Subject: Findings and Conclusions for Dulberg v. Gagnon and McGuire

After reviewing the Depositions of Mr. Dulberg and Mr. Gagnon and the chainsaw owner's manual, the following observations and conclusions were made:

Mr. Dulberg was cut on the forearm (bottom) by a chainsaw while helping Mr. Gagnon limb a pine tree on the property of Mr. Gagnon's parents – Bill and Carol McGuire. While power tools such as this chainsaw make work more efficient, they carry hazards such as experienced in this incident. Manufacturers and retailers of power equipment go to great lengths to reduce the dangers associated with such equipment through training and warnings listed in owner's manuals. The chainsaw in this incident appears from a photograph to be a EFCO MT3500 purchased by the McGuires close to the date of the incident and probably was a new saw and probably equipped with an owner's manual. Depositions from both Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg indicated that they received no additional chainsaw training. Therefore, the owner's manual and their field experience were the primary sources of instructions for the safe use of the saw.

Mr. Gagnon was the only operator of the saw and, therefore, was responsible for its use. While the saw was appropriate for the tasks involved, there are safe and unsafe activities that could have taken place. The owner's manual shows 2 bar lengths for this saw – 14 and 16 inches. It appears that the McGuires chose the 16 inch bar. For the work involved, the shorter bars would have been safer and might have prevented or reduced the injury. It appears that Mr. Gagnon performed some unsafe acts which lead to Mr. Dulberg being cut. Also, Mr. and Mrs. McGuire who owned the saw apparently did not heed the warnings posted on page 2 of the owners manual which states: "Allow persons only who understand this manual to operate your chainsaw."

Cuts with chainsaws cause more damage than those caused by power or hand tools having a thinner blade such as that of a table saw. Chainsaws are designed to take out a "kerf" of about ¼ -inch, so if someone is cut, the sides of the cut are separated by this gap (or kerf) removing a chunk of meat and causing excessive bleeding and organ damage.

From the depositions, there is no mention of safety apparel – hard hat with ear and eye protection, safety chaps or pants nor safety gloves. (See page 7 of the owners manual for proper safety apparel.)

Proper safety apparel may have eliminated or reduced the severity of the injury.

Mr. Gagnon and the McGuires' goal was to remove a tall pine tree (40 – 50 feet in height) in their yard without damaging their buildings. From depositions, Mr. Gagnon chose to delimb this tree as it stood in a vertical position. According to Mr. Dulberg, Mr. Gagnon did this by climbing and cutting off limbs as he climbed the tree using limb stubs as a ladder where he placed his feet. In the owner's manual on page 9, it tells to never cut limbs from a ladder or a tree and always cut from a firm foundation or platform. Not having seen the exact circumstances, it cannot be stated unequivocally, but my recommendations would have been to fell the tree first before trying to remove any limbs higher than could be reached safely from the ground. Once the tree has been felled on the ground, the secondary limbs could have been removed while the primary limbs were still attached to the main bole. Bucking the primary limbs into firewood lengths could also be done in a safer fashion with them attached to the bole. Doing the work in this fashion would have eliminated the conditions of where Mr. Dulberg was cut. From Mr. Gagnon's deposition, there was room to fell the pine tree with its described height.

The EFCO MT3500 has a number of features designed to operate it safely. The handle where the accelerator trigger is located has a throttle trigger lockout device that must be depressed before the engine can accelerate which means that Mr. Gagnon had a tight hold on the trigger handle when the saw accelerated before cutting Mr. Dulberg. Mr. Dulberg states in his deposition that he was holding the butt end of a primary limb, and Mr. Gagnon was removing the secondary limbs moving from the tip of that primary limb toward the butt. The accident occurred after Mr. Gagnon removed the last secondary limb and was moving toward him with the saw. The saw accelerated with the bar and chain moving upward contacting the bottom of Mr. Dulberg's arm.

There was no mention of the chain brake being used. The MT3500 has a lever mounted just forward of the front handle. This lever serves to stop and lock the cutting chain movement when pushed forward; when in the rear position, the chain travels freely on the bar. On page 8 of the owners manual, it is recommended that the chain brake be set whenever the operator moves from place to place. Also, the bar should be facing to the rear of the direction of travel so that the sawyer would not fall on the bar and chain if he were to trip and fall. This applies directly to this incident. If Mr. Gagnon had set his chain brake and/or put the bar in a rearward position as he finished cutting the last secondary limb, Mr. Dulberg would not have been cut.

The MT3500 comes with a saw chain designed to reduce kickback. Kickback is a violent upward action of a chainsaw bar when the chain on the upper quadrant of the bar's tip comes in contact with an object. While this chain does not completely eliminate kickback, it helps. It is assumed here that the chain supplied by the manufacturer had not been replaced. In addition, if the saw chain had come in contact with some object that caused a kickback, the chain brake would have instantly stopped the chain as the bar traveled vertically and Mr. Gagnon's hand activated the chain brake. This brake activation would probably have protected Mr. Dulberg. Therefore, it is doubtful that a kickback occurred.

Page 7 of the owner's manual recommends that other people (bystanders) be kept at least 35 feet from someone operating a chainsaw. This is because the chainsaw operator should be focusing his attention on his task, not bystanders. Chainsaws are noisy and anyone around them should be wearing ear protection thus muffling emergency calls for help. It is recommended that bright clothing be worn by all bystanders and operators to help operators see people who might inadvertently move into the danger zones. This distance of 35 feet may be a bit overcautious, but the intent is to keep bystanders beyond the reach of the saw, limbs or trees being cut. The operator is the person in control of his saw and responsible for whatever results from his cutting. When trees are being felled, bystanders should be beyond the height of the tree; 2 tree heights is the recommended distance. If this rule had been followed, Mr. Dulberg would not have been cut.

Page 7 of the owner's manual has some additional recommendations that might apply to this incident. Cutting with chainsaws is fatiguing even for professional sawyers who use their saws everyday. For the occasional operator, chainsaw work can be very exhaustive. In this incident, Mr. Gagnon not only used a chainsaw when he was not accustomed to using one, but he also climbed a tree and delimbed it as he climbed. By the time Mr. Gagnon stop limbing and started removing secondary limbs from the primary limbs, he must have been very fatigued even with frequent breaks as described by Mr. Dulberg. The warning of the owner's manual not to cut when fatigued is very important in that fatigue impairs judgment, reduces response time and probably impairs reflexive actions. Simply put, we make mistakes when we are tired.

Another factor of this incident may have been a loose chain. New saw chains stretch when first used. This saw was probably new; this may have been its first application. The owner's manual discussed how to tension the chain on page 17 and describes proper break-in of the chain. The chain should have been tightened after the engine had become warm and later after some use. A loose chain might jump off the bar. Pertinent to this incident was that a loose chain will not decelerate as fast as a properly tightened one. Without the chain brake engaged, the chain continues to travel along the bar until it naturally comes to a stop. Mr. Dulberg said he tried to move away from the saw chain but could not escape its travel path. With a properly tensioned chain, it may have stopped before contacting his arm or at least been traveling at a slower speed and caused less damage to his arm.

After the review of the above evidence, it is my opinion that Mr. Gagnon was fully responsible for this accident and his parents – the McGuires – were also somewhat responsible by letting their son, Mr. Gagnon, use their chainsaw – a potentially dangerous tool – without enforcing the warnings and instructions available in the owner's manual. Mr. Gagnon was in full control of the saw and Mr. Dulberg was his assistant. Mr. Gagnon could have prevented this accident by following the instructions given in the owner's manual. The instructions in the owner's manual are quite clear and unambiguous, and if followed, would have prevented this accident. Mr. Gagnon admits that he was relatively inexperienced in the use of chainsaws, and therefore, should have been more careful while using such a potentially dangerous tool.

Respectfully submitted,

Bobby L Lanford

DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S MOTION TO COMPEL PLAINTIFF TO ANSWER WRITTEN DISCOVERY

Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast ("Popovich"), by and through their attorneys, Karbal, Cohen, Economou, Silk & Dunne, LLC, for their motion to compel Plaintiff to answer written discovery, state as follows:

1) On November 28, 2017, Plaintiff Paul Dulberg ("Dulberg") filed a complaint for legal malpractice against Defendants, more than two years after Defendants withdrew their appearance for Dulberg in his personal injury action against Defendant David Gagnon in Dulberg v. Gagnon, Case No. 12 LA 178 in the Circuit Court of McHenry County, Illinois (the underlying complaint), which arose out of a chainsaw accident.

2) At the time of the original filing in the instant matter, Plaintiff was represented by the Gooch Law Firm, and the complaint against Popovich was signed by Thomas W. Gooch, III. (Complaint, Ex. A)

3) In ¶20 of Exhibit A, Dulberg invoked the "discovery rule" in an attempt to toll the two year statute of limitations for legal malpractice claims under 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3. He alleged that Mast and Popovich had provided Dulberg false and misleading information in connection with his settlement in the premises liability case with Gagnon's co-defendants, Bill and Carolyn McGuire in the premises liability case, and that Dulberg was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.

4) The Gooch firm withdrew from representing Dulberg in the instant case, and the Clinton Law Firm substituted as his counsel, with attorney Julia Williams as the primary handling attorney.

5) On December 6, 2018, Dulberg filed his second amended complaint in this case (Ex., B) filed by the Clinton Law Firm. As compared to Exhibit A, Dulberg's allegations regarding the "discovery" on his cause action against Popovich are slightly different. In ¶¶ 56 and 57 of his second amended complaint, Dulberg alleges that he did not learn that false and misleading information had been provided to him until the mediation in December 2016 based on the expert opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation.

6) Dulberg gave a discovery deposition in this case on February 19, 2020 (Ex. C). Dulberg was questioned about the "discovery" of his cause of action against Popovich and his law firm beginning on page 106 of his deposition (See also, page 108 where plaintiff Dulberg testified that his attorney at the time, Randy Boudin had told him to seek an independent opinion from an attorney that handles malpractice matters, and that Dulberg received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016 from Thomas Gooch.) Dulberg again confirmed that Gooch provided him with the legal opinion on December 16, at page 112 of his deposition. See also, pp. 113 and 114.

7) At Dulberg's deposition, Ms. Williams asserted the attorney-client privilege on behalf of her client relative to Gooch's advice in December 2016, but over the objection allowed

Dulberg to testify concerning the substantive the discussions. The substantive testimony was sparse and vague. At p. 126 of his deposition, Dulberg agreed that his discussion with any malpractice lawyer in December 2016 is responsive to interrogatory no. 1 from Hans Mast (Ex. D). At p. 127 of his deposition, Dulberg responded to the following question:

Q: How did you find out that Mast and Popovich breached the duty of care to you? Because Gooch told you, right?

A: Yes.

Q: That's what you've alleged here in this complaint.

A: Yes.

8) On July 2, Popovich served supplemental production requests aimed at Dulberg's discovery of the malpractice as alleged in December of 2016, including the following production requests. (Ex. E)

9) On July 30, 2020, Julia Williams, then Dulberg's counsel requested 28 days to respond to Popovich's supplemental request for production. Counsel for Popovich agreed, but then received notice of the Clinton Law Firm's motion to withdraw on August 18, 2020.

10) On September 10, 2020, this Honorable Court granted the Clinton Law firm's motion to withdraw as Dulberg's counsel. Dulberg currently has a pro se appearance filed on his own behalf.

11) The attorney-client privilege exists to encourage and promote full and frank consultation between a client and legal advisor by removing the fear of compelled disclosure of information. Waste Management, Inc. v. International Surplus Lines Ins. Co., 144 Ill. 2d 178, 190 (1991); Daily v. Greensfelder, Hemker & Gale, P.C., 2018 IL App (5th) 150384, ¶1122-23. However, it is not unconditional, and it is the privilege, not the duty to disclose, that is the exception. Id. Illinois adheres to a strong policy of encouraging disclosure, with an eye toward ascertaining that the truth which is essential to the proper disposition of a lawsuit. Center Partners, Ltd. v. Growth Head GP, LLC, 2012 IL 113107, ¶ 35; Daily, 2018 IL App (5th) 150384 at ¶ 23. Accordingly, "the privilege ought to be strictly confined within its narrowest possible limits." Waste Management, Inc., 144 Ill. 2d at 190; Daily, 2018 IL App (5th) 150384, ¶ 23.

While the Illinois Supreme Court has not had occasion to find an "at issue" exception to the attorney-client privilege, it has clearly recognized that such an exception exists where the client voluntarily injects into a case either a factual or legal issue, the truthful resolution of which requires examination of confidential communications. Center Partners, Ltd., 2012 IL 113107 at ¶ 35; Daily, 2018 IL App (5th) 150384 at Irri 24-25. The Illinois Supreme Court in Fischel & Kahn, Ltd. v. Van Straaten Gallery, Inc. illustrated that the test in determining whether the exception exists is whether or not the communications in question are necessary to resolve the truthfulness of a factual or legal issue that was introduced by the client holding the privilege. 189 Ill. 2d 579 (2000). Furthermore, when a plaintiff places at issue in a case the extent to which multiple attorneys representing it proximately caused its alleged damages, all communications between the plaintiff and its attorneys are discoverable "to truthfully resolve the factual and legal issues necessary to adjudicate the causation element of plaintiff's claims." Daily, 2018 IL App (5th) 150384 at ¶¶31- 32 (finding that the "at-issue" exception applied because "there is an issue of whether [plaintiffs' attorneys] contributed to the cause . . . and the relative contribution of each to the plaintiffs' damages").

12) In Lama v. Preskill, 353 Ill. App. 3d 300 (2nd Dist. 2004), the Plaintiff's husband met with an attorney 4 days after her medical procedure (in March 1999) that was the subject of a medical malpractice claim. The claim was untimely filed, and the doctor sought production of records relative to the husband's meeting with the attorney. The patient asserted that production would violate the attorney-client privilege. The court affirmed the trial court's finding that the privilege was waived when she voluntarily injected the statute of limitations issue into her case, alleging she did not discover her medical malpractice claim until June 1999. This case is on point and binding.

13) At pages 133-142 of his deposition, Dulberg admitted that he communicated in writing with Gooch regarding Popovich's breaches of the standard of care, and the bases for same.

14) Based on all of the above, Dulberg has placed the discovery of his malpractice claim "at issue" and must produce any and all communications which form the basis for his "discovery" of his malpractice claims, and the bases for his argument that the 2 year statute of limitations should be tolled.

WHEREFORE Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast, respectfully request that this Court grant their motion to compel Plaintiff to answer written discovery and produce requested documents and that Plaintiff be required to answer the outstanding written discovery and produce all documents requested in Exhibit D within 14 days of the presentation of this motion, deny any and all objections to said production, including any objection based on the attorney-client privilege, and for any and all further relief this Court deems just and appropriate.

PAUL DULBERG,

Plaintiff,

v.

THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., and HANS MAST, Defendant.

No. 17LA000377

NOTICE

THIS CASE IS HEREBY SET FOR A SCHEDULING CONFERENCE IN COURTROOM 201 ON 02/27/2018, AT 9:00 AM. FAILURE TO APPEAR MAY RESULT IN THE CASE BEING DISMISSED OR AN ORDER OF DEFAULT BEING ENTERED.

COMPLAINT AT LAW
(Legal Malpractice)

COMES NOW your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG (hereinafter also referred to as "DULBERG"), by and through his attorneys, THE GOOCH FIRM, and as and for his Complaint against THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. (hereinafter also referred to as "POPOVICH"), and HANS MAST (hereinafter also referred to as "MAST"), states the following:

1. Your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, is a resident of McHenry County, Illinois, and was such a resident at all times complained of herein.

2. Your Defendant, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., is a law firm operating in McHenry County, Illinois, and transacting business on a regular and daily basis in McHenry County, Illinois.

3. Your Defendant, HANS MAST, is either an agent, employee, or partner of THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. MAST is a licensed attorney in the State of Illinois, and was so licensed at all times relevant to this Complaint.

4. That due to the actions and status of MAST in relation to POPOVICH, the actions and inactions of MAST are directly attributable to his employer, partnership, or principal, being THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPVICH, P.C.

5. Venue is therefore claimed proper in McHenry County, Illinois, as the Defendants transact substantial and regular business in and about McHenry County in the practice of law, where their office is located.

6. On or about June 28, 2011, your Plaintiff, DULBERG was involved in a horrendous accident, having been asked by his neighbors Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, in assisting a David Gagnon in the cutting down of a tree on the McGuire property. DULBERG lived in the neighborhood.

7. At this time, Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw he was using causing it to strike DULBERG. This caused substantial and catastrophic injuries to DULBERG, including but not limited to great pain and suffering, current as well as future medical expenses, in an amount in excess of $260,000.00, along with lost wages in excess of $250,000.00, and various other damages.

8. In May of 2012, DULBERG retained THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., pursuant to a written retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A.

9. A copy of the Complaint filed by MAST on his own behalf, and on behalf of DULBERG, is attached hereto as Exhibit B, and the allegations of that Complaint are fully incorporated into this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

10. An implied term of the retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, was that at all times, the Defendants would exercise their duty of due care towards their client and conform their acts and actions within the standard of care every attorney owes his client.

11. That as Exhibit B reveals, Defendants property filed suit against not only the operator of the chain saw, but also his principals, Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, who purportedly were supervising him in his work on the premises.

12. At the time of filing of the aforesaid Complaint, MAST certified pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 137, that he had made a diligent investigation of the facts and circumstances around the Complaint he filed, and further had ascertained the appropriate law. MAST evidently believed a very good and valid cause of action existed against Caroline McGuire and William McGuire.

13. The matter proceeded through the normal stages of litigation until sometime in late 2013 or early 2014, when MAST met with DULBERG and other family members and advised them there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and told DULBERG he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuire's for the sum of $5,000.00. DULBERG, having no choice in the matter, reluctantly agreed with MAST and to accept the sum of $5,000.00 releasing not only William and Caroline McGuire, but also Auto-Owners Insurance Company from any further responsibility or liability in the matter. A copy of the aforesaid general release and settlement agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

14. MAST and POPOVICH continued to represent DULBERG through to and including March of 2015, following which DULBERG and the Defendants terminated their relationship.

15. Continuously throughout the period of representation, MAST and POPOVICH represented repeatedly to DULBERG there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and lulled DULBERG into believing that the matter was being properly handled. Then, due to a claimed failure of communication, MAST and POPOVICH withdrew from the representation of DULBERG.

16. Thereafter, DULBERG retained other attorneys and proceeded to a binding mediation before a retired Circuit Judge, where DULBERG received a binding mediation award of $660,000.00 in gross, and a net award of $561,000.00. Unfortunately, a "high-low agreement" had been executed by DULBERG, reducing the maximum amount he could recover to $300,000.00 based upon the insurance policy available. The award was substantially more than that sum of money, and could have been recovered from McGuire's had they not been dismissed from the Complaint. A copy of the aforesaid Mediation Award is attached hereto as Exhibit D.

17. The McGuire's were property owners and had property insurance covering injuries or losses on their property, as well as substantial personal assets, including the property location where the accident took place at 1016 West Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, Illinois. McGuire's were well able to pay all, or a portion of the binding mediation award had they still remained parties.

18. DULBURG, in his relationship with POPOVICH and MAST, cooperated in all ways with them, furnishing all necessary information as required, and frequently conferred with them.

19. Until the time of the mediation award, DULBURG had no reason to believe he could not recover the full amount of his injuries, based on POPOVICH'S and MAST'S representations to DULBERG that he could recover the full amount of his injuries from Gagnon, and that the inclusion of the McGuire's would only complicate the case.

20. Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the "high-low agreement" contained therein, and the final mediation award, DULBURG realized for the first time that the information MAST and POPOVICH had given DULBERG was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuire's was a serious and substantial mistake. Following the mediation, DULBERG was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling Legal Malpractice matters, and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.

21. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBURG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:

a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuire's) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG;

b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

c) Failed to conduct necessary discovery, so as to fix the liability of the property owners to DULBERG;

d) Failed to understand the law pertaining to a property owner's rights, duties and responsibilities to someone invited onto their property;

e) Improperly urged DULBURG to accept a nonsensical settlement from the property owners, and dismissed them from all further responsibility;

f) Failed to appreciate and understand further moneys could not be received as against Gagnon, and that the McGuire's and their obvious liability were a very necessary party to the litigation;

g) Falsely advised DULBURG throughout the period of their representation, that the actions taken regarding the McGuire's was proper in all ways and respects, and that DULBURG had no choice but to accept the settlement;

h) Failed to properly explain to DULBURG all ramifications of accepting the McGuire settlement, and giving him the option of retaining alternative counsel to review the matter;

i) Continually reassured DULBURG that the course of action as to the property owners was proper and appropriate;

j) Were otherwise negligent in their representation of DULBERG, concealing from him necessary facts for DULBURG to make an informed decision as to the McGuire's, instead coercing him into signing a release and settlement agreement and accept a paltry sum of $5,000.00 for what was a grievous injury.

22. That DULBERG suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of MAST and POPOVICH in urging DULBURG to release the McGuire's, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of MAST and THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.

WHEREFORE, your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG prays this Honorable Court to enter judgment on such verdict as a jury of twelve (12) shall return, together with the costs of suit and such other and further relief as may be just, all in excess of the jurisdictional minimums of this Honorable Court.

3. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was living and/or staying at his parent's home at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

4. On June 28, 2011, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE contracted, hired the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, to cut down, trim and/or maintain the trees and brush at their premises at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

5. On June 28, 2011, and at the request and with the authority and permission of the Defendants CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and for their benefit, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was working under their supervision and control while engaged in cutting, trimming and maintaining trees and brush at the premises at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

6. On June 28, 2011, as part of his work at the subject property, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was authorized, instructed, advised and permitted to use a chainsaw to assist him in his work for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, which was owned by the McGuires.

7. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was under the supervision and control of Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was working as their apparent and actual agent, and was then acting and working in the scope of his agency for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE.

8. On June 28, 2011, and while the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was working in the course and scope of his agency for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was under their supervision and control, Defendant, DAVID GAGNON was in use of a chainsaw while trimming a tree and branch.

9. On June 28, 2011, and while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was in use of a chainsaw while trimming a tree and branch, Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, asked for and/or requested the assistance of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, to hold the tree branch while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, trimmed the branch with the chainsaw.

10. On June 28, 2011, and while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was in sole control, use and operation of the subject chainsaw, the chainsaw was caused to strike and injure the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG.

11. At all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, knew of Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's use of the chainsaw in the presence of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, and knew that such created a danger to the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG's safety.

12. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, DAVID GAGNON, as agent of CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owed a duty to use care and caution in his operation of a known dangerous instrumentality.

13. On June 26, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was negligent in one or more of the following ways:

a. Failed to maintain control over the operating of the chainsaw;

b. Failed to take precaution not to allow the chainsaw to move toward the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, so as to cause injury;

c. Failed to warn the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, of the dangers existing from the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's inability to control the chainsaw;

d. Failed to keep a proper distance from the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, while operating the chainsaw;

e. Otherwise was negligent in operation and control of the chainsaw.

14. That as a proximate result of the Defendant's negligence, the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, was injured externally; he has experienced and will in the future experience pain and suffering; he has been permanently scarred and/or disabled; and has become obligated for large sums of money for medical bills and will in the future become obligated for additional sums of money for medical care, and has lost time from work and/or from earning wages due to such injury.

15. That at the above time and date, the Defendant's negligence can be inferred from the circumstances of the occurrence as the instrument of the injury was under the control of the Defendant and therefore, negligence can be presumed under the doctrine of Res Ipsa Loquitur.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, demands judgment against Defendants, DAVID GAGNON, and CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE in an amount in excess of $50,000.00, plus costs of this action.

Count II

Paul Dulberg vs. Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire

15. That the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, restates and realleges paragraphs 1 through 14, in Count I, above, as paragraphs 1 through 15 of Count II, as if fully alleged herein.

16. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owned, controlled, maintained and supervised the premises whereat the accident to the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, occurred.

17. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, were in control of and had the right to advise, instruct and demand that the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, act or work in a safe and reasonable manner.

18. That at all relevant times, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was acting as the agent, actual and apparent, of Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was acting at their request and in their best interests and to their benefit as in a joint enterprise.

19. That at all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, knew DAVID GAGNON was operating a chainsaw with the assistance of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, and had the right to discharge or terminate the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's work for any reason.

20. That at all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owed a duty to supervise and control Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's activities on the property so as not to create a unreasonable hazard to others, including the Plaintiff, PUAL DULBERG.

4. As an agent, employee, or principal in Popovich, Popovich is liable for Mast's actions alleged herein.

5. Venue is proper in McHenry County, Illinois, as the Defendants transact substantial and regular business in and about McHenry County in the practice of law, where their office is located.

B. Relevant Facts

6. On or about June 28, 2011, Dulberg assisted Caroline McGuire ("Caroline"), William McGuire ("Williams") (Caroline and William collectively referred to herein as "the McGuires"), and David Gagnon ("Gagnon") in cutting down a tree on the McGuire's property.

7. Dulberg lives in the next neighborhood over from the McGuire family.

8. Caroline McGuire and William McGuire are a married couple, who own real property in McHenry, McHenry County, Illinois ("the Property").

9. David Gagon is Caroline's son and William's stepson.

10. On June 28, 2011, at the Property, Gagnon was operating a chainsaw to remove branches from a tree and cut it down on the Property.

11. The McGuire's purchased and owned the chainsaw that was being utilized to trim, remove branches, and cut down the tree.

12. Dulberg was invited to the McGuire's property to see if he wanted any of the wood from the tree.

13. William physically assisted with cutting down the tree and, then, later supervised Gagnon's actions.

14. Caroline supervised Gagnon's and William's actions.

15. Gagnon and the McGuires asked Dulberg to assist with trimming and removal of the tree.

16. Gagnon was acting on behalf of Caroline and William and at their direction.

17. Caroline, William, and Gagnon all knew or show have known that a chainsaw was dangerous and to take appropriate precautions when utilizing the chain saw.

18. The safety information was readily available to Caroline and William as the safety instructions are included with the purchase of the chainsaw.

19. It is reasonably foreseeable that the failure to take appropriate caution and safety measures could result in serious injury.

20. The likelihood of injury when not properly utilizing the chainsaw or not following the safety precautions is very high.

21. The safety instructions outlined are easy to follow and do not place a large burden on the operator of the chainsaw or the owner of the property.

22. Caroline, William, and Gagnon had a duty to exercise appropriate caution and follow the safety instructions for the chainsaw.

23. Caroline, William, and Gagnon breached that duty by either not exercising appropriate care, failing to follow the safety instructions, or failing to instruct Gagnon to exercise appropriate care and/or follow the safety instructions.

24. Caroline and William, owners of the property and the chainsaw, instructed Gagnon to use the chain saw despite Gagnon not being a trained in operating the chainsaw.

25. Gagnon was operating the chain saw in close proximity to Dulberg.

26. Neither Gagnon nor Dulberg were provided protective equipment when operating or assisting with operating the chainsaw.

27. Gagnon failed to utilize the chainsaw in compliance with the safety measures outlined in the owner's manual.

28. Caroline and William failed to instruct and require that Gagnon utilize the chainsaw only in compliance with the safety measures outlined in the owner's manual.

29. Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw that he was using and it struck Dulberg in the right arm, cutting him severely.

30. Dulberg incurred substantial and catastrophic injuries, including, but not limited to, pain and suffering, loss of use of his right arm, current and future medical expenses in amount in excess of $260,000, lost wages in excess of $250,000, and other damages.

31. In May 2012, Dulberg hired Mast and Popovich to represent him in prosecuting his claims against Gagnon and the McGuires. Exhibit A.

32. Mast and Popovich, on behalf of Dulberg filed a complaint against Gagnon and the McGuires. Exhibit B.

33. Mast and Popovich entered into an attorney client relationship with Dulberg.

34. Based upon the attorney client relationship, Mast and Popovich owed professional duties to Dulberg, including to a duty of care.

35. On behalf of Dulberg, Mast and Popovich prosecuted claims against both Gagnon and the McGuire's.

36. The claims against Gagnon were resolved later through binding mediation with new counsel.

37. The claims against the McGuires included (a) common law premises liability, (b) statutory premises liability, (c) common law negligence, and (d) vicarious liability for the acts of their son and agent.

38. In late 2013 or early, Mast urged Dulberg to settle the claims against the McGuire's for $5,000.

39. On November 18, 2013, Mast wrote two emails to Dulberg urging Dulberg to accept the $5,000.00, "the McGuire's atty has offered us (you) $5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only. As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery...." * * * "So if we do not accept their $5,000 they will simply file a motion and get out of the case for free. That's the only other option is letting them file motion getting out of the case". (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

40. Similarly, on November 20, 2013, Mast emailed Dulberg urging him to accept the $5,000.00 otherwise "the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion." (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

41. On or around December 2013 or January 2014, Mast met with Dulberg and again advised them there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and verbally told Dulberg that he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of $5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing.

42. During that same time frame, Mast advised Dulberg that the Restatement of Torts 318 was the only mechanism to recover from the McGuires and that Illinois did not recognize the Restate of Torts 318, thus Dulberg did not have any viable claims against the McGuires.

43. Mast failed to advise or inform Dulberg of other basis for recovery against the McGuires.

44. Based upon Mast's erroneously advice that Dulberg's claims against the McGuire's were not viable and that Dulberg would not recover if he pursued the claims, Dulberg settled with the McGuire's and their insurance company, Auto-Owners Insurance Company, for $5,000, which included a release of all claims against the McGuire's and claim for indemnification under the McGuire's insurance policy. Exhibit D (Settlement).

45. Mast also told Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was limited to $100,000.

46. From 2013 forward, Mast and Popovich represented repeatedly to Dulberg that there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and led Dulberg to believe that the matter was being properly handled.

47. Mast also reassured Dulberg that Dulberg would be able to receive the full amount of any eventual recovery from Gagnon.

48. After accepting the $5,000 settlement, Dulberg wrote Mast an email on January 29, 2014 stating "I trust your judgment." (See Email attached as Exhibit E.)

49. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Dulberg into 2015 and continuously assured him that his case was being handled properly.

50. The McGuires owned their home, had homeowner's insurance, and had other property that could have been utilized to pay a judgment against them and in favor of Dulberg.

51. Dulberg cooperated with and appropriately assisted Mast and Popovich in prosecuting the claims against Gagnon and the McGuires.

52. In December of 2016, Dulberg participated in binding mediation related to his claims against Gagnon.

53. In December of 2016, Dulberg was awarded a gross amount of $660,000 and a net award of $561,000 after his contributory negligence was considered.

54. Dulberg was only able to recovery approximately $300,000 of the award from Gagnon's insurance and was unable to collect from Gagnon personally.

55. Only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon did he discover that his claims against the McGuires were viable and valuable.

56. Following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake.

57. It was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation, that Dulberg became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000.00 on an "all or nothing" basis.

58. Mast and Popovich, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed Dulberg by violating the standard of care owed Dulberg in the following ways and respects:

a) failed to fully and properly investigate the claims and/or basis for liability against the McGuires;

b) failed to properly obtain information through discovery regarding McGuires assets, insurance coverages, and/or ability to pay a judgement and/or settlement against them;

c) failed to accurately advise Dulberg of the McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance coverage related to the claims against them and/or Dulberg's ability to recover through McGuires'and Gagnon's insurance policies, including, but not limited to, incorrectly informing

Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was "only $100,000" and no insurance compnay would pay close to that;

d) failed to take such actions as were necessary during their respective representation of Dulberg to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed and/or were principals of Gagnon, and who sought the assistance Dulberg by for example failing to obtain an expert;

e) failed to accurately advise Dulberg regarding the McGuires' liability, likelihood of success of claims against the McGuires, the McGuires' ability pay any judgment or settlement against them through insurance or other assets, and/or necessity of prosecuting the all the claims against both the McGuires and Gagnon in order to obtain a full recovery;

f) Coerced Dulberg, verbally and though emails, into accepting a settlement with the McGuires for $5,000 by misleading Dulberg into believing that he had no other choice but to accept the settlement or else "The McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion."

59. As a direct result of Mast and Popovich's wrongful actions, Dulberg suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of Mast and Popovich in urging Dulberg to release the McGuires, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of Mast and The Law Offices of Thomas Popovich, P.C.

WHEREFORE, your Plaintiff, Paul Dulberg prays this Honorable Court to enter judgment on such verdict as a jury of twelve (12) shall return, together with the costs of suit and such other and further relief as may be just, all in excess of the jurisdictional minimums of this Honorable Court.

CONTRACT FOR LEGAL SERVICES

I agree to employ the LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. (hereinafter "my attorney") to represent me in the prosecution or settlement of my claim against persons or entities responsible for causing me to suffer injuries and damages on the _____ day of _____, 20__.

My attorney agrees to make no charge for legal services unless a recovery is made in my claim. The approval of any settlement amount cannot be made without my knowledge and consent.

I agree to pay my attorney in consideration for his legal services a sum equal to one-third (33 1/3%) of my recovery from my claim by suit or settlement; this will increase to ____% in the event my claim results in more than one (1) trial and/or an appeal of a trial. I understand my attorney may need to incur reasonable expenses in properly handling my claim including, but not limited to, expenses such as accident reports, filing fees, court reporters fees, video fees, records fees, and physician fees. I understand those expenses will be taken out of my settlement, in addition to my attorney's legal fee.

3. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was living and/or staying at his parent's home at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

4. On June 28, 2011, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE contracted, hired the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, to cut down, trim and/or maintain the trees and brush at their premises at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

5. On June 28, 2011, and at the request and with the authority and permission of the Defendants CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and for their benefit, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was working under their supervision and control while engaged in cutting, trimming and maintaining trees and brush at the premises at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

6. On June 28, 2011, as part of his work at the subject property, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was authorized, instructed, advised and permitted to use a chainsaw to assist him in his work for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, which was owned by the McGuires.

7. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was under the supervision and control of Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was working as their apparent and actual agent, and was then acting and working in the scope of his agency for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE.

8. On June 28, 2011, and while the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was working in the course and scope of his agency for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was under their supervision and control, Defendant, DAVID GAGNON was in use of a chainsaw while trimming a tree and branch.

9. On June 28, 2011, and while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was in use of a chainsaw while trimming a tree and branch, Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, asked for and/or requested the assistance of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, to hold the tree branch while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, trimmed the branch with the chainsaw.

10. On June 28, 2011, and while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was in sole control, use and operation of the subject chainsaw, the chainsaw was caused to strike and injure the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG.

11. At all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, knew of Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's use of the chainsaw in the presence of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, and knew that such created a danger to the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG's safety.

12. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, DAVID GAGNON, as agent of CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owed a duty to use care and caution in his operation of a known dangerous instrumentality.

13. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was negligent in one or more of the following ways:

a. Failed to maintain control over the operating of the chainsaw;

b. Failed to take precaution not to allow the chainsaw to move toward the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, so as to cause injury;

c. Failed to warn the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, of the dangers existing from the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's inability to control the chainsaw;

d. Failed to keep a proper distance from the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, while operating the chainsaw;

e. Otherwise was negligent in operation and control of the chainsaw.

14. That as a proximate result of the Defendant's negligence, the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, was injured externally; he has experienced and will in the future experience pain and suffering; he has been permanently scarred and/or disabled; and has become obligated for large sums of money for medical bills and will in the future become obligated for additional sums of money for medical care, and has lost time from work and/or from earning wages due to such injury.

15. That at the above time and date, the Defendant's negligence can be inferred from the circumstances of the occurrence as the instrument of the injury was under the control of the Defendant and therefore, negligence can be presumed under the doctrine of Res Ipsa Loquitur.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, demands judgment against Defendants, DAVID GAGNON, and CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE in an amount in excess of $50,000.00, plus costs of this action.

Count II

Paul Dulberg vs. Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire

15. That the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, restates and realleges paragraphs 1 through 14, in Count I, above, as paragraphs 1 through 15 of Count II, as if fully alleged herein.

16. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owned, controlled, maintained and supervised the premises whereat the accident to the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, occurred.

17. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, were in control of and had the right to advise, instruct and demand that the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, act or work in a safe and reasonable manner.

18. That at all relevant times, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was acting as the agent, actual and apparent, of Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was acting at their request and in their best interests and to their benefit as in a joint enterprise.

19. That at all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, knew DAVID GAGNON was operating a chainsaw with the assistance of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, and had the right to discharge or terminate the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's work for any reason.

20. That at all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owed a duty to supervise and control Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's activities on the property so as not to create a unreasonable hazard to others, including the Plaintiff, PUAL DULBERG.

Morning Hans,
Ok we can meet. I will call Shelia today and set up a time.
Please send me a link to the current Illinois statute citing that the property owner is not liable for work done on their property resulting in injury to a neighbor.
I need to read it myself and any links to recent case law in this area would be helpful as well.
Thanks,
Paul

The legality of it all is that a property owner does not have legal liability for a worker (whether friend, son or otherwise) who does the work on his time, using his own independent skills. Here, I deposed the McGuires, and they had nothing to do with how Dave did the work other than to request the work to be done. They had no control on how Dave wielded the chain saw and cut you. Its that simple. We don't have to accept the $5,000, but if we do not, the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion. So that's the situation.

Just because Dave was doing the work doesn't mean they were not trying to tell their kid what to do. They told him plenty of times throughout the day what to do. How is that not supervising?

They all left me out in the yard screaming for help while they were busy making sure they were covered.

She even went as far as to finally call the Emergency Room after I was already there just to tell me she was covered.

How selfish are people when they worry about if their insured over helping the person who was hurt and bleeding badly in their yard.

I'm glad she got her answer and had to share it with me only to find out her coverage won't even pay the medical bills.

I'm not happy with the offer.

As far as John Choyinski, he knows he has to call you and said he will tomorrow.

As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery....

GENERAL RELEASE AND SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

NOW COMES PAUL DULBERG, and in consideration of the payment of Five-Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars to him, by or on behalf of the WILLIAM MCGUIRE and CAROLYN MCGUIRE (aka Bill McGuire; improperly named as Caroline McGuire) and AUTO-OWNERS INSURANCE COMPANY, the payment and receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, PAUL DULBERG does hereby release and discharge the WILLIAM MCGUIRE and CAROLYN MCGUIRE and AUTO-OWNERS INSURANCE COMPANY, and any agents or employees of the WILLIAM MCGUIRE and CAROLYN MCGUIRE and AUTO-OWNERS INSURANCE COMPANY, of and from any and all causes of action, claims and demands of whatsoever kind or nature including, but not limited to, any claim for personal injuries and property damage arising out of a certain chain saw incident that allegedly occurred on or about June 28, 2011, within and upon the premises known commonly as 1016 West Elder Avenue, City of McHenry, County of McHenry, State of Illinois.

IT IS FURTHER AGREED AND UNDERSTOOD that there is presently pending a cause of action in the Circuit Court of the 22nd Judicial Circuit, McHenry County, Illinois entitled "Paul Dulberg, Plaintiff, vs. David Gagnon, Individually, and as agent of Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire, and Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire, Individually, Defendants", Cause No: 2012 LA 178, and that this settlement is contingent upon WILLIAM McGUIRE and CAROLYN McGUIRE being dismissed with prejudice as parties to said lawsuit pursuant to a finding by the Circuit Court that the settlement between the parties constitutes a good faith settlement for purposes of the Illinois Joint Tortfeasor Contribution Act, 740 ILCS 100/0.01, et seq.

IT IS FURTHER AGREED AND UNDERSTOOD that as part of the consideration for this agreement the undersigned represents and warrants as follows (check applicable boxes):

- ☐ I was not 65 or older on the date of the occurrence.
- ☐ I was not receiving SSI or SSDI on the date of the occurrence.
- ☐ I am not eligible to receive SSI or SSDI.
- ☐ I am not currently receiving SSI or SSDI.

IT IS FURTHER AGREED AND UNDERSTOOD:

a. That any subrogated claims or liens for medical expenses paid by or on behalf of PAUL DULBERG shall be the responsibility PAUL DULBERG, including, but not limited to, any Medicare liens. Any and all reimbursements of medical expenses to subrogated parties, including Medicare's rights of reimbursement, if any, shall be PAUL DULBERG's responsibility, and not the responsibility of the parties released herein.

b. That any outstanding medical expenses are PAUL DULBERG's responsibility and all payment of medical expenses hereafter shall be PAUL DULBERG's responsibility, and not the responsibility of the parties released

Ok, it's signed and in the mail.
Hope that some yahoo in the govt. doesn't someday decide to go after everyone they think they might get a dollar out of and end up holding me responsible for the McGuires fees incurred while they fight it out.
I'm not in the business of warranting, insuring or protecting the McGuires from government. Especially for only 5 grand. For that kind of protection it could cost millions but I trust your judgement.

Who in their right mind puts his arm into a chainsaw?

I figured you would cop out again...

Now I'm left wondering...
How hard is it to sue an atty?

And yes I am and have been looking for someone who will take this case...

The issue of my word vs David Gagnons... Did he cut me or did I cut myself?

Of coarse he cut me.

Next issue please?

I've been telling you over a year now the problems with the case and you just don't see them. You keep telling me how injured you are and completely ignore that it doesn't matter if you passed away from the accident because we still have to prove that the defendant was at fault. While you think it is very clear - it is not. My guess is that seven out of 10 times you will lose the case outright. That means zero. That's why I have been trying to convince you to agree to a settlement. You clearly do not want to. There's only $100,000 in coverage. Allstate will never offer anything near the policy limits therefore there's no chance to settle the case. The only alternative is to take the case to trial and I am not interested in doing that. I will wait for you to find a new attorney. I can't assist you any further in this case. Just let me know.

(WHEREUPON, the witness was duly sworn.)
PAUL DULBERG,
called as the plaintiff herein, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:
EXAMINATION
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let the record reflect that this is the discovery deposition of Paul Dulberg taken by agreement of the parties and pursuant to notice.
This deposition is being taken pursuant to the Rules of the Illinois Supreme Court, the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure and any applicable local rules in McHenry County.
Sir, could you state your name and spell your last name for the record.
A. Palm Dulberg, D-u-l-b-e-r-g.
Q. What is your address?
A. 4606 Hayden Court, McHenry, Illinois 60051.
Q. How long have you lived there?
A. Forty-nine years.
Q. Who do you live there with now?
A. Mike McArtor.

Q. Did your mother live there at some point throughout the history of this case?
A. Yes.
Q. I'm just going to go over a few rules for the deposition. I know you've testified at least one time in a deposition before because you testified in the underlying personal injury case, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Have you testified in any other depositions before?
A. No.
Q. I'll just remind you of a few rules that I'm sure you were aware of back then when you gave your deposition.
The court reporter is here to take down everything that you and I say. She can only take down one at a time so I'd ask that before you answer a question, let me finish the entire question. Okay?
A. Yes.
Q. I'll try to do the same. I'll try to let you respond before I ask a follow-up question.
You just nodded your head. That's another good point to make. She can't take down nods of the head, shrugs of the shoulders or other hand gestures. Your answers need to be verbal.

From time to time we forget those rules and I may just point to the court reporter as a reminder, if that's okay.

A. Yes.

Q. If you need to take a break at any time, feel free to stop me. I just ask that it's not while a question is pending that has not been answered. Fair enough?

A. I'll try to do that.

Q. If you've answered a question, I will assume you understood it. Okay?

A. Yes.

Q. I was asking you about your mother. She lived at the house during the pendency of the underlying case?

A. Yes.

Q. Is she still alive?

A. Yes.

MS. WILLIAMS: Can we define "underlying case"?

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. The underlying case is a personal injury

case that you filed against Bill and Caroline McGuire and David Gagnon.

A. That sounds correct.

Q. We'll get into the dates of the filing a little bit later. We'll call that, generally, the underlying case.

Your mother lived at the house at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. Did she own the house?

A. No.

Q. Do you own the house currently?

A. Yes.

Q. Does anyone else own the house?

A. No.

Q. How long have you owned it?

A. I think I first purchased it off my parents in '97, '98, something like that.

Q. Did you hire a lawyer in connection with that transaction?

A. No.

Q. Were your parents represented by a lawyer?

A. No.

Q. The building, as I understand it, is a duplex; is that right?

A. No.

Q. Were there two apartments in the building at one time?

A. No.

Q. Was there a point in time where you and your mother lived in one half of the house and Mike McArtor lived in the other half?

A. Yes.

Q. How was that arrangement with respect to the location of the living spaces, if you can describe it?

A. It has a walkout basement. He had the downstairs with an exit out the back. We had the upstairs with an exit out the front.

Q. Have you ever been convicted of a crime of fraud, dishonesty or deceit?

A. No.

Q. Besides the hiring of the Popovich firm in connection with the underlying personal injury case, up to that point in time had you ever had an occasion to hire a lawyer?

A. I did during a traffic accident, and I don't remember the year.

Q. Were you injured in about 2002? Does that sound right?

A. Roughly.

Q. Who did you hire?

A. I might get the name wrong because it's been a long time. I think it was Weiss and Michling and something else. It was a lawyer right outside the courthouse in Woodstock.

Q. A McHenry County lawyer?

A. Yeah.

Q. It was a personal injury case?

A. Yeah. It was a car accident.

Q. Did you file a lawsuit in that case?

A. I don't think we needed to.

Q. You just filed an insurance claim?

A. They did, yes.

Q. You settled it?

A. Yes.

Q. Any other occasions to hire a lawyer between that time and the time you hired the Popovich firm?

A. May I consult for a minute because I'm not sure how to answer that.

Q. Why don't you just tell me why you can't answer it.
A. Because I've hired lawyers, but they were for the company that I had. That's different.
Q. I'm asking general questions about any interaction you've had with hiring lawyers. Any experience you've had with hiring lawyers.
A. I had a corporate lawyer. My mom and dad hired a lawyer for me when I was a kid. It was something. And myself, just the corporate lawyer, the car accident lawyer and the Popovich firm.
Q. Have you ever been married?
A. No.
Q. So you never hired a divorce lawyer. Good. How old are you now?
A. Forty-nine.
Q. The underlying case arose out of an injury that occurred on June 28, 2011, correct?
A. That sounds correct.
Q. How old were you at that time?
A. Forty-one.
Q. Besides the underlying lawsuit against the McGuires and Mr. Gagnon, had you ever filed any other lawsuit up until that point in time?

Page 10

A. No.
Q. Have you filed any lawsuits since that time besides the lawsuit against Popovich and Mast?
A. No.
Q. Do you have any military experience?
A. Yes.
Q. Please tell me about that.
A. Army National Guard. Illinois Army National Guard.
Q. How long have you been in the National Guard?
A. I'm not currently in it.
Q. When were you, from when to when?
A. I may not get the year correct. '88 or '89 to '92 or '93, somewhere in there.
Q. What was your highest rank when you were discharged from the National Guard?
A. When I was discharged?
Q. Correct.
A. I don't know. I've gotten moved up and moved down. I don't know where I ended up.
Q. How was it that you were discharged?
A. Less than honorable.
Q. What was the cause?

Page 11

A. I missed morning call, roll call. If you're not there, you're AWOL.
Q. Absent without leave?
A. Yes.
Q. What is the highest level of education that you've attained?
A. I do not have a degree. Two years of college.
Q. You graduated from high school?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that in Johnsburg in 1988?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you know Mr. Gagnon from Johnsburg High School?
A. Not from high school but just after high school.
Q. Just coincidentally you attended the same high school?
A. He was three years older than I was. I didn't know who he was until after high school.
Q. You had some education after high school but did not receive a degree, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Where did you study?

Page 12

A. I had a couple classes at McHenry County College and McMurray College.
Q. What did you study?
A. The first two years. The basics.
Q. General studies?
A. Yeah. I did a criminal justice course. I did a macro/microeconomics. I did psychology, sociology. The normal stuff.
Q. How did you meet David Gagnon?
A. Through a mutual friend.
Q. When was that?
A. I want to say, roughly, 1990.
Q. Was your home located somewhere fairly close to his parents' home or his mom and stepdad's home?
A. Two streets away.
Q. That's where you were injured on June 28, 2011, was at David Gagnon's mom's house and his stepdad's house?
A. Yes.
Q. And their name is McGuire?
A. Yes.
Q. Generally speaking, you were injured assisting David with a chainsaw trying to cut down a tree?

A. He was cutting a branch.
Q. Cutting branches off a tree, correct?
A. Cutting up the branches after they were off the tree.
Q. Could you tell me a little bit about your work history. Do you have any licenses or certifications?
A. I'm certified to run printing presses. Or at least I was.
Q. You worked for Sharp Printing, Inc. from '91 to 2011; is that right?
A. Ninety-one? No. I would say 1999.
Q. Did you own that corporation?
A. Yes. Well, partner. I was a partner. I didn't own like...
Q. It was an Illinois corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you –
A. A stockholder.
Q. Let me just finish my question so she can take us down.
You were a stockholder in Sharp Printing, Inc.?

Page 14

A. Yes.
Q. Who else were the stockholders?
A. Mike McArtor and Scott Dulberg and at that time it was Herbert Dulberg.
Q. What does that mean? Do you mean Scott's name was Herbert?
A. No. Scott Dulberg was an owner and Herbert Dulberg was an owner. Three different Dulbergs: me, my brother, my dad.
Q. And Mike McArtor?
A. Yes.
Q. There were four owners at what time?
A. Until my dad died and then it went to three.
Q. Was that business incorporated?
A. Yes.
Q. Did a lawyer assist the corporation with setting up the corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. When did that happen?
A. 1999.
Q. Did you hire the lawyer yourself?
A. All three of us did. All four of us. Sorry.

Q. What was the name of that attorney?
A. McAndrews, and I don't remember the rest of it. It was McAndrews in McHenry. I can get you the rest of that information.
Q. They are based in Crystal Lake, Illinois?
A. It used to be in McHenry when we did that.
Q. Patrick McAndrews, he was also identified as the registered agent of that corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. It was voluntarily dissolved on April 8, 2011; is that right?
A. That's what the Secretary of State's Office has, yes.
Q. Is that your understanding as well?
A. I was corrected. My partners – I was corrected. It was actually after the accident. How it got to end up with that date, I'm not sure.
Q. What was corrected, exactly?
A. Well, do you want me to – Mike read my deposition and he said, "You got that wrong." I said, "What do you mean?" because I answered it twice in that deposition.
I was thinking that Juskie happened before the accident. Sharp Printing wasn't actually dissolved until after the accident when we decided to sell off the equipment and end it all. That's the honest truth.

Q. I will represent to you that the Illinois Secretary of State's Website as of today shows that the company was involuntarily dissolved on April 8, 2011. So it's your testimony that that is not true?
A. I don't know how they come up with that.
Q. Why don't we break it down and start with why the corporation was involuntarily dissolved. Do you know that?
A. Involuntarily? I don't know. It may be that I was late on paying the corporate licensing thing, which we just pay a fine and did it. We didn't renew it because we decided to end it.
We had a ten-year thing, I think, on it. I may be wrong. I've got to go back and look at the records.
Q. Is it possible that the corporation was actually involuntarily dissolved by the Illinois Secretary of State on April 8, 2011?
A. Sure.
Q. Did Sharp Printing, Inc. file corporate tax returns while it was a going concern?

A. We had a problem the couple of years before the accident because I was not up in Illinois and I usually did that with the lawyer and the accountant and things got screwed up while I was taking care of a loved one who was dying down in Florida.
Q. Did the corporation ever file tax returns?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. When did they file?
A. Quarterly and annually.
Q. Until what year?
A. Roughly somewhere in 2008. I was missing things because I was not here. I know we missed a few.
Q. I believe you testified in your underlying deposition that Sharp Printing, Inc. was not dissolved as a result of your June 28, 2011 chainsaw accident, correct?
A. Yes, I did. I stood corrected by my partners.
Q. So is it your testimony that the corporation was dissolved because of your personal injury?

A. I don't know how to answer that without going back and looking at records.
Q. Was the company winding down up until about the time you were hurt?
A. The company books got screwed up when I was down in Florida and I was back up in Illinois in 2010 getting back on my feet and I was going to pick things back up, get everything paid up, the fines and everything.
Q. Who were you taking care of in Florida?
A. My grandmother.
Q. You were gone from when until when?
A. I want to say from the mid to end of 2007 until somewhere in the beginning of 2010.
Q. Was anyone running Sharp Printing during that period of time?
A. Mike McArtor.
Q. Did Sharp Printing have any customers for that three-year period?
A. Yes, they did.
Q. How many?
A. I'm not sure, without looking at the books.

Q. Can you estimate what the yearly revenues were for Sharp Printing in the year 2007?
A. In 2007? I'd have to look at the books, to be honest with you.
Q. Was it more than $5,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it more than $100,000?
A. No.
Q. Was it more than $20,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Same line of questioning with respect to 2008. Do you know what the revenues were for Sharp Printing in '08?
A. Are you asking me what we reported or what we made and put into accounts for equipment?
Q. I'm asking you about revenues.
A. Total sales?
Q. Total revenues.
A. In two thousand...?
Q. 2008.
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Can you estimate what they were?
A. No, because I wasn't there.
Q. Do you know how many customers the company had in 2008?

A. We had a few, I know that. I don't know how many. Mike was handling it and it got messed up.
Q. What types of customers did Sharp Printing have in 2007 and 2008?
A. What kind of customers?
Q. Right. What did you do?
A. We printed on t-shirts. We printed on CDs. We printed on anything that wasn't wet. We printed on glass, all different stuff.
Q. Were there any full-time employees of Sharp Printing in '07 and '08?
A. In '07 and '08, no.
Q. Just the owners?
A. Just the owners.
Q. Did all the owners operate the business?
A. Yes.
Q. Including your brother?
A. Yes.
Q. What were the yearly revenues of Sharp Printing in 2009?
A. I don't know.
Q. What about 2010, do you know?

A. No.
Q. When did Sharp Printing start selling its equipment?
A. I put up the ad in August. I think August. I might be off by a month or two. August of 2011.
Q. Did you sell any equipment prior to August 2011?
A. No.
Q. What type of equipment did Sharp Printing, Inc. have or own?
A. Mostly textile screen printing equipment, but we had other screen printing stuff too. Paper.
Q. Where was the equipment located?
A. My home.
Q. Did you require a license to conduct this business out of your home?
A. We had what was called a temporary -- we're in a rural area so we didn't have to have that.
Q. In any event, you didn't have a license, correct?
A. We had a license to do business there, yes.

Q. In that location?
A. Yes.
Q. Did customers ever come to the shop?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall how many customers the business had in 2010?
A. Not in 2010.
Q. Was it more than five?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it more than 100?
A. It might be around that. I don't know, specifically.
Q. In 2010 you may have had 100 customers that you did t-shirt screen prints for?
A. Possibly. I'm not saying that is the number, but it's possible.
Q. Did Sharp Printing have any customers in 2011?
A. Mike was finishing up one customer's thing in the spring of 2011, yes. We don't -- I'll give you -- we don't typically get much work between January 1st and the first warm days of Spring. We sell t-shirts and not a lot of people buy during that period. They just don't.

Q. You did not earn a salary from Sharp Printing, correct?
A. No.
Q. You did not earn an hourly wage, correct?
A. No.
Q. I think your interrogatory answers indicate you didn't take a profit or a draw, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. How much, if any, money did you earn from Sharp Printing in 2011?
A. Can I ask how to define that? In 2011 I didn't pull any.
Q. Did you earn any income whatsoever from Sharp Printing in 2010?
A. I don't think so.
Q. You were down in Florida for '07 to 2010?
A. Sometime in early 2010, yes.
Q. Did you earn any income from Sharp Printing from 2007 to 2010?
A. No.
Q. Were you working in Florida?
A. No.
Q. Is it fair to say you were unemployed

from 2007 to 2010?
A. Yes. I was not officially collecting unemployment.
Q. You weren't an employee of any business or working for any individual, correct?
A. I did do some work for Mark. I did some traveling back and forth from Florida to Illinois back and forth during that time. When I was up here, I did do some work for Juskie Printing. Not much, though.
Q. What is Juskie Printing?
A. Juskie Printing is another one that I had listed as an employer in the underlying case.
Q. What are they?
A. Another print broker.
Q. Where are they located?
A. I don't know the exact address, but it's off of Chicago Avenue off of 355 going south.
MS. WILLIAMS: I think he's asking what city.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know how the cities break up down there.

Chicago?
A. Yes.
Q. How long did you have a relationship with Juskie Printing?
A. Since the early 2000s.
Q. What type of printing did Juskie do?
A. Offset, mostly.
Q. What does that mean?
A. Prints on paper.
Q. Did you have a set schedule at any time working for Juskie?
A. I don't know what you mean by "a set schedule."
Q. Did you have a particular number of hours per week?
A. No. The jobs I got were project based.
Q. How many projects did you have from 2007 to 2011 for Juskie?
A. Probably a few hundred quick little things, yeah. At least.
Q. Do you know what you earned from working at Juskie in 2007?
A. Not without looking at the returns, I don't know offhand.

Q. How often were you in the Chicago area in 2007?
A. I didn't leave here until, I want to say, August or September of '07.
Q. And then thereafter?
A. I was not back that year.
Q. You didn't work for Juskie in 2008, correct?
A. I might have done some stuff.
Q. You're not sure?
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Were you in Florida?
A. Part of the time, yeah.
Q. How often did you come back and forth between –
A. About every three months I tried to get back up here.
Q. For how long?
A. Sometimes a few weeks. Sometimes a month.
Q. Did you come back and work or did you take care of other things?
A. If I'd let Mark know I was back, "I've got something for you or I don't."

Q. Who is Mark?
A. Mark owns Juskie Printing.
Q. I think your interrogatory answers indicated from 1999 through 2006 you were employed in a barter situation; is that right?
A. With Mark, yes.
Q. What does that mean, exactly?
A. Well, he would owe me money and he would give me printing equipment instead of cash.
Q. He owed you money for working for him?
A. Well, he owed both Sharp Printing and me, personally, money. They are two different things. But he would just pay by saying, hey, I've got this or I've got this paper cutter or this or that. It was a barter.
Q. So you worked for him from 1999 to 2006 but did not earn any income in the traditional sense?
A. No money changed hands.
Q. He gave you things to pay you for projects?
A. Correct.
Q. You gave a deposition in the underlying case on January 24, 2013. Does that sound right?

Page 28

A. If it says it on there, yes.
Q. You took an oath that day?
A. Yes.
Q. You told the truth?
A. I tried to, to the best of my knowledge, on that day, yes.
Q. You told the truth in response to all of the questions that day, correct?
A. I tried to, yes.
Q. You testified you were last employed prior to the accident in May of 2011?
A. That would be with Juskie, yes.
Q. It's accurate –
A. Actually, I wasn't employed. I was a 1099 so I was self-employment.
Q. When in May did you stop working for Juskie, whether it be as an employee or an independent contractor?
A. I believe it was the end of May.
Q. Then from the beginning of June until your accident on June 28, 2011, you were not employed; is that an accurate statement?
A. Correct.
Q. You were not even acting as an independent contractor for any business from that period of time, correct?

A. Not during that month, no.
Q. Your deposition testimony from 2013 is typed up on 175 pages. I don't intend to go back over each of those details.
A. Okay.
Q. It's fair to say you were injured, your arm was injured on June 28, 2011, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Which arm was that?
A. My right arm.
Q. As a result of the injury, you hired the Popovich law firm to explore a recovery in the case?
A. I hired them to represent me, yes.
Q. You hired them to represent you and file a lawsuit against David Gagnon who was operating the chainsaw that injured you, correct?
A. He was one of them, yes.
Q. I'm asking you if you hired him to – listen to the question, please.
David Gagnon was operating the chainsaw, correct?
A. Correct.

Q. No one else was operating the chainsaw?
A. Correct.
Q. You also hired Popovich to sue Bill and Caroline McGuire, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. They were the land owners where your accident occurred?
A. They did own the land, yes.
Q. The accident occurred at their house, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. This was in the backyard, so to speak?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans Mast was the primary handling attorney at the Popovich firm for your case?
A. That's who I met with, yes.
Q. Did any other lawyer communicate with you while Popovich was handling your case?
A. The lady who sat in on my deposition. Ms. Freeman I think it is. I'm not sure about that.
Q. Generally speaking, Hans Mast, though, was the primary handling attorney?
A. Yes.
Q. Before you hired the Popovich firm in May of 2012, is that the correct time period?

A. I don't think so. I don't think they filed it until then, but I might be wrong. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Was there a retainer agreement executed in May 2012?
A. I don't think I paid a retainer.
Q. Did you execute an attorney engagement agreement in May 2012?
A. I believe it was much earlier than that.
Q. You only executed one engagement letter or engagement agreement with Popovich, correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. Before you executed or came to an arrangement with Popovich, had you talked to any other lawyers about investigating –
A. One.
Q. Let me finish the question.
– investigating or filing the lawsuit?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that?
A. I went back to the same firm that handled the car accident for me years earlier.
Q. What was the name of that firm?

A. They changed names when I went back there. It was Weiss – I have to go back through paperwork and get you the actual name.
Q. They are known as a personal injury firm; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you not hire them to take your case?
A. The man who handled my case previously with the car accident was no longer with the firm and they said go find somebody else.
Q. I'm not sure what one has to do with the other.
A. I don't either. I just said okay and I went and found somebody else.
Q. Did you meet with an attorney at that firm?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you tell them what happened with your incident?
A. Yes.
Q. They told you that they did not want to take the case; is that right?
A. Yes.

Q. They declined the case?
A. They declined the case.
Q. Did they tell you why they declined the case?
A. No.
Q. You next went to the Popovich firm?
A. Yes.
Q. They took the case?
A. Yes.
Q. They, ultimately, filed a lawsuit against Gagnon and the McGuires on May 15, 2012; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. You reviewed the lawsuit and approved it, correct?
A. I didn't – I never got anything to review.
Q. Did you ever read the lawsuit?
A. No. I was never given any paperwork.
Q. Back to the incorporation of Sharp. What interaction did you have with corporate lawyers when they were first retained?
A. McAndrews?
Q. Correct.

Page 34

A. What relationship?
Q. What experience did you have with McAndrews when you first retained them?
A. He was good.
Q. How often did you meet with him or speak to him?
A. Once a year.
Q. Did he file corporate returns or other documents for the company?
A. No. I had to file them. He just made sure they were all done right, I believe.
Q. Have you ever had occasion to hire a criminal lawyer?
A. I did in 1990. My mom and dad had to hire one. Not me.
Q. Did you hire a criminal lawyer for your mom and dad?
A. No. They hired one for me.
Q. Who was that?
A. Give me a second. You're digging back far in my memory. Driscoll was the last name.
Q. This was a McHenry County-based criminal lawyer?
A. No. Des Plaines.

Q. What was the general nature of the reason for the need for a lawyer?
A. Drug possession.
Q. Were you convicted of it?
A. Yes. I pled guilty.
Q. That was a Cook County case, then?
A. No. It was a McHenry County case.
Q. The lawyer was in Des Plaines, though?
A. Yes.
Q. But he represented you in McHenry County in criminal court?
A. Yes.
Q. Throughout the case you met with the lawyer?
A. A few times.
Q. While Popovich represented you in the underlying personal injury case, did you ever communicate with any other lawyers about your case?
A. At the end, yes.
Q. Popovich withdrew sometime in March 2015?
A. Correct.
Q. And Brad Balke entered his appearance on March 19, 2015. Does that sound correct?
A. That is correct.

Q. Popovich also withdrew that day, right?
A. I don't know if it was on the same day. I'd have to look at the paperwork.
Q. Besides Mr. Balke, had you talked to any other lawyers towards the end of the relationship with Popovich?
A. Yes.
Q. How many?
A. Hundreds.
Q. Hundreds of lawyers?
A. I'm not kidding. Yes.
Q. Did you ask those lawyers to take your case?
A. I asked them to review it.
Q. Did any of them take the case?
A. No.
Q. They all reviewed it, though?
A. Yes. Most took the time to review it.
Q. Did any of them tell you why they didn't want to take the case?
A. There were different reasons I got from various. Some people just didn't get back to me and some people wrote me letters. I think I gave you some of those. But I got various reasons back from attorneys.

Q. I don't recall seeing any lawyers, but I would ask you to search for those.
MS. WILLIAMS: We'll search for those. I'll make a note.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. As you sit here, do you recall the basis for any attorney declining to take your personal injury case over from Popovich?
A. Say that again.
Q. As you sit here today, do you recall any of the reasons why any attorney declined to take your personal injury case over from the Popovich firm?
A. Yes.
Q. What were those reasons?
A. I remember a few. One I was looking at local lawyers in McHenry County and I was told like – I can name them. My sister was married to him.
Anyway, I was told if Tom Popovich says you don't have a case, you don't have a case and we're not even going to look at it. That I got a lot of it.

Q. That's one reason. Any others?
A. That I got locally a lot of. As I started to work away from local further out finding attorneys, the thing was your decision to settle with the McGuires was a mistake and we don't take it because of that.
Q. Who said that?
A. Sal Ferris.
Q. When did you speak to Sal Ferris?
A. I don't know the exact date.
Q. When did he –
A. He wasn't the only one.
Q. When did he say that to you, that you just described?
A. He said it in a letter and he said it on the phone and he sent me an e-mail, I think. I don't remember the ways that he contacted me. I'd have to go back and look.
MS. WILLIAMS: We'll find it.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Besides Sal Ferris, can you recall any other attorney, specifically, that told you they wouldn't take the case because of your settlement with the McGuires?

Page 39

A. Yes.
Q. Who was that?
A. There was at least three firms downtown here right near the Daley Center that I came down to see and I don't remember their names, but they – I got the same thing out of all three of them.
Q. Did any of the lawyers give you any other reason for declining your case?
A. Mostly it was because they knew Popovich or it was the McGuire settlement.
Q. Did any lawyer tell you that they didn't want to take your case because there was questionable liability against David Gagnon?
A. No.
Q. Did any lawyer tell you that there was questionable liability against the property owners, the McGuires?
A. No.
Q. We're jumping ahead, but did you have different lawyers that handled a binding arbitration or binding mediation for you in the underlying case?
A. Yes.
Q. Their name was Baudin?
A. Yes.

Page 40

Q. Why did Brad Balke not handle the binding arbitration?
A. I fired him.
Q. When did you fire Brad Balke?
A. I'd have to look at the dates. I'm not sure, exactly.
Q. Why did you fire him?
A. Because he forced me to undergo the exact mediation at the McHenry County court in front of Judge Meyer that Hans Mast set up that I specifically said no to.
Q. When was this mediation?
A. I'd have to look at the dates again.
Q. Was it a pretrial conference?
A. Yes.
Q. You actually attended this pretrial conference?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. What happened?
A. I said no.
Q. You said no about what?
A. They offered an amount of money and I said no.
Q. The defendants offered an amount of money?

A. Yes.
Q. Was this before or after the McGuires settled out of the case?
A. They were settled.
Q. So there was an offer of settlement from David Gagnon or his insurer?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall what that amount of money was?
A. $50,000.
Q. You refused the offer?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did that cause you to fire Brad Balke?
A. He wouldn't take it any further than that and he agreed to when I hired him. He agreed that that was not going to be the end of it and then he changed his tune, and I said, you know what – and the other thing was, I finally got through to the Baudins who I wanted to take the case because they had helped my family – his dad helped my family many eons earlier.
Q. Did you ever talk to Brad Balke about the liability or lack of liability by the McGuires, the property owners in the case?

A. I don't think so. We were on the Gagnon case.
Q. You didn't discuss the McGuires?
A. There may have been a word or something, but that's not what he was there for.
Q. He never gave you an opinion one way or the other whether the settlement was appropriate?
A. I don't believe Brad did, no. Like I said – I don't think he did.
Q. At some point after your accident did you hire the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that for –
A. I didn't hire.
Q. I know you're anticipating what I'm saying.
A. I was trying to correct myself. I did not hire.
Q. Either way, let me try to get out my question before you raise any kind of response, just so she can take down –
A. Count before I answer.

Q. That's a good idea.
Did you ever retain the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. NO.
Q. Did you have any relationship with Daley Disability –
A. Yes.
Q. – Law? Let me finish it before you answer. I know you're anticipating what you think I'm going to say, but it might not come out the way you think. Either way, she can't take down both of us talking over each other.
What relationship did you ever have with the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. They stepped in as a substitute counsel for the law firm that I did hire.
Q. You originally hired some other law firm to represent you in connection with social security disability?
A. Yes.
Q. What was the name of that original law –
A. The lady's ladies name was Margaret Bradshaw.
Q. You terminated your relationship with her one way or another?

A. No.
Q. Why did Daley Disability Law substitute in for her?
A. I was told by – I have to go back and look at the communications exactly how it happened, but I was told that, basically, they are going to be taking over the hearing part of it. I don't know why. I don't know whether they sub out work. I don't know how it works.
Q. Would it be fair to say that you first retained Ms. Bradshaw in 2012 sometime?
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Is that approximately when you applied for social security?
A. It sounds like it.
Q. The Daley Disability Law Firm came in sometime in 2012 as well?
A. I don't know exactly when. I don't know.
Q. Would it be 2012 or 2013?
A. I know that they were there and – I know that something had to be signed when we went in for the hearings. Margaret Bradshaw had to sign something for the judge allowing Daley Disability to

Q. Did you file for bankruptcy while your personal injury case was pending?
A. Yes.
Q. When did you file for bankruptcy?
A. I'd have to look at the paperwork again, but I don't believe that was until, I want to say, about eight or nine months, but I'm guessing, after the McGuire settlement.
MS. WILLIAMS: The question was what month and year.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know exactly. I'd have to go back and look at the paperwork.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Did you hire a lawyer to represent you in a bankruptcy?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that lawyer?
A. David Stretch.
MS. WILLIAMS: If it helps, we can stipulate to the date the bankruptcy was filed.

Page 46

MR. FLYNN: That's fine. I think we've got some e-mails that may reflect when it was. I just wondered if he knew offhand.
MS. WILLIAMS: I can stipulate, at least, that it was 2014.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. You filed for bankruptcy while the Popovich firm was still representing you –
A. Yes.
Q. – in the underlying case, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Sometimes I'll still pause in my question so if you could please pause before you answer.
In the underlying case you answered written discovery; is that true?
A. I believe so.
Q. Then you later testified at your deposition January 24, 2013, correct?
A. If that's the date, yes.
Q. Ultimately, David Gagnon was also deposed, true?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you present for his deposition?
A. No.

Page 47

Q. Did Caroline McGuire give a deposition in that case?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. Were you present for that dep?
A. No.
Q. What about Bill McGuire's deposition?
A. I was not present.
Q. Did you e-mail back and forth with Hans Mast a fair amount during the Popovich firm's representation of you?
A. By "fair amount," what do you mean?
Q. Did you regularly e-mail with Hans Mast?
A. Yes.
Q. Those e-mail communications have all been produced in this case?
A. Yes.
Q. On to the exhibits. This will be 1.

Do you recognize this document?
A. Yes.
Q. We've been providing you with various copies of the signature page in the case that's been back and forth between me and your counsel.
I don't, frankly, know if this verification that's attached is the one that went with this document, but I'll just ask you, for the record, if these are your answers, that's your signature, and that this verification is accurate?
A. That is my signature on there, yes.
Q. What was the e-mail address you used in the communication with Hans Mast?
A. Primarily it was pdulberg@comcast.net.
Q. His address was hansmast@comcast.net?
A. And he switched it to at&t.net.
Q. Did you use some other e-mail address as well?
A. I may have accidentally e-mailed him a couple of times from a Yahoo account.

A. I no longer have the Yahoo account.
Q. Did you search through the Comcast account?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you search for PDFs or attachments to those e-mails that you produced?
A. Everything that I got, I turned over. I had converted the e-mails to PDFs because Comcast started purging the e-mails after so many years, so I turned them all into PDFs.
MS. WILLIAMS: The question was what did you search in your in box.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. What did I search?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask you a different question. You produced e-mails in this case?
A. Yes.
Q. You turned e-mails into PDFs and sent them to your lawyer; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. Some of the e-mails I reviewed have an icon that indicates there was a PDF or some other attachment to the e-mail. Do you understand that?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you produce the attachments to each of the e-mails in this case?
A. We went through that. I produced the attachments that I still had.
Q. There were some that were not available, correct?
A. Yeah. When I looked at them, 99 percent of them were already part of some other document that we turned over. I think 100 percent of them.
Q. At some point in time while Hans was handling your case, did he start to communicate with you relative to his analysis of the McGuires' liability in the case?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he start to generally advise you that he didn't believe that there was a strong case for liability against the McGuires?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that Hans' opinion was that the McGuires did not have liability in the case because they did not control the work that David Gagnon was doing?

Page 51

A. Yes.
Q. That's generally a fair summary of Hans' opinion?
A. Not quite exactly those words, but yeah.
Q. The McGuires' liability as property owners was questionable because based on Hans' analysis of the evidence, they did not control the work or the manner of work of David Gagnon on the date of the accident; is that a fair summary?
A. Depends on which time he said that.
Q. Did he say things like that over and over again?
A. He did say things like that, yes.
Q. Again, I don't want to go over the facts you already testified to with regards to the date of the accident. At some point in time was William McGuire swimming in the swimming pool?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that an above ground pool or –
A. Above ground.
Q. Was there a fair amount of time during the day that Mr. McGuire was inside the house watching television?
A. Maybe – he went inside the house for probably about 45 minutes before the accident happened. I don't know that he was watching television.

MR. FLYNN: Let's mark the next exhibit as 2.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 2, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 2, which is an e-mail chain including e-mails from November 18, 2013, are these e-mails between you and Hans Mast?
A. It looks like it, yes.
Q. I think the time stamps on these e-mails go from the bottom, which would be page 2, to the top of the first page, correct?
A. It's backwards, yes.
Q. In the original e-mail at 1:28 p.m., did Hans Mast relay to you a $5,000 settlement offer from the McGuires?
A. Which – where are you at?
Q. We're on Exhibit 2, which is also labeled as Bates label POP 181. At the bottom of the page, does Hans relay to you a settlement offer for $5,000?

A. Yes.
Q. He was telling you that the McGuires' attorney offered to settle the case for $5,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding that that was a settlement just for the McGuires, not including David Gagnon?
A. Yes.
Q. In the e-mail Hans says, quote, "As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now."
Is that an accurate reading?
A. Of that sentence, yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that he suggested that you take the $5,000 but didn't force you to take it?
A. It says, "So my suggestion is..."
Q. Then did you respond to the e-mail?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans replied again at 8:07 p.m. that same day, right?
A. Yes.

Q. He said, "Paul, whether you like it or not, they don't have a legal liability for your injury because they were not directing the work."
Is that right?
A. Part of it, yes.
Q. Was my prior summary of Hans' legal analysis a fair summary in view of these e-mails and his opinion that he relayed to you?
A. I think it went further than this, and other things, but yes.
Q. As far as these e-mails, I've accurately –
A. This e-mail, yes.
Q. What else did he tell you about the McGuires and why he didn't think they would be found liable in the case?
A. I'm pulling out of memory because I can't quote which document it's off of.
Q. That's what we're here for.
A. I can only give you the gist.
Q. I'll ask you for the exact language, but if you don't have it –
A. At one point he defined what an independent contractor is for me and he said that

Page 55

David was an independent contractor and that the McGuires weren't liable because they had hired somebody outside even though it's their own son, he's an adult, outside to do the work and that they weren't responsible.
Q. By the way, how old was David at the time that this accident occurred?
A. I'm adding. If I was 41 – I don't know what his birthday is, but I'm assuming he would be 44, 45.
Q. Is it fair to say that there were two 40-plus-year-olds, a 41- and a 44-year-old trimming trees with a chainsaw in David's parent's backyard that day, correct?
A. I was not using it. There was one 44-year-old using a chainsaw.
Q. You, the 41-year-old was holding some branches for him?
A. Yes. Just before the accident, yes.
Q. Up until this point in time when Hans is providing this legal analysis to you, you had a fair number of occasions to interact with lawyers, as we've discussed today, correct?
A. At this point, the only lawyer that I interacted with was the first one.

