He is not sure whether the Naproxen really helps his right arm.

Mr. Dulberg states that he is currently able to drive, although he has to drive with his right hand at the 6 o'clock position as when he holds the steering wheel at the 10 or 12 o'clock position, he develops spasms in his forearm. He states any vibration causes spasming in his right forearm.

CURRENT COMPLAINTS WITH REGARDS TO THE RIGHT UPPER EXTREMITY:

I asked Mr. Dulberg to list all complaints referable to his right arm:

Mr. Dulberg's primary complaint is that he describes "cramps" in the forearm. He states the cramps happen at least 12 times a day. He states they frequently happen with no activities. He states the cramps last a few seconds to a few minutes. Thereafter, he notices that the fingers are weak and he frequently drops objects due to the cramps. He does not describe any finger spasms. He states that activities exacerbate the frequency and severity of the cramps "a lot." He occasionally wakes up with these symptoms at night, which he states is maybe once a week. He states the cramping is his biggest problem subsequent to the injury. He states the cramps began within six months of the injury. He states he had "a lot going on at that time" and he had to figure out what was causing his problem. When asked specifically, Mr. Dulberg states that the acute pain that he had in the forearm immediately after the injury is gone.

Mr. Dulberg's second complaint with regards to the right arm is that he has occasional tingling in the fifth finger. It bothers him once or twice a day and when he develops these symptoms they last for a few seconds. It does not wake him up at night.

He also describes burning in his palm, which comes and goes and is unpredictable, similar to the tingling in the small finger. When he develops the finger tingling, the palm begins to burn. The duration of the palmar symptoms are the same as the small finger tingling.

He rates his pain currently as 0/10, but states the cramps hurt, and rates the cramping as a 7-10/10. The pain from the cramps lasts a few seconds to a few minutes.

OCCUPATION HISTORY:

Mr. Dulberg states that he has worked as a graphic designer since he was 16 years old. Subsequent to his right forearm injury, he states that he was unable to work. He tried returning to graphic design 2 months after the injury, but states that he could not type because he would develop the forearm cramps. He states any activity whether it be typing or mousing for any period of time whether it be minutes or hours, would increase his symptoms. He has no symptoms when he drives as he has modified where he grasps the steering column.

HOBBIES:

Mr. Dulberg states that he previously would fish, drive motorcycles and ATVs, canoe, camp and bicycle. He states he cannot do any of these activities as his right forearm cramps. He tried bicycling after the surgery, but he could not hold onto the handlebars without cramping. His new hobby includes maintaining a home fish aquarium. He states he is able to change the water without difficulty but his friend Mike helps him with the maintenance.

PAST MEDICAL AND SURGICAL HISTORY:

Mr. Dulberg states that he has no medical problems. He states he has no history of diabetes or thyroid disorder. He has no history of arthritis or inflammatory arthropathy; specifically, no history of rheumatoid arthritis, gout, pseudogout, psoriasis, or colitis. He has no history of fibromyalgia. He states that he was diagnosed with anxiety and depression a year after the accident, but takes no medication for this. He does not see a psychologist.

Mr. Dulberg's only medication is Gabapentin.

Mr. Dulberg's surgeries include the right forearm wound closure in the emergency room after his right forearm chainsaw injury as well as the subsequent cubital tunnel release and ulnar nerve exploration in the right forearm. He also had a left cubital tunnel release with anterior transposition of the nerve in early 2000s.

Mr. Dulberg denies drug allergies. He has never had a bone density study and he does not have sleep apnea.

SOCIAL HISTORY:
Mr. Dulberg smokes currently 10 cigarettes a day, but previously a pack a day, since he was 18 years old. He does not consume alcohol.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION:
On examination today, Mr. Dulberg is noted to be 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing 165 pounds. He is in no distress today and has normal affect. He is alert and oriented. He is afebrile. He demonstrates no suspicious pain behavioral characteristics.

With regards to his right upper extremity, he is able to remove his sweater, albeit mostly using his left arm. After the examination when he put his sweater on, he was able to pull out the sleeves using his right hand, manipulating the sweeter and sleeves using his right hand normally. He holds the hand in a normal position, although the small finger is in a constantly abducted position. On inspecting of his right forearm and hand, he does have a transverse laceration in the mid forearm measuring 6 cm. The incision is healed and is stable and supple. He also has a longitudinal incision, from his surgery, over the ulnar forearm, which measures 6 cm long. This incision is healed, stable, supple and asymptomatic. He also has an incision posterior to the medial epicondyle measuring 5.5 cm, which is healed, stable, supple and asymptomatic.

With regards to his right hand, as mentioned, he holds the small finger in an abducted position. I can passively adduct the finger to sit adjacent to the fourth finger, but he cannot actively maintain this position of the small finger. He flexes the thumb normally and extends it normally. He actively flexes the index, middle and ring finger to the palm, but with active composite flexion, he lacks about 3 cm of tip to palm distance of the small finger. His hand shakes when he flexes the fingers. Am able to passively flex his small finger to his palm, which he is then able to maintain in this position, which is concerning for symptom magnification as this implies subjective voluntary manipulation. He expresses that pain does not limit his inability to flex the small finger. After performing repetitive active and passive flexion and extension motions of all fingers, he was then able to flex his small finger to his palm with 5/5 strength with no pain. He extends all fingers to neutral with robust extensor tone in the MP, PIP, and DIP joints of all digits including the thumb. He has no evidence of flexor or extensor tenosynovitis of his fingers. He has no triggering or locking of the digits. He has no trophic changes. His hair and nail growth is normal in all digits. Subjectively, he states that he is numb in the small finger and half the ring finger to touch.

With regards to his right wrist, he extends his wrist normally to 60 degrees with 5/5 strength and flexes to 55 degrees with 5/5 strength, but complains of some forearm discomfort diffusely but not localized to any specific aspect of his forearm. His wrist motion parameters are symmetric. He has no pain with radial and ulnar deviation of the wrist. His passive forearm rotation is to 90 degrees of pronation and supination respectively without pain or crepitus and he actively pronates to 90 degrees with 5/5 strength without pain and actively supinates to 90 degrees with 5/5 strength with pain around the laceration over the mid medial forearm; again concerning for non-organic pathology as his supinator muscle is on the radial side (opposite to where he has pain) of his proximal forearm and he had no pain with passive pronation or supination. He has no intercarpal laxity on stress testing. He has no pain over the basilar joint of his thumb, with a negative grind and distraction test. He has a negative Finkelstein test. He has no instability of the first CMC joint. His ulna is stable and reduced. He has no ulnar-sided wrist pain. He is not tender over the radiocarpal or ulnocarpal joint.

With regards to his forearm, as mentioned, he has 2 incisions over the mid forearm, one transverse and one longitudinal as described above. The incisions are all healed and asymptomatic. He has no induration or tethering of the skin over the muscles at the site of the laceration or incision. His muscle bulk appears to be intact and appropriate. He is not tender to palpation around the muscles of the medial forearm. He is not tender to palpation over the tendons in the distal forearm or the muscles in the distal, middle, or proximal forearm ulnarly, or radially, volarly or dorsally. He is able to make a full fist, now recruiting all fingers, with good strength. His profundus tendons function normally to each finger when tested individually. His sublimis function, when tested independently, activate normally including to the small finger albeit with some discomfort in his forearm. He has no gross atrophy of the muscles in his forearm.

With regards to his elbow, he has 5.5cm incision posterior to the medial epicondyle, which is healed, stable, supple and asymptomatic. He has full elbow flexion and extension, which is symmetric and asymptomatic without crepitus. He has full forearm rotation as mentioned. He has no evidence of medial or lateral epicondylitis to palpation or with provocative testing. He has no instability of the elbow to varus or valgus stress at 30 and 60 degrees of flexion. He demonstrates no posterolateral rotatory insufficiency of the elbow to stress.

With regards to the peripheral nervous system of his right upper extremity, as mentioned, he states he has subjectively numbness in the small in ulnar half of the ring finger. His active motion was as mentioned limited in the small finger at times, but at times he had full active flexion of all fingers. With regards to the median nerve, he palmarly abducts his thumb with normal strength. Sensation was normal in the digits innervated by the median nerve. He has a negative Tinel over the carpal tunnel, and a negative wrist compression test. With regards to the ulnar nerve, he notes the aforementioned numbness. He has normal sensation over the dorsal radial and dorsal ulnar aspect of the wrist. He has normal sensation over the forearm radially and ulnarly. He was able to activate his first dorsal interosseous normally, and he abducts and adducts the fingers albeit with shaking of the hand and fingers and variable strength with abduction and adduction. At times he could abduct normally and at times he was extremely weak and this waxed and waned throughout the examination. He does hold the small finger in an abducted position, which can passively be placed back at the side of the ring finger, but then automatically assumes an abducted position. His extensor tendon functions normally and does not subluxate over the MP joint with active or passive flexion of the MP joint. He has no triggering in the small finger. He has a negative Tinel over the Guyon's canal. He has normal pulses. He has no splinter hemorrhages. He has no masses palpable around the ulnar artery at Guyon's

NIMC:
According to the medical records from Centegra Northern Illinois Medical Center, Mr. Dulberg was seen in the emergency room on June 28, 2011. According to the emergency room admission assessment he was seen stating that he had a chain saw injury to the right arm 15 minutes ago and he was feeling lightheaded. He is noted to smoke a pack a day. He is alert and oriented x3. He was accompanied by a coworker with the laceration by chainsaw to the right forearm. He had radiographs, which showed no bony abnormalities other than a soft tissue injury. The wound was irrigated and cleaned and sutured. He had 3 subcutaneous stitches placed of 4-0 Vicryl and 11 4-0 Prolene sutures placed in the skin. He was given discharge instructions for follow-up. He was discharged home.

According to the radiologist's report of radiographs performed of the right forearm dated June 28, 2011. The findings were dictated as two views of the right forearm, which demonstrated a deep laceration on the ventral aspect of the mid forearm, best visualized on the lateral view. No fractures or radiopaque foreign body is identified.

According to the Moraine emergency room physician records, Mr. Dulberg was seen on November 11, 2005 for right foot injury. He states he was fighting with home invaders at that time.

He was seen again on June 28, 2011 for the aforementioned chainsaw injury, which has previously been described above.

Dr. Talerico:
According to the medical records from MidAmerica Hand to Shoulder, Mr. Dulberg was seen by Dr. Talerico on December 2, 2011. His history is a 41-year-old male, right hand dominant, referred by Dr. Levin, MD, neurologist, for evaluation of an injury sustained to the right medial forearm in June 2011. He was using a chainsaw when he accidentally struck the volar medial aspect of his right forearm in roughly the mid forearm range with a chain saw. He had a large open wound down to muscle. He was seen in the emergency department where the wound and muscle were sewn together and the skin was closed. He followed up with his PCP and was noted to have persistent pain, which he describes as intermittent and shooting in character radiating from the laceration site. He occasionally has intermittent numbness and tingling in the ring and small finger. He reports grip weakness and no endurance with wrist flexion and gripping. He has not had therapy. He had nerve studies performed by Dr. Levin in August 2011, which per the patient were normal. Did not have the study available. He is not working, but he is a graphic designer by training. He uses a computer mouse for 20 minutes causing significant forearm pain. He previously had an ulnar nerve transposition on the left side. He is single. Smokes everyday. He has a family history of diabetes. ROS negative. Examination showed him in no distress. Examination of the right upper extremity reveals his elbow has normal, painless range of motion. He has no focal tenderness to palpation. His collateral ligaments are intact. Forearm compartments are soft. He has a well-healed transverse laceration at the volar medial forearm level. There is no erythema, drainage, or fluctuance at the level of the laceration. He has no tenderness to palpation. He has some apparent muscle incongruity. Distally, his hand demonstrates no atrophy. He has 5/5 intrinsic strength, 5/5 APB strength. He can make a full fist with full extension of all digits. He canal. He has a positive Tinel from 2 inches proximal to the medial epicondyle to 4 inches distal to the medial epicondyle radiating into the fourth and fifth fingers. Tinel over the forearm laceration elicit only local tingling that did not extend into the fourth and fifth fingers. Elbow flexion test elicits increased numbness and tingling in the fourth and fifth fingers. He has no instability of the ulnar nerve with elbow flexion and extension. His flexor pronator muscle bulk is asymptomatic with normal strength and without pain when stressed or with gentle and deep palpation.

Cross sectional area was measured at the level of his wrist, his mid forearm, and his proximal forearm. The values obtained at all levels were symmetric to within 1mm. – ? mid forearm is NOT the Same

Grip strength using a Jamar dynamometer in position three on the right dominant side elicited 98 pounds of strength without pain and 80 pounds of strength without pain. On the left side, he was able to elicit 115 and 122 pounds of strength without pain. Performing rapid exchange grip strength testing, 4 times in each upper extremity, elicited up to 85 pounds of strength on the right side and 109 pounds of strength on the left side. He denied any pain or symptoms of cramping or spasming during grip despite performing the aforementioned gripping 6 times on each side. – wrong – Slight Pain in forearm

Two-point discrimination measured with a discriminator on the right side elicited 5 mm two-point discrimination on the radial and ulnar aspect of the thumb, index, middle, and ring finger. In the small finger, he had 5 mm 2-point discrimination on the radial aspect and 6 mm on the ulnar aspect.

With regards to the left side, he has 6 cm incision over the medial elbow posterior to the medial epicondyle, which is healed and is stable and asymptomatic. He has full elbow flexion, extension, full forearm rotation. He has normal sensation in all digits. His median, and ulnar nerve motor and sensory function in his hand is normal. He has negative Tinel's over the ulnar nerve at the cubital tunnel or over the transposed ulnar nerve. He has a negative elbow flexion test.

QuickDASH score completed by Mr. Dulberg today elicited a score of 38. He completed all 11 items. Given his physical examination, I was quite surprised by high QuickDASH score. I therefore asked him about each of the items. He states he cannot open a jar with his right hand because he develops cramping and he has weakness when he twists the lid of a jar. He states that he develops cramping within seconds of twisting the jar. He states he cannot do household chores or carry a shopping bag for the same reason. He stated that he had severe difficulty washing his back, scored at 4/5, and when I asked him about this, he states that he had made an error and in fact he had no difficulty with this activity. He also stated severe difficulty when using a knife to cut food or perform any recreational activities. He notices severe difficulty with most activities throughout the week and noted that tingling in his arm was a moderate problem. He stated he had mild difficulty in the last week sleeping at night. – ONLY Some Tight Jars – This

MEDICAL RECORD REVIEW:
As part of this independent medical evaluation, I was forwarded about 8 inches of medical records to review. The medical records that were forwarded to me for review included the following:

1. Medical records from Centegra Northern Illinois Medical Center.
2. Medical records from Moraine Emergency Physicians.
3. Medical records from Open Advanced MRI of Round Lake.
4. Medical records from Associates of Neurology.
5. Medical records from McHenry Radiologists imaging.
6. Medical records from Neuroscience Institute.

does not demonstrate a clawed position. He has a negative Froment's sign. He has a positive Wartenberg's sign. Wrist flexion and extension 5/5 strength. He has a palpable FCU and ECU tendon at the level of the wrist. He has appropriate tension. No radiographs performed. Dr. Talerico wanted to get the nerve studies. His complaints appear to be "likely muscular origin." He may have some "superficial sensory complaints as well." Dr. Talerico did not feel that he required surgical intervention. He was recommended occupational therapy to work on strengthening and conditioning of his forearm muscles. They can also perform pain modalities and he was told to follow up in four to six weeks and the nerve studies would be obtained.

He was seen back on January 6, 2012 for right forearm pain. He does not feel the occupational therapy is helping. He complains of pain/soreness and loss of strength. His history is reiterated. He has attended one or two sessions of therapy thus far. Nerve studies were obtained. He feels he is getting weaker. He feels a burning in the forearm. He asked about disability paperwork. Examination is unchanged. Of note, at this visit that he had no intrinsic or thenar atrophy with 5/5 intrinsic strength. His FDP to the small finger had 5/5 strength. He had light touch, which was intact to all digits. Nerve studies were reviewed, which were normal. No evidence of ulnar nerve injury. Given the location of the injury, this is the only significant problem that Dr. Talerico could imagine from this wound. He has no evidence of nerve or tendon injury. "He may have some residual soreness and some superficial sensory abnormalities, but this should improve over time." Dr. Talerico suggested he continued therapy with no need for surgical intervention. He felt he did not have anything further to offer.

Dr. Sek:
According to the medical records from Dr. Frank Sek, Mr. Dulberg had been seen since 1978. These are handwritten notes and difficult to decipher, but he was seen multiple times in 1984 and 1985 for lower extremity injuries. In 1984 and 1985, he injured his right thumb playing football. His x-rays were negative. He was seen again in 1998 for a fever and in 2002 for low back pain as well as pain in the trapezius after an auto accident 6 days prior. He went to NIMC ER. X-rays of the neck reported as a fracture and he went back for a CT scan, which was negative. He is taking Tylenol and Skelaxin. He has tenderness in the left trapezius and the left lower chest and lumbar area. He was seen again in March 2002, for pain in his back, and later in March 2002 for pain in his lumbar spine.

He was seen again on March 19, 2002 for the same problems in the lumbar spine and then on March 25, 2002 with pain in his buttock and leg with numbness and tingling in his left foot. He was seen back on March 30, 2002 for similar symptoms. He was seen back on April 6, 2002 for pain in his upper trapezius and his lumbar area. He was seen back on April 13, 2002 for spasms in his neck 3 days ago. He was seen back on April 20, 2002 for spasms in his left upper trapezius. On April 27, 2002, he was feeling better with "minor spasms here and there." On May 4, 2002, seen for spasms in the low back and left trapezius. On May 11, 2002, he was seen for muscle spasm again. On May 25, 2002, he was seen for pain in his buttock and leg. He was seen back on June 8, 2002 for similar symptoms. On June 13, 2002, he was released for office work. On June 22, 2002, he was seen for a "pinching sensation in the left upper trapezius and soreness in the lumbosacral area and buttock." On July 6, 2002, he was seen again for similar symptoms and then on April 27, 2007 for headache.

On July 1, 2011, he was seen after his forearm chainsaw injury that occurred on June 28, 2011. He was on Cefadroxil and Norco. His right forearm was slightly swollen and tender. On July 8, 2011, he was seen for suture removal. On January 14, 2012, he was seen because he was feeling depressed as his right hand is weak. On February 13, 2012, he was seen after an MRI of his right forearm was negative. He was seen on April 24, 2012 for non-arm issues. On August 6, 2012, he was seen after surgery on his right arm.

Mr. Dulberg had an MRI of his low back, ordered by Dr. Sek on April 12, 2002. This is documented as a normal MRI of his lumbar spine.

Nerve studies performed on May 29, 2002 were performed of the left upper extremity. These nerve studies revealed cubital tunnel syndrome without denervation in the ulnar innervated muscles. Of note, the EMG component of the study was completely normal.

Nerve studies performed on December 23, 2002 by Dr. Grobman for persistent left hand symptoms with the previous study of May 29, 2016 showing ulnar neuropathy. The results of this study revealed left ulnar neuropathy at the elbow. .

MRI of the cervical spine was performed on September 5, 2012. Per the radiologist, showed multilevel degenerative disk disease, and a possible atypical hemangioma.

He had radiographs of his right foot performed on November 11, 2005.

Medical records from Michael Grobman are present within Dr. Sek's notes. Dr. Grobman saw Mr. Dulberg on May 8, 2002, for pain and sensory disturbances since a motor vehicle accident. He is noted to be a 32-year-old right-hand dominant gentleman with no significant medical history. He was involved in an MVA on March 1, 2002. He states he stopped to make a turn and another car tried to pass him and then turned back quickly into his lane. The other car's front passenger side impacted into his rear driver's side. He states he had turned all the way towards the left to find the car that was passing him. He states his left arm was between his seat and the door frame. His neurological examination did not show any weakness in his upper extremity with normal reflexes. He was diagnosed with musculoskeletal pain due to a flexion/extension injury and sensory disturbance in the left arm consistent with ulnar neuropathy described as due to the position of the arm at the time of accident, and is likely to be directly related to the accident. He also has sensory disturbances in his left leg consistent with an L5 radiculopathy.

Hand Associates:
According to the medical records from Hand Associates, Mr. Dulberg was seen by Dr. Sagerman on February 27, 2012. He was seen for consultation with regards to his right arm. He sustained a laceration to his forearm from a chainsaw accident on June 28, 2011. He developed symptoms of numbness in the small finger with weakness. He has treated with therapy. He had an EMG and MRI scan. Past medical history remarkable for arthritis and cervical disk disease. He is taking naproxen, Tramadol, Cyclobenzaprine, and Fluoxetine. Examination shows a 7 cm transverse scar at the ulnar aspect of the mid forearm. He has local tenderness and sensitivity to percussion with positive Tinel's sign and paresthesia radiating into the small finger. He has sensitivity at the cubital tunnel. Wrist and elbow motion are unrestricted. No atrophy. He is unable to adduct the small finger. Flexion strength is normal. Sensation is decreased to light touch in the small finger only with inconsistent two-point discrimination. Radiographs of the right forearm performed on June 20, 2011 were reviewed with no fractures or foreign body. MRI form of the right forearm performed on February 3, 2012 was reviewed with no abnormality seen. Nerve studies performed by Dr. Levin on August 10, 2011 showed no evidence of neuropathy. He was diagnosed with a right forearm laceration with probable partial ulnar nerve injury. He was referred for additional nerve study testing. He was told that he may need surgery.

He was seen back on April 2, 2012 after the nerve study was repeated on March 13, 2012. The records state that this shows no evidence of neuropathy. The EMG portion showed no denervation and the ulnar nerve conduction was within normal limits. Examination was unchanged. Treatment options were discussed with him and he does not wish to pursue with surgery. He was therefore prescribed physical therapy, told to follow up in six weeks or p.r.n.

He was seen back Dr. Sagerman on May 14, 2012. He has persistent pain with use of his arm, especially with gripping activities. He had additional therapy, which has been beneficial. He has no change in his symptoms of numbness, which is bothersome. His function is limited due to his pain. Examination unchanged. He has full finger composite flexion with no triggering or locking and no clawing. Wartenberg sign positive. Intrinsic strength is slightly weak. His possible surgical options were discussed and he was suggested to see Dr. Biafora for a second opinion.

Mr. Dulberg saw Dr. Biafora for a second opinion on May 17, 2012. His history is outlined. His examination is similar to that described by Dr. Sagerman. It was noted that he has good strength in the first dorsal interosseous with negative Froment's test, positive Wartenberg's sign. He has full digital motion. He has pain at the scar in his most distal and ulnar border with resisted DIP flexion of the small finger. FCU function is intact, however, with pain at the scar. Nerve studies have been reviewed. He has a positive Tinel around the scar. He has tenderness at the scar to deep palpation on his most ulnar and distal border near the ulna. He is assessed as being almost a year after forearm laceration with probable partial ulnar nerve injury with ulnar neuritis. Surgery was discussed with him.

He was seen back by Dr. Sagerman on June 6, 2012. He has no change in his symptoms. His medication interferes with his functioning. He wanted to proceed with surgery. It was noticed that his scar is stable with tenderness and sensitivity to percussion. He has pain with gripping localized to the forearm region with increased numbness in the ring and small finger with weakness of his grip. His prognosis was noted to be guarded in terms of symptom improvement. He was told to discuss his side effects from the Neurontin with his neurologist. He was scheduled for surgery.

He was seen back on July 11, 2012. He has had surgery. His wounds were healing. Operative findings were reviewed. He was given a prescription for therapy for motion.

He was seen back on July 23, 2012, recovering appropriately after surgery.

He was seen back on July 30, 2012. He is noted to be doing well. His arm feels better. His hand function is increased and he feels his symptoms improved. Examination showed mild diffuse swelling from the scar, but no evidence of infection. Wrist, elbow, and finger motion is satisfactory. Sensation is intact in all distributions. He has improved independent finger flexion compared to his preoperative function. He was told to continue therapy and follow up in a month.

He was seen back on August 27, 2012. He is described as doing well, but his elbow is sore. He is doing therapy. His grip strength is increased. His hand function has improved. Examination shows mild tenderness around the incisions. Elbow and wrist motion unrestricted. He has no ulnar nerve subluxation. Intrinsic strength is increased. Sensation is intact in all distributions. He was continued in therapy for scar management and strengthening. He was told to advance activities. He was limited in work in terms of limited forceful gripping and no lifting, pushing or pulling.

He was seen back on October 22, 2012. His function improved. He is doing therapy. Sensation has improved. He grasps objects better than before surgery. Examination is essentially unchanged. He could maximally grip 112 pounds according to the most recent therapy report. He has less pain with gripping, but tenderness at the dorsal aspect of the forearm scar. He was told to continue home exercises. He is currently unemployed and wanted to pursue with disability. He was told to follow up in six weeks.

Dr. Kujawa:
According to the medical records from Alexian Brothers Neurosciences Institute, Mr. Dulberg was seen on September 25, 2013 documented as being a 43-year-old male with a history of depression as well as an MVA over 10 years ago with resultant cervical DJD and left ulnar nerve transposition, BPH, and migraines. He was seen for evaluation of his right arm dystonia. He had significant trauma to his right forearm after a chainsaw accident two years ago after he was holding a branch when the arm was nearly severed by his neighbor using a chainsaw. Fortunately, the bone was not damaged. He has complaints of burning pain in his right forearm that is worse when he tried to stop Gabapentin. Second complaint is "curling" on his right hand with activity, which started approximately 18 months ago, lasts several minutes, and can occur independent of forearm pain, but usually follows pain episodes. Curling occurs many times a day and can awaken him at night. He also complains of numbness in the medial aspect of the forearm and intermittent tingling. Examination showed he has 5/5 motor in all extremities except right hand grip is 4/5. He has sustained (several minutes) involuntary flexion of the right wrist and three to five fingers at the PIP joint after voluntarily clenching of the fist. Sensation not tested. Diagnosed with posttraumatic dystonia of the right upper extremity and chronic pain syndrome that may be related to intermittent right hand dystonia. He was managed with Gabapentin and was suggested to have Botox injections. There are multiple handwritten notes as well, which are difficult to decipher.

Mr. Dulberg was seen on February 6, 2014 by Dr. Kujawa. The chief complaint is that he has "organic writer's cramp." He is here for follow-up from his initial intake on September 25, 2013. He wants to proceed with Botox injections. He has right forearm pain only with activity, not worse since he stopped Neurontin. He ran out. He drops objects (dinner plates), occasionally has difficulty using utensils. He has migraines much improved after Zomig nasal spray. His problem is that he has organic writer's camp and acquired torsion dystonia. He is also diagnosed as having chronic pain syndrome that may be related to intermittent right hand dystonia. He was given Botox.

Neurology:
I reviewed the medical records from Associates in Neurology. This includes the multiple nerve studies as well as cervical spine MRI. He had a brachial plexus MRI performed on August 26, which was normal. Nerve studies from 2002 are present. MRI of his forearm from January 3, 2012 is present, which was documented as normal. Nerve studies from March 13, 2012, which are documented as normal are present.

He was seen by Dr. Grobman on May 8, 2002 after his motor vehicle accident not pertaining to the right side. He has multiple handwritten notes, prior to this, which are hard to decipher.

It would appear Mr. Dulberg was seen by Dr. Grobman on February 4, 2003. He was diagnosed with ulnar neuropathy at the elbow. It was felt that he could return to work with lifting restrictions.

He was seen back on July 28, 2011 by Dr. Levin. His history of left cubital tunnel syndrome in 2002 was outlined. He states he became asymptomatic by 2007 and he never had difficulty in the right arm.

He states a month prior he was involved in a chainsaw injury as mentioned above. He went to NIMC ER where he had stitches. He had "very significant pain, but as the pain was getting better, he started noticing that he had numbness in the fifth digit and in the inner aspect of his forearm. He has not been dropping things. It was mostly just a tingling and numb feeling. He denies previous symptoms. Examination showed a healed scar in his right forearm with decreased light touch, pinprick, and temperature in the ulnar distribution of the right arm. Strength is normal. It was felt that he had a branch neuropathy of the sensory nerves. He was suggested to undergo nerve studies and see a hand surgeon.

Rehab:
I reviewed the medical records from Fox Lake dynamic hand therapy, which are extensive.

Diagnostic tests relevant to the right arm:
MRI performed at Open Advanced MRI on February 3, 2012 of the right forearm with and without intravenous contrast showed no forearm abnormality appreciated. The radiologist states that this does not exclude the possibility of ulnar nerve impingement, but there is no gross mass or abnormal infiltration along the expected course of the ulnar nerve. No obvious tendon or muscle abnormality appreciated at this time.

Nerve conduction studies performed on August 10, 2011 by Associates in Neurology were reviewed. The conclusion is that there is no evidence of nerve dysfunction Nerve conduction studies performed on March 13, 2012 by Associates in Neurology were reviewed. This is both a nerve conduction study and an EMG. Both components are noted to be normal with no evidence of ulnar nerve dysfunction.

Operative report:
An operative report was authored by Dr. Sagerman with a preoperative diagnosis of right cubital tunnel syndrome and right ulnar nerve injury at the forearm. Dr. Biafora assisted with the procedure. The procedure was a right cubital tunnel release and right ulnar neurolysis of the forearm. The patient underwent a standard cubital tunnel release with no documented gross abnormalities noted except "the nerve was mobilized from adhesions". A longitudinal incision was made over the ulnar aspect of the mid forearm. He was noted to have some retained suture material that was removed (interesting as per the ER note, he had Vicryl placed which usually dissolves over 3 months). The muscle fibers were found to be in continuity. The ulnar nerve was exposed in its normal position. The nerve was dissected proximally and distally and was completely intact with no visible scarring or adhesions.