Q. I'm talking about in your lifetime. You had a corporate lawyer, you had a criminal lawyer, another personal injury lawyer –
A. I didn't hire –
Q. Let me finish. You had experience with lawyers representing you up to this point in time?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding that lawyers evaluate cases differently?
A. Yes.
Q. And judges evaluate cases differently?
A. Sure. That's fair.
Q. Would it be fair to say that some laws in our country are clearer and some are open to interpretation?
A. I think all of them are.
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. Calls for speculation.
If you understand the question, you can answer it.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Would you say, for example, that the tax code is a little more clearcut than common law that's created by cases and case precedent?

A. I'm not real familiar with tax law. I have accountants for that.
Q. How about an easier question. The stop sign means that you stop, and if you go through it, it's pretty clear that you're liable for a traffic violation?
A. I'll agree with that.
Q. The legal liability for a property owner in Illinois might be a little more complicated; is that a fair statement?
A. I don't know.
Q. Would it be fair to say, in your opinion or your knowledge of the law, the property owner isn't necessarily liable because somebody is injured on their property?
A. Are you talking about what I know now or what I knew back when this was?
Q. At any time.
A. What I know now is in the circumstances that we were in, they were very liable.
Q. I'm just asking if – just because somebody is injured on a property owner's property, they are not necessarily liable, correct? Other factors are required too.

MS. WILLIAMS: I'm going to object for – he's not an expert and can't testify to legal analysis.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. As you sit here today, do you know whether a premises liability case involves multiple factors to prove liability against the property owner?
A. I don't know. I'd say that's fair. You're asking the wrong person for that.
Q. It was Hans' opinion that the McGuires did not control the work based on the evidence, correct?
A. In my opinion?
Q. That's not what I'm asking.
Was it Hans' opinion –
A. I can't –
Q. Let me just finish.
Did Hans tell you that it was his opinion that the McGuires were not liable because they did not control the work?
A. He said that right there, yes.
Q. Do you believe that he truly felt that way? That was his legal opinion?

A. Do you want the Monday morning quarterbacking version or at the time?
Q. I'm asking if at that time you felt that he truly believed that the McGuires did not have liability?
A. At the time I trusted him, yes. I hired him to represent me, and yeah.
Q. You believed that he was relying his honest legal opinion to you at that time?
A. Yes.
Q. Including on November 18, 2013?
A. Yes.
Q. You did not accept the settlement offer of $5,000 that he relayed to you on that day, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you ultimately meet with Hans to discuss the settlement offer?
A. I think it was the day before this, but I'm not sure. It was either the day before or the day after.
MS. WILLIAMS: I think the question was, did you meet with him, at all, not the date.

Page 60

A. Yes.
MR. FLYNN: Can we mark this as Exhibit 3, please.

BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 3. Do you recognize this memorandum?
A. Yes.
Q. You may have seen it from the document production that we made in this case. This is a memorandum drafted by Hans Mast, which purportedly memorializes a meeting that he had with you on November 20, 2013.
Does this refresh your memory as to when you met with him or if you met with him?
A. If he took the memorandum on the same day, then sure.
Q. In the memo Hans says, "I met with Paul and his friend."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.

Q. Did you meet with Hans and some third person –
A. Yes.
Q. – at or about this time regarding the case?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that friend?
A. Tom Kost.
Q. Who is Tom Kost?
A. My brother.
Q. Not that it matters necessarily for privilege purposes, but can you tell me how Tom Kost is your brother?
A. We have the same mom.
Q. He was with you and observed the meeting between you and Hans?
A. Yes.
Q. The $5,000 settlement offer was discussed, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. At that time did Hans, again, relay his opinion as to the questionable liability about the McGuires – strike that.
Did he relay to you his opinion about the questionable nature of the McGuires' liability?

A. At the meeting with Tom, yes.
Q. He advised you they maintain they were not directing Dave's work. That was the McGuires' position, correct?
A. I don't know that he stayed on that at that meeting. At different times he gave different reasons.
Q. The next line says, "Paul maintains the McGuires controlled everything that Dave was doing."
Is that an accurate reflection of your opinion?
A. Yes.
Q. As you sit here today, do you know if that statement is consistent with your own deposition testimony from the underlying case?
A. Yes.
Q. We'll come back to that. Did you tell Hans that you wanted to read the depositions of the McGuires and David Gagnon's depositions?
A. Say that again.
Q. Did you tell Paul that you wanted to read the depositions of the McGuires and Dave Gagnon's depositions?

Page 63

A. Did I tell Paul?
Q. I'm sorry. Did you tell Hans that?
A. That I wanted to read the McGuires and David Gagnon's depositions?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes, I did.
Q. What was the purpose of your wanting to review those depositions?
A. Hans had told me that what they said in their depositions meant that they had no liability.
Q. You wanted to review the testimony to determine whether you wanted to consider the $5,000 settlement offer; is that correct?
A. Right.
Q. Did you do that?
A. Eventually, yes.
Q. Before you accepted the offer?
A. I think so.
Q. So sometime after this meeting on November 20, 2013 and before you accepted the settlement offer on January 29, 2014, did you review those three deposition transcripts?
A. I'll correct you. I did not accept the offer on January 20th. I signed a release on

January 29th.
Q. Fair point. Did you read the depositions between those two dates, November 20, 2013 and January 29, 2014?
A. Yes.
Q. Those are –
A. I believe I asked him – I don't know – it may be a little earlier because I don't know that I asked him before or after the meeting. I don't remember. I'd have to go back in the e-mails to give the date.
Q. Some point in time between those two dates you read the deps?
A. I may have asked for them before. I don't know without seeing the e-mail. It was, roughly, in the last quarter of that year, yes. Or the first month. I don't remember the first time that I asked to read them. I don't remember off the top of my head.
Q. At any point in time did you ever grant Hans authority to make a settlement demand in the case?
A. No.

Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 4. This is a copy of the original complaint in this instant case. It reflects a filing date of November 28, 2017.

Is this your original legal malpractice complaint against the Popovich firm and Hans Mast?

A. I believe so.

Q. Did you review and approve the allegations in this complaint?

A. For the most part. I wanted to reword some things, but the lawyer, they do their thing.

Q. At the time you were represented by the Gooch firm is when you filed this lawsuit, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Directing your attention back to Exhibit 1, if you still have it. If you could turn to page 10.

The answer to Interrogatory No. 24 indicates that on November 4, 2013, Mast was granted authority to investigate a settlement but a specific dollar amount was never provided. Do you see that?

A. He was verbally granted authority to investigate, yes.

Q. Who did you want him to investigate a settlement with?

A. The McGuires.

Q. Just the McGuires or the McGuires and –

A. He wanted to do it. I didn't. I said, "If you want to look at that, go ahead."

Q. Did you grant him authority to investigate a settlement with David Gagnon as well?

A. I don't know if I did or not, off the top of my head, but that would have been much later.

Q. Eventually did you tell Hans that you would agree to accept the $5,000 settlement offer from the McGuires?

A. Eventually did I tell him that?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. When did you tell him that?

A. I want to say just before Christmas in December of 2013.

Q. There's no doubt in your mind that you relayed your acceptance of the $5,000 settlement offer to Hans Mast before Christmas Day, which would be December 25, 2013?

A. Right.

Q. Then did Hans mail to you a settlement release by letter dated January 24, 2014?

A. I'd like to see the letter, but yeah, I believe so.

Q. I believe it's –

A. I believe he had to mail it a couple times because I didn't get it.

Is Exhibit D a January 24, 2014 cover letter from Hans Mast to you enclosing the general release and settlement agreement from defense counsel for Caroline and Bill McGuire?

A. That's what it says.

Q. In the letter did he ask you to – it looks like it might be a typo. It says, "Please release and return it to me in the enclosed self-addressed stamped envelope at your earliest convenience."

A. Right, but I believe it was just a release – it was all tied into one.

Q. This letter is unsigned. Did you receive the letter unsigned?

A. Did I receive this unsigned?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever seen a signed copy of this letter?

A. No.

Q. If I could direct your attention to the next page of Exhibit D. Is that page 1 of the general release and settlement agreement?

A. Exhibit D?

Q. Correct.

Q. Is this what you received attached to the cover letter?
A. I don't think so. Let me see. Yes, this looks like it because it's got these things I remember.
Q. When did you receive this letter and the attachment?
A. I would say I wrote back on January 29th and I probably got it that day, signed it and sent it back.
Q. The copy of the release is also unsigned. It's attached as exhibit -- part of Exhibit D to your second amended complaint.
Do you see the signature lines and the notary signature here that's missing?
A. Yes.
Q. Is this the document that you signed and sent back to Hans Mast?
A. The document that I signed had my signature.
Q. I'm asking if this is the same document that you signed and sent back to him?
A. Yes.

Page 70

Q. Right now we don't have a signed copy. I don't know that I've seen one in the case.
MS. WILLIAMS: Can we go off the record for a second?
MR. FLYNN: Sure.
(WHEREUPON, discussion was had off the record.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Is there any doubt, in your mind, that Exhibit D is the letter and attachment that you received from Hans Mast?
A. No. I believe that this is it.
Q. You signed some copy of this release and sent it back to Hans on January 29; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You accepted the settlement offer prior to Christmas and presumably defense counsel or Hans drafted the settlement release and then Hans mailed it to you, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. At any point in time from December 25th until you received this settlement release, did you contact any lawyer to discuss whether it would be appropriate to let the McGuires out for 5,000?

Page 71

A. I believe I contacted Hans again.
Q. Besides Hans, did you talk to anyone else?
A. No.
Q. Was there anything preventing you from seeking a second opinion from some other lawyer at that time?
A. No.
Q. Directing your attention to Exhibit E attached to the second amended complaint, the second amended complaint, again, being Exhibit 5. Is this an e-mail from you to Hans on January 29, 2014?
A. This is the e-mail chain between me and Hans, yes.
Q. Down below at the bottom of the page, January 29 at 10:51 a.m., it appears that you were questioning Hans regarding some of the language in the release, including social security disability check boxes. Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans responded to you and then at the top of the page here at 1:59 p.m. it says, "Okay, it's signed and in the mail."
A. Correct.

Q. What did you mean by that?
A. I signed it and mailed it.
Q. Did you -- where did you mail it from?
A. My home.
Q. How did you do that?
A. Put a stamp on the envelope and put it in the mailbox, put the flag up and waited for the mailman.
Q. Is the mailbox attached to your home or is it --
A. It's out on the street.
Q. You walked down there and you put the mail -- the envelope in the mailbox, put the flag up and --
A. That is correct.
Q. Your understanding of signing that release and sending it back to your lawyer was that you would agree to take the $5,000 settlement, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans didn't deliver the letter to you personally. He mailed it to you, correct?
A. He mailed it to me?

Q. Do you recall an allegation in your complaint or amended complaint or second amended complaint in this case alleging that you were pressured or alleging undue influence by Hans in urging you to accept the $5,000 settlement from the McGuires?
A. Yes.
Q. How is it, as you sit here today, can you tell me how Hans unduly influenced you to accept the $5,000 settlement offer?
A. I don't know what Hans was thinking. How did I feel influenced?
Q. Unduly influenced.
Let me put it this way. He didn't put a gun to your head?
A. No.
Q. He suggested that you take the settlement?
A. Correct.
Q. He didn't force you to take the settlement?
A. Correct.
Q. It was your decision?

Page 74

A. Correct.
Q. You signed it and you sent it back to him in the mail?
A. Yes.
Q. Aside from your e-mails with Hans on January 29, did you call him that day?
A. I believe so.
Q. Did you also discuss whether it was appropriate to accept the McGuires' $5,000 settlement offer at that time?
A. Yes.
Q. You deliberated on it and decided to take it, correct?
A. There wasn't much – it was take it or get nothing.
Q. You had the opportunity to deliberate on it, correct?
A. For that day, yeah.
Q. You had reviewed the transcripts of the McGuire depositions and David Gagnon's depositions in order to provide you with some information in order to determine whether to accept the settlement offer, correct?
A. I believe I did try to read those, yes.

Q. Did you call Hans or e-mail him and question him with respect to the evidence, the testimony contained in those deposition transcripts?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you say to him and what did he say to you?
A. There were many conversations over the phone and I'm sure some through e-mails.
Q. He continued to tell you that it was his opinion that the liability on the McGuires is questionable because they did not control David Gagnon's work that day, correct?
A. It depends on which time. Sometimes he said because they didn't tell them how to squeeze the trigger. It depends which time you are talking about.
Q. Again, there was nothing preventing you from seeking a second opinion from some other lawyer at the time you signed the settlement release and sent it back to Hans, correct?
A. From the time I received it, signed it and sent it back?
Q. Right.
A. No. It was a matter of hours. I got it

that morning.
Q. You decided to mail it that day, right?
A. He needed it. He said now or you're not going to get anything.
Q. There was nothing preventing you from seeking the advice of another attorney at that time?
A. At that time it was time. It was now or nothing.
Q. You were in the comfort of your own house when you received the letter, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You had the ability to go find another lawyer and ask them to discuss the case at that time. You had done it hundreds of times earlier – strike that.
After the settlement with the McGuires, you continued to prosecute the case against Gagnon, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding as to what, if any, insurance coverage he had?
A. Yes.
Q. How much was that?
A. What time frame are you talking about?

Q. What was your initial understanding as to the limits on David Gagnon's insurance coverage?
A. Hans Mast told me he had $100,000.
Q. Was that in an e-mail?
A. There were — not initially, no, but later on he reiterated that in e-mails, yes.
Q. Did you, ultimately, learn that there was some additional amount of coverage with respect to Gagnon's policy?
A. Long after Hans Mast was gone, not part of the case.
Q. How much was the coverage?
A. The Allstate coverage, I believe, was 300,000.
Q. We'll talk about the settlement later, but did you ultimately settle the case again Gagnon for 300,000?
A. I believe it went to binding mediation.
Q. Was there an award of $300,000 based on a high/low agreement?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that if Hans made a mistake about the $100,000 in coverage, that that was corrected and there was never any harm done as a result of his —

A. No.
Q. Explain to me how you were harmed by the representation that there was $100,000 in coverage.
A. You want me to explain?
Q. Yes.
A. Had I known the value of the case, I would have not filed for bankruptcy.
Q. Explain to me why one has something to do with the other.
A. Is my family and me going to dump money into a black hole that we can't recover or is there a light at the end of the tunnel where I can pay them back.
Q. At the time that you filed for bankruptcy, had any settlement offer been made from David Gagnon or his lawyers to you?
A. At the time of when?
Q. When you filed for bankruptcy.
A. I don't think so. I'd have to check the dates, but I don't think so.
Q. As the case was progressing against David Gagnon, were your doctors deposed?
A. As the case progressed with David Gagnon,

Page 79

I believe they were deposed. I don't remember. I'd have to look at the dates.
Q. Discovery continued on in the case?
A. I believe one doctor was deposed after the McGuire settlement. I'm not sure, though.
Q. Did Hans continue to represent you for some period of time?
A. Yes.

Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 6. Do you recognize this e-mail chain?
A. Yes.
Q. This is from September 23, 2014. If we go from the bottom up, it appears that Hans said to you that he wanted to give you the option of finding other counsel at this point if you really want to take the case to trial, which I think ultimately will be necessary. Correct?
A. Are we at "before I proceed" or "that's the very reason"?

Q. "That's the very reason."
Is it fair to say he was suggesting you find another counsel in the case at that point?
A. Yes.
Q. He also said, "I just do not believe strongly that defense counsel will offer much in the way of settlement."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. That's his opinion regardless of what he believed the coverage limits to be; is that a fair statement?
A. Yes.
Q. You responded to him, he responded to you and then you wrote an e-mail to him at 8:25 p.m. that night?
A. Okay.
Q. Do you see that? Did you say, "First, I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to help prove David cut me with a chainsaw"?

point in time?
A. I believe I did, that summer. This is fall, September.
Q. You had already started looking for new lawyers?
A. I believe that Hans had told me to start looking for a new lawyer in April of that year.
Q. Did he say why?
A. We'd have to read his thing. He says why.
Q. Do you recall why he said that to you?
A. He did not feel that the case was provable against David. He did not feel the value of the case was worth it. He did not feel -- actually, this is 2014. The dates are rough.
Q. He thought the case against David was difficult, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you ever described the case as a he said, she said with respect to the facts of the accident?
A. He described that to me many times.
Q. Have you also --
A. And I used that back, yes.

Page 82

Q. Have you ever described this case as a he said, she said case?
A. I may have. I don't know.
Q. It is your word against David Gagnon's as to what happened and whose fault it was that day?
A. That's what Hans explained to me as what the problem was.
Q. Did you ever describe the accident as a he said, she said?
A. I don't think I called David a "she said" or me a "she said." I don't know. Right here I do.
Q. What do you say there?
A. I said, "I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to help prove David cut me with a chainsaw."
Q. He was denying that he even cut you, correct?
A. No, he never denied that.
Q. What was your reason for writing this sentence in that way?
A. Because Hans said that he believed David over me.
Q. With respect to what fact at issue?
A. His deposition versus mine. He said that I didn't make a good witness.

Page 83

Q. With respect to what points?
A. All of it. He was dumping me and he was coming up with his own excuses.
Q. You and David were the only ones that witnessed this accident?
A. Correct.
Q. Based on your understanding of how the evidence came out in the case, would you agree that there were differences with respect to the version of events?
A. Oh, yeah.
Q. There were differences between what he said happened and what you said happened?
A. Oh, definitely.
Q. Would it be fair to say, then, it would be up to the trier of fact, whether it be a judge or a jury, to determine who they believed?
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. Calls for a legal conclusion.
You can answer, if you understand.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I believe it would be up to a judge or jury, sure.

Page 84

Q. At the bottom of Exhibit 7 you say, "Bottom line Hans... do the best you can with what you got."
I'm sorry. I didn't mark this one yet. My apologies.

BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 7. Is this an e-mail chain between you and Hans?
A. I don't think it's a chain. I think it's one.
Q. Point is well taken. It's you writing to Hans?
A. Yes.
Q. At the bottom it sounds like you had been in the hospital with a migraine and then you wrote, "Bottom line, Hans... do the best you can with what you got."
A. Yes.
Q. What did you mean by that?

A. He wanted to settle, and I can tell you right now this letter was written after a very traumatic experience and -- let me read it and refresh myself. I'm melting down in this letter.
Q. You said after a traumatic experience. Are you referring to the bankruptcy filing from that day?
A. That, in combination with migraines, yes.
Q. David Stretch was your lawyer that filed bankruptcy for you?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you meet with Mr. Stretch and discuss the bankruptcy process before you hired him?
A. Yes.
Q. How long did you meet with him?
A. I think I asked about it. I don't know. It may have been a couple of months or a couple weeks before it got filed. I wanted to learn about it.
Q. Did you, ultimately, list the case against David Gagnon as an asset in your bankrupt filing?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Is that why the bankruptcy trustee became involved with the binding mediation?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever meet the bankruptcy trustee?
A. Yes. The first one.
Q. What was the name of that person?
A. The first one was Heeg was her last name. H-e-e-g, I think.
Q. Again, we established that Brad Balke became your lawyer in the case on March 19, 2015, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that your relationship with Hans Mast was deteriorating over the fall and beginning of the winter of 2015?
A. I would say it had been deteriorating long before that. You can see from the last exhibit I'm melting down and it was already started deteriorating.
Q. By the time you drafted Exhibit 7, had you talked to other lawyers about taking your case?
A. I have to go back and look, but probably. If he told me to look at other lawyers in April before this, yes.
Q. How many lawyers would you say you talked to between April and the time you drafted this e-mail on September 26?

A. I couldn't count that high, probably.
Q. Quite a few?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did any of them take your case?
A. No.
MR. FLYNN: Mark this as Exhibit 8.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 8, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 8. Is this an e-mail from you to Hans Mast?
A. Yes. It's an e-mail chain, yes.
Q. On February 22, 2015 at 7:42 p.m. you wrote to Hans, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Halfway down in that e-mail message you said, quote, "Now I'm left wondering... how hard it is to sue an attorney?"
A. That is true.
Q. You wrote that?
A. Yes.

Q. The next line you wrote, "And yes, I am and have been looking for someone who will take this case..."
A. That is not in reference to suing the attorney. That was in reference to the Gagnon case.
Q. What did the reference to suing an attorney mean?
A. That was me being angry.
Q. With Hans?
A. Yes. I was seeing red.
Q. You're suggesting that you may sue him?
A. Yeah. I didn't know that I could. I'm wondering about it.
Q. You, basically, made a threat, whether it be a veiled threat or an overt threat to sue him, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You, ultimately, sued him for legal malpractice, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that what you had in mind when you wrote this?
A. No. This was about dropping Gagnon. The malpractice is about dropping the McGuires.

Q. This –
A. We're talking – this is 2015.
Q. In this 2015 e-mail you are suggesting to Hans that you may sue him because of the McGuire settlement; is that right?
A. No.
Q. Then what is it that you're saying to him?
A. That if he damaged the Gagnon case, I didn't know if he did or didn't, and I'm threatening because I'm angry. You can see, again, I'm melting down here. These are emotional outbursts, I guess.
Q. Moving up the page a little bit also on February 22, 2015 at 8:14 p.m., you say, "To be honest, you took this case knowing it was my word versus his."
A. Yes.
Q. He said, he said, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that a fair characterization of the case, your word against David's?
A. That's how Hans kept describing it. That's the way I put it back to him, yes.
Q. You didn't correct him or dispute his characterization, did you?

A. No. I used his characterization.
Q. You agreed with it?
A. He said – how did it go? We had conversations between these e-mails on the phone. Then we would hang up and I would get angry and type it in an e-mail, type whatever it was that bothered me so he had it.
Q. Let me ask another question, if that's okay.
Did you ever correct Hans if he called this a he said, he said case? Did you ever say it's more than that?
A. Do I ever say it's more than that?
Q. Did you ever correct him? If he said it's a he said, he said case, did you say no, that's not right?
A. He said there's no witnesses. I said, "I'm a witness."
Q. You're one of the hes. It's your word against David Gagnon's, as you said in this e-mail?
A. Yes.
MR. FLYNN: If I could have you mark that as Exhibit 9.

Page 91

(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 9, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Exhibit 9, is that Brad Balke's substitute appearance that was filed on March 19, 2015 in the case against Gagnon?
A. It looks like it, yes.
Q. Back to Exhibit 5, which is the second amended complaint. If I could direct your attention to Exhibit F. This appears to be a more complete copy of another e-mail we just talked about. Is Exhibit F more of the February 22, 2015 e-mail chain?
A. I'm not sure if that's separate or the same. Oh, it looks like it.
Q. At 7:20 p.m. Hans wrote to you and said, "Paul, I can no longer represent you in the case. We obviously have differences of opinion as to the value of the case."
Right?
A. Yes.
Q. He says, "I've been telling you over a year now the problems with the case and you just don't see them."

Page 92

Correct?
A. That's what it says.
Q. Obviously, a difference of opinion, right?
A. Yes. Are you talking about difference of opinion as to the value or difference of opinion of the problems within the case?
Q. Let's go on. He says, "You keep telling me how injured you are and completely ignore that it doesn't matter if you passed away from the accident because we still have to prove that the defendant was at fault. While you think it is very clear, it is not. My guess is that seven out of ten times you will lose the case outright. That means zero. That's why I've been trying to convince you to agree to a settlement. You clearly do not want to."
Did I accurately read that?
A. Just that part of that paragraph, yes.
Q. So Hans is telling you that in his opinion your case against Gagnon you're going to lose it seven out of ten times, correct?
A. In this one, yes.
Q. He's acknowledging that you may have a chance.

A. I think later on he says nine out of ten.
Q. In this e-mail he says seven out of ten you will lose.
A. Yes.
Q. He's recognizing three times out of ten you may win, right?
A. I don't know what Hans is thinking.
Q. Is that what he said?
A. He says seven out of ten times you lose.
Q. You understood that there are risks in taking the case to trial that you could lose?
A. There are unforeseen risks, yes.
Q. There are always risks, period, in taking a case to trial?
A. Yes.
Q. Before you hired Brad Balke and after Hans told you he couldn't represent you, did you talk to any other lawyers about taking your case?
A. Yes.
Q. How many?
A. I can't tell you. A lot.
Q. Did any of them tell you that they wouldn't take the case because they didn't think you could prevail against Gagnon?

A. No.
Q. Not one?
A. No.
Q. What are the names of any of the lawyers you talked to about taking your case over from Popovich?
A. I can't tell you without looking at documents who it was and what date it was, what it was between these two.
Q. I don't think documents I produced would help you in that regard.
I'll just ask you based on your memory the names of any lawyers you met with from the time Hans wrote this February 22 e-mail –
A. I believe –
Q. Let me finish.
A. I believe –
MS. WILLIAMS: He has not finished his question.
THE WITNESS: Sorry.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. From the time that Hans wrote this February 22 e-mail and the time that Brad Balke enters an appearance on March 19. Just the name of any lawyer you –

A. I believe that Sal Ferris that I was talking about was one of the lawyers that I talked to.
Q. You're not sure? You believe that he was?
A. In between this time and this time?
Q. Yes.
A. I believe it's right around then.
Q. What type of law practice does Sal Ferris have?
A. I believe personal injury.
Q. Did you ever talk to him about taking your case before that date?
A. Before the date of this e-mail?
Q. Yes.
A. I'd have to look at it.
Q. He wasn't one of the original attorneys that you spoke with at the beginning of the case?
A. No.
Q. Fair to say once Balke entered his appearance on March 19, 2015 that Mast and Popovich were no longer your attorneys, correct?

Page 96

A. When Balke enters his appearance?
Q. Yes.
A. I would believe that, yes.
Q. They were terminated and Balke stepped in?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell me how the binding mediation which proceeded on December 8, 2015 evolved and came to be.
A. I was ordered into it from a bankruptcy court.
Q. Why is that?
A. I believe that the trustee put a motion up. I don't know who did it. I assume it was the trustee and the court ordered that it be put into binding mediation.
Q. Did you appear at the mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall the name of the mediator?
A. Not off the top of my head, no.
Q. One of the exhibits to your second amended complaint indicates it was retired Judge James Etchingham.
A. That sounds familiar.

Q. Do you recall how long the mediation lasted?
A. All day.
Q. Do you know if the parties submitted mediation briefs or statements to the judge?
A. I believe both sides submitted a whole bunch of things.
Q. The Boudins represented you in this mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. Because you had fired Balke by this point?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. Directing your attention, again, to Exhibit 5, the second amended complaint and Exhibit G. Exhibit G is, apparently, a memorialization of the mediation award. Do you see that?
A. It's how the judge decided to break it down, yes.
Q. Do you see that there's an award for future medical expenses of $200,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Since that date of December 8, 2015, have you received any medical treatment relative to your injuries –

A. Yes.
Q. Let me finish. Strike the question.
Since that date, December 8, 2015, have you received any medical treatment for your injuries incurred on January 28, 2011?
A. You're asking since the date of the binding mediation?
Q. That's right.
A. Yes.
Q. What medical treatment have you received?
A. I do an ongoing with the neurologist for the dystonia.
Q. That's in your right arm?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you calculated the medical bills that you've incurred since that day?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Are they anywhere near $200,000?
A. It depends if you calculate with or without insurance. I know what I pay, but then I have to pay for the insurance that pays for that.
Q. How much have you paid out of pocket since that date for medical treatment on your arm?

Page 99

A. I don't know, offhand.
Q. Was there any doctor that opined that you would require $200,000 in future medical expenses?
A. I believe so.
Q. Who was that?
A. I believe that was Dr. Patel. I don't know that she said $200,000. She was the doctor that was handling it at the time.
Q. Did you discuss your injury with the mediator at the mediation?
A. He did ask me a few questions.
Q. How much time did you spend with him?
A. On and off. He would come in and ask me questions and then go away and then come in and would ask me questions and then go away.
I don't remember which one was the mediator, which one was the Allstate adjuster, which one was the – I don't remember.
Q. You're not sure which one was the mediator?
A. They came in and they said they are going to ask you some questions and I answered them.
Q. As you sit here today, you don't know how much face time you had with the mediator that day?

Page 100

A. I don't remember the face of which one is which.
Q. Did the issue of lost wages ever come up?
A. At the mediation with me?
Q. Yes.
A. I don't remember.
Q. Did you ever make a claim of lost wages of $250,000?
A. I may have.
Q. Do you know what that was based on?
A. Yeah.
Q. What is that based on?
A. Past and future.
Q. What past wages had you ever earned that could lead to an award of $250,000?
A. To me, that's not a very high number. I think I asked for more than that. It would be an average over a certain number of years plus benefits and that's all lost.
Q. Would it be fair to say that your income would be accurately reflected in the tax returns you've produced in this case, so I don't want to ask you about each one of them?
A. I would say my personal income, yeah.

MR. FLYNN: I believe the next exhibit is 10.

BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I'm handing you what's been marked as Exhibit 10. This is a six-page binding mediation agreement. The copy I have is unsigned.
Do you recognize this as the mediation agreement that governed your December 8, 2016 mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. If I could direct your attention to -- first, let me ask you.
Do you know why the bankruptcy trustee or the bankruptcy court ordered binding mediation as opposed to nonbinding?
A. I have no idea.

Q. On page 4, section F, subsection B – I'm sorry, 1B. It says, "The parties agree that for this mediation the minimum award to Paul Dulberg will be $50,000. Also, the maximum award to Paul Dulberg will be $300,000."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know why the parties agreed to this high/low agreement?
A. No.
Q. Do you recall alleging in your original complaint against Popovich that there was a high/low agreement?
A. There is. There was.
MS. WILLIAMS: Can you repeat the question, please.
(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know. I'd have to read it.
MS. WILLIAMS: I asked her to read it. And you had answered it previously.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Directing your attention back to

Exhibit 4, which is the original complaint in this case. Page 4, paragraph 16.
A. Okay.
Q. There's a sentence that begins with, "Unfortunately, a high/low agreement had been executed by Dulberg reducing the maximum account he could recover to $300,000 based upon the insurance policy available."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. It's not your position or testimony that Popovich had anything to do with the high/low agreement?
A. That was a mistake in there. No.
Q. You would agree that Popovich had nothing to do with the high/low agreement?
A. I believe that events that unfolded the way they did was due to Hans Mast's initial assessment of the value of the case.
Q. Let me ask it a different way.
Did Popovich have any idea that this high/low agreement existed when it was entered into?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you have any reason to believe that he did?

A. I don't know. I don't know how much the Boudins were in contact with them because they worked together. I don't know.
Q. What do you mean, "they worked together"?
A. They worked together on all different cases. That's a small county out there.
Q. Did you ever write to Hans and accuse Popovich of having a conflict of interest because he may have gone to high school with David Gagnon?
A. I did learn that.
Q. Do you believe the fact that someone went to high school with another person may give rise to a conflict of interest in a lawsuit?
A. I was shooting in the dark and guessing why they didn't see this as a viable case.
Q. Do you think that was appropriate to send to your lawyer at the time?
A. When you're wondering why they are doing what they are doing and you learn that and they were pretty much in the same class and they all knew each other and it's a small town, let me ask you, are you friends with the guy I'm suing? That's an appropriate question.

Q. You didn't say that. You asked if they went to school together.
A. Correct.
Q. Popovich did not enter into this high/low agreement on your behalf, correct?
A. Popovich, no.
Q. When I say "Popovich," I mean generally the Popovich firm and your lawyers.
A. This was years later. No.
Q. They had nothing to do with it, right?
A. I wouldn't say anything to do with it.
Q. Withdrawn.
Who drafted this high/low agreement that's contained in the mediation agreement?
A. I'm not sure who drafted it.
Q. Would it have been either the mediator, the bankruptcy trustee, your lawyers or the defense attorneys?
A. I assume that this would have been an agreement of all of them.
Q. You don't think Popovich had anything to do with drafting this high/low agreement, do you?
A. I don't know that he did or didn't.
Q. Do you have any reason to believe that he did?

A. At this point, no.
Q. Continuing on in Exhibit 4. Directing your attention to the bottom of page 4, paragraph 10.
A. Exhibit 4. Say it again.
Q. The bottom of page 4, paragraph 20. This is your complaint against Popovich and Mast.
A. This has been amended since then.
Q. I understand. Paragraph 20 reads, "Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the high/low agreement contained therein and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time that the information Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading and that, in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell me, as you sit here today, what false and misleading information did Mast and Popovich give you?
A. That I realized on the day of the — following the execution of the mediation agreement?

Page 107

Q. Correct.
A. The liability of the McGuires.
Q. What was false about it?
A. What made them liable and what didn't.
Q. What is it you learned to dispute what you were told?
A. I learned from a reliability expert that had the report there that day that the McGuires provided the tools which made Gagnon an agent of the McGuires. He was working at their behest.
Q. Who was this liability expert?
A. What's his name?
Q. He's a doctor?
A. Yes.
Q. Continue on with that paragraph. "Following mediation, Dulberg was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016."
Do you see that allegation?
A. Yeah.
Q. Who advised you to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters?

Page 108

A. I believe that was Boudin.
Q. You believe that or you know that?
A. I know that.
Q. You alleged it in this complaint so it's important that we know who that was.
A. Yes, that was Boudin.
Q. Boudin told you to seek an independent opinion from an attorney that handles malpractice matters?
A. Yes.
Q. It says you received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.
A. Yes.
Q. That's separate and apart from any opinion you may have received from a liability expert, a doctor, an expert on chainsaws?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was the lawyer that you received a legal opinion from on December 16, 2016?
A. I believe that would be Thomas Gooch.
Q. The drafter of this complaint?
A. I'd have to look at the dates because I think — December 8th was the mediation; is that right?

Q. Correct.
A. So the 16th would sound about right to be meeting with Gooch, but I can get that date.
Q. You met with Gooch –
A. Soon, within weeks. It was quick.
Q. Now that the door has been opened, you fired Gooch in this case, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. He drafted this complaint and he's also the one that gave you an opinion about legal malpractice liability on the part of my clients?
A. Yes.
Q. What is it that he told you on December 16, 2016?
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. I don't think we've waived that privilege, but – can we go off the record for a second?
MR. FLYNN: I don't want to go off the record. I've asked this interrogatory in about five different ways and it hasn't been answered appropriately.
The allegation was made in the complaint. That's why I drafted the interrogatory the way I did. I don't think that there's been a square answer to it. This is clear that you're talking about a legal opinion.

BY THE WITNESS:
Q. Is this the same wording as we have in the current complaint?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. It's not exactly.
A. What would this be valid for, then?
Q. You've raised a response to a statute of limitations defense in this case and placed your knowledge of the malpractice and the date of incurring of an injury at issue.
Because your discovery of malpractice has been placed at issue, it's our position that you've waived privilege anyhow with respect to this conversation on December 16, 2016.
A. I'm not sure –
MS. WILLIAMS: There's not a question pending. I'm going to make a standing objection as to privilege with Gooch.
If we can agree that that objection will stand, we can go through this line of questioning and then if we need to later, have a judge determine whether or not that line of questioning is admissible. Are you agreeable to that?

MR. FLYNN: I'm agreeable to continuing on for a few minutes. I want to explore. I'll try to lay foundation for – to confirm this wasn't anyone else, for starters. Why don't we continue on and if you need to raise it again, we can talk.
MS. WILLIAMS: Otherwise, I'm just going to raise it to every single question you ask. I just don't want to have to continue to make the objection as to – if questions are asked about advice given by a legal malpractice attorney, I'm going to raise an objection as to that.
MR. FLYNN: Okay. But this is why we had the 201K conferences, multiple 201K conferences. It was made clear, to me, that there was a waiver with respect to subsequent counsel.
MS. WILLIAMS: Tom Gooch isn't subsequent counsel.
MR. FLYNN: The allegation has been made in this complaint and apparently this is subsequent counsel subsequent to my client's representation.
MS. WILLIAMS: It is a different case. It's not subsequent counsel in the underlying case. It's a new case.

MR. FLYNN: We'll get to the interrogatory in a few minutes. I'll pull that out.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask you. Is there any other attorney besides Mr. Gooch that gave you an opinion that's referenced here on December 16?
A. No one that isn't privileged.
Q. Could it have been anyone else?
A. No.
Q. So Gooch is the only person that's being referenced here in this allegation that's in your complaint that's a public record?
I'm not asking you right now what the opinion is. I'm going to do that later. I'm asking you who gave it to you. It's not anyone besides Mr. Gooch, correct?
A. Yes. It was Thomas Gooch.
Q. He drafted the very complaint that that allegation is contained in?
A. Yes.
Q. Dr. Landford was the liability expert that you referenced earlier, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Back to the allegation that Gooch and – that Popovich and Mast provided you false and misleading information. That information was simply their legal opinion on the McGuires' liability; isn't that correct?

A. No. There was nothing simple about that. That's a very complex series of things that go all the way back to before the McGuire settlement.
Q. They didn't lie to you, did they?
A. It depends on how you define lie.
Q. How do you define lie?
A. If you know better and you say something else, that's a lie. Omission is a lie.
Q. Did they provide you with anything other than a legal opinion as to the McGuires' liability?
A. Yes. They provided me with case laws. They provided me with all different stuff. Yes.
Q. Whatever the advice that was given to you on December 16, 2016, you felt that you were mislead by Popovich and Mast at that point in time, correct?
A. At that point in time it was confirmed to me that I had a valid case against Popovich.
Q. You had a valid malpractice case against Popovich?
A. Yes. I did not know before that.

Page 114

Q. As of December 16, 2016?
A. Yes.
Q. Why is it that you didn't file that lawsuit until nearly a year later on November 28, 2017?
A. I believe because Thomas Gooch had some health issues and then his wife had some health issues. It took a while.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 11, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I'm handing you what has been marked as Exhibit 11. This is one set of your supplemental Answers to Interrogatories.
First, I'll ask you if that is your verification and signature at the end?
A. That is my signature.
Q. Again, I don't know if that verification was attached to this original document. It may have been. But there's been some confusion with respect to these verification pages. This is your signature and you answered these interrogatories, correct?
A. Yeah.

Q. So this is a valid verification page with respect to this discovery document; is that a fair statement?
A. This is supplemental to original answers.
Q. That's your signature and you agree these are your answers?
A. I've reviewed them and we went over them and yes, I agree.
Q. And they are accurate?
A. As accurate as we can be.
Q. If I could direct your attention to Interrogatory No. 26. Do you see that?
A. Okay. Yes, I see it.
Q. This is similar to what we just talked about a few minutes ago. I'll read the interrogatory to you. "Identify and describe the false and misleading information Mast and Popovich provided to you and explain how you realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information was false and misleading and the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake as alleged in paragraph 56 of your second amended complaint."
Do you see your supplemental answer here?

A. I see it, yes.
Q. You reference the mediation award and then you state, quote, "At that time Dulberg realized that Mast's advice to settle with the McGuires for $5,000 was incorrect because Mast had cited Dulberg being able to recover in full from Gagnon as his reasoning."
A. I do.
Q. Can you explain what that means because I don't quite understand it.
A. Hans Mast assured me – I want to go back to 2013, the Fall between October and the signature of the final release for the McGuires.
He assured me that, he said -- at that time he didn't tell me what anybody's policies were. He assured me that if we let the McGuires out of the case, Gagnon has enough insurance, you're going to get everything from him, so it doesn't matter that you're carrying the McGuires in the case.
Q. The next interrogatory is 27. "Identify and describe the expert opinions provided to you in December 2016 as alleged in paragraph 57 of your second amended complaint including the identity of the expert, any opinions and any other information provided by the expert which caused you to learn in the summer of 2016 and became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent you."

What does the summer of 2016 have to do with your discovery of malpractice?

A. Technically, I was sent Dr. Landford's report – I might be off a little by a couple months here, but I think in July of that year. And I read it, but I didn't – you don't catch everything the first time you read it.

It was not until later that I caught the part of the report that was brought to the attention – it caught my eye when I was sitting there and reading it.

Q. You didn't read any of this interrogatory or the original interrogatory as requesting legal opinions that you had alleged that gave you notice that there was a malpractice claim against Mast and Popovich?

A. Excuse me?

MR. FLYNN: Can you read that back.

(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)

BY THE WITNESS:

A. The way she said it, I don't understand.

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. I'll rephrase it.

We've known about this allegation in the original complaint since it was filed. You received some legal opinion in 2016. That's why you didn't know you had a malpractice case against Mast and Popovich.

We asked you in discovery answers a couple different ways what those legal opinions are. You didn't read 26 and 27 as requesting information about legal opinions?

A. I don't know that an expert witness would be considered a legal opinion. Wouldn't that be more like an attorney?

Q. I'll ask you again. Why is it that you first became aware of a legal malpractice matter against Mast and Popovich on or about December 16, 2016?

A. December 16th I was talking to a legal malpractice attorney.

Q. You were told that there was a case against –

Page 119

A. A valid case, yes.

Q. – Mast and Popovich?

A. Yes.

Q. Why is it you didn't know about this valid case prior to that date?

A. Because I hadn't talked to anybody that was a lawyer that specialized in that area.

Q. Whatever it is that he said to you gave you the basis for believing you had a valid case against Mast and Popovich?

A. Very much so, yes.

Q. You're withholding that information from me right now, as we sit here. You won't tell me what that expert said, correct?

MS. WILLIAMS: Repeat the question.

(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)

MS. WILLIAMS: I'm asserting attorney-client privilege on behalf of my client for Gooch's advice on December – in December of 2016.

However, because I want to move forward with this deposition, if he can answer the question, I believe we should go ahead and move forward and have him answer the question.

I'll assert the privilege with the understanding that this may have to be briefed later.

MR. FLYNN: To be stricken later?

MS. WILLIAMS: Right.

MR. FLYNN: The substance of the answer he can put on the record. You're just saying you may move to strike it later?

MS. WILLIAMS: Right. I want to maintain the privilege with the objection, but I don't want to have to call the judge right now. I don't think it's something we should have to call the judge about right now.

MR. FLYNN: Just for the record, I believe it's been placed at issue by virtue of the first amended complaint. The responses to the statute of limitation defenses that were raised in very dispositive motions before Gooch withdrew from the case, the gist of that is the discovery rule has been raised and, therefore, it's our position that the date of discovery has been placed at issue and, accordingly, any legal opinions that were provided to this plaintiff have been exposed and that we're entitled to know what those are.

MS. WILLIAMS: Can I also note one more thing?
MR. FLYNN: Sure.
MS. WILLIAMS: In the supplemental – in the request it specifically refers to paragraph 57 of the second amended complaint, which is different.
MR. FLYNN: It is different. I'll acknowledge that. I believe that the prior original interrogatories asked for any opinions relative to the discovery of the malpractice. I could be wrong. There was a reason I asked this and that's why I believe that's what it was about.
MS. WILLIAMS: So –
MR. FLYNN: That particular one I agree with you is not phrased as calling for –
MS. WILLIAMS: Right. That's the question that was asked. We answered the question that was asked, which that particular paragraph does not refer to a legal expert. It just merely – I'll read it out loud. "It was not until the mediation in December of 2016 based on the expert's opinion that Dulberg retain for mediation that Dulberg became reasonably aware."
I just want it clear that he did answer the question that was asked. I understand your line of questioning and we'll agree to move forward.

MR. FLYNN: I believe there were other discovery requests that did point to that and I think we can take a break here and I can find them fairly quickly because I think we're getting close to the end anyway.
MS. WILLIAMS: Okay.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Did you ever receive any money from the mediation award?
A. No. I received money from the bankruptcy itself. It was a surplus bankruptcy.
Q. There was a $300,000 award given in the mediation.
A. That did not go to me. That went to bankruptcy.
Q. It was collected on your behalf and paid to the bankruptcy trustee, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. All $300,000?
A. I don't know that because I think – I don't know how exactly it works. I heard attorneys have a lien that's special. I don't know how they break it up. I assume it goes to the trustee.

Page 123

Q. The Boudins weren't working for free. They got something out of it, right?
A. Yes.
Q. The trustee took the remainder and paid off some of your creditors, correct?
A. Correct. All of them.
Q. But the award was paid to the trustee on your behalf?
A. I believe so. I don't know how it worked.
Q. How much was the surplus after your creditors were paid?
A. After just the creditors?
Q. How much did you get?
A. How much did I get?
Q. Yes.
A. A third.
Q. I'm asking how much money did you get?
A. A third of the award.
Q. Dollars. How much money did you get?
A. Roughly a hundred.
Q. $100,000?
A. I don't know the exact number. It's roughly a hundred.

Page 124

Q. Was there a check that was issued to you?
A. By the trustee, yes.
Q. Did you cash it?
A. Yes.
Q. At what bank?
A. McHenry Bank & Trust.
Q. Do you still have an account there?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you have a copy of the canceled check?
A. I'm sure the bank has a photo thing.
Q. You can request a copy of the check, correct?
A. I could. I could see if they got it.
Q. I would ask you to do that. If you have any other documentation relative to the payouts that were made by the bankruptcy trustee on your behalf, we are requesting that information.
MR. FLYNN: Why don't we take a break and I'm going to look for one document and then we're just about done here.
(WHEREUPON, a recess was had.)
MR. FLYNN: Mark these as the next two.

BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I'm going to show you what I've marked as Exhibits 12 and 13. Twelve are your answers to Hans Mast's interrogatories. Thirteen is your responses to Popovich's request for production.
Interrogatory No. 1 from Mast asks, "Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach."
Do you understand that?
A. Yes.
Q. So how is it they committed malpractice?
A. May I see it?
Q. I'm going to show it to you in a second. I only have one copy.
This is basically, how did you first become aware that they committed malpractice?

That's the essence of that interrogatory.
Here is your response. I can show that to you. It doesn't reflect any discussion with any malpractice lawyer in December of 2016.
Tell me --
A. Let me read it again. We're talking about No. 1 on this?
Q. Correct.
A. Okay.
Q. You understand it?
A. Yes.
Q. Would you agree that the legal opinion you received on December 16, 2016 is responsive to that interrogatory, whatever it is that you were told?
A. Yes.
Q. You didn't identify this December 16, 2016 discussion in the answer to that interrogatory, correct?
A. Say that again.
Q. Your discussion with Mr. Gooch on December 16, 2016, that's referenced in your original complaint, you didn't respond and identify it in this answer to the interrogatory, correct?

Page 127

A. This asks for every way Popovich or Mast breached the duty of care. It didn't ask for Gooch's opinion.
Q. How did you find out that Mast and Popovich breached the duty of care to you? Because Gooch told you, right?
A. Yes.
Q. That's what you've alleged here in this complaint.
A. Yes.
Q. Here I'm asking you, each and every way that they ever breached a duty of care to you. I covered the waterfront. You didn't answer --
A. On the McGuire case it was between October 2013 and January 2014. Yes. There's a multitude of things and that's why I listed a range.
Q. I'm asking when you became aware of it, in that interrogatory. Do you see that?
A. I became aware of that when Thomas Gooch read them and said there's a problem here.
Q. That's not the way you answered the interrogatory, correct?
A. I answered the first part. I did not answer after the comma and the and.

Page 128

Q. There's no objection and indication that any information is being withheld, correct?
A. Excuse me?
Q. There's no objection and an indication that you're withholding --
A. I was not withholding.
Q. I'll show you Exhibit 13. It asks -- Exhibit 13 are the production requests to you. Number 8 asks for you to produce a privilege log identifying the creator and recipient of any document withheld, the basis for any claimed privilege, the date the document was created and the date the recipient received the document.
The answer is, "The plaintiff is only withholding attorney-client communication between his successor counsel."
Is that your answer to the production request and did I accurately read No. 8?
A. May I consult with her for a minute?
Q. Sure.
THE WITNESS: Can we go off the record?
MS. WILLIAMS: If you can answer the question, answer the question first.

A. It's been a while since I've done this, so I'm not sure who the successor counsel is. Is it her or is it the Boudins or Balke?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I think successor counsel, we can both agree, the successor counsel in the underlying case which would be Balke and then Boudin.
You didn't identify any documents withheld other than documents between you and successor counsel, correct?
THE WITNESS: I believe we waived those, didn't we, for Balke and Boudin?
MS. WILLIAMS: For Balke and Boudin we can represent that we waived those.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask a different question.
Did Gooch communicate with you in writing relative to his opinion that you had a legal malpractice case against Mast and Popovich?
A. In writing?
Q. Yes.
A. I suppose the agreement between us that he would represent me because I had the case is a document in writing.

Q. Did he tell you – strike that.
The discussion that you reference in the complaint, paragraph 20 of December 16, 2016, was that a face-to-face communication with Gooch?
A. What number is that?
Q. Exhibit 4, paragraph 20. The legal opinion you received, was it verbal, was it written?
A. I believe it was verbal.
Q. Now, I'm going to ask you what he said. There was an objection and that will be addressed by the Court later. Please tell me what Gooch told you.
A. He read what I brought him, looked through some things, and I don't remember if it was the same day that we talked to him or he took a day or two. I don't remember. He got back to me and he said, "You have a case here. You have a valid case."
Q. Did he say why?
A. On the basis of what I brought to him. Yes.
Q. Specifics, though. I don't want to talk about generalities. Did he tell you what Mast and

Page 131

Popovich did wrong and how it injured you?
A. How it injured me? Yeah.
Q. The first part of my question was, did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with your – their representation of you?
A. He probably did. I'm not recalling it right now. I'm pulling a blank.
The parts of the conversation I'm remembering, and for some reason I'm not pulling it. We've been at this a while and this is a long thing. Yes, he said based on what he saw, he saw reason for malpractice.
Q. You don't remember any details, as you sit here? Did you discuss the liability of property owners in Illinois?
A. Well, if they were just property owners in the case, that would be one thing, but they weren't just property owners.
Q. That wasn't my question. I'm asking if you discussed it?
A. Certainly.
Q. You and Gooch discussed the liability of the McGuires in the case?
A. Yes.

Q. What did you say to him and what did he say to you?
A. I showed him the expert opinion.
Q. The chainsaw expert?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you show him any deposition transcripts?
A. Yes.
Q. Which ones?
A. All of them.
Q. And he read them before you talked?
A. I don't remember. Like I said, it may have been a few days between our initial meeting and bringing the whole file that I had and trying to get what the Boudins had and letting him go through it. I don't remember how long that took.
Q. How did you transmit the documents to him –
A. My brother carried them.
Q. Let me finish.
How did you transmit the documents to Mr. Gooch, including the deposition transcripts?
A. I believe we brought him a box.
Q. So you physically handed the documents to him?

A. I didn't physically hand them. My brother did.
Q. Did you communicate with Mr. Gooch by e-mail, at all, leading up to this meeting?
A. No.
Q. Did he ever write you any letters?
A. An e-mail or regular mail or what are you talking about?
Q. Any letters whatsoever.
A. Throughout the course of his representation, yes.
Q. What about in December of 2016?
A. I believe we started communicating in December, yes.
Q. But in writing?
A. In e-mails, sure.
Q. Did he discuss –
A. We may have. I'm not – whenever we started – whenever he started sending me things and going back and forth, I don't remember the exact date, but it was right after he started representing me, sure, we exchanged e-mails and started, yes.
Q. When did Gooch begin representing you?

A. The day that he agreed to represent me. I believe it would have been the day that he decided that he had a case.
Q. On or about December 16?
A. Yes.
Q. At that point in time, or shortly thereafter, he communicated with you in writing the details of the breach of the standard of care committed by Popovich and Mast; is that correct?
A. I believe he started to detail those out in the complaint and we were working it back and forth trying to get it right.
Q. When did you first exchange drafts of the complaint?
A. I'd have to look back in the e-mails. I don't remember the dates.
Q. Did you look for any of these e-mails in connection with my discovery requests in this case?
A. At the time I think we thought they were privileged.
Q. That privilege objection wasn't exactly made. My question is, did you look for them?
A. Did I look for them? I have them.
Q. I would ask that you preserve each and every communication between you and Mr. Gooch, all written communications, even phone records that might reflect the dates and times of your phone communications, if any. Did you use a cell phone back then?

A. I used VOIP over a data line.
Q. Who was your carrier?
A. Comcast.
Q. Is that still your carrier?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you have the same phone that you utilized?
A. Same phone number for 50 years, yes.
Q. What else could you remember that Gooch told you on or about the 16th of December 2016 about Mast and Popovich breaching the standard of care and how it damaged you?
A. Say that again.
Q. What, if anything, else do you recall about your discussions with Gooch on December 16 regarding the breach of the standard of care by Popovich and Mast and how it injured you?
A. We discussed the whole scenario between October and January and what happened. It was pretty detailed. We discussed everything that you see that's been communicated in the e-mails. He didn't have much else to go on other than the documents and the e-mails.

Q. You're talking about the e-mails between you and Hans from the fall of 2013?
A. Yes.
Q. Ultimately leading to the $5,000 settlement?
A. Yes.
Q. Other than you have a case, what did Gooch say to you?
A. He said that they definitely committed malpractice.
Q. Did he ever put this in writing?
A. Did he ever put it in writing? I think he backed it up by filing a suit. That's documented.
Q. Again, the suit wasn't filed until November of 2017.
A. Yes, he had some health problems and then his wife had some health problems. Believe me, I was pushing for him to get that done.
Q. From December of 2016 until the complaint was filed, you exchanged some drafts of complaints with him?

A. I believe he let me see what he wanted to put in the complaint. I got to review some things. Of course I had, do this or that's not right. In fact, a couple of these things in here we had to definitely – you caught one. He totally worded it wrong. It was wrong. We had to amend.
MS. WILLIAMS: His question was, did he give you drafts for you to review?
THE WITNESS: Yes.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. These were exchanged by e-mail?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. So you would have records of them?
A. Yes.
Q. Any comments with respect to the pleadings, as well, did you ever ask him questions? Did he explain to you the basis for the allegations in the draft complaints, similar to what you did with Hans?
A. Over many times, yes.
Q. This is all reflected in e-mails?
A. Yes.

Page 138

Q. Ultimately, you didn't file until November of 2017?
A. Correct.
Q. Popovich ceased being your lawyer March 19 of 2015, correct?
A. That sounds about right.
Q. Until December 16, 2016, you didn't have any reason to believe there was a malpractice case against –
A. Say the date again.
Q. Until December 16, 2016, you didn't have any other reason to believe there was a malpractice case against Popovich and Mast?
A. I did not know that I had a case, no.
Q. You threatened one with respect to the Gagnon case –
A. Yes.
Q. – at another point in time, correct?
A. I think I threatened him a few times in there. Yeah. I was actually nice to what I really wanted to say.
Q. Subject to the ruling on these objections, you don't recall any other specific details that you discussed with Popovich – I'm sorry – Gooch on December 16, other than what we already talked about?

A. I discussed the exact same things that you – the same documents that you already have. We went over the case that Mast and Popovich had against the McGuires. He followed through all the way to the end. We went over the whole case. You see as much as he did.
Q. Did Gooch ever explain to you why the McGuires would have been liable any more than Mast explained to you that they wouldn't be liable?
A. He said he agreed right away. He said that's obvious.
Q. Did Gooch ever provide you with any cases or statutes?
A. Provide to me, maybe. Maybe. I don't know.
Q. Would that be by e-mail?
A. It could be. I was in his office quite a few times. He may have.
Q. As you sit here today, other than you have a case against Popovich and Mast, what did Gooch tell you specifically that was any different than what Mast and Popovich told you with respect to the McGuires' liability?

A. That they were definitely liable. He tried to say that – like Popovich and Mast were first- or second-year lawyers and that they may have made a mistake here.
I said they've got 20 years in this. You think they'd know the difference. That's the kind of thing. He agreed with me. Twenty years, yeah, they should have known better.
Q. Did you ever discuss the specifics of the McGuires' potential liability with Gooch?
A. Liability with Gooch?
Q. With Gooch, did you ever discuss the specifics of the McGuires' liability other than he thinks you have a case?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he ever tell you why? What was it?
A. Because he agreed with the expert's opinion.
Q. The expert on the chainsaw?
A. Yes. The liability expert.
Q. The expert said you should use safety goggles and gloves and things like that?
A. He said more than that, but yes.

Q. Do you know who commissioned that expert report?
A. Boudins.
Q. Do you know when the first draft of that doctor's expert report was circulated?
A. I heard that Boudin got it in February, maybe. I don't think I got it until July, but I'm not sure about that.
Q. July of what year?
A. The same year as the mediation.
Q. Of 2016?
A. Yeah.
Q. So you actually read it in advance of the mediation?
A. I talked about this earlier. I said yes. You don't catch everything the first time you read it. I was sitting there at the mediating table and I was reading it and I caught it and I turned to Randy and I said, after it was over, does this mean – that means.
Q. Means what?
A. Does this mean the McGuires are liable? Yeah, that means they are liable. He said, call my office after everything and I'll give you a name for an attorney you should go see.

MR. FLYNN: Any follow-up, Julia?
MS. WILLIAMS: I have two follow-up questions.

EXAMINATION

BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. Did you ever give Hans authority to make a settlement demand regarding Mr. Gagnon?
A. I think at one time in one of my meltdown letters I said get whatever you can, but no, I never actually signed anything saying you have the right to offer a settlement.
Q. Did you ever give Hans authority to make a settlement demand with regard to the McGuires?
A. A demand, no. He said he was going to probe and see what was out there, and I said, if you want to do that, that's fine.

illustration and not by way of limitation, the following: books, records, contracts, agreements, expense accounts, canceled checks, catalogues, price lists, sound and tape recordings, memorandum (including written memoranda of telephone conversations, other conversations, discussions, agreements, acts, and activities), minutes, diaries, calendar or desk pads, scrapbooks, notebooks, correspondence, emails, bulletins, circulars, forms, pamphlets, notices, statements, journals, postcards, letters, telegrams, reports, intra-office communications, photographs, microfilm, maps, and deposition transcripts, whether prepared by you for your own use or for transmittal or received by you.

INTERROGATORIES

1. Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach.

ANSWER:

2. Identify the date and location of any discussion between you and Mast in which Mast represented to you that there was no possibility of any liability against William or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto Owners Insurance Company, and identify what you said to Mast, and what he said to you.

ANSWER:

3. Identify the other property owned by the McGuire's as alleged in paragraph 50 of your Second Amended Complaint.

ANSWER:

DEFENDANTS, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.'S SUPPLEMENTAL REQUESTS FOR PRODUCTION TO PLAINTIFF

NOW COMES Defendant, The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. by and through its attorneys, Karbal, Cohen, Economou, Silk & Dunne, LLC, and pursuant to the provisions of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 214, respectfully requests Plaintiff, Paul Dulberg, to produce within 28 days at the law offices of Karbal, Cohen, Economou, Silk & Dunne, LLC, 150 South Wacker Drive, Suite 1700, Chicago, Illinois 60606, the following photographs, documents, objects, and other tangible things:

SUPPLEMENTAL PRODUCTION REQUESTS

1. Any and all documents relating to your "discovery" of any alleged breach of the standard of care or legal malpractice by Popovich or Mast, and which caused you damages or injury.

RESPONSE:

2. Any and all documents relating to any consultation or advice you received from any attorney or "legal expert" or legal malpractice expert which formed the basis for your alleged discovery of Mast's and Popovich's breach or breaches of the standard of care while they represented you in your claim or lawsuit against William and Caroline McGuire and David Gagnon.

RESPONSE:

Received 09-16-2022 04:17 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-16-2022 04:18 PM / Transaction #19526335 / Case #2017LA000377

3. Any and all documents regarding or reflecting advice from any attorney or legal expert, including but not limited to Tom Gooch, including but not limited to your communications with Tom Gooch in December 2016 (up to and including the date of the filing of your original complaint against Popovich and Mast), which relate to your discovery of any breach of the standard of care by Popovich or Mast and proximately caused damages or injury resulting therefrom.

RESPONSE:

4. Any and all documents regarding any damages you suffered at any time as a result of any breach of the standard of care by Popovich or Mast in their representation of you or provision of legal services to you.

RESPONSE:

5. Any and all documents which provide or form the basis for your contention that you did not discover until December 16, 2016 that you had been injured or damaged by Mast or Popovich's negligence in representing you in the claim or lawsuit against William and Caroline McGuire.

RESPONSE:

6. All documents, including letters and email communications between Tom Gooch on the one hand, and you on the other hand, regarding legal advice he provided to you on December 16, 2016 and thereafter, that you "had a malpractice case" against Popovich, as testified by you at pages 129-142 of your discovery deposition from February 19, 2020.

RESPONSE:

7. Any and all documents reflecting opinions by attorney Randy Baudin regarding the liability of the McGuire's, whether the advice or opinions were rendered at your mediation of the underlying case (on or about December 16, 2016) or prior thereto, as testified at your discovery deposition on February 19, 2020 (see page 141).

Thank you.

Pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 201(k), please advise when the supplemental discovery answers and documents will be served. As I indicated in court on September 10, I plan to file a motion to compel very soon if we do not receive the sworn answers and all responsive documents.

Best regards,

Julia:

I write pursuant to rule 201(k) and rule 219(c). Mr. Dulberg is late in responding to discovery pursuant the the extension you requested, and to which I agreed.

It is finally time for Mr. Dulberg to properly answer discovery in conformity to his allegations, and relative to the matters which he has placed at issue.

Once the Gooch discovery is produced, I would like to immediately depose Dulberg and Gooch. Please pass this along to your client.

You and your firm have been nothing but professional and it was a pleasure working with you.

Best regards,

Dear George,

I will certainly pass this along to our client.

Unfortunately, because we are withdrawing, we are not comfortable answering discovery when another counsel may be appearing. Mr. Dulberg is seeking new counsel and would like to have his new counsel answer. I expect that we will be withdrawing on September 10, 2020. The court will grant Mr. Dulberg 21 days to find alternative counsel. Based upon this, it is unlikely that any answers to supplemental discovery will be prepared prior to the end of September.

I just received your firm's motion to withdraw. If you could please pass along to Mr. Dulberg or his new counsel, that we must insist on the outstanding written discovery being answered by August 27, 2020 per our agreement below, it would be appreciated.

I think we have been very patient with Mr. Dulberg in responding to discovery which has been directed at his assertion of the discovery rule in this case, where he is attempting to overcome a statute of limitations defense (issues which are evident from the face of the pleadings and the applicable statutes involved).

The supplemental discovery we served merely clarified and more specifically identified communications and documents which were the subject of prior discovery requests, and some of which were identified at Mr. Dulberg's discovery deposition taken on February 19, 2020.

Please feel free to contact me if you would like to discuss this matter.

Very truly yours,

DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S MOTION TO SUPPLEMENT DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO COMPEL AND TO REQUEST HEARING ON PLAINTIFF'S COMPLIANCE WITH APRIL 6, 2021 ORDER ON DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO COMPEL

Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast (collectively "Popovich"), by and through their attorneys, Karbal, Cohen, Economou, Silk & Dunne, LLC, and for their Motion to Supplement Defendants' Motion to Compel and To Request Hearing on Plaintiff's Compliance with April 6, 2021 Order on Defendants' Motion to Compel, state as follows:

1) Defendants are bringing this motion to supplement their prior Motion to Compel and request a hearing on Plaintiff's compliance with the Court's April 6, 2021 Order (attached as Ex. A).

2) The Defendants never received a file-stamped copy of the draft order which their counsel submitted to the Court for entry on April 2, 2021 (see Group Ex. B, April 2, 2021 email from Linda Walters, and attached Order). Defendants never received a response, nor received electronic notice of the entry of the Order on April 6, 2021, and accordingly did not diary the June 14, 2021 hearing, and thus did not appear.

Received 09-16-2022 04:17 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-16-2022 04:18 PM / Transaction #19526335 / Case #2017LA000377

3) In the Court's April 6, 2021 Order granting Defendants' motion to compel, the Court ordered the Plaintiff to serve a supplemental answer to Mast's Interrogatory No. 1, and amend its responses to Popovich's Supplemental Request. The Court further ordered, "Plaintiff is directed to provide specific answers and responses to each interrogatory and production request.

4) On June 1, 2021, the Plaintiff served Exhibit C (Plaintiff's Amended Additional Answer to Defendant Hans Mast's Interrogatory to Plaintiff Paul Dulberg), and Exhibit D (Plaintiff's Amended Additional Response to Defendant The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C.'s Supplemental Request for Production). Dulberg also produced fourteen pages of bates labeled records (See Ex. E).

5) The Plaintiff has not complied with the Court's April 6, 2021 Order. Accordingly, Defendants respectfully request that the Court strike the non-responsive portions of Exhibits C, D, and E and close written discovery.

6) With respect to Exhibit C, Dulberg provide a "non-answer." Dulberg was ordered to specifically answer each discovery request. Mast's Interrogatory No. 1 states as follows: Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach. Dulberg's amended additional answer does not describe how there was a breach of the standard of care, he simply identifies a discovery date (December 12, 2016) based upon a binding mediation order. He does not describe the breach of the standard of care, or how, specifically, he became aware of it. He simply writes, "He knew the defendants breached the standard of care due him based upon a verbal discussion with Attorney Tom Gooch on December 16, 2016." He does not describe the discussion or explain how the standard of care was breached, or why his discussion with Tom Gooch enlightened him as to the breach.

7) Moreover, Popovich's supplemental requests for production are aimed specifically at identifying how Dulberg "discovered" his breach of the standard of care, and when he recognized damages as a result of same. In Exhibit D, Dulberg's amended additional response, Dulberg simply attaches various pages from pleadings in this case. He does not attach any discoverable materials, such as emails, letters, etc. Instead, he is simply regurgitating his position in this case. As previously argued in Defendants' Motion to Compel and at hearing, if Dulberg has no documents responsive to the discovery requests, and he has no basis for a tolling of the statute of limitations in this case, then his answer should simply state, "none." Enough is enough. Dulberg's non-responses to this discovery requests should be stricken, and he should be barred attempting to present any additional evidence in support of his tolling theory.

WHEREFORE Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast, respectfully request that this Court grant their Motion to Supplement Defendants' Motion to Compel and set hearing on Plaintiff's compliance with April 6, 2021 Order on Defendants' Motion to Compel, and for any and all further relief this Court deems just and appropriate.

ORDER

This matter coming to be heard for status and continued hearing on Defendant's Motion to Compel, the court having heard argument, it is hereby ordered:

1) Defendant's motion is granted and Plaintiff is required by June 1, 2021 to serve a supplemental answer to Mast's Interrogatory #1 (served on Plaintiff on March 22, 2019), and Amended Responses to Popovich's Supplemental Production Requests. Plaintiff is directed to provide specific answers and responses to each interrogatory and production request.

2) Plaintiff's objections of "undue burden" raised in its initial responses to Popovich's Supplemental Requests for Production numbers 1-7 are overruled.

3) This matter is set for a hearing on June 14, 2021 at 1:30 p.m. for status on Plaintiff's compliance with this order and to determine whether hearing is necessary for rulings on objections contained in the transcript of the discovery deposition of Paul Dulberg.

PLAINTIFF'S AMENDED ADDITIONAL ANSWER TO DEFENDANT HANS MAST'S INTERROGATORY TO PLAINTIFF PAUL DULBERG

Now Comes Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorney Alphonse A. Talarico, and for his Amended Additional Answer to Defendant Hans Mast's Interrogatory #1 states as follows:

1. Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach.

ANSWER: Between October 2013 and January 2014, Mast told Dulberg that Illinois law does not permit a recovery against the McGuires' in the circumstances of Dulberg's case and that he would not receive any recovery from the McGuires. Mast advised Dulberg that the judge would rule in favor of the McGuires on a motion for summary judgment.

Mast further told Dulberg that Dulberg would retain his claim against Gagnon and be able to seek and receive a full recovery from Gagnon.

AMENDED ADDITIONAL ANSWER: Dulberg discovered the pecuniary injury on December 12, 2016 based upon a binding mediation award and knew he had a legal malpractice case on December 16, 2016. He knew that the Defendants breached the standard of care due him based upon a verbal discussion with Attorney Tom Gooch on December 16, 2016.

Dulberg discovered in the defendants' document disclosure, POP 000192, that Mast had in fact sent the McGuires' attorney a $7,500.00 offer on October 22, 2013 without Dulberg's knowledge and that was before the November 4, 2013 meeting in Mast's office when Mast first asked Dulberg if Mast could probe and see what was on the table for a possible settlement with the McGuires.

2. Any and all documents relating to any consultation or advice you received from any attorney or "legal expert" or legal malpractice expert which formed the basis for your alleged discovery of Mast's and Popovich's breach or breaches of the standard of care while they represented you in your claim or lawsuit against William and Caroline McGuire and David Gagnon.

RESPONSE: Objection- undue burden, previously submitted please see Plaintiff's Bates stamped 1-8708.

AMENDED ADDITIONAL RESPONSE: Dulberg Bates stamped 001793, 001809, 002027, 008999, 009016 and 009099 (note: all of the foregoing are pleadings that are already in defendants' possession).

3. Any and all documents regarding or reflecting advice from any attorney or legal expert, including but not limited to Tom Gooch, including but not limited to your communications with Tom Gooch in December 2016 (up to and including the date of the filing of your original complaint against Popovich and Mast), which relate to your discovery of any breach of the standard of care by Popovich or Mast and proximately caused damages or injury resulting therefrom.

RESPONSE: Objection- undue burden, unclear, previously submitted please see Plaintiff's Bates stamped 1-8708.

Bates stamped document 8709-8710 previously enclosed.

Objection-privileged Bates stamped e-mail string 8744-8746

LA 178. (Exhibit 2, ¶ 9, and Exhibit 2B)[1]. In late 2013, Dulberg settled with the McGuires and executed a Release in their favor in exchange for the payment of $5,000.00. The McGuires and their insurance carrier, Auto Owners Insurance Company, were released. (Exhibit 2, ¶ 18 and Exhibit 2D). Defendants continued to represent Dulberg until March 2015. (Exhibit 2, ¶ 21). Dulberg retained successor counsel and proceeded to a binding mediation and received a mediation award (Exhibit 2, ¶ 24 and Exhibit 2G). After the mediation, Dulberg allegedly realized for the first time that the information Mast and Popovich had given him was false and misleading and that the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake. He was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016. (Exhibit 2, ¶ 28-29).

B. Alleged Acts of Negligence

Popovich's and Mast's alleged malpractice revolves around the settlement of the underlying case between Dulberg and McGuires. The allegations of a breach of the standard of care are all contained in ¶ 31, subsections a) through o) inclusive. Paragraph 31 states as follows:

> 31. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBERG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:
> a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG, for example hiring a liability expert;
> b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

[1] The exhibits to the underlying complaint in Case No. 12 LA 178 will be referenced as Exhibits 2A, 2B, 2C, 2D, 2E, 2F, and 2G.

28. Following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, DULBERG realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information MAST and POPOVICH had given DULBERG was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake.

29. It was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinions that DULBERG retained for the mediation, that DULBERG became reasonably aware that MAST and POPOVICH did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000.00 on an "all or nothing" basis.

30. DULBERG was advised to seek an independent opinion from a legal malpractice attorney and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.

31. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBERG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:

a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG, for example hiring a liability expert;

b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

c) Failed to conduct necessary discovery, so as to fix the liability of the property owners to DULBERG, for example hiring a liability expert;

d.) Failed to investigate the insurance policy amounts of the McGuires and Gagnon; e.) Incorrectly informed DULBERG that Gagnon's insurance policy was "only $100,000.00" and no insurance company would pay close to that; fact." (Emphasis added) (citation omitted) Abazari v. Rosalind Franklin University of Medicine and Science, 2015 IL App (2d) 140952, ¶37 (2nd Dist., 2015).

44. DULBERG would have had 5 years from the date of discovery to bring his cause of action under fraudulent concealment. "If a person liable to an action fraudulently conceals the cause of such action from the knowledge of the person entitled thereto, the action may be commenced at any time within 5 years after the person entitled to bring the same discovers that he or she has such cause of action, and not afterwards." See 735 ILCS 5/13-215.

45. DULBERG's Complaint states that DULBERG discovery the negligence of the Defendants on December 16, 2016 when he was informed by outside counsel of his claim for malpractice, or at the earliest by December 8, 2016 when DULBERG learned that he was limited in recovering his damages under the binding mediation.

46. Therefore DULBERG would have until December 2021 to file his claims under fraudulent concealment. DULBERG filed his claims well within the five-year fraudulent concealment statute.

CONCLUSION

After review of the allegations in the Complaint, this Honorable Court must find that DULBERG properly filed his claim for legal malpractice and is not judicially estopped from bringing those claims. Also, the claims are not time barred based on the discovery rule and fraudulent concealment. More importantly, due to the factual questions in this case, granting the Motion to Dismiss would be inappropriate. However, in the event this Court grants the Motion, DULBERG requests a reasonable time to file a First Amended Complaint.

21. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBURG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:

a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuire's) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG;

b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

c) Failed to conduct necessary discovery, so as to fix the liability of the property owners to DULBERG;

d) Failed to understand the law pertaining to a property owner's rights, duties and responsibilities to someone invited onto their property;

e) Improperly urged DULBURG to accept a nonsensical settlement from the property owners, and dismissed them from all further responsibility;

f) Failed to appreciate and understand further moneys could not be received as against Gagnon, and that the McGuire's and their obvious liability were a very necessary party to the litigation;

g) Falsely advised DULBURG throughout the period of their representation, that the actions taken regarding the McGuire's was proper in all ways and respects, and that DULBURG had no choice but to accept the settlement;

RE: Your accident of January 24, 2013

Dear Mr. Dulberg:

Thank you for consulting with our firm on December 31, 2014 in regards to your personal injury case. Unfortunately, we have decided not to accept your case. Therefore, on behalf of Ferris, Thompson & Zweig, Ltd., we will not be taking any further action on your behalf as it relates to this matter. I believe you should not have settled with the property owners for $5,000.00. There are other reasons for my decision.

This is merely our professional opinion and does not mean you do not have a case. We recommend that you attempt to settle the case at the upcoming pretrial conference with your current attorney.

Sincerely,

Saul M. Ferris

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge. Good morning.
THE COURT: All right. Counselor here in court, what's going on?
MR. FLYNN: Good morning, your Honor. We brought a motion to supplement our motion to compel. The Court ruled on April 6th and granted defendant's motion to compel and set a June 14 compliance date.
THE COURT: Okay.
MR. FLYNN: I'm sorry. June 1st compliance date with a June 14 hearing. Somehow I don't believe we got a copy of the file stamped order and it didn't get diaried, so I believe the case was called on June 14 --

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. FLYNN: There is one document that was produced and I consider it to be responsive and a new production. The rest of the documents that were produced, it's unusual. There are actual pleadings from this case that were attached as responsive documents to my discovery requests. MR. FLYNN: Only -- I just want to make sure there aren't any additional documents that were --

THE COURT: Are there any additional documents, Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I have no idea if -- it's our position we complied completely. We filed our answers on June 1st. If the Court had -- I don't know if the Court remembers, you had ordered us, plaintiff and defendant, to talk up through June 14th to see if there were any issues. The only response I got from the defendants was an e-mail with one word. As I told you on June 14th, the only word was, Thank you. Now I am totally surprised, 73 days later, Judge, and I don't know what else -- I want time to respond in writing, Judge. This is --

THE COURT: I don't -- I don't want to do that.

MR. TALARICO: This has been difficult.

THE COURT: This is --

MR. FLYNN: Yes, it has, Judge.

THE COURT: So what is it you -- what is it you are looking for? Because I have a representation on the record -- and I'm assuming there's an affidavit of compliance.

MR. TALARICO: There is.

THE COURT: Okay. Then -- and he says, I've given you everything.