Depositions:
I reviewed the discovery deposition of Marcus Talerico taken on October 16, 2013. It should be noted that on page #10, when asked about the physical examination, Dr. Talerico states it was basically a normal exam except for the fact that he has a well-healed laceration in the area of the forearm where the chainsaw hit him. He had some apparent muscle incongruity meaning some scarring of the muscle belly level deep to the skin. He had no tenderness to palpation in the forearm. He has intact strength with normal wrist flexion and extension strength with normal grip strength and normal intrinsic strength. He had a negative Froment's sign. He has a positive Wartenberg's sign documented on page 12. Dr. Talerico states that a Wartenberg's sign is an objective test. On page #13, Dr. Talerico states that he had a healed laceration in the forearm with no appreciable nerve, tendon or artery injury. He had some scarring and he suggested he do therapy. He felt that he might have had a superficial sensory complaint given the history. On page 17, Dr. Talerico did not feel he was suffering from any type of disability. He felt he had some scarring in the forearm and he had a lot of complaints, but Dr. Talerico did not feel he had any real objective findings that he could come up with a diagnosis that he could treat. Dr. Talerico states on page #19 that he felt that he had a laceration to the muscle belly of his forearm that healed and he did not have any objective weakness or real abnormalities other than his subjective complaints of shooting, burning pain in the forearm area.

Dr. Karen Levin's, deposition taken on October 1, 2013 was reviewed. It would appear that she is a neurologist. On page 12, Dr. Levin outlines the subjective numbness that he had to touch. On page 24, Dr. Levin states that cutting the nerve can cause permanent numbness. On page 32, Dr. Levin states that the MRI of the forearm was negative. She states "I don't know why the patient has continued symptoms, not sure why he bends his little finger. Things get worse with pain in the entire arm. I suggested he get a third opinion with Dr. Scott Sagerman." On page 46. Dr. Levin states that she was confused on August 14, 2013. She did not know why he was still having these dystonia symptoms. He was placed back on Gabapentin and sent back to the hand surgeon.

The deposition of Dr. Ford taken on November 20, 2013 was reviewed. Dr. Ford is an emergency department physician.

I reviewed the deposition of Dr. Scott Sagerman taken on October 15, 2013. Dr. Sagerman states on page 39 that Mr. Dahlberg has some scarring of the ulnar nerve to the floor of the cubital tunnel and local constriction at the flexor pronator aponeurosis. This relates to his cubital tunnel syndrome. On page 41, Dr. Sagerman states that the laceration from the chain saw was "relatively deep - below the skin, below the fat, and into the muscle covering "but the muscle fibers were intact. There was suture material, presumably from where the laceration was originally repaired at the time of the injury. The nerve was not cut or visibly scarred in that area". Dr. Sagerman opined on page 41 that the scarring from the laceration would account for his symptoms, but fortunately the nerve itself was not cut.

I reviewed the deposition of Dr. Kathy Kujawa performed on July 23, 2014. She is a neurologist with an apparent specialty in movement disorders. Dr. Kujawa states on page 18 that after the injury she felt the brain is trying to rewire itself. Not only is the brain trying to rewire itself, the nerves are trying to regrow. Any nerves can regrow, but very slowly. Unfortunately, a lot of times the connections made are incorrect to the wrong muscle and to the wrong place. "So the man may say voluntary I want to squeeze my hand and the wrong muscle contracts, if they can contract at all." She felt these were permanent deficits.

I reviewed the deposition of Mr. Dulberg performed on January 24, 2013. was self employed

DISCUSSION: Mr. Dulberg is a 46-year-old right-hand dominant unemployed, graphic designer who on June 28, 2011 sustained a laceration to the ulnar aspect of his right midforearm. He was seen in the emergency room where the laceration was cleaned and sutured. He had 3-0 Vicryl sutures and 11 Prolene sutures in the skin. After the injury, he saw his primary care physician, followed by multiple hand surgeons. He initially saw Dr. Talerico who felt that his symptoms were not substantiated by his physical examination. He had two sets of nerve conduction studies with the second set including an EMG component, which were negative for any ulnar nerve injury. Dr. Talerico did not feel any surgery would be helpful. He had an MRI with and without IV contrast of his right forearm, which showed no gross abnormalities. Ultimately he saw Dr. Sagerman for another opinion who, after no benefit with further occupational therapy, performed a cubital tunnel release and explored his ulnar nerve in his mid forearm. He did find some adhesions in the cubital tunnel, which Dr. Sagerman opined is what one sees in cubital tunnel syndrome. As to the area of the forearm laceration, the muscle belly was noted to be intact and there was noted to be no injury, nor scar around the ulnar nerve. Mr. Dulberg had previously had his contralateral cubital tunnel release performed multiple years prior after a MVA. Mr. Dulberg currently has multiple symptoms that I cannot substantiate based on his physical examination or the medical records. His primary problem is that he describes cramps in his forearm. He states these occur at rest and with activities multiple times a day and are significantly exacerbated by activities. Despite seeing him and personally interacting with him for over an hour in the office today and having him perform multiple activities including squeezing a Jamar dynamometer at least six times on either side, I could not elicit any cramping or spasms in his forearm. Additionally, he had multiple red flags for symptom magnification, including shaking and weakness with abduction and adduction of his fingers, which waxed and waned. He could only actively flex his small finger to his palm; however, passively I could flex his small finger easily and pain-free to his palm, which he could then maintain, as well as after multiple flexion and extension movements of his fingers, he was able to flex his small finger to his palm actively. He describes weakness in his hand and states that he can't type or perform most activities. His examination showed that his grip strength on the right was between 80, 85, and 98 pounds, with no pain in his forearm and no spasming or cramps. His scar was not sensitive or tender and he demonstrated no irregularity in the area. The cross sectional area of his wrist, his mid forearm, and his proximal forearm were symmetric, which would not be the case had he injured the muscle, or nerve and if he was not using his arm normally.

I do feel that Mr. Dulberg sustained a laceration to the right forearm, which did not involve the muscle belly or the ulnar nerve, as proven on MRI, nerve studies and operative exploration. I do not feel that his current symptoms are supported by his physical examination. A laceration as described would not cause focal dystonic signs based on the fact that it did not involve any motor nerve fibers or muscle fibers.

Summary:
I believe that Mr. Dulberg sustained a forearm laceration involving the right mid forearm in the injury on June 28, 2011. This required emergency room care with irrigation and suture. Thereafter, he has developed multiple symptoms, which I cannot base on local anatomy or structural pathology in his right forearm. He has focal dystonic symptoms, which I disagree with Dr. Kujawa, as are not related to any structural abnormalities in his arm. As documented on his nerve studies his motor and sensory nerves were intact in the entire forearm. His muscle belly was intact as proven on MRI as well as seen at the time of surgery. Multiple physicians had stated that the muscle belly and/or sensory nerve branches has caused his problems, but in fact his muscle belly was never violated at the time of the injury as proven by the MRI and found at the surgery performed by Dr. Sagerman. Additionally, his ulnar nerve was found not to be injured by the chainsaw, also based on 2 sets of nerve studies and operative exploration. I believe the reason the providers made the statements above is because there was no structural cause for his symptoms. Obviously, Mr. Dulberg did have a peripheral superficial sensory nerve laceration, based on the fact that he had a laceration just as any laceration or surgery would violate the superficial sensory nerves to the skin. These would heal and stabilize, which they have based on his examination today. On his current examination, he demonstrates no evidence or muscle or nerve dysfunction around the laceration area and no evidence of any residual sensory dysfunction.

I believe that medical treatment that he received was necessitated by the accident. Subsequent treatment has been based on the temporal relationship between his symptoms and the injury, yet he currently has obvious nonorganic findings. He relates the focal dystonia to the accident; however, from a structural standpoint his focal dystonic symptoms have nothing to do with his structure in his forearm. Nothing in his forearm could account for his symptoms.

As to any preexisting medical problems, Mr. Dulberg's has a history of prior left cubital tunnel syndrome, which has been attributed to a motor vehicle accident. He developed cubital tunnel syndrome on the right side after a forearm laceration, distant to the cubital tunnel. He does have a strong smoking history. Chronic smoking has been associated with nerve pathology, diminished capacity for nerves to heal and increased risk of nerve irritation.

1. What if any disability relates to the accident?

   I feel Mr. Dulberg was debilitated for four to six weeks after the accident. After the laceration had healed, his symptoms began to be nonorganic, as described by Dr. Talerico in his deposition

2. What if any permanency is related to the accident?

   At the present time from a structural standpoint, Mr. Dulberg has no structural deficit in his right upper extremity. He has no structural cause in his right arm that is causing him any dysfunction. The described focal dystonic symptoms are not due to any structural pathology within his upper extremity.

7. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was under the supervision and control of Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was working as their apparent and actual agent, and was then acting and working in the scope of his agency for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE.

8. On June 28, 2011, and while the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was working in the course and scope of his agency for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was under their supervision and control, Defendant, DAVID GAGNON was in use of a chainsaw while trimming a tree and branch.

9. On June 28, 2011, and while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was in use of a chainsaw while trimming a tree and branch, Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, asked for and/or requested the assistance of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, to hold the tree branch while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, trimmed the branch with the chainsaw.

CROSS-CLAIM FOR CONTRIBUTION AGAINTS CO-DEFENDANT DAVID GAGNON

The Defendants, BILL McGUIRE and CAROLYN McGUIRE, by and through their attorneys, Cicero, France, Barch & Alexander, PC, and for their cross-claim for counterclaim for contribution against Defendant David Gagnon, state as follows:

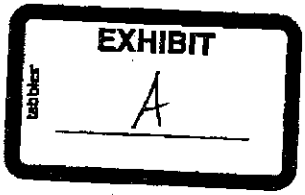
1. Plaintiff PAUL DULBERG has filed a two-count complaint against Defendants David Gagnon, Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire seeking damages for injuries he attributes to a chainsaw incident that purportedly occurred on June 28, 2011in the County of McHenry, State of Illinois.

2. The chainsaw incident set forth in Plaintiff's Complaint purportedly occurred on a residential parcel owned by Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire.

3. Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire were not present in the vicinity of the chainsaw incident when it occurred.

4. At the time of the alleged chainsaw incident, Plaintiff PAUL DULBERG was assisting Defendant David Gagnon as Defendant Gagnon was cutting and trimming trees and branches with a chainsaw.

5. At said time and place, Defendant David Gagnon owed a duty to exercise reasonable care at all times to avoid causing injury and property damages to others.



6. On the date and in the location set forth in Plaintiff's Complaint, the chainsaw being then and there operated by Defendant David Gagnon made contact with the right arm of Plaintiff PAUL DULBERG.

7. At the time and place alleged, notwithstanding his aforementioned duty, Defendant David Gagnon was then and there guilty of one or more of the following negligent acts and/or omissions:

a. Caused or permitted a chainsaw to make contact with Plaintiff's right arm;

b. Failed to operate said chainsaw in a safe and reasonable manner so as to avoid injuring Plaintiff's right arm;

c. Failed to maintain a reasonable and safe distance between the chainsaw he was operating and Plaintiff's right arm;

d. Failed to properly instruct Plaintiff prior to approaching him with an operating chainsaw;

e. Failed to properly warn Plaintiff prior to approaching him with an operating chainsaw;

f. Failed to maintain the chainsaw in the idle or off position when he knew or should have known that Plaintiff was close enough to sustain injury from direct contact with the subject chainsaw;

g. Failed to maintain a proper lookout for Plaintiff while operating the subject chainsaw;

h. Failed to maintain proper control over an operating chainsaw;

i. Was otherwise negligent in the operation and control of the subject chainsaw.

8. That the injuries alleged by Plaintiff PAUL DULBER, if any, were the direct and proximate result of negligence on the part of Defendant David Gagnon.

9. By virtue of those aforesaid actions, Defendant David Gagnon is a joint tortfeasor within the meaning of the Illinois Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors Act (740 ILCS 100/0.01, et seq.) which was in full force and effect on the date of the occurrence and, as such, the State of Illinois recognizes the right of contribution among joint tortfeasors.

9. Should the Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire be found liable for the injuries to Plaintiff PAUL DULBERG, Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire are entitled to contribution from Defendant David Gagnon for that portion of the total recoveries, if any, by Plaintiff PAUL DULBERG that the Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire are required to pay in excess of their pro rata share of the liability pursuant to the aforesaid Illinois Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors Act.

WHEREFORE, the Defendants, BILL McGUIRE and CAROLYN McGUIRE, demand judgment in their favor and against Defendant David Gagnon for any and all sums for which Defendants BILL McGUIRE and CAROLYN McGUIRE may be held liable to Plaintiff PAUL DULBERG, in excess of their pro rata share.

Defendants Hereby Demand A Trial By Jury

DEFENDANTS' AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

The Defendants, BILL McGUIRE and CAROLYN McGUIRE, by and through their attorneys, Cicero, France, Barch & Alexander, PC, and for their Affirmative Defense to Count II of Plaintiff's Complaint, state as follows:

1. That on the date and at the place alleged in the Plaintiff's Complaint, the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, was guilty of negligence by failing to exercise due care and caution for his own safety, in that he:

a. Failed to use due care and caution as he assisted Defendant David Gagnon during the trimming and cutting of trees and branches.

b. Failed to use due care and caution as he assisted Defendant David Gagnon during the trimming and cutting of trees and branches when he knew and appreciated the dangers associated with chainsaw usage.

c. Was inattentive and unobservant to surrounding conditions and dangers as he assisted Defendant David Gagnon during the trimming and cutting of trees and branches.

d. Notwithstanding a reasonable opportunity to do so, failed to maintain a safe distance between himself and an operating chainsaw.

e. Was otherwise careless and negligent as will be demonstrated by the evidence at trial.

2. That by reason of the aforesaid negligence of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, and as a direct and proximate result thereof, the Plaintiff sustained the damages claimed.

3. That pursuant to the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure, Section 5/2-613(d) and Section 5/2-1116, the Complaint of PAUL DULBERG should be dismissed in that the contributory fault on the part of the Plaintiff was more than 50 percent and, therefore, PAUL DULBERG's Complaint is barred.

4. Or, in the alternative, that any verdict against the Defendants, BILL McGUIRE and CAROLYN McGUIRE, should be reduced in direct proportion to the percentage of PAUL DULBERG's contributory negligence causing his claimed injuries.

WHEREFORE, the Defendants, BILL McGUIRE and CAROLYN McGUIRE, moves this Court for an Order dismissing Count I of Plaintiff's Complaint, costs being assessed to the Plaintiff.

MOTION FOR GOOD FAITH FINDING AND FOR ORDER OF DISMISSAL WITH PREJUDICE BY DEFENDANTS BILL McGUIRE AND CAROLYN McGUIRE

Defendants, BILL McGUIRE (aka William McGuire) and CAROLYN McGUIRE (improperly named Caroline), by and through their attorneys, Cicero, France, Barch & Alexander, P.C., hereby move this Court to dismiss all claims against them with prejudice and further request this Court to find that the settlement set forth in this motion was made in good faith and within the meaning and contemplation of the Illinois Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors Act, 740 ILCS 100/1, et seq. In support of their Motion, Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire state as follows:

1. On or about March 15, 2012, Plaintiff Paul Dulberg filed a multiple count complaint seeking damages for personal injuries he generally attributes to a chain saw incident that occurred on or about June 28, 2011, at and upon the premises owned by Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire, known commonly as 1016 West Elder Avenue, City of McHenry, County of McHenry, State of Illinois.