MR. FLYNN: That's fine with respect to the production response. Now there's the interrogatory answer.

THE COURT: All right. Tell me -- we're moving on to the interrogatory.

MR. FLYNN: And again, this goes to the statute of limitations on a legal malpractice case. The plaintiff is claiming that he didn't discover it until after the 2 years --

THE COURT: Could you keep your voice up a little?

MR. FLYNN: Sure. Plaintiff is arguing for a tolling of the statute of limitations on a legal malpractice case. He was asked in Interrogatory No. 1, Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach.

His response -- his amended additional response discusses his pecuniary injury, that only addresses damages. With respect to the breach of the standard of care and how he discovered it, he simply says he knew that the defendants breached the standard of care due him based upon a verbal discussion with Attorney Tom Gooch on December 16, 2016.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: That describes the date. It doesn't describe how he became aware of it, what Gooch told him. Now, again, I know your Honor is aware of the deposition testimony in this case regarding that December 16 time period. If the answer is that Dulberg doesn't remember what Mr. Gooch told him, if Gooch said simply, You have a case, that's fine. That's what they should say. But I've already taken his deposition. There are no specifics that explain to me why Mr. Gooch crystallized this breach of the standard of care on December 16. But if this is all they have, then that's what he should say, is that I don't remember what Mr. Gooch told me.

THE COURT: I mean, he's -- I think he's complied. I'm not sure --

MR. FLYNN: What is the breach of the standard of care?

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. FLYNN: And what is the breach of the standard of care? That's what I've asked in the interrogatory. They don't say.

THE COURT: Well, I think that -- all right. I guess that is -- my reading on it, it's implied it's a statute of limitations. But --

MR. FLYNN: No, the statute of limitations is the issue in this case.

THE COURT: All right. What is the --

MR. FLYNN: The underlying personal injury case --

THE COURT: What is the breach? Did Mr. Gooch advise him what the breach was?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, all that Mr. Dulberg recalls was relayed in the responses. There were no recordings that were going on. Nothing was done in writing. I'm not sure how I can possibly respond anymore, to give anymore.

THE COURT: I have a representation that this is all there is.

MR. FLYNN: That's satisfactory to me. As long as when I file my summary judgment motion there's not some new discovery discussion as to --

MR. TALARICO: Judge --

MR. FLYNN: -- what the breach was and what --
MR. TALARICO: I'm sorry. I hate to interrupt. Judge?
THE COURT: Yeah.
MR. TALARICO: We -- again, we were -- our response, I believe is in total compliance with the Court order of June 6th and your instructions on that day from the court record. And I'd like to respond in writing to establish that we did that.
THE COURT: No. No. I mean, you're -- you only need to respond in writing if we're going to have a hearing. If you want to file a brief that -- just in the file, that's fine, but I think we have a resolution today and I don't want to spend more time reading briefs resolving an issue that's moot. So I think this is resolved. What else is outstanding?
MR. FLYNN: I think that does resolve -- the representation resolves both issues, so --
THE COURT: I have -- you have advised -- well, you've advised that's all there is, so I'm finding you in compliance.
MR. TALARICO: Thank you, your Honor.
THE COURT: Okay. Is there anything else we need to do?

MR. FLYNN: I suppose with respect to the summary judgment motion that I anticipate, Judge, there was one document that was produced in order to avoid a second deposition of Mr. Dulberg to authenticate this document, which is a letter from Attorney Thompson -- I'm sorry -- Attorney Ferris -- that goes to the issue of the statute of limitations. If Mr. Talarico would stipulate to the authenticity of this March 4, 2015 letter on the record, I don't need to send a request to admit for --

THE COURT: Can you hear all that?

MR. TALARICO: I heard it, Judge, but I'm not familiar with that document. A request to admit would be welcome.

MR. FLYNN: Fair enough.

MR. TALARICO: Just so I can see what it is.

THE COURT: That's fine. We're back again on August 19th. Do you want to delay that date in light of the fact you may be issuing a request to admit?

MR. FLYNN: I think that would make sense.

THE COURT: All right. So let's strike August 19th and tell me when it makes sense to come back.

MR. FLYNN: I'll need at least 30 days, so --

THE COURT: 60 days?

MR. FLYNN: A 60-day date would be great.

THE COURT: How's September 17th? That's a Friday.

MR. TALARICO: Fine with me, Judge.

MR. FLYNN: That works for me.

THE COURT: All right. So that will be at 8:45 and then we'll see what you guys want to do when you come back. And are you withdrawing your motion or ...

MR. FLYNN: I think that --

THE COURT: Or do you want me expressly to find compliance based on representations in open court?

MR. FLYNN: I'm not requesting a hearing any longer. I think we resolved the matter. So yeah, I'll withdraw it.

THE COURT: All right. Motion's withdrawn. The record still stands. I did find that you were in compliance and we'll deal with the next step whenever it comes up. But I will see you September 17th and if you could draft the order.

MR. FLYNN: I will. Thank you, your Honor.

PAUL DULBERG,
called as the plaintiff herein, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

EXAMINATION

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. Let the record reflect that this is the discovery deposition of Paul Dulberg taken by agreement of the parties and pursuant to notice.

This deposition is being taken pursuant to the Rules of the Illinois Supreme Court, the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure and any applicable local rules in McHenry County.

Sir, could you state your name and spell your last name for the record.

A. Palm Dulberg, D-u-l-b-e-r-g.

Q. What is your address?

A. 4606 Hayden Court, McHenry, Illinois 60051.

Q. How long have you lived there?

A. Forty-nine years.

Q. Who do you live there with now?

A. Mike McArtor.

Q. Did your mother live there at some point throughout the history of this case?

A. Yes.

Q. I'm just going to go over a few rules for the deposition. I know you've testified at least one time in a deposition before because you testified in the underlying personal injury case, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Have you testified in any other depositions before?

A. No.

Q. I'll just remind you of a few rules that I'm sure you were aware of back then when you gave your deposition.

The court reporter is here to take down everything that you and I say. She can only take down one at a time so I'd ask that before you answer a question, let me finish the entire question. Okay?

A. Yes.

Q. I'll try to do the same. I'll try to let you respond before I ask a follow-up question.

You just nodded your head. That's another good point to make. She can't take down nods of the head, shrugs of the shoulders or other hand gestures. Your answers need to be verbal.

From time to time we forget those rules and I may just point to the court reporter as a reminder, if that's okay.

A. Yes.

Q. If you need to take a break at any time, feel free to stop me. I just ask that it's not while a question is pending that has not been answered. Fair enough?

A. I'll try to do that.

Q. If you've answered a question, I will assume you understood it. Okay?

A. Yes.

Q. I was asking you about your mother. She lived at the house during the pendency of the underlying case?

A. Yes.

Q. Is she still alive?

A. Yes.

MS. WILLIAMS: Can we define "underlying case"?

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. The underlying case is a personal injury

Page 6

case that you filed against Bill and Caroline McGuire and David Gagnon.

A. That sounds correct.

Q. We'll get into the dates of the filing a little bit later. We'll call that, generally, the underlying case.

Your mother lived at the house at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. Did she own the house?

A. No.

Q. Do you own the house currently?

A. Yes.

Q. Does anyone else own the house?

A. No.

Q. How long have you owned it?

A. I think I first purchased it off my parents in '97, '98, something like that.

Q. Did you hire a lawyer in connection with that transaction?

A. No.

Q. Were your parents represented by a lawyer?

A. No.

Page 7

Q. The building, as I understand it, is a duplex; is that right?

A. No.

Q. Were there two apartments in the building at one time?

A. No.

Q. Was there a point in time where you and your mother lived in one half of the house and Mike McArtor lived in the other half?

A. Yes.

Q. How was that arrangement with respect to the location of the living spaces, if you can describe it?

A. It has a walkout basement. He had the downstairs with an exit out the back. We had the upstairs with an exit out the front.

Q. Have you ever been convicted of a crime of fraud, dishonesty or deceit?

A. No.

Q. Besides the hiring of the Popovich firm in connection with the underlying personal injury case, up to that point in time had you ever had an occasion to hire a lawyer?

A. I did during a traffic accident, and I don't remember the year.

Q. Were you injured in about 2002? Does that sound right?

A. Roughly.

Q. Who did you hire?

A. I might get the name wrong because it's been a long time. I think it was Weiss and Michling and something else. It was a lawyer right outside the courthouse in Woodstock.

Q. A McHenry County lawyer?

A. Yeah.

Q. It was a personal injury case?

A. Yeah. It was a car accident.

Q. Did you file a lawsuit in that case?

A. I don't think we needed to.

Q. You just filed an insurance claim?

A. They did, yes.

Q. You settled it?

A. Yes.

Q. Any other occasions to hire a lawyer between that time and the time you hired the Popovich firm?

A. May I consult for a minute because I'm not sure how to answer that.

Page 9

Q. Why don't you just tell me why you can't answer it.
A. Because I've hired lawyers, but they were for the company that I had. That's different.
Q. I'm asking general questions about any interaction you've had with hiring lawyers. Any experience you've had with hiring lawyers.
A. I had a corporate lawyer. My mom and dad hired a lawyer for me when I was a kid. It was something. And myself, just the corporate lawyer, the car accident lawyer and the Popovich firm.
Q. Have you ever been married?
A. No.
Q. So you never hired a divorce lawyer. Good. How old are you now?
A. Forty-nine.
Q. The underlying case arose out of an injury that occurred on June 28, 2011, correct?
A. That sounds correct.
Q. How old were you at that time?
A. Forty-one.
Q. Besides the underlying lawsuit against the McGuires and Mr. Gagnon, had you ever filed any other lawsuit up until that point in time?

Page 10

A. No.
Q. Have you filed any lawsuits since that time besides the lawsuit against Popovich and Mast?
A. No.
Q. Do you have any military experience?
A. Yes.
Q. Please tell me about that.
A. Army National Guard. Illinois Army National Guard.
Q. How long have you been in the National Guard?
A. I'm not currently in it.
Q. When were you, from when to when?
A. I may not get the year correct. '88 or '89 to '92 or '93, somewhere in there.
Q. What was your highest rank when you were discharged from the National Guard?
A. When I was discharged?
Q. Correct.
A. I don't know. I've gotten moved up and moved down. I don't know where I ended up.
Q. How was it that you were discharged?
A. Less than honorable.
Q. What was the cause?

Page 11

A. I missed morning call, roll call. If you're not there, you're AWOL.
Q. Absent without leave?
A. Yes.
Q. What is the highest level of education that you've attained?
A. I do not have a degree. Two years of college.
Q. You graduated from high school?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that in Johnsburg in 1988?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you know Mr. Gagnon from Johnsburg High School?
A. Not from high school but just after high school.
Q. Just coincidentally you attended the same high school?
A. He was three years older than I was. I didn't know who he was until after high school.
Q. You had some education after high school but did not receive a degree, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Where did you study?

Page 12

A. I had a couple classes at McHenry County College and McMurray College.
Q. What did you study?
A. The first two years. The basics.
Q. General studies?
A. Yeah. I did a criminal justice course. I did a macro/microeconomics. I did psychology, sociology. The normal stuff.
Q. How did you meet David Gagnon?
A. Through a mutual friend.
Q. When was that?
A. I want to say, roughly, 1990.
Q. Was your home located somewhere fairly close to his parents' home or his mom and stepdad's home?
A. Two streets away.
Q. That's where you were injured on June 28, 2011, was at David Gagnon's mom's house and his stepdad's house?
A. Yes.
Q. And their name is McGuire?
A. Yes.

A. He was cutting a branch.
Q. Cutting branches off a tree, correct?
A. Cutting up the branches after they were off the tree.
Q. Could you tell me a little bit about your work history. Do you have any licenses or certifications?
A. I'm certified to run printing presses. Or at least I was.
Q. You worked for Sharp Printing, Inc. from '91 to 2011; is that right?
A. Ninety-one? No. I would say 1999.
Q. Did you own that corporation?
A. Yes. Well, partner. I was a partner. I didn't own like...
Q. It was an Illinois corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you –
A. A stockholder.
Q. Let me just finish my question so she can take us down.
You were a stockholder in Sharp Printing, Inc.?

Page 14

A. Yes.
Q. Who else were the stockholders?
A. Mike McArtor and Scott Dulberg and at that time it was Herbert Dulberg.
Q. What does that mean? Do you mean Scott's name was Herbert?
A. No. Scott Dulberg was an owner and Herbert Dulberg was an owner. Three different Dulbergs: me, my brother, my dad.
Q. And Mike McArtor?
A. Yes.
Q. There were four owners at what time?
A. Until my dad died and then it went to three.
Q. Was that business incorporated?
A. Yes.
Q. Did a lawyer assist the corporation with setting up the corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. When did that happen?
A. 1999.
Q. Did you hire the lawyer yourself?
A. All three of us did. All four of us. Sorry.

Page 15

Q. What was the name of that attorney?
A. McAndrews, and I don't remember the rest of it. It was McAndrews in McHenry. I can get you the rest of that information.
Q. They are based in Crystal Lake, Illinois?
A. It used to be in McHenry when we did that.
Q. Patrick McAndrews, he was also identified as the registered agent of that corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. It was voluntarily dissolved on April 8, 2011; is that right?
A. That's what the Secretary of State's Office has, yes.
Q. Is that your understanding as well?
A. I was corrected. My partners – I was corrected. It was actually after the accident. How it got to end up with that date, I'm not sure.
Q. What was corrected, exactly?
A. Well, do you want me to – Mike read my deposition and he said, "You got that wrong." I said, "What do you mean?" because I answered it twice in that deposition.
I was thinking that Juskie happened

before the accident. Sharp Printing wasn't actually dissolved until after the accident when we decided to sell off the equipment and end it all. That's the honest truth.
Q. I will represent to you that the Illinois Secretary of State's Website as of today shows that the company was involuntarily dissolved on April 8, 2011. So it's your testimony that that is not true?
A. I don't know how they come up with that.
Q. Why don't we break it down and start with why the corporation was involuntarily dissolved. Do you know that?
A. Involuntarily? I don't know. It may be that I was late on paying the corporate licensing thing, which we just pay a fine and did it. We didn't renew it because we decided to end it.
We had a ten-year thing, I think, on it. I may be wrong. I've got to go back and look at the records.
Q. Is it possible that the corporation was actually involuntarily dissolved by the Illinois Secretary of State on April 8, 2011?
A. Sure.
Q. Did Sharp Printing, Inc. file corporate tax returns while it was a going concern?

A. We had a problem the couple of years before the accident because I was not up in Illinois and I usually did that with the lawyer and the accountant and things got screwed up while I was taking care of a loved one who was dying down in Florida.
Q. Did the corporation ever file tax returns?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. When did they file?
A. Quarterly and annually.
Q. Until what year?
A. Roughly somewhere in 2008. I was missing things because I was not here. I know we missed a few.
Q. I believe you testified in your underlying deposition that Sharp Printing, Inc. was not dissolved as a result of your June 28, 2011 chainsaw accident, correct?
A. Yes, I did. I stood corrected by my partners.
Q. So is it your testimony that the corporation was dissolved because of your personal injury?

A. I don't know how to answer that without going back and looking at records.
Q. Was the company winding down up until about the time you were hurt?
A. The company books got screwed up when I was down in Florida and I was back up in Illinois in 2010 getting back on my feet and I was going to pick things back up, get everything paid up, the fines and everything.
Q. Who were you taking care of in Florida?
A. My grandmother.
Q. You were gone from when until when?
A. I want to say from the mid to end of 2007 until somewhere in the beginning of 2010.
Q. Was anyone running Sharp Printing during that period of time?
A. Mike McArtor.
Q. Did Sharp Printing have any customers for that three-year period?
A. Yes, they did.
Q. How many?
A. I'm not sure, without looking at the books.

Page 19

Q. Can you estimate what the yearly revenues were for Sharp Printing in the year 2007?
A. In 2007? I'd have to look at the books, to be honest with you.
Q. Was it more than $5,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it more than $100,000?
A. No.
Q. Was it more than $20,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Same line of questioning with respect to 2008. Do you know what the revenues were for Sharp Printing in '08?
A. Are you asking me what we reported or what we made and put into accounts for equipment?
Q. I'm asking you about revenues.
A. Total sales?
Q. Total revenues.
A. In two thousand...?
Q. 2008.
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Can you estimate what they were?
A. No, because I wasn't there.
Q. Do you know how many customers the company had in 2008?

A. We had a few, I know that. I don't know how many. Mike was handling it and it got messed up.
Q. What types of customers did Sharp Printing have in 2007 and 2008?
A. What kind of customers?
Q. Right. What did you do?
A. We printed on t-shirts. We printed on CDs. We printed on anything that wasn't wet. We printed on glass, all different stuff.
Q. Were there any full-time employees of Sharp Printing in '07 and '08?
A. In '07 and '08, no.
Q. Just the owners?
A. Just the owners.
Q. Did all the owners operate the business?
A. Yes.
Q. Including your brother?
A. Yes.
Q. What were the yearly revenues of Sharp Printing in 2009?
A. I don't know.
Q. What about 2010, do you know?

A. No.
Q. When did Sharp Printing start selling its equipment?
A. I put up the ad in August. I think August. I might be off by a month or two. August of 2011.
Q. Did you sell any equipment prior to August 2011?
A. No.
Q. What type of equipment did Sharp Printing, Inc. have or own?
A. Mostly textile screen printing equipment, but we had other screen printing stuff too. Paper.
Q. Where was the equipment located?
A. My home.
Q. Did you require a license to conduct this business out of your home?
A. We had what was called a temporary -- we're in a rural area so we didn't have to have that.
Q. In any event, you didn't have a license, correct?
A. We had a license to do business there, yes.

Page 22

Q. In that location?
A. Yes.
Q. Did customers ever come to the shop?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall how many customers the business had in 2010?
A. Not in 2010.
Q. Was it more than five?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it more than 100?
A. It might be around that. I don't know, specifically.
Q. In 2010 you may have had 100 customers that you did t-shirt screen prints for?
A. Possibly. I'm not saying that is the number, but it's possible.
Q. Did Sharp Printing have any customers in 2011?
A. Mike was finishing up one customer's thing in the spring of 2011, yes. We don't -- I'll give you -- we don't typically get much work between January 1st and the first warm days of Spring. We sell t-shirts and not a lot of people buy during that period. They just don't.

Page 23

Q. You did not earn a salary from Sharp Printing, correct?
A. No.
Q. You did not earn an hourly wage, correct?
A. No.
Q. I think your interrogatory answers indicate you didn't take a profit or a draw, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. How much, if any, money did you earn from Sharp Printing in 2011?
A. Can I ask how to define that? In 2011 I didn't pull any.
Q. Did you earn any income whatsoever from Sharp Printing in 2010?
A. I don't think so.
Q. You were down in Florida for '07 to 2010?
A. Sometime in early 2010, yes.
Q. Did you earn any income from Sharp Printing from 2007 to 2010?
A. No.
Q. Were you working in Florida?
A. No.
Q. Is it fair to say you were unemployed

from 2007 to 2010?
A. Yes. I was not officially collecting unemployment.
Q. You weren't an employee of any business or working for any individual, correct?
A. I did do some work for Mark. I did some traveling back and forth from Florida to Illinois back and forth during that time. When I was up here, I did do some work for Juskie Printing. Not much, though.
Q. What is Juskie Printing?
A. Juskie Printing is another one that I had listed as an employer in the underlying case.
Q. What are they?
A. Another print broker.
Q. Where are they located?
A. I don't know the exact address, but it's off of Chicago Avenue off of 355 going south.
MS. WILLIAMS: I think he's asking what city.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know how the cities break up down there.

Chicago?
A. Yes.
Q. How long did you have a relationship with Juskie Printing?
A. Since the early 2000s.
Q. What type of printing did Juskie do?
A. Offset, mostly.
Q. What does that mean?
A. Prints on paper.
Q. Did you have a set schedule at any time working for Juskie?
A. I don't know what you mean by "a set schedule."
Q. Did you have a particular number of hours per week?
A. No. The jobs I got were project based.
Q. How many projects did you have from 2007 to 2011 for Juskie?
A. Probably a few hundred quick little things, yeah. At least.
Q. Do you know what you earned from working at Juskie in 2007?
A. Not without looking at the returns, I don't know offhand.

Page 26

Q. How often were you in the Chicago area in 2007?
A. I didn't leave here until, I want to say, August or September of '07.
Q. And then thereafter?
A. I was not back that year.
Q. You didn't work for Juskie in 2008, correct?
A. I might have done some stuff.
Q. You're not sure?
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Were you in Florida?
A. Part of the time, yeah.
Q. How often did you come back and forth between –
A. About every three months I tried to get back up here.
Q. For how long?
A. Sometimes a few weeks. Sometimes a month.
Q. Did you come back and work or did you take care of other things?
A. If I'd let Mark know I was back, "I've got something for you or I don't."

Page 27

Q. Who is Mark?
A. Mark owns Juskie Printing.
Q. I think your interrogatory answers indicated from 1999 through 2006 you were employed in a barter situation; is that right?
A. With Mark, yes.
Q. What does that mean, exactly?
A. Well, he would owe me money and he would give me printing equipment instead of cash.
Q. He owed you money for working for him?
A. Well, he owed both Sharp Printing and me, personally, money. They are two different things. But he would just pay by saying, hey, I've got this or I've got this paper cutter or this or that. It was a barter.
Q. So you worked for him from 1999 to 2006 but did not earn any income in the traditional sense?
A. No money changed hands.
Q. He gave you things to pay you for projects?
A. Correct.
Q. You gave a deposition in the underlying case on January 24, 2013. Does that sound right?

Page 28

A. If it says it on there, yes.
Q. You took an oath that day?
A. Yes.
Q. You told the truth?
A. I tried to, to the best of my knowledge, on that day, yes.
Q. You told the truth in response to all of the questions that day, correct?
A. I tried to, yes.
Q. You testified you were last employed prior to the accident in May of 2011?
A. That would be with Juskie, yes.
Q. It's accurate –
A. Actually, I wasn't employed. I was a 1099 so I was self-employment.
Q. When in May did you stop working for Juskie, whether it be as an employee or an independent contractor?
A. I believe it was the end of May.
Q. Then from the beginning of June until your accident on June 28, 2011, you were not employed; is that an accurate statement?
A. Correct.
Q. You were not even acting as an independent contractor for any business from that period of time, correct?

A. Not during that month, no.
Q. Your deposition testimony from 2013 is typed up on 175 pages. I don't intend to go back over each of those details.
A. Okay.
Q. It's fair to say you were injured, your arm was injured on June 28, 2011, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Which arm was that?
A. My right arm.
Q. As a result of the injury, you hired the Popovich law firm to explore a recovery in the case?
A. I hired them to represent me, yes.
Q. You hired them to represent you and file a lawsuit against David Gagnon who was operating the chainsaw that injured you, correct?
A. He was one of them, yes.
Q. I'm asking you if you hired him to – listen to the question, please.
David Gagnon was operating the chainsaw, correct?
A. Correct.

Page 30

Q. No one else was operating the chainsaw?
A. Correct.
Q. You also hired Popovich to sue Bill and Caroline McGuire, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. They were the land owners where your accident occurred?
A. They did own the land, yes.
Q. The accident occurred at their house, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. This was in the backyard, so to speak?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans Mast was the primary handling attorney at the Popovich firm for your case?
A. That's who I met with, yes.
Q. Did any other lawyer communicate with you while Popovich was handling your case?
A. The lady who sat in on my deposition. Ms. Freeman I think it is. I'm not sure about that.
Q. Generally speaking, Hans Mast, though, was the primary handling attorney?
A. Yes.
Q. Before you hired the Popovich firm in May of 2012, is that the correct time period?

A. I don't think so. I don't think they filed it until then, but I might be wrong. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Was there a retainer agreement executed in May 2012?
A. I don't think I paid a retainer.
Q. Did you execute an attorney engagement agreement in May 2012?
A. I believe it was much earlier than that.
Q. You only executed one engagement letter or engagement agreement with Popovich, correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. Before you executed or came to an arrangement with Popovich, had you talked to any other lawyers about investigating –
A. One.
Q. Let me finish the question.
– investigating or filing the lawsuit?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that?
A. I went back to the same firm that handled the car accident for me years earlier.
Q. What was the name of that firm?

A. They changed names when I went back there. It was Weiss – I have to go back through paperwork and get you the actual name.
Q. They are known as a personal injury firm; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you not hire them to take your case?
A. The man who handled my case previously with the car accident was no longer with the firm and they said go find somebody else.
Q. I'm not sure what one has to do with the other.
A. I don't either. I just said okay and I went and found somebody else.
Q. Did you meet with an attorney at that firm?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you tell them what happened with your incident?
A. Yes.
Q. They told you that they did not want to take the case; is that right?
A. Yes.

Page 33

Q. They declined the case?
A. They declined the case.
Q. Did they tell you why they declined the case?
A. No.
Q. You next went to the Popovich firm?
A. Yes.
Q. They took the case?
A. Yes.
Q. They, ultimately, filed a lawsuit against Gagnon and the McGuires on May 15, 2012; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. You reviewed the lawsuit and approved it, correct?
A. I didn't – I never got anything to review.
Q. Did you ever read the lawsuit?
A. No. I was never given any paperwork.
Q. Back to the incorporation of Sharp. What interaction did you have with corporate lawyers when they were first retained?
A. McAndrews?
Q. Correct.

Page 34

A. What relationship?
Q. What experience did you have with McAndrews when you first retained them?
A. He was good.
Q. How often did you meet with him or speak to him?
A. Once a year.
Q. Did he file corporate returns or other documents for the company?
A. No. I had to file them. He just made sure they were all done right, I believe.
Q. Have you ever had occasion to hire a criminal lawyer?
A. I did in 1990. My mom and dad had to hire one. Not me.
Q. Did you hire a criminal lawyer for your mom and dad?
A. No. They hired one for me.
Q. Who was that?
A. Give me a second. You're digging back far in my memory. Driscoll was the last name.
Q. This was a McHenry County-based criminal lawyer?
A. No. Des Plaines.

Page 35

Q. What was the general nature of the reason for the need for a lawyer?
A. Drug possession.
Q. Were you convicted of it?
A. Yes. I pled guilty.
Q. That was a Cook County case, then?
A. No. It was a McHenry County case.
Q. The lawyer was in Des Plaines, though?
A. Yes.
Q. But he represented you in McHenry County in criminal court?
A. Yes.
Q. Throughout the case you met with the lawyer?
A. A few times.
Q. While Popovich represented you in the underlying personal injury case, did you ever communicate with any other lawyers about your case?
A. At the end, yes.
Q. Popovich withdrew sometime in March 2015?
A. Correct.
Q. And Brad Balke entered his appearance on March 19, 2015. Does that sound correct?
A. That is correct.

Page 36

Q. Popovich also withdrew that day, right?
A. I don't know if it was on the same day. I'd have to look at the paperwork.
Q. Besides Mr. Balke, had you talked to any other lawyers towards the end of the relationship with Popovich?
A. Yes.
Q. How many?
A. Hundreds.
Q. Hundreds of lawyers?
A. I'm not kidding. Yes.
Q. Did you ask those lawyers to take your case?
A. I asked them to review it.
Q. Did any of them take the case?
A. No.
Q. They all reviewed it, though?
A. Yes. Most took the time to review it.
Q. Did any of them tell you why they didn't want to take the case?
A. There were different reasons I got from various. Some people just didn't get back to me and some people wrote me letters. I think I gave you some of those. But I got various reasons back from attorneys.

Q. I don't recall seeing any lawyers, but I would ask you to search for those.
MS. WILLIAMS: We'll search for those. I'll make a note.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. As you sit here, do you recall the basis for any attorney declining to take your personal injury case over from Popovich?
A. Say that again.
Q. As you sit here today, do you recall any of the reasons why any attorney declined to take your personal injury case over from the Popovich firm?
A. Yes.
Q. What were those reasons?
A. I remember a few. One I was looking at local lawyers in McHenry County and I was told like -- I can name them. My sister was married to him.
Anyway, I was told if Tom Popovich says you don't have a case, you don't have a case and we're not even going to look at it. That I got a lot of it.

Q. That's one reason. Any others?
A. That I got locally a lot of. As I started to work away from local further out finding attorneys, the thing was your decision to settle with the McGuires was a mistake and we don't take it because of that.
Q. Who said that?
A. Sal Ferris.
Q. When did you speak to Sal Ferris?
A. I don't know the exact date.
Q. When did he --
A. He wasn't the only one.
Q. When did he say that to you, that you just described?
A. He said it in a letter and he said it on the phone and he sent me an e-mail, I think. I don't remember the ways that he contacted me. I'd have to go back and look.
MS. WILLIAMS: We'll find it.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Besides Sal Ferris, can you recall any other attorney, specifically, that told you they wouldn't take the case because of your settlement with the McGuires?

Page 39

A. Yes.
Q. Who was that?
A. There was at least three firms downtown here right near the Daley Center that I came down to see and I don't remember their names, but they -- I got the same thing out of all three of them.
Q. Did any of the lawyers give you any other reason for declining your case?
A. Mostly it was because they knew Popovich or it was the McGuire settlement.
Q. Did any lawyer tell you that they didn't want to take your case because there was questionable liability against David Gagnon?
A. No.
Q. Did any lawyer tell you that there was questionable liability against the property owners, the McGuires?
A. No.
Q. We're jumping ahead, but did you have different lawyers that handled a binding arbitration or binding mediation for you in the underlying case?
A. Yes.
Q. Their name was Baudin?
A. Yes.

Page 40

Q. Why did Brad Balke not handle the binding arbitration?
A. I fired him.
Q. When did you fire Brad Balke?
A. I'd have to look at the dates. I'm not sure, exactly.
Q. Why did you fire him?
A. Because he forced me to undergo the exact mediation at the McHenry County court in front of Judge Meyer that Hans Mast set up that I specifically said no to.
Q. When was this mediation?
A. I'd have to look at the dates again.
Q. Was it a pretrial conference?
A. Yes.
Q. You actually attended this pretrial conference?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. What happened?
A. I said no.
Q. You said no about what?
A. They offered an amount of money and I said no.
Q. The defendants offered an amount of money?

A. Yes.
Q. Was this before or after the McGuires settled out of the case?
A. They were settled.
Q. So there was an offer of settlement from David Gagnon or his insurer?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall what that amount of money was?
A. $50,000.
Q. You refused the offer?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did that cause you to fire Brad Balke?
A. He wouldn't take it any further than that and he agreed to when I hired him. He agreed that that was not going to be the end of it and then he changed his tune, and I said, you know what – and the other thing was, I finally got through to the Baudins who I wanted to take the case because they had helped my family – his dad helped my family many eons earlier.
Q. Did you ever talk to Brad Balke about the liability or lack of liability by the McGuires, the property owners in the case?

A. I don't think so. We were on the Gagnon case.
Q. You didn't discuss the McGuires?
A. There may have been a word or something, but that's not what he was there for.
Q. He never gave you an opinion one way or the other whether the settlement was appropriate?
A. I don't believe Brad did, no. Like I said – I don't think he did.
Q. At some point after your accident did you hire the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that for --
A. I didn't hire.
Q. I know you're anticipating what I'm saying.
A. I was trying to correct myself. I did not hire.
Q. Either way, let me try to get out my question before you raise any kind of response, just so she can take down –
A. Count before I answer.

Page 43

Q. That's a good idea.
Did you ever retain the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. NO.
Q. Did you have any relationship with Daley Disability –
A. Yes.
Q. – Law? Let me finish it before you answer. I know you're anticipating what you think I'm going to say, but it might not come out the way you think. Either way, she can't take down both of us talking over each other.
What relationship did you ever have with the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. They stepped in as a substitute counsel for the law firm that I did hire.
Q. You originally hired some other law firm to represent you in connection with social security disability?
A. Yes.
Q. What was the name of that original law --
A. The lady's ladies name was Margaret Bradshaw.
Q. You terminated your relationship with her

Page 44

one way or another?
A. No.
Q. Why did Daley Disability Law substitute in for her?
A. I was told by – I have to go back and look at the communications exactly how it happened, but I was told that, basically, they are going to be taking over the hearing part of it. I don't know why. I don't know whether they sub out work. I don't know how it works.
Q. Would it be fair to say that you first retained Ms. Bradshaw in 2012 sometime?
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Is that approximately when you applied for social security?
A. It sounds like it.
Q. The Daley Disability Law Firm came in sometime in 2012 as well?
A. I don't know exactly when. I don't know.
Q. Would it be 2012 or 2013?
A. I know that they were there and – I know that something had to be signed when we went in for the hearings. Margaret Bradshaw had to sign something for the judge allowing Daley Disability to represent me at the hearings. I don't know when exactly they got involved. That's behind the scenes. I didn't have anything to do with that.

Q. Did you file for bankruptcy while your personal injury case was pending?
A. Yes.
Q. When did you file for bankruptcy?
A. I'd have to look at the paperwork again, but I don't believe that was until, I want to say, about eight or nine months, but I'm guessing, after the McGuire settlement.
MS. WILLIAMS: The question was what month and year.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know exactly. I'd have to go back and look at the paperwork.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Did you hire a lawyer to represent you in a bankruptcy?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that lawyer?
A. David Stretch.
MS. WILLIAMS: If it helps, we can stipulate to the date the bankruptcy was filed.

Page 46

MR. FLYNN: That's fine. I think we've got some e-mails that may reflect when it was. I just wondered if he knew offhand.
MS. WILLIAMS: I can stipulate, at least, that it was 2014.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. You filed for bankruptcy while the Popovich firm was still representing you —
A. Yes.
Q. — in the underlying case, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Sometimes I'll still pause in my question so if you could please pause before you answer.
In the underlying case you answered written discovery; is that true?
A. I believe so.
Q. Then you later testified at your deposition January 24, 2013, correct?
A. If that's the date, yes.
Q. Ultimately, David Gagnon was also deposed, true?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you present for his deposition?
A. No.

Page 47

Q. Did Caroline McGuire give a deposition in that case?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. Were you present for that dep?
A. No.
Q. What about Bill McGuire's deposition?
A. I was not present.
Q. Did you e-mail back and forth with Hans Mast a fair amount during the Popovich firm's representation of you?
A. By "fair amount," what do you mean?
Q. Did you regularly e-mail with Hans Mast?
A. Yes.
Q. Those e-mail communications have all been produced in this case?
A. Yes.

A. Yes.
Q. We've been providing you with various copies of the signature page in the case that's been back and forth between me and your counsel.
I don't, frankly, know if this verification that's attached is the one that went with this document, but I'll just ask you, for the record, if these are your answers, that's your signature, and that this verification is accurate?
A. That is my signature on there, yes.
Q. What was the e-mail address you used in the communication with Hans Mast?
A. Primarily it was pdulberg@comcast.net.
Q. His address was hansmast@comcast.net?
A. And he switched it to at&t.net.
Q. Did you use some other e-mail address as well?
A. I may have accidentally e-mailed him a couple of times from a Yahoo account.
Q. In answering discovery in our case, the legal malpractice case, did you search through both of those e-mail accounts of yours?

A. I no longer have the Yahoo account.
Q. Did you search through the Comcast account?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you search for PDFs or attachments to those e-mails that you produced?
A. Everything that I got, I turned over. I had converted the e-mails to PDFs because Comcast started purging the e-mails after so many years, so I turned them all into PDFs.
MS. WILLIAMS: The question was what did you search in your in box.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. What did I search?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask you a different question. You produced e-mails in this case?
A. Yes.
Q. You turned e-mails into PDFs and sent them to your lawyer; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. Some of the e-mails I reviewed have an icon that indicates there was a PDF or some other attachment to the e-mail. Do you understand that?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you produce the attachments to each of the e-mails in this case?
A. We went through that. I produced the attachments that I still had.
Q. There were some that were not available, correct?
A. Yeah. When I looked at them, 99 percent of them were already part of some other document that we turned over. I think 100 percent of them.
Q. At some point in time while Hans was handling your case, did he start to communicate with you relative to his analysis of the McGuires' liability in the case?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he start to generally advise you that he didn't believe that there was a strong case for liability against the McGuires?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that Hans' opinion was that the McGuires did not have liability in the case because they did not control the work that David Gagnon was doing?

Page 51

A. Yes.
Q. That's generally a fair summary of Hans' opinion?
A. Not quite exactly those words, but yeah.
Q. The McGuires' liability as property owners was questionable because based on Hans' analysis of the evidence, they did not control the work or the manner of work of David Gagnon on the date of the accident; is that a fair summary?
A. Depends on which time he said that.
Q. Did he say things like that over and over again?
A. He did say things like that, yes.
Q. Again, I don't want to go over the facts you already testified to with regards to the date of the accident. At some point in time was William McGuire swimming in the swimming pool?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that an above ground pool or –
A. Above ground.
Q. Was there a fair amount of time during the day that Mr. McGuire was inside the house watching television?
A. Maybe – he went inside the house for probably about 45 minutes before the accident happened. I don't know that he was watching television.

MR. FLYNN: Let's mark the next exhibit as 2.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 2, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 2, which is an e-mail chain including e-mails from November 18, 2013, are these e-mails between you and Hans Mast?
A. It looks like it, yes.
Q. I think the time stamps on these e-mails go from the bottom, which would be page 2, to the top of the first page, correct?
A. It's backwards, yes.
Q. In the original e-mail at 1:28 p.m., did Hans Mast relay to you a $5,000 settlement offer from the McGuires?
A. Which – where are you at?
Q. We're on Exhibit 2, which is also labeled as Bates label POP 181. At the bottom of the page, does Hans relay to you a settlement offer for $5,000?

A. Yes.
Q. He was telling you that the McGuires' attorney offered to settle the case for $5,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding that that was a settlement just for the McGuires, not including David Gagnon?
A. Yes.
Q. In the e-mail Hans says, quote, "As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now."
Is that an accurate reading?
A. Of that sentence, yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that he suggested that you take the $5,000 but didn't force you to take it?
A. It says, "So my suggestion is..."
Q. Then did you respond to the e-mail?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans replied again at 8:07 p.m. that same day, right?
A. Yes.

Q. He said, "Paul, whether you like it or not, they don't have a legal liability for your injury because they were not directing the work."
Is that right?
A. Part of it, yes.
Q. Was my prior summary of Hans' legal analysis a fair summary in view of these e-mails and his opinion that he relayed to you?
A. I think it went further than this, and other things, but yes.
Q. As far as these e-mails, I've accurately –
A. This e-mail, yes.
Q. What else did he tell you about the McGuires and why he didn't think they would be found liable in the case?
A. I'm pulling out of memory because I can't quote which document it's off of.
Q. That's what we're here for.
A. I can only give you the gist.
Q. I'll ask you for the exact language, but if you don't have it –
A. At one point he defined what an independent contractor is for me and he said that

Page 55

David was an independent contractor and that the McGuires weren't liable because they had hired somebody outside even though it's their own son, he's an adult, outside to do the work and that they weren't responsible.
Q. By the way, how old was David at the time that this accident occurred?
A. I'm adding. If I was 41 – I don't know what his birthday is, but I'm assuming he would be 44, 45.
Q. Is it fair to say that there were two 40-plus-year-olds, a 41- and a 44-year-old trimming trees with a chainsaw in David's parent's backyard that day, correct?
A. I was not using it. There was one 44-year-old using a chainsaw.
Q. You, the 41-year-old was holding some branches for him?
A. Yes. Just before the accident, yes.
Q. Up until this point in time when Hans is providing this legal analysis to you, you had a fair number of occasions to interact with lawyers, as we've discussed today, correct?
A. At this point, the only lawyer that I interacted with was the first one.

Q. I'm talking about in your lifetime. You had a corporate lawyer, you had a criminal lawyer, another personal injury lawyer –
A. I didn't hire –
Q. Let me finish. You had experience with lawyers representing you up to this point in time?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding that lawyers evaluate cases differently?
A. Yes.
Q. And judges evaluate cases differently?
A. Sure. That's fair.
Q. Would it be fair to say that some laws in our country are clearer and some are open to interpretation?
A. I think all of them are.
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. Calls for speculation.
If you understand the question, you can answer it.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Would you say, for example, that the tax code is a little more clearcut than common law

Received 09-19-2022 11:08 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-19-2022 11:15 AM / Transaction #19541281 / Case #2017LA000377

that's created by cases and case precedent?
A. I'm not real familiar with tax law. I have accountants for that.
Q. How about an easier question. The stop sign means that you stop, and if you go through it, it's pretty clear that you're liable for a traffic violation?
A. I'll agree with that.
Q. The legal liability for a property owner in Illinois might be a little more complicated; is that a fair statement?
A. I don't know.
Q. Would it be fair to say, in your opinion or your knowledge of the law, the property owner isn't necessarily liable because somebody is injured on their property?
A. Are you talking about what I know now or what I knew back when this was?
Q. At any time.
A. What I know now is in the circumstances that we were in, they were very liable.
Q. I'm just asking if – just because somebody is injured on a property owner's property, they are not necessarily liable, correct? Other factors are required too.

MS. WILLIAMS: I'm going to object for – he's not an expert and can't testify to legal analysis.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. As you sit here today, do you know whether a premises liability case involves multiple factors to prove liability against the property owner?
A. I don't know. I'd say that's fair. You're asking the wrong person for that.
Q. It was Hans' opinion that the McGuires did not control the work based on the evidence, correct?
A. In my opinion?
Q. That's not what I'm asking.
Was it Hans' opinion –
A. I can't –
Q. Let me just finish.
Did Hans tell you that it was his opinion that the McGuires were not liable because they did not control the work?
A. He said that right there, yes.
Q. Do you believe that he truly felt that way? That was his legal opinion?

Page 59

A. Do you want the Monday morning quarterbacking version or at the time?
Q. I'm asking if at that time you felt that he truly believed that the McGuires did not have liability?
A. At the time I trusted him, yes. I hired him to represent me, and yeah.
Q. You believed that he was relying his honest legal opinion to you at that time?
A. Yes.
Q. Including on November 18, 2013?
A. Yes.
Q. You did not accept the settlement offer of $5,000 that he relayed to you on that day, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you ultimately meet with Hans to discuss the settlement offer?
A. I think it was the day before this, but I'm not sure. It was either the day before or the day after.
MS. WILLIAMS: I think the question was, did you meet with him, at all, not the date.

BY THE WITNESS:
A. Yes.
MR. FLYNN: Can we mark this as Exhibit 3, please.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 3, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 3. Do you recognize this memorandum?
A. Yes.
Q. You may have seen it from the document production that we made in this case. This is a memorandum drafted by Hans Mast, which purportedly memorializes a meeting that he had with you on November 20, 2013.
Does this refresh your memory as to when you met with him or if you met with him?
A. If he took the memorandum on the same day, then sure.
Q. In the memo Hans says, "I met with Paul and his friend."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.

Q. Did you meet with Hans and some third person —
A. Yes.
Q. — at or about this time regarding the case?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that friend?
A. Tom Kost.
Q. Who is Tom Kost?
A. My brother.
Q. Not that it matters necessarily for privilege purposes, but can you tell me how Tom Kost is your brother?
A. We have the same mom.
Q. He was with you and observed the meeting between you and Hans?
A. Yes.
Q. The $5,000 settlement offer was discussed, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. At that time did Hans, again, relay his opinion as to the questionable liability about the McGuires — strike that.
Did he relay to you his opinion about the

questionable nature of the McGuires' liability?
A. At the meeting with Tom, yes.
Q. He advised you they maintain they were not directing Dave's work. That was the McGuires' position, correct?
A. I don't know that he stayed on that at that meeting. At different times he gave different reasons.
Q. The next line says, "Paul maintains the McGuires controlled everything that Dave was doing."
Is that an accurate reflection of your opinion?
A. Yes.
Q. As you sit here today, do you know if that statement is consistent with your own deposition testimony from the underlying case?
A. Yes.
Q. We'll come back to that. Did you tell Hans that you wanted to read the depositions of the McGuires and David Gagnon's depositions?
A. Say that again.
Q. Did you tell Paul that you wanted to read the depositions of the McGuires and Dave Gagnon's depositions?

Page 63

A. Did I tell Paul?
Q. I'm sorry. Did you tell Hans that?
A. That I wanted to read the McGuires and David Gagnon's depositions?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes, I did.
Q. What was the purpose of your wanting to review those depositions?
A. Hans had told me that what they said in their depositions meant that they had no liability.
Q. You wanted to review the testimony to determine whether you wanted to consider the $5,000 settlement offer; is that correct?
A. Right.
Q. Did you do that?
A. Eventually, yes.
Q. Before you accepted the offer?
A. I think so.
Q. So sometime after this meeting on November 20, 2013 and before you accepted the settlement offer on January 29, 2014, did you review those three deposition transcripts?
A. I'll correct you. I did not accept the offer on January 20th. I signed a release on

January 29th.
Q. Fair point. Did you read the depositions between those two dates, November 20, 2013 and January 29, 2014?
A. Yes.
Q. Those are —
A. I believe I asked him -- I don't know — it may be a little earlier because I don't know that I asked him before or after the meeting. I don't remember. I'd have to go back in the e-mails to give the date.
Q. Some point in time between those two dates you read the deps?
A. I may have asked for them before. I don't know without seeing the e-mail. It was, roughly, in the last quarter of that year, yes. Or the first month. I don't remember the first time that I asked to read them. I don't remember off the top of my head.
Q. At any point in time did you ever grant Hans authority to make a settlement demand in the case?
A. No.

Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 4. This is a copy of the original complaint in this instant case. It reflects a filing date of November 28, 2017.

Is this your original legal malpractice complaint against the Popovich firm and Hans Mast?

A. I believe so.

Q. Did you review and approve the allegations in this complaint?

A. For the most part. I wanted to reword some things, but the lawyer, they do their thing.

Q. At the time you were represented by the Gooch firm is when you filed this lawsuit, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Directing your attention back to Exhibit 1, if you still have it. If you could turn to page 10.

The answer to Interrogatory No. 24 indicates that on November 4, 2013, Mast was granted authority to investigate a settlement but a specific dollar amount was never provided. Do you see that?

A. He was verbally granted authority to investigate, yes.

Q. Who did you want him to investigate a settlement with?

A. The McGuires.

Q. Just the McGuires or the McGuires and —

A. He wanted to do it. I didn't. I said, "If you want to look at that, go ahead."

Q. Did you grant him authority to investigate a settlement with David Gagnon as well?

A. I don't know if I did or not, off the top of my head, but that would have been much later.

Q. Eventually did you tell Hans that you would agree to accept the $5,000 settlement offer from the McGuires?

A. Eventually did I tell him that?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. When did you tell him that?

A. I want to say just before Christmas in December of 2013.

Q. There's no doubt in your mind that you relayed your acceptance of the $5,000 settlement offer to Hans Mast before Christmas Day, which would be December 25, 2013?

A. Right.

Q. Then did Hans mail to you a settlement release by letter dated January 24, 2014?

A. I'd like to see the letter, but yeah, I believe so.

Q. I believe it's —

A. I believe he had to mail it a couple times because I didn't get it.

Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 5. I'll represent to you that this is a copy of the second amended complaint that you filed in this case by your new lawyers, your current lawyers. If I could direct your attention to Exhibit D attached to this Exhibit 5.

Is Exhibit D a January 24, 2014 cover letter from Hans Mast to you enclosing the general release and settlement agreement from defense counsel for Caroline and Bill McGuire?

A. That's what it says.

Q. In the letter did he ask you to — it looks like it might be a typo. It says, "Please release and return it to me in the enclosed self-addressed stamped envelope at your earliest convenience."

A. Right, but I believe it was just a release — it was all tied into one.

Q. This letter is unsigned. Did you receive the letter unsigned?

A. Did I receive this unsigned?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever seen a signed copy of this letter?

A. No.

Q. If I could direct your attention to the next page of Exhibit D. Is that page 1 of the general release and settlement agreement?

A. Exhibit D?

Q. Correct.

Q. Is this what you received attached to the cover letter?
A. I don't think so. Let me see. Yes, this looks like it because it's got these things I remember.
Q. When did you receive this letter and the attachment?
A. I would say I wrote back on January 29th and I probably got it that day, signed it and sent it back.
Q. The copy of the release is also unsigned. It's attached as exhibit -- part of Exhibit D to your second amended complaint.
Do you see the signature lines and the notary signature here that's missing?
A. Yes.
Q. Is this the document that you signed and sent back to Hans Mast?
A. The document that I signed had my signature.
Q. I'm asking if this is the same document that you signed and sent back to him?
A. Yes.

Page 70

Q. Right now we don't have a signed copy. I don't know that I've seen one in the case.
MS. WILLIAMS: Can we go off the record for a second?
MR. FLYNN: Sure.
(WHEREUPON, discussion was had off the record.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Is there any doubt, in your mind, that Exhibit D is the letter and attachment that you received from Hans Mast?
A. No. I believe that this is it.
Q. You signed some copy of this release and sent it back to Hans on January 29; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You accepted the settlement offer prior to Christmas and presumably defense counsel or Hans drafted the settlement release and then Hans mailed it to you, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. At any point in time from December 25th until you received this settlement release, did you contact any lawyer to discuss whether it would be appropriate to let the McGuires out for 5,000?

Page 71

A. I believe I contacted Hans again.
Q. Besides Hans, did you talk to anyone else?
A. No.
Q. Was there anything preventing you from seeking a second opinion from some other lawyer at that time?
A. No.
Q. Directing your attention to Exhibit E attached to the second amended complaint, the second amended complaint, again, being Exhibit 5. Is this an e-mail from you to Hans on January 29, 2014?
A. This is the e-mail chain between me and Hans, yes.
Q. Down below at the bottom of the page, January 29 at 10:51 a.m., it appears that you were questioning Hans regarding some of the language in the release, including social security disability check boxes. Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans responded to you and then at the top of the page here at 1:59 p.m. it says, "Okay, it's signed and in the mail."
A. Correct.

Page 72

Q. What did you mean by that?
A. I signed it and mailed it.
Q. Did you -- where did you mail it from?
A. My home.
Q. How did you do that?
A. Put a stamp on the envelope and put it in the mailbox, put the flag up and waited for the mailman.
Q. Is the mailbox attached to your home or is it --
A. It's out on the street.
Q. You walked down there and you put the mail -- the envelope in the mailbox, put the flag up and --
A. That is correct.
Q. Your understanding of signing that release and sending it back to your lawyer was that you would agree to take the $5,000 settlement, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans didn't deliver the letter to you personally. He mailed it to you, correct?
A. He mailed it to me?
Q. He mailed it to you.

Q. Do you recall an allegation in your complaint or amended complaint or second amended complaint in this case alleging that you were pressured or alleging undue influence by Hans in urging you to accept the $5,000 settlement from the McGuires?
A. Yes.
Q. How is it, as you sit here today, can you tell me how Hans unduly influenced you to accept the $5,000 settlement offer?
A. I don't know what Hans was thinking. How did I feel influenced?
Q. Unduly influenced.
Let me put it this way. He didn't put a gun to your head?
A. No.
Q. He suggested that you take the settlement?
A. Correct.
Q. He didn't force you to take the settlement?
A. Correct.
Q. It was your decision?

Page 74

A. Correct.
Q. You signed it and you sent it back to him in the mail?
A. Yes.
Q. Aside from your e-mails with Hans on January 29, did you call him that day?
A. I believe so.
Q. Did you also discuss whether it was appropriate to accept the McGuires' $5,000 settlement offer at that time?
A. Yes.
Q. You deliberated on it and decided to take it, correct?
A. There wasn't much – it was take it or get nothing.
Q. You had the opportunity to deliberate on it, correct?
A. For that day, yeah.
Q. You had reviewed the transcripts of the McGuire depositions and David Gagnon's depositions in order to provide you with some information in order to determine whether to accept the settlement offer, correct?
A. I believe I did try to read those, yes.

Page 75

Q. Did you call Hans or e-mail him and question him with respect to the evidence, the testimony contained in those deposition transcripts?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you say to him and what did he say to you?
A. There were many conversations over the phone and I'm sure some through e-mails.
Q. He continued to tell you that it was his opinion that the liability on the McGuires is questionable because they did not control David Gagnon's work that day, correct?
A. It depends on which time. Sometimes he said because they didn't tell them how to squeeze the trigger. It depends which time you are talking about.
Q. Again, there was nothing preventing you from seeking a second opinion from some other lawyer at the time you signed the settlement release and sent it back to Hans, correct?
A. From the time I received it, signed it and sent it back?
Q. Right.
A. No. It was a matter of hours. I got it

that morning.
Q. You decided to mail it that day, right?
A. He needed it. He said now or you're not going to get anything.
Q. There was nothing preventing you from seeking the advice of another attorney at that time?
A. At that time it was time. It was now or nothing.
Q. You were in the comfort of your own house when you received the letter, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You had the ability to go find another lawyer and ask them to discuss the case at that time. You had done it hundreds of times earlier – strike that.
After the settlement with the McGuires, you continued to prosecute the case against Gagnon, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding as to what, if any, insurance coverage he had?
A. Yes.
Q. How much was that?
A. What time frame are you talking about?

Q. What was your initial understanding as to the limits on David Gagnon's insurance coverage?
A. Hans Mast told me he had $100,000.
Q. Was that in an e-mail?
A. There were – not initially, no, but later on he reiterated that in e-mails, yes.
Q. Did you, ultimately, learn that there was some additional amount of coverage with respect to Gagnon's policy?
A. Long after Hans Mast was gone, not part of the case.
Q. How much was the coverage?
A. The Allstate coverage, I believe, was 300,000.
Q. We'll talk about the settlement later, but did you ultimately settle the case again Gagnon for 300,000?
A. I believe it went to binding mediation.
Q. Was there an award of $300,000 based on a high/low agreement?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that if Hans made a mistake about the $100,000 in coverage, that that was corrected and there was never any harm done as a result of his –

A. No.
Q. Explain to me how you were harmed by the representation that there was $100,000 in coverage.
A. You want me to explain?
Q. Yes.
A. Had I known the value of the case, I would have not filed for bankruptcy.
Q. Explain to me why one has something to do with the other.
A. Is my family and me going to dump money into a black hole that we can't recover or is there a light at the end of the tunnel where I can pay them back.
Q. At the time that you filed for bankruptcy, had any settlement offer been made from David Gagnon or his lawyers to you?
A. At the time of when?
Q. When you filed for bankruptcy.
A. I don't think so. I'd have to check the dates, but I don't think so.
Q. As the case was progressing against David Gagnon, were your doctors deposed?
A. As the case progressed with David Gagnon,

Page 79

I believe they were deposed. I don't remember. I'd have to look at the dates.
Q. Discovery continued on in the case?
A. I believe one doctor was deposed after the McGuire settlement. I'm not sure, though.
Q. Did Hans continue to represent you for some period of time?
A. Yes.
MR. FLYNN: I'll have you mark this as Exhibit 6.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 6, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 6. Do you recognize this e-mail chain?
A. Yes.
Q. This is from September 23, 2014. If we go from the bottom up, it appears that Hans said to you that he wanted to give you the option of finding other counsel at this point if you really want to take the case to trial, which I think ultimately will be necessary. Correct?
A. Are we at "before I proceed" or "that's the very reason"?

Q. "That's the very reason."
Is it fair to say he was suggesting you find another counsel in the case at that point?
A. Yes.
Q. He also said, "I just do not believe strongly that defense counsel will offer much in the way of settlement."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. That's his opinion regardless of what he believed the coverage limits to be; is that a fair statement?
A. Yes.
Q. You responded to him, he responded to you and then you wrote an e-mail to him at 8:25 p.m. that night?
A. Okay.
Q. Do you see that? Did you say, "First, I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to help prove David cut me with a chainsaw"?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you start to look for other lawyers to help you in your case against Gagnon at that point in time?

A. I believe I did, that summer. This is fall, September.
Q. You had already started looking for new lawyers?
A. I believe that Hans had told me to start looking for a new lawyer in April of that year.
Q. Did he say why?
A. We'd have to read his thing. He says why.
Q. Do you recall why he said that to you?
A. He did not feel that the case was provable against David. He did not feel the value of the case was worth it. He did not feel -- actually, this is 2014. The dates are rough.
Q. He thought the case against David was difficult, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you ever described the case as a he said, she said with respect to the facts of the accident?
A. He described that to me many times.
Q. Have you also --
A. And I used that back, yes.

Page 82

Q. Have you ever described this case as a he said, she said case?
A. I may have. I don't know.
Q. It is your word against David Gagnon's as to what happened and whose fault it was that day?
A. That's what Hans explained to me as what the problem was.
Q. Did you ever describe the accident as a he said, she said?
A. I don't think I called David a "she said" or me a "she said." I don't know. Right here I do.
Q. What do you say there?
A. I said, "I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to help prove David cut me with a chainsaw."
Q. He was denying that he even cut you, correct?
A. No, he never denied that.
Q. What was your reason for writing this sentence in that way?
A. Because Hans said that he believed David over me.
Q. With respect to what fact at issue?
A. His deposition versus mine. He said that I didn't make a good witness.

Page 83

Q. With respect to what points?
A. All of it. He was dumping me and he was coming up with his own excuses.
Q. You and David were the only ones that witnessed this accident?
A. Correct.
Q. Based on your understanding of how the evidence came out in the case, would you agree that there were differences with respect to the version of events?
A. Oh, yeah.
Q. There were differences between what he said happened and what you said happened?
A. Oh, definitely.
Q. Would it be fair to say, then, it would be up to the trier of fact, whether it be a judge or a jury, to determine who they believed?
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. Calls for a legal conclusion.
You can answer, if you understand.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I believe it would be up to a judge or jury, sure.

Page 84

Q. At the bottom of Exhibit 7 you say, "Bottom line Hans... do the best you can with what you got."
I'm sorry. I didn't mark this one yet. My apologies.

BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 7. Is this an e-mail chain between you and Hans?
A. I don't think it's a chain. I think it's one.
Q. Point is well taken. It's you writing to Hans?
A. Yes.
Q. At the bottom it sounds like you had been in the hospital with a migraine and then you wrote, "Bottom line, Hans... do the best you can with what you got."
A. Yes.
Q. What did you mean by that?

A. He wanted to settle, and I can tell you right now this letter was written after a very traumatic experience and – let me read it and refresh myself. I'm melting down in this letter.
Q. You said after a traumatic experience. Are you referring to the bankruptcy filing from that day?
A. That, in combination with migraines, yes.
Q. David Stretch was your lawyer that filed bankruptcy for you?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you meet with Mr. Stretch and discuss the bankruptcy process before you hired him?
A. Yes.
Q. How long did you meet with him?
A. I think I asked about it. I don't know. It may have been a couple of months or a couple weeks before it got filed. I wanted to learn about it.
Q. Did you, ultimately, list the case against David Gagnon as an asset in your bankrupt filing?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Is that why the bankruptcy trustee became involved with the binding mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever meet the bankruptcy trustee?
A. Yes. The first one.
Q. What was the name of that person?
A. The first one was Heeg was her last name. H-e-e-g, I think.
Q. Again, we established that Brad Balke became your lawyer in the case on March 19, 2015, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that your relationship with Hans Mast was deteriorating over the fall and beginning of the winter of 2015?
A. I would say it had been deteriorating long before that. You can see from the last exhibit I'm melting down and it was already started deteriorating.
Q. By the time you drafted Exhibit 7, had you talked to other lawyers about taking your case?
A. I have to go back and look, but probably. If he told me to look at other lawyers in April before this, yes.
Q. How many lawyers would you say you talked to between April and the time you drafted this e-mail on September 26?
A. I couldn't count that high, probably.
Q. Quite a few?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did any of them take your case?
A. No.
MR. FLYNN: Mark this as Exhibit 8.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 8, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 8. Is this an e-mail from you to Hans Mast?
A. Yes. It's an e-mail chain, yes.
Q. On February 22, 2015 at 7:42 p.m. you wrote to Hans, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Halfway down in that e-mail message you said, quote, "Now I'm left wondering... how hard it is to sue an attorney?"
A. That is true.
Q. You wrote that?
A. Yes.
Q. The next line you wrote, "And yes, I am and have been looking for someone who will take this case..."
A. That is not in reference to suing the attorney. That was in reference to the Gagnon case.
Q. What did the reference to suing an attorney mean?
A. That was me being angry.
Q. With Hans?
A. Yes. I was seeing red.
Q. You're suggesting that you may sue him?
A. Yeah. I didn't know that I could. I'm wondering about it.
Q. You, basically, made a threat, whether it be a veiled threat or an overt threat to sue him, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You, ultimately, sued him for legal malpractice, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that what you had in mind when you wrote this?
A. No. This was about dropping Gagnon. The malpractice is about dropping the McGuires.

Q. This —
A. We're talking — this is 2015.
Q. In this 2015 e-mail you are suggesting to Hans that you may sue him because of the McGuire settlement; is that right?
A. No.
Q. Then what is it that you're saying to him?
A. That if he damaged the Gagnon case, I didn't know if he did or didn't, and I'm threatening because I'm angry. You can see, again, I'm melting down here. These are emotional outbursts, I guess.
Q. Moving up the page a little bit also on February 22, 2015 at 8:14 p.m., you say, "To be honest, you took this case knowing it was my word versus his."
A. Yes.
Q. He said, he said, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that a fair characterization of the case, your word against David's?
A. That's how Hans kept describing it. That's the way I put it back to him, yes.
Q. You didn't correct him or dispute his characterization, did you?

A. No. I used his characterization.
Q. You agreed with it?
A. He said — how did it go? We had conversations between these e-mails on the phone. Then we would hang up and I would get angry and type it in an e-mail, type whatever it was that bothered me so he had it.
Q. Let me ask another question, if that's okay.
Did you ever correct Hans if he called this a he said, he said case? Did you ever say it's more than that?
A. Do I ever say it's more than that?
Q. Did you ever correct him? If he said it's a he said, he said case, did you say no, that's not right?
A. He said there's no witnesses. I said, "I'm a witness."
Q. You're one of the hes. It's your word against David Gagnon's, as you said in this e-mail?
A. Yes.
MR. FLYNN: If I could have you mark that as Exhibit 9.

Page 91

(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 9, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Exhibit 9, is that Brad Balke's substitute appearance that was filed on March 19, 2015 in the case against Gagnon?
A. It looks like it, yes.
Q. Back to Exhibit 5, which is the second amended complaint. If I could direct your attention to Exhibit F. This appears to be a more complete copy of another e-mail we just talked about. Is Exhibit F more of the February 22, 2015 e-mail chain?
A. I'm not sure if that's separate or the same. Oh, it looks like it.
Q. At 7:20 p.m. Hans wrote to you and said, "Paul, I can no longer represent you in the case. We obviously have differences of opinion as to the value of the case."
Right?
A. Yes.
Q. He says, "I've been telling you over a year now the problems with the case and you just don't see them."

Page 92

Correct?
A. That's what it says.
Q. Obviously, a difference of opinion, right?
A. Yes. Are you talking about difference of opinion as to the value or difference of opinion of the problems within the case?
Q. Let's go on. He says, "You keep telling me how injured you are and completely ignore that it doesn't matter if you passed away from the accident because we still have to prove that the defendant was at fault. While you think it is very clear, it is not. My guess is that seven out of ten times you will lose the case outright. That means zero. That's why I've been trying to convince you to agree to a settlement. You clearly do not want to."
Did I accurately read that?
A. Just that part of that paragraph, yes.
Q. So Hans is telling you that in his opinion your case against Gagnon you're going to lose it seven out of ten times, correct?
A. In this one, yes.
Q. He's acknowledging that you may have a chance.

A. I think later on he says nine out of ten.
Q. In this e-mail he says seven out of ten you will lose.
A. Yes.
Q. He's recognizing three times out of ten you may win, right?
A. I don't know what Hans is thinking.
Q. Is that what he said?
A. He says seven out of ten times you lose.
Q. You understood that there are risks in taking the case to trial that you could lose?
A. There are unforeseen risks, yes.
Q. There are always risks, period, in taking a case to trial?
A. Yes.
Q. Before you hired Brad Balke and after Hans told you he couldn't represent you, did you talk to any other lawyers about taking your case?
A. Yes.
Q. How many?
A. I can't tell you. A lot.
Q. Did any of them tell you that they wouldn't take the case because they didn't think you could prevail against Gagnon?

A. No.
Q. Not one?
A. No.
Q. What are the names of any of the lawyers you talked to about taking your case over from Popovich?
A. I can't tell you without looking at documents who it was and what date it was, what it was between these two.
Q. I don't think documents I produced would help you in that regard.
I'll just ask you based on your memory the names of any lawyers you met with from the time Hans wrote this February 22 e-mail —
A. I believe —
Q. Let me finish.
A. I believe —
MS. WILLIAMS: He has not finished his question.
THE WITNESS: Sorry.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. From the time that Hans wrote this February 22 e-mail and the time that Brad Balke enters an appearance on March 19. Just the name of any lawyer you —

A. I believe that Sal Ferris that I was talking about was one of the lawyers that I talked to.
Q. You're not sure? You believe that he was?
A. In between this time and this time?
Q. Yes.
A. I believe it's right around then.
Q. What type of law practice does Sal Ferris have?
A. I believe personal injury.
Q. Did you ever talk to him about taking your case before that date?
A. Before the date of this e-mail?
Q. Yes.
A. I'd have to look at it.
Q. He wasn't one of the original attorneys that you spoke with at the beginning of the case?
A. No.
Q. Fair to say once Balke entered his appearance on March 19, 2015 that Mast and Popovich were no longer your attorneys, correct?

Page 96

A. When Balke enters his appearance?
Q. Yes.
A. I would believe that, yes.
Q. They were terminated and Balke stepped in?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell me how the binding mediation which proceeded on December 8, 2015 evolved and came to be.
A. I was ordered into it from a bankruptcy court.
Q. Why is that?
A. I believe that the trustee put a motion up. I don't know who did it. I assume it was the trustee and the court ordered that it be put into binding mediation.
Q. Did you appear at the mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall the name of the mediator?
A. Not off the top of my head, no.
Q. One of the exhibits to your second amended complaint indicates it was retired Judge James Etchingham.
A. That sounds familiar.

Q. Do you recall how long the mediation lasted?
A. All day.
Q. Do you know if the parties submitted mediation briefs or statements to the judge?
A. I believe both sides submitted a whole bunch of things.
Q. The Boudins represented you in this mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. Because you had fired Balke by this point?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. Directing your attention, again, to Exhibit 5, the second amended complaint and Exhibit G. Exhibit G is, apparently, a memorialization of the mediation award. Do you see that?
A. It's how the judge decided to break it down, yes.
Q. Do you see that there's an award for future medical expenses of $200,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Since that date of December 8, 2015, have you received any medical treatment relative to your injuries —

Page 98

A. Yes.
Q. Let me finish. Strike the question.
Since that date, December 8, 2015, have you received any medical treatment for your injuries incurred on January 28, 2011?
A. You're asking since the date of the binding mediation?
Q. That's right.
A. Yes.
Q. What medical treatment have you received?
A. I do an ongoing with the neurologist for the dystonia.
Q. That's in your right arm?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you calculated the medical bills that you've incurred since that day?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Are they anywhere near $200,000?
A. It depends if you calculate with or without insurance. I know what I pay, but then I have to pay for the insurance that pays for that.
Q. How much have you paid out of pocket since that date for medical treatment on your arm?

Page 99

A. I don't know, offhand.
Q. Was there any doctor that opined that you would require $200,000 in future medical expenses?
A. I believe so.
Q. Who was that?
A. I believe that was Dr. Patel. I don't know that she said $200,000. She was the doctor that was handling it at the time.
Q. Did you discuss your injury with the mediator at the mediation?
A. He did ask me a few questions.
Q. How much time did you spend with him?
A. On and off. He would come in and ask me questions and then go away and then come in and would ask me questions and then go away.
I don't remember which one was the mediator, which one was the Allstate adjuster, which one was the — I don't remember.
Q. You're not sure which one was the mediator?
A. They came in and they said they are going to ask you some questions and I answered them.
Q. As you sit here today, you don't know how much face time you had with the mediator that day?

Page 100

A. I don't remember the face of which one is which.
Q. Did the issue of lost wages ever come up?
A. At the mediation with me?
Q. Yes.
A. I don't remember.
Q. Did you ever make a claim of lost wages of $250,000?
A. I may have.
Q. Do you know what that was based on?
A. Yeah.
Q. What is that based on?
A. Past and future.
Q. What past wages had you ever earned that could lead to an award of $250,000?
A. To me, that's not a very high number. I think I asked for more than that. It would be an average over a certain number of years plus benefits and that's all lost.
Q. Would it be fair to say that your income would be accurately reflected in the tax returns you've produced in this case, so I don't want to ask you about each one of them?
A. I would say my personal income, yeah.

MR. FLYNN: I believe the next exhibit is 10.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 10, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I'm handing you what's been marked as Exhibit 10. This is a six-page binding mediation agreement. The copy I have is unsigned.
Do you recognize this as the mediation agreement that governed your December 8, 2016 mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. If I could direct your attention to — first, let me ask you.
Do you know why the bankruptcy trustee or the bankruptcy court ordered binding mediation as opposed to nonbinding?
A. I have no idea.

Q. On page 4, section F, subsection B — I'm sorry, 1B. It says, "The parties agree that for this mediation the minimum award to Paul Dulberg will be $50,000. Also, the maximum award to Paul Dulberg will be $300,000."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know why the parties agreed to this high/low agreement?
A. No.
Q. Do you recall alleging in your original complaint against Popovich that there was a high/low agreement?
A. There is. There was.
MS. WILLIAMS: Can you repeat the question, please.
(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know. I'd have to read it.
MS. WILLIAMS: I asked her to read it. And you had answered it previously.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Directing your attention back to Exhibit 4, which is the original complaint in this case. Page 4, paragraph 16.

Page 103

A. Okay.
Q. There's a sentence that begins with, "Unfortunately, a high/low agreement had been executed by Dulberg reducing the maximum account he could recover to $300,000 based upon the insurance policy available."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. It's not your position or testimony that Popovich had anything to do with the high/low agreement?
A. That was a mistake in there. No.
Q. You would agree that Popovich had nothing to do with the high/low agreement?
A. I believe that events that unfolded the way they did was due to Hans Mast's initial assessment of the value of the case.
Q. Let me ask it a different way.
Did Popovich have any idea that this high/low agreement existed when it was entered into?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you have any reason to believe that he did?

Page 104

A. I don't know. I don't know how much the Boudins were in contact with them because they worked together. I don't know.
Q. What do you mean, "they worked together"?
A. They worked together on all different cases. That's a small county out there.
Q. Did you ever write to Hans and accuse Popovich of having a conflict of interest because he may have gone to high school with David Gagnon?
A. I did learn that.
Q. Do you believe the fact that someone went to high school with another person may give rise to a conflict of interest in a lawsuit?
A. I was shooting in the dark and guessing why they didn't see this as a viable case.
Q. Do you think that was appropriate to send to your lawyer at the time?
A. When you're wondering why they are doing what they are doing and you learn that and they were pretty much in the same class and they all knew each other and it's a small town, let me ask you, are you friends with the guy I'm suing? That's an appropriate question.

Q. You didn't say that. You asked if they went to school together.
A. Correct.
Q. Popovich did not enter into this high/low agreement on your behalf, correct?
A. Popovich, no.
Q. When I say "Popovich," I mean generally the Popovich firm and your lawyers.
A. This was years later. No.
Q. They had nothing to do with it, right?
A. I wouldn't say anything to do with it.
Q. Withdrawn.
Who drafted this high/low agreement that's contained in the mediation agreement?
A. I'm not sure who drafted it.
Q. Would it have been either the mediator, the bankruptcy trustee, your lawyers or the defense attorneys?
A. I assume that this would have been an agreement of all of them.
Q. You don't think Popovich had anything to do with drafting this high/low agreement, do you?
A. I don't know that he did or didn't.
Q. Do you have any reason to believe that he did?

A. At this point, no.
Q. Continuing on in Exhibit 4. Directing your attention to the bottom of page 4, paragraph 10.
A. Exhibit 4. Say it again.
Q. The bottom of page 4, paragraph 20. This is your complaint against Popovich and Mast.
A. This has been amended since then.
Q. I understand. Paragraph 20 reads, "Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the high/low agreement contained therein and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time that the information Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading and that, in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell me, as you sit here today, what false and misleading information did Mast and Popovich give you?
A. That I realized on the day of the — following the execution of the mediation agreement?

Page 107

Q. Correct.
A. The liability of the McGuires.
Q. What was false about it?
A. What made them liable and what didn't.
Q. What is it you learned to dispute what you were told?
A. I learned from a reliability expert that had the report there that day that the McGuires provided the tools which made Gagnon an agent of the McGuires. He was working at their behest.
Q. Who was this liability expert?
A. What's his name?
Q. He's a doctor?
A. Yes.
Q. Continue on with that paragraph. "Following mediation, Dulberg was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016."
Do you see that allegation?
A. Yeah.
Q. Who advised you to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters?

Page 108

A. I believe that was Boudin.
Q. You believe that or you know that?
A. I know that.
Q. You alleged it in this complaint so it's important that we know who that was.
A. Yes, that was Boudin.
Q. Boudin told you to seek an independent opinion from an attorney that handles malpractice matters?
A. Yes.
Q. It says you received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.
A. Yes.
Q. That's separate and apart from any opinion you may have received from a liability expert, a doctor, an expert on chainsaws?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was the lawyer that you received a legal opinion from on December 16, 2016?
A. I believe that would be Thomas Gooch.
Q. The drafter of this complaint?
A. I'd have to look at the dates because I think — December 8th was the mediation; is that right?

Q. Correct.
A. So the 16th would sound about right to be meeting with Gooch, but I can get that date.
Q. You met with Gooch –
A. Soon, within weeks. It was quick.
Q. Now that the door has been opened, you fired Gooch in this case, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. He drafted this complaint and he's also the one that gave you an opinion about legal malpractice liability on the part of my clients?
A. Yes.
Q. What is it that he told you on December 16, 2016?
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. I don't think we've waived that privilege, but – can we go off the record for a second?
MR. FLYNN: I don't want to go off the record. I've asked this interrogatory in about five different ways and it hasn't been answered appropriately.
The allegation was made in the complaint. That's why I drafted the interrogatory the way I did. I don't think that there's been a square answer to it. This is clear that you're talking about a legal opinion.

BY THE WITNESS:
Q. Is this the same wording as we have in the current complaint?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. It's not exactly.
A. What would this be valid for, then?
Q. You've raised a response to a statute of limitations defense in this case and placed your knowledge of the malpractice and the date of incurring of an injury at issue.
Because your discovery of malpractice has been placed at issue, it's our position that you've waived privilege anyhow with respect to this conversation on December 16, 2016.
A. I'm not sure –
MS. WILLIAMS: There's not a question pending. I'm going to make a standing objection as to privilege with Gooch.
If we can agree that that objection will stand, we can go through this line of questioning and then if we need to later, have a judge determine whether or not that line of questioning is admissible. Are you agreeable to that?

MR. FLYNN: I'm agreeable to continuing on for a few minutes. I want to explore. I'll try to lay foundation for – to confirm this wasn't anyone else, for starters. Why don't we continue on and if you need to raise it again, we can talk.
MS. WILLIAMS: Otherwise, I'm just going to raise it to every single question you ask. I just don't want to have to continue to make the objection as to – if questions are asked about advice given by a legal malpractice attorney, I'm going to raise an objection as to that.
MR. FLYNN: Okay. But this is why we had the 201K conferences, multiple 201K conferences. It was made clear, to me, that there was a waiver with respect to subsequent counsel.
MS. WILLIAMS: Tom Gooch isn't subsequent counsel.
MR. FLYNN: The allegation has been made in this complaint and apparently this is subsequent counsel subsequent to my client's representation.
MS. WILLIAMS: It is a different case. It's not subsequent counsel in the underlying case. It's a new case.