2. Plaintiff generally alleges that Defendant David Gagnon injured him with a chain saw while working under the supervision and control of Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire. Defendant David Gagnon denies any and all liability for Plaintiff Paul Dulberg's injuries. Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire also deny any and all liability for Plaintiff Paul Dulberg's injuries and further deny that Defendant David Gagnon was under their control and supervision and working or acting as their employee or agent at the time of the alleged chain saw incident.

3. On February 1, 2013, Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire filed a cross-claim for contribution against Defendant David Gagnon. The cross-claim for contribution seeks contribution from Defendant David Gagnon for injuries claimed by Plaintiff Paul Dulberg and is based upon the terms and provisions of the Illinois Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors Act, 740 ILCS 100/1, et seq.

4. Plaintiff Paul Dulberg and Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire have negotiated a settlement of all claims which Plaintiff brought or could have brought against Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire. The settlement was negotiated at arm's length over a substantial period of time, and with the advice of counsel on the part of both parties. There is no collusion or fraud on the part of any of the parties to the negotiation.

5. Pursuant to Section 100/2(c) of the Contribution Act, an alleged tortfeasor that settles with a claimant in good faith shall be discharged from liability for contribution to any other tortfeasors.

6. Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire deny and continue to deny liability to Plaintiff Paul Dulberg and further contest the nature and scope of the injuries Plaintiff Paul Dulberg attributes to the subject chain saw incident.

7. The lump-sum payment of $5,000.00 to Plaintiff Paul Dulberg by or on behalf of Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire constitutes adequate consideration for purposes of a good faith settlement under Section 100/2(c) of the Contribution Act.

8. Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire respectfully suggest that the settlement with Plaintiff Paul Dulberg is and was made in good faith within the meaning of the Illinois Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors Act, 740 ILCS 100/2(c).

WHEREFORE, the Defendants, BILL McGUIRE and CAROLYN McGUIRE, respectfully pray for the Court as follows:

(1) For an Order declaring that the settlement between Plaintiff Paul Dulberg and Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire was made and entered into in good faith within the meaning of the Illinois Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors Act, 740 ILCS 100/1, et seq.;

(2) For an Order dismissing all civil complaints, cross-claims, counterclaims and contribution claims currently pending against Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire, and arising out of or otherwise connected to the injuries claimed by Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, with prejudice;

(3) For an Order declaring that any potential future claims against Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire, including, without limitation, claims for contribution arising out of or otherwise connected to the chain saw incident and injuries claimed by Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, are barred;

(4) For an Order declaring for purposes of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 304(a) that there is no just reason to delay enforcement or appeal of the Dismissal Order; and

(5) That this Court enter an order granting such further relief as this Court deems just.

McGUIRE DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO VACATE PROTECTIVE ORDER

Defendants, CAROLYN McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, by their attorneys, Cicero, France, Barch & Alexander, PC, herby move this Court to vacate the Protective Order entered on August 8, 2012 and modified on April 3, 2013. In further support of the Motion, Defendants Carolyn and Bill McGuire state as follows:

1. On or about May 5, 2012, the Plaintiff, Paul Dulberg, filed a multiple count complaint alleging he suffered injuries as a result of negligence on the parts of David Gagnon, Carolyn McGuire and Bill McGuire. In general, Plaintiff alleges he sustained severe and permanent injuries when a chain saw being operated by David Gagnon made contact with his arm.

2. On July 31, 2012, Plaintiff filed a Motion for Protective Order wherein he alleged that Plaintiff's counsel (Attorney Hans Mast) wanted an opportunity to photograph and inspect the subject "chain saw" and any parts, accessories and manual/paperwork pertaining to the saw. In his prayer for relief, Plaintiff requested a protective order declaring the "saw and its parts and accessories and paperwork/manual be preserved and protected without destruction or loss until further order of this court." A copy of Plaintiff's Motion for Protective Order is attached as "Exhibit A."

3. On August 8, 2012, the Court granted Plaintiff's Motion for Protective Order. A copy of the Court's order of August 8, 2012 is attached as "Exhibit B."

4. On March 20, 2013, the depositions of Carolyn McGuire and Bill McGuire proceeded with counsel for Plaintiff (Attorney Hans Mast) and counsel for Co-Defendant (Attorney Perry Accardo) present. Prior to the start of the depositions the "chain saw" allegedly involved in the injury to Plaintiff was presented for inspection and photographing. Plaintiff's counsel photographed the chain saw and also photographed the Owner's Manual.

5. On April 3, 2013, the Court's protective order was modified to allow the owners to utilize the chain saw and Owner's Manual in the ordinary course. The protective order further directed that the owners shall not sell or discard the chain saw, parts, accessories and associated paperwork without further order of the court. A copy of the Amended Protective Order dated April 3, 2013 is attached as "Exhibit C."

6. Subsequent to the entry of the amended protective order the Plaintiff reached a settlement agreement with Carolyn McGuire and Bill McGuire as to all matters in controversy, whereupon the negligence claims and contribution claims against them were dismissed with prejudice. A copy of the Good Faith Finding and Order of Dismissal entered on January 22, 2014 is attached as "Exhibit D."

7. With the claims against Carolyn McGuire and Bill McGuire fully resolved, counsel for the McGuires issued a letter to Attorney Mast and Attorney Accardo seeking an agreement to have the pending protective order vacated. A copy of the February 12, 2014, letter to counsel is attached as "Exhibit E."

8. During a chance meeting in the Winnebago County Courthouse shortly after the February 12 letter issued, Attorney Accardo advised informally that he had no objection to vacating the protective order. Counsel for the McGuires has not heard from Attorney Mast.

9. Counsel for Plaintiff and Counsel for Defendant Gagnon have both had an opportunity to photograph and inspect the subject chain saw. In addition, both attorneys have copies of the Owner's Manual associated with the subject chain saw.

10. The subject chain saw was brand new on the date of Plaintiff's claimed injury and Plaintiff does not allege or claim that he was injured due to a manufacturing defect associated with the subject chain saw.

11. No prejudice will result to Plaintiff or Defendant Gagnon should this Court vacate the Amended Protective Order.

12. No just reason exists to delay the McGuires' request to vacate the Amended Protective Order.

WHEREFORE, the Defendants, Carolyn McGuire and Bill McGuire, respectfully pray this court to vacate the Amended Protective Order dated April 3, 2013.

Case: Paul Dulberg v. David Gagnon, Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire
(McHenry County Case No. 12 LA 178)

Dear Counsel:

With my departure from the case I feel compelled to address the subject of the chain saw that was involved in Mr. Dulberg's injury. Early on in the case a protective order was entered which prohibited Mr. and Mrs. McGuire from destroying or otherwise disposing of the chain saw and any associated documentation. The primary purpose behind the order of protection was to preserve the chainsaw and associated documentation until such time that Plaintiff's counsel could inspect and photographs same.

On March 20, 2013, the chain saw and owner's manual were made available for inspection and photographing. Plaintiff's counsel inspected and photographed the chainsaw. Plaintiff's counsel also secured a photocopy of the owner's manual.

On April 3, 2013, the protective order was modified to allow the Plaintiffs to use the subject chainsaw, owner's manual and associated paperwork in the ordinary course. The order further provides, however, that the owners may not destroy, dispose of, or sell the items without further order of the court.

Given the above, I am concerned about the possibility of a spoliation claim in the event the McGuires destroy, dispose of, or otherwise sell the chainsaw following my departure from the case. Please advise in writing whether you believe there is any reason to maintain the protective order as it currently exists. If not, I believe it makes sense to have the April 3, 2013 version of the protective order vacated.

I look forward to hearing from both of you at your earliest convenience.

Very truly yours,

RONALD A. BARCH

Dear Loyal Friend : PAUL DULBERG

Thank you for inquiring about your Prescription records. Our research for records is conducted with your first and last name and complete date of birth. Social Security numbers are not used by Walgreens for retrieving Pharmacy records.

In processing your record request, we have carefully scrutinized two separate computer systems to locate both the past and current prescription items purchased in our Pharmacies or through our Mail Order Facility. The records we have enclosed represent a thorough search of all records available, pursuant to retention policies and periods assigned by the state in which you filled your prescriptions.

In some instances, we have been unable to find record of prescriptions filled. If you did not receive records with this letter, please check the enclosed information to confirm your name and date of birth were provided to us correctly. If they are not correct, please advise us and we will be happy to conduct a new search. It would be most helpful in locating your records if you would please provide us with as much of the following information as possible:

your first and last names, including a/k/a's, nicknames, maiden names, or other names you may have used to fill prescriptions; any of your past address information (particularly city and state);
current address, telephone number and date of birth;
location of the Store(s) in which you filled prescriptions (street name, city, state); current and past telephone numbers, including area codes; and a copy of any bottle, labels, or receipts you may have kept from the past.

Please submit this information in writing to us at the address listed below.

So you are aware, the law requires us to retain your prescription records for a minimum of only two years, in some states. As a courtesy to faithful customers like you, we maintain your prescription records for at least 10 years to better service your needs. If there is anything further we can do for you, please feel free to contact us, and thank you again for entrusting us with servicing a portion of your medical needs.

Sincerely yours,

Corporate Custodian of Records

9. State the name and address of each witness that knows or claims to know the circumstances of the alleged accident, how it occurred or how the Plaintiff became injured – as alleged in the Complaint.

ANSWER: On information and belief, David Gagnon and Paul Dulberg were present at the time of the alleged occurrence and therefore know the circumstances surrounding the occurrence. Answering further, Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire were not present at the time of the occurrence but knew that David Gagnon and Paul Dulberg were present on the date of the occurrence. From conversations with David Gagnon, the answering Defendants believe that Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg had been cutting logs and tree branches into smaller sections without incident. While in the process of cutting tree branches Paul Dulberg unexpectedly and without warning moved his right arm directly in the path of the running chain saw. Investigation continues.

10. With respect to the chain saw that was being operated on the premises at the time of the alleged injury, state as follows:

a. Who was operating the chain saw at the time of the Plaintiff's alleged injury;

b. Who owned the chain saw at the time of Plaintiff's alleged injury;

c. who requested that the chain saw be used to perform work at the time of Plaintiff's injury.

ANSWER:

a. On information and belief, David Gagnon was operating the chain saw at the time Mr. Dulberg was injured.

b. Bill McGuire was the owner of the chain saw on the date of the occurrence.

c. David Gagnon had Bill McGuire's permission to use the chain saw.

11. With respect to David Gagnon's experience in use of a chain saw prior to the date of the alleged accident, state as follows:

a. How many times had David Gagnon operated the same or similar chain saw prior to the date of alleged accident;

b. What formal training did David Gagnon receive in use or operation of a chain saw prior to the occurrence alleged;

c. Who, if any, (names and addresses) trained David Gagnon in use or operation of a chain saw prior to the occurrence.

ANSWER:

a. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, and to the best of the answering parties' knowledge, David Gagnon has used chain saws in the past but the answering parties do not known how often he has used chain saws in the past.

b. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, the answering parties do not know whether David Gagnon has been formally trained the use or operation of a chain saw. Answering further, the answering parties are aware that Mr. Gagnon has used chain saws many times in the past and he appears/appeared to know what he is doing.

#12 – Paul ~~Lebeck~~ Mr. Chas. Jr. accepted & Mr. Davis approved because they drew it. Mr. Davis had to do with it.

Mr. Ludwig was not present. Dr. & Mrs. Mann many times. Mr. Ludwig was acquainted in any big outing. The only one was of Mr. Ludwig would have to ~~have~~ move over the water of the Chain saw.

#13 – True Lee [illegible] [illegible] this answer for explanation

c. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, the answering party do now know whether or by whom David Gagnon was trained in the use of chain saws. Answering further, the answering parties are aware that Mr. Gagnon has used chain saws many times in the past and he appears/appeared to know what he is doing.

12. What was the scope of work or task David Gagnon was engaged in with use of the chain saw at or about the time of the alleged accident.

ANSWER:

To the extent "scope of work" or "engaged" constitute legal conclusions, the answering Defendants object to Interrogatory No. 12. Answering subject to objection, at the time of the alleged occurrence, the answering Defendants were in the process of replacing an old shed on their property. Paul Dulberg helped David Gagnon tear down the old shed. The answering Defendants further believe that Mr. Dulberg took the components of the old shed to his property for eventual reassembly. On the date of the occurrence, Mr. Dulberg was helping David Gagnon take down several trees to make room for a new shed. On information and belief, prior to the occurrence Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg had been cutting logs and tree branches into smaller sections without incident. While in the process of cutting tree branches Paul Dulberg unexpectedly and without warning moved his right arm directly in the path of the running chain saw. Answering further, the answering Defendants did not engage, hire or pay either individual for their activities on site. Nor did either answering Defendant dictate, control or otherwise supervise the methods and means by which Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg performed the tree and branch cutting at issue.

13. Who (names and addresses) requested or chose to engage Gagnon in the "task" of use and operation of the chain saw at or about the time of the alleged accident.

ANSWER:

To the extent the words "chose" and "engage" constitute legal conclusions, the answering Defendants object to Interrogatory No. 13. Answering subject to objection, David Gagnon undertook the tree cutting and trimming in question as a favor to his parents. He was not engaged, hired or paid for the activities in question.

14. What instructions or guidance, if any, was given to Gagnon prior to Plaintiff's alleged injury/accident with regard to how he was to perform the chain saw work at the premises.

ANSWER: See response to Interrogatory No. 11.

RE: Paul Dulberg

Dear Mr. Mast,

Mr. Dulberg was previously seen by my associate, Dr. Mitchell Grobman, in 2002 for left ulnar neuropathy, and had surgery and essentially became asymptomatic by 2007 and who had never had difficulty in his right arm. Approximately a month prior to the evaluation, he had been holding a branch for a neighbor when the chainsaw came up and cut his right forearm. He was taken to Northern Illinois Medical Center where they put in inner stitches in the muscle and outer stitches. He originally had very significant pain, but as the pain was getting better, he started noticing that he had numbness in his fifth digit in the inner aspect of his forearm. He had not been dropping things. It was mostly just a tingling and a numb feeling. He denies ever having any right-sided symptoms or right-sided injuries. His examination was significant for a healing scar in the right forearm and for decreased light touch, pinprick, and temperature sensation in the ulnar distribution of the right arm. His strength was normal. Given the distribution, it was felt that this was a branch neuropathy to the sensory nerves. I did have him undergo nerve conductions to make sure that the median and ulnar nerves were all without involvement and they were. I recommended that he see a hand surgeon as well just to be certain that there were no other treatment options for him; however, most likely this was just a sensory branch neuropathy that may improve or may result in permanent numbness in the distribution that he was showing numbness. Mr. Dulberg should followup if any additional symptoms develop or if he wished to try any neuropathic pain treatment if it became painful and not just numb.

Sincerely,

Mr. Hans Mast

RE: Paul Dulberg

Dear Mr. Mast,

Mr. Dulberg was previously seen by my associate, Dr. Mitchell Grobman, in 2002 for left ulnar neuropathy, and had surgery and essentially became asymptomatic by 2007 and who had never had difficulty in his right arm. Approximately a month prior to the evaluation, he had been holding a branch for a neighbor when the chainsaw came up and cut his right forearm. He was taken to Northern Illinois Medical Center where they put in inner stitches in the muscle and outer stitches. He originally had very significant pain, but as the pain was getting better, he started noticing that he had numbness in his fifth digit in the inner aspect of his forearm. He had not been dropping things. It was mostly just a tingling and a numb feeling. He denies ever having any right-sided symptoms or right-sided injuries. His examination was significant for a healing scar in the right forearm and for decreased light touch, pinprick, and temperature sensation in the ulnar distribution of the right arm. His strength was normal. Given the distribution, it was felt that this was a branch neuropathy to the sensory nerves. I did have him undergo nerve conductions to make sure that the median and ulnar nerves were all without involvement and they were. I recommended that he see a hand surgeon as well just to be certain that there were no other treatment options for him; however, most likely this was just a sensory branch neuropathy that may improve or may result in permanent numbness in the distribution that he was showing numbness. Mr. Dulberg should followup if any additional symptoms develop or if he wished to try any neuropathic pain treatment if it became painful and not just numb.

Sincerely,

Karen Levin, MD (mdm)

Even @ other times he thinks the strength is bad. He said Dr. Sagerman told him in past that there was a lot of scar tissue left.
Now says he had spells like this since surgery only rarely now having it several times a day.

KAREN F. LEVIN, M.D.

July 28, 2011

Mr. Hans Mast
3416 W. Elm Street
McHenry, IL 60050

RE: Paul Dulberg

Dear Mr. Mast,

Mr. Dulberg was previously seen by my associate, Dr. Mitchell Grobman, in 2002 for left ulnar neuropathy, and had surgery and essentially became asymptomatic by 2007 and who had never had difficulty in his right arm. Approximately a month prior to the evaluation, he had been holding a branch for a neighbor when the chainsaw came up and cut his right forearm. He was taken to Northern Illinois Medical Center where they put in inner stitches in the muscle and outer stitches. He originally had very significant pain, but as the pain was getting better, he started noticing that he had numbness in his fifth digit in the inner aspect of his forearm. He had not been dropping things. It was mostly just a tingling and a numb feeling. He denies ever having any right-sided symptoms or right-sided injuries. His examination was significant for a healing scar in the right forearm and for decreased light touch, pinprick, and temperature sensation in the ulnar distribution of the right arm. His strength was normal. Given the distribution, it was felt that this was a branch neuropathy to the sensory nerves. I did have him undergo nerve conductions to make sure that the median and ulnar nerves were all without involvement and they were. I recommended that he see a hand surgeon as well just to be certain that there were no other treatment options for him; however, most likely this was just a sensory branch neuropathy that may improve or may result in permanent numbness in the distribution that he was showing numbness. Mr. Dulberg should followup if any additional symptoms develop or if he wished to try any neuropathic pain treatment if it became painful and not just numb.

Sincerely,

Karen Levin, MD (mdm)

PATIENT: DULBERG, PAUL
MRN: 1585839

DOB: 03/19/1970

PHYSICIAN: LEVIN, MD, KAREN
EXAM: MR FOREARM W/ AND W/O 73220
DOS: 02/03/2012

EXAMINATION: MRI examination of the right forearm without and with intravenous contrast infusion..

CLINICAL HISTORY: History of right forearm trauma with a chainsaw. Possible neuroma, nerve impingement or injury in the forearm. Possible tendon disruption. It appears that the patient had some difficulty holding still during image acquisition. There is motion artifact on this examination. Weakness in the fourth and fifth fingers. Pain in the forearm and hand.

TECHNIQUE: Multiplanar T1 and T2-weighted spin-echo pulse sequences and STIR sequence. Post-infusion multiplanar T1-weighted sequences were performed. A skin marker was taped to the point of maximal symptoms.

Contrast: 15 cc of gadolinium was infused.

FINDINGS: There is no bone abnormality seen. The bone marrow signal characteristics are normal.

There is no cystic or solid mass appreciated. The visualized muscles have normal signal characteristics.

There is no abnormal soft tissue infiltration or induration. Specifically, in the area of the skin marker which is marking the point of maximal symptoms, there is no soft tissue abnormality appreciated.

There is no abnormality identified along the course of the ulnar nerve in the forearm.

IMPRESSION: There is no forearm abnormality appreciated. This does not exclude the possibility of an ulnar nerve impingement or injury but there is no gross mass or abnormal infiltration along the expected course of the ulnar nerve. No obvious tendon or muscle abnormality appreciated at this time.

KAREN F. LEVIN, M.D.

Mr. Hans Mast
3416 W. Elm Street
McHenry, IL 60050

RE: Paul Dulberg

Dear Mr. Mast,

Mr. Dulberg was previously seen by my associate, Dr. Mitchell Grobman, in 2002 for left ulnar neuropathy, and had surgery and essentially became asymptomatic by 2007 and who had never had difficulty in his right arm. Approximately a month prior to the evaluation, he had been holding a branch for a neighbor when the chainsaw came up and cut his right forearm. He was taken to Northern Illinois Medical Center where they put in inner stitches in the muscle and outer stitches. He originally had very significant pain, but as the pain was getting better, he started noticing that he had numbness in his fifth digit in the inner aspect of his forearm. He had not been dropping things. It was mostly just a tingling and a numb feeling. He denies ever having any right-sided symptoms or right-sided injuries. His examination was significant for a healing scar in the right forearm and for decreased light touch, pinprick, and temperature sensation in the ulnar distribution of the right arm. His strength was normal. Given the distribution, it was felt that this was a branch neuropathy to the sensory nerves. I did have him undergo nerve conductions to make sure that the median and ulnar nerves were all without involvement and they were. I recommended that he see a hand surgeon as well just to be certain that there were no other treatment options for him; however, most likely this was just a sensory branch neuropathy that may improve or may result in permanent numbness in the distribution that he was showing numbness. Mr. Dulberg should followup if any additional symptoms develop or if he wished to try any neuropathic pain treatment if it became painful and not just numb.

Sincerely,

Karen Levin, MD (mdm)

Thanks for the call Brad. I wish you luck on this one. I recall that we have a case from a former client of yours Mr. Frank Cavanaugh. His case is a bit complicated as well. Do you want to just have a mutual agreement that our fee will be waived for Dolberg and your fee will be waived for Cavanaugh. Please advise.

As to our costs, it is understood that our costs will be fully reimbursed at the time of any settlement or recovery but that at this point prior to settlement you will pay us approx 50% of our costs which equals $1,500 (I will confirm the exact number shortly)

Please confirm.

PROPERTY DAMAGE--WELDING ALLEGEDLY SPARKS NEW YEAR'S EVE WAREHOUSE FIRE

(GGG 28/4) Higgins Brothers Inc., Illinois Emcasco Insurance Co. as subrogee of Higgins Brothers Inc. v Associated Services Inc. 12L-12341 Tried Mar. 4-10, 2015 (16P)

Verdict: Not Guilty

Judge: Thomas V. Lyons, II (IL Cook-Law)

Pltf Attys: Steven R. Johnson and Matthew T. Andris of Langhenry, Gillen (Wheaton) for both pltfs Demand: $1,000,000 Asked: $1,076,270

Deft Attys: Daniel G. Suber and Thomas J. Olson of Daniel G. Suber & Associates (Grange Mutual Ins.) Offer: $50,000

Pltf Expert: Joseph Mazzone (Fire Cause/Origin) for both pltfs

Deft Expert: David DeVries (Fire Protection)

On December 31, 2011, a fire broke out at the Higgins Brothers warehouse located at 1428 W. 37th St. in Chicago's Back of the Yards neighborhood. The Chicago Fire Department's Office of Fire Prevention investigated the cause of the fire, and determined that the point of origin was on the first floor of the warehouse where an MIG welder had been used the day before to fabricate a new filter wall for a paint spray booth operated at the warehouse facility. The welding was performed by David Suarez, the owner of deft Associated Services. Higgins Brothers and its insurer, Illinois Emcasco, sued deft to recover the cost of property damage repairs and associated expenses. Illinois Emcasco sought $662,572 paid out for damage to the building, $300,000 for business personal property, and $90,000 extra expenses, for a total of $1,052,572. Higgins sought $1,000 for its deductible on building damage, $21,465 for loss of business personal property, and $1,233 extra expenses, for a total of $23,698. The defense argued that even if a spark from the welding arc was the ignition source of the fire, the fire's actual cause and fuel source was paint overspray which had accumulated up to five inches in the rear plenum of the paint spray booth. The defense denied negligence, contended Higgins Brothers was at fault for not having sufficient clearance between the booth's chimney and the combustible wooden second floor above, and further maintained that Higgins was negligent in not having an operable sprinkler system over the paint spray booth.

TRAFFIC--CAR OWNER SUED FOR NEGLIGENT ENTRUSTMENT TO UNLICENSED DRIVER

(GGG 28/5) Ramon Weatherspoon v Pablo Velazquez, Jose Gonzalez 12L-13709 Tried Feb. 11-17, 2015 (1B)

Verdict: Not Guilty v both defts.

Judge: James M. McGing (IL Cook-Law)

Pltf Attys: Daniel M. Breen and Christopher J. Goril of Breen Goril Law Demand: $20,000

Deft Atty: Clifford M. Panek of Parrillo, Weiss for both defts (American Access) Offer: none

Pltf Medl: Dr. Alan Olefsky (Emergency Medicine)

December 9, 2011, pltf driving westbound on Lake St. in Chicago contended deft Velazquez struck his vehicle near Kilbourn Ave. while trying to pass him on his left side and crossing over into oncoming traffic, forcing pltf into a pole. Pltf M-48 claimed neck, back and shoulder soft tissue injuries ($12,339 medical expenses, $1,900 property damage). Pltf further brought a negligent entrustment claim against deft car owner Gonzalez because Velazquez did not have a driver's license. Deft M-30 landscaper Velazquez denied he changed lanes and maintained pltf hit him while coming from his right side. The defense denied pltf was injured. The jury reportedly deliberated only 20 minutes.

Re: Paul R. Dulberg
Bankruptcy Case No. 14 83578

Dear Attorney Balke:

Following up on matters we recently discussed, the Bankruptcy Estate seeks to employ you to assist the Estate in pursuing Mr. Dulberg's pending personal injury claim.

It is my understanding that you do not have a conflict of interest, and that you can represent the Bankruptcy Estate. As a caution, I enclose a copy of Debtor's list of creditors (Schedules D through F). In light of this information, if you do not have a conflict, I would be most appreciative if you would review the enclosed Affidavit of Disinterest for accuracy and completeness.

Also, please know if you are able to settle the pending personal injury claim, before any settlement can be finalized, I will need to file with the Bankruptcy Court a motion approving the Debtor's settlement, along with approval of the payment of your attorney fees and costs, and the fees to be paid to any third party. In that motion and order, we can ask that your firm's fees and costs and any third party fees paid out of the gross proceeds, with the net proceeds tendered to the Estate.

Very truly yours,

EHRMANN GEHLBACH BADGER LEE & CONSIDINE, LLC

PLAINTIFF'S PRE-TRIAL SETTLEMENT MEMORANDUM

Statement of the Case

On June 28, 2011, the Plaintiff, Paul Dulberg, was assisting friend/Defendant David Gagnon, with cutting down an evergreen tree at the home of Gagnon's parents, 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in McHenry, and as Dulberg held down onto a limb, Gagnon swiped his right forearm with the chain saw causing a deep laceration, resulting in a nerve injury.

Dulberg testified that the accident occurred when the defendant walked toward him while cutting a branch he was holding. The limb was large and part of it was resting on the ground. The defendant walked toward Dulberg with the chainsaw pointing down at a 45 degree angle. The chain was not moving. Then Paul heard the chain saw RPM's ramp up. This alerted Dulberg and he dropped the branch. Paul released the limb before the chain saw came in contact with it. The defendant came up with the saw at a 45 degree pointing up and cut Dulberg. The Defendant never made contact with the branch. David had one hand on the arm and the other on the trigger of the chainsaw. His arm and his two fingers are painful all the way through to the elbow, including the pinky, ring finger and thumb. There is a fiery burning sensation, tingling. The cold also bothers his arm. Sometimes when he is resting his arm he has pain and tingling and burning in the arm. Grabbing things and moving his arm does cause pain. Dr. Sagerman did surgery in July, 2012 to remove the scar tissue. Paul is still receiving physical therapy for his left arm. His right arm is doing better. All of Paul's fingers are affected when he grasps things. He experiences burning pain in his right arm where the scar tissue was. He was given anti-inflammatories from his doctor. He stated he tries not to use them. On his right arm, he is unable to bend his pinky all the way in. Dr. Sagerman told him that nerve damage takes a long time to heal.

Gagnon testified that Dulberg was holding the branch with his left arm and reaching to hold the branch with his right arm when Dulberg's arm was struck by the chainsaw. He admits Dulberg was reaching for the branch so that he could hold on to the lower end of the branch and keep it steady while Gagnon was cutting the limbs from the branch (suggesting Gagnon was operating the chain saw knowing Dulberg was 'repositioning" his arm - contrary to the instructions of the manual) Gagnon acknowledged in his deposition to giving a recorded statement to Plaintiff's counsel in which he described the accident as follows:

> ...we got to a branch that maybe we shouldn't have tried to cut, it was a little flimsy, so when I hit the crotch it flexed.."

See Xerox photos of chain saw, diagram of "tree," and Plaintiff's injury - attached as Group Exhibit "1."

The chain saw was owned by Gagnon's father, Bill McGuire. Gagnon had used the chainsaw the day before on his own, while trimming the trees. The chainsaw manual provides, in part, as follows:

> Chainsaw Manual:
> Basic Safety Precautions:
> Read this manual carefully until you completely understand and can follow all safety rules, precautions, and operating instructions before attempting to use the unit.
> Keep children, bystanders, and animals a minimum of 35 feet (10 meters) away from the work area. Do not allow other people or animals to be near the chain saw when starting or operating the chain saw. (Fig. 2)
> Only loan your saw to expert users who are completely familiar with saw operation and correct use. Give other users the manual with operating instructions, which they have to read before using the saw.
> Keep all parts of your body away from the saw chain when the engine is running.
> Apply the chain brake prior to any repositioning of the operator in the cutting area.
> Do not operate the chain saw with one hand! Serious injury to the operator, helpers, bystanders, or any combination of these persons may result from one-handed operation. A chain saw is intended for two-handed use.
> Always begin cutting with the engine at full speed and the saw housing against the wood.

Medical

Dr. Karen Levin, at Associated Neurology, saw Dulberg on 7/28/11 (1 month after accident) and in her report (attached as Exhibit "2") states . . . that Dulberg had no prior history on the right arm, and that as a result of the accident Dulberg suffered a cut on the right forearm requiring stitching in the muscle and outer area. When the pain diminished, there was numbness and tingling noticed in the forearm and digits. She believed Dulberg was suffering from brach neuropathy to the sensory nerves. She referred him to a hand surgeon.

Dulberg saw Dr. Marcus Talerico (Mid America) for ongoing forearm pain. His visits were December 2, 2011 and January 6, 2012. Dr. Talerico did not feel there was any significant nerve involvement and referred Dulberg for therapy.