Page 112

MR. FLYNN: We'll get to the interrogatory in a few minutes. I'll pull that out.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask you. Is there any other attorney besides Mr. Gooch that gave you an opinion that's referenced here on December 16?
A. No one that isn't privileged.
Q. Could it have been anyone else?
A. No.
Q. So Gooch is the only person that's being referenced here in this allegation that's in your complaint that's a public record?
I'm not asking you right now what the opinion is. I'm going to do that later. I'm asking you who gave it to you. It's not anyone besides Mr. Gooch, correct?
A. Yes. It was Thomas Gooch.
Q. He drafted the very complaint that that allegation is contained in?
A. Yes.
Q. Dr. Landford was the liability expert that you referenced earlier, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Back to the allegation that Gooch and – that Popovich and Mast provided you false and misleading information. That information was simply their legal opinion on the McGuires' liability; isn't that correct?

A. No. There was nothing simple about that. That's a very complex series of things that go all the way back to before the McGuire settlement.

Q. They didn't lie to you, did they?

A. It depends on how you define lie.

Q. How do you define lie?

A. If you know better and you say something else, that's a lie. Omission is a lie.

Q. Did they provide you with anything other than a legal opinion as to the McGuires' liability?

A. Yes. They provided me with case laws. They provided me with all different stuff. Yes.

Q. Whatever the advice that was given to you on December 16, 2016, you felt that you were mislead by Popovich and Mast at that point in time, correct?

A. At that point in time it was confirmed to me that I had a valid case against Popovich.

Q. You had a valid malpractice case against Popovich?

A. Yes. I did not know before that.

Q. As of December 16, 2016?

A. Yes.

Q. Why is it that you didn't file that lawsuit until nearly a year later on November 28, 2017?

A. I believe because Thomas Gooch had some health issues and then his wife had some health issues. It took a while.

(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 11, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. I'm handing you what has been marked as Exhibit 11. This is one set of your supplemental Answers to Interrogatories.

First, I'll ask you if that is your verification and signature at the end?

A. That is my signature.

Q. Again, I don't know if that verification was attached to this original document. It may have been. But there's been some confusion with respect to these verification pages. This is your signature and you answered these interrogatories, correct?

A. Yeah.

Q. So this is a valid verification page with respect to this discovery document; is that a fair statement?

A. This is supplemental to original answers.

Q. That's your signature and you agree these are your answers?

A. I've reviewed them and we went over them and yes, I agree.

Q. And they are accurate?

A. As accurate as we can be.

Q. If I could direct your attention to Interrogatory No. 26. Do you see that?

A. Okay. Yes, I see it.

Q. This is similar to what we just talked about a few minutes ago. I'll read the interrogatory to you. "Identify and describe the false and misleading information Mast and Popovich provided to you and explain how you realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information was false and misleading and the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake as alleged in paragraph 56 of your second amended complaint."

Do you see your supplemental answer here?

A. I see it, yes.

Q. You reference the mediation award and then you state, quote, "At that time Dulberg realized that Mast's advice to settle with the McGuires for $5,000 was incorrect because Mast had cited Dulberg being able to recover in full from Gagnon as his reasoning."

A. I do.

Q. Can you explain what that means because I don't quite understand it.

A. Hans Mast assured me — I want to go back to 2013, the Fall between October and the signature of the final release for the McGuires.

He assured me that, he said -- at that time he didn't tell me what anybody's policies were. He assured me that if we let the McGuires out of the case, Gagnon has enough insurance, you're going to get everything from him, so it doesn't matter that you're carrying the McGuires in the case.

Q. The next interrogatory is 27. "Identify and describe the expert opinions provided to you in December 2016 as alleged in paragraph 57 of your second amended complaint including the identity of the expert, any opinions and any other information provided by the expert which caused you to learn in the summer of 2016 and became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent you."

Received 09-19-2022 11:08 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-19-2022 11:15 AM / Transaction #19541281 / Case #2017LA000377

What does the summer of 2016 have to do with your discovery of malpractice?

A. Technically, I was sent Dr. Landford's report — I might be off a little by a couple months here, but I think in July of that year. And I read it, but I didn't — you don't catch everything the first time you read it.

It was not until later that I caught the part of the report that was brought to the attention — it caught my eye when I was sitting there and reading it.

Q. You didn't read any of this interrogatory or the original interrogatory as requesting legal opinions that you had alleged that gave you notice that there was a malpractice claim against Mast and Popovich?

A. Excuse me?

MR. FLYNN: Can you read that back.

(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)

Page 118

BY THE WITNESS:

A. The way she said it, I don't understand.

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. I'll rephrase it.

We've known about this allegation in the original complaint since it was filed. You received some legal opinion in 2016. That's why you didn't know you had a malpractice case against Mast and Popovich.

We asked you in discovery answers a couple different ways what those legal opinions are. You didn't read 26 and 27 as requesting information about legal opinions?

A. I don't know that an expert witness would be considered a legal opinion. Wouldn't that be more like an attorney?

Q. I'll ask you again. Why is it that you first became aware of a legal malpractice matter against Mast and Popovich on or about December 16, 2016?

A. December 16th I was talking to a legal malpractice attorney.

Q. You were told that there was a case against —

Page 119

A. A valid case, yes.

Q. — Mast and Popovich?

A. Yes.

Q. Why is it you didn't know about this valid case prior to that date?

A. Because I hadn't talked to anybody that was a lawyer that specialized in that area.

Q. Whatever it is that he said to you gave you the basis for believing you had a valid case against Mast and Popovich?

A. Very much so, yes.

Q. You're withholding that information from me right now, as we sit here. You won't tell me what that expert said, correct?

MS. WILLIAMS: Repeat the question.

(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)

MS. WILLIAMS: I'm asserting attorney-client privilege on behalf of my client for Gooch's advice on December — in December of 2016.

However, because I want to move forward with this deposition, if he can answer the question, I believe we should go ahead and move forward and have him answer the question.

I'll assert the privilege with the understanding that this may have to be briefed later.

MR. FLYNN: To be stricken later?

MS. WILLIAMS: Right.

MR. FLYNN: The substance of the answer he can put on the record. You're just saying you may move to strike it later?

MS. WILLIAMS: Right. I want to maintain the privilege with the objection, but I don't want to have to call the judge right now. I don't think it's something we should have to call the judge about right now.

MR. FLYNN: Just for the record, I believe it's been placed at issue by virtue of the first amended complaint. The responses to the statute of limitation defenses that were raised in very dispositive motions before Gooch withdrew from the case, the gist of that is the discovery rule has been raised and, therefore, it's our position that the date of discovery has been placed at issue and, accordingly, any legal opinions that were provided to this plaintiff have been exposed and that we're entitled to know what those are.

Page 121

MS. WILLIAMS: Can I also note one more thing?
MR. FLYNN: Sure.
MS. WILLIAMS: In the supplemental -- in the request it specifically refers to paragraph 57 of the second amended complaint, which is different.
MR. FLYNN: It is different. I'll acknowledge that. I believe that the prior original interrogatories asked for any opinions relative to the discovery of the malpractice. I could be wrong. There was a reason I asked this and that's why I believe that's what it was about.
MS. WILLIAMS: So --
MR. FLYNN: That particular one I agree with you is not phrased as calling for --
MS. WILLIAMS: Right. That's the question that was asked. We answered the question that was asked, which that particular paragraph does not refer to a legal expert. It just merely -- I'll read it out loud. "It was not until the mediation in December of 2016 based on the expert's opinion that Dulberg retain for mediation that Dulberg became reasonably aware."
I just want it clear that he did answer the question that was asked. I understand your line of questioning and we'll agree to move forward.

MR. FLYNN: I believe there were other discovery requests that did point to that and I think we can take a break here and I can find them fairly quickly because I think we're getting close to the end anyway.
MS. WILLIAMS: Okay.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Did you ever receive any money from the mediation award?
A. No. I received money from the bankruptcy itself. It was a surplus bankruptcy.
Q. There was a $300,000 award given in the mediation.
A. That did not go to me. That went to bankruptcy.
Q. It was collected on your behalf and paid to the bankruptcy trustee, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. All $300,000?
A. I don't know that because I think -- I don't know how exactly it works. I heard attorneys have a lien that's special. I don't know how they break it up. I assume it goes to the trustee.

Page 123

Q. The Boudins weren't working for free. They got something out of it, right?
A. Yes.
Q. The trustee took the remainder and paid off some of your creditors, correct?
A. Correct. All of them.
Q. But the award was paid to the trustee on your behalf?
A. I believe so. I don't know how it worked.
Q. How much was the surplus after your creditors were paid?
A. After just the creditors?
Q. How much did you get?
A. How much did I get?
Q. Yes.
A. A third.
Q. I'm asking how much money did you get?
A. A third of the award.
Q. Dollars. How much money did you get?
A. Roughly a hundred.
Q. $100,000?
A. I don't know the exact number. It's roughly a hundred.

Page 124

Q. Was there a check that was issued to you?
A. By the trustee, yes.
Q. Did you cash it?
A. Yes.
Q. At what bank?
A. McHenry Bank & Trust.
Q. Do you still have an account there?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you have a copy of the canceled check?
A. I'm sure the bank has a photo thing.
Q. You can request a copy of the check, correct?
A. I could. I could see if they got it.
Q. I would ask you to do that. If you have any other documentation relative to the payouts that were made by the bankruptcy trustee on your behalf, we are requesting that information.
MR. FLYNN: Why don't we take a break and I'm going to look for one document and then we're just about done here.
(WHEREUPON, a recess was had.)
MR. FLYNN: Mark these as the next two.

BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I'm going to show you what I've marked as Exhibits 12 and 13. Twelve are your answers to Hans Mast's interrogatories. Thirteen is your responses to Popovich's request for production.
Interrogatory No. 1 from Mast asks, "Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach."
Do you understand that?
A. Yes.
Q. So how is it they committed malpractice?
A. May I see it?
Q. I'm going to show it to you in a second. I only have one copy.
This is basically, how did you first become aware that they committed malpractice?

Page 126

That's the essence of that interrogatory.
Here is your response. I can show that to you. It doesn't reflect any discussion with any malpractice lawyer in December of 2016.
Tell me –
A. Let me read it again. We're talking about No. 1 on this?
Q. Correct.
A. Okay.
Q. You understand it?
A. Yes.
Q. Would you agree that the legal opinion you received on December 16, 2016 is responsive to that interrogatory, whatever it is that you were told?
A. Yes.
Q. You didn't identify this December 16, 2016 discussion in the answer to that interrogatory, correct?
A. Say that again.
Q. Your discussion with Mr. Gooch on December 16, 2016, that's referenced in your original complaint, you didn't respond and identify it in this answer to the interrogatory, correct?

Page 127

A. This asks for every way Popovich or Mast breached the duty of care. It didn't ask for Gooch's opinion.
Q. How did you find out that Mast and Popovich breached the duty of care to you? Because Gooch told you, right?
A. Yes.
Q. That's what you've alleged here in this complaint.
A. Yes.
Q. Here I'm asking you, each and every way that they ever breached a duty of care to you. I covered the waterfront. You didn't answer --
A. On the McGuire case it was between October 2013 and January 2014. Yes. There's a multitude of things and that's why I listed a range.
Q. I'm asking when you became aware of it, in that interrogatory. Do you see that?
A. I became aware of that when Thomas Gooch read them and said there's a problem here.
Q. That's not the way you answered the interrogatory, correct?
A. I answered the first part. I did not answer after the comma and the and.

Page 128

Q. There's no objection and indication that any information is being withheld, correct?
A. Excuse me?
Q. There's no objection and an indication that you're withholding –
A. I was not withholding.
Q. I'll show you Exhibit 13. It asks – Exhibit 13 are the production requests to you. Number 8 asks for you to produce a privilege log identifying the creator and recipient of any document withheld, the basis for any claimed privilege, the date the document was created and the date the recipient received the document.
The answer is, "The plaintiff is only withholding attorney-client communication between his successor counsel."
Is that your answer to the production request and did I accurately read No. 8?
A. May I consult with her for a minute?
Q. Sure.
THE WITNESS: Can we go off the record?
MS. WILLIAMS: If you can answer the question, answer the question first.

BY THE WITNESS:
A. It's been a while since I've done this, so I'm not sure who the successor counsel is. Is it her or is it the Boudins or Balke?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I think successor counsel, we can both agree, the successor counsel in the underlying case which would be Balke and then Boudin.
You didn't identify any documents withheld other than documents between you and successor counsel, correct?
THE WITNESS: I believe we waived those, didn't we, for Balke and Boudin?
MS. WILLIAMS: For Balke and Boudin we can represent that we waived those.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask a different question.
Did Gooch communicate with you in writing relative to his opinion that you had a legal malpractice case against Mast and Popovich?
A. In writing?
Q. Yes.
A. I suppose the agreement between us that he would represent me because I had the case is a document in writing.

Q. Did he tell you -- strike that.
The discussion that you reference in the complaint, paragraph 20 of December 16, 2016, was that a face-to-face communication with Gooch?
A. What number is that?
Q. Exhibit 4, paragraph 20. The legal opinion you received, was it verbal, was it written?
A. I believe it was verbal.
Q. Now, I'm going to ask you what he said. There was an objection and that will be addressed by the Court later. Please tell me what Gooch told you.
A. He read what I brought him, looked through some things, and I don't remember if it was the same day that we talked to him or he took a day or two. I don't remember. He got back to me and he said, "You have a case here. You have a valid case."
Q. Did he say why?
A. On the basis of what I brought to him. Yes.
Q. Specifics, though. I don't want to talk about generalities. Did he tell you what Mast and

Page 131

Popovich did wrong and how it injured you?
A. How it injured me? Yeah.
Q. The first part of my question was, did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with your -- their representation of you?
A. He probably did. I'm not recalling it right now. I'm pulling a blank.
The parts of the conversation I'm remembering, and for some reason I'm not pulling it. We've been at this a while and this is a long thing. Yes, he said based on what he saw, he saw reason for malpractice.
Q. You don't remember any details, as you sit here? Did you discuss the liability of property owners in Illinois?
A. Well, if they were just property owners in the case, that would be one thing, but they weren't just property owners.
Q. That wasn't my question. I'm asking if you discussed it?
A. Certainly.
Q. You and Gooch discussed the liability of the McGuires in the case?
A. Yes.

Q. What did you say to him and what did he say to you?
A. I showed him the expert opinion.
Q. The chainsaw expert?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you show him any deposition transcripts?
A. Yes.
Q. Which ones?
A. All of them.
Q. And he read them before you talked?
A. I don't remember. Like I said, it may have been a few days between our initial meeting and bringing the whole file that I had and trying to get what the Boudins had and letting him go through it. I don't remember how long that took.
Q. How did you transmit the documents to him --
A. My brother carried them.
Q. Let me finish.
How did you transmit the documents to Mr. Gooch, including the deposition transcripts?
A. I believe we brought him a box.
Q. So you physically handed the documents to him?

A. I didn't physically hand them. My brother did.
Q. Did you communicate with Mr. Gooch by e-mail, at all, leading up to this meeting?
A. No.
Q. Did he ever write you any letters?
A. An e-mail or regular mail or what are you talking about?
Q. Any letters whatsoever.
A. Throughout the course of his representation, yes.
Q. What about in December of 2016?
A. I believe we started communicating in December, yes.
Q. But in writing?
A. In e-mails, sure.
Q. Did he discuss —
A. We may have. I'm not — whenever we started — whenever he started sending me things and going back and forth, I don't remember the exact date, but it was right after he started representing me, sure, we exchanged e-mails and started, yes.
Q. When did Gooch begin representing you?

Page 134

A. The day that he agreed to represent me. I believe it would have been the day that he decided that he had a case.
Q. On or about December 16?
A. Yes.
Q. At that point in time, or shortly thereafter, he communicated with you in writing the details of the breach of the standard of care committed by Popovich and Mast; is that correct?
A. I believe he started to detail those out in the complaint and we were working it back and forth trying to get it right.
Q. When did you first exchange drafts of the complaint?
A. I'd have to look back in the e-mails. I don't remember the dates.
Q. Did you look for any of these e-mails in connection with my discovery requests in this case?
A. At the time I think we thought they were privileged.
Q. That privilege objection wasn't exactly made. My question is, did you look for them?
A. Did I look for them? I have them.
Q. I would ask that you preserve each and every communication between you and Mr. Gooch, all written communications, even phone records that might reflect the dates and times of your phone communications, if any. Did you use a cell phone back then?

A. I used VOIP over a data line.
Q. Who was your carrier?
A. Comcast.
Q. Is that still your carrier?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you have the same phone that you utilized?
A. Same phone number for 50 years, yes.
Q. What else could you remember that Gooch told you on or about the 16th of December 2016 about Mast and Popovich breaching the standard of care and how it damaged you?
A. Say that again.
Q. What, if anything, else do you recall about your discussions with Gooch on December 16 regarding the breach of the standard of care by Popovich and Mast and how it injured you?
A. We discussed the whole scenario between October and January and what happened. It was pretty detailed. We discussed everything that you see that's been communicated in the e-mails. He didn't have much else to go on other than the documents and the e-mails.

Q. You're talking about the e-mails between you and Hans from the fall of 2013?
A. Yes.
Q. Ultimately leading to the $5,000 settlement?
A. Yes.
Q. Other than you have a case, what did Gooch say to you?
A. He said that they definitely committed malpractice.
Q. Did he ever put this in writing?
A. Did he ever put it in writing? I think he backed it up by filing a suit. That's documented.
Q. Again, the suit wasn't filed until November of 2017.
A. Yes, he had some health problems and then his wife had some health problems. Believe me, I was pushing for him to get that done.
Q. From December of 2016 until the complaint was filed, you exchanged some drafts of complaints with him?

A. I believe he let me see what he wanted to put in the complaint. I got to review some things. Of course I had, do this or that's not right. In fact, a couple of these things in here we had to definitely – you caught one. He totally worded it wrong. It was wrong. We had to amend.
MS. WILLIAMS: His question was, did he give you drafts for you to review?
THE WITNESS: Yes.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. These were exchanged by e-mail?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. So you would have records of them?
A. Yes.
Q. Any comments with respect to the pleadings, as well, did you ever ask him questions? Did he explain to you the basis for the allegations in the draft complaints, similar to what you did with Hans?
A. Over many times, yes.
Q. This is all reflected in e-mails?
A. Yes.

Page 138

Q. Ultimately, you didn't file until November of 2017?
A. Correct.
Q. Popovich ceased being your lawyer March 19 of 2015, correct?
A. That sounds about right.
Q. Until December 16, 2016, you didn't have any reason to believe there was a malpractice case against –
A. Say the date again.
Q. Until December 16, 2016, you didn't have any other reason to believe there was a malpractice case against Popovich and Mast?
A. I did not know that I had a case, no.
Q. You threatened one with respect to the Gagnon case –
A. Yes.
Q. – at another point in time, correct?
A. I think I threatened him a few times in there. Yeah. I was actually nice to what I really wanted to say.
Q. Subject to the ruling on these objections, you don't recall any other specific details that you discussed with Popovich – I'm sorry – Gooch on December 16, other than what we already talked about?

A. I discussed the exact same things that you – the same documents that you already have. We went over the case that Mast and Popovich had against the McGuires. He followed through all the way to the end. We went over the whole case. You see as much as he did.
Q. Did Gooch ever explain to you why the McGuires would have been liable any more than Mast explained to you that they wouldn't be liable?
A. He said he agreed right away. He said that's obvious.
Q. Did Gooch ever provide you with any cases or statutes?
A. Provide to me, maybe. Maybe. I don't know.
Q. Would that be by e-mail?
A. It could be. I was in his office quite a few times. He may have.
Q. As you sit here today, other than you have a case against Popovich and Mast, what did Gooch tell you specifically that was any different than what Mast and Popovich told you with respect to the McGuires' liability?

A. That they were definitely liable. He tried to say that – like Popovich and Mast were first- or second-year lawyers and that they may have made a mistake here.
I said they've got 20 years in this. You think they'd know the difference. That's the kind of thing. He agreed with me. Twenty years, yeah, they should have known better.
Q. Did you ever discuss the specifics of the McGuires' potential liability with Gooch?
A. Liability with Gooch?
Q. With Gooch, did you ever discuss the specifics of the McGuires' liability other than he thinks you have a case?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he ever tell you why? What was it?
A. Because he agreed with the expert's opinion.
Q. The expert on the chainsaw?
A. Yes. The liability expert.
Q. The expert said you should use safety goggles and gloves and things like that?
A. He said more than that, but yes.

Q. Do you know who commissioned that expert report?
A. Boudins.
Q. Do you know when the first draft of that doctor's expert report was circulated?
A. I heard that Boudin got it in February, maybe. I don't think I got it until July, but I'm not sure about that.
Q. July of what year?
A. The same year as the mediation.
Q. Of 2016?
A. Yeah.
Q. So you actually read it in advance of the mediation?
A. I talked about this earlier. I said yes. You don't catch everything the first time you read it. I was sitting there at the mediating table and I was reading it and I caught it and I turned to Randy and I said, after it was over, does this mean — that means.
Q. Means what?
A. Does this mean the McGuires are liable? Yeah, that means they are liable. He said, call my office after everything and I'll give you a name for

MR. FLYNN: Any follow-up, Julia?

Q. Did you ever give Hans authority to make a settlement demand regarding Mr. Gagnon?
A. I think at one time in one of my meltdown letters I said get whatever you can, but no, I never actually signed anything saying you have the right to offer a settlement.
Q. Did you ever give Hans authority to make a settlement demand with regard to the McGuires?
A. A demand, no. He said he was going to probe and see what was out there, and I said, if you want to do that, that's fine.
MS. WILLIAMS: I have no further questions.

Dulberg's home is located at 4606 Hayden Ct., McHenry IL 60051

4. Identify and describe how you were invited to the McGuires' property to see if you wanted any of the wood from the tree, as alleged in paragraph 12 of your second amended complaint.

ANSWER: Dulberg received a call from Gagnon on June 27, 2011. Over the phone, Gagnon asked Dulberg if he wanted wood from the tree that the McGuires were removing and invited Dulberg to come see the wood.

5. Identify how William McGuire physically assisted in cutting down the tree, including the date, time, and location of his assistance, and describe how and when he supervised David Gagnon's actions in cutting down the tree, as alleged in paragraph 13 of your second amended complaint.

ANSWER: On June 28, 2011, Dulberg went to the McGuires' home and arrived between 8:30-9:00 am. He observed William McGuire working with Gagnon between that time and approximately noon that same day to remove tree branches from the tree. Gagnon continued to work throughout the day, after William stopped working. Caroline was present observing the work and supervising the work.

William and Caroline McGuire purchased and provided the chainsaw that was used to cut the branches. William and Caroline McGuire provided the ropes and straps that Gagnon used to climb the tree. Caroline had the chain saw owner's manual in her possession and instructed Gagnon what fuel/oil ratio to use for the chain saw.

William and Caroline McGuire instructed Gagnon as to which trees and branches that they wanted removed and where they wanted the trees and branches to fall during the removal process. Gagnon climbed into the tree and cut the branches utilizing the chain saw that the McGuire's provided. The branches would fall to the ground and William would pile the branches in the yard. He also started a fire and burnt some of the branches. At times, William started the chainsaw for Gagnon.

Throughout the entire day, Caroline observed the work and instructed Gagnon to "be careful" on several occasions. She also provided water to both William and Gagnon.

William, Caroline, and Gagnon had several conversations throughout the morning as to which trees and branches to cut, how to best remove the trees and branches, where the trees and branches would fall, and how to clean them up. William and Caroline instructed Gagnon regarding those matters.

At approximately noon on that same date, William stopped working on cutting down the tree and went into the house. He then came out of the house and entered the McGuires' pool that is located on the same property.

Gagnon continued to work through the afternoon and early in the afternoon complained to Caroline that he was "working alone" and couldn't complete the work that day without help. Caroline and Gagnon then asked Dulberg to assist. Dulberg agreed to assist.

Dulberg assisted William McGuire by moving branches to the garden and started the chainsaw for Gagnon once while Gagnon was in the tree.

Dulberg then assisted Gagnon by moving the large branches that had already been cut and holding the large limbs steady so that Gagnon could cut them. Dulberg would hold the large branch while Gagnon would cut the smaller branches off the larger branch with the chain saw.

Gagnon would tell Dulberg which branches to pick up and move to the location where Gagnon was cutting them into smaller pieces by cutting off smaller limbs with the chain saw. Gagnon would also instruct Dulberg as to how and where to hold the limbs so that he could cut the branch with the chain saw. Gagnon placed the larger limb, which was now stripped of the smaller branches in a pile and instructed Dulberg to grab the next limb, which still had the smaller branches, to start the process again.

The chain saw was very loud and little conversation occurred during the time the chain saw was on. Instead, Gagnon would gesture to communicate with Dulberg as to how he wanted the branch held or moved.

No one cut down the entire tree that day, instead branches were removed from the tree and cut down into smaller pieces.

6. Identify and describe how Caroline McGuire supervised David Gagnon and William McGuire's actions, as alleged in paragraph 14 of the second amended complaint.

ANSWER: See answer to 5.

7. Identify the date, time, the location, and the exact words exchanged between Gagnon and the McGuires on the one hand and you on the other as alleged in paragraph 15 of your second amended complaint, in which it is alleged that were asked to assist the trimming and removal of the tree.

ANSWER: See answer to 5. Dulberg does not recall the "exact words exchanged" but does recall the incident as outlined in his answer to 5.

8. Identify what safety information was readily available to Caroline and William McGuire as alleged in paragraph 18 of your second amended complaint, and how you know this information.

ANSWER: Caroline and William McGuire had the owner's manual to the chain saw. Caroline was reading parts of it aloud to Gagnon in the morning of June 28, 2011. Dulberg observed Caroline in possession of the owner's manual and saw her reading it in the morning of June 28, 2011.

The owner's manual had safety instructions and warnings that would have prevented the accident.

9. Did you request any protective equipment or other safety devices from the McGuires or Gagnon while you provided assistance to Gagnon in operating the chainsaw?

ANSWER: No, Gagnon instructed Dulberg as to what to do and Dulberg never operated the chain saw or read the owner's manual.

10. Did you assist Gagnon with trimming and removal of the tree? If so, describe sodium is a pain reliever available over the counter. Dulberg does not recall whether he took the drug the night before or the day of the accident, but he did take it on a regular basis at that time. He did not consumer any other drugs or alcohol during that time.

23. Describe why you agreed to a binding mediation in the summer of 2016 as alleged in paragraph 52 of your second amended complaint.

ANSWER: At that time, a bankruptcy trustee was appointed by the bankruptcy court and the bankruptcy trustee filed a motion for binding mediation that was granted.

24. Identify the date on which you provided any settlement authority to Hans Mast or the Popovich firm, and the amount of any specific settlement authority to make any settlement demand upon the defendants in the underlying case.

ANSWER: Specific settlement authority was never given. On November 4, 2013, Mast was granted authority to investigate a settlement, but a specific dollar amount was never provided. On or around January 29, 2014, Dulberg signed the settlement agreement.

25. Identify and describe the date on which you received a copy of the settlement agreement from Mast in the underlying case, the date on which you executed the settlement agreement and the date on which you mailed the executed settlement agreement to Mast.

ANSWER: January 29, 2014, received, signed and mailed back to Mast.

26. Identify and describe the false and misleading information Mast and Popovich provided to you, and explain how you realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information was false and misleading and the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake, as alleged in paragraph 56 of your second amended complaint.

ANSWER: Mast told Dulberg that Illinois law does not permit a recovery against the McGuires in the circumstances of Dulberg's case and that Dulberg would not receive any recovery from the McGuires. Mast told Dulberg that the judge would rule in favor of the McGuires on a motion for summary judgment.

Mast further told Dulberg that Dulberg would retain his claim against Gagnon and be able to

I still don't get how they don't feel responsible for work done on their property by their own son that ended up cutting through 40% of my arm.

Perhaps their negligence is the fact that they didn't supervise the work close enough but they did oversee much of the days activity with David. Just because Dave was doing the work doesn't mean they were not trying to tell their kid what to do. They told him plenty of times throughout the day what to do. How is that not supervising?

some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery....

MEMORANDUM

TO: File

FROM: Hans

DATE: November 20, 2013

SUBJECT: PAUL DULBERG

On November 20, 2013, I met with Paul and his friend to discuss the McGuire's $5,000 settlement offer and other issues with regard to this case. I also told them there is a dispute as to McGuire's liability, as they maintain that they were not directing Dave's work. Paul maintains that the McGuire's controlled everything that Dave was doing. I told him that that's not what the evidence seems to show. I told them the McGuire's could possibly get out of the case on motion, and the alternative is to accept the $5,000 offer. Paul wants to read the deps of the McGuire's and also wants us to order his and Dave's dep to review. I agreed to do so.

By copy of this memo, I ask Sheila to order copies of Paul and Dave's deps. I think defense counsel ordered them, so all we need to do is get copies. Please let me know if the copies have not been already ordered so we don't have to order the originals.

Thanks,

Hans

COMPLAINT AT LAW
(Legal Malpractice)

COMES NOW your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG (hereinafter also referred to as "DULBERG"), by and through his attorneys, THE GOOCH FIRM, and as and for his Complaint against THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. (hereinafter also referred to as "POPOVICH"), and HANS MAST (hereinafter also referred to as "MAST"), states the following:

1. Your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, is a resident of McHenry County, Illinois, and was such a resident at all times complained of herein.

2. Your Defendant, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., is a law firm operating in McHenry County, Illinois, and transacting business on a regular and daily basis in McHenry County, Illinois.

3. Your Defendant, HANS MAST, is either an agent, employee, or partner of THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. MAST is a licensed attorney in the State of Illinois, and was so licensed at all times relevant to this Complaint.

4. That due to the actions and status of MAST in relation to POPOVICH, the actions and inactions of MAST are directly attributable to his employer, partnership, or principal, being THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPVICH, P.C.

5. Venue is therefore claimed proper in McHenry County, Illinois, as the Defendants transact substantial and regular business in and about McHenry County in the practice of law, where their office is located.

6. On or about June 28, 2011, your Plaintiff, DULBERG was involved in a horrendous accident, having been asked by his neighbors Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, in assisting a David Gagnon in the cutting down of a tree on the McGuire property. DULBERG lived in the neighborhood.

7. At this time, Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw he was using causing it to strike DULBERG. This caused substantial and catastrophic injuries to DULBERG, including but not limited to great pain and suffering, current as well as future medical expenses, in an amount in excess of $260,000.00, along with lost wages in excess of $250,000.00, and various other damages.

8. In May of 2012, DULBERG retained THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., pursuant to a written retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A.

9. A copy of the Complaint filed by MAST on his own behalf, and on behalf of DULBERG, is attached hereto as Exhibit B, and the allegations of that Complaint are fully incorporated into this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

10. An implied term of the retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, was that at all times, the Defendants would exercise their duty of due care towards their client and conform their acts and actions within the standard of care every attorney owes his client.

11. That as Exhibit B reveals, Defendants property filed suit against not only the operator of the chain saw, but also his principals, Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, who purportedly were supervising him in his work on the premises.

12. At the time of filing of the aforesaid Complaint, MAST certified pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 137, that he had made a diligent investigation of the facts and circumstances around the Complaint he filed, and further had ascertained the appropriate law. MAST evidently believed a very good and valid cause of action existed against Caroline McGuire and William McGuire.

13. The matter proceeded through the normal stages of litigation until sometime in late 2013 or early 2014, when MAST met with DULBERG and other family members and advised them there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and told DULBERG he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuire's for the sum of $5,000.00. DULBERG, having no choice in the matter, reluctantly agreed with MAST and to accept the sum of $5,000.00 releasing not only William and Caroline McGuire, but also Auto-Owners Insurance Company from any further responsibility or liability in the matter. A copy of the aforesaid general release and settlement agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

14. MAST and POPOVICH continued to represent DULBERG through to and including March of 2015, following which DULBERG and the Defendants terminated their relationship.

15. Continuously throughout the period of representation, MAST and POPOVICH represented repeatedly to DULBERG there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and lulled DULBERG into believing that the matter was being properly handled. Then, due to a claimed failure of communication, MAST and POPOVICH withdrew from the representation of DULBERG.

16. Thereafter, DULBERG retained other attorneys and proceeded to a binding mediation before a retired Circuit Judge, where DULBERG received a binding mediation award of $660,000.00 in gross, and a net award of $561,000.00. Unfortunately, a "high-low agreement" had been executed by DULBERG, reducing the maximum amount he could recover to $300,000.00 based upon the insurance policy available. The award was substantially more than that sum of money, and could have been recovered from McGuire's had they not been dismissed from the Complaint. A copy of the aforesaid Mediation Award is attached hereto as Exhibit D.

17. The McGuire's were property owners and had property insurance covering injuries or losses on their property, as well as substantial personal assets, including the property location where the accident took place at 1016 West Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, Illinois. McGuire's were well able to pay all, or a portion of the binding mediation award had they still remained parties.

18. DULBURG, in his relationship with POPOVICH and MAST, cooperated in all ways with them, furnishing all necessary information as required, and frequently conferred with them.

19. Until the time of the mediation award, DULBURG had no reason to believe he could not recover the full amount of his injuries, based on POPOVICH'S and MAST'S representations to DULBERG that he could recover the full amount of his injuries from Gagnon, and that the inclusion of the McGuire's would only complicate the case.

20. Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the "high-low agreement" contained therein, and the final mediation award, DULBURG realized for the first time that the information MAST and POPOVICH had given DULBERG was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuire's was a serious and substantial mistake. Following the mediation, DULBERG was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling Legal Malpractice matters, and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.

21. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBURG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:

a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuire's) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG;

b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

c) Failed to conduct necessary discovery, so as to fix the liability of the property owners to DULBERG;

d) Failed to understand the law pertaining to a property owner's rights, duties and responsibilities to someone invited onto their property;

e) Improperly urged DULBURG to accept a nonsensical settlement from the property owners, and dismissed them from all further responsibility;

f) Failed to appreciate and understand further moneys could not be received as against Gagnon, and that the McGuire's and their obvious liability were a very necessary party to the litigation;

g) Falsely advised DULBURG throughout the period of their representation, that the actions taken regarding the McGuire's was proper in all ways and respects, and that DULBURG had no choice but to accept the settlement;

h) Failed to properly explain to DULBURG all ramifications of accepting the McGuire settlement, and giving him the option of retaining alternative counsel to review the matter;

i) Continually reassured DULBURG that the course of action as to the property owners was proper and appropriate;

j) Were otherwise negligent in their representation of DULBERG, concealing from him necessary facts for DULBURG to make an informed decision as to the McGuire's, instead coercing him into signing a release and settlement agreement and accept a paltry sum of $5,000.00 for what was a grievous injury.

22. That DULBERG suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of MAST and POPOVICH in urging DULBURG to release the McGuire's, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of MAST and THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.

WHEREFORE, your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG prays this Honorable Court to enter judgment on such verdict as a jury of twelve (12) shall return, together with the costs of suit and such other and further relief as may be just, all in excess of the jurisdictional minimums of this Honorable Court.

Respectfully submitted by,

3. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was living and/or staying at his parent's home at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

4. On June 28, 2011, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE contracted, hired the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, to cut down, trim and/or maintain the trees and brush at their premises at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

5. On June 28, 2011, and at the request and with the authority and permission of the Defendants CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and for their benefit, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was working under their supervision and control while engaged in cutting, trimming and maintaining trees and brush at the premises at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

6. On June 28, 2011, as part of his work at the subject property, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was authorized, instructed, advised and permitted to use a chainsaw to assist him in his work for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, which was owned by the McGuires.

7. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was under the supervision and control of Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was working as their apparent and actual agent, and was then acting and working in the scope of his agency for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE.

8. On June 28, 2011, and while the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was working in the course and scope of his agency for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was under their supervision and control, Defendant, DAVID GAGNON was in use of a chainsaw while trimming a tree and branch.

9. On June 28, 2011, and while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was in use of a chainsaw while trimming a tree and branch, Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, asked for and/or requested the assistance of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, to hold the tree branch while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, trimmed the branch with the chainsaw.

10. On June 28, 2011, and while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was in sole control, use and operation of the subject chainsaw, the chainsaw was caused to strike and injure the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG.

11. At all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, knew of Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's use of the chainsaw in the presence of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, and knew that such created a danger to the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG's safety.

12. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, DAVID GAGNON, as agent of CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owed a duty to use care and caution in his operation of a known dangerous instrumentality.

13. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was negligent in one or more of the following ways:

a. Failed to maintain control over the operating of the chainsaw;

b. Failed to take precaution not to allow the chainsaw to move toward the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, so as to cause injury;

c. Failed to warn the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, of the dangers existing from the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's inability to control the chainsaw;

d. Failed to keep a proper distance from the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, while operating the chainsaw;

e. Otherwise was negligent in operation and control of the chainsaw.

14. That as a proximate result of the Defendant's negligence, the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, was injured externally; he has experienced and will in the future experience pain and suffering; he has been permanently scarred and/or disabled; and has become obligated for large sums of money for medical bills and will in the future become obligated for additional sums of money for medical care, and has lost time from work and/or from earning wages due to such injury.

15. That at the above time and date, the Defendant's negligence can be inferred from the circumstances of the occurrence as the instrument of the injury was under the control of the Defendant and therefore, negligence can be presumed under the doctrine of Res Ipsa Loquitur.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, demands judgment against Defendants, DAVID GAGNON, and CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE in an amount in excess of $50,000.00, plus costs of this action.

Count II

Paul Dulberg vs. Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire

1-15. That the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, restates and realleges paragraphs 1 through 14, in Count I, above, as paragraphs 1 through 15 of Count II, as if fully alleged herein.

16. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owned, controlled, maintained and supervised the premises whereat the accident to the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, occurred.

17. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, were in control of and had the right to advise, instruct and demand that the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, act or work in a safe and reasonable manner.

18. That at all relevant times, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was acting as the agent, actual and apparent, of Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was acting at their request and in their best interests and to their benefit as in a joint enterprise.

19. That at all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, knew DAVID GAGNON was operating a chainsaw with the assistance of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, and had the right to discharge or terminate the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's work for any reason.

20. That at all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owed a duty to supervise and control Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's activities on the property so as not to create a unreasonable hazard to others, including the Plaintiff, PUAL DULBERG.

21. On June 28, 2011, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, were negligent in one or more of the following ways:

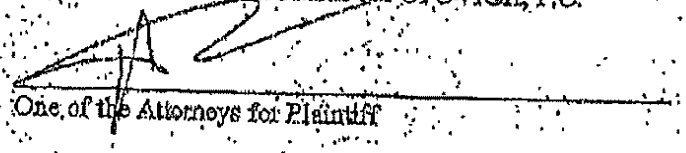
a. Failed to control operation of the chainsaw;

b. Failed to take precaution not to allow the chainsaw to move toward the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, so as to cause injury;

c. Failed to warn the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, of the dangers existing from the Defendant's inability to control the chainsaw;

d. Failed to keep the chainsaw a proper distance from the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, while operating the chainsaw;

e. Otherwise was negligent in operation and control of the chainsaw.



22. That as a proximate result of the Defendant's negligence, the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, was injured externally; he has experienced and will in the future experience pain and suffering; he has been permanently scarred and/or disabled; and has become obligated for large sums of money for medical bills and will in the future become obligated for additional sums of money for medical care, and has lost time from work and/or from earning wages due to such injury.

PAUL DULBERG, Plaintiff, v. THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., and HANS MAST, Defendant.	)	No. 17 LA 377

SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW

Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG (hereinafter also referred to as "DULBERG"), by and through his attorneys, THE CLINTON LAW FIRM, LLC, complains against THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. (hereinafter also referred to as "POPOVICH"), and HANS MAST (hereinafter also referred to as "MAST"), as follows:

COUNT I
LEGAL MALPRACTICE

A. Parties and Venue

1. Paul Dulberg, is a resident of McHenry County, Illinois, and was such a resident at all times complained of herein.

2. The Law Offices of Thomas Popovich, P.C., is a law firm operating in McHenry County, Illinois, and transacting business on a regular and daily basis in McHenry County, Illinois.

3. Hans Mast is an agent, employee, or partner of The Law Offices of Thomas Popovich, P.C., and is a licensed attorney in the State of Illinois, and was so licensed at all times relevant to this Complaint.

4. As an agent, employee, or principal in Popovich, Popovich is liable for Mast's actions alleged herein.

5. Venue is proper in McHenry County, Illinois, as the Defendants transact substantial and regular business in and about McHenry County in the practice of law, where their office is located.

B. Relevant Facts

6. On or about June 28, 2011, Dulberg assisted Caroline McGuire ("Caroline"), William McGuire ("Williams") (Caroline and William collectively referred to herein as "the McGuires"), and David Gagnon ("Gagnon") in cutting down a tree on the McGuire's property.

7. Dulberg lives in the next neighborhood over from the McGuire family.

8. Caroline McGuire and William McGuire are a married couple, who own real property in McHenry, McHenry County, Illinois ("the Property").

9. David Gagon is Caroline's son and William's stepson.

10. On June 28, 2011, at the Property, Gagnon was operating a chainsaw to remove branches from a tree and cut it down on the Property.

11. The McGuire's purchased and owned the chainsaw that was being utilized to trim, remove branches, and cut down the tree.

12. Dulberg was invited to the McGuire's property to see if he wanted any of the wood from the tree.

13. William physically assisted with cutting down the tree and, then, later supervised Gagnon's actions.

14. Caroline supervised Gagnon's and William's actions.

15. Gagnon and the McGuires asked Dulberg to assist with trimming and removal of the tree.

16. Gagnon was acting on behalf of Caroline and William and at their direction.

17. Caroline, William, and Gagnon all knew or show have known that a chainsaw was dangerous and to take appropriate precautions when utilizing the chain saw.

18. The safety information was readily available to Caroline and William as the safety instructions are included with the purchase of the chainsaw.

19. It is reasonably foreseeable that the failure to take appropriate caution and safety measures could result in serious injury.

20. The likelihood of injury when not properly utilizing the chainsaw or not following the safety precautions is very high.

21. The safety instructions outlined are easy to follow and do not place a large burden on the operator of the chainsaw or the owner of the property.

22. Caroline, William, and Gagnon had a duty to exercise appropriate caution and follow the safety instructions for the chainsaw.

23. Caroline, William, and Gagnon breached that duty by either not exercising appropriate care, failing to follow the safety instructions, or failing to instruct Gagnon to exercise appropriate care and/or follow the safety instructions.

24. Caroline and William, owners of the property and the chainsaw, instructed Gagnon to use the chain saw despite Gagnon not being a trained in operating the chainsaw.

25. Gagnon was operating the chain saw in close proximity to Dulberg.

26. Neither Gagnon nor Dulberg were provided protective equipment when operating or assisting with operating the chainsaw.

27. Gagnon failed to utilize the chainsaw in compliance with the safety measures outlined in the owner's manual.

28. Caroline and William failed to instruct and require that Gagnon utilize the chainsaw only in compliance with the safety measures outlined in the owner's manual.

29. Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw that he was using and it struck Dulberg in the right arm, cutting him severely.

30. Dulberg incurred substantial and catastrophic injuries, including, but not limited to, pain and suffering, loss of use of his right arm, current and future medical expenses in amount in excess of $260,000, lost wages in excess of $250,000, and other damages.

31. In May 2012, Dulberg hired Mast and Popovich to represent him in prosecuting his claims against Gagnon and the McGuires. Exhibit A.

32. Mast and Popovich, on behalf of Dulberg filed a complaint against Gagnon and the McGuires. Exhibit B.

33. Mast and Popovich entered into an attorney client relationship with Dulberg.

34. Based upon the attorney client relationship, Mast and Popovich owed professional duties to Dulberg, including to a duty of care.

35. On behalf of Dulberg, Mast and Popovich prosecuted claims against both Gagnon and the McGuire's.

36. The claims against Gagnon were resolved later through binding mediation with new counsel.

37. The claims against the McGuires included (a) common law premises liability, (b) statutory premises liability, (c) common law negligence, and (d) vicarious liability for the acts of their son and agent.

38. In late 2013 or early, Mast urged Dulberg to settle the claims against the McGuire's for $5,000.

39. On November 18, 2013, Mast wrote two emails to Dulberg urging Dulberg to accept the $5,000.00, "the McGuire's atty has offered us (you) $5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only. As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery...." * * * "So if we do not accept their $5,000 they will simply file a motion and get out of the case for free. That's the only other option is letting them file motion getting out of the case". (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

40. Similarly, on November 20, 2013, Mast emailed Dulberg urging him to accept the $5,000.00 otherwise "the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion." (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

41. On or around December 2013 or January 2014, Mast met with Dulberg and again advised them there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and verbally told Dulberg that he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of $5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing.

42. During that same time frame, Mast advised Dulberg that the Restatement of Torts 318 was the only mechanism to recover from the McGuires and that Illinois did not recognize the Restate of Torts 318, thus Dulberg did not have any viable claims against the McGuires.

43. Mast failed to advise or inform Dulberg of other basis for recovery against the McGuires.

44. Based upon Mast's erroneously advice that Dulberg's claims against the McGuire's were not viable and that Dulberg would not recover if he pursued the claims, Dulberg settled with the McGuire's and their insurance company, Auto-Owners Insurance Company, for $5,000, which included a release of all claims against the McGuire's and claim for indemnification under the McGuire's insurance policy. Exhibit D (Settlement).

45. Mast also told Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was limited to $100,000.

46. From 2013 forward, Mast and Popovich represented repeatedly to Dulberg that there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and led Dulberg to believe that the matter was being properly handled.

47. Mast also reassured Dulberg that Dulberg would be able to receive the full amount of any eventual recovery from Gagnon.

48. After accepting the $5,000 settlement, Dulberg wrote Mast an email on January 29, 2014 stating "I trust your judgment." (See Email attached as Exhibit E.)

49. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Dulberg into 2015 and continuously assured him that his case was being handled properly.

50. The McGuires owned their home, had homeowner's insurance, and had other property that could have been utilized to pay a judgment against them and in favor of Dulberg.

51. Dulberg cooperated with and appropriately assisted Mast and Popovich in prosecuting the claims against Gagnon and the McGuires.

52. In December of 2016, Dulberg participated in binding mediation related to his claims against Gagnon.

53. In December of 2016, Dulberg was awarded a gross amount of $660,000 and a net award of $561,000 after his contributory negligence was considered.

54. Dulberg was only able to recovery approximately $300,000 of the award from Gagnon's insurance and was unable to collect from Gagnon personally.

55. Only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon did he discover that his claims against the McGuires were viable and valuable.

56. Following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake.

57. It was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation, that Dulberg became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000.00 on an "all or nothing" basis.

58. Mast and Popovich, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed Dulberg by violating the standard of care owed Dulberg in the following ways and respects:

a) failed to fully and properly investigate the claims and/or basis for liability against the McGuires;

b) failed to properly obtain information through discovery regarding McGuires assets, insurance coverages, and/or ability to pay a judgement and/or settlement against them;

c) failed to accurately advise Dulberg of the McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance coverage related to the claims against them and/or Dulberg's ability to recover through McGuires'and Gagnon's insurance policies, including, but not limited to, incorrectly informing

Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was "only $100,000" and no insurance compnay would pay close to that;

d) failed to take such actions as were necessary during their respective representation of Dulberg to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed and/or were principals of Gagnon, and who sought the assistance Dulberg by for example failing to obtain an expert;

e) failed to accurately advise Dulberg regarding the McGuires' liability, likelihood of success of claims against the McGuires, the McGuires' ability pay any judgment or settlement against them through insurance or other assets, and/or necessity of prosecuting the all the claims against both the McGuires and Gagnon in order to obtain a full recovery;

f) Coerced Dulberg, verbally and though emails, into accepting a settlement with the McGuires for $5,000 by misleading Dulberg into believing that he had no other choice but to accept the settlement or else "The McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion."

59. As a direct result of Mast and Popovich's wrongful actions, Dulberg suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of Mast and Popovich in urging Dulberg to release the McGuires, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of Mast and The Law Offices of Thomas Popovich, P.C.

WHEREFORE, your Plaintiff, Paul Dulberg prays this Honorable Court to enter judgment on such verdict as a jury of twelve (12) shall return, together with the costs of suit and such other and further relief as may be just, all in excess of the jurisdictional minimums of this Honorable Court.

CONTRACT FOR LEGAL SERVICES

I agree to employ the LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. (hereinafter "my attorney") to represent me in the prosecution or settlement of my claim against persons or entities responsible for causing me to suffer injuries and damages on the_____ day of _____, 20__.

My attorney agrees to make no charge for legal services unless a recovery is made in my claim. The approval of any settlement amount cannot be made without my knowledge and consent.

I agree to pay my attorney in consideration for his legal services a sum equal to one-third (33 1/3%) of my recovery from my claim by suit or settlement; this will increase to 40 % in the event my claim results in more than one (1) trial and/or an appeal of a trial. I understand my attorney may need to incur reasonable expenses in properly handling my claim including, but not limited to, expenses such as accident reports, filing fees, court reporters fees, video fees, records fees, and physician fees. I understand those expenses will be taken out of my settlement, in addition to my attorney's legal fee.

3. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was living and/or staying at his parent's home at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

4. On June 28, 2011, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE contracted, hired the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, to cut down, trim and/or maintain the trees and brush at their premises at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

5. On June 28, 2011, and at the request and with the authority and permission of the Defendants CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and for their benefit, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was working under their supervision and control while engaged in cutting, trimming and maintaining trees and brush at the premises at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, County of McHenry, Illinois.

6. On June 28, 2011, as part of his work at the subject property, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was authorized, instructed, advised and permitted to use a chainsaw to assist him in his work for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, which was owned by the McGuires.

7. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was under the supervision and control of Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was working as their apparent and actual agent, and was then acting and working in the scope of his agency for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE.

8. On June 28, 2011, and while the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was working in the course and scope of his agency for Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was under their supervision and control, Defendant, DAVID GAGNON was in use of a chainsaw while trimming a tree and branch.

9. On June 28, 2011, and while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was in use of a chainsaw while trimming a tree and branch, Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, asked for and/or requested the assistance of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, to hold the tree branch while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, trimmed the branch with the chainsaw.

10. On June 28, 2011, and while Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was in sole control, use and operation of the subject chainsaw, the chainsaw was caused to strike and injure the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG.

11. At all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, knew of Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's use of the chainsaw in the presence of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, and know that such created a danger to the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG's safety.

12. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, DAVID GAGNON, as agent of CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owed a duty to use care and caution in his operation of a known dangerous instrumentality.

13. On June 28, 2011, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was negligent in one or more of the following ways:

a. Failed to maintain control over the operating of the chainsaw;

b. Failed to take precaution not to allow the chainsaw to move toward the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, so as to cause injury;

c. Failed to warn the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, of the dangers existing from the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's inability to control the chainsaw;

d. Failed to keep a proper distance from the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, while operating the chainsaw;

e. Otherwise was negligent in operation and control of the chainsaw.

14. That as a proximate result of the Defendant's negligence, the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, was injured externally; he has experienced and will in the future experience pain and suffering; he has been permanently scarred and/or disabled; and has become obligated for large sums of money for medical bills and will in the future become obligated for additional sums of money for medical care, and has lost time from work and/or from earning wages due to such injury.

15. That at the above time and date, the Defendant's negligence can be inferred from the circumstances of the occurrence as the instrument of the injury was under the control of the Defendant and therefore, negligence can be presumed under the doctrine of Res Ipsa Loquitur.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, demands judgment against Defendants, DAVID GAGNON, and CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE in an amount in excess of $50,000.00, plus costs of this action.

Count II

Paul Dulberg vs. Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire

1 - 15. That the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, restates and realleges paragraphs 1 through 14, in Count I, above, as paragraphs 1 through 15 of Count II, as if fully alleged herein.

16. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owned, controlled, maintained and supervised the premises whereat the accident to the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, occurred.

17. That at all relevant times, the Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, were in control of and had the right to advise, instruct and demand that the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, act or work in a safe and reasonable manner.

18. That at all relevant times, the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON, was acting as the agent, actual and apparent, of Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, and was acting at their request and in their best interests and to their benefit as in a joint enterprise.

19. That at all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, knew DAVID GAGNON was operating a chainsaw with the assistance of the Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, and had the right to discharge or terminate the Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's work for any reason.

20. That at all relevant times, Defendants, CAROLINE McGUIRE and BILL McGUIRE, owed a duty to supervise and control Defendant, DAVID GAGNON's activities on the property so as not to create a unreasonable hazard to others, including the Plaintiff, PUAL DULBERG.

Morning Hans,
Ok we can meet. I will call Sheila today and set up a time.
Please send me a link to the current Illinois statute citing that the property owner is not liable for work done on their property resulting in injury to a neighbor.
I need to read it myself and any links to recent case law in this area would be helpful as well.
Thanks,
Paul

The legality of it all is that a property owner does not have legal liability for a worker (whether friend, son or otherwise) who does the work on his time, using his own independent skills. Here, I deposed the McGuires, and they had nothing to do with how Dave did the work other than to request the work to be done. They had no control on how Dave wielded the chain saw and cut you. its that simple. We don't have to accept the $5,000, but if we do not, the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion. So that's the situation.

Just because Dave was doing the work doesn't mean they were not trying to tell their kid what to do. They told him plenty of times throughout the day what to do. How is that not supervising?

So if we do not accept their 5000 they will simply file a motion and get out of the case for free. That's the only other option is letting them file motion getting out of the case

They all left me out in the yard screaming for help while they were busy making sure they were covered.

She even went as far as to finally call the Emergency Room after I was already there just to tell me she was covered.

How selfish are people when they worry about if their insured over helping the person who was hurt and bleeding badly in their yard.

I'm glad she got her answer and had to share it with me only to find out her coverage won't even pay the medical bills.

I'm not happy with the offer.

As far as John Choyinski, he knows he has to call you and said he will tomorrow.

As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery....

GENERAL RELEASE AND SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

NOW COMES PAUL DULBERG, and in consideration of the payment of Five Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars to him, by or on behalf of the WILLIAM MCGUIRE and CAROLYN MCGUIRE (aka Bill McGuire; improperly named as Caroline McGuire) and AUTO-OWNERS INSURANCE COMPANY, the payment and receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, PAUL DULBERG does hereby release and discharge the WILLIAM MCGUIRE and CAROLYN MCGUIRE and AUTO-OWNERS INSURANCE COMPANY, and any agents or employees of the WILLIAM MCGUIRE and CAROLYN MCGUIRE and AUTO-OWNERS INSURANCE COMPANY, of and from any and all causes of action, claims and demands of whatsoever kind or nature including, but not limited to, any claim for personal injuries and property damage arising out of a certain chain saw incident that allegedly occurred on or about June 28, 2011, within and upon the premises known commonly as 1016 West Elder Avenue, City of McHenry, County of McHenry, State of Illinois.

IT IS FURTHER AGREED AND UNDERSTOOD that there is presently pending a cause of action in the Circuit Court of the 22nd Judicial Circuit, McHenry County, Illinois entitled "Paul Dulberg, Plaintiff, vs. David Gagnon, Individually, and as agent of Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire, and Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire, Individually, Defendants", Cause No. 2012 LA 178, and that this settlement is contingent upon WILLIAM McGUIRE and CAROLYN McGUIRE being dismissed with prejudice as parties to said lawsuit pursuant to a finding by the Circuit Court that the settlement between the parties constitutes a good faith settlement for purposes of the Illinois Joint Tortfeasor Contribution Act, 740 ILCS 100/0.01, et seq.

IT IS FURTHER AGREED AND UNDERSTOOD that as part of the consideration for this agreement the undersigned represents and warrants as follows (check applicable boxes):

- ☐ I was not 65 or older on the date of the occurrence.
- ☐ I was not receiving SSI or SSDI on the date of the occurrence.
- ☐ I am not eligible to receive SSI or SSDI.
- ☐ I am not currently receiving SSI or SSDI.

IT IS FURTHER AGREED AND UNDERSTOOD:

a. That any subrogated claims or liens for medical expenses paid by or on behalf of PAUL DULBERG shall be the responsibility PAUL DULBERG, including, but not limited to, any Medicare liens. Any and all reimbursements of medical expenses to subrogated parties, including Medicare's rights of reimbursement, if any, shall be PAUL DULBERG's responsibility, and not the responsibility of the parties released herein.

b. That any outstanding medical expenses are PAUL DULBERG's responsibility and all payment of medical expenses hereafter shall be PAUL DULBERG's responsibility, and not the responsibility of the parties released

Ok, it's signed and in the mail.
Hope that some yahoo in the govt. doesn't someday decide to go after everyone they think they might get a dollar out of and end up holding me responsible for the McGuires fees incurred while they fight it out.
I'm not in the business of warranting, insuring or protecting the McGuires from government. Especially for only 5 grand. For that kind of protection it could cost millions but I trust your judgement.

The issue of my word vs David Gagnons... Did he cut me or did I cut myself?

Of coarse he cut me.

You keep telling me how injured you are and completely ignore that it doesn't matter if you passed away from the accident because we still have to prove that the defendant was at fault. While you think it is very clear - it is not. My guess is that seven out of 10 times you will lose the case outright. That means zero. That's why I have been trying to convince you to agree to a settlement. You clearly do not want to. There's only $100,000 in coverage. Allstate will never offer anything near the policy limits therefore there's no chance to settle the case. The only alternative is to take the case to trial and I am not interested in doing that. I will wait for you to find a new attorney. I can't assist you any further in this case. Just let me know.

On December 6, 2016, the matter was called for binding mediation before the Honorable James P. Etchingham, (Ret.), in Chicago, IL. According to the agreement entered into by the parties, if a voluntary settlement through negotiation could not be reached the mediator would render a settlement award which would be binding to the parties. Pursuant to that agreement the mediator finds as follows:

Finding in favor of: Paul Dulberg

Gross Award: $660,000.

Comparative fault: 15 % (if applicable)

Net Award: $561,000

Comments/Explanation
Medical	$ 60,000.
Future medical	$ 300,000.
Lost wage	$ 250,000.
P.I.S	75,000.
L.N.L	75,000.

Hans,
if I use a chainsaw and cut you badly who is going to believe me when I say it's not my fault, Hans just fell into it?

Who in their right mind is going to believe me when your pointing your finger at me saying I did it?

Who?

First, I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to help prove David cut me with a chainsaw. I was but a lowly printer/graphic designer my whole life and never asked for anyone's sympathy till now.

Secondly, I'm sorry I must live among a bunch of potential jurors that you don't trust to just do the right thing.

Thirdly, I'm most sorry for agreeing to lend David Gagnon a hand when he needed some help, I had no idea he was going to try and lop it off.

Fourth, I'm sorry you don't feel good about pushing for a trial. I wish whatever mysterious evidence you seek would be shared with me because without a video camera I can only say what I've seen from direct experience. And I guess in this case "me" the victim isn't credible enough but the one wielding a chainsaw that hurt me is.

A few questions from a layman,

How much could a trial actually cost?
What,
$50,000
$150,000
Does it even cost as much as a car?
What number?

How much would you hope to get for us in a settlement?

How much could be expected if the trial does proceed and we have a favorable outcome?

Hans, if your heart is not in this I'm sorry case to trial. I just don't think we have enough evidence to prove our case and to invest the time and cost and preparing for trial and moving to trial just in my mind does not make sense to me. I have to be very realistic about things and honest with my opinion. It doesn't do you any good if I do not feel strongly about the case.

That's the very reason why I wanted to have this discussion. I want to give you the option of finding other counsel at this point if you really want to take the case to trial which I think ultimately will be necessary. I just do not believe strongly that defense counsel will offer much in the way of a settlement. Although I will ask him if he is going to make an offer and maybe that will allow you to make a better judgment on this.

Subject: Bad night

Hans,

Last evening I was in the hospital with the most severe migraine I've ever had.

This morning I filed for bankruptcy with David Stretch.

This afternoon I spent with my regular physician Dr Zaide doing a follow up from yesterday.

And right now, I have to email you. All when I still have a slight residual headache and should be in bed.

At first I thought the migraine was brought on by the medications I'm taking but it wasn't, it was brought on after our discussions. Now I can't prove that but it seems pretty obvious to me. Joke no pun intended there!

That migraine made me realize I need the stress of this situation over with. All the stress on top of losing everything is too much and I'd rather live than die from it all before my body does something worse.

My body is not reacting well and the migraines are getting more frequent and worse. Have you ever vomited at the same time as deficating while being in some of the most excruciating pain in your life?

If not, neither did I till the chainsaw went through my arm. That's when the migraines became more frequent, stronger and faster coming on. And now for the first time during the day.

Ever since I awoke this morning, all I can I think is the stress of it all is killing me more and more as the reality sets in and I just can't afford to care about it anymore.

My health means more than some lawsuits and the lure of money.

All because some idiot named David Gagnon forgot to tell me to move out of the way and he can't seem to admit it.

Yes, after reading his deposition and hearing it was my fault I was pissed.

In my anger I suspected all sorts of things. Including it being intentional especially after my discussions at his home only trying to get his homeowners policy number and him wanting money and threatening me for it.

Yes, my arm and elbow were hurt from his stupidity irregardless if some dr can link the two together or not.

Yes, there will be ongoing medical as a result of all this because it still hurts and doesn't work right.

Yes, I am now disabled irregardless of what SSDI appeal goes because of this.

Yes. I understand I'm screwed because of a system that allows one person to hurt another and even after a trial and judgement entered all they have to do is go file for bankruptcy in the same courthouse on the same day.

Yes, it just took me almost an hour just to type this.

Yes, yes, yes...

but none of it matters anymore!

Bottom line Hans... Do the best you can with what you got, I've got nothing more to lose or give. I need it all to just go away.

III. Rules Governing the Mediation

Each party ("Party") to this agreement ("Agreement") hereby agrees to submit the above dispute for binding mediation ("Mediation") to ADR Systems of America, L.L.C., ("ADR Systems") in accordance with the following terms:

A. Powers of the Mediator

1. The Parties agree that The Honorable James P. Etchingham (Ret.) shall serve as the sole Mediator in this matter (the "Mediator").
2. The Mediator shall have the power to determine the admissibility of evidence and to rule upon the law and the facts of the dispute pursuant to Section III(D)(1). The Mediator shall also have the power to rule on objections to evidence which arise during the hearing.
3. The Mediator is authorized to hold joint and separate caucuses with the Parties and to make oral and written recommendations for settlement purposes.
4. The Parties agree that the Mediator shall decide all issues concerning liability and damages arising from the dispute if this matter cannot be settled, unless any of the above is waived. Any other issues to be decided must be agreed upon by the Parties, and included in this contract.
5. Any failure to object to compliance with these Rules shall be deemed a waiver of such objection.

B. Amendments to the Agreement

1. No Party shall amend the Agreement at any time without the consent and approval of such changes by the opposing Party, and ADR Systems of America.
2. When changes or amendments to the Agreement are being requested, the Parties shall inform the ADR Systems case manager by telephone. The agreed proposal must also be submitted to the ADR Systems case manager in writing, by fax or email, if necessary, and the contract changes MUST be made by ADR Systems. No changes made outside these guidelines will be accepted. Furthermore, if the amended contract made by ADR Systems is not signed by both Parties, the Agreement shall be enforced in its original form, without changes.

C. Pre-Hearing Submission

1. Mediation statements are permitted provided that the statement is shared among the other parties. The Mediation Statement may include: statement of facts, including a description of the injury and a list of special damages and expenses incurred and expected to be incurred; and a theory of liability and damages and authorities in support thereof.

D. Evidentiary Rules

1. The Parties agree that the following documents are allowed into evidence, without foundation or other proof, provided that said items are served upon the Mediator and the opposing Party at least 17 (seventeen) days prior to the hearing date:
   a. Medical records and medical bills for medical services;
   b. Bills for drugs and medical appliances (for example, prostheses);
   c. Property repair bills or estimates;
   d. Reports of lost time from employment, and / or lost compensation or wages;
   e. The written statement of any expert witness, the deposition of a witness, the statement of a witness, to which the witness would be allowed to express if testifying in person, if the statement is made by affidavit sworn to under oath or by certification as provided in section 1-109 of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure;
   f. Photographs;
   g. Police reports;
   h. Any other document not specifically covered by any of the foregoing provisions that a Party believes in good faith should be considered by the Mediator; and
   i. Each Party may introduce any other evidence, including but not limited to documents or exhibits, in accordance with the rules of evidence of the State of Illinois.
2. The Parties agree that they will not disclose any and all dollar figures relating to the high/low agreement; last offer and last demand; policy limits; and /or set-offs orally or in written form, to the Mediator at any time before or during the conference, or while under advisement, prior to the Mediator's final decision.

a. Violation of this rule set forth in (D)(2) shall constitute a material breach of this Agreement. The non-disclosing Party must formally object to the Mediator upon learning of the breach, or the breach will be considered waived. The non-disclosing Party shall then have the option to continue the Mediation from the point of objection to its completion; or to terminate the Mediation at the point of objection as null and void. The ADR Systems case manager must be made aware of this breach at the time of the objection, so the objection is addressed in accordance with the Agreement; and

b. If the Mediation is terminated as null and void, all costs of the Mediation will be charged entirely to the disclosing Party. A new Mediation shall then take place with a new Mediator on a new date. If the Mediation is not terminated, the costs of the Mediation shall remain the responsibility of each Party or in accordance with the Agreement.

3. The Parties agree if a Party has an objection to the evidence or material submitted by any other Party pursuant to Paragraph (D)(1), notice of the objection shall be given to the ADR Systems case manager and opposing counsel by telephone and in writing at least seven days prior to the Mediation. If resolution cannot be obtained, the case manager will forward the objection to the Mediator to be ruled upon before or at the Mediation. The case manager will notify each of the Parties of the objection. The objection may result in a postponement of the proceedings. If the objection is because of new material being disclosed with the submission for the first time (for example, new or additional reports, additional medical/wage loss claims, etc.) then the disclosing party shall be charged for the total cost associated with the continuance.

4. The Parties agree that any Party desiring to introduce any of the items described in Paragraph (D)(1) without foundation or other proof, must deliver said items to the Mediator and to the other Parties no later than Monday, November 21, 2016.

5. The items are considered delivered as of the date that one of the following events occur:

   a. If mailed, by the date of the postmark;

   b. If delivered by a courier or a messenger, the date the item is received by the courier or messenger; and

   c. The date transmitted by facsimile or email.

6. The Parties agree to deliver any of the items described in Paragraph (C)(1) and (D)(1) to the following addresses:

   If emailing Submissions, please send to submissions@adrsystems.com, however, please do not send anything over 50 pages, including exhibits.

E. Conference Procedure

1. The Parties may present opening statements but there will be no live testimony.
2. The Parties will attempt to reach a voluntary settlement through negotiation with the assistance of the Mediator.
3. If the Parties cannot voluntarily reach a settlement, the Mediator will advise the Parties that settlement cannot be reached. The Mediator will then take the matter under advisement and render an award that will be binding to all Parties, (the "Award"), subject to the terms of any high/low agreement that the Parties may have as described below in Paragraph (F)(1).

F. Award Limits

1. The Parties may agree prior to the Mediation that a minimum and maximum amount will serve as parameters for the Award (sometimes referred to as a "high/low agreement"), such that the actual amount that must be paid to the plaintiff or claimant shall not exceed a certain amount (the "high" or "maximum award") and shall not be less than a certain amount (the "low" or "minimum award").

   a. If liability is disputed and comparative fault or negligence is asserted as an affirmative defense, the Mediator shall make a finding regarding comparative fault or negligence, if any. In the event that there is a finding of comparative fault or negligence of the plaintiff that is greater than 50% (fifty percent), the plaintiff shall receive the negotiated minimum award. In the event that there is a finding of comparative fault or negligence of 50% (fifty percent) or less against the plaintiff, then any damages awarded in favor of the plaintiff shall be reduced by the amount of the plaintiff's comparative fault or negligence, but shall be no less than the minimum parameter or more than the maximum parameter.

   b. All award minimum and maximum parameters are subject to applicable set-offs if any, as governed by policy provisions if not specified in the Agreement.

      The Parties agree that for this Mediation the minimum award to Paul Dulberg will be $50,000.00. Also, the maximum award to Paul Dulberg will be $300,000.00. These amounts reflect the minimum and maximum amounts of money that David Gagnon shall be liable to pay to Paul Dulberg.

IV. Effect of this Agreement

A. After the commencement of the Mediation, no Party shall be permitted to cancel this Agreement or the Mediation and the Mediator shall render a decision that shall be in accordance with the terms set forth in this Agreement. When the Award is rendered, the Mediation is resolved, and any Award arising from this Mediation shall operate as a bar and complete defense to any action or proceeding in any court or tribunal that may arise from the same incident upon which the Mediation is based.

B. The Parties further agree that any pending litigation will be dismissed, with prejudice, as to those Parties participating in this Mediation upon the conclusion thereof. Any and all liens, including contractual rights of subrogation owed are subject to existing Illinois law. By agreement of the Parties, the Mediator's Award will be final and binding and not subject to appeal or motion for reconsideration by any Party.

V. Mediation Costs

A. ADR Systems Fee Schedule

1. A deposit is required for the Administrative Fee, Mediator's estimated review, session, and follow-up time ("Mediation Costs"). Binding-Mediations are billed at a four hour per day minimum. The required deposit amount is $2,590.00 from Party B and is due by November 21, 2016. Any unused portion of the deposit will be refunded based on the four hour minimum. If the Mediator's review, session and follow-up time go over the estimated amount, each Party will be invoiced for the additional time.
2. Mediation Costs are usually divided equally among all Parties, unless otherwise agreed upon by the Parties. ADR Systems must be notified of special fee arrangements.
3. All deposits are due two weeks prior to the session. ADR Systems reserves the right to cancel a session if deposits are not received from all Parties two weeks prior to the session.
4. ADR Systems requires 14-day notice in writing or via electronic transmission of cancellation or continuance. For Binding-Mediations cancelled or continued within 14 days of the session, the Party causing the cancellation will be billed for the Mediation Costs of all the Parties involved, which includes the four hour per day minimum, additional review time, and any other expenses incurred("cancellation fees"). If the cancellation is by agreement of all Parties, or if the case has settled, the cancellation fees will be split equally among all Parties, unless ADR Systems is instructed otherwise. The cancellation fees may be waived if the Mediator's lost time can be filled by another matter.

Administrative Fee	$390.00 (Non-refundable)
Mediator's Review Time	$450.00 per hour
Session Time	$450.00 per hour
Mediator's Decision Writing Time	$450.00 per hour
Mediator's Travel Time (if any)	$75.00 per hour

B. Responsibility for Payment *Special Billing

1. Each Party and its counsel (including that counsel's firm) shall be jointly and severally responsible for the payment of that Party's allocated share of the Mediation Costs as set forth above.
2. All expenses and disbursements made by ADR Systems in connection with the Mediation, including, but not limited to, outside room rental fee, meals, express mail and messenger charges, and any other charges associated with the Mediation, will be billed equally to the Parties at the time of the invoice.

Received 09-19-2022 11:08 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-19-2022 11:15 AM / Transaction #19541281 / Case #2017LA000377

3. In the event that a Party and/or its counsel fails to pay ADR Systems in accordance with the terms of this Agreement, then that Party and/or its counsel shall be responsible for all costs, including attorney's fees, incurred by ADR Systems in connection with the collection of any amount due and owing. Payment of additional costs incurred by ADR Systems in connection with the collection of any amount due and owing shall be made within 15 days of invoice.

4. In the event ADR Systems' session rooms are completely booked on your selected session date, ADR Systems will attempt to find another complimentary venue for your session. If ADR Systems cannot find a complimentary venue or the parties cannot agree on the complimentary venue, ADR Systems reserves the right to schedule your case in a location that may involve a facilities charge. The facilities charge will be split equally among the parties unless ADR Systems is instructed otherwise.

5. *Defendant agrees to pay up to $3,500.00 of Plaintiff's Binding Mediation Costs.

VI. Acknowledgment of Agreement

A. By signing this Agreement, I acknowledge that I have read and agree to all the provisions as set forth above.

B. Each Party is responsible for only his/her own signature where indicated and will submit this signed Agreement to ADR Systems within 10 days of receipt of the Agreement. Counsel may sign on behalf of the Party.

DULBERG'S SUPPLEMENTAL ANSWERS TO DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.'S INTERROGATORIESTO PLAINTIFF PAUL DULBERG

Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorneys, The Clinton Law Firm, LLC, pursuant to the provisions of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 213, responds, in supplement, to Defendant, The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C.'s Interrogatories To Plaintiff Paul Dulberg as follows:

INTERROGATORIES

12. Identify and describe each of your employers in the ten year period prior to the accident of June 28, 2011, including any self-employment. For each employer, identify your wage rate or salary, your title, your job description, your required duties, and your income for the ten year period prior to the accident in question.

SUPPLEMENT TO ORIGINAL ANSWER:

1. 1999-2011 Sharp Printing, Inc., 4606 Hayden Ct., McHenry, IL 60051

Paul Dulberg was an owner and operator of Sharp Printing, Inc. along with his two partners Scott Dulberg and Michael McArtor. Dulberg provided full time employment services to Sharp Printing, Inc. and thus was "employed" by Sharp Printing, Inc. However, Dulberg did not draw a salary from Sharp Printing, Inc. and did not receive any profits from the company.

Paul Dulberg was the President, salesperson, graphic designer, 8 color screen print pressman, handled fulfillment, shipping & receiving, as well as other day to day operations of the company.

For income, see tax returns.

C 1432 V2

Sharp Printing, Inc. operated out of the lower floor of Paul Dulberg's personal residence and paid all utilities bills, including garbage, water, natural gas, electric, internet, phone, and cable. The approximate value is $650 per month.

19. As a result of your personal injuries from the underlying case, were you unable to work? If so, state:

(a) The name and address of your employer, if any, at the time of the occurrence, your wage and/or salary, and the name of your supervisor and/or foreperson;
(b) The date or inclusive dates on which you were unable to work;
(c) The amount of wage and/or income lost by you; and
(d) The name and address of your present employer and/or wage and/or salary.

SUPPLEMENT TO ORIGINAL ANSWER:

Paul Dulberg was self-employed by Sharp Printing and unable to work after the accident. He was also an independent contractor with Juskie Printing. He has not been employed since the date of the accident. See tax returns for lost wages. See SSDI documents for current income.

26. Identify and describe the false and misleading information Mast and Popovich provided to you, and explain how you realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information was false and misleading and the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake, as alleged in paragraph 56 of your second amended complaint.

SUPPLEMENT TO ORIGINAL ANSWER:

On December 8, 2016, the mediator issued a net award to Dulberg of $561,000. Dulberg discovered he could not recover the entire mediation award from Gagnon. At that time Dulberg realized that Mast's advice to settle with the McGuires for $5,000 was incorrect, because Mast had cited Dulberg being able to recover in full from Gagnon as his reasoning.

27. Identify and describe the expert opinions provided to you in December 2016 as alleged in paragraph 57 of your second amended complaint, including the identity of the expert, the opinions, and any other information provided by the expert which caused you to learn in the summer of 2016 and become reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent you.

SUPLEMENT TO ORIGINAL ANSWER:

Dr. Landford is a chainsaw expert who was retained by Dulberg during the mediation which occurred in 2016. Landford's expert opinion demonstrates that contrary to Mast's advice, the McGuires were liable for Gagnon's actions with the chainsaw. The expert report came out in February of 2016 and the mediation award was issued in December of 2016.

DULBERG'S ANSWERS TO DEFENDANT HANS MAST'S INTERROGATORIESTO PLAINTIFF PAUL DULBERG

Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorneys, The Clinton Law Firm, LLC, pursuant to the provisions of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 213, responds to Defendant Hans Mast's Interrogatories To Plaintiff Paul Dulberg as follows:

INTERROGATORIES

1. Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach.

ANSWER: Between October 2013 and January 2014, Mast told Dulberg that Illinois law does not permit a recovery against the McGuires' in the circumstances of Dulberg's case and that he would not receive any recovery from the McGuires. Mast advised Dulberg that the judge would rule in favor of the McGuires on a motion for summary judgment.

Mast further told Dulberg that Dulberg would retain his claim against Gagnon and be able to seek and receive a full recovery from Gagnon.

2. Identify the date and location of any discussion between you and Mast in which Mast represented to you that there was no possibility of any liability against William or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto Owners Insurance Company, and identify what you said to Mast, and what he said to you.

ANSWER: Various dates between October 2013 to January 2014. The advice was

All documents in Plaintiff's possession and control produced.

3. Identify the other property owned by the McGuire's as alleged in paragraph 50 of your Second Amended Complaint.

ANSWER: The McGuire's owned their home and vehicles. McGuire's also held bank accounts in their name. Investigation continues.

4. When did you or your attorneys (following the withdrawal by Popovich and Mast) first learn that the McGuire's had an insurance policy that potentially would have covered the claim for an amount greater than $100,000?

ANSWER: The McGuire's produced insurance information to Dulberg on the day of the accident and also were represented by insurance counsel.

PLAINTIFF'S MOTION TO COMPEL NON-PARTIES JULIA C. WILLIAMS AND EDWARD X. CLINTON TO COMPLY WITH RECORDS SUBPOENAS AND TO AMEND PLAINTIFF'S MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF DEFENDANT HANS MAST TAKEN IN VIOLATION OF SUPREME COURT RULE 206 h(2) REMOTE ELECTRONIC MEANS DEPOSITIONS and ORDERS OF THE ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT In re: ILLINOIS COURTS RESPONSE to COVID-19 EMERGENCY/IMPACT ON DISCOVERY M.R.30370 CORRECTED ORDER APRIL 29, 2020 and M.R.30370 AMENDED ORDER JUNE 4, 2020 FILED SEQUENTIALLY WITH THIS MOTION

Now Comes Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorney Alphonse A. Talarico, and for his Motion To Compel and amend Plaintiff's motion to exclude the deposition of Defendant Hans Mast states as follows:

1) On July 11, 2022 this Honorable Court entered an Order granting Plaintiff leave to serve subpoenas on The Clinton Law Firm.

Received 10-11-2022 02:00 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 10-11-2022 04:13 PM / Transaction #19790478 / Case #2017LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

C 1464 V2

2) The Non-Party Subpoenas were issued by Alphonse A. Talarico on August 2, 2022 naming respondents: Julia Christine Williams individually and as manager of Williams Law, LLC; Edward X. Clinton, individually and as manager of Clinton Law Firm, LLC. (Please see Notice of Filing and both subpoenas which are part of the Clerk's file as reflected on October 3, 2022.)

3) The Non-Party Subpoenas were served upon respondent Julia Christine Williams personally and on respondent Edward X. Clinton (as insisted upon and accepted by respondent Julia Christine Williams) at The Clinton Law Firm, 111 W. Washington St., Suite 1437, Chicago, Illinois 60602 on August 5, 2022. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit 1 AFFIDAVIT OF SERVICE attached)

4) Plaintiff's Attorney has made/received multiple telephone and email communications with the subpoena respondents and extended the compliance date in an attempt to obtain full compliance but said informal communications have not resolved the issues.

5) As of the filing date of this Motion To Compel both written subpoena responses are non-compliant.

6) Non-Party Subpoena Respondent Edward X. Clinton has not responded in writing, nor has he served an executed Affidavit of Compliance as required.

7) Non-Party Subpoena Respondent Julia Christine Williams has responded in writing twice, but her responses are non-compliant for the following reasons:

A) The Affidavit of Compliance itself is non-compliant as respondent changed the required wording as served on August 5, 2022 without first filing a written motion pursuing an Order from this Honorable Court seeking to quash, condition, or modify the

subpoenas or to issue protective orders. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #2 RESPONSE TO SUBPOENA FOR DOCUMENTS attached);

B) Including within her RESPONSE TO SUBPOENA FOR DOCUMENTS the following,

"GENERAL OBJECTIONS"

"Respondents object to all requests that seek the disclosure of attorney-client communications between Respondents and their former client Paul Dulberg.

Respondents object to all requests that seek the disclosure of attorney work product."

Again, without first filing a written motion pursuing an Order from this Honorable Court seeking to quash, condition, or modify the subpoenas or to issue protective orders subpoena respondent Julia C. Williams indicates certain documents are protected from disclosure but does not include an Attorney-Client Privilege Log nor a Work Product Log leaving Plaintiff to guess what she determines what should not be disclosed even though Illinois law assumes an implied waiver when a former client serves a record subpoena upon former counsel. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #2 RESPONSE TO SUBPOENA FOR DOCUMENTS above)

8) Plaintiff, by serving Records subpoenas on his former attorneys has made a limited waiver of the Attorney-Client and Work Product Privilege. (Please see Illinois Rules of Evidence Rule 502(a)(1), (a)(2), (a)(3) ATTORNEY-CLIENT PRIVILEGE AND WORK PRODUCT; LIMITATIONS ON WAIVER)

C 1466 V2

WHEREFORE PLAINTIFF PRAYS THAT THIS HONORABLE COURT ENTER AN ORDER compelling NON-PARTIES JULIA C. WILLIAMS AND EDWARD X. CLINTON TO comply with the records subpoenas as written, including an Attorney-Client Privilege Log and a Work Product Log or file and present a motion to quash, condition, or modify the subpoenas, or to issue protective orders as deemed appropriate.

PLAINTIFF FURTHER PRAYS THAT THIS HONORABLE COURT limit Plaintiff Paul Dulberg's implied waiver of his Attorney-Client Privilege to the subject matter of the discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast taken on June 25, 2020 as indicated in the Records Subpoenas. Additionally, Plaintiff prays that he be allowed to amend his Motion to Exclude the discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast taken on June 25, 2020 until a reasonable time after the Subpoena Responses herein are fully complied with.

Respectfully submitted,

PLAINTIFF'S MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF DEFENDANT HANS MAST TA EN IN VIOLATION OF SUPREME COURT RULE REMOTE ELECTRONIC MEANS DEPOSITIONS d ORDERS OF THE ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT I r ILLINOIS COURTS RESPONSE COVID- EMERGENCY IMPACT ON DISCOVERY M R CORRECTED ORDER APRIL , d M R AMENDED ORDER JUNE , d GRANT LEAVE TO TA E THE DISCOVERY DEPOSITION OF DEFENDANT HANS MAST

Now Comes Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorney Alphonse A. Talarico, and for his Motion To Exclude the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast taken in violation of Supreme Court Rule 206 h(2) and Supreme Court Orders states as follows:

RELEVANT FACTS

1) On June 25, 2020 the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast was taken pursuant to a non-filed notice (violation waived) but all 15 exhibits and the questioning

Received 10-13-2022 02:45 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 10-14-2022 01:12 PM / Transaction #19869175 / Case #2017LA000377

of deponent Hans Mast based upon all 15 exhibits violated the Rules and Orders of the Illinois Supreme Court.

2) Plaintiff first learned of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition without any exhibits from Defendants' Attorney's office and the exhibits 1-11 and 13-15 from the Plaintiff's current Attorney's office. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 2 line 23-24 and page 4 line 7-9 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

3) Plaintiff's current Attorney objected to the use of the discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast during the hearing because there's exhibit(s) missing. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 31 line 21-24 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

4) Plaintiff's current Attorney more completely explained to the Court that the discovery deposition of Hans Mast in all its variations was missing exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 36 line 19-24 to page 37 line 1-3 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

5) Thereafter this Honorable Court asked Defendants' Attorney whether he had exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 37 line 19-20 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

6) The Attorney for the Defendants responded "I may. I don't know. I haven't look for it." (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 37 line 20-21 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

Received 10-13-2022 02:45 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 10-14-2022 01:12 PM / Transaction #19869175 / Case #2017LA000377

C 1479 V2

7) This Honorable Court ordered Defendants' Attorney to produce exhibit 12 if he has it. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 39 line 16-21 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

8) On April 28, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received an email from Defendants' Attorney's office with a link at https: www.dropbox.com to access Mast Dep Ex.12. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #1 attached)

9) Plaintiff's current Attorney noticed that the label purporting to be authentic on Hans Mast's discovery deposition exhibit 12 seemed not to match the other 14 exhibit label as to fonts, shape, color, and DEPONENT's NAME (Hans Mist not Hans Mast).

10) On May 18, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney caused to be served upon Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith a Subpoena For Records in which she was requested to produce "The original discovery deposition of Hans Mast taken in this matter on June 25, 2020 including all pages, all indexes, all exhibits and all stenographic shorthand notes."

11) Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith's complete response submitted on a flash drive was received on June 16, 2022.

12) Contained on the flash drive is a file titled HPSCANS and therein were a series of communications and handwritten notes between the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith and Noelle Kappes of US Legal Support and Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams clearly indicating that Hans Mast discovery deposition taken June 25, 2020 did not have exhibit 12 sent before the deposition nor uploaded during the deposition and said exhibit was never in the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. M.R.30370 AMENDED ORDER JUNE 4, 2020

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #6 attached)

VIOLATIONS

A) The exhibits that were decided upon to be used by former counsel Julia C. Williams, and specifically exhibit 12, were not provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of tine prior to the deposition.

A1) On or about April 30, 2020 Defendants' Counsel sent an email to Plaintiff's former Counsel Julia C. Williams indicating an awareness of the current Supreme Court rules regarding depositions when he wrote "The recent temporary amendment to Rule 206 (facilitating depositions during the Covid crisis), prompted me to touch base and inquire whether you may want to consider attempting to depose Hans Mast remotely in the 2nd half of May.." (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #7 attached.)

A2) On or about May 29th 2020 former attorney Julia C. Williams sent an email to Defendants' Counsel indicating an awareness of the current Supreme Court rules regarding depositions when she wrote " …and given the Supreme Court rules, it makes sense to take advantage of the remote deposition option." (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #8 attached.)

A3) On or about June 23, 2020 Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams emailed Defendants' attorney 23 exhibits that she [emphasis added] use in the discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast on June 25, 2020. Additionally she indicated that there could be additions and there [emphasis added] be subtractions. Additionally she wrote "…and I will do my best to send them ahead of time." (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #9 attached.)

A4) On or about July 13, 2020 Noelle Kappes, Scheduling and Client Solution Manager U.S. Legal Support sends an email to Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams stating that "the court reporter indicated you would be sending us exhibit 12 from this deposition (discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast taken remotely on June 25, 2020) so that we can include it with the transcript. I don't believe we have received it can you send it tomorrow " (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #10 attached)

A5) On or about July 14, 2020 Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams emails to Noelle Kappes "Dear Noelle, I am sorry. I thought I had responded to Barbara's email with the exhibit. It is attached here." (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #10 attached.)

A6) On or about July 14, 2020 wtolliver2uslegalsupport.com emailed to Plaintiff's former attorney and Defendants' attorney that "Exhibit 12 is now available to download" (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #11 attached)

A7) On or about July 14, 2020 Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams wrote to Plaintiff "Attached is exhibit 12 that was missing in the original transcript copy because

B) The deposition participants were not able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

B1) The following clearly indicated a problem with viewing the exhibits submitted and the Defendants' internet equipment and internet connection and audio during the attempted remote discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast:

B1.1) Q. So I'm uploading Exhibit 2, it's titled Dulberg Mast Dep Exhibit 2, and this should be the original complaint filed in the case Dulberg versus Gagnon, et al., 12 LA 178, filed in McHenry County. Do you see that document

A. Yeah. What I'm going off are an email I got with all the exhibits attached, so I'm not that's what I'm looking at.; (Please see Defendants' The Law Offices Of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. And Hans Mast's Motion Memorandum In Support Of Their Motion For Summary Judgment Exhibit G page 17 lines 3 to 10 also found on 209 of 464 previously filed.)

B1.2) Q. Okay.

A. Oh, uh, I think It just kicked me off.

Mr. Flynn: I got disconnected, too. It's the Wi-Fi.

B1.3) Q. Okay. I just uploaded Dulberg Mast Exhibit 4 and it says letter it's "Letter Re Settlement," and that should be still be Exhibit 4 that was emailed around to Counsel so that you would have it. And it is labeled POP192 and POP193. Do you recogni e those documents

A. Wait. I think the Internet, maybe because we were having problems, is the Internet went down, so now my exhibits aren't pulling up. Can you try again Do you have that, George

Mr. Flynn: Yeah, here's the rd c [emphasis added]

The Witness: I'll look at the rd c [emphasis added], so what are you asking (Please see Defendants' The Law Offices Of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. And Hans Mast's Motion Memorandum In Support Of Their Motion For Summary Judgment Exhibit G page 26 lines 5 to 17 also found on 212 of 464 previously filed.)

A. Okay.

Q. Okay, and here in this email it looks like you started this email chain to Paul on October 25, 2013. Do you see that

A. It looks like there s a couple emails here. There's several pages. You just mean the first page

Q. I think It should only be, I believe it's only one page and it looks like

A. Oh, these aren't part of it Just one page

Q. The document that I have is just one page. Are we looking at the same thing

A. Okay.

Q. It's POP00195 on the bottom.

A. Yeah, he had a couple other pages on it, but okay.

Q. Okay. I just want to make sure that I didn't okay. And on the bottom there of the first sheet, if you have several, l d r r d [emphasis added], it states, "Friday, October 25, 2013," do you see that

MS. Williams: Okay. I think we'll be For the most part, I think we'll be fine and we'll deal with it if and when we get to that point.

Q. Okay. So the document that I'm looking at now is another email on the it's now titled Exhibit 6. I don't think it was entitled Exhibit 6 in what I sent to George, but it's an email that the first date on the email is November 4, 2013, and the last date is November 5, 2013 email chain and it's at the bottom it's stamped Dulberg001531.

A. What exhibit is it

Q. I think it might have been -A emphasis added) to George. It's now exhibit 6 for the purpose of this deposition.

A. Yeah, that wasn't part of the download then. Do you have

Mr. Flynn: Yeah, I don't think that was included. (Please see Defendants' The Law Offices Of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. you want to, but I'm just saying I have these on the computer.

Q. Okay, but Barb needs them, so that's why I keep uploading them, otherwise she doesn't have them. Okay. So Exhibit 7, and it's POP00181 and POP00182,and it's two pages of an email chain, it starts November 15th and ends November 19, is that accurate

A. Yes.

(Please see Defendants' The Law Offices Of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. And Hans Mast's Motion Memorandum In Support Of Their Motion For Summary Judgment Exhibit G page 35 lines 5 to 20 and also found on 214 of 464 previously filed.)

B2) From this point on the transcript indicated that the deponent could not view any exhibits uploaded so that Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams was asking questions based upon her attempted uploads but the deponent Defendant Hans Mast was looking at physical documents to respond based upon the following:

B2.1) Q. Okay. So I'm going to upload another document and then we can keep going here. And then this is Exhibit 8 and for it is a letter from Ronald Barch to you, Hans, and it's POP000667. Do you [emphasis added] that

Hi Ms. Williams – This is Barb Smith, the court reporter from US Legal that was present at the dep of Hans Mast on 6-25-20. I am currently working on the transcript and while preparing the exhibits I noticed that Exhibit No. 12, which is the 27 pages of legal research, did not download completely. The Exhibit 12 that I have has blank pages 1-22 and only pages 23-27 have print on them. I just wanted to let you know and check if you wanted to resend or if that's how No. 12 is supposed to be.

Thank you.

Hi Noelle -- Hope you're doing well. I just want to let you know I submitted this job, 923267, last night. Two things I wanted to let you know about. First, this job and 925187 were both submitted last night. These are the first two I used Box for the exhibits. I hope I did them correctly. If there's any problems, please let me know.

For 923267 I have another issue. One of the exhibits, #12, was downloaded during the Zoom session. It's 27 pages and when I first looked at it I noticed that pages 1-22 were blank. I emailed Julia Williams, our client, on 7-2 about this. She responded and the message section of her email was blank. I waited for another email but received none. On 7-6 I called and left her a message and have not received a response. I did note all of this information in the email that I sent the job with.

The main reason I'm telling you all of this is that I am going to be out of town Thursday and Friday. My daughter is getting married in Arkansas so I will not be bringing my computer with me and will be quite busy. Hopefully I hear from her on Wednesday.

Thanks,

Barb

REPORT OF FINDINGS

RE: Dulberg v Popovich et al LA 377

Dear Attorney Talarico,
Pursuant to your request, I examined the following documents:

Document containing a disputed Exhibit Label
(machine copy)

Q-1 The first page of a 27-page document containing machine copies of pages from a book or books. The first line on the yellow label reads "Exhibit 12".
The label is in the bottom center of a machine copy of 2 pages. The page number in the upper left corner is 502. The center heading reads: "218 Illinois Decisions".
Dated 6-25-2020.
Some of the pages in the 27-page document are duplications of previous pages.
The page sequencing in the 27-page document is as follows: 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858.

Document(s) submitted as containing genuine Exhibit Labels
(machine copies):

K-1 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 1".
K-2 The yellow label at the top center of the document reads "Exhibit 2".
K-3 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 3".
K-4 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 4".
K-5 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 5".
K-6 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 6".
K-7 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 7".
K-8 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 8".
K-9 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 9".

EXHIBIT 3

Received 10-13-2022 02:45 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 10-14-2022 01:12 PM / Transaction #19869175 / Case #2017LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

K-10 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 10".
K-11 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 11".
K-13 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 13".
K-14 The yellow label at the top center of the document reads "Exhibit 14".
K-15 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 15".

Assignment

The purpose of the examination was to determine whether the yellow label that is in question on Item Q-1, also identified as Exhibit Label #12 and the labels submitted as genuine on Items K-1 through K-11 and K-13 through K-15 all originated from the same group or batch of labels.

Procedure

The examination consisted of visual and microscopic study of the font styles, the discriminating variations of letter formations, letter designs, beginnings and endings of letters, t-crossings, spelling of words and exterior and interior shapes of the labels.

Opinion

It is the opinion of this examiner that the label in question identified as Q-1, Questioned Label #12, did not come from the same group or batch of labels identified as Items K-1 through K-11 and K-13 through K-15.

Discussion

Item Q-1, Exhibit Label #12 contained a different font in all of the words on the label (except in the word "Date") and in numerals 1 and 2 as illustrated in the attached charts.

It is important to note that the name of Hans Mast was misspelled on Item Q-1, Exhibit Label #12, as "Hans Mist".

It is noteworthy that in an enlargement of the label identified as Q-1, Exhibit Label #12, is the appearance of a squared outer edge in the upper left corner of the label that can be seen. This differs from the rounded outer edges of the known labels that were used for comparison.

This examination was conducted from machine copies of the document in question and the exemplars used for comparison. I assume that they are accurate reproductions of the originals. If the original documents become available, I am requesting the opportunity to examine the original documents containing the original labels and revisit my opinion. However, I do not believe my opinion will change.

Please allow four weeks in the event that testimony will be required.

In re: Illinois Courts Response to COVID-19 Emergency/Impact On Discovery	)	M.R.30370

Corrected
Order

In the exercise of the general administrative and supervisory authority over the courts of Illinois conferred on this Court pursuant to Article VI, Section 16 of the Illinois Constitution of 1970 (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, sec. 16); and in view of the actions that have been taken by the Governor of the State of Illinois in response to the outbreak of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19); and consistent with the order issued by this Court on March 17, 2020,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

Effective immediately and until further order of the Court, paragraph (h) of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206 is temporarily amended as follows:

(h) Remote Electronic Means Depositions. Any party may take a deposition by telephone, videoconference, or other remote electronic means by stating in the notice the specific electronic means to be used for the deposition, subject to the right to object. For the purposes of Rule 203, Rule 205, and this rule, such a deposition is deemed taken at the place where the deponent is to answer questions. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (h), the rules governing the practice, procedures and use of depositions shall apply to remote electronic means depositions.

(1) Reserved. ~~The deponent shall be in the presence of the officer administering the oath and recording the deposition, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.~~

(2) Any exhibits or other demonstrative evidence to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition shall be provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, unless the deposition participants are able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

(3) Reserved. ~~Nothing in this paragraph (h) shall prohibit any party from being with the deponent during the deposition, at that party's expense; provided, however, that a party attending a deposition shall give written notice of that party's intention to appear at the deposition to all other parties within a reasonable time prior to the deposition.~~

(4) The party at whose instance the remote electronic means deposition is taken shall pay all costs of the remote electronic means deposition, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.

(5) Time spent at a remote electronic means deposition in addressing necessary

Paragraph (h)

Where a deponent testifies from a remote location and no neutral representative or representative of an adverse party is present in the room with the testifying deponent, care must be taken to ensure the integrity of the examination. The testifying deponent may be examined regarding the identity of all persons in the room during the testimony. Where possible, all persons in the room during the testimony should separately participate in the videoconference. In furtherance of their obligations under Illinois Rules of Professional Conduct 3.3 (Candor Toward the Tribunal), 3.4 (Fairness to Opposing Party and Counsel), and 8.4(d) (Misconduct), counsel representing a deponent should instruct the deponent that (a) he or she may not communicate with anyone during the examination other than the examining attorney or the court reporter and (b) he or she may not consult any written, printed, or electronic information during the examination other than information provided by the examining attorney. Unrepresented deponents may be similarly instructed by counsel for any party.

Committee Comments
(June 4, 2020)

Paragraph (h)(3)

Subparagraph (h)(3) has been deleted to avoid discovery disputes over physical presence by a party or a party's attorney at a remote deposition. Deletion of the subparagraph does not mean that personal presence by a party or a party's attorney is absolutely prohibited. During the pandemic not all depositions are required to proceed remotely, nor is a continuance automatically required if counsel cannot agree on a remote method. Absent agreement, the circumstances of a remote deposition are within the discretion of the trial court.

Good Morning, George,

I hope you are doing well. I would prefer to do an in-person deposition given that the client will likely want to be present and that may present some issues with a video deposition. That being said, I don't want to hold this up indefinitely.

Let's plan for the end of June. If the "stay at home" orders get extended again, we will reconsider the "in person" v "remote" deposition.

I hope you and your family are well.

I am working remotely. If you need to call—the best remote number is 312.508.3376.

Otherwise, perhaps we can get a live deposition on the books for some time in June. If so, I would

Hi Julia. I think June 17 will work. Just let me know the details. For the time being, I will plan on being at Hans' office for the deposition.

I am still not sure about June 5. I may attend live, but I should be able to make a decision by Tuesday.

How about touching base on Monday regarding the deposition logistics?

If you need to call, my cell is 773-341-8114.

So far so good here. I hope you and your family are doing well. Thanks

Hi George,

How is the June 16,17, or 18? If not, we should also be open the week after on Wednesday or Thursday—June 24, 25.

I anticipate this will be a video deposition, despite things opening back up, I think it is the safest route for everyone and given the Supreme Court rules, it makes sense to take advantage of the remote deposition option. Details to come on that. We can work that out and a time once we get the date nailed down.

I believe we have a June 5 status date. I believe we are encouraged to either use CourtCall or get an agreed order. I am happy to draft an agreed order setting out a date for close of oral fact discovery (f(1), f(2)) and setting the matter for further status, so we can submit it to the Judge prior to June 5 to avoid the date. Alternatively, I am also happy to appear via CourtCall if you intend to appear.

I hope you and your family are well.

Sounds like a plan. If you have a date in mind for late June, I have a feeling it will work for me. I can pass it along to Hans, so he can hold the date. Please also advise where you want to conduct the deposition.

Take care

Dear George,

Attachments available until Jul 23, 2020

I am attaching the deposition exhibits that I may use on Thursday. I don't believe there will be any additions between now and then, but if there are they will minor and I will do my best to send them ahead of time. Obviously, I may not use all of these.

I have not used US Legal or done any remote depositions so you will have to forgive any errors. My understanding is that in the video conferencing system I will be able to upload the document in Pdf or other format (I am only using PDFs), then you and the court reporter will be able to download it. The court reporter will label the exhibits and include them in the transcript after the deposition is complete. You are not required to print any of the documents—unless of course you would like to do that.

I did my best to label the exhibits in the number order that I believe I will use them. That being said, things change in depositions and they may have to be renumbered. In an effort to not make it super confusing, I used descriptive names as well.

If you have questions/concerns, please let me know. Otherwise, I will see you remotely on Thursday and we'll hope that everything goes smoothly.

Best Regards,

APPELLATE COURT OF ILLINOIS

SECOND DISTRICT

PATRICIA TILSCHNER,	)	Appeal from the Circuit Court
	)	of McHenry County.
Plaintiff-Appellant,	)
v.	)	No. 08—LA—383
LOWELL SPANGLER and RALPH M. RUPPEL,	)
	)	Honorable
	)	Maureen P. McIntyre,
Defendants-Appellees.	)	Judge, Presiding.

JUSTICE McLAREN delivered the judgment of the court, with opinion.
Justice Hutchinson concurred in the judgment and opinion.
Justice Hudson specially concurred in the judgment, with opinion.

OPINION

Plaintiff, Patricia Tilschner, appeals from the trial court's orders dismissing count II of her third-amended complaint and denying her motion to reconsider. Patricia claims on appeal that the trial court erred in concluding that this State has not adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965).[1] We affirm.

Patricia was injured during a party at the home of defendant Lowell Spangler when defendant Ralph Ruppel ignited fireworks. Patricia's third amended complaint contained three counts. Count

[1]Patricia raised a similar claim regarding an undifferentiated duty independent of section 318 but abandoned that argument during oral argument.

Purchased from re:SearchIL

I alleged common-law negligence against Spangler. Count II alleged negligence against Spangler pursuant to section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. Count III alleged common-law negligence against Ruppel. Spangler moved to dismiss count II, pursuant to section 2—615 of the Code of Civil Procedure (735 ILCS 5/2—615 (West 2008)). The trial court granted the motion to dismiss with prejudice and denied Patricia's subsequent motion to reconsider. Patricia filed an application for leave to appeal to this court pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 308 (eff. Feb. 26, 2010), which was denied. Patricia was also denied leave to file a fourth amended complaint. She then voluntarily dismissed count I of the third amended complaint, and the trial court found no just reason to delay enforcement or appeal, pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 304(a) (eff. Feb. 26, 2010). This appeal followed.

Patricia now contends that the trial court erred in dismissing count II of her third amended complaint. When a defendant challenges the legal sufficiency of a complaint with a section 2—615 motion to dismiss, all well-pleaded facts alleged in the complaint are taken as true. King v. Senior Services Associates, Inc., 341 Ill. App. 3d 264, 266 (2003). On review of a dismissal pursuant to section 2—615, this court must determine whether the allegations of the complaint, when interpreted in the light most favorable to the plaintiff, sufficiently set forth a cause of action on which relief may be granted. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266. The motion should be granted only if the plaintiff can prove no set of facts to support her cause of action. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266. As this process does not require the trial court to weigh findings of fact or determine credibility, this court is not required to defer to the trial court's judgment, and we will review the matter de novo. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266.

To state a cause of action in negligence, a plaintiff must allege facts that establish a duty, a breach of that duty, and proximate causation. Ryan v. Yarbrough, 355 Ill. App. 3d 342, 345 (2005). Patricia alleged that Spangler:

> "[o]wed a duty to the Plaintiff and his other invited guests to keep control and care over his property and to protect them against any unreasonable risks of harm known due to acts of a third person under his control, including the Defendant, RALPH RUPPEL, pursuant to the Restatement (Second) of Torts, §318."

Section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts provides:

> "If the actor permits a third person to use land or chattels in his possession otherwise than as a servant, he is, if present, under a duty to exercise reasonable care so to control the conduct of the third person as to prevent him from intentionally harming others or from so conducting himself as to create an unreasonable risk of bodily harm to them, if the actor
> (a) knows or has reason to know that he has the ability to control the third person, and,
> (b) knows or should know of the necessity and opportunity for exercising such control." Restatement (Second) of Torts §318 (1965).

A restatement is not binding on Illinois courts unless it is adopted by our supreme court. Eckburg v. Presbytery of Blackhawk of the Presbyterian Church (USA), 396 Ill. App. 3d 164, 169 (2009); In re Estate of Lieberman, 391 Ill. App. 3d 882, 890 (2009). Thus, we must determine whether our supreme court has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts; if it has not, Spangler owed no duty to Patricia.

Citing a line of both supreme court and appellate court cases, Patricia argues that section 318 has "unquestionably" been adopted in Illinois. However, this is not the first time that this court has examined this question and concluded to the contrary. In Zimring v. Wendrow, 137 Ill. App. 3d 847, 850 (1985), this court specifically found that "[n]o Illinois case has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, upon which plaintiff relies." Ultimately, we concluded that we "need not consider" the sufficiency of the complaint in relation to section 318. Zimring, 137 Ill. App. 3d at 853. In Elizondo v. Ramirez, 324 Ill. App. 3d 67, 73 (2001), the plaintiff asserted that section 318 "has been adopted in Illinois and cite[d] two cases in support." After analyzing those cases—Cravens v. Inman, 223 Ill. App. 3d 1059 (1991), and Teter v. Clemens, 112 Ill. 2d 252 (1986)—we concluded that "it is unclear whether these cases represent the law in Illinois" (Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 73-74), and we declined to "express an opinion on whether section 318 represents the law in Illinois" (Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 74). We note with interest that Patricia cites to Elizondo but fails to mention, let alone address, this court's refusal to find that section 318 had, indeed, been adopted in this state. Patricia now argues, despite our analysis in Elizondo, that our supreme court adopted section 318 in Teter. We disagree, and we will not revisit our prior analysis and determination in Elizondo that there was no clear adoption of section 318 by our supreme court in Teter.

While Patricia does not cite to Cravens, its ultimate disposition is instructive. In Cravens, the First District of the Illinois Appellate Court found a duty and, thus, a claim for negligence, pursuant to section 318 and to Teter, in the factual scenario of adults providing alcohol to minor guests who subsequently left in an automobile and were involved in a fatal accident. However, our supreme court in Charles v. Seigfried, 165 Ill. 2d 482, 501-02 (1995), concluded that it did "not agree that the views set forth in Cravens should be adopted through judicial decision." This court noted the supreme court's refusal, in an admittedly different context, to impose liability pursuant to section 318. See Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 74.

Patricia argues that the supreme court "implicitly" adopted section 318 in Estate of Johnson v. Condell Memorial Hospital, 119 Ill. 2d 496, 503-04 (1988), in which the court stated:

> "In general, one has no duty to control the conduct of another to prevent him from causing harm to a third party (Restatement (Second) of Torts §315 (1965)), but there are exceptions to this, based on 'special relationships.' Sections 315 through 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965) describe these relationships. The 'special relationship' that the plaintiff alleges existed here that would give rise to a duty to protect another from harm is found in section 319 ***."

The court ultimately concluded, "It cannot be reasonably said, based on the complaint's allegations against Condell, that the hospital assumed a duty of care to Holt under section 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965)." Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 506-07. Patricia argues that the "clear import" of the decision "is that sections 315-319 have been adopted in Illinois." She then cites to a similar statement in Kirk v. Michael Reese Hospital & Medical Center, 117 Ill. 2d 507, 530 (1987) ("There are types of relationships that give rise to a duty to control a third party's conduct set out in sections 316 to 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965) "), to support her conclusion that the supreme court "cited with approval all of the exceptions/duties established in sections 316 through 319." Patricia is not alone in this argument. The First District of the Illinois Appellate Court has boldly stated that the supreme court has adopted sections 315 through 319. See Brewster v. Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, 361 Ill. App. 3d 32, 36-37 (2005) (citing Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503-04); Iseberg v. Gross, 366 Ill. App. 3d 857, 862 (2006) (citing only Brewster, which expressly mentions sections 315 through 319, but then mysteriously increasing the number of sections adopted, to include sections 314 through 320).

However, we first note that neither Estate of Johnson nor Kirk (nor, for that matter, Brewster nor Iseberg) involved a claimed application of section 318. Both Estate of Johnson and Kirk involved claims arising from alleged improper medical treatment of third parties who subsequently injured the plaintiffs; these claims were analyzed under section 319, which speaks to a duty of those in charge of someone having dangerous propensities. See Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503-04; Kirk, 117 Ill. 2d at 530-31. The "most relevant" section in Brewster was section 317, which addresses the duty of a master to control the conduct of his servants. Brewster, 361 Ill. App. 3d at 37; Restatement (Second) of Torts §317 (1965). In Iseberg, the plaintiff did not even allege that any of the Restatement sections applied and imposed a duty on the defendants. Iseberg, 366 Ill. App. 3d at 862.

Patricia has failed to cite, and our research has not revealed, a single case since Teter in which our supreme court has specifically addressed, or even quoted, section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. We cannot conclude that our supreme court has adopted—explicitly, implicitly, impliedly, or otherwise—a Restatement section that it has not been called upon to analyze, apply, or adopt. Even the cases upon which Patricia relies do little more than acknowledge the existence of section 318. Estate of Johnson says that sections 315 through 319 describe " 'special relationships' " that form the bases for exceptions to the general rule of section 315. Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503. Kirk merely notes that certain types of relationships set out in sections 316 through 319 give rise to a duty to control a third party's conduct, although none of the types applied there. Kirk, 117 Ill. 2d at 530. The mere citation to a cluster of sections, or even the analysis some of the nearby sections, is insufficient to establish the adoption of a restatement section.

The supreme court has addressed more thoroughly and deeply other restatement sections and specifically did not adopt them. For example, in a case examining the difference between void and voidable judgments, the supreme court compared its conclusions with those that it would have reached if the criteria of section 12 of the Restatement (Second) of Judgments were applied to the facts of the case. In re Marriage of Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d 169, 176 (1998). The court noted that the result in the case was "consistent with the trend of modern authority" as exemplified by the Restatement (Second) of Judgments. Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 175. The court then quoted section 12 of the Restatement (Second) of Judgments and applied the criteria of that section to the facts of the case. Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 176. After determining that adopting the view expressed in the Restatement would require a re-examination of existing case-law analysis, the court casually noted that "[t]he parties [did] not ask us to adopt the rule expressed in the Restatement, however, and therefore we need not decide in this case whether to take that step." Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 177. In Mitchell, the court explicitly declined to adopt a restatement section that it specifically quoted, applied to the facts of the case, analyzed, and compared to existing case law, because the parties did not ask for it. Here, Patricia cannot cite to a case wherein the court even cited to section 318, let alone provided the type of analysis that it did in dictum in Mitchell. With such meager authority, we cannot find the adoption of a restatement section.

Patricia similarly attempts to find adoption of section 318 in this court's decision in Duncan v. Rzonca, 133 Ill. App. 3d 184 (1985). Patricia's specific claim is that the Duncan court adopted section 316 of the Restatement and that, since sections 316 through 319 are "uniformly discussed together," there is "simply no logical explanation for why section 316 but not section 318 would be adopted in Illinois." We first note that this court does not have the authority to adopt a restatement section; as we have already stated, a restatement is binding on Illinois courts only if it is adopted by our supreme court. See Eckburg, 396 Ill. App. 3d at 169; Lieberman, 391 Ill. App. 3d at 890. In the absence of Illinois law, we often deem secondary sources, such as the Restatement (Second) of Torts, to be persuasive. [2] Eckburg, 396 Ill. App. 3d at 169. A restatement is a policy statement; this court does not adopt policy, it applies present law to the facts of the case before it. Further, this argument relies on the same fallacy as her prior argument: the "adoption" of a section includes the adoption of other sections "uniformly discussed together." This argument is not only a non sequitur, it is irrational as well. Duncan does not support Patricia's cause.

The restatement that we adopt today is that our supreme court has not adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. Therefore, count II of Patricia's third-amended complaint, interpreted in the light most favorable to her, fails to allege a duty recognized by our supreme court and fails to set forth a cause of action on which relief may be granted. The trial court did not err in granting Spangler's section 2—615 motion to dismiss with prejudice.

For these reasons, the judgment of the circuit court of McHenry County is affirmed.

Affirmed.

JUSTICE HUDSON, specially concurring:

I agree with much of the majority's analysis in this case as well as the result at which it arrives. However, I would prefer to refrain from making sweeping and unnecessary statements about the authority of this court. It is well established that a court should avoid constitutional questions when a case can be decided on other grounds. In re Detention of Swope, 213 Ill. 2d 210, 218 (2004); Beahringer v. Page, 204 Ill. 2d 363, 370 (2003). The scope of the authority of this court is a constitutional matter. See Belleville Toyota, Inc. v. Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 199 Ill. 2d 325, 334 (2002).

In this case, the majority rejects plaintiff's contention that this court has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, finding plaintiff's argument "irrational." Slip op. at 8. This finding should resolve this question. The majority, nevertheless, goes on to hold that this court does not have the authority to adopt a section of a restatement. It is unnecessary to consider whether this court has such authority in light of the majority's holding that nothing this court previously did would constitute an adoption of section 318. As I believe it improper to address the issue of the authority of this court, I do not join this portion of the majority's opinion.

Motion to Vacate Order

Julia Williams and Edward X. Clinton, on their own behalf, respectfully request that this Honorable Court vacate its October 17, 2022 order, in part, as follows:

I. Introduction

1. Julia Williams and Edward X. Clinton ("Clinton Law") previously represented Plaintiff Paul Dulberg in this pending matter. Mr. Talarico is Plaintiff's current counsel of record. On or around August 2, 2022, Mr. Talarico issued a subpoena to each Julia Williams and Edward X. Clinton requesting records in this case. Since that time, Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton have been attempting to work with Mr. Talarico regarding the subpoena. On October 6, 2022, Mr. Talarico, without notice to Ms. Williams or Mr. Clinton, filed a Motion to Compel/Petition for Rule to Show Cause, which was granted. Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton are now asking this Honorable Court to vacate portions of that order because the order may do great harm to Mr. Dulberg. Clinton Law has a legitimate professional concern that the service of the subpoena has waived the attorney-client privilege between Clinton Law and Dulberg for no good reason and at great risk of harm to Dulberg. Serving a subpoena on prior counsel and waiving the attorney-client privilege was a reckless act.

II. Relevant Facts

2. Edward X. Clinton, Jr. and Julia Williams, of the Clinton Law Firm, represented Plaintiff Paul Dulberg in this pending matter from November 8, 2018 to September 10, 2020.

3. On or around September 2, 2020, the Clinton Law Firm sent to Plaintiff Dulberg, via FedEx, all physical documents that Dulberg provided to the Clinton Law Firm and a flash drive containing the Clinton Law Firm's entire legal file, including but not limited to, pleadings, discovery, and communications with Plaintiff, opposing counsel, and third parties.

4. On or around March 26, 2021, the Clinton Law Firm sent a flash drive containing that same material as was sent in a flash drive to Mr. Dulberg to Mr. Talarico, including but not limited to, pleadings, discovery, and communications with Plaintiff, opposing counsel, and third parties.

5. In August 2022, Julia Williams of Williams Law LLC and "Of Counsel" with The Clinton Law Firm accepted service of two subpoenas, the first issued to her and the second issued to Edward X. Clinton, Jr. of The Clinton Law Firm. The subpoenas requested identical information. (Exhibit 1, Subpoenas)[1]

6. On August 30, 2022, Julia Williams contacted Attorney Alphonse Talarico regarding the subpoena and produced by email that day the following documents:

A. Hans Mast Deposition Transcript Full
B. Hans Mast Deposition Transcript Mini
C. Hans Mast Deposition Exhibit 12
D. Hans Mast Deposition Exhibits 1-11, 13-15
E. A folder containing all of the exhibits that were prepared, whether utilized or not, for Hans Mast deposition.

[1] Ms. Williams accepted service of both subpoenas, but was not served with any witness fee, as is stated in the Affidavit of Service.

7. Ms. Williams spoke with Mr. Talarico and identified her concern that the subpoena was too expansive as it requested attorney-client privileged documents and documents that were subject to the work product privilege. Ms. Williams further noted that Mr. Talarico was requesting documents and information that his client was entitled to without a subpoena. Ms. Williams expressed that The Clinton Law Firm would produce all the requested information but wished to avoid formally responding to the subpoena given the concern that the Dulberg was waiving the attorney-client privilege and the requirement to produce all documents to all parties of record.

8. On August 30th, Mr. Talarico stated that he would review the documents and advise Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton if he required more information.

9. On September 8, 2022, Mr. Talarico emailed Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton advising that the documents were not sufficient and he was seeking compliance with the subpoena.

10. On September 9, 2022, Ms. Williams again reiterated Clinton Law's concern about providing privileged documents to the Court and placing them in the public record and provided the following folders:

a. All emails that were not subject to privilege
b. Exhibit 12 to Hans Mast Deposition
c. Exhibits Marked to Mast Deposition
d. Proposed Exhibits for Mast Deposition

11. Again, on September 9, 2022, Mr. Talarico indicated that he would review the documents and advise if they were insufficient.

12. Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton did not hear from Mr. Talarico again until September 29, 2022, when he advised Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton that the documents were insufficient and seeking a formal response to the subpoena.

13. On September 29, 2022, counsel sent Mr. Talarico three separate emails including a response to the subpoena.

Received 10-31-2022 08:47 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 10-31-2022 02:50 PM / Transaction #20089152 / Case #2017LA000377

14. The first email outlined the attempts to provide the required documents and reiterating again the concern about privileged documents and stated the documents would be produced that day, thus neither Mr. Clinton nor Ms. Williams would appear on October 6, 2022.

15. The second email contained the privileged attorney client communication and was not produced in response to the subpoena, but informally to Mr. Talarico.

16. The third email was the formal response to the subpoena contained the following exhibits:

a. Response to Subpoena
b. Documents Bates Stamped "Dulberg Clinton Subpoena" 1-671
c. Hans Mast Full Deposition Transcript
d. Hans Mast Mini Deposition Transcript

17. All emails between Ms. Williams, Mr. Clinton, and Mr. Talarico are attached to this Motion. (Exhibit 2 Emails Dated August 30, 2022; Exhibit 3 Emails dated September 8, 2022; Exhibit 4 emails dated September 29, 2022)

18. At no time did Mr. Talarico indicate that Mr. Dulberg was waiving attorney-client privilege and did not address Clinton Law's serious concerns about other work product privileged documents.

19. Mr. Talarico did not respond to any of the September 29, 2022 emails indicating that he required further response to the subpoena or that the information was not sufficient for his needs.

20. Mr. Talarico did not respond to the email notifying Mr. Clinton or Ms. Williams that their appearance would still be required on October 6, 2022.

21. Mr. Talarico failed to participate in 201k communications to reach an agreement with Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams regarding the subpoena and failed to advise Mr. Clinton or Ms. Williams that the Mr. Dulberg was waiving the attorney-client communication privilege.

Received 10-31-2022 08:47 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 10-31-2022 02:50 PM / Transaction #20089152 / Case #2017LA000377

22. On October 6, 2022, Mr. Talarico filed a Motion to Compel to compel Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams to comply with the subpoena.

23. The Motion to Compel was not served upon Mr. Clinton or Ms. Williams.

24. Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams have attempted to produce documents to Mr. Talarico that meet his needs, while protecting the client communication.

25. On October 17, 2022, this Court issued an order compelling Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams to produce documents to this Honorable Court and waiving the attorney-client privilege. Exhibit 5, Order).

26. Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton were first notified of the petition when Mr. Talarico sent them a copy of the order entered on October 17, 2022. (Exhibit 6, Email)

27. Plaintiff failed to serve the Petition for Rule and Motion on Mr. Clinton or Ms. Williams, pursuant to the Supreme Court Rules 204(d), 219(a), 754(f).

28. In conjunction with this Motion, Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams are providing this Honorable Court with a flash drive with all documents responsive to the subpoena for in-camera inspection, which will be labeled as follows:

A. Dulberg Clinton Subpoena Response 2022 Sep 29
B. Dulberg Clinton Subpoena 1-677[2]
C. Hans Mast 062520 FULL
D. Hans Mast 062520 MINI
E. Dulberg Clinton Subpoena Privileged Communication 1-33
F. Dulberg Subpoena Work Product Privilege 1-13

29. Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams are requesting that this Honorable Court vacate the order granting the Motion to Compel/Petition for Rule to Show Cause as they were never served with the petition and never granted any opportunity to respond to the petition. Their due process rights have been violated. That is not the main problem here. Clinton Law is concerned that Dulberg has agreed to waive the attorney-client privilege in this matter without due and proper consideration of the consequences of that action. This is a serious matter. Clinton Law requests that the Court personally inquire of Dulberg as to whether he understands the consequences of his waiver of the attorney client privilege with Clinton Law.

[2] An additional email chain regarding the Hans Mast deposition was located and is being produced with Bates stamp 672-677.

30. Clinton Law also request that the Court review the documents in camera without placing them in the public record. There is no just reason to waive the attorney client privilege in this case to obtain documents that were previously furnished to both Dulberg and Talarico and can be produced to Dulberg and Talarico without waiving the privilege.[3]

WHEREFORE, Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams respectfully request that this Honorable Court (a) vacate its order granting Plaintiff's motion to compel/petition for rule; (b) review the documents that were produced in camera and (c) vacate its order waiving the attorney-client privilege and such further relief as this Honorable Court deems just and equitable.

Respectfully Submitted,

[3]If there is a document we inadvertently failed to turn over, Clinton Law apologies for that error. The Clinton Law Firm is willing to correct any error and produce all documents to Dulberg and Talarico. There is no reason to waive the attorney-client privilege to correct any error.

Paul, here are my thoughts regarding your case. There are two issues. The first liability, or whether Mr. Gagnon is liable for your injury. If he is not proven liable, then it does not matter how badly you were hurt since he will not be found responsible for your damages. The second issue is your damages, or to what extent you were injured due to Mr. Gagnon’s acts.
Both of these issues are strongly contested in your case.
As to liability, there were no witnesses to the accident. So, whether Mr. Gagnon will be held responsible for your damages is uncertain and a gamble. That is because it is your word against his word. Our argument is that you were simply holding a limb when he caused the chain saw to strike you. His argument is that you moved your arm in the path of the chain saw unexpectedly. If the jury determines that I did not produce emails between our firm and Mr. Dulberg, but as I recall those emails were included with the file that we produced previously via flash drive.

As I stated when we spoke previously, we are happy to produce what you need, but we do not want to breach any attorney-client privilege by responding to the subpoena formally.

If you would prefer for us to respond formally to the subpoena we will do so, but we will be objecting to any request for attorney-client communication and attorney work product. We could also agree to narrow the request to (a) exclude attorney-client privileged communication and work product between and among, Julia WIlliams, Edward Clinton, Jr., The Clinton Law Firm, Paul Dulberg and any successor counsel for Dulberg, and (b) exclude any work product.

Dear Mr. Talarico,

We will be responding formally to the subpoena request by separate email today, but will be objecting to the disclosure of attorney-client communication and work product.

As a courtesy to you, by separate email, we will be producing to you, but not as a formal response to the subpoena, the privileged communication between our office and Mr. Dulberg regarding the Hans Mast deposition.

I note that on 8.30.2022, we did provide the Exh. 12 and mini and full versions of the transcript. At that time, we spoke. I stated that I was concerned that the request included request for privileged work product as well as attorney-client communication. You stated you would review and let us know if you required a formal response.

On 9.8.2022, you again reached out indicating that the response was insufficient and you did need more document. I reiterated my concern about a formal response because of the issue of disclosing attorney-client communication and work product and noted that noted that your client is entitled to the majority of the documents without a subpoena,. I did then produce to you informally via email, that day, (a) all communications with third parties regarding the deposition of Hans Mast, (b) all exhibits used in the deposition, (c) all proposed exhibits, including exhibits that were not utilized, and (d) the full and mini version of the transcript. I also requested that you narrow the scope of the subpoena to exclude attorney client communication.

At that time, you indicated that you would review the materials and let us know if you needed more.

I am now receiving this message that states you represented to the court that we have produced “nothing.” This is simply untrue. We have been trying to work with you to avoid the issue of producing attorney-client privileged information that would ultimately be produced to opposing counsel in the pending case.

Furthermore, prior to the issuance of the subpoena and when you first filed your appearance in this case, we produced to you on a flash drive, as Mr. Dulberg’s successor counsel, the entirety of our file, including communications between our firm and Mr. Dulberg as well as third party communications.

I am hopeful that our response to the subpoena and the informal production of communication between our office and Mr. Dulberg closes this matter. We will not be appearing at your office on Oct. 6.

will not proceed with finalizing the arrangements.
Please note that the subpoenas served upon both of you were discussed at the most recent status on September 16, 2022 and Judge Meyer instructed me to inform you of the following "The ball is in their court. They've done nothing. And you may want to pass that information on to them that unless or until I see something filed on their behalf objecting to the scope of your subpoena, I assume it's appropriate and should be complied with...All right. Yeah. I expect if they're not going to give full compliance - - and based on what you're telling me they're acknowledging it's not full compliance - - if they are not going to give full compliance, they need to come to court."

P.S. Please respond in writing only by email.

Your anticipated cooperation is greatly appreciated,
Alphonse A. Talarico

Attorney-Client Privileged and Work Product Privileged Communication

Dear Mr. Talarico,

Attached please find the attorney-client communication between our firm and Mr. Dulberg about the Hams Mast deposition. I am not producing this in a formal response to your subpoena, but rather informally as there is no concern of privilege with successor counsel, but we are maintaining privilege as it relates to opposing counsel.

PLAINTIFF'S MOTION TO COMPEL NON-PARTIES JULIA C. WILLIAMS AND EDWARD X. CLINTON TO COMPLY WITH RECORDS SUBPOENAS AND TO AMEND PLAINTIFF'S MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF DEFENDANT HANS MAST TAKEN IN VIOLATION OF SUPREME COURT RULE 206 h(2) REMOTE ELECTRONIC MEANS DEPOSITIONS and ORDERS OF THE ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT In re: ILLINOIS COURTS RESPONSE to COVID-19 EMERGENCY/IMPACT ON DISCOVERY M.R.30370 CORRECTED ORDER APRIL 29, 2020 and M.R.30370 AMENDED ORDER JUNE 4, 2020 FILED SEQUENTIALLY WITH THIS MOTION

Now Comes Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorney Alphonse A. Talarico, and for his Motion To Compel and amend Plaintiff's motion to exclude the deposition of Defendant Hans Mast states as follows:

1) On July 11, 2022 this Honorable Court entered an Order granting Plaintiff leave to serve subpoenas on The Clinton Law Firm.

Received 10-31-2022 08:07 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 10-31-2022 04:50 PM / Transaction #19790478 / Case #2017LA000377

2) The Non-Party Subpoenas were issued by Alphonse A. Talarico on August 2, 2022 naming respondents: Julia Christine Williams individually and as manager of Williams Law, LLC; Edward X. Clinton, individually and as manager of Clinton Law Firm, LLC. (Please see Notice of Filing and both subpoenas which are part of the Clerk's file as reflected on October 3, 2022.)

3) The Non-Party Subpoenas were served upon respondent Julia Christine Williams personally and on respondent Edward X. Clinton (as insisted upon and accepted by respondent Julia Christine Williams) at The Clinton Law Firm, 111 W. Washington St., Suite 1437, Chicago, Illinois 60602 on August 5, 2022. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit 1 AFFIDAVIT OF SERVICE attached)

4) Plaintiff's Attorney has made/received multiple telephone and email communications with the subpoena respondents and extended the compliance date in an attempt to obtain full compliance but said informal communications have not resolved the issues.

5) As of the filing date of this Motion To Compel both written subpoena responses are non-compliant.

6) Non-Party Subpoena Respondent Edward X. Clinton has not responded in writing, nor has he served an executed Affidavit of Compliance as required.

7) Non-Party Subpoena Respondent Julia Christine Williams has responded in writing twice, but her responses are non-compliant for the following reasons:

A) The Affidavit of Compliance itself is non-compliant as respondent changed the required wording as served on August 5, 2022 without first filing a written motion pursuing an Order from this Honorable Court seeking to quash, condition, or modify the

subpoenas or to issue protective orders. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #2 RESPONSE TO SUBPOENA FOR DOCUMENTS attached);

B) Including within her RESPONSE TO SUBPOENA FOR DOCUMENTS the following,

"GENERAL OBJECTIONS"

"Respondents object to all requests that seek the disclosure of attorney-client communications between Respondents and their former client Paul Dulberg.

Respondents object to all requests that seek the disclosure of attorney work product."

Again, without first filing a written motion pursuing an Order from this Honorable Court seeking to quash, condition, or modify the subpoenas or to issue protective orders subpoena respondent Julia C. Williams indicates certain documents are protected from disclosure but does not include an Attorney-Client Privilege Log nor a Work Product Log leaving Plaintiff to guess what she determines what should not be disclosed even though Illinois law assumes an implied waiver when a former client serves a record subpoena upon former counsel. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #2 RESPONSE TO SUBPOENA FOR DOCUMENTS above)

8) Plaintiff, by serving Records subpoenas on his former attorneys has made a limited waiver of the Attorney-Client and Work Product Privilege. (Please see Illinois Rules of Evidence Rule 502(a)(1), (a)(2), (a)(3) ATTORNEY-CLIENT PRIVILEGE AND WORK PRODUCT; LIMITATIONS ON WAIVER)

WHEREFORE PLAINTIFF PRAYS THAT THIS HONORABLE COURT ENTER AN ORDER compelling NON-PARTIES JULIA C. WILLIAMS AND EDWARD X. CLINTON TO comply with the records subpoenas as written, including an Attorney-Client Privilege Log and a Work Product Log or file and present a motion to quash, condition, or modify the subpoenas, or to issue protective orders as deemed appropriate.

PLAINTIFF FURTHER PRAYS THAT THIS HONORABLE COURT limit Plaintiff Paul Dulberg's implied waiver of his Attorney-Client Privilege to the subject matter of the discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast taken on June 25, 2020 as indicated in the Records Subpoenas. Additionally, Plaintiff prays that he be allowed to amend his Motion to Exclude the discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast taken on June 25, 2020 until a reasonable time after the Subpoena Responses herein are fully complied with.

Respectfully submitted,

PLAINTIFF'S MOTION FOR RULE TO SHOW CAUSE

Now Comes Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorney Alphonse A. Talarico, and for his Motion for Rule To Show Cause states as follows:

1) On July 11, 2022 this Honorable Court entered an Order granting Plaintiff leave to serve subpoenas on The Clinton Law Firm.

2) The Non-Party Subpoenas were issued by Alphonse A. Talarico on August 2, 2022 naming respondents: Julia Christine Williams individually and as manager of Williams Law, LLC; Edward X. Clinton, individually and as manager of Clinton Law Firm, LLC. (Please see Notice of Filing and both subpoenas which are part of the Clerk's file as reflected on October 3, 2022.)

Received 11-01-2022 11:55 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-01-2022 12:14 PM / Transaction #20117491 / Case #2017LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

C 1602 V2

3) The Non-Party Subpoenas were served upon respondent Julia Christine Williams personally and on respondent Edward X. Clinton (as insisted upon and accepted by respondent Julia Christine Williams) at The Clinton Law Firm, 111 W. Washington St., Suite 1437, Chicago, Illinois 60602 on August 5, 2022. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit 1 AFFIDAVIT OF SERVICE attached)

4) Contrary to the "to-be" filed self-serving assertions in their M T V c , the witness fee and milage checks were served in the amount of 54.00 for each respondent. (Please see Exhibit #2a and 2b attached)

5) As of the filing date of this M F r R T S C both written subpoena responses are non-compliant.

6) Non-Party Subpoena Respondent Edward X. Clinton has responded in writing on October 28, 2022 but the Affidavit of Compliance has been changed from the one served.

7) Non-Party Subpoena Respondent has not filed any documents, whether alleging privilege or any non-privilege but has asserted that separate Records Subpoena Respondent Julia C. Williams, although never an employee nor an associate with the Clinton Law Firm has the authority to answer not only for Julia C. Williams and Williams Law, LLC but also for Edward X. Clinton and the Clinton Law Firm.

8) Numerous times in communications regarding the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast Julia C. Williams used the emails:

Julia.c.floyd@gmail.com;

Julia@McLauchianLawGroup. (Please see Exhibit 3 attached which is an email from Julia C. Williams @ Williams Law to Mary Winch at Clinton Law and Paul Dulberg)

Purchased from re:SearchIL

C 1603 V2

7) Non-Party Subpoena Respondent Julia Christine Williams and Non-Party Respondent Edward X. Clinton have an amended responses and an original response, but their responses are non-compliant for the following reasons:

a) The Affidavit(s) of Compliance are non-compliant as respondents changed the required wording as served on August 5, 2022 without first filing a written motion pursuing an Order from this Honorable Court seeking to quash, condition, or modify the subpoenas or to issue protective orders;

b) By filing mirror-image responses 4,5,6 and 7 in which the following statement is repeated:

RESPONSE:

See documents Bates Stamped Dulberg Clinton Subpoena 1-677.

A D r C S Pr d C c -

B D r S W r Pr d c Pr - EMPHASIS ADDED

c) The above responses are contumacious to the order entered on October 17, 2022, which was served by email upon both Respondents on October 17, 2022 stating:

PLAINTIFF PAUL DULBERG HEREBY WAIVES ATTORNEY-CLIENT PRIVILEGE FOR THE LIMITED PURPOSE WILLIAMS' AND CLINTON'S COMPLIANCE WITH PLAINTIFF'S SUBPOENAS TO THEM EMPHASIS ADDED

(Please see Exhibit 4 attached)

WHEREFORE PLAINTIFF PRAYS THAT THIS HONORABLE COURT ENTER AN ORDER compelling NON-PARTIES JULIA C. WILLIAMS AND EDWARD X. CLINTON TO appear before this Court and there and then show cause why they should not be held in contempt of this Court for failure to obey said subpoenas.

Additionally, Plaintiff prays that he be allowed to amend his Motion to Exclude the discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast taken on June 25, 2020 until a reasonable time after the Subpoena Responses herein are fully complied with.

Finally, Plaintiff prays that he be granted reasonable attorney's fee and cost incurred in obtaining compliance with these non-Party Record Subpoenas.

Respectfully submitted,

Dear Paul,

Attached are the three sets of documents that we produced to opposing counsel.

First Set “Dulberg Documents Disclosure FINAL 2019 May 29” contains Bates Stamp 1-2598
Second Set “Dulberg BK Files Bates 2599” contains Bates Stamp 2599-2619.
Third Set “Dulberg Bates 2620” contains Bates Stamp 2620-2638.

We have already provided the discovery documents that the other side provided to us. I am not producing them again here.

You will need these documents to respond to my next email.

Now Comes Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorney Alphonse A. Talarico, and for his Motion To Exclude the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast taken in violation of Supreme Court Rule 206 h(2) and Supreme Court Orders states as follows:

RELEVANT FACTS

1) On June 25, 2020 the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast was taken pursuant to a non-filed notice (violation waived) but all 15 exhibits and the questioning

of deponent Hans Mast based upon all 15 exhibits violated the Rules and Orders of the Illinois Supreme Court.

2) Plaintiff first learned of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition without any exhibits from Defendants' Attorney's office and the exhibits 1-11 and 13-15 from the Plaintiff's current Attorney's office. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 2 line 23-24 and page 4 line 7-9 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

3) Plaintiff's current Attorney objected to the use of the discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast during the hearing because there's exhibit(s) missing. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 31 line 21-24 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

4) Plaintiff's current Attorney more completely explained to the Court that the discovery deposition of Hans Mast in all its variations was missing exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 36 line 19-24 to page 37 line 1-3 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

5) Thereafter this Honorable Court asked Defendants' Attorney whether he had exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 37 line 19-20 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

6) The Attorney for the Defendants responded "I may. I don't know. I haven't look for it." (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 37 line 20-21 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

7) This Honorable Court ordered Defendants' Attorney to produce exhibit 12 if he has it. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 39 line 16-21 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

8) On April 28, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received an email from Defendants' Attorney's office with a link at https: www.dropbox.com to access Mast Dep Ex.12. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #1 attached)

9) Plaintiff's current Attorney noticed that the label purporting to be authentic on Hans Mast's discovery deposition exhibit 12 seemed not to match the other 14 exhibit label as to fonts, shape, color, and DEPONENT's NAME (Hans Mist not Hans Mast).

10) On May 18, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney caused to be served upon Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith a Subpoena For Records in which she was requested to produce "The original discovery deposition of Hans Mast taken in this matter on June 25, 2020 including all pages, all indexes, all exhibits and all stenographic shorthand notes."

11) Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith's complete response submitted on a flash drive was received on June 16, 2022.

12) Contained on the flash drive is a file titled HPSCANS and therein were a series of communications and handwritten notes between the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith and Noelle Kappes of US Legal Support and Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams clearly indicating that Hans Mast discovery deposition taken June 25, 2020 did not have exhibit 12 sent before the deposition nor uploaded during the deposition and said exhibit was never in the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith's possession before, during or after the deposition was taken, transcribed or submitted for transmission. (Please see Plaintiff's Group Exhibit #2 Barbara G. Smith job papers0001.pdf and job papers0002.pdf attached)

13) Thereafter, on June 21, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney sent Hans Mast's discovery deposition taken on June 25, 2020 with exhibits 1-11 and 13-15, that were located in Plaintiff's former Attorney Julia C. Williams' electronic file with exhibit 12 received from Defendants' Attorney's office on April 28, 2022 with Barbara G. Smith's flash drive to Plaintiff's S. Ct. Rule 213(f)(3) expert Robin D. Williams, MFS, MS, D-BFDE Board Certified, Omni Document Examinations for analysis.

14) On July 11, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received Robin D. Williams's Report of Findings concluding that the label on exhibit 12 did not come from the same group or batch of labels identified as exhibits 1-11 and 13-15. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #3 Robin D. Williams Report of Findings July 11, 2022 attached)

15) On July 11, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received an email from Defendants' Attorney stating that the Hans MIST EMPHASIS ADDED exhibit 12 alleged to be part of Defendant Hans Mast's discovery deposition was received separately from U.S. Legal Support by both his office and Plaintiff's former Attorney Julia Williams on July 14, 2020 while the Deposition and Exhibits 1-11 and 13-15 were received from U.S. Legal Support by both his office and Plaintiff's former Attorney Julia Williams on July 10, 2020. B) The deposition participants were not able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

B1) The following clearly indicated a problem with viewing the exhibits submitted and the Defendant's internet equipment and internet connection and audio during the attempted remote discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast:

B1.1) Q. So I'm uploading Exhibit 2, it's titled Dulberg Mast Dep Exhibit 2, and this should be the original complaint filed in the case Dulberg versus Gagnon, et al., 12 LA 178, filed in McHenry County. Do you see that document

A. Yeah. What I'm going off are an email I got with all the exhibits attached, so I'm not that's what I'm looking at.; (Please see Defendants' The Law Offices Of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. And Hans Mast's Motion Memorandum In Support Of Their Motion For Summary Judgment Exhibit G page 17 lines 3 to 10 also found on 209 of 464 previously filed.)

B1.6) Q. Okay. Okay, I'm going to stop screen sharing. Okay. I'm going to upload another file. This is Deposition Exhibit 7. George, you probably had it as Exhibit 6, but for the purpose of this deposition right now it's going to be 7 and it's an email chain dated

A. I have these on the computer. You don't need to, unless you want to, but I'm just saying I have these on the computer.

Q. Okay, but Barb needs them, so that's why I keep uploading them, otherwise she doesn't have them. Okay. So Exhibit 7, and it's POP00181 and POP00182,and it's two pages of an email chain, it starts November 15th and Hi Ms. Williams – This is Barb Smith, the court reporter from US Legal that was present at the dep of Hans Mast on 6-25-20. I am currently working on the transcript and while preparing the exhibits I noticed that Exhibit No. 12, which is the 27 pages of legal research, did not download completely. The Exhibit 12 that I have has blank pages 1-22 and only pages 23-27 have print on them. I just wanted to let you know and check if you wanted to resend or if that's how No. 12 is supposed to be.

Thank you.

Job 923267

From: Smith Family (barbnwally@att.net)

To: nkappes@uslegalsupport.com

Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2020, 09:32 PM CDT

Hi Noelle -- Hope you're doing well. I just want to let you know I submitted this job, 923267, last night. Two things I wanted to let you know about. First, this job and 925187 were both submitted last night. These are the first two I used Box for the exhibits. I hope I did them correctly. If there's any problems, please let me know.

For 923267 I have another issue. One of the exhibits, #12, was downloaded during the Zoom session. It's 27 pages and when I first looked at it I noticed that pages 1-22 were blank. I emailed Julia Williams, our client, on 7-2 about this. She responded and the message section of her email was blank. I waited for another email but received none. On 7-6 I called and left her a message and have not received a response. I did note all of this information in the email that I sent the job with.

The main reason I'm telling you all of this is that I am going to be out of town Thursday and Friday. My daughter is getting married in Arkansas so I will not be bringing my computer with me and will be quite busy. Hopefully I hear from her on Wednesday.

Thanks,

Barb

Suite 600
Northbrook, Illinois 60062

REPORT OF FINDINGS

RE: Dulberg v Popovich et al LA 377

Dear Attorney Talarico,
Pursuant to your request, I examined the following documents:
Document containing a disputed Exhibit Label
(machine copy)

Q-1 The first page of a 27-page document containing machine copies of pages from a book or books. The first line on the yellow label reads "Exhibit 12".
The label is in the bottom center of a machine copy of 2 pages. The page number in the upper left corner is 502. The center heading reads: "218 Illinois Decisions".
Dated 6-25-2020.
Some of the pages in the 27-page document are duplications of previous pages.
The page sequencing in the 27-page document is as follows: 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858.

Document(s) submitted as containing genuine Exhibit Labels
(machine copies):

K-1 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 1".
K-2 The yellow label at the top center of the document reads "Exhibit 2".
K-3 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 3".
K-4 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 4".
K-5 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 5".
K-6 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 6".
K-7 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 7".
K-8 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 8".
K-9 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 9".

EXHIBIT 3

Received 11-22-2022 08:10 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-22-2022 08:47 AM / Transaction #20395347 / Case #2017LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

K-10 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 10".
K-11 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 11".
K-13 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 13".
K-14 The yellow label at the top center of the document reads "Exhibit 14".
K-15 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 15".

Assignment

The purpose of the examination was to determine whether the yellow label that is in question on Item Q-1, also identified as Exhibit Label #12 and the labels submitted as genuine on Items K-1 through K-11 and K-13 through K-15 all originated from the same group or batch of labels.

Procedure

The examination consisted of visual and microscopic study of the font styles, the discriminating variations of letter formations, letter designs, beginnings and endings of letters, t-crossings, spelling of words and exterior and interior shapes of the labels.

Opinion

It is the opinion of this examiner that the label in question identified as Q-1, Questioned Label #12, did not come from the same group or batch of labels identified as Items K-1 through K-11 and K-13 through K-15.

Discussion

Item Q-1, Exhibit Label #12 contained a different font in all of the words on the label (except in the word "Date") and in numerals 1 and 2 as illustrated in the attached charts.

It is important to note that the name of Hans Mast was misspelled on Item Q-1, Exhibit Label #12, as "Hans Mist".

It is noteworthy that in an enlargement of the label identified as Q-1, Exhibit Label #12, is the appearance of a squared outer edge in the upper left corner of the label that can be seen. This differs from the rounded outer edges of the known labels that were used for comparison.

This examination was conducted from machine copies of the document in question and the exemplars used for comparison. I assume that they are accurate reproductions of the originals. If the original documents become available, I am requesting the opportunity to examine the original documents containing the original labels and revisit my opinion. However, I do not believe my opinion will change.

Please allow four weeks in the event that testimony will be required.

Respectfully submitted,

In re: Illinois Courts Response to COVID-19 Emergency/Impact On Discovery	)	M.R.30370

Corrected
Order

In the exercise of the general administrative and supervisory authority over the courts of Illinois conferred on this Court pursuant to Article VI, Section 16 of the Illinois Constitution of 1970 (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, sec. 16); and in view of the actions that have been taken by the Governor of the State of Illinois in response to the outbreak of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19); and consistent with the order issued by this Court on March 17, 2020,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

Effective immediately and until further order of the Court, paragraph (h) of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206 is temporarily amended as follows:

(h) Remote Electronic Means Depositions. Any party may take a deposition by telephone, videoconference, or other remote electronic means by stating in the notice the specific electronic means to be used for the deposition, subject to the right to object. For the purposes of Rule 203, Rule 205, and this rule, such a deposition is deemed taken at the place where the deponent is to answer questions. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (h), the rules governing the practice, procedures and use of depositions shall apply to remote electronic means depositions.

(1) Reserved. ~~The deponent shall be in the presence of the officer administering the oath and recording the deposition, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.~~

(2) Any exhibits or other demonstrative evidence to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition shall be provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, unless the deposition participants are able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

(3) Reserved. ~~Nothing in this paragraph (h) shall prohibit any party from being with the deponent during the deposition, at that party's expense; provided, however, that a party attending a deposition shall give written notice of that party's intention to appear at the deposition to all other parties within a reasonable time prior to the deposition.~~

(4) The party at whose instance the remote electronic means deposition is taken shall pay all costs of the remote electronic means deposition, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.

(5) Time spent at a remote electronic means deposition in addressing necessary

Paragraph (h)

Where a deponent testifies from a remote location and no neutral representative or representative of an adverse party is present in the room with the testifying deponent, care must be taken to ensure the integrity of the examination. The testifying deponent may be examined regarding the identity of all persons in the room during the testimony. Where possible, all persons in the room during the testimony should separately participate in the videoconference. In furtherance of their obligations under Illinois Rules of Professional Conduct 3.3 (Candor Toward the Tribunal), 3.4 (Fairness to Opposing Party and Counsel), and 8.4(d) (Misconduct), counsel representing a deponent should instruct the deponent that (a) he or she may not communicate with anyone during the examination other than the examining attorney or the court reporter and (b) he or she may not consult any written, printed, or electronic information during the examination other than information provided by the examining attorney. Unrepresented deponents may be similarly instructed by counsel for any party.

Committee Comments
(June 4, 2020)

Paragraph (h)(3)

Subparagraph (h)(3) has been deleted to avoid discovery disputes over physical presence by a party or a party's attorney at a remote deposition. Deletion of the subparagraph does not mean that personal presence by a party or a party's attorney is absolutely prohibited. During the pandemic not all depositions are required to proceed remotely, nor is a continuance automatically required if counsel cannot agree on a remote method. Absent agreement, the circumstances of a remote deposition are within the discretion of the trial court.

C 1666 V2

Good Morning, George,

I hope you are doing well. I would prefer to do an in-person deposition given that the client will likely want to be present and that may present some issues with a video deposition. That being said, I don't want to hold this up indefinitely.

Let's plan for the end of June. If the "stay at home" orders get extended again, we will reconsider the "in person" v "remote" deposition.

I hope you and your family are well.

I am working remotely. If you need to call—the best remote number is 312.508.3376.

Thanks,

Otherwise, perhaps we can get a live deposition on the books for some time in June. If so, I would

Hi Julia. I think June 17 will work. Just let me know the details. For the time being, I will plan on being at Hans' office for the deposition.

I am still not sure about June 5. I may attend live, but I should be able to make a decision by Tuesday.

How about touching base on Monday regarding the deposition logistics?

If you need to call, my cell is 773-341-8114.

So far so good here. I hope you and your family are doing well. Thanks

Hi George,

How is the June 16,17, or 18? If not, we should also be open the week after on Wednesday or Thursday—June 24, 25.

I anticipate this will be a video deposition, despite things opening back up, I think it is the safest route for everyone and given the Supreme Court rules, it makes sense to take advantage of the remote deposition option. Details to come on that. We can work that out and a time once we get the date nailed down.

I believe we have a June 5 status date. I believe we are encouraged to either use CourtCall or get an agreed order. I am happy to draft an agreed order setting out a date for close of oral fact discovery (f(1), f(2)) and setting the matter for further status, so we can submit it to the Judge prior to June 5 to avoid the date. Alternatively, I am also happy to appear via CourtCall if you intend to appear.

I hope you and your family are well.

Sounds like a plan. If you have a date in mind for late June, I have a feeling it will work for me. I can pass it along to Hans, so he can hold the date. Please also advise where you want to conduct the deposition.

Take care

Dear George,

Attachments available until Jul 23, 2020

I am attaching the deposition exhibits that I may use on Thursday. I don't believe there will be any additions between now and then, but if there are they will minor and I will do my best to send them ahead of time. Obviously, I may not use all of these.

I have not used US Legal or done any remote depositions so you will have to forgive any errors. My understanding is that in the video conferencing system I will be able to upload the document in Pdf or other format (I am only using PDFs), then you and the court reporter will be able to download it. The court reporter will label the exhibits and include them in the transcript after the deposition is complete. You are not required to print any of the documents—unless of course you would like to do that.

I did my best to label the exhibits in the number order that I believe I will use them. That being said, things change in depositions and they may have to be renumbered. In an effort to not make it super confusing, I used descriptive names as well.

If you have questions/concerns, please let me know. Otherwise, I will see you remotely on Thursday and we'll hope that everything goes smoothly.

OPINION

Plaintiff, Patricia Tilschner, appeals from the trial court's orders dismissing count II of her third-amended complaint and denying her motion to reconsider. Patricia claims on appeal that the trial court erred in concluding that this State has not adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965).[1] We affirm.

Patricia was injured during a party at the home of defendant Lowell Spangler when defendant Ralph Ruppel ignited fireworks. Patricia's third amended complaint contained three counts. Count

[1]Patricia raised a similar claim regarding an undifferentiated duty independent of section 318 but abandoned that argument during oral argument.

C 1682 V2

I alleged common-law negligence against Spangler. Count II alleged negligence against Spangler pursuant to section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. Count III alleged common-law negligence against Ruppel. Spangler moved to dismiss count II, pursuant to section 2—615 of the Code of Civil Procedure (735 ILCS 5/2—615 (West 2008)). The trial court granted the motion to dismiss with prejudice and denied Patricia's subsequent motion to reconsider. Patricia filed an application for leave to appeal to this court pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 308 (eff. Feb. 26, 2010), which was denied. Patricia was also denied leave to file a fourth amended complaint. She then voluntarily dismissed count I of the third amended complaint, and the trial court found no just reason to delay enforcement or appeal, pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 304(a) (eff. Feb. 26, 2010). This appeal followed.

Patricia now contends that the trial court erred in dismissing count II of her third amended complaint. When a defendant challenges the legal sufficiency of a complaint with a section 2—615 motion to dismiss, all well-pleaded facts alleged in the complaint are taken as true. King v. Senior Services Associates, Inc., 341 Ill. App. 3d 264, 266 (2003). On review of a dismissal pursuant to section 2—615, this court must determine whether the allegations of the complaint, when interpreted in the light most favorable to the plaintiff, sufficiently set forth a cause of action on which relief may be granted. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266. The motion should be granted only if the plaintiff can prove no set of facts to support her cause of action. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266. As this process does not require the trial court to weigh findings of fact or determine credibility, this court is not required to defer to the trial court's judgment, and we will review the matter de novo. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266.

To state a cause of action in negligence, a plaintiff must allege facts that establish a duty, a breach of that duty, and proximate causation. Ryan v. Yarbrough, 355 Ill. App. 3d 342, 345 (2005). Patricia alleged that Spangler:

> "[o]wed a duty to the Plaintiff and his other invited guests to keep control and care over his property and to protect them against any unreasonable risks of harm known due to acts of a third person under his control, including the Defendant, RALPH RUPPEL, pursuant to the Restatement (Second) of Torts, §318."