Dulberg next saw Dr. Scott Sagerman, who testified that he first saw Dulberg on 2/27/12 with a history of a large scar on the mid forearm with pain and symptoms including muscle pain and weakness in gripping and pulling things in his forearm are related to the accident. Dulberg suffered a deep laceration to his forearm and there was some injury to those muscles and nerves which may have been causing the pain in that area. He diagnosed Dulberg with a right forearm laceration with possible ulnar nerve issues and damage. The EMG/NCV was normal. He performed a surgery to the forearm on 7/9/12 to - in part - remove scarring (and for cubital tunnel release). (Sagerman records are attached as Exhibit "3")

Dulberg next saw Dr. Kathy Kujawa for post traumatic dystonia of the right hand, and she recommended Botox injections for spasms. She believed the involuntary spasms as well as the pain that Dulberg continued to suffer was due to the nerve damage and nerve issues directly to the chainsaw accident. She felt it would be permanent and Dulberg would need expensive medical treatment to have a decent quality of life.

Plaintiff's medical expenses are itemized in the attached Medical Expense Report in the amount of $58,387.33 (Attached as Exhibit "4")

She believed the involuntary spasms as well as the pain that Dulberg continued to suffer was due to the nerve damage and nerve issues directly to the chainsaw accident. She felt it would be permanent and Dulberg would need expensive medical treatment to have a decent quality of life.

Plaintiff's medical expenses are itemized in the attached Medical Expense Report in the amount of $58,387.33 (Attached as Exhibit "4")

Re: Your File: Paul Dulberg v. David Gagnon, et al
My File: Bankruptcy Estate of Paul Dulberg; Case No. 14-82297

Dear Attorney Mast:

Thank you for the information you sent on January 23rd. At this point in time, I am unable to determine if my bankruptcy case may be an asset case. (If it might be an asset case, my Estate needs to retain you to continue the pending pi case -- assuming you can be and want to be retained.)

I received from you a list of medical bills (which bills total over $58,000.) In addition, I just received from Debtor's counsel a copy of a letter from US Phy, by which this creditor claims a medical lien.

Can you please advise:

1) What is the total amount of medical liens filed against the pending pi case? (I received a copy of a document, listing medical bills totaling $58,387.33, but I don't know if any of these bills are unpaid and, if so, if the unpaid providers timely filed a medical lien).

2) As to the medical lien apparently claimed by US Phy (via its letter of January 8, 2015 - a copy of which is attached for your ready reference) is this letter the first lien claim it made against the personal injury cause of action? If so, based upon the little research I've done, to date, I don't think this letter is sufficient to claim a lien -- post-bankruptcy filing -- on Debtor's right to recover in his pi case. (It may be that I need to file something in the bankruptcy case to cause this lien to be removed. Investigation continues.)

3) Once I know the above facts, I will need to know the potential range of recovery, and, assuming the potential recovery is large enough, if you want to be retained by the Bankruptcy Estate to continue to represent the Debtor/Estate in the pending personal injury cause of action.

I look forward to hearing from you again soon.

Very truly yours,

Dear Ms. Heeg:

I received your recent correspondence. I am currently representing Paul Dulberg for injuries he suffered when his arm was struck by a chainsaw on June 28, 2011. We are in the midst of discovery. There is no scheduled trial date. At this point, the defense is taking a "no liability" position and therefore, the chance of recovery is uncertain. I believe liability will be extremely difficult. We have calculated Paul's medical expense related to the occurrence as exceeding $60,000. To my knowledge, most of the medical expense is outstanding. However, my belief is that any eventual recovery will be much less.

I will be pursuing settlement negotiations. I am not sure at this time how this case will end up. Happy to speak with you at your convenience.

Re: Your File: Paul Dulberg v. David Gagnon, et al
My File: Bankruptcy Estate of Paul Dulberg; Case No. 14-82297

Dear Attorney Popovich:

Paul R. Dulberg filed a Chapter 7 bankruptcy petition on November 26, 2014, and I was assigned as Trustee. (A copy of the Notice of bankruptcy filing is attached for your ready reference.) As Trustee, I am duty bound to collect the Bankruptcy Estate's assets for the benefit of the Debtor's unsecured creditors.

One of the assets of Mr. Dulberg's Bankruptcy Estate is his interest in the personal injury cause of action pending in McHenry County, Illinois. Please note the Bankruptcy Estate's interest in your records.

Debtor has provided to me a copy of the Complaint, but nothing more. At this time, can you please "pull out your crystal ball" and estimate for my Estate the possible result of the pending litigation, the possible timing of its resolution, the extent of any medical liens, and the likely finally distribution to debtor? Also, if the case has sufficient worth, it may be best if the Bankruptcy Estate retains you and your firm to continue the representation (for the benefit of the Bankruptcy Estate.)

I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Very truly yours,

EHRMANN GEHLBACH BADGER LEE & CONSIDINE, LLC

SMOKING CESSATION

Smoking is the nation's leading preventable cause of death. It significantly increases the risk of coronary heart disease, stroke and cancer. In fact, more than half of all smoking related deaths in America each year are from heart disease, stroke, or other cardiovascular diseases. The good news is, that one year after quitting, the risk of heart disease is cut in half. After five to fifteen smoke-free years, the risk is that of a person who never smoked!

If you or someone you love is interested in quitting, consider joining our "Freedom From Smoking "classes for adults. Centegra Health System and the McHenry County Department of Health have partnered together to bring you an effective program that will help you quit smoking. Call 877-CENTEGRA, (877-236-8347) for more information regarding this program. To speak with a counselor immediately, call the Illinois Tobacco line at 1-866-QUIT-YES.

PAIN MANAGEMENT AFTER DISCHARGE:

A person may feel less pain just by being in familiar surroundings. Here are some frequently asked questions about your pain management:

- What can I do to help my pain management? A person's level of relaxation and their environment can affect their pain. If you are tired, over stimulated (too many visitors) are anxious about your diagnosis, or a past experience with a hospitalization, your pain perception may be impacted and your tolerance decreased. Ask questions, and inform us about any problems or concerns that you may have, re: pain. Partner with your health team for your best pain management.
- What if the medication is not working? Tell your health-care provider; physician, home health nurse, etc. You may need a different dose or type of medicaton.
- What if I feel I'm not getting enough pain control? Talk to your physician or home health nurse about it. Together you may be able to develop a plan to prevent or ease your pain. Depending on the cause of your pain, your health-care provider may suggest exercise, use of heat/cold, massage, repositioning, immobilization of the effected part, or distraction such as music or rest.
- There are other methods of pain management. Let your health-care provider assist you in finding the best one for you.

Weight management is one step to help maintain a healthy lifestyle. For certain medical problems, such as congestive heart failure, weight should be monitored daily.

YOU ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR IN YOUR RECOVERY.

Follow the above instructions carefully. Take your medicines as prescribed. Most important, see a doctor again as discussed.

If you have problems that we have not discussed, or your problem changes or gets worse, Call or visit your doctor right away. If you cannot reach your doctor, return to the Emergency Department immediately.

Centegra Health System is very concerned about your safety and well being. As part of our efforts to always provide very good care, any medications you received during this visit were reconciled with medication you are currently taking. This reconciliation was based on the information you or your representative provided regarding your current medications and allergies.

"I have received this information and my questions have been answered. I have discussed any challenges I see with this plan with the nurse or physician."

AUTHORIZATION FOR PERIPHERAL NERVE BLOCK PLACEMENT

A peripheral nerve block has been chosen by both your surgeon and anesthesiologist as a way to manage your pain after surgery. The following information outlines the type of block that has been indicated for your procedure. Your anesthesiologist, who is specially trained in performing this procedure, and is an independent practitioner and not an employee of Northwest Community Healthcare, will be placing the nerve block.

Though peripheral nerve blocks have a good safety record, all the listed blocks below have possible adverse effects of incomplete block, infection, bleeding, hematoma formation, adverse drug reaction, local anesthetic systemic toxicity, damage to nerve and/or surrounding structures. The duration of block may vary between patients and some motor and sensory deficits may last longer then expected.

Right

___ Brachial Plexus block
This is performed to reduce post operative pain in the upper extremity. Possible specific adverse effects include but are not limited to dryness or numbness of the throat/facial region, hoarseness of the voice, redness of the eye, drooping of the eye lid, shortness of breath and rarely collapsed lung.

___ Femoral, Sciatic, Popliteal nerve block(s)
This is performed to reduce post operative pain in the lower extremity. This block(s) will reduce your sensation and muscle strength in your leg. You will be required to have a leg splint on at all times when standing or walking until full feeling and muscle strength has returned, otherwise a potential injury due to fall may occur.

___ Lumbar Plexus block
This is performed to reduce post operative pain in the hip and lower extremity. Possible specific adverse effects include but are not limited to hematoma of the retroperitoneal space, spread of local Anesthetic to epidural/subarachnoid space, hypotension, possible injury due to fall.

___ Transversus Abdominis Plane Block (TAP block)
This is performed to reduce post operative pain in the abdominal area. Possible adverse effects include inadvertent needle puncture of the peritoneal space or abdominal viscera, bowel hematoma.

Other regional nerve blocks: _____

With your signature, you have acknowledged that you have been informed of risks and benefits as well as expected outcomes for the post operative nerve block chosen for you. You are also confirming that you have read and fully understand the content of this authorization.

CONSENT FOR TREATMENT [P.L.] (please initial)
I hereby consent to the administration and performance of all tests and treatments by members of the medical staff and personnel at Northwest Community Hospital, Northwest Community Day Surgery Center, and/or Northwest Community Medical Group ("NCH") which in the judgment of the physicians may be considered necessary or advisable for the diagnosis or treatment for the condition for which I am presenting myself. I understand that the practice of medicine and surgery is not an exact science and acknowledge that no guarantees have been made to me. I authorize NCH to request and receive information, including my medical record, from my treating physician(s) or agents.

DISCLOSURE STATEMENT [P.L.] (please initial)

To provide specialized services such as emergency medicine, radiology, radiation oncology, pathology and anesthesiology, NCH has entered into agreements with independent physician groups. The members of these groups are not employees or agents of NCH. My care may be managed by allied health professionals such as nurse anesthetists, physician assistants, advanced practice nurses and nurse midwives who are not employees or agents of NCH. I understand that my treating physicians may not participate in the same insurance plans as NCH, and that I will receive a separate bill for these physician services.

RELEASE OF RESPONSIBILITY FOR VALUABLES [P.L.] (please initial)

In consideration of those services, I hereby assign, transfer and convey to NCH, my treating physicians, and any ambulance providers all of my rights, title and interest in my medical insurance for medical expense reimbursement, including, but not limited to adding dependent eligibility, and to have a policy continued or issued in accordance with the terms and benefits under any insurance policy continued or issued.

I hereby authorize the NCH and any physician or other healthcare provider who may treat me to release, for the purpose of billing and collecting, any and all pertinent information contained in my medical records, including HIV, to one another and/or their billing agents, and third party payors responsible for payment of patient charges including but not limited to insurance companies, health benefit plans, employers involved in approval of benefit claims, government agencies or intermediaries representing any of the above.

PAYMENT GUARANTEE [P.D.] (please initial)
I hereby assume full responsibility for and agree to pay all costs, charges and expenses incurred by me for the medical care provided by NCH and/or my treating physicians, whether as an inpatient or outpatient, unless I qualify for financial assistance or charity care. Key Points to observe after hospital discharge:

1) Begin to take your oral pain medication when you start to have feeling in your operative limb. This will provide more effective pain relief than if you wait until the block wears off completely.

2) Start taking your home medications as directed by your family physician or surgeon.

3) You may notice a slight temperature difference between your "blocked" limb versus your other limbs. This is not unusual and is a normal occurrence for this type of anesthesia.

Upper Limb (Arm)

1) The nerve block will wear off in about 6 - 24 hours. Until then, your arm and shoulder area will be numb and weak. DO NOT lift or carry objects.

2) Limit your activities until full feeling and strength have returned to avoid injury due to altered sensation.

3) If given an arm sling, wear sling until you have feeling and muscle strength to control your arm or your surgeon tells you to remove it. This also is to prevent injury.

Lower Limb (Leg)

1) The nerve block will wear off in about 6 - 24 hours. Until then, your leg will be numb and weak. DO NOT try to bear weight on your leg or you might fall! When given a brace, wear it at all times that you are up and about, until your surgeon tells you otherwise.

2) Limit your activities until full feeling and muscle strength have returned to avoid injury due to altered sensation.

3) Use assistive devices such as crutches or a walker as ordered by your physician.

If you have redness or swelling at the injection site, metallic taste in your mouth, facial numbness or tingling, slurred speech, restlessness, or any question that is of concern please call the 847.618.7200 immediately and ask to talk to an anesthesiologist.

DSC OPERATIVE REPORT

DATE OF OPERATION: 07/09/2012

PREOPERATIVE DIAGNOSES:
1. Right cubital tunnel syndrome.
2. Right ulnar nerve injury at the forearm.

POSTOPERATIVE DIAGNOSES:
1. Right cubital tunnel syndrome.
2. Right ulnar nerve injury at the forearm.

PROCEDURES:
1. Right cubital tunnel release.
2. Right ulnar neurolysis at the forearm.

SURGEON: Scott Sagerman, MD.

ASSISTANT: Sam Biafora, MD.

COMPLICATIONS: None.

TOURNIQUET TIME: 1 hour.

FINDINGS: The right cubital tunnel showed thickening of the cubital tunnel ligament with scarring of the ulnar nerve to the floor of the cubital tunnel and local constriction. The nerve also appeared constricted at the flexor pronator aponeurosis at the distal aspect of the cubital tunnel. Also, a thick arcade of Struthers was present proximal to the cubital tunnel, though the ulnar nerve was not visibly constricted at this level.

The right forearm, the site of the previous chainsaw laceration revealed extension to the subcutaneous tissue and fascia overlying the flexor carpi ulnaris muscle. A piece of retained absorbable suture material was present. The muscle fibers were in intact. The ulnar nerve was intact beneath the muscle belly. There was no visible scarring around the ulnar nerve at this level.

DESCRIPTION OF PROCEDURE: Informed consent was obtained from the patient. Prophylactic IV antibiotic was given. He received medical clearance from his primary care physician. Regional block anesthetic was administered by the anesthesiologist in the right upper extremity. The right arm was prepped and draped sterilely. A sterile tourniquet was applied to the right upper arm, and it was elevated following exsanguination of the limb.

A longitudinal incision was made over the posteromedial aspect of the right elbow centered at the cubital tunnel. Under loupe magnification, the subcutaneous tissue was dissected. Superficial veins were ligated with bipolar cautery. A branch of the medial antebrachial cutaneous nerve was identified. This was gently retracted safely and protected. The fascia was incised proximal to the cubital tunnel, and the ulnar nerve was visualized. The cubital tunnel ligament was divided and completely released. The flexor pronator aponeurosis was also incised and released, and the nerve was dissected distally into the musculature where motor branches were identified. The release was then carried proximally, and the arcade of Struthers was divided and completely released. The ulnar nerve was inspected. The nerve was mobilized from adhesions with gentle blunt dissection. Nerve gliding was checked and found to be satisfactory. The ulnar nerve was stable at the cubital tunnel. The field was irrigated with antibiotic solution. The subcutaneous tissue was reapproximated with buried Vicryl sutures, and the skin edges were reapproximated with nylon sutures.