Section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts provides:

> "If the actor permits a third person to use land or chattels in his possession otherwise than as a servant, he is, if present, under a duty to exercise reasonable care so to control the conduct of the third person as to prevent him from intentionally harming others or from so conducting himself as to create an unreasonable risk of bodily harm to them, if the actor
> (a) knows or has reason to know that he has the ability to control the third person, and,
> (b) knows or should know of the necessity and opportunity for exercising such control." Restatement (Second) of Torts §318 (1965).

A restatement is not binding on Illinois courts unless it is adopted by our supreme court. Eckburg v. Presbytery of Blackhawk of the Presbyterian Church (USA), 396 Ill. App. 3d 164, 169 (2009); In re Estate of Lieberman, 391 Ill. App. 3d 882, 890 (2009). Thus, we must determine whether our supreme court has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts; if it has not, Spangler owed no duty to Patricia.

Citing a line of both supreme court and appellate court cases, Patricia argues that section 318 has "unquestionably" been adopted in Illinois. However, this is not the first time that this court has examined this question and concluded to the contrary. In Zimring v. Wendrow, 137 Ill. App. 3d 847, 850 (1985), this court specifically found that "[n]o Illinois case has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, upon which plaintiff relies." Ultimately, we concluded that we "need not consider" the sufficiency of the complaint in relation to section 318. Zimring, 137 Ill. App. 3d at 853. In Elizondo v. Ramirez, 324 Ill. App. 3d 67, 73 (2001), the plaintiff asserted that section 318 "has been adopted in Illinois and cite[d] two cases in support." After analyzing those cases—Cravens v. Inman, 223 Ill. App. 3d 1059 (1991), and Teter v. Clemens, 112 Ill. 2d 252 (1986)—we concluded that "it is unclear whether these cases represent the law in Illinois" (Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 73-74), and we declined to "express an opinion on whether section 318 represents the law in Illinois" (Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 74). We note with interest that Patricia cites to Elizondo but fails to mention, let alone address, this court's refusal to find that section 318 had, indeed, been adopted in this state. Patricia now argues, despite our analysis in Elizondo, that our supreme court adopted section 318 in Teter. We disagree, and we will not revisit our prior analysis and determination in Elizondo that there was no clear adoption of section 318 by our supreme court in Teter.

While Patricia does not cite to Cravens, its ultimate disposition is instructive. In Cravens, the First District of the Illinois Appellate Court found a duty and, thus, a claim for negligence, pursuant to section 318 and to Teter, in the factual scenario of adults providing alcohol to minor guests who subsequently left in an automobile and were involved in a fatal accident. However, our supreme court in Charles v. Seigfried, 165 Ill. 2d 482, 501-02 (1995), concluded that it did "not agree that the views set forth in Cravens should be adopted through judicial decision." This court noted the supreme court's refusal, in an admittedly different context, to impose liability pursuant to section 318. See Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 74.

Patricia argues that the supreme court "implicitly" adopted section 318 in Estate of Johnson v. Condell Memorial Hospital, 119 Ill. 2d 496, 503-04 (1988), in which the court stated:

> "In general, one has no duty to control the conduct of another to prevent him from causing harm to a third party (Restatement (Second) of Torts §315 (1965)), but there are exceptions to this, based on 'special relationships.' Sections 315 through 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965) describe these relationships. The 'special relationship' that the plaintiff alleges existed here that would give rise to a duty to protect another from harm is found in section 319 ***."

The court ultimately concluded, "It cannot be reasonably said, based on the complaint's allegations against Condell, that the hospital assumed a duty of care to Holt under section 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965)." Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 506-07. Patricia argues that the "clear import" of the decision "is that sections 315-319 have been adopted in Illinois." She then cites to a similar statement in Kirk v. Michael Reese Hospital & Medical Center, 117 Ill. 2d 507, 530 (1987) ("There are types of relationships that give rise to a duty to control a third party's conduct set out in sections 316 to 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965) "), to support her conclusion that the supreme court "cited with approval all of the exceptions/duties established in sections 316 through 319." Patricia is not alone in this argument. The First District of the Illinois Appellate Court has boldly stated that the supreme court has adopted sections 315 through 319. See Brewster v. Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, 361 Ill. App. 3d 32, 36-37 (2005) (citing Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503-04); Iseberg v. Gross, 366 Ill. App. 3d 857, 862 (2006) (citing only Brewster, which expressly mentions sections 315 through 319, but then mysteriously increasing the number of sections adopted, to include sections 314 through 320).

However, we first note that neither Estate of Johnson nor Kirk (nor, for that matter, Brewster nor Iseberg) involved a claimed application of section 318. Both Estate of Johnson and Kirk involved claims arising from alleged improper medical treatment of third parties who subsequently injured the plaintiffs; these claims were analyzed under section 319, which speaks to a duty of those in charge of someone having dangerous propensities. See Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503-04; Kirk, 117 Ill. 2d at 530-31. The "most relevant" section in Brewster was section 317, which addresses the duty of a master to control the conduct of his servants. Brewster, 361 Ill. App. 3d at 37; Restatement (Second) of Torts §317 (1965). In Iseberg, the plaintiff did not even allege that any of the Restatement sections applied and imposed a duty on the defendants. Iseberg, 366 Ill. App. 3d at 862.

Patricia has failed to cite, and our research has not revealed, a single case since Teter in which our supreme court has specifically addressed, or even quoted, section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. We cannot conclude that our supreme court has adopted—explicitly, implicitly, impliedly, or otherwise—a Restatement section that it has not been called upon to analyze, apply, or adopt. Even the cases upon which Patricia relies do little more than acknowledge the existence of section 318. Estate of Johnson says that sections 315 through 319 describe " 'special relationships' " that form the bases for exceptions to the general rule of section 315. Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503. Kirk merely notes that certain types of relationships set out in sections 316 through 319 give rise to a duty to control a third party's conduct, although none of the types applied there. Kirk, 117 Ill. 2d at 530. The mere citation to a cluster of sections, or even the analysis some of the nearby sections, is insufficient to establish the adoption of a restatement section.

The supreme court has addressed more thoroughly and deeply other restatement sections and specifically did not adopt them. For example, in a case examining the difference between void and voidable judgments, the supreme court compared its conclusions with those that it would have reached if the criteria of section 12 of the Restatement (Second) of Judgments were applied to the facts of the case. In re Marriage of Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d 169, 176 (1998). The court noted that the result in the case was "consistent with the trend of modern authority" as exemplified by the Restatement (Second) of Judgments. Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 175. The court then quoted section 12 of the Restatement (Second) of Judgments and applied the criteria of that section to the facts of the case. Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 176. After determining that adopting the view expressed in the Restatement would require a re-examination of existing case-law analysis, the court casually noted that "[t]he parties [did] not ask us to adopt the rule expressed in the Restatement, however, and therefore we need not decide in this case whether to take that step." Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 177. In Mitchell, the court explicitly declined to adopt a restatement section that it specifically quoted, applied to the facts of the case, analyzed, and compared to existing case law, because the parties did not ask for it. Here, Patricia cannot cite to a case wherein the court even cited to section 318, let alone provided the type of analysis that it did in dictum in Mitchell. With such meager authority, we cannot find the adoption of a restatement section.

Patricia similarly attempts to find adoption of section 318 in this court's decision in Duncan v. Rzonca, 133 Ill. App. 3d 184 (1985). Patricia's specific claim is that the Duncan court adopted section 316 of the Restatement and that, since sections 316 through 319 are "uniformly discussed together," there is "simply no logical explanation for why section 316 but not section 318 would be adopted in Illinois." We first note that this court does not have the authority to adopt a restatement section; as we have already stated, a restatement is binding on Illinois courts only if it is adopted by our supreme court. See Eckburg, 396 Ill. App. 3d at 169; Lieberman, 391 Ill. App. 3d at 890. In the absence of Illinois law, we often deem secondary sources, such as the Restatement (Second) of Torts, to be persuasive. [2] Eckburg, 396 Ill. App. 3d at 169. A restatement is a policy statement; this court does not adopt policy, it applies present law to the facts of the case before it. Further, this argument relies on the same fallacy as her prior argument: the "adoption" of a section includes the adoption of other sections "uniformly discussed together." This argument is not only a non sequitur, it is irrational as well. Duncan does not support Patricia's cause.

The restatement that we adopt today is that our supreme court has not adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. Therefore, count II of Patricia's third-amended complaint, interpreted in the light most favorable to her, fails to allege a duty recognized by our supreme court and fails to set forth a cause of action on which relief may be granted. The trial court did not err in granting Spangler's section 2—615 motion to dismiss with prejudice.

For these reasons, the judgment of the circuit court of McHenry County is affirmed.

Affirmed.

JUSTICE HUDSON, specially concurring:

I agree with much of the majority's analysis in this case as well as the result at which it arrives. However, I would prefer to refrain from making sweeping and unnecessary statements about the authority of this court. It is well established that a court should avoid constitutional questions when a case can be decided on other grounds. In re Detention of Swope, 213 Ill. 2d 210, 218 (2004); Beahringer v. Page, 204 Ill. 2d 363, 370 (2003). The scope of the authority of this court is a constitutional matter. See Belleville Toyota, Inc. v. Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 199 Ill. 2d 325, 334 (2002).

In this case, the majority rejects plaintiff's contention that this court has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, finding plaintiff's argument "irrational." Slip op. at 8. This finding should resolve this question. The majority, nevertheless, goes on to hold that this court does not have the authority to adopt a section of a restatement. It is unnecessary to consider whether this court has such authority in light of the majority's holding that nothing this court previously did would constitute an adoption of section 318. As I believe it improper to address the issue of the authority of this court, I do not join this portion of the majority's opinion.

There has been no motion practice on the issue and thus, there is no ruling. Your future counsel will need to bring that before the Judge at some point.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE TWENTY-SECOND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT

McHENRY COUNTY, ILLINOIS

PAUL DULBERG, Plaintiff, v. THE LAW OFFICE OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., and HANS MAST Defendants.	)))))) Case No. 17 LA 377)))))

PLAINTIFF'S AMENDED MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF DEFENDANT HANS MAST TA EN IN VIOLATION OF SUPREME COURT RULE REMOTE ELECTRONIC MEANS DEPOSITIONS d ORDERS OF THE ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT I r ILLINOIS COURTS RESPONSE COVID- EMERGENCY IMPACT ON DISCOVERY M R CORRECTED ORDER APRIL , d M R AMENDED ORDER JUNE , d GRANT LEAVE TO TA E THE DISCOVERY DEPOSITION OF DEFENDANT HANS MAST

Now Comes Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorney Alphonse A. Talarico, and for his Motion To Exclude the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast taken in violation of Supreme Court Rule 206 h(2) and Supreme Court Orders states as follows:

RELEVANT FACTS

1) On June 25, 2020 the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast was taken pursuant to a non-filed notice (violation waived) but all 15 exhibits and the questioning

of deponent Hans Mast based upon all 15 exhibits violated the Rules and Orders of the Illinois Supreme Court.

2) Plaintiff first learned of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition without any exhibits from Defendants' Attorney's office and the exhibits 1-11 and 13-15 from the Plaintiff's current Attorney's office. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 2 line 23-24 and page 4 line 7-9 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

3) Plaintiff's current Attorney objected to the use of the discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast during the hearing because there's exhibit(s) missing. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 31 line 21-24 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

4) Plaintiff's current Attorney more completely explained to the Court that the discovery deposition of Hans Mast in all its variations was missing exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 36 line 19-24 to page 37 line 1-3 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

5) Thereafter this Honorable Court asked Defendants' Attorney whether he had exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 37 line 19-20 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

6) The Attorney for the Defendants responded "I may. I don't know. I haven't look for it." (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 37 line 20-21 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

7) This Honorable Court ordered Defendants' Attorney to produce exhibit 12 if he has it. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 39 line 16-21 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

8) On April 28, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received an email from Defendants' Attorney's office with a link at https: www.dropbox.com to access Mast Dep Ex.12. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #1 attached)

9) Plaintiff's current Attorney noticed that the label purporting to be authentic on Hans Mast's discovery deposition exhibit 12 seemed not to match the other 14 exhibit label as to fonts, shape, color, and DEPONENT's NAME (Hans Mist not Hans Mast).

10) On May 18, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney caused to be served upon Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith a Subpoena For Records in which she was requested to produce "The original discovery deposition of Hans Mast taken in this matter on June 25, 2020 including all pages, all indexes, all exhibits and all stenographic shorthand notes."

11) Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith's complete response submitted on a flash drive was received on June 16, 2022.

12) Contained on the flash drive is a file titled HPSCANS and therein were a series of communications and handwritten notes between the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith and Noelle Kappes of US Legal Support and Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams clearly indicating that Hans Mast discovery deposition taken June 25, 2020 did not have exhibit 12 sent before the deposition nor uploaded during the deposition and said exhibit was never in the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith's possession before, during or after the deposition was taken, transcribed or submitted for transmission. (Please see Plaintiff's Group Exhibit #2 Barbara G. Smith job papers0001.pdf and job papers0002.pdf attached)

13) Thereafter, on June 21, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney sent Hans Mast's discovery deposition taken on June 25, 2020 with exhibits 1-11 and 13-15, that were located in Plaintiff's former Attorney Julia C. Williams' electronic file with exhibit 12 received from Defendants' Attorney's office on April 28, 2022 with Barbara G. Smith's flash drive to Plaintiff's S. Ct. Rule 213(f)(3) expert Robin D. Williams, MFS, MS, D-BFDE Board Certified, Omni Document Examinations for analysis.

14) On July 11, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received Robin D. Williams's Report of Findings concluding that the label on exhibit 12 did not come from the same group or batch of labels identified as exhibits 1-11 and 13-15. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #3 Robin D. Williams Report of Findings July 11, 2022 attached)

15) On July 11, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received an email from Defendants' Attorney stating that the Hans MIST EMPHASIS ADDED exhibit 12 alleged to be part of Defendant Hans Mast's discovery deposition was received separately from U.S. Legal Support by both his office and Plaintiff's former Attorney Julia Williams on July 14, 2020 while the Deposition and Exhibits 1-11 and 13-15 were received from U.S. Legal Support by both his office and Plaintiff's former Attorney Julia Williams on July 10, 2020. A. Yes.

(Please see Defendants' The Law Offices Of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. And Hans Mast's Motion Memorandum In Support Of Their Motion For Summary Judgment Exhibit G page 35 lines 5 to 20 and also found on 214 of 464 previously filed.)

B2) From this point on the transcript indicated that the deponent could not view any exhibits uploaded so that Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams was asking questions based upon her attempted uploads but the deponent Defendant Hans Mast was looking at physical documents to respond based upon the following:

B2.1) Q. Okay. So I'm going to upload another document and then we can keep going here. And then this is Exhibit 8 and for it is a letter from Ronald Barch to you, Hans, and it's POP000667. Do you dd d that

A. What date is it

Q. I'm sorry, dated November 18, 2013,

A. Yeah, I dd d that.

Hi Ms. Williams – This is Barb Smith, the court reporter from US Legal that was present at the dep of Hans Mast on 6-25-20. I am currently working on the transcript and while preparing the exhibits I noticed that Exhibit No. 12, which is the 27 pages of legal research, did not download completely. The Exhibit 12 that I have has blank pages 1-22 and only pages 23-27 have print on them. I just wanted to let you know and check if you wanted to resend or if that's how No. 12 is supposed to be.

Thank you.

Job 923267

From: Smith Family (barbnwally@att.net)

To: nkappes@uslegalsupport.com

Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2020, 09:32 PM CDT

Hi Noelle -- Hope you're doing well. I just want to let you know I submitted this job, 923267, last night. Two things I wanted to let you know about. First, this job and 925187 were both submitted last night. These are the first two I used Box for the exhibits. I hope I did them correctly. If there's any problems, please let me know.

For 923267 I have another issue. One of the exhibits, #12, was downloaded during the Zoom session. It's 27 pages and when I first looked at it I noticed that pages 1-22 were blank. I emailed Julia Williams, our client, on 7-2 about this. She responded and the message section of her email was blank. I waited for another email but received none. On 7-6 I called and left her a message and have not received a response. I did note all of this information in the email that I sent the job with.

The main reason I'm telling you all of this is that I am going to be out of town Thursday and Friday. My daughter is getting married in Arkansas so I will not be bringing my computer with me and will be quite busy. Hopefully I hear from her on Wednesday.

Thanks,

Barb

REPORT OF FINDINGS

RE: Dulberg v Popovich et al LA 377

Dear Attorney Talarico,
Pursuant to your request, I examined the following documents:
Document containing a disputed Exhibit Label
(machine copy)

Q-1 The first page of a 27-page document containing machine copies of pages from a book or books. The first line on the yellow label reads "Exhibit 12".
The label is in the bottom center of a machine copy of 2 pages. The page number in the upper left corner is 502. The center heading reads: "218 Illinois Decisions".
Dated 6-25-2020.
Some of the pages in the 27-page document are duplications of previous pages.
The page sequencing in the 27-page document is as follows: 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858.

Document(s) submitted as containing genuine Exhibit Labels
(machine copies):

K-1 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 1".
K-2 The yellow label at the top center of the document reads "Exhibit 2".
K-3 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 3".
K-4 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 4".
K-5 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 5".
K-6 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 6".
K-7 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 7".
K-8 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 8".
K-9 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 9".

EXHIBIT 3

Received 11-22-2022 08:10 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-22-2022 08:47 AM / Transaction #20395347 / Case #2017LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

K-10 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 10".
K-11 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 11".
K-13 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 13".
K-14 The yellow label at the top center of the document reads "Exhibit 14".
K-15 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 15".

Assignment

The purpose of the examination was to determine whether the yellow label that is in question on Item Q-1, also identified as Exhibit Label #12 and the labels submitted as genuine on Items K-1 through K-11 and K-13 through K-15 all originated from the same group or batch of labels.

Procedure

The examination consisted of visual and microscopic study of the font styles, the discriminating variations of letter formations, letter designs, beginnings and endings of letters, t-crossings, spelling of words and exterior and interior shapes of the labels.

Opinion

It is the opinion of this examiner that the label in question identified as Q-1, Questioned Label #12, did not come from the same group or batch of labels identified as Items K-1 through K-11 and K-13 through K-15.

Discussion

Item Q-1, Exhibit Label #12 contained a different font in all of the words on the label (except in the word "Date") and in numerals 1 and 2 as illustrated in the attached charts.

It is important to note that the name of Hans Mast was misspelled on Item Q-1, Exhibit Label #12, as "Hans Mist".

It is noteworthy that in an enlargement of the label identified as Q-1, Exhibit Label #12, is the appearance of a squared outer edge in the upper left corner of the label that can be seen. This differs from the rounded outer edges of the known labels that were used for comparison.

Received 11-22-2022 08:10 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-22-2022 08:47 AM / Transaction #20395347 / Case #2017LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

This examination was conducted from machine copies of the document in question and the exemplars used for comparison. I assume that they are accurate reproductions of the originals. If the original documents become available, I am requesting the opportunity to examine the original documents containing the original labels and revisit my opinion. However, I do not believe my opinion will change.

Please allow four weeks in the event that testimony will be required.

Respectfully submitted,

IN THE
SUPREME COURT OF ILLINOIS

In re: Illinois Courts Response to COVID-19 Emergency/Impact On Discovery	)	M.R.30370

Corrected
Order

In the exercise of the general administrative and supervisory authority over the courts of Illinois conferred on this Court pursuant to Article VI, Section 16 of the Illinois Constitution of 1970 (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, sec. 16); and in view of the actions that have been taken by the Governor of the State of Illinois in response to the outbreak of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19); and consistent with the order issued by this Court on March 17, 2020,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

Effective immediately and until further order of the Court, paragraph (h) of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206 is temporarily amended as follows:

(h) Remote Electronic Means Depositions. Any party may take a deposition by telephone, videoconference, or other remote electronic means by stating in the notice the specific electronic means to be used for the deposition, subject to the right to object. For the purposes of Rule 203, Rule 205, and this rule, such a deposition is deemed taken at the place where the deponent is to answer questions. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (h), the rules governing the practice, procedures and use of depositions shall apply to remote electronic means depositions.

(1) Reserved. ~~The deponent shall be in the presence of the officer administering the oath and recording the deposition, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.~~

(2) Any exhibits or other demonstrative evidence to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition shall be provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, unless the deposition participants are able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

(3) Reserved. ~~Nothing in this paragraph (h) shall prohibit any party from being with the deponent during the deposition, at that party's expense; provided, however, that a party attending a deposition shall give written notice of that party's intention to appear at the deposition to all other parties within a reasonable time prior to the deposition.~~

(4) The party at whose instance the remote electronic means deposition is taken shall pay all costs of the remote electronic means deposition, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.

(5) Time spent at a remote electronic means deposition in addressing necessary

Paragraph (h)

Where a deponent testifies from a remote location and no neutral representative or representative of an adverse party is present in the room with the testifying deponent, care must be taken to ensure the integrity of the examination. The testifying deponent may be examined regarding the identity of all persons in the room during the testimony. Where possible, all persons in the room during the testimony should separately participate in the videoconference. In furtherance of their obligations under Illinois Rules of Professional Conduct 3.3 (Candor Toward the Tribunal), 3.4 (Fairness to Opposing Party and Counsel), and 8.4(d) (Misconduct), counsel representing a deponent should instruct the deponent that (a) he or she may not communicate with anyone during the examination other than the examining attorney or the court reporter and (b) he or she may not consult any written, printed, or electronic information during the examination other than information provided by the examining attorney. Unrepresented deponents may be similarly instructed by counsel for any party.

Order entered by the Court.

Committee Comments
(June 4, 2020)

Paragraph (h)(3)

Subparagraph (h)(3) has been deleted to avoid discovery disputes over physical presence by a party or a party's attorney at a remote deposition. Deletion of the subparagraph does not mean that personal presence by a party or a party's attorney is absolutely prohibited. During the pandemic not all depositions are required to proceed remotely, nor is a continuance automatically required if counsel cannot agree on a remote method. Absent agreement, the circumstances of a remote deposition are within the discretion of the trial court.

Good Morning, George,

I hope you are doing well. I would prefer to do an in-person deposition given that the client will likely want to be present and that may present some issues with a video deposition. That being said, I don't want to hold this up indefinitely.

Let's plan for the end of June. If the "stay at home" orders get extended again, we will reconsider the "in person" v "remote" deposition.

I hope you and your family are well.

I am working remotely. If you need to call—the best remote number is 312.508.3376.

Otherwise, perhaps we can get a live deposition on the books for some time in June. If so, I would

Hi Julia. I think June 17 will work. Just let me know the details. For the time being, I will plan on being at Hans' office for the deposition.

I am still not sure about June 5. I may attend live, but I should be able to make a decision by Tuesday.

How about touching base on Monday regarding the deposition logistics?

If you need to call, my cell is 773-341-8114.

So far so good here. I hope you and your family are doing well. Thanks

Hi George,

How is the June 16,17, or 18? If not, we should also be open the week after on Wednesday or Thursday—June 24, 25.

I anticipate this will be a video deposition, despite things opening back up, I think it is the safest route for everyone and given the Supreme Court rules, it makes sense to take advantage of the remote deposition option. Details to come on that. We can work that out and a time once we get the date nailed down.

I believe we have a June 5 status date. I believe we are encouraged to either use CourtCall or get an agreed order. I am happy to draft an agreed order setting out a date for close of oral fact discovery (f(1), f(2)) and setting the matter for further status, so we can submit it to the Judge prior to June 5 to avoid the date. Alternatively, I am also happy to appear via CourtCall if you intend to appear.

I hope you and your family are well.

Dear George,

Attachments available until Jul 23, 2020

I am attaching the deposition exhibits that I may use on Thursday. I don't believe there will be any additions between now and then, but if there are they will minor and I will do my best to send them ahead of time. Obviously, I may not use all of these.

I have not used US Legal or done any remote depositions so you will have to forgive any errors. My understanding is that in the video conferencing system I will be able to upload the document in Pdf or other format (I am only using PDFs), then you and the court reporter will be able to download it. The court reporter will label the exhibits and include them in the transcript after the deposition is complete. You are not required to print any of the documents—unless of course you would like to do that.

I did my best to label the exhibits in the number order that I believe I will use them. That being said, things change in depositions and they may have to be renumbered. In an effort to not make it super confusing, I used descriptive names as well.

If you have questions/concerns, please let me know. Otherwise, I will see you remotely on Thursday and we'll hope that everything goes smoothly.

Best Regards,

Julia Williams

Defendants-Appellees.	)	Judge, Presiding.

JUSTICE McLAREN delivered the judgment of the court, with opinion.
Justice Hutchinson concurred in the judgment and opinion.
Justice Hudson specially concurred in the judgment, with opinion.

OPINION

Plaintiff, Patricia Tilschner, appeals from the trial court's orders dismissing count II of her third-amended complaint and denying her motion to reconsider. Patricia claims on appeal that the trial court erred in concluding that this State has not adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965).[1] We affirm.

Patricia was injured during a party at the home of defendant Lowell Spangler when defendant Ralph Ruppel ignited fireworks. Patricia's third amended complaint contained three counts. Count

[1]Patricia raised a similar claim regarding an undifferentiated duty independent of section 318 but abandoned that argument during oral argument.

I alleged common-law negligence against Spangler. Count II alleged negligence against Spangler pursuant to section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. Count III alleged common-law negligence against Ruppel. Spangler moved to dismiss count II, pursuant to section 2—615 of the Code of Civil Procedure (735 ILCS 5/2—615 (West 2008)). The trial court granted the motion to dismiss with prejudice and denied Patricia's subsequent motion to reconsider. Patricia filed an application for leave to appeal to this court pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 308 (eff. Feb. 26, 2010), which was denied. Patricia was also denied leave to file a fourth amended complaint. She then voluntarily dismissed count I of the third amended complaint, and the trial court found no just reason to delay enforcement or appeal, pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 304(a) (eff. Feb. 26, 2010). This appeal followed.

Patricia now contends that the trial court erred in dismissing count II of her third amended complaint. When a defendant challenges the legal sufficiency of a complaint with a section 2—615 motion to dismiss, all well-pleaded facts alleged in the complaint are taken as true. King v. Senior Services Associates, Inc., 341 Ill. App. 3d 264, 266 (2003). On review of a dismissal pursuant to section 2—615, this court must determine whether the allegations of the complaint, when interpreted in the light most favorable to the plaintiff, sufficiently set forth a cause of action on which relief may be granted. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266. The motion should be granted only if the plaintiff can prove no set of facts to support her cause of action. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266. As this process does not require the trial court to weigh findings of fact or determine credibility, this court is not required to defer to the trial court's judgment, and we will review the matter de novo. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266.

To state a cause of action in negligence, a plaintiff must allege facts that establish a duty, a breach of that duty, and proximate causation. Ryan v. Yarbrough, 355 Ill. App. 3d 342, 345 (2005). Patricia alleged that Spangler:

> "[o]wed a duty to the Plaintiff and his other invited guests to keep control and care over his property and to protect them against any unreasonable risks of harm known due to acts of a third person under his control, including the Defendant, RALPH RUPPEL, pursuant to the Restatement (Second) of Torts, §318."

Section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts provides:

> "If the actor permits a third person to use land or chattels in his possession otherwise than as a servant, he is, if present, under a duty to exercise reasonable care so to control the conduct of the third person as to prevent him from intentionally harming others or from so conducting himself as to create an unreasonable risk of bodily harm to them, if the actor
> (a) knows or has reason to know that he has the ability to control the third person, and,
> (b) knows or should know of the necessity and opportunity for exercising such control." Restatement (Second) of Torts §318 (1965).

A restatement is not binding on Illinois courts unless it is adopted by our supreme court. Eckburg v. Presbytery of Blackhawk of the Presbyterian Church (USA), 396 Ill. App. 3d 164, 169 (2009); In re Estate of Lieberman, 391 Ill. App. 3d 882, 890 (2009). Thus, we must determine whether our supreme court has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts; if it has not, Spangler owed no duty to Patricia.

Citing a line of both supreme court and appellate court cases, Patricia argues that section 318 has "unquestionably" been adopted in Illinois. However, this is not the first time that this court has examined this question and concluded to the contrary. In Zimring v. Wendrow, 137 Ill. App. 3d 847, 850 (1985), this court specifically found that "[n]o Illinois case has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, upon which plaintiff relies." Ultimately, we concluded that we "need not consider" the sufficiency of the complaint in relation to section 318. Zimring, 137 Ill. App. 3d at 853. In Elizondo v. Ramirez, 324 Ill. App. 3d 67, 73 (2001), the plaintiff asserted that section 318 "has been adopted in Illinois and cite[d] two cases in support." After analyzing those cases—Cravens v. Inman, 223 Ill. App. 3d 1059 (1991), and Teter v. Clemens, 112 Ill. 2d 252 (1986)—we concluded that "it is unclear whether these cases represent the law in Illinois" (Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 73-74), and we declined to "express an opinion on whether section 318 represents the law in Illinois" (Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 74). We note with interest that Patricia cites to Elizondo but fails to mention, let alone address, this court's refusal to find that section 318 had, indeed, been adopted in this state. Patricia now argues, despite our analysis in Elizondo, that our supreme court adopted section 318 in Teter. We disagree, and we will not revisit our prior analysis and determination in Elizondo that there was no clear adoption of section 318 by our supreme court in Teter.

While Patricia does not cite to Cravens, its ultimate disposition is instructive. In Cravens, the First District of the Illinois Appellate Court found a duty and, thus, a claim for negligence, pursuant to section 318 and to Teter, in the factual scenario of adults providing alcohol to minor guests who subsequently left in an automobile and were involved in a fatal accident. However, our supreme court in Charles v. Seigfried, 165 Ill. 2d 482, 501-02 (1995), concluded that it did "not agree that the views set forth in Cravens should be adopted through judicial decision." This court noted the supreme court's refusal, in an admittedly different context, to impose liability pursuant to section 318. See Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 74.

Patricia argues that the supreme court "implicitly" adopted section 318 in Estate of Johnson v. Condell Memorial Hospital, 119 Ill. 2d 496, 503-04 (1988), in which the court stated:

> "In general, one has no duty to control the conduct of another to prevent him from causing harm to a third party (Restatement (Second) of Torts §315 (1965)), but there are exceptions to this, based on 'special relationships.' Sections 315 through 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965) describe these relationships. The 'special relationship' that the plaintiff alleges existed here that would give rise to a duty to protect another from harm is found in section 319 ***."

The court ultimately concluded, "It cannot be reasonably said, based on the complaint's allegations against Condell, that the hospital assumed a duty of care to Holt under section 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965)." Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 506-07. Patricia argues that the "clear import" of the decision "is that sections 315-319 have been adopted in Illinois." She then cites to a similar statement in Kirk v. Michael Reese Hospital & Medical Center, 117 Ill. 2d 507, 530 (1987) ("There are types of relationships that give rise to a duty to control a third party's conduct set out in sections 316 to 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965) "), to support her conclusion that the supreme court "cited with approval all of the exceptions/duties established in sections 316 through 319." Patricia is not alone in this argument. The First District of the Illinois Appellate Court has boldly stated that the supreme court has adopted sections 315 through 319. See Brewster v. Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, 361 Ill. App. 3d 32, 36-37 (2005) (citing Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503-04); Iseberg v. Gross, 366 Ill. App. 3d 857, 862 (2006) (citing only Brewster, which expressly mentions sections 315 through 319, but then mysteriously increasing the number of sections adopted, to include sections 314 through 320).

Received 11-22-2022 08:10 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-22-2022 08:47 AM / Transaction #20395347 / Case #2017LA000377

However, we first note that neither Estate of Johnson nor Kirk (nor, for that matter, Brewster nor Iseberg) involved a claimed application of section 318. Both Estate of Johnson and Kirk involved claims arising from alleged improper medical treatment of third parties who subsequently injured the plaintiffs; these claims were analyzed under section 319, which speaks to a duty of those in charge of someone having dangerous propensities. See Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503-04; Kirk, 117 Ill. 2d at 530-31. The "most relevant" section in Brewster was section 317, which addresses the duty of a master to control the conduct of his servants. Brewster, 361 Ill. App. 3d at 37; Restatement (Second) of Torts §317 (1965). In Iseberg, the plaintiff did not even allege that any of the Restatement sections applied and imposed a duty on the defendants. Iseberg, 366 Ill. App. 3d at 862.

Patricia has failed to cite, and our research has not revealed, a single case since Teter in which our supreme court has specifically addressed, or even quoted, section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. We cannot conclude that our supreme court has adopted—explicitly, implicitly, impliedly, or otherwise—a Restatement section that it has not been called upon to analyze, apply, or adopt. Even the cases upon which Patricia relies do little more than acknowledge the existence of section 318. Estate of Johnson says that sections 315 through 319 describe " 'special relationships' " that form the bases for exceptions to the general rule of section 315. Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503. Kirk merely notes that certain types of relationships set out in sections 316 through 319 give rise to a duty to control a third party's conduct, although none of the types applied there. Kirk, 117 Ill. 2d at 530. The mere citation to a cluster of sections, or even the analysis some of the nearby sections, is insufficient to establish the adoption of a restatement section.

The supreme court has addressed more thoroughly and deeply other restatement sections and specifically did not adopt them. For example, in a case examining the difference between void and voidable judgments, the supreme court compared its conclusions with those that it would have reached if the criteria of section 12 of the Restatement (Second) of Judgments were applied to the facts of the case. In re Marriage of Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d 169, 176 (1998). The court noted that the result in the case was "consistent with the trend of modern authority" as exemplified by the Restatement (Second) of Judgments. Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 175. The court then quoted section 12 of the Restatement (Second) of Judgments and applied the criteria of that section to the facts of the case. Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 176. After determining that adopting the view expressed in the Restatement would require a re-examination of existing case-law analysis, the court casually noted that "[t]he parties [did] not ask us to adopt the rule expressed in the Restatement, however, and therefore we need not decide in this case whether to take that step." Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 177. In Mitchell, the court explicitly declined to adopt a restatement section that it specifically quoted, applied to the facts of the case, analyzed, and compared to existing case law, because the parties did not ask for it. Here, Patricia cannot cite to a case wherein the court even cited to section 318, let alone provided the type of analysis that it did in dictum in Mitchell. With such meager authority, we cannot find the adoption of a restatement section.

Patricia similarly attempts to find adoption of section 318 in this court's decision in Duncan v. Rzonca, 133 Ill. App. 3d 184 (1985). Patricia's specific claim is that the Duncan court adopted section 316 of the Restatement and that, since sections 316 through 319 are "uniformly discussed together," there is "simply no logical explanation for why section 316 but not section 318 would be adopted in Illinois." We first note that this court does not have the authority to adopt a restatement section; as we have already stated, a restatement is binding on Illinois courts only if it is adopted by our supreme court. See Eckburg, 396 Ill. App. 3d at 169; Lieberman, 391 Ill. App. 3d at 890. In the absence of Illinois law, we often deem secondary sources, such as the Restatement (Second) of Torts, to be persuasive. [2] Eckburg, 396 Ill. App. 3d at 169. A restatement is a policy statement; this court does not adopt policy, it applies present law to the facts of the case before it. Further, this argument relies on the same fallacy as her prior argument: the "adoption" of a section includes the adoption of other sections "uniformly discussed together." This argument is not only a non sequitur, it is irrational as well. Duncan does not support Patricia's cause.

The restatement that we adopt today is that our supreme court has not adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. Therefore, count II of Patricia's third-amended complaint, interpreted in the light most favorable to her, fails to allege a duty recognized by our supreme court and fails to set forth a cause of action on which relief may be granted. The trial court did not err in granting Spangler's section 2—615 motion to dismiss with prejudice.

[2]"A secondary source is not the law. It's a commentary on the law. A secondary source can be used for three different purposes: it might educate you about the law, it might direct you to the primary law, or it might serve as persuasive authority. Few sources do all three jobs well. The important classes of legal secondary sources include: treatises, periodical articles, legal encyclopedias, ALR Annotations, Restatements, and Looseleaf services. ***

Restatements

The restatements were developed by legal scholars initially to restate the law, and currently to describe what the law should be. In either case, Restatements are very persuasive although they are not very good at describing the law. They can serve as adequate law finders." For these reasons, the judgment of the circuit court of McHenry County is affirmed.

Affirmed.

JUSTICE HUDSON, specially concurring:

I agree with much of the majority's analysis in this case as well as the result at which it arrives. However, I would prefer to refrain from making sweeping and unnecessary statements about the authority of this court. It is well established that a court should avoid constitutional questions when a case can be decided on other grounds. In re Detention of Swope, 213 Ill. 2d 210, 218 (2004); Beahringer v. Page, 204 Ill. 2d 363, 370 (2003). The scope of the authority of this court is a constitutional matter. See Belleville Toyota, Inc. v. Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 199 Ill. 2d 325, 334 (2002).

In this case, the majority rejects plaintiff's contention that this court has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, finding plaintiff's argument "irrational." Slip op. at 8. This finding should resolve this question. The majority, nevertheless, goes on to hold that this court does not have the authority to adopt a section of a restatement. It is unnecessary to consider whether this court has such authority in light of the majority's holding that nothing this court previously did would constitute an adoption of section 318. As I believe it improper to address the issue of the authority of this court, I do not join this portion of the majority's opinion.

There has been no motion practice on the issue and thus, there is no ruling. Your future counsel will need to bring that before the Judge at some point.

Now Comes Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorney Alphonse A. Talarico, and for his Motion To Exclude the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast taken in violation of Supreme Court Rule 206 h(2) and Supreme Court Orders states as follows:

RELEVANT FACTS

1) On June 25, 2020 the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast was taken pursuant to a non-filed notice (violation waived) but all 15 exhibits and the questioning of deponent Hans Mast based upon all 15 exhibits violated the Rules and Orders of the Illinois Supreme Court.

2) Plaintiff first learned of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition without any exhibits from Defendants' Attorney's office and the exhibits 1-11 and 13-15 from the Plaintiff's current Attorney's office. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 2 line 23-24 and page 4 line 7-9 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

3) Plaintiff's current Attorney objected to the use of the discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast during the hearing because there's exhibit(s) missing. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 31 line 21-24 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

4) Plaintiff's current Attorney more completely explained to the Court that the discovery deposition of Hans Mast in all its variations was missing exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 36 line 19-24 to page 37 line 1-3 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

5) Thereafter this Honorable Court asked Defendants' Attorney whether he had exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 37 line 19-20 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

6) The Attorney for the Defendants responded "I may. I don't know. I haven't look for it." (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 37 line 20-21 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

7) This Honorable Court ordered Defendants' Attorney to produce exhibit 12 if he has it. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 39 line 16-21 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

8) On April 28, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received an email from Defendants' Attorney's office with a link at https: www.dropbox.com to access Mast Dep Ex.12. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #1 attached)

9) Plaintiff's current Attorney noticed that the label purporting to be authentic on Hans Mast's discovery deposition exhibit 12 seemed not to match the other 14 exhibit label as to fonts, shape, color, and DEPONENT's NAME (Hans Mist not Hans Mast).

10) On May 18, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney caused to be served upon Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith a Subpoena For Records in which she was requested to produce "The original discovery deposition of Hans Mast taken in this matter on June 25, 2020 including all pages, all indexes, all exhibits and all stenographic shorthand notes."

11) Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith's complete response submitted on a flash drive was received on June 16, 2022.

12) Contained on the flash drive is a file titled HPSCANS and therein were a series of communications and handwritten notes between the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith and Noelle Kappes of US Legal Support and Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams clearly indicating that Hans Mast discovery deposition taken June 25, 2020 did not have exhibit 12 sent before the deposition nor uploaded during the deposition and said exhibit was never in the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. 13) Thereafter, on June 21, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney sent Hans Mast's discovery deposition taken on June 25, 2020 with exhibits 1-11 and 13-15, that were located in Plaintiff's former Attorney Julia C. Williams' electronic file with exhibit 12 received from Defendants' Attorney's office on April 28, 2022 with Barbara G. Smith's flash drive to Plaintiff's S. Ct. Rule 213(f)(3) expert Robin D. Williams, MFS, MS, D-BFDE Board Certified, Omni Document Examinations for analysis.

14) On July 11, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received Robin D. Williams's Report of Findings concluding that the label on exhibit 12 did not come from the same group or batch of labels identified as exhibits 1-11 and 13-15. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #3 Robin D. Williams Report of Findings July 11, 2022 attached)

15) On July 11, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received an email from Defendants' Attorney stating that the Hans MIST EMPHASIS ADDED exhibit 12 alleged to be part of Defendant Hans Mast's discovery deposition was received separately from U.S. Legal Support by both his office and Plaintiff's former Attorney Julia Williams on July 14, 2020 while the Deposition and Exhibits 1-11 and 13-15 were received from U.S. Legal Support by both his office and Plaintiff's former Attorney Julia Williams on July 10, 2020. B) The deposition participants were not able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

B1) The following clearly indicated a problem with viewing the exhibits submitted and the Defendant's internet equipment and internet connection and audio during the attempted remote discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast:

B1.1) Q. So I'm uploading Exhibit 2, it's titled Dulberg Mast Dep Exhibit 2, and this should be the original complaint filed in the case Dulberg versus Gagnon, et al., 12 LA 178, filed in McHenry County. Do you see that document

A. Yeah. What I'm going off are an email I got with all the exhibits attached, so I'm not that's what I'm looking at.; (Please see Defendants' The Law Offices Of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. And Hans Mast's Motion Memorandum In Support Of Their Motion For Summary Judgment Exhibit G page 17 lines 3 to 10 also found on 209 of 464 previously filed.)

B1.2) Q. Okay.

A. Oh, uh, I think It just kicked me off.

Mr. Flynn: I got disconnected, too. It's the Wi-Fi.

By Ms. Williams:

Q. Okay, we'll just wait a minute here.

A. I can hear you. I just can't see you. Q. We'll wait a minute until you can get your video back on.

Mr. Flynn: Julia, we think the Wi-Fi may have dropped r c dd d

Ms. Williams: Okay. Well, let's just give a minute and see.; (Please see Defendants'

B1.3) Q. Okay. I just uploaded Dulberg Mast Exhibit 4 and it says letter it's "Letter Re Settlement," and that should be still be Exhibit 4 that was emailed around to Counsel so that you would have it. And it is labeled POP192 and POP193. Do you recogni e those documents

A. Wait. I think the Internet, maybe because we were having problems, is the Internet went down, so now my exhibits aren't pulling up. Can you try again Do you have that, George

Mr. Flynn: Yeah, here's the rd c dd d

The Witness: I'll look at the rd c dd d , so what are you asking B1.4) Q. Okay. Just uploaded Exhibit 5, and this is email dated October 30, 2013, and it's marked at the bottom 000195.

A. Okay.

Q. Okay, and here in this email it looks like you started this email chain to Paul on October 25, 2013. Do you see that

A. It looks like there s a couple emails here. There's several pages. You just mean the first page B1.5) Q. Okay. So I'm going to upload another file here.

A. Yeah, our internet is down. That's why I can't bring these up.

Q. Okay.

Mr. Flynn: Julia, just so you know, I've got hard copies of the majority of the exhibits you sent with the exception of the larger files, like the insurance policy and the dep transcripts.

MS. Williams: Okay. Okay, great.

Mr. Flynn: I've got some of the deposition transcripts, but I didn't want to waste a lot of paper and ink at home.

Q. Okay. So the document that I'm looking at now is another email on the it's now titled Exhibit 6. I don't think it was entitled Exhibit 6 in what I sent to George, but it's an email that the first date on the email is November 4, 2013, and the last date is November 5, 2013 email chain and it's at the bottom it's stamped Dulberg001531.

A. What exhibit is it

Q. I think it might have been -A dd d to George. It's now exhibit 6 for the purpose of this deposition. (Please note that there never was an exhibit marked 5-A)

A. Yeah, that wasn't part of the download then. Do you have

B1.6) Q. Okay. Okay, I'm going to stop screen sharing. Okay. I'm going to upload another file. This is Deposition Exhibit 7. George, you probably had it as Exhibit 6, but for the purpose of this deposition right now it's going to be 7 and it's an email chain dated

A. I have these on the computer. You don't need to, unless you want to, but I'm just saying I have these on the computer.

Q. Okay, but Barb needs them, so that's why I keep uploading them, otherwise she doesn't have them. Okay. So Exhibit 7, and it's POP00181 and POP00182,and it's two pages of an email chain, it starts November 15th and

B2) From this point on the transcript indicated that the deponent could not view any exhibits uploaded so that Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams was asking questions based upon her attempted uploads but the deponent Defendant Hans Mast was looking at physical documents to respond based upon the following:

B2.1) Q. Okay. So I'm going to upload another document and then we can keep going here. And then this is Exhibit 8 and for it is a letter from Ronald Barch to you, Hans, and it's POP000667. Do you dd d that

Hi Ms. Williams – This is Barb Smith, the court reporter from US Legal that was present at the dep of Hans Mast on 6-25-20. I am currently working on the transcript and while preparing the exhibits I noticed that Exhibit No. 12, which is the 27 pages of legal research, did not download completely. The Exhibit 12 that I have has blank pages 1-22 and only pages 23-27 have print on them. I just wanted to let you know and check if you wanted to resend or if that's how No. 12 is supposed to be.

Thank you.

Job 923267

From: Smith Family (barbnwally@att.net)

To: nkappes@uslegalsupport.com

Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2020, 09:32 PM CDT

Hi Noelle -- Hope you're doing well. I just want to let you know I submitted this job, 923267, last night. Two things I wanted to let you know about. First, this job and 925187 were both submitted last night. These are the first two I used Box for the exhibits. I hope I did them correctly. If there's any problems, please let me know.

For 923267 I have another issue. One of the exhibits, #12, was downloaded during the Zoom session. It's 27 pages and when I first looked at it I noticed that pages 1-22 were blank. I emailed Julia Williams, our client, on 7-2 about this. She responded and the message section of her email was blank. I waited for another email but received none. On 7-6 I called and left her a message and have not received a response. I did note all of this information in the email that I sent the job with.

The main reason I'm telling you all of this is that I am going to be out of town Thursday and Friday. My daughter is getting married in Arkansas so I will not be bringing my computer with me and will be quite busy. Hopefully I hear from her on Wednesday.

Thanks,

Barb

REPORT OF FINDINGS

RE: Dulberg v Popovich et al LA 377

Dear Attorney Talarico,
Pursuant to your request, I examined the following documents:
Document containing a disputed Exhibit Label
(machine copy)

Q-1 The first page of a 27-page document containing machine copies of pages from a book or books. The first line on the yellow label reads "Exhibit 12".
The label is in the bottom center of a machine copy of 2 pages. The page number in the upper left corner is 502. The center heading reads: "218 Illinois Decisions".
Dated 6-25-2020.
Some of the pages in the 27-page document are duplications of previous pages.
The page sequencing in the 27-page document is as follows: 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858.

Document(s) submitted as containing genuine Exhibit Labels
(machine copies):

K-1 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 1".
K-2 The yellow label at the top center of the document reads "Exhibit 2".
K-3 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 3".
K-4 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 4".
K-5 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 5".
K-6 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 6".
K-7 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 7".
K-8 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 8".
K-9 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 9".

EXHIBIT 3

Received 11-23-2022 12:30 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-23-2022 01:35 PM / Transaction #20425983 / Case #2017LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

K-10 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 10".
K-11 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 11".
K-13 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 13".
K-14 The yellow label at the top center of the document reads "Exhibit 14".
K-15 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 15".

Assignment

The purpose of the examination was to determine whether the yellow label that is in question on Item Q-1, also identified as Exhibit Label #12 and the labels submitted as genuine on Items K-1 through K-11 and K-13 through K-15 all originated from the same group or batch of labels.

Procedure

The examination consisted of visual and microscopic study of the font styles, the discriminating variations of letter formations, letter designs, beginnings and endings of letters, t-crossings, spelling of words and exterior and interior shapes of the labels.

Opinion

It is the opinion of this examiner that the label in question identified as Q-1, Questioned Label #12, did not come from the same group or batch of labels identified as Items K-1 through K-11 and K-13 through K-15.

Discussion

Item Q-1, Exhibit Label #12 contained a different font in all of the words on the label (except in the word "Date") and in numerals 1 and 2 as illustrated in the attached charts.

It is important to note that the name of Hans Mast was misspelled on Item Q-1, Exhibit Label #12, as "Hans Mist".

It is noteworthy that in an enlargement of the label identified as Q-1, Exhibit Label #12, is the appearance of a squared outer edge in the upper left corner of the label that can be seen. This differs from the rounded outer edges of the known labels that were used for comparison.

This examination was conducted from machine copies of the document in question and the exemplars used for comparison. I assume that they are accurate reproductions of the originals. If the original documents become available, I am requesting the opportunity to examine the original documents containing the original labels and revisit my opinion. However, I do not believe my opinion will change.

Please allow four weeks in the event that testimony will be required.

Respectfully submitted,

IN THE
SUPREME COURT OF ILLINOIS

In re: Illinois Courts Response to COVID-19 Emergency/Impact On Discovery	)	M.R.30370

Corrected
Order

In the exercise of the general administrative and supervisory authority over the courts of Illinois conferred on this Court pursuant to Article VI, Section 16 of the Illinois Constitution of 1970 (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, sec. 16); and in view of the actions that have been taken by the Governor of the State of Illinois in response to the outbreak of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19); and consistent with the order issued by this Court on March 17, 2020,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

Effective immediately and until further order of the Court, paragraph (h) of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206 is temporarily amended as follows:

(h) Remote Electronic Means Depositions. Any party may take a deposition by telephone, videoconference, or other remote electronic means by stating in the notice the specific electronic means to be used for the deposition, subject to the right to object. For the purposes of Rule 203, Rule 205, and this rule, such a deposition is deemed taken at the place where the deponent is to answer questions. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (h), the rules governing the practice, procedures and use of depositions shall apply to remote electronic means depositions.

(1) Reserved. ~~The deponent shall be in the presence of the officer administering the oath and recording the deposition, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.~~

(2) Any exhibits or other demonstrative evidence to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition shall be provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, unless the deposition participants are able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

(3) Reserved. ~~Nothing in this paragraph (h) shall prohibit any party from being with the deponent during the deposition, at that party's expense; provided, however, that a party attending a deposition shall give written notice of that party's intention to appear at the deposition to all other parties within a reasonable time prior to the deposition.~~

(4) The party at whose instance the remote electronic means deposition is taken shall pay all costs of the remote electronic means deposition, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.

(5) Time spent at a remote electronic means deposition in addressing necessary

Paragraph (h)

Where a deponent testifies from a remote location and no neutral representative or representative of an adverse party is present in the room with the testifying deponent, care must be taken to ensure the integrity of the examination. The testifying deponent may be examined regarding the identity of all persons in the room during the testimony. Where possible, all persons in the room during the testimony should separately participate in the videoconference. In furtherance of their obligations under Illinois Rules of Professional Conduct 3.3 (Candor Toward the Tribunal), 3.4 (Fairness to Opposing Party and Counsel), and 8.4(d) (Misconduct), counsel representing a deponent should instruct the deponent that (a) he or she may not communicate with anyone during the examination other than the examining attorney or the court reporter and (b) he or she may not consult any written, printed, or electronic information during the examination other than information provided by the examining attorney. Unrepresented deponents may be similarly instructed by counsel for any party.

Committee Comments
(June 4, 2020)

Paragraph (h)(3)

Subparagraph (h)(3) has been deleted to avoid discovery disputes over physical presence by a party or a party's attorney at a remote deposition. Deletion of the subparagraph does not mean that personal presence by a party or a party's attorney is absolutely prohibited. During the pandemic not all depositions are required to proceed remotely, nor is a continuance automatically required if counsel cannot agree on a remote method. Absent agreement, the circumstances of a remote deposition are within the discretion of the trial court.

Order entered by the Court.

Good Morning, George,

I hope you are doing well. I would prefer to do an in-person deposition given that the client will likely want to be present and that may present some issues with a video deposition. That being said, I don't want to hold this up indefinitely.

Let's plan for the end of June. If the "stay at home" orders get extended again, we will reconsider the "in person" v "remote" deposition.

I hope you and your family are well.

I am working remotely. If you need to call—the best remote number is 312.508.3376.

The recent temporary amendment to Rule 206 (facilitating depositions during the Covid crisis), prompted me to touch base and inquire whether you may want to consider attempting to depose Hans Mast remotely in the 2nd half of May.

Otherwise, perhaps we can get a live deposition on the books for some time in June. If so, I would

Hi Julia. I think June 17 will work. Just let me know the details. For the time being, I will plan on being at Hans' office for the deposition.

I am still not sure about June 5. I may attend live, but I should be able to make a decision by Tuesday.

How about touching base on Monday regarding the deposition logistics?

If you need to call, my cell is 773-341-8114.

So far so good here. I hope you and your family are doing well. Thanks

Subject: Re: Dulberg v. Popovich

Hi George,

How is the June 16,17, or 18? If not, we should also be open the week after on Wednesday or Thursday—June 24, 25.

I anticipate this will be a video deposition, despite things opening back up, I think it is the safest route for everyone and given the Supreme Court rules, it makes sense to take advantage of the remote deposition option. Details to come on that. We can work that out and a time once we get the date nailed down.

I believe we have a June 5 status date. I believe we are encouraged to either use CourtCall or get an agreed order. I am happy to draft an agreed order setting out a date for close of oral fact discovery (f(1), f(2)) and setting the matter for further status, so we can submit it to the Judge prior to June 5 to avoid the date. Alternatively, I am also happy to appear via CourtCall if you intend to appear.

I hope you and your family are well.

Thanks Julia. So far so good here.

Sounds like a plan. If you have a date in mind for late June, I have a feeling it will work for me. I can pass it along to Hans, so he can hold the date. Please also advise where you want to conduct the deposition.

Take care

Dear George,

Attachments available until Jul 23, 2020

I am attaching the deposition exhibits that I may use on Thursday. I don't believe there will be any additions between now and then, but if there are they will minor and I will do my best to send them ahead of time. Obviously, I may not use all of these.

I have not used US Legal or done any remote depositions so you will have to forgive any errors. My understanding is that in the video conferencing system I will be able to upload the document in Pdf or other format (I am only using PDFs), then you and the court reporter will be able to download it. The court reporter will label the exhibits and include them in the transcript after the deposition is complete. You are not required to print any of the documents—unless of course you would like to do that.

I did my best to label the exhibits in the number order that I believe I will use them. That being said, things change in depositions and they may have to be renumbered. In an effort to not make it super confusing, I used descriptive names as well.

If you have questions/concerns, please let me know. Otherwise, I will see you remotely on Thursday and we'll hope that everything goes smoothly.

Best Regards,

APPELLATE COURT OF ILLINOIS

SECOND DISTRICT

PATRICIA TILSCHNER,	)	Appeal from the Circuit Court
	)	of McHenry County.

Defendants-Appellees.	)	Judge, Presiding.

JUSTICE McLAREN delivered the judgment of the court, with opinion.
Justice Hutchinson concurred in the judgment and opinion.
Justice Hudson specially concurred in the judgment, with opinion.

OPINION

Plaintiff, Patricia Tilschner, appeals from the trial court's orders dismissing count II of her third-amended complaint and denying her motion to reconsider. Patricia claims on appeal that the trial court erred in concluding that this State has not adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965).[1] We affirm.

Patricia was injured during a party at the home of defendant Lowell Spangler when defendant Ralph Ruppel ignited fireworks. Patricia's third amended complaint contained three counts. Count

[1]Patricia raised a similar claim regarding an undifferentiated duty independent of section 318 but abandoned that argument during oral argument.

I alleged common-law negligence against Spangler. Count II alleged negligence against Spangler pursuant to section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. Count III alleged common-law negligence against Ruppel. Spangler moved to dismiss count II, pursuant to section 2—615 of the Code of Civil Procedure (735 ILCS 5/2—615 (West 2008)). The trial court granted the motion to dismiss with prejudice and denied Patricia's subsequent motion to reconsider. Patricia filed an application for leave to appeal to this court pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 308 (eff. Feb. 26, 2010), which was denied. Patricia was also denied leave to file a fourth amended complaint. She then voluntarily dismissed count I of the third amended complaint, and the trial court found no just reason to delay enforcement or appeal, pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 304(a) (eff. Feb. 26, 2010). This appeal followed.

Patricia now contends that the trial court erred in dismissing count II of her third amended complaint. When a defendant challenges the legal sufficiency of a complaint with a section 2—615 motion to dismiss, all well-pleaded facts alleged in the complaint are taken as true. King v. Senior Services Associates, Inc., 341 Ill. App. 3d 264, 266 (2003). On review of a dismissal pursuant to section 2—615, this court must determine whether the allegations of the complaint, when interpreted in the light most favorable to the plaintiff, sufficiently set forth a cause of action on which relief may be granted. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266. The motion should be granted only if the plaintiff can prove no set of facts to support her cause of action. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266. As this process does not require the trial court to weigh findings of fact or determine credibility, this court is not required to defer to the trial court's judgment, and we will review the matter de novo. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266.

To state a cause of action in negligence, a plaintiff must allege facts that establish a duty, a breach of that duty, and proximate causation. Ryan v. Yarbrough, 355 Ill. App. 3d 342, 345 (2005). Patricia alleged that Spangler:

> "[o]wed a duty to the Plaintiff and his other invited guests to keep control and care over his property and to protect them against any unreasonable risks of harm known due to acts of a third person under his control, including the Defendant, RALPH RUPPEL, pursuant to the Restatement (Second) of Torts, §318."

Section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts provides:

> "If the actor permits a third person to use land or chattels in his possession otherwise than as a servant, he is, if present, under a duty to exercise reasonable care so to control the conduct of the third person as to prevent him from intentionally harming others or from so conducting himself as to create an unreasonable risk of bodily harm to them, if the actor
> (a) knows or has reason to know that he has the ability to control the third person, and,
> (b) knows or should know of the necessity and opportunity for exercising such control." Restatement (Second) of Torts §318 (1965).

A restatement is not binding on Illinois courts unless it is adopted by our supreme court. Eckburg v. Presbytery of Blackhawk of the Presbyterian Church (USA), 396 Ill. App. 3d 164, 169 (2009); In re Estate of Lieberman, 391 Ill. App. 3d 882, 890 (2009). Thus, we must determine whether our supreme court has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts; if it has not, Spangler owed no duty to Patricia.

Citing a line of both supreme court and appellate court cases, Patricia argues that section 318 has "unquestionably" been adopted in Illinois. However, this is not the first time that this court has examined this question and concluded to the contrary. In Zimring v. Wendrow, 137 Ill. App. 3d 847, 850 (1985), this court specifically found that "[n]o Illinois case has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, upon which plaintiff relies." Ultimately, we concluded that we "need not consider" the sufficiency of the complaint in relation to section 318. Zimring, 137 Ill. App. 3d at 853. In Elizondo v. Ramirez, 324 Ill. App. 3d 67, 73 (2001), the plaintiff asserted that section 318 "has been adopted in Illinois and cite[d] two cases in support." After analyzing those cases—Cravens v. Inman, 223 Ill. App. 3d 1059 (1991), and Teter v. Clemens, 112 Ill. 2d 252 (1986)—we concluded that "it is unclear whether these cases represent the law in Illinois" (Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 73-74), and we declined to "express an opinion on whether section 318 represents the law in Illinois" (Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 74). We note with interest that Patricia cites to Elizondo but fails to mention, let alone address, this court's refusal to find that section 318 had, indeed, been adopted in this state. Patricia now argues, despite our analysis in Elizondo, that our supreme court adopted section 318 in Teter. We disagree, and we will not revisit our prior analysis and determination in Elizondo that there was no clear adoption of section 318 by our supreme court in Teter.

While Patricia does not cite to Cravens, its ultimate disposition is instructive. In Cravens, the First District of the Illinois Appellate Court found a duty and, thus, a claim for negligence, pursuant to section 318 and to Teter, in the factual scenario of adults providing alcohol to minor guests who subsequently left in an automobile and were involved in a fatal accident. However, our supreme court in Charles v. Seigfried, 165 Ill. 2d 482, 501-02 (1995), concluded that it did "not agree that the views set forth in Cravens should be adopted through judicial decision." This court noted the supreme court's refusal, in an admittedly different context, to impose liability pursuant to section 318. See Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 74.

Patricia argues that the supreme court "implicitly" adopted section 318 in Estate of Johnson v. Condell Memorial Hospital, 119 Ill. 2d 496, 503-04 (1988), in which the court stated:

> "In general, one has no duty to control the conduct of another to prevent him from causing harm to a third party (Restatement (Second) of Torts §315 (1965)), but there are exceptions to this, based on 'special relationships.' Sections 315 through 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965) describe these relationships. The 'special relationship' that the plaintiff alleges existed here that would give rise to a duty to protect another from harm is found in section 319 ***."

The court ultimately concluded, "It cannot be reasonably said, based on the complaint's allegations against Condell, that the hospital assumed a duty of care to Holt under section 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965)." Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 506-07. Patricia argues that the "clear import" of the decision "is that sections 315-319 have been adopted in Illinois." She then cites to a similar statement in Kirk v. Michael Reese Hospital & Medical Center, 117 Ill. 2d 507, 530 (1987) ("There are types of relationships that give rise to a duty to control a third party's conduct set out in sections 316 to 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965) "), to support her conclusion that the supreme court "cited with approval all of the exceptions/duties established in sections 316 through 319." Patricia is not alone in this argument. The First District of the Illinois Appellate Court has boldly stated that the supreme court has adopted sections 315 through 319. See Brewster v. Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, 361 Ill. App. 3d 32, 36-37 (2005) (citing Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503-04); Iseberg v. Gross, 366 Ill. App. 3d 857, 862 (2006) (citing only Brewster, which expressly mentions sections 315 through 319, but then mysteriously increasing the number of sections adopted, to include sections 314 through 320).

However, we first note that neither Estate of Johnson nor Kirk (nor, for that matter, Brewster nor Iseberg) involved a claimed application of section 318. Both Estate of Johnson and Kirk involved claims arising from alleged improper medical treatment of third parties who subsequently injured the plaintiffs; these claims were analyzed under section 319, which speaks to a duty of those in charge of someone having dangerous propensities. See Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503-04; Kirk, 117 Ill. 2d at 530-31. The "most relevant" section in Brewster was section 317, which addresses the duty of a master to control the conduct of his servants. Brewster, 361 Ill. App. 3d at 37; Restatement (Second) of Torts §317 (1965). In Iseberg, the plaintiff did not even allege that any of the Restatement sections applied and imposed a duty on the defendants. Iseberg, 366 Ill. App. 3d at 862.

Patricia has failed to cite, and our research has not revealed, a single case since Teter in which our supreme court has specifically addressed, or even quoted, section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. We cannot conclude that our supreme court has adopted—explicitly, implicitly, impliedly, or otherwise—a Restatement section that it has not been called upon to analyze, apply, or adopt. Even the cases upon which Patricia relies do little more than acknowledge the existence of section 318. Estate of Johnson says that sections 315 through 319 describe " 'special relationships' " that form the bases for exceptions to the general rule of section 315. Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503. Kirk merely notes that certain types of relationships set out in sections 316 through 319 give rise to a duty to control a third party's conduct, although none of the types applied there. Kirk, 117 Ill. 2d at 530. The mere citation to a cluster of sections, or even the analysis some of the nearby sections, is insufficient to establish the adoption of a restatement section.

The supreme court has addressed more thoroughly and deeply other restatement sections and specifically did not adopt them. For example, in a case examining the difference between void and voidable judgments, the supreme court compared its conclusions with those that it would have reached if the criteria of section 12 of the Restatement (Second) of Judgments were applied to the facts of the case. In re Marriage of Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d 169, 176 (1998). The court noted that the result in the case was "consistent with the trend of modern authority" as exemplified by the Restatement (Second) of Judgments. Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 175. The court then quoted section 12 of the Restatement (Second) of Judgments and applied the criteria of that section to the facts of the case. Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 176. After determining that adopting the view expressed in the Restatement would require a re-examination of existing case-law analysis, the court casually noted that "[t]he parties [did] not ask us to adopt the rule expressed in the Restatement, however, and therefore we need not decide in this case whether to take that step." Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 177. In Mitchell, the court explicitly declined to adopt a restatement section that it specifically quoted, applied to the facts of the case, analyzed, and compared to existing case law, because the parties did not ask for it. Here, Patricia cannot cite to a case wherein the court even cited to section 318, let alone provided the type of analysis that it did in dictum in Mitchell. With such meager authority, we cannot find the adoption of a restatement section.

Patricia similarly attempts to find adoption of section 318 in this court's decision in Duncan v. Rzonca, 133 Ill. App. 3d 184 (1985). Patricia's specific claim is that the Duncan court adopted section 316 of the Restatement and that, since sections 316 through 319 are "uniformly discussed together," there is "simply no logical explanation for why section 316 but not section 318 would be adopted in Illinois." We first note that this court does not have the authority to adopt a restatement section; as we have already stated, a restatement is binding on Illinois courts only if it is adopted by our supreme court. See Eckburg, 396 Ill. App. 3d at 169; Lieberman, 391 Ill. App. 3d at 890. In the absence of Illinois law, we often deem secondary sources, such as the Restatement (Second) of Torts, to be persuasive. [2] Eckburg, 396 Ill. App. 3d at 169. A restatement is a policy statement; this court does not adopt policy, it applies present law to the facts of the case before it. Further, this argument relies on the same fallacy as her prior argument: the "adoption" of a section includes the adoption of other sections "uniformly discussed together." This argument is not only a non sequitur, it is irrational as well. Duncan does not support Patricia's cause.

The restatement that we adopt today is that our supreme court has not adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. Therefore, count II of Patricia's third-amended complaint, interpreted in the light most favorable to her, fails to allege a duty recognized by our supreme court and fails to set forth a cause of action on which relief may be granted. The trial court did not err in granting Spangler's section 2—615 motion to dismiss with prejudice.

For these reasons, the judgment of the circuit court of McHenry County is affirmed.

Affirmed.

JUSTICE HUDSON, specially concurring:

I agree with much of the majority's analysis in this case as well as the result at which it arrives. However, I would prefer to refrain from making sweeping and unnecessary statements about the authority of this court. It is well established that a court should avoid constitutional questions when a case can be decided on other grounds. In re Detention of Swope, 213 Ill. 2d 210, 218 (2004); Beahringer v. Page, 204 Ill. 2d 363, 370 (2003). The scope of the authority of this court is a constitutional matter. See Belleville Toyota, Inc. v. Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 199 Ill. 2d 325, 334 (2002).

In this case, the majority rejects plaintiff's contention that this court has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, finding plaintiff's argument "irrational." Slip op. at 8. This finding should resolve this question. The majority, nevertheless, goes on to hold that this court does not have the authority to adopt a section of a restatement. It is unnecessary to consider whether this court has such authority in light of the majority's holding that nothing this court previously did would constitute an adoption of section 318. As I believe it improper to address the issue of the authority of this court, I do not join this portion of the majority's opinion.

Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition without any exhibits from Defendants' Attorney's office and the exhibits 1-11 and 13-15 from the Plaintiff's current Attorney's office. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 2 line 23-24 and page 4 line 7-9 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

3) Plaintiff's current Attorney objected to the use of the discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast during the hearing because there's exhibit(s) missing. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 31 line 21-24 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

4) Plaintiff's current Attorney more completely explained to the Court that the discovery deposition of Hans Mast in all its variations was missing exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 36 line 19-24 to page 37 line 1-3 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

5) Thereafter this Honorable Court asked Defendants' Attorney whether he had exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 37 line 19-20 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

6) The Attorney for the Defendants responded "I may. I don't know. I haven't look for it." (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 37 line 20-21 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

7) This Honorable Court ordered Defendants' Attorney to produce exhibit 12 if he has it. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 39 line 16-21 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

8) On April 28, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received an email from Defendants' Attorney's office with a link at https: www.dropbox.com to access Mast Dep Ex.12. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #1 attached)

9) Plaintiff's current Attorney noticed that the label purporting to be authentic on Hans Mast's discovery deposition exhibit 12 seemed not to match the other 14 exhibit label as to fonts, shape, color, and DEPONENT's NAME (Hans Mist not Hans Mast).

10) On May 18, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney caused to be served upon Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith a Subpoena For Records in which she was requested to produce "The original discovery deposition of Hans Mast taken in this matter on June 25, 2020 including all pages, all indexes, all exhibits and all stenographic shorthand notes."

11) Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith's complete response submitted on a flash drive was received on June 16, 2022.

12) Contained on the flash drive is a file titled HPSCANS and therein were a series of communications and handwritten notes between the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith and Noelle Kappes of US Legal Support and Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams clearly indicating that Hans Mast discovery deposition taken June 25, 2020 did not have exhibit 12 sent before the deposition nor uploaded during the deposition and said exhibit was never in the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Hi Ms. Williams – This is Barb Smith, the court reporter from US Legal that was present at the dep of Hans Mast on 6-25-20. I am currently working on the transcript and while preparing the exhibits I noticed that Exhibit No. 12, which is the 27 pages of legal research, did not download completely. The Exhibit 12 that I have has blank pages 1-22 and only pages 23-27 have print on them. I just wanted to let you know and check if you wanted to resend or if that's how No. 12 is supposed to be.

Thank you.

Job 923267

From: Smith Family (barbnwally@att.net)

To: nkappes@uslegalsupport.com

Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2020, 09:32 PM CDT

Hi Noelle -- Hope you're doing well. I just want to let you know I submitted this job, 923267, last night. Two things I wanted to let you know about. First, this job and 925187 were both submitted last night. These are the first two I used Box for the exhibits. I hope I did them correctly. If there's any problems, please let me know.

For 923267 I have another issue. One of the exhibits, #12, was downloaded during the Zoom session. It's 27 pages and when I first looked at it I noticed that pages 1-22 were blank. I emailed Julia Williams, our client, on 7-2 about this. She responded and the message section of her email was blank. I waited for another email but received none. On 7-6 I called and left her a message and have not received a response. I did note all of this information in the email that I sent the job with.

The main reason I'm telling you all of this is that I am going to be out of town Thursday and Friday. My daughter is getting married in Arkansas so I will not be bringing my computer with me and will be quite busy. Hopefully I hear from her on Wednesday.

Thanks,

Barb

REPORT OF FINDINGS

RE: Dulberg v Popovich et al LA 377

Dear Attorney Talarico,
Pursuant to your request, I examined the following documents:
Document containing a disputed Exhibit Label
(machine copy)

Q-1 The first page of a 27-page document containing machine copies of pages from a book or books. The first line on the yellow label reads "Exhibit 12".
The label is in the bottom center of a machine copy of 2 pages. The page number in the upper left corner is 502. The center heading reads: "218 Illinois Decisions".
Dated 6-25-2020.
Some of the pages in the 27-page document are duplications of previous pages.
The page sequencing in the 27-page document is as follows: 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858.

Document(s) submitted as containing genuine Exhibit Labels
(machine copies):

K-1 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 1".
K-2 The yellow label at the top center of the document reads "Exhibit 2".
K-3 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 3".
K-4 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 4".
K-5 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 5".
K-6 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 6".
K-7 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 7".
K-8 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 8".
K-9 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 9".

EXHIBIT 3

Received 11-23-2022 12:30 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-23-2022 01:35 PM / Transaction #20425983 / Case #2017LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

K-10 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 10".
K-11 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 11".
K-13 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 13".
K-14 The yellow label at the top center of the document reads "Exhibit 14".
K-15 The yellow label at the bottom right of the document reads "Exhibit 15".

Assignment

The purpose of the examination was to determine whether the yellow label that is in question on Item Q-1, also identified as Exhibit Label #12 and the labels submitted as genuine on Items K-1 through K-11 and K-13 through K-15 all originated from the same group or batch of labels.

Procedure

The examination consisted of visual and microscopic study of the font styles, the discriminating variations of letter formations, letter designs, beginnings and endings of letters, t-crossings, spelling of words and exterior and interior shapes of the labels.

Opinion

It is the opinion of this examiner that the label in question identified as Q-1, Questioned Label #12, did not come from the same group or batch of labels identified as Items K-1 through K-11 and K-13 through K-15.

Discussion

Item Q-1, Exhibit Label #12 contained a different font in all of the words on the label (except in the word "Date") and in numerals 1 and 2 as illustrated in the attached charts.

It is important to note that the name of Hans Mast was misspelled on Item Q-1, Exhibit Label #12, as "Hans Mist".

It is noteworthy that in an enlargement of the label identified as Q-1, Exhibit Label #12, is the appearance of a squared outer edge in the upper left corner of the label that can be seen. This differs from the rounded outer edges of the known labels that were used for comparison.

This examination was conducted from machine copies of the document in question and the exemplars used for comparison. I assume that they are accurate reproductions of the originals. If the original documents become available, I am requesting the opportunity to examine the original documents containing the original labels and revisit my opinion. However, I do not believe my opinion will change.

Please allow four weeks in the event that testimony will be required.

IN THE
SUPREME COURT OF ILLINOIS

In re: Illinois Courts Response to COVID-19 Emergency/Impact On Discovery	)	M.R.30370

Corrected
Order

In the exercise of the general administrative and supervisory authority over the courts of Illinois conferred on this Court pursuant to Article VI, Section 16 of the Illinois Constitution of 1970 (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, sec. 16); and in view of the actions that have been taken by the Governor of the State of Illinois in response to the outbreak of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19); and consistent with the order issued by this Court on March 17, 2020,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

Effective immediately and until further order of the Court, paragraph (h) of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206 is temporarily amended as follows:

(h) Remote Electronic Means Depositions. Any party may take a deposition by telephone, videoconference, or other remote electronic means by stating in the notice the specific electronic means to be used for the deposition, subject to the right to object. For the purposes of Rule 203, Rule 205, and this rule, such a deposition is deemed taken at the place where the deponent is to answer questions. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (h), the rules governing the practice, procedures and use of depositions shall apply to remote electronic means depositions.

(1) Reserved. ~~The deponent shall be in the presence of the officer administering the oath and recording the deposition, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.~~

(2) Any exhibits or other demonstrative evidence to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition shall be provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, unless the deposition participants are able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

(3) Reserved. ~~Nothing in this paragraph (h) shall prohibit any party from being with the deponent during the deposition, at that party's expense; provided, however, that a party attending a deposition shall give written notice of that party's intention to appear at the deposition to all other parties within a reasonable time prior to the deposition.~~

(4) The party at whose instance the remote electronic means deposition is taken shall pay all costs of the remote electronic means deposition, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.

(5) Time spent at a remote electronic means deposition in addressing necessary

Paragraph (h)

Where a deponent testifies from a remote location and no neutral representative or representative of an adverse party is present in the room with the testifying deponent, care must be taken to ensure the integrity of the examination. The testifying deponent may be examined regarding the identity of all persons in the room during the testimony. Where possible, all persons in the room during the testimony should separately participate in the videoconference. In furtherance of their obligations under Illinois Rules of Professional Conduct 3.3 (Candor Toward the Tribunal), 3.4 (Fairness to Opposing Party and Counsel), and 8.4(d) (Misconduct), counsel representing a deponent should instruct the deponent that (a) he or she may not communicate with anyone during the examination other than the examining attorney or the court reporter and (b) he or she may not consult any written, printed, or electronic information during the examination other than information provided by the examining attorney. Unrepresented deponents may be similarly instructed by counsel for any party.