Attention was then directed to the forearm scar. A longitudinal incision was made over the ulnar aspect of the mid forearm centered at the site of the scar. Under loupe magnification, the subcutaneous tissue was dissected. The fascia was visualized. Superficial vein was ligated with bipolar cautery. The dermis was elevated off of the scarred fascia with blunt dissection. The retained suture material was removed. The muscle fibers were visualized and found to be in continuity. The ulnar nerve was exposed in the interval between the flexor digitorum and flexor carpi ulnaris muscle bellies. The nerve was dissected proximal and distal from the region of the laceration. The nerve was completely intact at this level with no visible scarring or adhesions. The field was irrigated with antibiotic solution. The subcutaneous tissue was reapproximated with buried Vicryl sutures, and the skin edges were reapproximated with nylon sutures.

A sterile bulky gauze dressing was applied. The tourniquet was deflated. Circulation returned to the right arm with normal capillary refill distally. The patient was transported to recovery in stable condition. He tolerated the procedure well. There were no complications. An arm sling was applied for protection.

Litigation Agreement and Acknowledgement of Financial Responsibility

This Litigation Agreement and Acknowledgement of Financial Responsibility is executed as of _____, 200__, by _____ ("Patient") residing at _____.

WHEREAS, Patient has been prescribed physical therapy for injuries that have occurred in a recent event;

WHEREAS, Patient is pursuing litigation to recover damages for such injury (the "Claim");

WHEREAS, FACILITY ("Clinic") is willing, as a courtesy to Patient, to delay collection of its fee for the physical/occupational therapy services rendered in order to allow Patient time to recover monetary compensation to cover the cost of the therapy services.

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS ACKNOWLEDGED AND AGREED THAT:

Clinic agrees to refrain from attempting to collect its fees for services rendered to the Patient which are the subject of the Claim for the period set forth herein, subject to compliance by Patient with Patient's agreements and obligations as set forth herein.

Patient acknowledges and agrees that it is their sole obligation to pay for the therapy services rendered for injuries arising from the event. Patient grants a lien on and/or assigns any settlement or judgment in which Patient receives from the Claim in an amount equal to the lesser of the charges for the therapy services rendered, or the maximum amount permitted by law. Patient further agrees to execute such further documents as necessary for Clinic to preserve its right to enforce said lien and/or assignment.

Patient agrees that if the Clinic does not receive a satisfactory payment within 365 days from the date on which the last therapy services were rendered related to the Claim, Patient will pay for the therapy services without the necessity of notice or further demand. Patient acknowledges and agrees that In the event Patient does not pay for the therapy services within 395 days from the last date that the therapy services were rendered arising from the Claim, the account will be transferred to our collection agency. Patient agrees to be responsible for any expenses incurred in collecting Patient's account, including all fees, court costs, reasonable attorney's fee, and all other collection related expenses.

By signing below Patient acknowledges that he/she has read, understands and hereby accepts the above obligations and agreements.

HEALTH CARE PROVIDER'S LIEN

Patient: _____

I have a cause of action as a result of injuries sustained by me on _____.

I desire your services as a treating therapy facility, even though I do not have the funds to personally pay for therapy services at this time.

I understand that I am directly and fully responsible to pay you for all the reasonable and necessary medical bills incurred by me for the rendering of reasonable and necessary services provided by you. This agreement is made in consideration of your continued treatment of me, awaiting payment and foregoing collection efforts.

I give a lien to you on any settlement or jury verdict that I receive as a result of my cause of action. I authorize and direct my attorney to pay directly to you such sum as may be due for services rendered to me, and to withhold such sum from my portion of any settlement or jury verdict. In the event my portion of the recovery is insufficient to cover all of the protected medical bills in my case, then I will promptly reimburse you from my portion of the recovery on an accepted basis with all of my other protected medical bills. I further understand, however, that such pro-rata payment will not be considered payment in full by me, and that I remain fully responsible to pay the balance of my medical bill, and that any personal liability is not contingent on the settlement or jury verdict which I may recover.

Patient's Signature: X Paul Lindley Date: 12-6-11

As the patient's attorney, I acknowledge the above lien. Upon final settlement or jury verdict in this case, I agree to withhold your medical fees from the client's share of any settlement or jury verdict, and forward full payment to you.

It is expressly understood that in the event the attorney-client relationship is terminated prior to resolution of the above referenced client's case, I will immediately notify you, and I will continue to use my best efforts to ensure that your fees will be protected. I will immediately notify the appropriate insurance companies and any new attorney that the case cannot be concluded without paying your fees in accordance with this lien agreement.

(SAMPLE)

Patient/Client:

Patient Account Number:

I hereby authorize FACILITY to furnish _____ Attorney at Law, with my complete medical records, including examination, treatment diagnosis and prognosis in regard to the accident in which I was involved. I understand that such authorization should be accompanied by an executed Authorization for Disclosure of Protected Health Information in the form attached hereto prior to FACILITY's release of such records.

I give irrevocable authorization to my attorney to pay directly to FACILITY all such sums due for therapy rendered to me as a result of the accident. I further grant a lien on and/or assign any settlement or judgment in which I receive from any claim(s) filed as a result of the accident in an amount equal to the lesser of the charges for the therapy services rendered, or the maximum amount permitted by law. I further agree to execute such further documents as necessary for FACILITY to preserve its right to enforce said lien and/or assignment.

I fully understand that I am directly and fully responsible to FACILITY for services rendered to me. This agreement is made solely for the purpose of affording FACILITY additional protection. I understand that payment of this obligation in full is not contingent on any settlement, judgment or verdict by which I may eventually recover such fees.

In addition, I understand and agree that payment in full on my account should be made within _____ months of this date unless other financial arrangements have been made. I understand that my account shall be forwarded to FACILITY's collection agency in the event I do not timely pay the account or make other financial arrangements. I further understand that the obligations recited herein (including the obligation to pay for services rendered) shall continue in full force and effect, and shall be binding upon me, my heirs, administrators, executors, successors, and assigns, until and unless all fees for services rendered have been paid in full.

CHART NOTES

The patient was in the office today for evaluation of left elbow. He is doing well. His arm is feeling much better. The strength in his hand has improved dramatically. He is very pleased with the results of his surgery. He does not report any paresthesias in his hand.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: The left elbow scar is stable. Range of motion is full. Sensation around the scar is decreased as expected. This should improve with time. Intrinsic strength is 5/5. Pulp-to-palm distance is 0. Sensation is intact in all distributions.

TREATMENT PLAN: He will continue home exercises as directed by the therapist. He may resume use of his left hand for activities as tolerated. He was cautioned to limit heavy lifting activities if any symptoms arise.

He did not wish to schedule a follow-up appointment. He was invited to return back to the office at his discretion if any further problems or concerns arise. Follow-up PRN. Work status is no restriction.

NEXT VISIT: PRN.

ACTIVITY/WORK STATUS: Unrestricted.

function is intact.

TREATMENT PLAN: I reviewed the operative findings. The patient's questions were answered. The need for activity restriction was explained.

He was given a therapy referral for fabrication of an elbow extension-block splint and instruction in protected range of motion exercises.

The sutures will be removed next week, and he will begin scar management after that. Follow up is three weeks. Work status is no use, wear splint.

NEXT VISIT: Three weeks.

ACTIVITY/WORK STATUS: Restricted. No use of affected hand/arm. Keep wound clean and dry. Wear splint.

CHART NOTES

The patient was in the office today for evaluation of left elbow. He is doing well. His symptoms have improved. His pain is decreased. Sensation has improved. He is participating in therapy. His progress is satisfactory.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: The left elbow scarring is stable. Range of motion is satisfactory. There is no nerve subluxation. He reports diminished sensation surrounding the surgical scar which is expected. Sensation is intact distally. Finger motion is satisfactory.

TREATMENT PLAN: He will continue postoperative therapy including scar management and gradual strengthening exercises. I reviewed the need for temporary activity restriction and protection of the left arm. He was given a padded elbow sleeve for protection of the surgical scar. The sensation surrounding the scar should improve gradually over time. Follow-up one month. Work status is no forceful, no heavy.

NEXT VISIT: One month.

CHART NOTES

The patient was in the office today for evaluation of left elbow. He is doing okay. Overall, his ulnar nerve symptoms have improved. He still has intermittent medial elbow pain and paresthesias associated with movement of his elbow. He is concerned about the persistent snapping of the ulnar nerve.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: Left elbow scar is stable. The ulnar nerve is nontender. There is no Tinel's sign. Range of motion is full. Sensation is intact distally. Intrinsic strength is normal. There is marked left ulnar nerve subluxation at the cubital tunnel.

TREATMENT PLAN: I reviewed the clinical findings. The patient's questions were answered. Treatment options were discussed.

Additional surgery may be indicated to address the ulnar nerve instability. Options would include ulnar nerve transposition or medial epicondylectomy. The timing of additional surgery would be elective, and I believe observation is appropriate at this time.

I asked the patient to obtain a second opinion regarding additional surgery. Follow up for second opinion with HSA M.D. Work status is no restriction.

NEXT VISIT: After second opinion.

CHART NOTES

The patient was in the office today for evaluation of left elbow. The history is as given by Dr. Sagerman.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: On examination, his symptoms are reproduced with elbow flexion and extension with subluxation of the ulnar nerve.

The soft tissues are soft. I don't think that there would be a problem with proceeding with a second surgery at this point.

Because his symptoms are present both at rest, though aggravated with flexion extension, it may be that an epicondylectomy would not be enough. I would favor a submuscular transposition and have reviewed reasonable expectations of outcome of such a surgery with Mr. Dulberg as well as potential risks and complications. He believes that he would proceed and I have discussed this

The patient was in the office today for evaluation of left elbow. He is doing well. His symptoms have improved. He reports some residual paresthesias, which is expected.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: Left elbow scar is stable. Range of motion is full. There is slight ulnar nerve subluxation at the cubital tunnel. Sensation is intact in all distributions. The patient reports that his grip strength has improved.

TREATMENT PLAN: He will continue postoperative therapy for range of motion exercises and gradual strengthening. Continued improvement is expected over time.

I briefly explained the option for ulnar nerve transposition, if the nerve subluxation causes persistent symptoms. For now, his symptoms will be observed.

Follow up is one month. Work status is no restriction.

RE: Paul Dulberg
O/V: 9/11/03

Dear Dr. Grobman:

I had the opportunity to examine your patient, Paul Dulberg, concerning his left arm. He reports persistent numbness and tingling in the ulnar nerve distribution of the left hand following a motor vehicle accident which occurred in March, 2002. He has had conservative treatment including injections, medications and therapy. A nerve conduction study from May, 2002 and repeat study in December, 2002 showed evidence of ulnar neuropathy at the elbow.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: Examination in the left arm shows positive Tinel sign at the cubital tunnel with local sensitivity. Range of motion is full. Sensation is diminished in the ulnar nerve distribution. There is slight weakness of the intrinsic muscles and positive Froment's sign. There is no visible atrophy. Circulation is normal distally.

TREATMENT PLAN: I explained the diagnosis and treatment options. Surgery is indicated on an elective basis for cubital tunnel release. The patient requested to proceed with surgery. This may be scheduled at his convenience.

Thank you for the opportunity to participate in his care.

Sincerely,

Scott D. Sagerman, M.D.

RE: PAUL DULBERG
OV: 02/27/2012

Dear Dr. Sek:

On February 27, 2012, I evaluated your patient, Mr. Paul Dulberg, concerning his right arm. He sustained a laceration of his forearm from a chainsaw accident on June 28, 2011. He developed symptoms of numbness in the small finger with weakness. He was treated with therapy. He had an EMG test and MRI scan.

PAST MEDICAL HISTORY: Remarkable for arthritis and cervical disc disease

MEDICATIONS: Naproxen, Tramadol, Cyclobenzoprine, Flexetine.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: The right forearm shows a 7 cm. transverse scar at the ulnar aspect of the mid forearm. There is local tenderness and sensitivity to percussion with a positive Tinel sign and paresthesias radiating into the small finger. There is also sensitivity at the cubital tunnel region. Wrist and elbow motion are unrestricted. There is no visible atrophy. He is unable to adduct the small finger. Flexion strength is grossly normal. Sensation is decreased to light touch in the small finger only with inconsistent two point discrimination.

X-RAY EXAMINATION: Outside films of the right forearm from June 20, 2011 were reviewed. There is no fracture or foreign body.

MRI films of the right forearm from February 3, 2012 were reviewed. No abnormality is seen.

A nerve conduction study by Dr. Levin from August 10, 2011 shows no evidence of diffuse neuropathy.

Sharply Nerve damage.

IMPRESSION: Right forearm laceration with probable partial ulnar nerve injury.

TREATMENT PLAN: I explained the diagnosis. For further evaluation, the patient was referred for additional electrodiagnostic testing including an EMG.

Occupational therapy reports were reviewed.

I explained the potential indication for surgery for nerve exploration, pending review of the electrical study.

He will follow-up after the EMG. Work status is no restriction.

If you have any further questions regarding Mr. Paul Dulberg, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

Scott D. Sagerman, M.D.

CHART NOTE:
The patient was in the office today for evaluation of the right hand. He reports no change in his symptoms.

He had an EMG test by Dr. Levin, and the report from March 13, 2012 shows no evidence for neuropathy. The EMG portion showed no denervation, and ulnar nerve conduction was within normal limits.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: The right forearm scar is stable and nontender. There is sensitivity to percussion with a positive Tinel sign at the ulnar aspect of the scar. Adduction of the small finger remains limited consistent with a positive Wartenberg's sign.

TREATMENT PLAN: I explained the findings of the EMG test. Treatment options were given. He does not wish to pursue any surgery at this time.

A therapy referral was given for strengthening exercises and scar management.

NEXT VISIT: Six weeks or PRN.

CHART NOTE:
The patient was in the office today for evaluation of the right arm. He reports persistent pain with use of his arm, especially gripping activities. He has had additional therapy which has been beneficial. He reports no change in his symptoms of numbness which is not bothersome. However, his function is limited due to his pain symptoms.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: The right forearm scar is tender at the ulnar aspect with a positive Tinel sign and local sensitivity. Composite finger flexion is full. There is no triggering or locking, there is no clawing. Wartenberg sign is positive. Intrinsic strength is slightly weak.

TREATMENT PLAN: I reviewed the diagnosis and treatment options. The possible surgical indication for ulnar nerve neurolysis was discussed. Before deciding on surgery, the patient will contact Dr. Levin for discussion of medication to address his nerve-related pain symptoms.

He will also see Dr. Biafora for a second opinion regarding possible surgical intervention.

CHART NOTE:
The patient was seen in the office today for evaluation of the right upper extremity. Mr. Dulberg is a patient of Dr. Sagerman's who presents today for a second opinion, referred by Dr. Sagerman. Briefly, Mr. Dulberg is a 41 year old, right hand dominant male who on June 28, 2011 sustained a chain saw injury to the right forearm. The patient states that he was told he had a partial nerve injury in the emergency room. Today, he reports some weakness in his right hand. He reports numbness in his right small and ring fingers at rest with occasional tingling. He also reports occasional shooting, burning type pain which radiates both proximally and distally from the area of the injury in the proximal forearm. This occurs several times a day at rest and more predictably with use. He denies ny previous injuries. He has undergone electrodiagnostic tests in the recent past. He was recently seen by Dr. Levin a few days ago and has been taking Neurontin over the past couple of days. The patient is currently applying for disability, secondary to his injury as he states that he is unable to perform his previous work activities.

PAST MEDICAL HISTORY: Arthritis, migraine headaches.

MEDICATIONS: Neurontin, Naproxen, Flexitine, Tramadol, Cyclobenzoprine.

ALLERGIES: No known drug allergies.

SOCIAL HISTORY: He smokes one pack of cigarettes per day.

PHYSICAL EXAM: Examination of the right upper extremity – elbow motion is from 0 to 140 degrees with full forearm rotation which is painless. There is a positive Tinel at the cubital tunnel through to approximately several centimeters distal to this. There is a transverse swelling and a healed scar, several millimeters in length in the proximal third of the forearm on the ulnar side. There is a positive Tinel over the scar at the most volar radial aspect of the scar. There is also significant tenderness at the scar to deep palpation on its most ulnar and distal border near the ulna. The Tinel over the most volar and radial aspect of the scar radiates into the ulnar digits. Moving two point discrimination in the small finger is 6-7 mm. There appears to be good strength to first dorsal Interosseous testing. Negative Froment's sign. Positive Wartenberg's. Full digital motion. He has good strength to DIP flexion of the small and ring fingers. There is pain at the scar on its most dorsal and ulnar border with resisted DIP flexion of the small finger. FCU function also appears to be intact, also eliciting pain at the scar. Electrodiagnostic studies dated March 13, 2012 has been reviewed.

ASSESSMENT: Approximately one year status post right forearm laceration with likely partial ulnar nerve injury, with ulnar nerve neuritis.

PLAN: The nature of the patient's condition has been explained in detail. All of his questions were answered. The patient may benefit from an ulnar nerve exploration with neurolysis. I would recommend this also include a cubital tunnel decompression with possible anterior transposition. He understands that this will not likely improve the motor deficits in his hand, however, it may improve he pain to his forearm. An ulnar nerve repair of a partial laceration is unlikely at this point. He also has a separate and distinct tenderness in the most dorsal ulnar aspect of the wound. He may require exploration of this portion of the scar as well. The patient would like some time to think about this. He will continue to be treated with the Neurotin under the neurologist. He will follow-up with Dr. Sagerman in four weeks.

NEXT VISIT: Four weeks.

CHART NOTE:
The patient was in the office today for evaluation of the right elbow. He reports no change in his symptoms despite medication. He has side effects from the medication which interfere with functioning. He would like to proceed with surgery which was discussed with Dr. Biafora previously. He had additional therapy, but this was discontinued due to lack of progress.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: Examination of the right elbow and forearm is unchanged. A positive Tinel sign is present at the cubital tunnel without ulnar nerve subluxation. The forearm scar is stable with tenderness and sensitivity to percussion. He indicates pain with gripping activities localized to the forearm region and resulting in increased numbness in his ring and small fingers with weakness of his grip.

TREATMENT PLAN: I reviewed the diagnosis and treatment options. The surgical indication was discussed. Informed consent was obtained for the procedure. He understands the risks, benefits and possible complications of surgery as well as the expected outcome. The prognosis is guarded in terms of symptom improvement. However, he feels that any improvement in symptoms would be beneficial in terms of his arm functioning.

He was advised to contact the neurologist to report his symptoms associated with the use of Neurontin medication. Medical clearance will be obtained from his primary care physician before surgery is scheduled.

NEXT VISIT: After surgery.

DSC OPERATIVE REPORT

DATE OF OPERATION: 07/09/2012

PREOPERATIVE DIAGNOSES:
1. Right cubital tunnel syndrome.
2. Right ulnar nerve injury at the forearm.

POSTOPERATIVE DIAGNOSES:
1. Right cubital tunnel syndrome.
2. Right ulnar nerve injury at the forearm.

PROCEDURES:
1. Right cubital tunnel release.
2. Right ulnar neurolysis at the forearm.

SURGEON: Scott Sagerman, MD.

COMPLICATIONS: None.

TOURNIQUET TIME: 1 hour.

FINDINGS: The right cubital tunnel showed thickening of the cubital tunnel ligament with scarring of the ulnar nerve to the floor of the cubital tunnel and local constriction. The nerve also appeared constricted at the flexor pronator aponeurosis at the distal aspect of the cubital tunnel. Also, a thick arcade of Struthers was present proximal to the cubital tunnel, though the ulnar nerve was not visibly constricted at this level.

The right forearm, the site of the previous chainsaw laceration revealed extension to the subcutaneous tissue and fascia overlying the flexor carpi ulnaris muscle. A piece of retained absorbable suture material was present. The muscle fibers were intact. The ulnar nerve was intact beneath the muscle belly. There was no visible scarring around the ulnar nerve at this level.

DESCRIPTION OF PROCEDURE: Informed consent was obtained from the patient. Prophylactic IV antibiotic was given. He received medical clearance from his primary care physician. Regional block anesthetic was administered by the anesthesiologist in the right upper extremity. The right arm was prepped and draped sterilely. A sterile tourniquet was applied to the right upper arm, and it was elevated following exsanguination of the limb.

A longitudinal incision was made over the posteromedial aspect of the right elbow centered at the cubital tunnel. Under loupe magnification, the subcutaneous tissue was dissected. Superficial veins were ligated with bipolar cautery. A branch of the medial antebrachial cutaneous nerve was identified. This was gently retracted safely and protected. The fascia was incised proximal to the cubital tunnel, and the ulnar nerve was visualized. The cubital tunnel ligament was divided and completely released. The flexor pronator aponeurosis was also incised and released, and the nerve was dissected distally into the musculature where motor branches were identified. The release was then carried proximally, and the arcade of Struthers was divided and completely released. The ulnar nerve was inspected. The nerve was mobilized from adhesions with gentle blunt dissection. Nerve gliding was checked and found to be satisfactory. The ulnar nerve was stable at the cubital tunnel. The field was irrigated with antibiotic solution. The subcutaneous tissue was reapproximated with buried Vicryl sutures, and the skin edges were reapproximated with nylon sutures.

Attention was then directed to the forearm scar. A longitudinal incision was made over the ulnar aspect of the mid forearm centered at the site of the scar. Under loupe magnification, the subcutaneous tissue was dissected. The fascia was visualized. Superficial vein was ligated with bipolar cautery. The dermis was elevated off of the scarred fascia with blunt dissection. The retained suture material was removed. The muscle fibers were visualized and found to be in continuity. The ulnar nerve was exposed in the interval between the flexor digitorum and flexor carpi ulnaris muscle bellies. The nerve was dissected proximal and distal from the region of the laceration. The nerve was completely intact at this level with no visible scarring or adhesions. The field was irrigated with antibiotic solution. The subcutaneous tissue was reapproximated with buried Vicryl sutures, and the skin edges were reapproximated with nylon sutures.

A sterile bulky gauze dressing was applied. The tourniquet was deflated. Circulation returned to the right arm with normal capillary refill distally. The patient was transported to recovery in stable condition. He tolerated the procedure well. There were no complications. An arm sling was applied for protection.

He has intermittent soreness in his right forearm area.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: The left elbow shows minimal tenderness at the lateral epicondyle. The skin is intact. Range of motion is full. There is slight pain with resisted wrist extension. There is no weakness.

The right forearm scar is stable. There is mild sensitivity at the most ulnar aspect.

Open Advanced MRI

PATIENT: DULBERG, PAUL
MRN: 1585839
DOB: 03/19/1970

EXAM: MR FOREARM W/ AND W/O 73220
DOS: 02/03/2012

EXAMINATION: MRI examination of the right forearm without and with intravenous contrast infusion..

CLINICAL HISTORY: History of right forearm trauma with a chainsaw. Possible neuroma, nerve impingement or injury in the forearm. Possible tendon disruption. It appears that the patient had some difficulty holding still during image acquisition. There is motion artifact on this examination. Weakness in the fourth and fifth fingers. Pain in the forearm and hand.

TECHNIQUE: Multiplanar T1 and T2-weighted spin-echo pulse sequences and STIR sequence. Post-infusion multiplanar T1-weighted sequences were performed. A skin marker was taped to the point of maximal symptoms.

Contrast: 15 cc of gadolinium was infused.

FINDINGS: There is no bone abnormality seen. The bone marrow signal characteristics are normal.

There is no cystic or solid mass appreciated. The visualized muscles have normal signal characteristics.

There is no abnormal soft tissue infiltration or induration. Specifically, in the area of the skin marker which is marking the point of maximal symptoms, there is no soft tissue abnormality appreciated.

There is no abnormality identified along the course of the ulnar nerve in the forearm.

IMPRESSION: There is no forearm abnormality appreciated. This does not exclude the possibility of an ulnar nerve impingement or injury but there is no gross mass or abnormal infiltration along the expected course of the ulnar nerve. No obvious tendon or muscle abnormality appreciated at this time.

RE: Paul Dulberg

Dear Mr. Mast,

Mr. Dulberg was previously seen by my associate, Dr. Mitchell Grobman, in 2002 for left ulnar neuropathy, and had surgery and essentially became asymptomatic by 2007 and who had never had difficulty in his right arm. Approximately a month prior to the evaluation, he had been holding a branch for a neighbor when the chainsaw came up and cut his right forearm. He was taken to Northern Illinois Medical Center where they put in inner stitches in the muscle and outer stitches. He originally had very significant pain, but as the pain was getting better, he started noticing that he had numbness in his fifth digit in the inner aspect of his forearm. He had not been dropping things. It was mostly just a tingling and a numb feeling. He denies ever having any right-sided symptoms or right-sided injuries. His examination was significant for a healing scar in the right forearm and for decreased light touch, pinprick, and temperature sensation in the ulnar distribution of the right arm. His strength was normal. Given the distribution, it was felt that this was a branch neuropathy to the sensory nerves. I did have him undergo nerve conductions to make sure that the median and ulnar nerves were all without involvement and they were. I recommended that he see a hand surgeon as well just to be certain that there were no other treatment options for him; however, most likely this was just a sensory branch neuropathy that may improve or may result in permanent numbness in the distribution that he was showing numbness. Mr. Dulberg should followup if any additional symptoms develop or if he wished to try any neuropathic pain treatment if it became painful and not just numb.

Sincerely,

Karen Levin, MD (endm)

Case: Paul Dulberg v. David Gagnon, Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire
(McHenry County Case No. 12 LA 178)

Dear Mr. Accardo:

Written Discovery

Enclosed herewith you will find my clients' response to Mr. Gagnon's written discovery. I note that the interrogatory response is in need of Mr. McGuire's sworn signature. I anticipate having that to you in short order. I do not anticipate changes in the interrogatory answers as Mr. McGuire has already answered interrogatories issued by Plaintiff.

Enclosed herewith you will also find written discovery for response by Mr. Gagnon. Please let me know if you have any questions regarding same.

Deposition Notices

This letter will confirm receipt of your deposition notices: Wednesday, October 31, 2012 at 1:00 p.m. for David Gagnon and Thursday, November 29, 2012 at 1:00 p.m. for Carolyn and Bill McGuire.

Since David Gagnon is your client, I am assuming the notice contains a misnomer and that you really intend to depose Paul Dulberg on October 31, 2012. That date works for me. I can do Mr. Dulberg's deposition that day. Perhaps we can do Mr. Gagnon's deposition that day as well. If we are going to do both, I am proposing that we begin Mr. Dulberg at Noon and Mr. Gagnon at 3:00 p.m. (or immediately following Mr. Dulberg's depositon).

I have no quarrel presenting Mr. and Mrs. McGuire for deposition, but I cannot do that on November 29, as I already have depositions set. I have not cleared the dates with my clients yet, but I am open on November 26, November 27 and November 28.

Please let me know if you are amenable to the deposition schedule above and, if so, your date preference for Mr. and Mrs. McGuire's deposition. By way of carbon copy, I ask Attorney Mast to relate his position on the deposition schedule proposed above. Thank you.

Very truly yours,

This Information Is About Your Illness and Diagnosis

WOUND CARE (with stitches)
Your wound was closed with stitches. These are small threads that keep the skin closed to help it heal. You have 3 internal and 11 external stitches. These should be removed in 10 days.

At home, please follow these instructions:
- Wash your hands before touching the dressing or wound.
- Keep the wound clean and dry.
- After 2 days, wash the wound gently with warm water and soap. Pat it dry.
- Put a light dressing on it if it rubs or there is drainage.

Call your doctor if:
- you have redness, pain, or swelling in the area of your stitches.
- your wound drains pus.
- your stitches come out before your wound is healed.
- you have any new or bothersome symptoms.

- Take this medicine with food to avoid an upset stomach.

SMOKING CESSATION

Smoking is the nation's leading preventable cause of death. It significantly increases the risk of coronary heart disease, stroke and cancer. In fact, more than half of all smoking related deaths in America each year are from heart disease, stroke, or other cardiovascular diseases. The good news is, that one year after quitting, the risk of heart disease is cut in half. After five to fifteen smoke-free years, the risk is that of a person who never smoked!

If you or someone you love is interested in quitting, consider joining our "Freedom From Smoking "classes for adults. Centegra Health System and the McHenry County Department of Health have partnered together to bring you an effective program that will help you quit smoking. Call 877-CENTEGRA, (877-236-8347) for more information regarding this program. To speak with a counselor immediately, call the Illinois Tobacco line at 1-866-QUIT-YES.

PAIN MANAGEMENT AFTER DISCHARGE:

A person may feel less pain just by being in familiar surroundings. Here are some frequently asked questions about your pain management:

- What can I do to help my pain management? A person's level of relaxation and their environment can affect their pain. If you are tired, over stimulated (too many visitors) are anxious about your diagnosis, or a past experience with a hospitalization, your pain perception may be impacted and your tolerance decreased. Ask questions, and inform us about any problems or concerns that you may have, re: pain. Partner with your health team for your best pain management.
- What if the medication is not working? Tell your health-care provider; physician, home health nurse, etc. You may need a different dose or type of medicaton.
- What if I feel I'm not getting enough pain control? Talk to your physician or home health nurse about it. Together you may be able to develop a plan to prevent or ease your pain. Depending on the cause of your pain, your health-care provider may suggest exercise, use of heat/cold, massage, repositioning, immobilization of the affected part, or distraction such as music or rest.
- There are other methods of pain management. Let your health-care provider assist you in finding the best one for you.

Weight management is one step to help maintain a healthy lifestyle. For certain medical problems, such as congestive heart failure, weight should be monitored daily.

YOU ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR IN YOUR RECOVERY.

Follow the above instructions carefully. Take your medicines as prescribed. Most important, see a doctor again as discussed.

If you have problems that we have not discussed, or your problem changes or gets worse, Call or visit your doctor right away. If you cannot reach your doctor, return to the Emergency Department immediately.

Centegra Health System is very concerned about your safety and well being. As part of our efforts to always provide very good care, any medications you received during this visit were reconciled with medication you are currently taking. This reconciliation was based on the information you or your representative provided regarding your current medications and allergies.

"I have received this information and my questions have been answered. I have discussed any challenges I see with this plan with the nurse or physician."