Committee Comments
(June 4, 2020)

Paragraph (h)(3)

Subparagraph (h)(3) has been deleted to avoid discovery disputes over physical presence by a party or a party's attorney at a remote deposition. Deletion of the subparagraph does not mean that personal presence by a party or a party's attorney is absolutely prohibited. During the pandemic not all depositions are required to proceed remotely, nor is a continuance automatically required if counsel cannot agree on a remote method. Absent agreement, the circumstances of a remote deposition are within the discretion of the trial court.

Order entered by the Court.

C 1882 V2

Good Morning, George,

I hope you are doing well. I would prefer to do an in-person deposition given that the client will likely want to be present and that may present some issues with a video deposition. That being said, I don't want to hold this up indefinitely.

Let's plan for the end of June. If the "stay at home" orders get extended again, we will reconsider the "in person" v "remote" deposition.

I hope you and your family are well.

I am working remotely. If you need to call—the best remote number is 312.508.3376.

Thanks,

The recent temporary amendment to Rule 206 (facilitating depositions during the Covid crisis), prompted me to touch base and inquire whether you may want to consider attempting to depose Hans Mast remotely in the 2nd half of May.

Otherwise, perhaps we can get a live deposition on the books for some time in June. If so, I would suggest the 2nd half of June.

Let me know what you think

Hi Julia. I think June 17 will work. Just let me know the details. For the time being, I will plan on being at Hans' office for the deposition.

I am still not sure about June 5. I may attend live, but I should be able to make a decision by Tuesday.

How about touching base on Monday regarding the deposition logistics?

If you need to call, my cell is 773-341-8114.

So far so good here. I hope you and your family are doing well. Thanks

Hi George,

How is the June 16,17, or 18? If not, we should also be open the week after on Wednesday or Thursday—June 24, 25.

I anticipate this will be a video deposition, despite things opening back up, I think it is the safest route for everyone and given the Supreme Court rules, it makes sense to take advantage of the remote deposition option. Details to come on that. We can work that out and a time once we get the date nailed down.

I believe we have a June 5 status date. I believe we are encouraged to either use CourtCall or get an agreed order. I am happy to draft an agreed order setting out a date for close of oral fact discovery (f(1), f(2)) and setting the matter for further status, so we can submit it to the Judge prior to June 5 to avoid the date. Alternatively, I am also happy to appear via CourtCall if you intend to appear.

I hope you and your family are well.

Dear George,

Attachments available until Jul 23, 2020

I am attaching the deposition exhibits that I may use on Thursday. I don't believe there will be any additions between now and then, but if there are they will minor and I will do my best to send them ahead of time. Obviously, I may not use all of these.

I have not used US Legal or done any remote depositions so you will have to forgive any errors. My understanding is that in the video conferencing system I will be able to upload the document in Pdf or other format (I am only using PDFs), then you and the court reporter will be able to download it. The court reporter will label the exhibits and include them in the transcript after the deposition is complete. You are not required to print any of the documents—unless of course you would like to do that.

I did my best to label the exhibits in the number order that I believe I will use them. That being said, things change in depositions and they may have to be renumbered. In an effort to not make it super confusing, I used descriptive names as well.

If you have questions/concerns, please let me know. Otherwise, I will see you remotely on Thursday and we'll hope that everything goes smoothly.

Justice Hudson specially concurred in the judgment, with opinion.

OPINION

Plaintiff, Patricia Tilschner, appeals from the trial court's orders dismissing count II of her third-amended complaint and denying her motion to reconsider. Patricia claims on appeal that the trial court erred in concluding that this State has not adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965).[1] We affirm.

Patricia was injured during a party at the home of defendant Lowell Spangler when defendant Ralph Ruppel ignited fireworks. Patricia's third amended complaint contained three counts. Count

[1]Patricia raised a similar claim regarding an undifferentiated duty independent of section 318 but abandoned that argument during oral argument.

I alleged common-law negligence against Spangler. Count II alleged negligence against Spangler pursuant to section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. Count III alleged common-law negligence against Ruppel. Spangler moved to dismiss count II, pursuant to section 2—615 of the Code of Civil Procedure (735 ILCS 5/2—615 (West 2008)). The trial court granted the motion to dismiss with prejudice and denied Patricia's subsequent motion to reconsider. Patricia filed an application for leave to appeal to this court pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 308 (eff. Feb. 26, 2010), which was denied. Patricia was also denied leave to file a fourth amended complaint. She then voluntarily dismissed count I of the third amended complaint, and the trial court found no just reason to delay enforcement or appeal, pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 304(a) (eff. Feb. 26, 2010). This appeal followed.

Patricia now contends that the trial court erred in dismissing count II of her third amended complaint. When a defendant challenges the legal sufficiency of a complaint with a section 2—615 motion to dismiss, all well-pleaded facts alleged in the complaint are taken as true. King v. Senior Services Associates, Inc., 341 Ill. App. 3d 264, 266 (2003). On review of a dismissal pursuant to section 2—615, this court must determine whether the allegations of the complaint, when interpreted in the light most favorable to the plaintiff, sufficiently set forth a cause of action on which relief may be granted. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266. The motion should be granted only if the plaintiff can prove no set of facts to support her cause of action. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266. As this process does not require the trial court to weigh findings of fact or determine credibility, this court is not required to defer to the trial court's judgment, and we will review the matter de novo. King, 341 Ill. App. 3d at 266.

To state a cause of action in negligence, a plaintiff must allege facts that establish a duty, a breach of that duty, and proximate causation. Ryan v. Yarbrough, 355 Ill. App. 3d 342, 345 (2005). Patricia alleged that Spangler:

> "[o]wed a duty to the Plaintiff and his other invited guests to keep control and care over his property and to protect them against any unreasonable risks of harm known due to acts of a third person under his control, including the Defendant, RALPH RUPPEL, pursuant to the Restatement (Second) of Torts, §318."

Section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts provides:

> "If the actor permits a third person to use land or chattels in his possession otherwise than as a servant, he is, if present, under a duty to exercise reasonable care so to control the conduct of the third person as to prevent him from intentionally harming others or from so conducting himself as to create an unreasonable risk of bodily harm to them, if the actor
> (a) knows or has reason to know that he has the ability to control the third person, and,
> (b) knows or should know of the necessity and opportunity for exercising such control." Restatement (Second) of Torts §318 (1965).

A restatement is not binding on Illinois courts unless it is adopted by our supreme court. Eckburg v. Presbytery of Blackhawk of the Presbyterian Church (USA), 396 Ill. App. 3d 164, 169 (2009); In re Estate of Lieberman, 391 Ill. App. 3d 882, 890 (2009). Thus, we must determine whether our supreme court has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts; if it has not, Spangler owed no duty to Patricia.

Citing a line of both supreme court and appellate court cases, Patricia argues that section 318 has "unquestionably" been adopted in Illinois. However, this is not the first time that this court has examined this question and concluded to the contrary. In Zimring v. Wendrow, 137 Ill. App. 3d 847, 850 (1985), this court specifically found that "[n]o Illinois case has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, upon which plaintiff relies." Ultimately, we concluded that we "need not consider" the sufficiency of the complaint in relation to section 318. Zimring, 137 Ill. App. 3d at 853. In Elizondo v. Ramirez, 324 Ill. App. 3d 67, 73 (2001), the plaintiff asserted that section 318 "has been adopted in Illinois and cite[d] two cases in support." After analyzing those cases—Cravens v. Inman, 223 Ill. App. 3d 1059 (1991), and Teter v. Clemens, 112 Ill. 2d 252 (1986)—we concluded that "it is unclear whether these cases represent the law in Illinois" (Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 73-74), and we declined to "express an opinion on whether section 318 represents the law in Illinois" (Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 74). We note with interest that Patricia cites to Elizondo but fails to mention, let alone address, this court's refusal to find that section 318 had, indeed, been adopted in this state. Patricia now argues, despite our analysis in Elizondo, that our supreme court adopted section 318 in Teter. We disagree, and we will not revisit our prior analysis and determination in Elizondo that there was no clear adoption of section 318 by our supreme court in Teter.

While Patricia does not cite to Cravens, its ultimate disposition is instructive. In Cravens, the First District of the Illinois Appellate Court found a duty and, thus, a claim for negligence, pursuant to section 318 and to Teter, in the factual scenario of adults providing alcohol to minor guests who subsequently left in an automobile and were involved in a fatal accident. However, our supreme court in Charles v. Seigfried, 165 Ill. 2d 482, 501-02 (1995), concluded that it did "not agree that the views set forth in Cravens should be adopted through judicial decision." This court noted the supreme court's refusal, in an admittedly different context, to impose liability pursuant to section 318. See Elizondo, 324 Ill. App. 3d at 74.

Patricia argues that the supreme court "implicitly" adopted section 318 in Estate of Johnson v. Condell Memorial Hospital, 119 Ill. 2d 496, 503-04 (1988), in which the court stated:

> "In general, one has no duty to control the conduct of another to prevent him from causing harm to a third party (Restatement (Second) of Torts §315 (1965)), but there are exceptions to this, based on 'special relationships.' Sections 315 through 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965) describe these relationships. The 'special relationship' that the plaintiff alleges existed here that would give rise to a duty to protect another from harm is found in section 319 ***."

The court ultimately concluded, "It cannot be reasonably said, based on the complaint's allegations against Condell, that the hospital assumed a duty of care to Holt under section 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965)." Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 506-07. Patricia argues that the "clear import" of the decision "is that sections 315-319 have been adopted in Illinois." She then cites to a similar statement in Kirk v. Michael Reese Hospital & Medical Center, 117 Ill. 2d 507, 530 (1987) ("There are types of relationships that give rise to a duty to control a third party's conduct set out in sections 316 to 319 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965) "), to support her conclusion that the supreme court "cited with approval all of the exceptions/duties established in sections 316 through 319." Patricia is not alone in this argument. The First District of the Illinois Appellate Court has boldly stated that the supreme court has adopted sections 315 through 319. See Brewster v. Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, 361 Ill. App. 3d 32, 36-37 (2005) (citing Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503-04); Iseberg v. Gross, 366 Ill. App. 3d 857, 862 (2006) (citing only Brewster, which expressly mentions sections 315 through 319, but then mysteriously increasing the number of sections adopted, to include sections 314 through 320).

However, we first note that neither Estate of Johnson nor Kirk (nor, for that matter, Brewster nor Iseberg) involved a claimed application of section 318. Both Estate of Johnson and Kirk involved claims arising from alleged improper medical treatment of third parties who subsequently injured the plaintiffs; these claims were analyzed under section 319, which speaks to a duty of those in charge of someone having dangerous propensities. See Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503-04; Kirk, 117 Ill. 2d at 530-31. The "most relevant" section in Brewster was section 317, which addresses the duty of a master to control the conduct of his servants. Brewster, 361 Ill. App. 3d at 37; Restatement (Second) of Torts §317 (1965). In Iseberg, the plaintiff did not even allege that any of the Restatement sections applied and imposed a duty on the defendants. Iseberg, 366 Ill. App. 3d at 862.

Patricia has failed to cite, and our research has not revealed, a single case since Teter in which our supreme court has specifically addressed, or even quoted, section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. We cannot conclude that our supreme court has adopted—explicitly, implicitly, impliedly, or otherwise—a Restatement section that it has not been called upon to analyze, apply, or adopt. Even the cases upon which Patricia relies do little more than acknowledge the existence of section 318. Estate of Johnson says that sections 315 through 319 describe " 'special relationships' " that form the bases for exceptions to the general rule of section 315. Estate of Johnson, 119 Ill. 2d at 503. Kirk merely notes that certain types of relationships set out in sections 316 through 319 give rise to a duty to control a third party's conduct, although none of the types applied there. Kirk, 117 Ill. 2d at 530. The mere citation to a cluster of sections, or even the analysis some of the nearby sections, is insufficient to establish the adoption of a restatement section.

The supreme court has addressed more thoroughly and deeply other restatement sections and specifically did not adopt them. For example, in a case examining the difference between void and voidable judgments, the supreme court compared its conclusions with those that it would have reached if the criteria of section 12 of the Restatement (Second) of Judgments were applied to the facts of the case. In re Marriage of Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d 169, 176 (1998). The court noted that the result in the case was "consistent with the trend of modern authority" as exemplified by the Restatement (Second) of Judgments. Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 175. The court then quoted section 12 of the Restatement (Second) of Judgments and applied the criteria of that section to the facts of the case. Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 176. After determining that adopting the view expressed in the Restatement would require a re-examination of existing case-law analysis, the court casually noted that "[t]he parties [did] not ask us to adopt the rule expressed in the Restatement, however, and therefore we need not decide in this case whether to take that step." Mitchell, 181 Ill. 2d at 177. In Mitchell, the court explicitly declined to adopt a restatement section that it specifically quoted, applied to the facts of the case, analyzed, and compared to existing case law, because the parties did not ask for it. Here, Patricia cannot cite to a case wherein the court even cited to section 318, let alone provided the type of analysis that it did in dictum in Mitchell. With such meager authority, we cannot find the adoption of a restatement section.

Patricia similarly attempts to find adoption of section 318 in this court's decision in Duncan v. Rzonca, 133 Ill. App. 3d 184 (1985). Patricia's specific claim is that the Duncan court adopted section 316 of the Restatement and that, since sections 316 through 319 are "uniformly discussed together," there is "simply no logical explanation for why section 316 but not section 318 would be adopted in Illinois." We first note that this court does not have the authority to adopt a restatement section; as we have already stated, a restatement is binding on Illinois courts only if it is adopted by our supreme court. See Eckburg, 396 Ill. App. 3d at 169; Lieberman, 391 Ill. App. 3d at 890. In the absence of Illinois law, we often deem secondary sources, such as the Restatement (Second) of Torts, to be persuasive. [2] Eckburg, 396 Ill. App. 3d at 169. A restatement is a policy statement; this court does not adopt policy, it applies present law to the facts of the case before it. Further, this argument relies on the same fallacy as her prior argument: the "adoption" of a section includes the adoption of other sections "uniformly discussed together." This argument is not only a non sequitur, it is irrational as well. Duncan does not support Patricia's cause.

The restatement that we adopt today is that our supreme court has not adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts. Therefore, count II of Patricia's third-amended complaint, interpreted in the light most favorable to her, fails to allege a duty recognized by our supreme court and fails to set forth a cause of action on which relief may be granted. The trial court did not err in granting Spangler's section 2—615 motion to dismiss with prejudice.

For these reasons, the judgment of the circuit court of McHenry County is affirmed.

Affirmed.

JUSTICE HUDSON, specially concurring:

I agree with much of the majority's analysis in this case as well as the result at which it arrives. However, I would prefer to refrain from making sweeping and unnecessary statements about the authority of this court. It is well established that a court should avoid constitutional questions when a case can be decided on other grounds. In re Detention of Swope, 213 Ill. 2d 210, 218 (2004); Beahringer v. Page, 204 Ill. 2d 363, 370 (2003). The scope of the authority of this court is a constitutional matter. See Belleville Toyota, Inc. v. Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 199 Ill. 2d 325, 334 (2002).

In this case, the majority rejects plaintiff's contention that this court has adopted section 318 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, finding plaintiff's argument "irrational." Slip op. at 8. This finding should resolve this question. The majority, nevertheless, goes on to hold that this court does not have the authority to adopt a section of a restatement. It is unnecessary to consider whether this court has such authority in light of the majority's holding that nothing this court previously did would constitute an adoption of section 318. As I believe it improper to address the issue of the authority of this court, I do not join this portion of the majority's opinion.

There has been no motion practice on the issue and thus, there is no ruling. Your future counsel will need to bring that before the Judge at some point.

DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S MOTION TO ENFORCE THE COURT'S NOVEMBER 9, 2022 ORDER AND COMPEL PLAINTIFF TO PRODUCE UNREDACTED COPIES OF SUBPOENAED RECORDS

Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast (collectively "Popovich"), by and through their attorneys, Karbal, Cohen, Economou, Silk & Dunne, LLC, and for their Motion to Enforce the Court's November 9, 2022 order and Compel Plaintiff to Produce Unredacted Copies of Subpoenaed Records, state as follows:

1) On November 9, 2022, this honorable court ruled on a most unusual motion. In summary, the court was asked by Plaintiff to order his prior counsel in this instant case, to produce documents (including communications between Dulberg and his prior counsel), which were subpoenaed by Dulberg through his current counsel.

2) Following a lengthy hearing in which Dulberg's prior attorneys Julia Williams and Edward Clinton Jr. appeared, the court entered its order, Exhibit 1. In paragraph 3 of the order, the court ruled that "Plaintiff Paul Dulberg hereby waives privilege on a limited basis with respect to attorney client communications and attorney work product to permit compliance with the subpoenas served upon Julia Williams and Edward X. Clinton Jr."

Received 11-29-2022 03:57 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-29-2022 04:12 PM / Transaction #20471817 / Case #2017LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL
C 1913 V2

3) At pages 7-8 of the transcript of hearing from November 4, 2022, Dulberg's counsel clearly waived the work product privilege and attorney client privilege. (Ex. 2). His counsel stated: "Again your Honor, Mr. Dulberg is specifically waiving the attorney/client privilege for documents that are in response to the subpoena served upon Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams." (Ex. 2, page 7 lines 22 to p. 8 line 1).

4) Paragraph 4 of the order required Williams and Clinton to "produce documents bates stamped as Dulberg Clinton Subpoena Privileged Communication 1-33 and Dulberg Subpea [sic] Work Product Privilege 1-13 that were previously sent to Judge Meyer on or around October 28, 2022 and listed in Julia Williams' and Edward X. Clinton Jr.'s Motion to Vacate…to both Plaintiff's Counsel Alphonse Talarico and Defendant's counsel by close of business on November 4, 2022."

5) Williams' and Clinton's September 29, 2022 response to Dulberg's subpoena is attached as Exhibit 3, and their November 4, 2022 Amended Response to the Subpoena is attached as Exhibit 4. The withheld and redacted documents are identified in Exhibit 4 as being responsive to the subpoena, and they were submitted to the court for in camera inspection.

6) Notably, paragraphs 4-7 of the subpoena requests documents, email messages notes reports, research et al. regarding the Hans Mast deposition and exhibits.

7) Contrary to the court's ruling on the record and November 4, 2022 order, Williams and Clinton produced only a redacted set of documents to defendant's counsel Flynn, while producing a redacted and unredacted set of documents to Dulberg's counsel, Alphonse Talarico. Based on a review of the information that is not redacted, it appears that many of the pages or redactions may relate to the Hans Mast deposition.

Received 11-29-2022 03:57 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-29-2022 04:12 PM / Transaction #20471817 / Case #2017LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL
C 1914 V2

8) When Flynn wrote to Williams and Talarico, noting the impropriety in a third party serving a redacted subpoena response to one party but not the other, both Williams and Talarico refused to produce an unredacted copy of the documents (see emails, group exhibit 5).

9) Dulberg took the unusual tactic of subpoenaing his former counsel in this case, regarding transcripts and communications relative to a deposition that was conducted by his attorney and his retained court reporter in the instant case. Not only did he open the door to those documents being disclosed to defendant, he confirmed his waiver of attorney client privilege in connection with said disclosure. He and his current and former counsel agreed that the documents at issue, which had already been submitted to the court, would be emailed to both counsel (Exhibit 2 p. 8). Dulberg should be held accountable for these decisions.

10) It is not proper for a third party so serve one set of subpoenaed document on one party to litigation, and serve another altered set to another party. Moreover, since Dulberg received the unredacted documents through discovery in this case, he must now produce them.

11) Defendants have been and will continue to be prejudiced by Dulberg's conduct in refusing to produce unredacted privileged documents where he clearly waived the privilege. He has relied on at least one of those documents and attached a redacted version to his Second Amended Motion To Exclude (see exhibit 17 attached to Dulberg's November 21, 2022 Second Amended Motion to Exclude). Williams and Clinton first indicated that the withheld documents were responsive to the subpoena, and now they claim the documents are not responsive. Dulberg cannot have it both ways.

WHEREFORE Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast, respectfully request that this court order Plaintiff to immediately produce unredacted copies of Williams and Clinton's subpoena response, marked Dulberg Clinton Subpoena Privileged

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Clinton.

MR. CLINTON: Good morning, your Honor. Ed Clinton, former counsel to Mr. Dulberg.

THE COURT: All right. And --

MS. WILLIAMS: Good morning, your Honor. Julia -- Julia Williams on behalf of -- former counsel to Mr. Dulberg.

THE COURT: Okay. And for the record, we have Mr. Dulberg on screen.

In any event, plaintiff's counsel, where do you want to start?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I would guess that Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams' motion to vacate would be the beginning. I filed a rule pursuant to your last -- the transcript -- your last order said if there's something else that comes up.

I did file a rule after I read their motion to vacate. Historically, or chronologically, I think maybe that's the starting point. (Indiscernible) you held them in contempt and --

THE COURT: I did?

MR. TALARICO: -- here we are. You did.

THE COURT: When did I hold them in contempt? I'm looking at --

MR. TALARICO: I think so. The last order.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm looking at October 17th. He must appear. Yeah, I don't see an explicit finding of contempt, at least in the October 17th order. Was --

MR. TALARICO: I thought -- with all due respect, Judge, if I can find the order, I think the first sentence says you grant my motion.

THE COURT: Plaintiff's motion to compel is granted as --

MR. TALARICO: Oh, I'm sorry. Compel. Forgive me.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. TALARICO: My mistake.

THE COURT: In any event, I read the motion to vacate and I -- are you -- and this is directed at Mr. Clinton -- are you concerned about the order to produce, or something else?

MS. WILLIAMS: Would you like me to --

MR. CLINTON: Yeah, go ahead.

MS. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, we're not concerned about producing. We're -- Mr. Dulberg is entitled to these documents, even without a subpoena.

THE COURT: Yeah.

MS. WILLIAMS: So the production is not our concern. It's the portion of the order that insinuates that we weren't try -- not complying with the subpoena when we were rightfully doing so.

So we are (indiscernible) --

THE COURT: Thank you.

MS. WILLIAMS: So that's what we're concerned about.

THE COURT: All right. I'll vacate that because -- yeah, I don't see that as critical.

So to the extent that you're concerned, any suggestion in the order of October 17th suggesting or implying that you had failed to cooperate, I will vacate. I saw from your motion to vacate you were contesting that issue, and I'm not going to go down that path to find out who's right, ultimately, because it doesn't make any difference, at least to me.

So all I care about is the production of the documents. And am I correct that -- my reading of your response indicated that you've produced the documents. Is that -- was that accurate?

MS. WILLIAMS: Yes, your Honor. So we have produced nonconfidential documents to both -- at this point, we've now produced to both counsels of record in this case, plaintiff's counsel and defendant's counsel. The only thing that has not been produced to defendant's counsel is the communication between our firm and Mr. Dulberg, which was produced to plaintiff's counsel. And then there are, I want to say, about 13 pages of e-mails that were internal work product communications within our office that have not been produced to any -- anyone.

THE COURT: Um, why would you -- and here's, I guess, my confusion. Why would you withhold those from Mr. Dulberg? And I --

MS. WILLIAMS: The work product -- product privilege -- I mean, we can --

MR. CLINTON: We can give them.

MS. WILLIAMS: We can give that.

MR. CLINTON: We're not going to give you a hard time about that.

MS. WILLIAMS: We'll waive that and give those to Mr. Dulberg.

THE COURT: Because I'm --

MS. WILLIAMS: (Indiscernible.)

THE COURT: -- starting from the premise, at least based on the order, that Mr. Dulberg is, through counsel, waiving any attorney/client privilege. And, yeah, if we get into the issue -- my problem is if it's work product, arguably, Mr. Dulberg is entitled to those documents, and if he chooses to disclose them, that's up to him. But I'm not -- unless there's something else I'm missing, if Mr. Clinton or -- is it Ms. Williams?

MR. CLINTON: (Indiscernible.)

THE COURT: Is it Ms. Williams?

MS. WILLIAMS: Yes.

MR. CLINTON: And we'll turn them over today.

MS. WILLIAMS: We'll turn them over today.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, your last order included a limited waiver. It's not waiver for all things. It's waiver -- waiver for the responses to the subpoena.

THE COURT: Yeah. Okay. But are you saying that that should or should not include work product? I don't have a problem either way, but, really, it's your call.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I believe work product and -- and attorney/client privilege, yes. He's including all of that --

THE COURT: All right. So --

MR. TALARICO: -- in response to the subpoena.

THE COURT: -- you want -- and I'm not trying to box you in, but I just want to understand.

You want them to produce the entire file, including their work product, and you are waiving any claim of privilege related to work -- to attorney/client insofar as those records are concerned. Is that accurate, or did I miss something?

MR. FLYNN: (Indiscernible) next question, Judge.

THE COURT: Yeah. What is your question?

MR. FLYNN: Okay. My understanding, then, is that these documents that are being produced that were previously withheld are being produced to all parties in this case.

THE COURT: I'm going to shift that to Mr. Talarico. Is that your understanding?

MR. TALARICO: That is my understanding.

THE COURT: Okay. Does that satisfy your concerns, Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams?

MR. CLINTON: Yes, your Honor.

MS. WILLIAMS: Yes, your Honor. If the client is waiving --

MR. TALARICO: We waived privilege.

MS. WILLIAMS: -- (indiscernible) to produce to -- we will produce in compliance with the subpoena, and we will submit those both to Mr. Talarico and Mr. Flynn at the same time.

THE COURT: All right. For purposes of clarity, what I am understanding just transpired is that plaintiff's current attorney, Mr. Talarico, has waived the attorney/client privilege and any claim

THE COURT: Exactly.

MR. TALARICO: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge.

THE COURT: All right. So send in your order and I -- I will vacate any order directed against you, because we're resolved, and as soon as I see it I will sign the order.

MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you very much, your Honor.

MR. CLINTON: Thank you, Judge.

Mr. Flynn, we have your motion for summary judgment; am I correct?

MR. FLYNN: That's already been --

THE COURT: Yeah, I do see that.

MR. FLYNN: Yeah. The briefing schedules are set on that. There, actually, was another motion that relates to Ms. Williams and this Exhibit 12 from the Hans Mast deposition. I was kind of hoping that she might stay on the line there.

THE COURT: I apologize.

MR. FLYNN: That's okay.

Mr. Flynn, I'll let you speak.

MR. FLYNN: And for the record, I did --

MR. FLYNN: Well, for Ms. Williams. It's not necessarily a question, but I think that this next motion -- there's a motion to exclude the Hans Mast deposition. Ms. Williams was involved in that, noticed the deposition, took the deposition, was involved in the communications with the court reporter.

So I thought that if she could and would be willing to explain what happened. And, you know, it's my position that there's nothing nefarious about this deposition. It was taken at the beginning of the pandemic when lawyers were still trying to figure out how to use the Zoom deposition method. All objections to that manner were waived by both parties. The deposition was, again, noticed by the plaintiff, Mr. Dulberg's agents. The court reporter was hired by the plaintiff, his agents.

THE COURT: But your question for Ms. Williams is?

MR. FLYNN: If she could explain what happened with Exhibit 12. I think I know what -- and, again, there's been a 213(f)(3) opinion that was just disclosed a day or two ago. I think it's improper because --

THE COURT: In this case?

MR. FLYNN: (Indiscernible). In this case.

THE COURT: Oh, I don't (indiscernible).

MR. FLYNN: It was a document examiner who was identified by the plaintiff.

THE COURT: But that's a different issue, so I'm going to cut you off.

MR. FLYNN: No, it's not a different issue.

THE COURT: I want to cut -- I want to cut to what my one question is.

Ms. Williams, what can you tell us about Exhibit 12?

MS. WILLIAMS: So -- so my understanding -- as I recall, yes, it was the beginning of the pandemic. We had Mr. Mast's deposition, I believe, scheduled, I want to say, for March, and we canceled it because it was March 2020, right when everything was -- was starting, and it was canceled due to COVID concerns. And -- and so we -- we opted to utilize the -- the court's -- I think it was the Illinois Supreme Court that came out with the rules as to -- and I could be incorrect, it could be each county court, but that said you could do Zoom depositions.

So we noticed it up for a remote deposition, and we utilized a court reporter. I can't remember the court reporter's name. There are several e-mails about this with Mr. -- Mr. Flynn that -- that have been produced pursuant to the subpoena that we received. And my recollection is is that we took that deposition, and there were several difficulties with Mr. Mast's internet connection, and so we had come on and off, but we did get through the deposition.

Mr. Flynn had -- I had produced to Mr. Flynn, prior to the deposition, all of the exhibits that I believed we would use. And then I also, during the deposition, uploaded them into the court reporting system so that the court reporter would have them and mark them.

As to Exhibit 12, we had uploaded it into the system. I don't know that Mr. Mast could actually see those, so he may have used the paper copies that Mr. Flynn had.

And then after the deposition, the court reporter notified me that Exhibit 12, specifically, was -- they couldn't read it, and we needed to get them a copy. I believe there's e-mails to that effect, as well. If I'm recalling correctly, a number of the pages were blank. It was a larger exhibit. I want to say it was around 27 pages, I think, or 25 pages.

So sometime after the deposition, we -- we did provide the exhibit that was utilized in the deposition to the court reporter, and at that time they marked it and sent it back to everyone.

THE COURT: Okay. What was Exhibit 12 again?

MS. WILLIAMS: It was a series of cases. I don't know that -- I just can't recall what all was asked about it, but I know there were -- it was -- it was --

THE COURT: All right. These would have --

MS. WILLIAMS: -- copies of case law.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: They were photocopies of the old books, Judge, cases that were contained in Mast's file.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: And he was -- you know, they have -- they're, obviously, not complete because they -- placed on a printer, appeared like we used to do in the old days.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: So the issue now, though, is that the plaintiff knew --

THE COURT: Hang on. Before -- before we get into argument, Mr. Talarico, is there anything -- any questions you have, since we have Ms. Williams here?

MR. TALARICO: Yes. Was the Tilsner case included in -- in the blank Exhibit 12 you sent to U.S. Legal, Barbara Schmidt? And was -- when you discussed with Mr. Flynn the failure of his -- or Mr. Mast's internet, didn't he say, I can't see these, I can only see their first one (indiscernible), which was the Lagano (phonetic) case? And wasn't there continued discussion by Mr. Flynn that he didn't -- he didn't produce all of the documents you sent on -- in hardcopy because he wanted to save paper?

MS. WILLIAMS: So that's -- I guess that's a lot of questions. So what --

MR. TALARICO: It is.

MS. WILLIAMS: What -- what -- I cannot recall what cases were included and weren't included at this point. There -- there was an e-mail to Mr. Flynn with the exhibit that is attached that I believe was produced in the subpoena.

Received 11-29-2022 03:57 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-29-2022 04:32 PM / Transaction #20452859 / Case #2017LA000377

So whatever that exhibit was is -- is what I would have used. So I know there was, like, a Laravo case or -- I remember the first case was like Laravo or Lavajo, L-A-V-A-J-O, or something like that.

But right now, off the top of my head, I don't remember what other cases were included.

MR. TALARICO: I'm talking about -- Judge, if I might, please? Excuse me. I'm sorry, Ms. Williams.

There was -- what the reporter had was blank. What Mr. Flynn's client said was, I see the Lagano (phonetic) one. So the Exhibit 12 that was sent, like, a week or two after the deposition had Lagano, Troy, and the same exact Lagano case, and it did not have the Tilsner case involved, and the Tilsner case was very important. So it was an exact duplication of one case and a second case.

But this is -- Judge, it's not just the Exhibit 12. The entire deposition --

THE COURT: Well, are you asking a question about Exhibit 12? Because if we're done asking questions, I'm gonna let her go.

MR. TALARICO: Okay. Yep. I'm done.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, anything?

MR. FLYNN: Yes, Judge. So, again, this -- this 213(f)(3) report that was just produced --

THE COURT: Well, do we need the Clinton -- Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams for this?

MR. FLYNN: Yes. I'm getting there.

THE COURT: Okay. Sorry.

MR. FLYNN: So if you can just indulge me for a moment.

So the expert document reviewer is of the opinion that the exhibit sticker on Exhibit 12 did not come from the same batch as the other exhibit stickers.

The defense's position is, so what? You know, these kind of things happen, I'm sure, with the court reporter, and if it was marked later because it was not sent in until later, that makes perfect sense.

But this is -- this is -- the argument that's being made is that -- and there's no other conclusion, it's just that it didn't come from the same batch. So, again, it's the so-what position on our part.

Received 11-29-2022 03:57 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-29-2022 04:39 PM / Transaction #2032859 / Case #2017LA000377

But because it's being used to exclude the deposition, it's our position that the deposition was fine -- finally concluded to the satisfaction of plaintiff's counsel, that there was never any indication that they needed a follow-up deposition or a supplemental deposition or a Session 2.

So in our view, any objection to that deposition has been waived. And, again, there was nothing nefarious. Ms. Williams was nothing but professional and courteous during her tenure in this case.

This motion -- this conspiracy that's been presented and caused the defendant to be caught in the crossfire between the plaintiff and his former attorney is through no fault of theirs, and should not continue.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Talarico, you can respond.

MR. TALARICO: Two points, Judge. First of all, what's very obvious -- the label on Exhibit 12 doesn't even have the deponent's name spelled right.

THE COURT: Okay. But what does -- what impact does that have?

MR. TALARICO: What impact is that it was not done at the same time by the same people. It was never produced in time.

Secondarily, about Mr. Flynn's allegation of some type of conspiracy, if he wants to push that, I think I have evidence that, if necessary, that -- that Mr. Flynn and Ms. Williams have consulted at times.

THE COURT: I'm sorry? Have what?

MR. TALARICO: Consulted.

THE COURT: Okay. Frankly, Counsel, if you're suggesting that either one of them has engaged in unethical behavior, I'm sure you're aware of the Himmel decision, and --

MR. TALARICO: I am.

THE COURT: -- it's not something you can threaten; you have to do.

MR. TALARICO: And I will.

THE COURT: Don't make that threat and not follow through with it if, in fact, there's anything to it. You don't -- you don't have an option. And you put a burden on me, as well, when you start going down this road.

So you've got to make a decision, and --

MR. TALARICO: (Indiscernible.)

THE COURT: -- I'm not going to hear -- I'm not going to hear suggestions of unethical behavior.

I mean, you're either going to pursue it or we're not even going to entertain that, so please continue.

MR. TALARICO: Well, Judge, I will -- I will not pursue it if Mr. Flynn (indiscernible) --

THE COURT: It's not an issue. You don't get to choose.

MR. TALARICO: I'm aware.

THE COURT: I'm not -- I'm not telling you that you have to do one thing or the other. But the Himmel decision removes discretion from the equation. You have to act, if you are aware.

So I'm not telling you that -- that you've got to file. You know what you have. But what I'm saying is, if you're going to make an argument suggesting that other attorneys engaged in unethical behavior, I'm not going to listen to it unless you're also making a -- making a complaint with the ARDC.

So I'm not interested in attorneys casting aspersions on each other and then not following through, if that makes sense. Following through with the ARDC.

That being said, what -- what is your response on the -- do we have to keep Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton here? Does anybody else need them?

MR. TALARICO: I have no need for them.

MR. FLYNN: I don't. Just in closing, with respect to Ms. Williams, again, I was just provided these documents by Ms. Williams and/or her court reporter and then passed them along. I had nothing to do with -- with anything other than I did print out certain of the exhibits for ease of use at the deposition when I went to Hans Mast's office. And because I was working from home at the time, I printed a few of them out, not all of them, due to a limited amount of printer paper. And that is my total involvement in Exhibit 12.

THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton, do you want to stay? You can, until we resolve the issue, since we're addressing you guys. What do you want to do?

option to leave, if you wanted.

All right. So, Mr. Talarico, we're moving on to your motion to -- to bar; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor. Within the motion, I asked to amend the motion after I get the responses from Clinton and Williams. They may be appropriate to put into the motion. I filed a motion. The motion can be -- actually, Mr. Flynn just responded to the motion without responding -- without responding.

I don't know how you want to look at it. If that was his response, I'll file a reply to what he said. But I still -- I have asked, from the beginning, to be allowed to amend that motion once I find out what Mr. Clinton and Ms. Flynn have -- I'm sorry, Ms. Williams. Forgive me.

THE COURT: All right. Can you -- are you asking me for leave to supplement your motion?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I have not. And my -- my point is that there hasn't even been a prima facie showing of any prejudice to the plaintiff with respect to his deposition. For my client to again have to file a written response to a brief of this nature --

THE COURT: You don't really have -- I don't know that -- I mean, it's up to you as to whether or not you want to file a written response. I've heard your argument. Plaintiff -- more importantly, plaintiff's counsel has heard your argument, so there's -- there's not going to be any prejudice if he simply files his reply or if I allow amendment and then we proceed to hearing. I don't think it's that complicated an issue.

MR. FLYNN: I don't either.

THE COURT: So I don't know that we need further briefing.

What do you want to do, Mr. Flynn, because the ball will be in your court once he files his amendment.

THE COURT: Mr. Clinton, how quickly can you get him the documents? I know you said it earlier. You're on mute.

MR. CLINTON: My apology, again. We can get them to him today.

So I'll give plaintiff until the 21st and then we'll come back on November 28th, and then, Mr. Flynn, at that point, you can tell me what you want to do.

it's a housekeeping issue with respect to this f(3) opinion. This (f)3 opinion, the document examiner was disclosed as a trial witness relative to this Exhibit 12. I don't think that's proper --

THE COURT: Yeah, I -- you know --

MR. FLYNN: And then he called it a mini trial but not trial.

THE COURT: The -- I -- I haven't seen the report, but if the expert is going to render opinions on case law, copies of case law that were allegedly tendered by former counsel to Mr. Dulberg, I don't see how that comes up in the trial of the matter.

MR. FLYNN: He's really only opining on the authenticity of the exhibit sticker and whether it came from the same batch as the other stickers in that deposition.

So it has nothing to do with the standard of care in this case or any --

THE COURT: I don't know. I'll let Mr. Talarico tell me otherwise. Not now, but I -- there's a couple of thresholds. I don't know. I haven't seen exactly what he says, and I -- I suspect we could even stipulate that the sticker is different without a whole lot of -- a whole lot of effort or prejudice to anybody. Because based on what you've told me, it likely is a different sticker because of the way the documents were transferred back and forth and the problem at the deposition.

Dear Mr. George K. Flynn,

First of all, I hope this reply finds you in good health and recuperating.

Second, as Ms. Williams correctly states she has forwarded to you all responsive documents to the records subpoena.

I have taken the time to review and contrast what she sent to you in a redacted state to what she sent to me without the "Black boxes"

I support her position that all redacted were not responsive to the subpoena as instructed regarding subject matter (the deposition of Hans Mast a/k/a Hans Mist taken on June 25, 2020), the time frame beginning March 2, 2020 and ending on April 29, 2022. She properly released to you all responsive documents pursuant to the limited waiver that Plaintiff Mr. Dulberg agreed to.

She clearly states that in her email to you and the unresponsive redacted documents were never intended for you to see.

If you have a problem with that you are free to subpoena her for records and/or a live deposition, but Mr. Dulberg has not waived the attorney-client privilege nor work product privilege outside the instructions contained within the records subpoenas served on Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton.

However, in the spirit of cooperation between members of the bar I have attached two documents I found that would have been responsive had Ms. Williams had them, but as Judge Meyer is correct in saying, you can only produce what you have and I assume Ms. Williams responded honestly and completely.

Finally, I have been made aware of ex-parte communications from your Firms and Julia Williams that I was not included in.

Julia Williams wrote that she was contacted by someone named Juliet Wang from your law firm.

I hereby demand a complete log of any and all communications in any form (written, email, oral...) between anyone at your Firm and Julia Williams or Ed Clinton.

Your anticipated cooperation is greatly appreciated,

Alphonse A. Talarico

Dear Mr. Flynn,

We respectfully decline to produce all of the documents in unredacted form as it is our understanding that the court was permitting Mr. Dulberg to make a limited waiver only as to documents that were specifically responsive to the subpoena, not all attorney-client communications. As some of the documents that were produced to Judge Meyer were not responsive to the subpoena, we redacted those non-responsive documents and produced a privilege log.

It is our duty to our former client to maintain privilege to the extent it was not waived.

We did produce all of the documents to Mr. Talarico in unredacted form and thus, I believe that this issue can properly be resolved between the two of you since Plaintiff is now in possession and control of the documents.

Best regards,

Dear: Ms. Williams and Mr. Talarico:

I have had a chance to review the email below, the privilege log, and the documents produced in the attachments below. While I understand Ms. Williams' position, in essence a warning to her former client relative to waiver of the attorney/client privilege, there has indeed been an explicit waiver. Based on my recollection of the discussions on the record before Judge Meyer, I certainly was not expecting one set of documents to be produced to the Plaintiff, and a separate set produced to the defendants, with information redacted or withheld.

Dulberg made the decision to subpoena these records, and when questioned on the record, the waiver of attorney-client privilege was explicitly confirmed.

Demand is hereby made that all documents responsive to Dulberg's subpoena be produced by Williams and The Clinton Firm, completely and in unredacted form.

Mr. Talarico, if Ms. Williams and the Clinton firm do not produce the complete subpoena response within 2 business days, it is incumbent upon Mr. Dulberg and his current counsel to produce these unredacted documents now that they are in your possession, and constitute a response to a subpoena. Dulberg opened the door by serving the subpoena and then by doubling down on the record in court. Moreover, the attached court order reflects that the documents which were previously marked or withheld as being privileged, would be delivered to both Plaintiff's counsel and Defendant's counsel. Demand is made on Mr. Talarico to produce the un-redacted complete subpoena response by November 21, 2022.

Best regards.

Dear Mr. Talarico and Mr. Flynn,

Please see attached documents and privilege log.

Edward X. Clinton and I both reviewed our emails and located further responsive documents, some of which may be duplicative. We are producing them here, in addition to any documents that were previously produced to you or to Judge Meyer.

Further, we reviewed the documents that were produced to Judge Meyer and found some of them to not be responsive to the Subponea and protected by the privilege, which Mr. Dulberg did not waive today. Rather, Mr. Talarico on Mr. Dulberg's behalf made it clear that Mr. Dulberg was not waiving privilege as to anything other than the document responsive to the subpoena. Those documents have been redacted and a privilege log is included.

An unreacted version of those documents will be produced to Mr. Talarico via separate email as indicated on the certificate of service.

Finally, I will be forwarding the email chain that is marked as "Dulberg Clinton Subponea Privileged Communication 269-274" as to produce it in its native format. It contains several attachments.

Kindly advise if you have any difficulties with any documents, if you believe any documents are missing, or if you require anything further from The Clinton Law Firm.

DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF'S 2nd AMENDED MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF HANS MAST

Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast (collectively "Popovich"), by and through their attorneys, Karbal, Cohen, Economou, Silk & Dunne, LLC, and for their Response to Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude the deposition of Hans Mast, state as follows:

1) Plaintiff Paul Dulberg ("Dulberg") is improperly requesting a drastic remedy that amounts to the equivalent of a severe discovery sanction against defendants due to Dulberg's perceived irregularity regarding an exhibit sticker in connection with a party deposition he caused to be taken, and by a court reporter he retained. Defendants had nothing to do with the "irregularity" and should not be further prejudiced by issues. Simply put, he seeks relief for his own alleged violation of the rules.

2) The court heard argument on this matter on November 4, 2022. Defendants had not filed any written response at that time, and Dulberg late file his 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude Mast's deposition. Defendants hereby adopt their arguments contained in the transcript from the 11-4-22 hearing (Exhibit A) and submit this additional response in opposition to Plaintiff's motion.

3) The instant motion is the latest costly litigated matter made necessary by Dulberg's multiple substitutions of counsel. His current (now third) attorney entered his appearance on October 23, 2020. The deposition at issue was taken by Dulberg's second attorney on June 25, 2020. Dulberg's original Motion to Exclude the Hans Mast deposition was filed by his third attorney on October 12, 2022, just 11 (eleven) days shy of the second anniversary of his appearance in the case.

4) Dulberg improperly seeks to exclude a discovery deposition apparently because he does not like the result—he apparently does not like the testimony that was elicited or the performance of his counsel. In this and related proceedings, he has caused communications between himself and his prior counsel to be produced. These documents include deposition questions he proposed to his then counsel in advance of the Mast deposition. Dulberg is now asking for a "do-over" because Mast's testimony was apparently not satisfactory to him. Whatever disputes Dulberg may have with his prior counsel in this instant case, he should not be allowed a second bite at the apple as a result of those disputes. He attempts to mischaracterize a minor discrepancy with one exhibit to the deposition, and difficulties with defendant's wi-fi connection during the zoom deposition (which were overcome), as warranting the exclusion of the deposition. This is absurd.

5) As an initial matter, Dulberg asserts that Mast's deposition was taken in violation of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206 h (2), and other orders entered in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. But he should be required to take a position as to who committed the alleged violation(s). In his 2nd Amended Motion, he vaguely asserts "violations."

Received 11-30-2022 03:43 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-30-2022 03:46 PM / Transaction #20490429 / Case #2017LA000377

6) Paul Dulberg personally observed the discovery deposition of Hans Mast taken remotely (by Zoom) on June 25, 2020. If he had an objections to alleged irregularities with the deposition, he had ample time to bring such issues to the attention of his counsel, Julia Williams, and to his current counsel who appeared on his behalf on October 23, 2020.

7) Illinois Supreme Court Rule 211 governs this issue. Rule 211 (c) (2) reads as follows: "Objections to the form of a question or answer, errors and irregularities occurring at the oral examination in the manner or taking of the deposition, in the oath or affirmation, or in the conduct of any person, and errors and irregularities of any kind which might be corrected if promptly presented, are waived unless seasonable objection thereto is made at the taking of the deposition."

8) Rule 211 (D) provides: "Errors and irregularities in the manner in which the testimony is transcribed or the deposition is prepared, signed, certified, sealed, indorsed, transmitted, filed, or otherwise dealt with by the officer are waived unless a motion to suppress the deposition or some part thereof is made with reasonable promptness after the defect is, or with due diligence might have been, ascertained.

9) Dulberg did not object or raise his objections with reasonable promptness, under any analysis. He was present for Mast's deposition 2.5 years ago, and his counsel had years to bring a motion. Instead, he seeks to prejudice defendants by waiting until fact discovery is closed and he faces summary disposition. Defendant's submit that even if the court found his objections to be timely, that the court find that any irregularities ("violations") were 1) caused solely by Dulberg or his agents, 2) that any irregularities were harmless, 3) that any alleged irregularity simply be given its weight by the finder of fact (if as to any fact issue), 4) that no remedy be ordered in Dulberg's favor, and 5) the court weigh any remedy in favor of defendants it sees fit to order under Rule 201 (c)(1)(2) and (3).

10) In response to Dulberg's argument at paragraph A3.3 of his 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude relating to his exhibit 16 (Email from defendant's counsel George K. Flynn) Dulberg takes the position that there was no discussion of any errors or irregularities in the "just concluded deposition." That is exactly right. Dulberg's counsel did not raise any issues or objections in response to the email. She was apparently satisfied with the outcome, despite some minor technical difficulties during the deposition. She never voiced any suggestion that an additional session of Hans Mast's deposition was necessary or requested. Flynn didn't make any mention of it because any technical difficulties seemed inconsequential.

11) Dulberg's motion at page 11 begins to purportedly outline violations of the rules, but again without explicitly identifying who violated any such rule. Nor is there any analysis or conclusion reached--only a litany of facts, chronology, and innuendos. No basis for any remedy is discussed or analyzed.

12) Of concern is a statement on page 19 of Dulberg's motion in which he argues that Mast had insisted that the decision in the Tilschner v. Spangler case was the reason Dulberg would not prevail in the underlying case against the McGuire's. The statement is inexplicably made "on information and belief." This is unacceptable. Dulberg has made no such disclosure in fact discovery (now closed) about this very specific discussion between Mast and himself regarding the Tilschner case. If Dulberg believes he has disclosed it, he should be required to identify where in his answers and amended answers to discovery or his deposition he has identified such discussion with this amount of specificity. Defendants submit that no such disclosure exists.

WHEREFORE Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast, respectfully request that this Court enter an Order denying Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude Mast's deposition, and for any further relief this court deems fair and proper.

Respectfully submitted,

THE COURT: Okay. And for the record, we have Mr. Dulberg on screen.

In any event, plaintiff's counsel, where do you want to start?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I would guess that Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams' motion to vacate would be the beginning. I filed a rule pursuant to your last -- the transcript -- your last order said if there's something else that comes up.

I did file a rule after I read their motion to vacate. Historically, or chronologically, I think maybe that's the starting point. (Indiscernible) you held them in contempt and --

THE COURT: I did?

MR. TALARICO: -- here we are. You did.

THE COURT: When did I hold them in contempt? I'm looking at --

MR. TALARICO: I think so. The last order.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm looking at October 17th. He must appear. Yeah, I don't see an explicit finding of contempt, at least in the October 17th order. Was --

MR. TALARICO: I thought -- with all due respect, Judge, if I can find the order, I think the first sentence says you grant my motion.

THE COURT: Plaintiff's motion to compel is granted as --

MR. TALARICO: Oh, I'm sorry. Compel. Forgive me.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. TALARICO: My mistake.

THE COURT: In any event, I read the motion to vacate and I -- are you -- and this is directed at Mr. Clinton -- are you concerned about the order to produce, or something else?

MS. WILLIAMS: Would you like me to --

MR. CLINTON: Yeah, go ahead.

MS. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, we're not concerned about producing. We're -- Mr. Dulberg is entitled to these documents, even without a subpoena.

THE COURT: Yeah.

MS. WILLIAMS: So the production is not our concern. It's the portion of the order that insinuates that we weren't try -- not complying with the subpoena when we were rightfully doing so.

So we are (indiscernible) --

THE COURT: Thank you.

MS. WILLIAMS: So that's what we're concerned about.

THE COURT: All right. I'll vacate that because -- yeah, I don't see that as critical.

So to the extent that you're concerned, any suggestion in the order of October 17th suggesting or implying that you had failed to cooperate, I will vacate. I saw from your motion to vacate you were contesting that issue, and I'm not going to go down that path to find out who's right, ultimately, because it doesn't make any difference, at least to me.

So all I care about is the production of the documents. And am I correct that -- my reading of your response indicated that you've produced the documents. Is that -- was that accurate?

MS. WILLIAMS: Yes, your Honor. So we have produced nonconfidential documents to both -- at this point, we've now produced to both counsels of record in this case, plaintiff's counsel and defendant's counsel. The only thing that has not been produced to defendant's counsel is the communication between our firm and Mr. Dulberg, which was produced to plaintiff's counsel. And then there are, I want to say, about 13 pages of e-mails that were internal work product communications within our office that have not been produced to any -- anyone.

THE COURT: Um, why would you -- and here's, I guess, my confusion. Why would you withhold those from Mr. Dulberg? And I --

THE COURT: -- starting from the premise, at least based on the order, that Mr. Dulberg is, through counsel, waiving any attorney/client privilege. And, yeah, if we get into the issue -- my problem is if it's work product, arguably, Mr. Dulberg is entitled to those documents, and if he chooses to disclose them, that's up to him. MR. TALARICO: Judge, your last order included a limited waiver. It's not waiver for all things. It's waiver -- waiver for the responses to the subpoena.

THE COURT: Yeah. Okay. But are you saying that that should or should not include work product? I don't have a problem either way, but, really, it's your call.

You want them to produce the entire file, including their work product, and you are waiving any claim of privilege related to work -- to attorney/client insofar as those records are concerned. Is that accurate, or did I miss something?

MR. FLYNN: Yeah. The briefing schedules are set on that. There, actually, was another motion that relates to Ms. Williams and this Exhibit 12 from the Hans Mast deposition. I was kind of hoping that she might stay on the line there.

MR. FLYNN: Well, for Ms. Williams. It's not necessarily a question, but I think that this next motion -- there's a motion to exclude the Hans Mast deposition. Ms. Williams was involved in that, noticed the deposition, took the deposition, was involved in the communications with the court reporter.

So I thought that if she could and would be willing to explain what happened. And, you know, it's my position that there's nothing nefarious about this deposition. It was taken at the beginning of the pandemic when lawyers were still trying to figure out how to use the Zoom deposition method. All objections to that manner were waived by both parties. The deposition was, again, noticed by the plaintiff, Mr. Dulberg's agents. The court reporter was hired by the plaintiff, his agents.

THE COURT: But your question for Ms. Williams is?

MR. FLYNN: If she could explain what happened with Exhibit 12. I think I know what -- and, again, there's been a 213(f)(3) opinion that was just disclosed a day or two ago. I think it's improper because --

THE COURT: In this case?

MR. FLYNN: (Indiscernible). In this case.

THE COURT: Oh, I don't (indiscernible).

MR. FLYNN: It was a document examiner who was identified by the plaintiff.

THE COURT: But that's a different issue, so I'm going to cut you off.

MR. FLYNN: No, it's not a different issue.

THE COURT: I want to cut -- I want to cut to what my one question is.

Ms. Williams, what can you tell us about Exhibit 12?

MS. WILLIAMS: So -- so my understanding -- as I recall, yes, it was the beginning of the pandemic. We had Mr. Mast's deposition, I believe, scheduled, I want to say, for March, and we canceled it because it was March 2020, right when everything was -- was starting, and it was canceled due to COVID concerns. And -- and so we -- we opted to utilize the -- the court's -- I think it was the Illinois Supreme Court that came out with the rules as to -- and I could be incorrect, it could be each county court, but that said you could do Zoom depositions.

So we noticed it up for a remote deposition, and we utilized a court reporter. I can't remember the court reporter's name. There are several e-mails about this with Mr. -- Mr. Flynn that -- that have been produced pursuant to the subpoena that we received. And my recollection is is that we took that deposition, and there were several difficulties with Mr. Mast's internet connection, and so we had come on and off, but we did get through the deposition.

Mr. Flynn had -- I had produced to Mr. Flynn, prior to the deposition, all of the exhibits that I believed we would use. And then I also, during the deposition, uploaded them into the court reporting system so that the court reporter would have them and mark them.

As to Exhibit 12, we had uploaded it into the system. I don't know that Mr. Mast could actually see those, so he may have used the paper copies that Mr. Flynn had.

And then after the deposition, the court reporter notified me that Exhibit 12, specifically, was -- they couldn't read it, and we needed to get them a copy. I believe there's e-mails to that effect, as well. If I'm recalling correctly, a number of the pages were blank. It was a larger exhibit. I want to say it was around 27 pages, I think, or 25 pages.

So sometime after the deposition, we -- we did provide the exhibit that was utilized in the deposition to the court reporter, and at that time they marked it and sent it back to everyone.

THE COURT: Okay. What was Exhibit 12 again?

MS. WILLIAMS: It was a series of cases. I don't know that -- I just can't recall what all was asked about it, but I know there were -- it was -- it was --

THE COURT: All right. These would have --

MS. WILLIAMS: -- copies of case law.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: They were photocopies of the old books, Judge, cases that were contained in Mast's file.

MR. FLYNN: So the issue now, though, is that the plaintiff knew --

THE COURT: Hang on. Before -- before we get into argument, Mr. Talarico, is there anything -- any questions you have, since we have Ms. Williams here?

MR. TALARICO: Yes. Was the Tilsner case included in -- in the blank Exhibit 12 you sent to U.S. Legal, Barbara Schmidt? And was -- when you discussed with Mr. Flynn the failure of his -- or Mr. Mast's internet, didn't he say, I can't see these, I can only see their first one (indiscernible), which was the Lagano (phonetic) case? And wasn't there continued discussion by Mr. Flynn that he didn't -- he didn't produce all of the documents you sent on -- in hardcopy because he wanted to save paper?

MS. WILLIAMS: So that's -- I guess that's a lot of questions. So what --

MR. TALARICO: It is.

MS. WILLIAMS: What -- what -- I cannot recall what cases were included and weren't included at this point. There -- there was an e-mail to Mr. Flynn with the exhibit that is attached that I believe was produced in the subpoena.

So whatever that exhibit was is -- is what I would have used. So I know there was, like, a Laravo case or -- I remember the first case was like Laravo or Lavajo, L-A-V-A-J-O, or something like that.

But right now, off the top of my head, I don't remember what other cases were included.

MR. TALARICO: I'm talking about -- Judge, if I might, please? Excuse me. I'm sorry, Ms. Williams.

There was -- what the reporter had was blank. What Mr. Flynn's client said was, I see the Lagano (phonetic) one. So the Exhibit 12 that was sent, like, a week or two after the deposition had Lagano, Troy, and the same exact Lagano case, and it did not have the Tilsner case involved, and the Tilsner case was very important. So it was an exact duplication of one case and a second case.

But this is -- Judge, it's not just the Exhibit 12. The entire deposition --

THE COURT: Well, are you asking a question about Exhibit 12? Because if we're done asking questions, I'm gonna let her go.

MR. TALARICO: Okay. Yep. I'm done.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, anything?

MR. FLYNN: Yes, Judge. So, again, this -- this 213(f)(3) report that was just produced --

THE COURT: Well, do we need the Clinton -- Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams for this?

MR. FLYNN: Yes. I'm getting there.

THE COURT: Okay. Sorry.

MR. FLYNN: So if you can just indulge me for a moment.

So the expert document reviewer is of the opinion that the exhibit sticker on Exhibit 12 did not come from the same batch as the other exhibit stickers.

The defense's position is, so what? You know, these kind of things happen, I'm sure, with the court reporter, and if it was marked later because it was not sent in until later, that makes perfect sense.

But this is -- this is -- the argument that's being made is that -- and there's no other conclusion, it's just that it didn't come from the same batch. So, again, it's the so-what position on our part.

But because it's being used to exclude the deposition, it's our position that the deposition was fine -- finally concluded to the satisfaction of plaintiff's counsel, that there was never any indication that they needed a follow-up deposition or a supplemental deposition or a Session 2.

So in our view, any objection to that deposition has been waived. And, again, there was nothing nefarious. Ms. Williams was nothing but professional and courteous during her tenure in this case.

This motion -- this conspiracy that's been presented and caused the defendant to be caught in the crossfire between the plaintiff and his former attorney is through no fault of theirs, and should not continue.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Talarico, you can respond.

MR. TALARICO: Two points, Judge. First of all, what's very obvious -- the label on Exhibit 12 doesn't even have the deponent's name spelled right.

THE COURT: Okay. But what does -- what impact does that have?

MR. TALARICO: What impact is that it was not done at the same time by the same people. It was never produced in time.

Secondarily, about Mr. Flynn's allegation of some type of conspiracy, if he wants to push that, I think I have evidence that, if necessary, that -- that Mr. Flynn and Ms. Williams have consulted at times.

THE COURT: I'm sorry? Have what?

MR. TALARICO: Consulted.

THE COURT: Okay. Frankly, Counsel, if you're suggesting that either one of them has engaged in unethical behavior, I'm sure you're aware of the Himmel decision, and --

MR. TALARICO: I am.

THE COURT: -- it's not something you can threaten; you have to do.

MR. TALARICO: And I will.

THE COURT: Don't make that threat and not follow through with it if, in fact, there's anything to it. You don't -- you don't have an option. And you put a burden on me, as well, when you start going down this road.

So you've got to make a decision, and --

MR. TALARICO: I'm aware.

That being said, what -- what is your response on the -- do we have to keep Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton here? Does anybody else need them?

MR. TALARICO: I have no need for them.

MR. FLYNN: I don't. Just in closing, with respect to Ms. Williams, again, I was just provided these documents by Ms. Williams and/or her court reporter and then passed them along. I had nothing to do with -- with anything other than I did print out certain of the exhibits for ease of use at the deposition when I went to Hans Mast's office. And because I was working from home at the time, I printed a few of them out, not all of them, due to a limited amount of printer paper. And that is my total involvement in Exhibit 12.

it's a housekeeping issue with respect to this f(3) opinion. This (f)3 opinion, the document examiner was disclosed as a trial witness relative to this Exhibit 12. I don't think that's proper -- a whole lot of -- a whole lot of effort or prejudice to anybody. Because based on what you've told me, it likely is a different sticker because of the way the documents were transferred back and forth and the problem at the deposition.

Now Comes Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorney Alphonse A. Talarico, and for his REPLY to Defendants' RESPONSE to Plaintiff's Motion To Exclude the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast taken in violation of Supreme Court Rule 206 h(2) and Supreme Court Orders states as follows:

1) Defendants misstate, mischaracterize, misread, or do not understand Plaintiff's Motion to Exclude the Deposition of Hans Mast taken in violation of Supreme Court Rules and Supreme Court Orders.

1a) Plaintiff first learned of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition without any exhibits [emphasis added] from Defendants' Attorney's office. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 2 line 23-24 and page 4 line 7-9 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

1b) Plaintiff's current Attorney objected to the use of the discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast during the hearing because there's exhibit(s) missing. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 31 line 21-24 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

1c) Plaintiff's current Attorney more completely explained to the Court that the discovery deposition of Hans Mast in all its variations was missing exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 36 line 19-24 to page 37 line 1-3 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

1d) This Honorable Court ordered Defendants' Attorney to produce exhibit 12 if he has it. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 39 line 16-21 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

1e)) On April 28, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received an email from Defendants' Attorney's office with a link at https://www.dropbox.com to access Mast Dep Ex.12. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #1 attached to Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion To Exclude)

Received 12-19-2022 04:02 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-20-2022 08:39 AM / Transaction #20734110 / Case #2017LA000377

1f) Plaintiff's current Attorney noticed that the label purporting to be authentic on Hans Mast's discovery deposition exhibit 12 did not to match the other 14 exhibit label as to fonts, shape, color, and DEPONENT's NAME (Hans Mist not Hans Mast).

1g) On May 18, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney caused to be served upon Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith a Subpoena For Records in which she was requested to produce "The original discovery deposition of Hans Mast taken in this matter on June 25, 2020 including all pages, all indexes, all exhibits and all stenographic/shorthand notes."

1h) Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith's complete response submitted on a flash drive was received on June 16, 2022.

1i) Contained on the flash drive is a file titled HPSCANS and therein were a series of communications and handwritten notes between the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith and Noelle Kappes of US Legal Support and Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams clearly indicating that Hans Mast discovery deposition taken June 25, 2020 did not have exhibit 12 sent before the deposition nor uploaded during the deposition and said exhibit was never in the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith's possession before, during or after the deposition was taken, transcribed or submitted for transmission. (Please see Plaintiff's Group Exhibit #2 Barbara G. Smith job papers0001.pdf and job papers0002.pdf attached to Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion To Exclude)

1j) On July 11, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney received an email from Defendants' Attorney stating that the Hans Mist exhibit 12 alleged to be part of Defendant Hans Mast's discovery deposition was received apart from U.S. Legal Support by both his office and Plaintiff's former Attorney Julia Williams on July 14, 2020 while the Deposition and Exhibits 1-11 and 13-15 were received from U.S. Legal Support by both his office and Plaintiff's former Attorney Julia Williams on July 10, 2020. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #4 attached to Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion To Exclude)

Received 12-19-2022 04:02 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-20-2022 08:39 AM / Transaction #20734110 / Case #2017LA000377

Therefore the first violation was of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h)(2) because Exhibit 12 that was to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition was not provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, nor were the deposition participants able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

1k) Contrary to Defendants inaccurate allegation they contributed mightily to the problems experienced in this remote deposition because in no way was the failure of Defendants' electric equipment (internet ?) during the deposition or Defendants' attorney's failure to print the few exhibits he had received before the deposition (to save paper ?) Plaintiff's fault. (emphasis added)

1l) The Deposition of Hans Mast was done remotely at the suggestion of Defendants' Attorney because on April 30, 2020 Defendants' Counsel sent an email to Plaintiff's former Counsel Julia C. Williams indicating an awareness of the current Supreme Court rules regarding depositions when he wrote "The recent temporary amendment to Rule 206 (facilitating depositions during the Covid crisis), prompted me to touch base and inquire whether you may want to consider attempting to depose Hans Mast remotely in the 2nd half of May.." (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #7 attached to

Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion To Exclude)

1m) On June 23, 2020 Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams emailed Defendants' attorney 23 exhibits that she may [emphasis added] use in the discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast on June 25, 2020. Additionally she indicated that there could be additions [emphasis added] and there may be subtractions [emphasis added]. Additionally she wrote "…and I will do my best to send them ahead of time." (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #9 attached to Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion To Exclude)

1n) At the time the Deposition of Hans Mast was taken Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h)(2) was amended by SUPREME COURT ORDER M.R.30370 titled In re: Illinois Courts Response to Covid-19 Emergency/Impact On Discovery as follows:

(2) Any exhibits or other demonstrative evidence to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition shall be provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, unless the deposition participants are able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

(Please note that the underline emphasis was so written by the Illinois Supreme Court)

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #5 and exhibit #6 attached to Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion To Exclude)

1o) The Committee Comments to Illinois Supreme Court Rule Paragraph (h) (Revised October 22, 1999) state "The parties may agree pursuant to Rule 201(i) to amend or waive any conditions of paragraph (h)."

1p) Defendants have not provided any proof, whether written or oral, of any waiver or amendment.

Received 12-19-2022 04:02 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-20-2022 08:39 AM / Transaction #20734110 / Case #2017LA000377

Therefore the second violation was of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h)(2) and Illinois Supreme Court Order was because the 15 Exhibits that were to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition were not provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, nor were the deposition participants able to view many of the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

2. Plaintiff's "late filing" of his 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude is a typical diversion of Defendants' and best described by quoting the play " Macbeth' Act 5, scene 5, lines 26-28 by Shakespeare "…It is a tale told…, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing." because the facts are as follows:

2a) Plaintiff, by Court Order of November 4, 2022 was granted up to and including November 21, 2022 to file and serve his Amended Motion to Exclude the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast.

2b) Plaintiff filed and served his Amended Motion to Exclude the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast on Defendants' Counsel on November 21, 2022 with all 17 Exhibits individually sent and titled Exhibits 1 through Exhibit 17. The same Amended Motion to exclude the Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast was filed, served, and accepted by the Circuit Clerk of McHenry County also on November 21, 2021. Therefore Plaintiff had complied with the November 4, 2022 order.

2c) Upon review of the Circuit Clerks filing Plaintiff's Attorney noticed that the last page of the filing (Exhibit 17) did not reflect the Exhibit Stamp and number(although the email sent to Defendants' Counsel was titled Exhibit 17) .

Received 12-19-2022 04:02 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-20-2022 08:39 AM / Transaction #20734110 / Case #2017LA000377

C 2015 V2

2d) Rather than waste this Courts' valuable time in motion practice Plaintiff refiled the motion with the only difference being the Exhibit 17 label was visible. Plaintiff titled it Plaintiff 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude the Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast. The Circuit Court Clerk accepted said filing on November 23, 2022.

2e) Defendants' counsel was made aware of the missing Exhibit 17 label on the last page of the initial timey filing but was out of his office at the time on personal business.

2d) In Defendants' Response to Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude the Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast page 1 last sentence through page 2 first paragraph Defendants' Counsel states "Defendants hereby adopt their (oral) arguments contained in the transcript from the 11-4-22 hearing (Exhibit A) and submit this additional [emphasis added] response in opposition to Plaintiff's motion"

Therefore both Plaintiff and Defendants had "two bites of the apple", the Plaintiff's was a technical correction while Defendants was substantive.

3) Defendants complain that Plaintiff filed the Motion on October 23, 2022 but Defendants fail to state that what triggered this motion was an appropriate investigation into the facts based upon multiple subpoenas served upon persons involved after Plaintiff first learned of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition without any exhibits [emphasis added] from Defendants' Attorney's office. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 2 line 23-24 and page 4 line 7-9 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

3a) Plaintiffs rely not only upon his investigation triggered by Defendants attempting to use the Deposition without the 15 exhibits in April 2022 but also based upon Statute, Rules of Evidence, and case law.

3b) Plaintiff, pursuant to Illinois Rules of Evidence, Rule 201. JUDICIAL NOTICE OF ADJUDICATIVE FACTS:

(b) Kinds of Facts. A judicially noticed fact must be one not subject to reasonable dispute in that it is either (1) generally known within the territorial jurisdiction of the trial court or (2) capable of accurate and ready determination by resort to sources whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned

(d) When mandatory. A court shall take judicial notice if requested by a party and supplied with the necessary information.

(f) Time of Taking Notice. Judicial notice may be taken at any stage of the proceeding.

Plaintiff requests that this Honorable Court take JUDICIAL NOTICE of the adjudicative fact that Discovery Depositions when attached to a motion for summary judgment are evidence.

3c) Plaintiff advances two Appellate Court Cases, one civil and one criminal to show that depositions attached to motions, and in fact attached to a motion for summary judgement are evidence.

> "Initially, we note trial courts may entertain motions by defendants for summary judgment where the only evidence considered is plaintiff's own deposition testimony. (See e.g. Ralston v. Casanova (1984), 129 Ill.App.3d 1050, 85 Ill.Dec. 76, 473 N.E.2d 444.)"

> [143 Ill.Dec. 714] The record contains only one item of testimonial evidence, a deposition of defendant Donald Gaydosh submitted to the court by the plaintiff in connection with its motion to reconsider the granting of the motion to dismiss.

Townsend v. Gaydosh, 554 N.E.2d 648, 197 Ill.App.3d 339, 143 Ill.Dec. 713

(Ill. App. 1990)

3d) Plaintiff relies upon Illinois Supreme Court Rule 211(c)(1) to timely challenge the admissibility of the testimonial evidence of the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast as Defendants are now trying to get this evidence admitted as an exhibit offered in evidence as an exhibit attached to their Motion for Summary Judgment.

3e) Dulberg properly seeks to exclude the discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast based upon the Illinois Constitution, Illinois Statutes, Illinois Supreme Court Rules, and the Orders of the Illinois Supreme Court which the Defendants have decided do not apply to them based upon absurd theories.

4) What is truly “absurd” is Defendants attempt to characterize the combined violations of Illinois Supreme Court Rules and Orders of all parties as nothing more than a series of inconsequential de minimis actions.

5) Defendants’ fail to realize that they are not the Judge herein nor do they cite any rules, orders, cases etc. when they state “ But he should be required to take a position as to who committed the alleged violation(s).

(Please see Defendants’ THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., AND HANS MAST’S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF’S 2ND AMENDED MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF HANS MAST page 2 number 5)

5a) Further replying, Plaintiff has continuously stated, and herein states again that the violations of Illinois Supreme Court Rules and Orders were committed by all parties involved.

6) Defendants' again fail to realize that they are not the Judge herein nor do they cite any rules, orders, cases etc. when they state " Paul Dulberg personally observed the discovery deposition of Hans Mast taken remotely (by Zoom) on June 25, 2020. If he had an objections to alleged irregularities with the deposition, he had ample time to [emphasis added] bring such issues to the attention of his counsel, Julia Williams, and to his current counsel who appeared on his behalf on October 23, 2020.

(Please see Defendants' THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., AND HANS MAST'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF'S 2ND AMENDED MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF HANS MAST page 3 number 6)

6a) First, Defendants fail to acknowledge that what triggered this motion was an appropriate investigation into the facts based upon multiple subpoenas served upon persons involved after Plaintiff first learned of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition of Hans Mast without any exhibits [emphasis added] from Defendants' Attorney's office. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 2 line 23-24 and page 4 line 7-9 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

6b) Next, Plaintiff Motion to Exclude rests upon the laws of the State of Illinois as follows:

Unless otherwise indicated by the text, references in this Act to rules are to rules of the Supreme Court.

(735 ILCS 5/2-1003) (from Ch. 110, par. 2-1003)

Sec. 2-1003. Discovery and depositions.

(a) Discovery, such as admissions of fact and of genuineness of documents, physical and mental examinations of parties and other persons, the taking of any depositions, and interrogatories, shall be in accordance with rules. [emphasis added]

6c) Additionally, in relation to when an objection to (testimonial) evidence can be made Plaintiff relies on Illinois Supreme Court Rule 211(c)(1) which states:

(c) As to Competency of Deponent; Admissibility of Testimony; Questions and Answers; Misconduct; Irregularities.

(1) Grounds of objection to the competency of the deponent or admissibility of testimony which might have been corrected if presented during the taking of the deposition are waived by failure to make them at that time; otherwise objections to the competency of the deponent or admissibility of testimony may be made when the testimony is offered in evidence. [emphasis added]

6d) Defendants are currently attempting to have the discovery deposition of Hans Mast admitted into evidence as an exhibit to Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgement and therefore the time for objecting is now.

7) Defendants again fail to realize that they are not the Judge herein when they state " Illinois Supreme Court Rule 211 governs this issue"

(Please see Defendants' THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., AND HANS MAST'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF'S 2ND AMENDED MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF HANS MAST page 3 number 7)

7a) Plaintiff does not deny that Illinois Supreme Court Rule 211 applies generally but Plaintiff states that the Illinois Constitution, other Illinois Statutes and Illinois Supreme Court Rules and their committee comments, Illinois Rules of Evidence Illinois case law and Illinois Supreme Court Orders apply specifically. Since Defendants have no relevant response to all the other, they want this Honorable Court to see only what they believe best supports their position while ignoring the other. Defendants' position can best be expressed as "Pay no attention to that man behind the curtain!" From: The Wizard of Oz.

8) Plaintiff does not deny that Illinois Supreme Court Rule 211(c)(2) applies generally requiring affirmative action or waiver without said affirmative action but it is "trumped" by Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h) Remote Electronic Means Depositions and specifically by Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h)(2) Any exhibits or other demonstrative evidence to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition shall be provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, unless the deposition participants are able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

8a) The Committee Comments make it clear that waiver of those violations may be done by affirmative action. “Paragraph (h) … The Parties may agree pursuant to rule 201(i) to amend or waive any conditions of paragraph (h).”

The following is Illinois Supreme Court Rule 201 (i) Stipulations. If the parties so stipulate, discovery may take place before any person, for any purpose, at any time or place, and in any manner.

8b) Defendants have not provided evidence of any affirmative action (stipulation) although they have had ample time to do so.

8c) Additionally, if this Honorable Court decides that Illinois Supreme Court Rules generally can be waived by inaction or positive action Plaintiff advances that Illinois Supreme Court Order M.R.30370 and Illinois Supreme Court Corrected Order M.R.30370 are both the “mirror image” of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h)(2). (Please see Plaintiff’s Exhibit 5 and Exhibit 6 attached to Plaintiff’s Motion To Exclude)

8d) Although there are occasions where Illinois Supreme Court Rules may be waived, Defendants have not produced evidence that parties can waive ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT ORDERS.

9) Defendant again raises the issue of timeliness to which Plaintiff has already replied herein in great detail.

9a) Defendant then somewhat withdraws from the issue of timeliness, which the Plaintiff herein previously replied to, in order to again advance the position that Defendants did nothing wrong and all violations were caused “solely by Dulberg or his agents” to which Plaintiff has already replied to herein that Defendants’ attorney was an integral part of the problems as it was his suggestion to do a remote deposition and Defendants equipment and internet failures and Defendants' counsel's "saving paper" that caused the "lion's share" of the problems.

9b) Defendants thereafter launch into an axiomatic litany that is common when there are no true valid defenses, and without any proof, that "2) …any irregularities were harmless, 3)…any alleged irregularities simply be given its weight by the finder of fact (if as to any fact issue), 4)…no remedy be ordered in Dulberg's favor, and 5) the court weigh any remedy in favor of defendants it sees fit to order under Rule 201 © (1)(2) and (3). (Please see DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF'S 2ND AMENDED MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF HANS MAST page 3 last sentence to page 4 first paragraph.

9c) Defendants confuse what is "a prayer for relief " with what is required to be "Responses" to Plaintiff's Motion To Exclude and as such Defendants' axiomatic litany should be stricken as nonresponsive.

10) In Defendants' Response #10 Defendants admit the violation of Illinois Supreme Court Rule(s), Order(s) and defendants to follow Committee Comments as stated in Plaintiff's Reply 8), 8a), 8b, 8c and 8d) herein above.

10a) Defendants Response is as follows: 10) In response to Dulberg's argument at paragraph A3.3 of his 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude relating to his exhibit 16 (Email from defendant's counsel George K. Flynn) Dulberg takes the position that there was no discussion of any errors or irregularities in the "just concluded deposition." That is exactly right. [emphasis added] Dulberg's counsel did not raise any issues or objections in response to the email. suggestion that an additional session of Hans Mast's deposition was necessary or requested. Flynn didn't make any mention of it because any technical difficulties seemed inconsequential.

11) Defendants misstate the facts as Plaintiff has in hearings and status calls before this Honorable Court, in written Motions to Exclude and in this REPLY stated that the problems he complains of were caused by all parties.

11a) Contrary to Defendants allegation Plaintiff, from the time he was made aware of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition without any exhibits [emphasis added] from Defendants' Attorney's office. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 2 line 23-24 and page 4 line 7-9 which is part of the Clerk's online file) the many problems in the Deposition of Hans Mast has stated the relief he seeks in the exclusion of Hans Mast discovery Deposition and the granting of his request to take the discovery deposition within a reasonable time.

12) The Tilschner vs Spangler Appellate Court certified slip ruling Dulberg provided as an exhibit in the Motion to Exclude the deposition of Hans Mast is a case that the Popovich Firm and Hans Mast personally appeared in, argued, and received a copy of from the Appellate Court.

12a) The Tilschner vs Spangler Appellate court certified slip ruling is file stamped May 6, 2011 and was finalized/re-certified in November 2011, 6 months after the certified slip ruling was made and became superseded by the finalized/re-certified ruling within the Appellate clerks file.

12c) The Tilschner vs Spangler certified slip ruling was superseded by the finalized/re-certified ruling before Dulberg hired Mast on 12/1/2011.

12d) On November 20, 2013 at 7:26 AM Plaintiff emails Defendant Hans Mast the following message which has been given to Defendants in response to discovery requests " Ok we can meet. I will call Sheila today and set up a time. Please send me a link to the current Illinois Statute citing that the property owner is not liable for work done on their property resulting in injury to a neighbor. I need to read it myself and any links to recent case law in this area would be helpful as well…" (Please see Plaintiff's exhibit A attached)

12e) On November 20, 2013 Defendant Hans Mast admits to the above referenced meeting by (internal) Memorandum that was given to Plaintiff in response to discovery requests. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit B attached)

12f) On November 20, 2013, Plaintiff, and his friend (brother) Tom Kost met with Defendant Hans Mast to discuss the McGuire's $5,000 settlement offer and other issues with regard to this case.

12g) Tom Kost kept a rough set of handwritten notes of the November 20, 2013 meeting with Defendant Hans Mast. The handwritten notes were given to Defendants in response to discovery requests. (Please see Plaintiff's exhibit C attached)

Spangler as the number one result.

12j) Plaintiff requests that this Honorable Court take JUDICIAL NOTICE of the adjudicative fact that the references to Restatement (Second) of Torts Section 318 impliedly references Tilschner v. Spangler .

12k) Plaintiff could not obtain the Tilschner v. Spangler slip opinion dated May 6, 2011 on November 20, 2013 without the aid of Defendant Hans Mast who appeared in the matter.

12l) Plaintiff was questioned in his deposition about the "friend" at the November 20, 2013 meeting with Mast. Plaintiff Identified the "Friend" as his brother Tom Kost.

12m) Dulberg did turn over the handwritten notes taken during the November 20, 2013 meeting with Tom Kost and Defendant Hans Mast. (Please see Plaintiff's exhibit C attached)

12n) Dulberg did not answer discovery questions about Tilschner vs Spangler because Dulberg was not asked about Tilschner vs Spangler.

12o) It was Mast's equipment problems and Defendants' Counsel saving of paper and ink that was the cause of the breakdown during the discovery deposition of Hans Mast and why Mast only had the "Lajato" case when questioned regarding exhibit 12.

Morning Hans,
Ok we can meet. I will call Sheila today and set up a time.
Please send me a link to the current Illinois statute citing that the property owner is not liable for work done on their property resulting in injury to a neighbor.
I need to read it myself and any links to recent case law in this area would be helpful as well.
Thanks,
Paul

The legality of it all is that a property owner does not have legal liability for a worker (whether friend, son or otherwise) who does the work on his time, using his own independent skills. Here, I deposed the McGuires, and they had nothing to do with how Dave did the work other than to request the work to be done. They had no control on how Dave wielded the chain saw and cut you. its that simple. We don't have to accept the $5,000, but if we do not, the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion. So that's the situation.

They all left me out in the yard screaming for help while they were busy making sure they were covered.

She even went as far as to finally call the Emergency Room after I was already there just to tell me she was covered.

How selfish are people when they worry about if their insured over helping the person who was hurt and bleeding badly in their yard.

I'm glad she got her answer and had to share it with me only to find out her coverage won't even pay the medical bills.

I'm not happy with the offer.

As far as John Choyinski, he knows he has to call you and said he will tomorrow.

As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery....

MEMORANDUM

TO: File

FROM: Hans

DATE: November 20, 2013

SUBJECT: PAUL DULBERG

On November 20, 2013, I met with Paul and his friend to discuss the McGuire's $5,000 settlement offer and other issues with regard to this case. I also told them there is a dispute as to McGuire's liability, as they maintain that they were not directing Dave's work. Paul maintains that the McGuire's controlled everything that Dave was doing. I told him that that's not what the evidence seems to show. I told them the McGuire's could possibly get out of the case on motion, and the alternative is to accept the $5,000 offer. Paul wants to read the deps of the McGuire's and also wants us to order his and Dave's dep to review. I agreed to do so.

By copy of this memo, I ask Sheila to order copies of Paul and Dave's deps. I think defense counsel ordered them, so all we need to do is get copies. Please let me know if the copies have not been already ordered so we don't have to order the originals.

Thanks,

Hans

1) Defendants misstate, mischaracterize, misread, or do not understand Plaintiff's Motion to Exclude the Deposition of Hans Mast taken in violation of Supreme Court Rules and Supreme Court Orders.

1a) Plaintiff first learned of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition without any exhibits [emphasis added] from Defendants' Attorney's office. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 2 line 23-24 and page 4 line 7-9 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

1b) Plaintiff's current Attorney objected to the use of the discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast during the hearing because there's exhibit(s) missing. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 31 line 21-24 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

1c) Plaintiff's current Attorney more completely explained to the Court that the discovery deposition of Hans Mast in all its variations was missing exhibit 12. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 36 line 19-24 to page 37 line 1-3 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

1f) Plaintiff's current Attorney noticed that the label purporting to be authentic on Hans Mast's discovery deposition exhibit 12 did not to match the other 14 exhibit label as to fonts, shape, color, and DEPONENT's NAME (Hans Mist not Hans Mast).

1g) On May 18, 2022 Plaintiff's current Attorney caused to be served upon Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith a Subpoena For Records in which she was requested to produce "The original discovery deposition of Hans Mast taken in this matter on June 25, 2020 including all pages, all indexes, all exhibits and all stenographic/shorthand notes."

1h) Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith's complete response submitted on a flash drive was received on June 16, 2022.

1i) Contained on the flash drive is a file titled HPSCANS and therein were a series of communications and handwritten notes between the Certified Shorthand Reporter Barbara G. Smith and Noelle Kappes of US Legal Support and Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Therefore the first violation was of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h)(2) because Exhibit 12 that was to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition was not provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, nor were the deposition participants able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

1k) Contrary to Defendants inaccurate allegation they contributed mightily to the problems experienced in this remote deposition because in no way was the failure of Defendants' electric equipment (internet ?) during the deposition or Defendants' attorney's failure to print the few exhibits he had received before the deposition (to save paper ?) Plaintiff's fault. (emphasis added)

1l) The Deposition of Hans Mast was done remotely at the suggestion of Defendants' Attorney because on April 30, 2020 Defendants' Counsel sent an email to Plaintiff's former Counsel Julia C. Williams indicating an awareness of the current Supreme Court rules regarding depositions when he wrote "The recent temporary amendment to Rule 206 (facilitating depositions during the Covid crisis), prompted me to touch base and inquire whether you may want to consider attempting to depose Hans Mast remotely in the 2nd half of May.." Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion To Exclude)

1m) On June 23, 2020 Plaintiff's former attorney Julia C. Williams emailed Defendants' attorney 23 exhibits that she may [emphasis added] use in the discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast on June 25, 2020. Additionally she indicated that there could be additions [emphasis added] and there may be subtractions [emphasis added]. Additionally she wrote "…and I will do my best to send them ahead of time." (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #9 attached to Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion To Exclude)

1n) At the time the Deposition of Hans Mast was taken Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h)(2) was amended by SUPREME COURT ORDER M.R.30370 titled In re: Illinois Courts Response to Covid-19 Emergency/Impact On Discovery as follows:

(2) Any exhibits or other demonstrative evidence to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition shall be provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, unless the deposition participants are able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

(Please note that the underline emphasis was so written by the Illinois Supreme Court)

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit #5 and exhibit #6 attached to Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion To Exclude)

1o) The Committee Comments to Illinois Supreme Court Rule Paragraph (h) (Revised October 22, 1999) state "The parties may agree pursuant to Rule 201(i) to amend or waive any conditions of paragraph (h)."

1p) Defendants have not provided any proof, whether written or oral, of any waiver or amendment.

C 2037 V2

Therefore the second violation was of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h)(2) and Illinois Supreme Court Order was because the 15 Exhibits that were to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition were not provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, nor were the deposition participants able to view many of the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

2. Plaintiff's "late filing" of his 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude is a typical diversion of Defendants' and best described by quoting the play " Macbeth' Act 5, scene 5, lines 26-28 by Shakespeare "…It is a tale told…, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing." because the facts are as follows:

2a) Plaintiff, by Court Order of November 4, 2022 was granted up to and including November 21, 2022 to file and serve his Amended Motion to Exclude the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast.

2b) Plaintiff filed and served his Amended Motion to Exclude the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast on Defendants' Counsel on November 21, 2022 with all 17 Exhibits individually sent and titled Exhibits 1 through Exhibit 17. The same Amended Motion to exclude the Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast was filed, served, and accepted by the Circuit Clerk of McHenry County also on November 21, 2021. Therefore Plaintiff had complied with the November 4, 2022 order.

2c) Upon review of the Circuit Clerks filing Plaintiff's Attorney noticed that the last page of the filing (Exhibit 17) did not reflect the Exhibit Stamp and number(although the email sent to Defendants' Counsel was titled Exhibit 17) .

2d) Rather than waste this Courts' valuable time in motion practice Plaintiff refiled the motion with the only difference being the Exhibit 17 label was visible. Plaintiff titled it Plaintiff 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude the Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast. The Circuit Court Clerk accepted said filing on November 23, 2022.

2e) Defendants' counsel was made aware of the missing Exhibit 17 label on the last page of the initial timey filing but was out of his office at the time on personal business.

2d) In Defendants' Response to Plaintiff's 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude the Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast page 1 last sentence through page 2 first paragraph Defendants' Counsel states "Defendants hereby adopt their (oral) arguments contained in the transcript from the 11-4-22 hearing (Exhibit A) and submit this additional [emphasis added] response in opposition to Plaintiff's motion"

Therefore both Plaintiff and Defendants had "two bites of the apple", the Plaintiff's was a technical correction while Defendants was substantive.

3) Defendants complain that Plaintiff filed the Motion on October 23, 2022 but Defendants fail to state that what triggered this motion was an appropriate investigation into the facts based upon multiple subpoenas served upon persons involved after Plaintiff first learned of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition without any exhibits [emphasis added] from Defendants' Attorney's office. 3a) Plaintiffs rely not only upon his investigation triggered by Defendants attempting to use the Deposition without the 15 exhibits in April 2022 but also based upon Statute, Rules of Evidence, and case law.

3b) Plaintiff, pursuant to Illinois Rules of Evidence, Rule 201. JUDICIAL NOTICE OF ADJUDICATIVE FACTS:

(b) Kinds of Facts. A judicially noticed fact must be one not subject to reasonable dispute in that it is either (1) generally known within the territorial jurisdiction of the trial court or (2) capable of accurate and ready determination by resort to sources whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned

(d) When mandatory. A court shall take judicial notice if requested by a party and supplied with the necessary information.

(f) Time of Taking Notice. Judicial notice may be taken at any stage of the proceeding.

Plaintiff requests that this Honorable Court take JUDICIAL NOTICE of the adjudicative fact that Discovery Depositions when attached to a motion for summary judgment are evidence.

3c) Plaintiff advances two Appellate Court Cases, one civil and one criminal to show that depositions attached to motions, and in fact attached to a motion for summary judgement are evidence.

> "Initially, we note trial courts may entertain motions by defendants for summary judgment where the only evidence considered is plaintiff's own deposition testimony. (See e.g. Ralston v. Casanova (1984), 129 Ill.App.3d 1050, 85 Ill.Dec. 76, 473 N.E.2d 444.)"

Townsend v. Gaydosh, 554 N.E.2d 648, 197 Ill.App.3d 339, 143 Ill.Dec. 713

(Ill. App. 1990)

3d) Plaintiff relies upon Illinois Supreme Court Rule 211(c)(1) to timely challenge the admissibility of the testimonial evidence of the Discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast as Defendants are now trying to get this evidence admitted as an exhibit offered in evidence as an exhibit attached to their Motion for Summary Judgment.

3e) Dulberg properly seeks to exclude the discovery Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast based upon the Illinois Constitution, Illinois Statutes, Illinois Supreme Court Rules, and the Orders of the Illinois Supreme Court which the Defendants have decided do not apply to them based upon absurd theories.

4) What is truly “absurd” is Defendants attempt to characterize the combined violations of Illinois Supreme Court Rules and Orders of all parties as nothing more than a series of inconsequential de minimis actions.

5) Defendants’ fail to realize that they are not the Judge herein nor do they cite any rules, orders, cases etc. when they state “ But he should be required to take a position as to who committed the alleged violation(s).

5a) Further replying, Plaintiff has continuously stated, and herein states again that the violations of Illinois Supreme Court Rules and Orders were committed by all parties involved.

6) Defendants' again fail to realize that they are not the Judge herein nor do they cite any rules, orders, cases etc. when they state " Paul Dulberg personally observed the discovery deposition of Hans Mast taken remotely (by Zoom) on June 25, 2020. If he had an objections to alleged irregularities with the deposition, he had ample time to [emphasis added] bring such issues to the attention of his counsel, Julia Williams, and to his current counsel who appeared on his behalf on October 23, 2020.

(Please see Defendants' THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., AND HANS MAST'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF'S 2ND AMENDED MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF HANS MAST page 3 number 6)

6a) First, Defendants fail to acknowledge that what triggered this motion was an appropriate investigation into the facts based upon multiple subpoenas served upon persons involved after Plaintiff first learned of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Meyer was sent the hard copy of said deposition of Hans Mast without any exhibits [emphasis added] from Defendants' Attorney's office. (Please see Report of Proceedings April 27, 2022 page 2 line 23-24 and page 4 line 7-9 which is part of the Clerk's online file)

6b) Next, Plaintiff Motion to Exclude rests upon the laws of the State of Illinois as follows:

Sec. 1-104. Power of courts to make rules. (a) The Supreme Court of this State has

Unless otherwise indicated by the text, references in this Act to rules are to rules of the Supreme Court.

(a) Discovery, such as admissions of fact and of genuineness of documents, physical and mental examinations of parties and other persons, the taking of any depositions, and interrogatories, shall be in accordance with rules. [emphasis added]

6c) Additionally, in relation to when an objection to (testimonial) evidence can be made Plaintiff relies on Illinois Supreme Court Rule 211(c)(1) which states:

(c) As to Competency of Deponent; Admissibility of Testimony; Questions and Answers; Misconduct; Irregularities.

the deponent or admissibility of testimony may be made when the testimony is offered in evidence. [emphasis added]

6d) Defendants are currently attempting to have the discovery deposition of Hans Mast admitted into evidence as an exhibit to Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgement and therefore the time for objecting is now.

7) Defendants again fail to realize that they are not the Judge herein when they state " Illinois Supreme Court Rule 211 governs this issue"

(Please see Defendants' THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., AND HANS MAST'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF'S 2ND AMENDED MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF HANS MAST page 3 number 7)

7a) Plaintiff does not deny that Illinois Supreme Court Rule 211 applies generally but Plaintiff states that the Illinois Constitution, other Illinois Statutes and Illinois Supreme Court Rules and their committee comments, Illinois Rules of Evidence Illinois case law and Illinois Supreme Court Orders apply specifically. Since Defendants have no relevant response to all the other, they want this Honorable Court to see only what they believe best supports their position while ignoring the other. Defendants' position can best be expressed as "Pay no attention to that man behind the curtain!" From: The Wizard of Oz.

8) Plaintiff does not deny that Illinois Supreme Court Rule 211(c)(2) applies generally requiring affirmative action or waiver without said affirmative action but it is "trumped" by Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h) Remote Electronic Means Depositions and specifically by Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h)(2) Any exhibits or other demonstrative evidence to be presented to the deponent by any party at the deposition shall be provided to the officer administering the oath and all other parties within a reasonable period of time prior to the deposition, unless the deposition participants are able to view the exhibits in real time during the deposition.

8a) The Committee Comments make it clear that waiver of those violations may be done by affirmative action. “Paragraph (h) … The Parties may agree pursuant to rule 201(i) to amend or waive any conditions of paragraph (h).”

The following is Illinois Supreme Court Rule 201 (i) Stipulations. If the parties so stipulate, discovery may take place before any person, for any purpose, at any time or place, and in any manner.

8b) Defendants have not provided evidence of any affirmative action (stipulation) although they have had ample time to do so.

8c) Additionally, if this Honorable Court decides that Illinois Supreme Court Rules generally can be waived by inaction or positive action Plaintiff advances that Illinois Supreme Court Order M.R.30370 and Illinois Supreme Court Corrected Order M.R.30370 are both the “mirror image” of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 206(h)(2). (Please see Plaintiff’s Exhibit 5 and Exhibit 6 attached to Plaintiff’s Motion To Exclude)

8d) Although there are occasions where Illinois Supreme Court Rules may be waived, Defendants have not produced evidence that parties can waive ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT ORDERS.

9) Defendant again raises the issue of timeliness to which Plaintiff has already replied herein in great detail.

9a) Defendant then somewhat withdraws from the issue of timeliness, which the Plaintiff herein previously replied to, in order to again advance the position that Defendants did nothing wrong and all violations were caused “solely by Dulberg or his agents” to which Plaintiff has already replied to herein that Defendants’ attorney was an integral part of the problems as it was his suggestion to do a remote deposition and Defendants equipment and internet failures and Defendants' counsel's "saving paper" that caused the "lion's share" of the problems.

9b) Defendants thereafter launch into an axiomatic litany that is common when there are no true valid defenses, and without any proof, that "2) …any irregularities were harmless, 3)…any alleged irregularities simply be given its weight by the finder of fact (if as to any fact issue), 4)…no remedy be ordered in Dulberg's favor, and 5) the court weigh any remedy in favor of defendants it sees fit to order under Rule 201 © (1)(2) and (3). (Please see DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF'S 2ND AMENDED MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF HANS MAST page 3 last sentence to page 4 first paragraph.

9c) Defendants confuse what is "a prayer for relief " with what is required to be "Responses" to Plaintiff's Motion To Exclude and as such Defendants' axiomatic litany should be stricken as nonresponsive.

10) In Defendants' Response #10 Defendants admit the violation of Illinois Supreme Court Rule(s), Order(s) and defendants to follow Committee Comments as stated in Plaintiff's Reply 8), 8a), 8b, 8c and 8d) herein above.

10a) Defendants Response is as follows: 10) In response to Dulberg's argument at paragraph A3.3 of his 2nd Amended Motion to Exclude relating to his exhibit 16 (Email from defendant's counsel George K. Flynn) Dulberg takes the position that there was no discussion of any errors or irregularities in the "just concluded deposition." That is exactly right. [emphasis added] Dulberg's counsel did not raise any issues or objections in response to the email. suggestion that an additional session of Hans Mast's deposition was necessary or requested. Flynn didn't make any mention of it because any technical difficulties seemed inconsequential.

11) Defendants misstate the facts as Plaintiff has in hearings and status calls before this Honorable Court, in written Motions to Exclude and in this REPLY stated that the problems he complains of were caused by all parties.

11a) Contrary to Defendants allegation Plaintiff, from the time he was made aware of the aforesaid violations during a hearing on April 27, 2022 when the Honorable Judge Thomas A. Morning Hans,
Ok we can meet. I will call Sheila today and set up a time.
Please send me a link to the current Illinois statute citing that the property owner is not liable for work done on their property resulting in injury to a neighbor.
I need to read it myself and any links to recent case law in this area would be helpful as well.
Thanks,

The legality of it all is that a property owner does not have legal liability for a worker (whether friend, son or otherwise) who does the work on his time, using his own independent skills. Here, I deposed the McGuires, and they had nothing to do with how Dave did the work other than to request the work to be done. They had no control on how Dave wielded the chain saw and cut you. its that simple. We don't have to accept the $5,000, but if we do not, the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion. So that's the situation.

They all left me out in the yard screaming for help while they were busy making sure they were covered.

She even went as far as to finally call the Emergency Room after I was already there just to tell me she was covered.

How selfish are people when they worry about if their insured over helping the person who was hurt and bleeding badly in their yard.

I'm glad she got her answer and had to share it with me only to find out her coverage won't even pay the medical bills.

I'm not happy with the offer.

As far as John Choyinski, he knows he has to call you and said he will tomorrow.

You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery....

MEMORANDUM

TO: File

FROM: Hans

DATE: November 20, 2013

SUBJECT: PAUL DULBERG

On November 20, 2013, I met with Paul and his friend to discuss the McGuire's $5,000 settlement offer and other issues with regard to this case. I also told them there is a dispute as to McGuire's liability, as they maintain that they were not directing Dave's work. Paul maintains that the McGuire's controlled everything that Dave was doing. I told him that that's not what the evidence seems to show. I told them the McGuire's could possibly get out of the case on motion, and the alternative is to accept the $5,000 offer. Paul wants to read the deps of the McGuire's and also wants us to order his and Dave's dep to review. I agreed to do so.

By copy of this memo, I ask Sheila to order copies of Paul and Dave's deps. I think defense counsel ordered them, so all we need to do is get copies. Please let me know if the copies have not been already ordered so we don't have to order the originals.

Thanks,

Hans

PREAMBLE Plaintiff's Response herein cannot follow the 22nd Judicial Circuit McHenry County, Illinois Local Rule 2.04 B.3.a because Defendant violated ignored Local Rule 2.04 A.3.

ADDITIONALLY, DEFENDANTS' IMPROPERLY RELYING UPON 735 ILCS 5 13-214.3(b) as existed prior to the Illinois Supreme Court case S r an Real s a e Ser s. Inc. . Carlson. IL . . d Ill.Dec. Ill. and ignoring Plaintiff's Complaint and the undisputed facts, state that Plaintiff suffered that statute's precipitating pecuniary injury on January 29, 2014 the day he accepted a settlement based upon the representations of Defendant Hans Mast that Defendants Carolyn and William McGuire will be dismissed from the underlying case on a Motion for Summary Judgment and Plaintiff will receive nothing, further relying upon Tilschner . Span ler Ill.App. d . . d Ill.Dec. Ill.App. o. . (A case in which Defendants herein appeared and lost) in the underlying case against Defendants Carolyn and William McGuire for 5,000.00, therefore misstating the law and the undisputed facts when they:

a) ignore the fact that Plaintiff has always relied on the binding arbitration award of 660,000.00 reduced by 15 because of Plaintiff's comparative fault as determined by Mediation Judge James P. Etchingham, (Ret.) on December 12, 2016 that was further reduced by the Binding Mediation Award being capped in a High-Low agreement not signed by Plaintiff in the amount of 300,000.00 as the day he suffered a pecuniary loss because of the settlement agreement he was convinced to sign by Defendant Hans Mast. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #1 attached);

b) ignore the fact that Defendants' citations prior to the entering of the Judgement with Opinion (with analysis) in S r an Real s a e Ser s. Inc. . Carlson. IL distinguished and construed 735 ILCS 5 13-214.3(b) as to when the required pecuniary loss happens;

c) ignore the fact that as Chief Justice Thomas stated in Por er . Deca r Me orial Hospi al e al. . . d . Ill. d Ill.Dec. Ill. on [882 N.E.2d 590] When this court construes a statute, that construction is considered a part of the statute itself unless and until the legislature amends it contrary to this court's interpretation. Miller . Loc e Ill. d Ill.Dec. . . d

d) ignore the fact that Plaintiff filed his original Complaint for Legal Malpractice on November 28, 2017 which was within (1) one year of suffering his pecuniary loss on December 12, 2016. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #2 attached).

VIOLATION OF ILCS -

In Defendants' V ARGUMENT they improperly raise within their Motion for Summary Judgement a Motion To Dismiss based upon 735 ILCS 5 2-619(a)(5) That the action was not commenced within the time limited by law. Defendants fail to comply the requirements of 735 ILCS 5 2-619.1 which reads as follows:

(735 ILCS 5 2-619.1) (from Ch. 110, par. 2-619.1)
Sec. 2-619.1. Combined motions. Motions with respect to pleadings under Section 2-615,motions for involuntary dismissal or other relief under Section 2-619, and motions for summary judgment under Section 2-1005 may be filed together as a single motion in any combination. A combined motion, however, shall be in parts. Each part shall be limited to and shall specify that it is made under one of Sections 2-615, 2-619, or 2-1005. Each part shall also clearly show the points or grounds relied upon under the Section upon which it is based.
(Source: P.A. 86-1156.)

Further responding, Plaintiff states that this a Motion To Dismiss based upon 735 ILCS 5 2-619(a)(5) and 735 ILCS 5 2-614.3 was brought by these Defendants and denied on May 10, 2018. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #3 attached).

VIOLATION OF 22ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE 2.04 A

Defendants fail to comply the requirements of VIOLATION OF 22ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE 2.04 A.3. which reads as follows:

MOTIONS FOR SUMMARY JUDGEMENT
A. M P r . With each motion for summary judgment filed pursuant to 735 ILCS 5 2-1005, the moving party shall serve and file or cause to be received by the Circuit Court Clerk:
1. Any affidavits and other materials referred to in Supreme Court Rule 191,
2. A supporting memorandum of law not exceeding 15 pages,
3. A statement of material facts as to which the moving party contends there is no genuine issue that entitles the moving party to a judgment as a matter of law, and that also include: a description of the parties, and

The statement referred to in three (3) shall consist of short numbered paragraphs, including within each paragraph specific references to affidavits, parts of the record, and other supporting materials relied upon to support the facts set forth in that paragraph. Failure to submit such a statement constitutes grounds for denial or striking of the motion.

A) Plaintiff restates VIOLATION OF 22ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE 2.04 A.3. above as if fully stated here as to why Plaintiff cannot contest Defendant's point by point statement of uncontested M r [emphasis added] facts but pursuant to 22ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE 2.04 B.3.b. states that any alleged uncontested M r [emphasis added] facts found within Defendants' non-compliant Motion For Summary judgment are denied as contested.

B) Pursuant to 22ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE 2.04 B.3.b. Plaintiff now makes " A statement consisting of short numbered paragraphs of any additional facts that require the denial of summary judgment…" as follows:

B1) The material fact that Mast and Popovich entered into an attorney client relationship with Dulberg is contested based upon Defendants answer and affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Popovich entered into an attorney client relationship with Dulberg. Defendants deny the remainder of the allegations contained in Paragraph 33. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.6 33 attached).

B2) The material fact that based upon the attorney client relationship, Mast and Popovich owed professional duties to Dulberg, including to a duty of care is contested as established by Defendants' answer and affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Paragraph 34 calls for legal conclusions, to which no answer need be given. To the extent that an answer is required, Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 34. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.6 34 attached).

B3) The material fact that based upon the fact that Mast urged Dulberg to settle the claims against the McGuire's for 5,000 is contested as established by Defendants' answer and affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 38. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.7 38 attached).

B4) The material fact that on November 18, 2013, Mast wrote two emails to Dulberg urging Dulberg to accept the 5,000.00, "the McGuire's atty has offered us (you) 5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only. As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the 5,000 now. You probably won'tsee [sic] any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery...." "So if we do not accept their 5,000 they will simply file a motion and get out of the case for free. That's the only other option is letting them file motion getting out of the case". (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.) is contested as established by Defendants 'answer and affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Mast authored emails contained in Group Exhibit C. Defendants deny that Plaintiff has completely and accurately transcribed the emails into paragraph 39. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.7 39 attached).

B5) The material fact that on November 20, 2013, Mast emailed Dulberg urging him to accept the 5,000.00 otherwise “the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion.” (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.) is contested as established by Defendants’ answer and affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Mast authored emails contained in Group Exhibit C. Defendants deny that Plaintiff has completely and accurately transcribed the emails into paragraph 40. (Please see Plaintiff’s Exhibit SJR #4 pg.7 40 attached).

B6) The material fact that on or around December 2013 or January 2014, Mast met with Dulberg and again advised them [sic] there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and verbally told Dulberg that he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of 5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing is contested as established by Defendants’ answer and affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants admit that on or around December 2013 or January 2014 Mast met with Dulberg, but deny that Mast told Dulberg he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of 5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing. (Please see Plaintiff’s Exhibit SJR #4 pg.7 and pg.8 41 attached).

B7) The Material fact that Mast advised Dulberg that the Restatement of Torts 318 was the only mechanism to recover from the McGuires and that Illinois did not recogni e the Restate of Torts 318, thus Dulberg did not have any viable claims against the McGuires is contested based upon Defendants’ Answer and Affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 42.

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.8 42 attached).

B8) The Material fact that Mast failed to advise or inform Dulberg of other basis for recovery against the McGuires is contested because of Defendants' Answer and Affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 43.

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.8 43 attached).

B9) The Material fact that Mast's erroneously advice that Dulberg's claims against the McGuire's were not viable and that Dulberg would not recover if he pursued the claims, Dulberg settled with the McGuire's and their insurance company, Auto-Owners Insurance Company, for 5,000, which included a release of all claims against the McGuire's and claim for indemnification under the McGuire's insurance policy. Exhibit D (Settlement) is contested because of Defendants' Answer and Affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 44.

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.8 44 attached).

B10) The Material fact that Mast reassured Dulberg that Dulberg would be able to receive the full amount of any eventual recovery from Gagnon is contested because of Defendants' Answer and Affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 47.

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.9 47 attached).

B11) The Material fact that only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon did he discover that his claims against the McGuires were viable and valuable is contested because of Defendants' Answer and Affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 55.

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.10 55 attached).

B12) The Material facts that Mast and Popovich, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed Dulberg by violating the standard of care owed Dulberg in the following ways and respects:

(a) failed to fully and properly investigate the claims and or basis for liability against the McGuires;

(b) failed to properly obtain information through discovery regarding McGuires assets, insurance coverages, and or ability to pay a judgement and or settlement against them;

(c) failed to accurately advise Dulberg of the McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance coverage related to the claims against them and or Dulberg's ability to recover through McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance policies, including, but not limited to, incorrectly informing Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was "only 100,000" and no insurance company would pay close to that;

(d) failed to take such actions as were necessary during their respective representation of Dulberg to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed and or were principals of Gagnon, and who sought the

(f) Coerced Dulberg, verbally and though emails, into accepting a settlement with the McGuires for 5,000 by misleading Dulberg into believing that he had no other choice but to accept the settlement or else "The McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion." is contested because of Defendants' Answer and Affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 58 and subparagraphs (a) through (f) inclusive.

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pgs.10-11 58(a)-(f) attached).

B13) The Material fact that as a direct result of Mast and Popovich's wrongful actions, Dulberg suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of Mast and Popovich in urging Dulberg to release the McGuires, lost the sum of well over 300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of Mast and The Law Offices of Thomas Popovich, P.C. is contested because of Defendants' Answer and Affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 59.

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.11 59 attached).

B14) The Material facts contained in Defendants SECOND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

1. In Plaintiff's Complaint, it alleges that The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast failed to adequately represent him in the action captioned, Pa l D l er Plain i . Da id a non e al. De endan s, Case No. 12 LA 178, McHenry County, Illinois (the Underlying Action").

2. Plaintiff's damages, if any, were due to Plaintiff's own fault. In the event Defendants are held liable, any damages awarded to Plaintiff must be reduced by Plaintiff's proximate share of liability. The Plaintiff was negligent and caused his injuries in the following ways:

(a) Failed to seek outside counsel if he was reluctant to settle the underlying case with the McGuires.

(b) Provided Mast and Popovich with authority to make a settlement demand against the McGuires for less than 100,000.

(c) Received a written settlement agreement from the McGuires, forwarded by U.S.Mail from Mast, examined it, deliberated upon it, accepted it, signed it, and mailed it back to Mast.

31. In May 2012, Dulberg hired Mast and Popovich to represent him in prosecuting his claims against Gagnon and the McGuires. Exhibit A.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that in May 2012, Dulberg hired Popovich to represent him in prosecuting his claims against Gagnon and the McGuires.

32. Mast and Popovich, on behalf of Dulberg filed a complaint against Gagnon and the McGuires. Exhibit B.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Popovich, on behalf of Dulberg filed a complaint against Gagnon and the McGuires. Defendants deny the remainder of the allegations contained in Paragraph 32.

33. Mast and Popovich entered into an attorney client relationship with Dulberg.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Popovich entered into an attorney client relationship with Dulberg. Defendants deny the remainder of the allegations contained in Paragraph 33.

34. Based upon the attorney client relationship, Mast and Popovich owed professional duties to Dulberg, including to a duty of care.

ANSWER: Paragraph 34 calls for legal conclusions, to which no answer need be given. To the extent that an answer is required, Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 34.

35. On behalf of Dulberg, Mast and Popovich prosecuted claims against both Gagnon and the McGuire's.

ANSWER: Defendants admit the allegations contained in Paragraph 35.

36. The claims against Gagnon were resolved later through binding mediation with new counsel.

ANSWER: Defendants lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations contained in Paragraph 36.

37. The claims against the McGuires included (a) common law premises liability, (b) statutory premises liability, (c) common law negligence, and (d) vicarious liability for the acts of their son and agent.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that the allegations made in the complaint stand for themselves. Defendants deny the remainder of the allegations contained in Paragraph 37.

38. In late 2013 or early, Mast urged Dulberg to settle the claims against the McGuire's for $5,000.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 38.

39. On November 18, 2013, Mast wrote two emails to Dulberg urging Dulberg to accept the $5,000.00, "the McGuire's atty has offered us (you) $5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only. As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery...." * * * "So if we do not accept their $5,000 they will simply file a motion and get out of the case for free. That's the only other option is letting them file motion getting out of the case". (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Mast authored emails contained in Group Exhibit C. Defendants deny that Plaintiff has completely and accurately transcribed the emails into paragraph 39.

40. Similarly, on November 20, 2013, Mast emailed Dulberg urging him to accept the $5,000.00 otherwise "the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion." (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Mast authored emails contained in Group Exhibit C. Defendants deny that Plaintiff has completely and accurately transcribed the emails into paragraph 40.

41. On or around December 2013 or January 2014, Mast met with Dulberg and again advised them [sic] there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and verbally told Dulberg that he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of $5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing.

ANSWER: Defendants admit that on or around December 2013 or January 2014 Mast met with Dulberg, but deny that Mast told Dulberg he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of $5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing.

42. During that same time frame, Mast advised Dulberg that the Restatement of Torts 318 was the only mechanism to recover from the McGuires and that Illinois did not recognize the Restate of Torts 318, thus Dulberg did not have any viable claims against the McGuires.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 42.

43. Mast failed to advise or inform Dulberg of other basis for recovery against the McGuires.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 43.

44. Based upon Mast's erroneously [sic] advice that Dulberg's claims against the McGuire's were not viable and that Dulberg would not recover if he pursued the claims, Dulberg settled with the McGuire's and their insurance company, Auto-Owners Insurance Company, for $5,000, which included a release of all claims against the McGuire's and claim for indemnification under the McGuire's insurance policy. Exhibit D (Settlement).

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 44.

45. Mast also told Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was limited to $100,000.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that if information regarding Gagnon's insurance policy being limited to $100,000 was provided, it was gleaned from communications with defense counsel.

46. From 2013 forward, Mast and Popovich represented repeatedly to Dulberg that there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and led Dulberg to believe that the matter was being properly handled.

ANSWER: Defendants admit the allegations contained in Paragraph 46.

47. Mast also reassured Dulberg that Dulberg would be able to receive the full amount of any eventual recovery from Gagnon.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 47.

48. After accepting the $5,000 settlement, Dulberg wrote Mast an email on January 29, 2014 stating "I trust your judgment." (See Email attached as Exhibit E.)

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Dulberg authored emails contained in Group Exhibit E. Defendants deny that Plaintiff has completely and accurately transcribed the emails into paragraph 48.

49. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Dulberg into 2015 and continuously assured him that his case was being handled properly.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Popovich continued to represent Dulberg into 2015, and that Mast was the primary handling attorney. Defendants deny the remainder of the allegations contained in Paragraph 49.

50. The McGuires owned their home, had homeowner's insurance, and had other property that could have been utilized to pay a judgment against them and in favor of Dulberg.

ANSWER: Defendants lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations contained in Paragraph 50.

51. Dulberg cooperated with and appropriately assisted Mast and Popovich in prosecuting the claims against Gagnon and the McGuires.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 51.

52. In December of 2016, Dulberg participated in binding mediation related to his claims against Gagnon.

ANSWER: Defendants lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations contained in Paragraph 52.

53. In December of 2016, Dulberg was awarded a gross amount of $660,000 and a net award of $561,000 after his contributory negligence was considered.

ANSWER: Defendants lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations contained in Paragraph 53.

54. Dulberg was only able to recovery approximately $300,000 of the award from Gagnon's insurance and was unable to collect from Gagnon personally.

ANSWER: Defendants lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations contained in Paragraph 54.

55. Only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon did he discover that his claims against the McGuires were viable and valuable.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 55.

56. Following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 56.

57. It was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation, that Dulberg became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000.00 on an "all or nothing" basis.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 57.

58. Mast and Popovich, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed Dulberg by violating the standard of care owed Dulberg in the following ways and respects:

(a) failed to fully and properly investigate the claims and/or basis for liability against the McGuires;

(b) failed to properly obtain information through discovery regarding McGuires assets, insurance coverages, and/or ability to pay a judgement and/or settlement against them;

(c) failed to accurately advise Dulberg of the McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance coverage related to the claims against them and/or Dulberg's ability to recover through McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance policies, including, but not limited to, incorrectly informing Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was "only $100,000" and no insurance company would pay close to that;

(d) failed to take such actions as were necessary during their respective representation of Dulberg to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed and/or were principals of Gagnon, and who sought the assistance Dulberg by for example failing to obtain an expert;

(e) failed to accurately advise Dulberg regarding the McGuires' liability, likelihood of success of claims against the McGuires, the McGuires' ability [sic] pay any judgment or settlement against them through insurance or other assets, and/or necessity of prosecuting the [sic] all the claims against both the McGuires and Gagnon in order to obtain a full recovery;

(f) Coerced Dulberg, verbally and though emails, into accepting a settlement with the McGuires for $5,000 by misleading Dulberg into believing that he had no other choice but to accept the settlement or else "The McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion."

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 58 and subparagraphs (a) through (f) inclusive.

59. As a direct result of Mast and Popovich's wrongful actions, Dulberg suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of Mast and Popovich in urging Dulberg to release the McGuires, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of Mast and The Law Offices of Thomas Popovich, P.C.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 59.

WHEREFORE, Defendants, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., and HANS MAST, respectfully request that this Court grant judgment in their favor, and against Plaintiff, and for any further relief that this Court deems fair and proper.

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

FIRST AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE: CONTRIBUTORY NEGLIGENCE

1. Plaintiff filed a one count Complaint, sounding in negligence, alleging that Defendants failed to properly represent him in the prosecution of a personal injury case, as more fully stated in the Second Amended Complaint, which is incorporated herein.

2. Plaintiff's damages, if any, were due to Plaintiff's own fault. In the event Defendants are held liable, any damages awarded to Plaintiff must be reduced by Plaintiff's proximate share of liability. The Plaintiff was negligent and caused his injuries in the following ways:

(a) Failed to seek outside counsel if he was reluctant to settle the underlying case with the McGuires.

(b) Provided Mast and Popovich with authority to make a settlement demand against the McGuires for less than $100,000.

(c) Received a written settlement agreement from the McGuires, forwarded by U.S. Mail from Mast, examined it, deliberated upon it, accepted it, signed it, and mailed it back to Mast.

(d) Retained successor counsel after Mast and Popovich withdrew, and agreed to a "high-low" agreement at a binding mediation which limited Dulberg's potential recovery against the remaining Defendant, Gagnon.

3. If Plaintiff's contributing fault is found to be more than 50% of the proximate cause of the injury or damage, then Plaintiff shall be barred from recovering any damages whatsoever.

WHEREFORE, Defendants, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. and HANS MAST, respectfully request that any damages awarded to Plaintiff, be reduced by Plaintiff's proximate share of liability or, if such share is more than 50%, be barred in its entirety.

SECOND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE – STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

1. In Plaintiff's Complaint, it alleges that The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast failed to adequately represent him in the action captioned, Paul Dulberg, Plaintiff v. David Gagnon, et al., Defendants, Case No. 12 LA 178, McHenry County, Illinois (the 'Underlying Action").

2. Plaintiff's damages, if any, were due to Plaintiff's own fault. In the event Defendants are held liable, any damages awarded to Plaintiff must be reduced by Plaintiff's proximate share of liability. The Plaintiff was negligent and caused his injuries in the following ways:

(a) Failed to seek outside counsel if he was reluctant to settle the underlying case with the McGuires.

(b) Provided Mast and Popovich with authority to make a settlement demand against the McGuires for less than $100,000.

(c) Received a written settlement agreement from the McGuires, forwarded by U.S. Mail from Mast, examined it, deliberated upon it, accepted it, signed it, and mailed it back to Mast.

(d) Retained successor counsel after Mast and Popovich withdrew, and agreed to a "high-low" agreement at a binding mediation which limited Dulberg's potential recovery against the remaining Defendant, Gagnon.

3. Plaintiff, however, did not file this action until November 28, 2017, more than two years after the applicable statute of limitations had run.

4. Accordingly, this matter is time-barred.

WHEREFORE, Defendants, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. and HANS MAST, respectfully request that Plaintiff be completely barred from recovery under the statute of limitations.

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

THIRD AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE: PROXIMATE CAUSE

1. Plaintiff filed a one count Complaint, sounding in negligence, alleging that Defendants failed to properly represent him in the prosecution of a personal injury case, as more fully stated in the Second Amended Complaint, which is incorporated herein.

2. Plaintiff retained successor counsel after Popovich and Mast withdrew. To the extent that any malpractice occurred during Dulberg's representation by the Popovich firm or its agents, which is expressly denied, and to the extent that any malpractice or proximately caused damages could have been remedied by Dulberg and his successor counsel, then Mast and Popovich can never be found to be the proximate cause of Dulberg's damages.

WHEREFORE, Defendants, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. and HANS MAST, respectfully request that judgment be entered on their behalf and against Plaintiff, Dulberg.

PAUL DULBERG'S ANSWERS TO DEFENDANTS' AFFIRMATIIVE DEFENSES

Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorneys, The Clinton Law Firm, LLC, answers Paul Dulberg's Affirmative Defenses as follows:

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES
FIRST AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE: CONTRIBUTION NEGLIGENCE

1. Plaintiff filed a one count Complaint, sounding in negligence, alleging that Defendants failed to properly represent him in the prosecution of a personal injury case, as more fully stated in the Second Amended Complaint, which is incorporated herein.

ANSWER: Plaintiff admits the allegations of this Paragraph #1.

2. Plaintiffs damages, if any, were due to Plaintiffs own fault. In the event Defendants are held liable, any damages awarded to Plaintiff must be reduced by Plaintiffs proximate share of liability. The Plaintiff was negligent and caused his injuries in the following ways:
   (a) Failed to seek outside counsel if he was reluctant to settle the underlying case with the McGuires.
   (b) Provided Mast and Popovich with authority to make a settlement demand against the McGuires for less than $100,000.

PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J POPOVICH, P C AND HANS MAST'S MOTION MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF THEIR MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT FILED IN VIOLATION OF ILCS - , ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE A AND CONTRARY TO ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT PRECEDENT AND ILCS -

Now Comes Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorney Alphonse A. Talarico, and for his RESPONSE TO DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S MOTION MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF THEIR MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT FILED IN VIOLATION OF 735 ILCS 5 2-619.1, 22ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE 2.04 AND CONTRARY TO ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT PRECEDENT AND 735 ILCS 5 13-214.3(b) states as follows:

PREAMBLE Plaintiff's Response herein cannot follow the 22nd Judicial Circuit McHenry County, Illinois Local Rule 2.04 B.3.a because Defendant violated ignored Local Rule 2.04 A.3.

ADDITIONALLY, DEFENDANTS' IMPROPERLY RELYING UPON 735 ILCS 5 13-214.3(b) as existed prior to the Illinois Supreme Court case S r an Real s a e Ser s. Inc. . Carlson. IL . . d Ill.Dec. Ill. and ignoring Plaintiff's Complaint and the undisputed facts, state that Plaintiff suffered that statute's precipitating pecuniary injury on January 29, 2014 the day he accepted a settlement based upon the representations of Defendant Hans Mast that Defendants Carolyn and William McGuire will be dismissed from the underlying case on a Motion for Summary Judgment and Plaintiff will receive nothing, further relying upon Tilschner . Span ler Ill.App. d . . d Ill.Dec. Ill.App. o. . (A case in which Defendants herein appeared and lost) in the underlying case against Defendants Carolyn and William McGuire for 5,000.00, therefore misstating the law and the undisputed facts when they:

a) ignore the fact that Plaintiff has always relied on the binding arbitration award of 660,000.00 reduced by 15 because of Plaintiff's comparative fault as determined by Mediation Judge James P. Etchingham, (Ret.) on December 12, 2016 that was further reduced by the Binding Mediation Award being capped in a High-Low agreement not signed by Plaintiff in the amount of 300,000.00 as the day he suffered a pecuniary loss because of the settlement agreement he was convinced to sign by Defendant Hans Mast. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #1 attached);

b) ignore the fact that Defendants' citations prior to the entering of the Judgement with Opinion (with analysis) in S r an Real s a e Ser s. Inc. . Carlson. IL distinguished and construed 735 ILCS 5 13-214.3(b) as to when the required pecuniary loss happens;

c) ignore the fact that as Chief Justice Thomas stated in Por er . Deca r Me orial Hospi al e al. . . d . Ill. d Ill.Dec. Ill. on [882 N.E.2d 590] When this court construes a statute, that construction is considered a part of the statute itself unless and until the legislature amends it contrary to this court's interpretation. Miller . Loc e Ill. d Ill.Dec. . . d

d) ignore the fact that Plaintiff filed his original Complaint for Legal Malpractice on November 28, 2017 which was within (1) one year of suffering his pecuniary loss on December 12, 2016. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #2 attached).

VIOLATION OF ILCS -

In Defendants' V ARGUMENT they improperly raise within their Motion for Summary Judgement a Motion To Dismiss based upon 735 ILCS 5 2-619(a)(5) That the action was not commenced within the time limited by law. Defendants fail to comply

the requirements of 735 ILCS 5 2-619.1 which reads as follows:

(735 ILCS 5 2-619.1) (from Ch. 110, par. 2-619.1)
Sec. 2-619.1. Combined motions. Motions with respect to pleadings under Section 2-615,motions for involuntary dismissal or other relief under Section 2-619, and motions for summary judgment under Section 2-1005 may be filed together as a single motion in any combination. A combined motion, however, shall be in parts. Each part shall be limited to and shall specify that it is made under one of Sections 2-615, 2-619, or 2-1005. Each part shall also clearly show the points or grounds relied upon under the Section upon which it is based.

Further responding, Plaintiff states that this a Motion To Dismiss based upon 735 ILCS 5 2-619(a)(5) and 735 ILCS 5 2-614.3 was brought by these Defendants and denied on May 10, 2018. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #3 attached).

VIOLATION OF 22ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE 2.04 A

Defendants fail to comply the requirements of VIOLATION OF 22ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE 2.04 A.3. which reads as follows:

MOTIONS FOR SUMMARY JUDGEMENT
A. M P r . With each motion for summary judgment filed pursuant to 735 ILCS 5 2-1005, the moving party shall serve and file or cause to be received by the Circuit Court Clerk:
1. Any affidavits and other materials referred to in Supreme Court Rule 191,
2. A supporting memorandum of law not exceeding 15 pages,
3. A statement of material facts as to which the moving party contends there is no genuine issue that entitles the moving party to a judgment as a matter of law, and that also include: a description of the parties, and

The statement referred to in three (3) shall consist of short numbered paragraphs, including within each paragraph specific references to affidavits, parts of the record, and other supporting materials relied upon to support the facts set forth in that paragraph. Failure to submit such a statement constitutes grounds for denial or striking of the motion.

A) Plaintiff restates VIOLATION OF 22ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE 2.04 A.3. above as if fully stated here as to why Plaintiff cannot contest Defendant's point by point statement of uncontested M r [emphasis added] facts but pursuant to 22ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE 2.04 B.3.b. states that any alleged uncontested M r [emphasis added] facts found within Defendants' non-compliant Motion For Summary judgment are denied as contested.

B) Pursuant to 22ND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT MCHENRY ILLINOIS LOCAL RULE 2.04 B.3.b. Plaintiff now makes " A statement consisting of short numbered paragraphs of any additional facts that require the denial of summary judgment…" as follows:

B1) The material fact that Mast and Popovich entered into an attorney client relationship with Dulberg is contested based upon Defendants answer and affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Popovich entered into an attorney client relationship with Dulberg. Defendants deny the remainder of the allegations contained in Paragraph 33. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.6 33 attached).

B2) The material fact that based upon the attorney client relationship, Mast and Popovich owed professional duties to Dulberg, including to a duty of care is contested as established by Defendants' answer and affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Paragraph 34 calls for legal conclusions, to which no answer need be given. To the extent that an answer is required, Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 34. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.6 34 attached).

B3) The material fact that based upon the fact that Mast urged Dulberg to settle the claims against the McGuire's for 5,000 is contested as established by Defendants' answer and affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 38. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.7 38 attached).

B4) The material fact that on November 18, 2013, Mast wrote two emails to Dulberg urging Dulberg to accept the 5,000.00, "the McGuire's atty has offered us (you) 5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only. As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the 5,000 now. You probably won'tsee [sic] any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery...." (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.) is contested as established by Defendants 'answer and affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Mast authored emails contained in Group Exhibit C. Defendants deny that Plaintiff has completely and accurately transcribed the emails into paragraph 39. (Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.7 39 attached).

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Mast authored emails contained in Group Exhibit C. Defendants deny that Plaintiff has completely and accurately transcribed the emails into paragraph 40. (Please see Plaintiff’s Exhibit SJR #4 pg.7 40 attached).

B6) The material fact that on or around December 2013 or January 2014, Mast met with Dulberg and again advised them [sic] there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and verbally told Dulberg that he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of 5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing is contested as established by Defendants’ answer and affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants admit that on or around December 2013 or January 2014 Mast met with Dulberg, but deny that Mast told Dulberg he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of 5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing. (Please see Plaintiff’s Exhibit SJR #4 pg.7 and pg.8 41 attached).

B7) The Material fact that Mast advised Dulberg that the Restatement of Torts 318 was the only mechanism to recover from the McGuires and that Illinois did not recogni e the Restate of Torts 318, thus Dulberg did not have any viable claims against the McGuires is contested based upon Defendants’ Answer and Affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 42.

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.8 42 attached).

B8) The Material fact that Mast failed to advise or inform Dulberg of other basis for recovery against the McGuires is contested because of Defendants' Answer and Affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 43.

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.8 43 attached).

B9) The Material fact that Mast's erroneously advice that Dulberg's claims against the McGuire's were not viable and that Dulberg would not recover if he pursued the claims, Dulberg settled with the McGuire's and their insurance company, Auto-Owners Insurance Company, for 5,000, which included a release of all claims against the McGuire's and claim for indemnification under the McGuire's insurance policy. Exhibit D (Settlement) is contested because of Defendants' Answer and Affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 44.

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.8 44 attached).

B10) The Material fact that Mast reassured Dulberg that Dulberg would be able to receive the full amount of any eventual recovery from Gagnon is contested because of Defendants' Answer and Affirmative defenses.

B11) The Material fact that only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon did he discover that his claims against the McGuires were viable and valuable is contested because of Defendants' Answer and Affirmative defenses.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 55.

(Please see Plaintiff's Exhibit SJR #4 pg.10 55 attached).

B12) The Material facts that Mast and Popovich, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed Dulberg by violating the standard of care owed Dulberg in the following ways and respects:

(a) failed to fully and properly investigate the claims and or basis for liability against the McGuires;

(b) failed to properly obtain information through discovery regarding McGuires assets, insurance coverages, and or ability to pay a judgement and or settlement against them;

(c) failed to accurately advise Dulberg of the McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance coverage related to the claims against them and or Dulberg's ability to recover through McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance policies, including, but not limited to, incorrectly informing Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was "only 100,000" and no insurance company would pay close to that;

(d) failed to take such actions as were necessary during their respective representation of Dulberg to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed and or were principals of Gagnon, and who sought the ANSWER: Defendants admit only that the allegations made in the complaint stand for themselves. Defendants deny the remainder of the allegations contained in Paragraph 37.

38. In late 2013 or early, Mast urged Dulberg to settle the claims against the McGuire's for $5,000.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 38.

39. On November 18, 2013, Mast wrote two emails to Dulberg urging Dulberg to accept the $5,000.00, "the McGuire's atty has offered us (you) $5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only. As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery...." * * * "So if we do not accept their $5,000 they will simply file a motion and get out of the case for free. That's the only other option is letting them file motion getting out of the case". (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Mast authored emails contained in Group Exhibit C. Defendants deny that Plaintiff has completely and accurately transcribed the emails into paragraph 39.

40. Similarly, on November 20, 2013, Mast emailed Dulberg urging him to accept the $5,000.00 otherwise "the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion." (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Mast authored emails contained in Group Exhibit C. Defendants deny that Plaintiff has completely and accurately transcribed the emails into paragraph 40.

41. On or around December 2013 or January 2014, Mast met with Dulberg and again advised them [sic] there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and verbally told Dulberg that he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of $5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing.

ANSWER: Defendants admit that on or around December 2013 or January 2014 Mast met with Dulberg, but deny that Mast told Dulberg he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of $5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing.

42. During that same time frame, Mast advised Dulberg that the Restatement of Torts 318 was the only mechanism to recover from the McGuires and that Illinois did not recognize the Restate of Torts 318, thus Dulberg did not have any viable claims against the McGuires.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 42.

43. Mast failed to advise or inform Dulberg of other basis for recovery against the McGuires.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 43.

44. Based upon Mast's erroneously [sic] advice that Dulberg's claims against the McGuire's were not viable and that Dulberg would not recover if he pursued the claims, Dulberg settled with the McGuire's and their insurance company, Auto-Owners Insurance Company, for $5,000, which included a release of all claims against the McGuire's and claim for indemnification under the McGuire's insurance policy. Exhibit D (Settlement).

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 44.

45. Mast also told Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was limited to $100,000.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that if information regarding Gagnon's insurance policy being limited to $100,000 was provided, it was gleaned from communications with defense counsel.

46. From 2013 forward, Mast and Popovich represented repeatedly to Dulberg that there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and led Dulberg to believe that the matter was being properly handled.

ANSWER: Defendants admit the allegations contained in Paragraph 46.

47. Mast also reassured Dulberg that Dulberg would be able to receive the full amount of any eventual recovery from Gagnon.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 47.

48. After accepting the $5,000 settlement, Dulberg wrote Mast an email on January 29, 2014 stating "I trust your judgment." (See Email attached as Exhibit E.)

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Dulberg authored emails contained in Group Exhibit E. Defendants deny that Plaintiff has completely and accurately transcribed the emails into paragraph 48.

49. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Dulberg into 2015 and continuously assured him that his case was being handled properly.

ANSWER: Defendants admit only that Popovich continued to represent Dulberg into 2015, and that Mast was the primary handling attorney. Defendants deny the remainder of the allegations contained in Paragraph 49.

50. The McGuires owned their home, had homeowner's insurance, and had other property that could have been utilized to pay a judgment against them and in favor of Dulberg.

ANSWER: Defendants lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations contained in Paragraph 50.

51. Dulberg cooperated with and appropriately assisted Mast and Popovich in prosecuting the claims against Gagnon and the McGuires.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 51.

52. In December of 2016, Dulberg participated in binding mediation related to his claims against Gagnon.

ANSWER: Defendants lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations contained in Paragraph 52.

53. In December of 2016, Dulberg was awarded a gross amount of $660,000 and a net award of $561,000 after his contributory negligence was considered.

ANSWER: Defendants lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations contained in Paragraph 53.

54. Dulberg was only able to recovery approximately $300,000 of the award from Gagnon's insurance and was unable to collect from Gagnon personally.

ANSWER: Defendants lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations contained in Paragraph 54.

55. Only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon did he discover that his claims against the McGuires were viable and valuable.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 55.

56. Following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 56.

57. It was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation, that Dulberg became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000.00 on an "all or nothing" basis.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 57.

58. Mast and Popovich, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed Dulberg by violating the standard of care owed Dulberg in the following ways and respects:

(a) failed to fully and properly investigate the claims and/or basis for liability against the McGuires;

(b) failed to properly obtain information through discovery regarding McGuires assets, insurance coverages, and/or ability to pay a judgement and/or settlement against them;

Received 03-11-2019 01:20 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 03-11-2019 01:22 PM / Transaction #4230960 / Case #17LA000377

(c) failed to accurately advise Dulberg of the McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance coverage related to the claims against them and/or Dulberg's ability to recover through McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance policies, including, but not limited to, incorrectly informing Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was "only $100,000" and no insurance company would pay close to that;

(d) failed to take such actions as were necessary during their respective representation of Dulberg to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed and/or were principals of Gagnon, and who sought the assistance Dulberg by for example failing to obtain an expert;

(e) failed to accurately advise Dulberg regarding the McGuires' liability, likelihood of success of claims against the McGuires, the McGuires' ability [sic] pay any judgment or settlement against them through insurance or other assets, and/or necessity of prosecuting the [sic] all the claims against both the McGuires and Gagnon in order to obtain a full recovery;

(f) Coerced Dulberg, verbally and though emails, into accepting a settlement with the McGuires for $5,000 by misleading Dulberg into believing that he had no other choice but to accept the settlement or else "The McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion."

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 58 and subparagraphs (a) through (f) inclusive.

59. As a direct result of Mast and Popovich's wrongful actions, Dulberg suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of Mast and Popovich in urging Dulberg to release the McGuires, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of Mast and The Law Offices of Thomas Popovich, P.C.

ANSWER: Defendants deny the allegations contained in Paragraph 59.

WHEREFORE, Defendants, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., and HANS MAST, respectfully request that this Court grant judgment in their favor, and against Plaintiff, and for any further relief that this Court deems fair and proper.

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

FIRST AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE: CONTRIBUTORY NEGLIGENCE

1. Plaintiff filed a one count Complaint, sounding in negligence, alleging that Defendants failed to properly represent him in the prosecution of a personal injury case, as more fully stated in the Second Amended Complaint, which is incorporated herein.

2. Plaintiff's damages, if any, were due to Plaintiff's own fault. In the event Defendants are held liable, any damages awarded to Plaintiff must be reduced by Plaintiff's proximate share of liability. The Plaintiff was negligent and caused his injuries in the following ways:

(a) Failed to seek outside counsel if he was reluctant to settle the underlying case with the McGuires.

(b) Provided Mast and Popovich with authority to make a settlement demand against the McGuires for less than $100,000.

(c) Received a written settlement agreement from the McGuires, forwarded by U.S. Mail from Mast, examined it, deliberated upon it, accepted it, signed it, and mailed it back to Mast.

(d) Retained successor counsel after Mast and Popovich withdrew, and agreed to a "high-low" agreement at a binding mediation which limited Dulberg's potential recovery against the remaining Defendant, Gagnon.

3. If Plaintiff's contributing fault is found to be more than 50% of the proximate cause of the injury or damage, then Plaintiff shall be barred from recovering any damages whatsoever.

WHEREFORE, Defendants, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. and HANS MAST, respectfully request that any damages awarded to Plaintiff, be reduced by Plaintiff's proximate share of liability or, if such share is more than 50%, be barred in its entirety.

SECOND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE – STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

1. In Plaintiff's Complaint, it alleges that The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast failed to adequately represent him in the action captioned, Paul Dulberg, Plaintiff v. David Gagnon, et al., Defendants, Case No. 12 LA 178, McHenry County, Illinois (the 'Underlying Action").

2. Plaintiff's damages, if any, were due to Plaintiff's own fault. In the event Defendants are held liable, any damages awarded to Plaintiff must be reduced by Plaintiff's proximate share of liability. The Plaintiff was negligent and caused his injuries in the following ways:

(a) Failed to seek outside counsel if he was reluctant to settle the underlying case with the McGuires.

(b) Provided Mast and Popovich with authority to make a settlement demand against the McGuires for less than $100,000.

(c) Received a written settlement agreement from the McGuires, forwarded by U.S. Mail from Mast, examined it, deliberated upon it, accepted it, signed it, and mailed it back to Mast.

(d) Retained successor counsel after Mast and Popovich withdrew, and agreed to a "high-low" agreement at a binding mediation which limited Dulberg's potential recovery against the remaining Defendant, Gagnon.

3. Plaintiff, however, did not file this action until November 28, 2017, more than two years after the applicable statute of limitations had run.

4. Accordingly, this matter is time-barred.

WHEREFORE, Defendants, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. and HANS MAST, respectfully request that Plaintiff be completely barred from recovery under the statute of limitations.

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

THIRD AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE: PROXIMATE CAUSE

1. Plaintiff filed a one count Complaint, sounding in negligence, alleging that Defendants failed to properly represent him in the prosecution of a personal injury case, as more fully stated in the Second Amended Complaint, which is incorporated herein.

2. Plaintiff retained successor counsel after Popovich and Mast withdrew. To the extent that any malpractice occurred during Dulberg's representation by the Popovich firm or its agents, which is expressly denied, and to the extent that any malpractice or proximately caused damages could have been remedied by Dulberg and his successor counsel, then Mast and Popovich can never be found to be the proximate cause of Dulberg's damages.

WHEREFORE, Defendants, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. and HANS MAST, respectfully request that judgment be entered on their behalf and against Plaintiff, Dulberg.

PAUL DULBERG'S ANSWERS TO DEFENDANTS' AFFIRMATIIVE DEFENSES

Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorneys, The Clinton Law Firm, LLC, answers Paul Dulberg's Affirmative Defenses as follows:

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES
FIRST AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE: CONTRIBUTION NEGLIGENCE

1. Plaintiff filed a one count Complaint, sounding in negligence, alleging that Defendants failed to properly represent him in the prosecution of a personal injury case, as more fully stated in the Second Amended Complaint, which is incorporated herein.

ANSWER: Plaintiff admits the allegations of this Paragraph #1.

2. Plaintiffs damages, if any, were due to Plaintiffs own fault. In the event Defendants are held liable, any damages awarded to Plaintiff must be reduced by Plaintiffs proximate share of liability. The Plaintiff was negligent and caused his injuries in the following ways:
   (a) Failed to seek outside counsel if he was reluctant to settle the underlying case with the McGuires.
   (b) Provided Mast and Popovich with authority to make a settlement demand against the McGuires for less than $100,000.
   (c) Received a written settlement agreement from the McGuires, forwarded by U.S. Mail from Mast, examined it, deliberated upon it, accepted it, signed it, and mailed it back to Mast.
   (d) Retained successor counsel after Mast and Popovich withdrew, and agreed to a "high-low" agreement at a binding mediation which limited Dulberg's potential recovery against the remaining Defendant, Gagnon.

ANSWER: Plaintiff denies the allegations of this Paragraph #2.

DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S REPLY IN SUPPORT OF THEIR MOTION/MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF THEIR MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST, by and through their attorneys, Karbal Cohen Economou Silk & Dunne, LLC, for their REPLY IN SUPPORT OF THEIR MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT, state as follows:

I. INTRODUCTION

Plaintiff's Response confuses allegations made at the pleading stage of litigation, and facts established in the record (here mainly by virtue of sworn deposition testimony). On its face, Dulberg's legal malpractice complaint is untimely filed. The record demonstrates that Dulberg can never meet his burden of proving an exception to the applicable two-year statute of limitations. Defendants' motion for summary judgment under 735 ILCS 5/2-1005 establishes that Dulberg can never prove a late "discovery" of his allegedly wrongfully caused injury.[1] As will be discussed below, the only legal analysis contained in Dulberg's response, relies on an inapplicable "transactional" malpractice case, Suburban Real Estate Servs. Inc. v. Carlson, 2022 IL

[1] Defendants' Motion is brought under 735 ILCS 5/2-1005, and not under 735 ILCS 5/2-619.1 as suggested by Plaintiff.

126935. Dulberg's case arises out of litigation – not transactional work. Plaintiff's alleged injury was incurred at the time of settlement and dismissal of the McGuire litigation.

II. UNDISPUTED MATERIAL FACTS

The undisputed material facts of the case are properly cited in Defendants' Motion at pages 5-9, with specific citations to exhibits and page numbers. Additional citations to pleadings are recited in the "Statement of Claim" section at pages 2-4 of Defendants' motion. Plaintiff disputes the citations by making a general denial at Response page 5, ¶A. Defendants submit that their factual citations are evident and stand for themselves.

In section B of Dulberg's Response, he attempts to argue that some disputed material fact prevents the entry of summary judgment. In support, he recites certain allegations contained in the pleadings, as opposed to the facts adduced in depositions or affidavits. He fails to provide any analysis or explanation as to how any of these alleged facts constitute a genuine issue of material fact that has any relevance to the alleged late discovery of his claims, and which would prevent the court from entering summary judgment for the defendants.

III. ARGUMENT

Dulberg does virtually nothing to discuss any of the testimony cited by Defendants, apply the facts, or analyze the law cited by Defendants. Instead, Dulberg references the case of Suburban Real Estate Services, Inc. v. Carlson,, 2022 IL 126935 and references a "a pecuniary loss" as an issue in that case. However, there is no analysis or application to the facts here. In any event, Suburban Real Estate involves alleged transactional legal malpractice, and is not on point with this case. However, the Illinois Supreme Court in Suburban Real Estate Services, Inc. analyzed the "injury" component in a legal malpractice claim, in view of the two year statute of limitations. The court distinguished between transactional malpractice, and malpractice arising out of litigation. The court engaged in an extensive analysis of the "injury" component of the two year statute of limitations. "Thus, to discern when a claim accrues, we identify the injury and then determine when the injury was discovered or should have been discovered." Suburban Real Estate Services at [*P16] The court discussed legal malpractice actions arising out of litigation, or the "case within a case." "As this court has explained, no injury exists, and therefore no actionable claim arises, unless and until the attorney's negligence results in the loss of the underlying cause of action." Suburban Real Estate Services at *P19, citing Tri-G, Inc. v. Burke Bosselman and Weaver, 222 Ill. 2d 218 (2006). Importantly, the Illinois Supreme Court then wrote, "Thus, the injury does not accrue, and the statute of limitations does not begin to run until a judgment or settlement or dismissal of the underlying action." (emphasis added) Suburban Real Estate Services at *P19.

Here, a portion of the underlying case was settled and dismissed – the very portion of the case complained of here by Dulberg. The dismissal order attached as Exhibit H to Defendant's Motion for Summary Judgment is dispositive of Dulberg's claims. The order included a good faith finding of settlement, and was final and appealable. The injury sustained is the loss of the ability to further recover anything from the McGuire's over the $5,000 settlement Dulberg approved. The injury was incurred when the settlement was finalized and the McGuire's were dismissed.

Dulberg fails to analyze any of the cases cited in Defendants' motion that stand for the proposition that he was on reasonable notice to inquire further as to the existence of a cause of action. Nor does he squarely address the facts cited, or really any arguments made in defendants' motion. The evidence cited by Defendants in their motion demonstrates that Dulberg deliberated over a settlement offer from the McGuires from at least November 2013, until he executed the settlement release on January 29, 2014. He admitted that Mast did not force him to accept the settlement. Exhibit E, p. 73. After the McGuires were dismissed, Dulberg and Mast continued to prosecute the case against Gagnon. However, Dulberg became disillusioned with Mast and Popovich, and even threatened legal malpractice as early as February 22, 2015. Dulberg then sought substitute counsel when Mast and Popovich withdrew. He always had the ability and opportunity to seek a second opinion about the McGuire settlement (before and after he agreed to it). All of these facts establish that Dulberg knew or should have known, or should have inquired as to whether Mast and Popovich breached the standard of care, and whether said breach caused him any injury.

Dulberg bears the burden of proving some alternative date of discovery of his injury and claims. His futile attempts at amending his complaint, and the well-documented evasive discovery responses clearly establish that Dulberg has not met and cannot meet his burden demonstrating a "late" discovery of his claims. Summary judgment must be entered in favor of Mast and Popovich.

III. CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, for the reasons stated herein and in THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT, pray that this Honorable Court grant their Motion for Summary Judgment, with prejudice, and for any further relief this court deems fair and proper.

ELECTRONICALLY RECORDED REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS had in the above-entitled cause before the Honorable THOMAS A. MEYER, Judge of said Court of McHenry County, Illinois, on the 10th day of May, 2018, at the McHenry County Government Center, Woodstock, Illinois.

APPEARANCES:

THE GOOCH FIRM, by
MS. SABINA WALCZYK,
On behalf of the Plaintiff;

MR. GEORGE K. FLYNN,
On behalf of the Defendants.

THE COURT: Let's go to work on Dulberg.

MS. WALCZYK: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MS. WALCZYK: Sabina Walczyk on behalf of Dulberg.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning. George Flynn on behalf of the Popovich firm and Hans Mast.

THE COURT: It is -- it is rare when I know both the plaintiff and the defendant ahead of time. Only through the courtroom, but still unusual.

I looked at -- I'm going to tell you what I'm thinking. And then if you choose to argue, you can to -- if you wish to convince me that I'm wrong; or we can go forward. Either is fine.

I felt that the 2-615 motion was appropriate because I felt that -- and I -- for a specific reason, not -- not perhaps all the reasons that were cited by the defendant. I felt that the complaint, when it talked about how -- I'm looking for the words, misled -- when it said that the attorneys misled -- lied and misled Mr. Dulberg, I felt that there was some specificity that was going to be required. Because they -- ultimately, these things are going to factor into the statute of limitations issue. And if you're going to say that it was a breach of his duty in lying or misleading, I think we need more particularity in the allegations. You can't just make a conclusory statement to that effect.

That's my perspective. What would you like -- I'll give you an opportunity -- opportunity to replead; but if you want to argue against my thinking, I'll listen.

MS. WALCZYK: Well, Your Honor, I -- I won't argue with the Court. If Your Honor would like some more specificity as to those certain terms, we can certainly replead and plead those a little bit more specifically to --

THE COURT: And with respect to the discovery rule issue --

MS. WALCZYK: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: -- since it's going to come up one way or another, although I think it's a question of fact, I would like to see it touched upon, because I'm not following the -- the fact that he got more from the arbitrator than had been initially suggested by his attorneys, isn't really telling me anything. So I need maybe a little bit more information to understand the relationship of the two things.

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

With respect to the issue of -- on the 2-619, I felt that in light of how I was going with the 2-615, I really couldn't rule on the -- the application of the discovery rule. And, ultimately, I saw that in the long run, it was going to be a question of fact, and I would probably need -- and I could only address that with some more facts than what's just contained in the complaint.

With respect to estoppel, I didn't agree -- and you can tell me why you think I'm wrong, but I didn't agree with the argument that you were making because it -- it, carried to its logical conclusion, I could mislead and lie to my client about the -- about the implications and why he should settle, and then once he agrees to it, then I'm -- I'm released from my breach of my duty.

So I don't think that it -- that that was the type of scenario involved when the courts were discussing the estoppel issue.

Do you have anything -- do you want to contest that?

MR. FLYNN: Not at this time, Your Honor. I --

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

I've always learned that it's better to quit while you're ahead. And with -- without giving a roadmap to the plaintiff, I do think that having their best complaint on file benefits us all.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: So going back to the 2-615 issues, again, a legal malpractice case, they've got to plead and prove, not only the legal malpractice, but the elements of the underlying case. And it seemed to me, and as we pointed out, that -- that all of the allegations were very conclusory. That they would have gotten more, they wouldn't have done this, that the -- that Hans Mast and the Popovich firm should have undertaken additional actions in the underlying case, but they don't say what those are. And I think that they -- they're required to if they believe that there was a breach of a duty that led to damages.

The high-low agreement, which is very confusing to me and to my client, frankly, because he's never seen it, and as I understand it, that's outside of the four corners --

THE COURT: It is outside, but it did lead to an area where I was also a little bit confused. And

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

I -- and I think you touched on -- I'll ask you: Is the complaint having to do with the settlement with the McGuires, or does it somehow relate to the suit that continued with respect to Gagnon and the high-low agreement?

MS. WALCZYK: Well, I think it's a little bit of both, because it started with the suit against McGuires, which settled. And then it looks like there was a high-low agreement signed.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: And --

THE COURT: Was it signed by Mr. Mast?

MS. WALCZYK: Oh, I believe it was signed by Mr. Dulberg. I haven't seen it.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: However, we can attach it if -- if you want --

THE COURT: If -- if you are going to allege malpractice as a result of entering into the high-low agreement, yes, I would require you, then, to attach it and to make that a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Yes.

THE COURT: Because I -- I came away thinking

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

that was not part of your complaint, but I wasn't a 100 percent sure.

Also, let's see -- yeah, I need to know with some specificity what facts were concealed and how he was misled. I had problems with, particularly, I had -- paragraphs 20 and 21 and felt that you should have included more in that. And I won't probably say more than that.

MS. WALCZYK: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: And I -- on the estoppel argument, as I've said, I don't think that it is clear that the signing of the release was something that could be assumed to be knowing and voluntary when the plaintiff is alleging that he was misled as to the ramifications of that. Excuse me. Let's see. Okay.

Any -- so I'm granting on the 2-615. I will grant you leave to refile or replead.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And what else? Is there anything else that we need?

MR. FLYNN: Just as a housekeeping, again, depending on what theory you're going under, if it's related to the Gagnon settlement, and we may have more people coming to the party; but if not, then that's it.

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

THE COURT: Yeah. I mean, if you're going to draw that in, then I need it a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And I got -- in fact -- I'm reading from my notes. I need facts on what was false, misleading and what -- what you mean by coercion.

MR. FLYNN: So the 615 is granted with leave to replead.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: I wasn't clear, I guess, on whether there's an actual ruling on the 619 or --

THE COURT: 619, I'm denying because --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- there's a question of fact --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- at this stage.

And I think that even if they include additional facts in their complaint, I would still come back to it being a question of fact, because I -- there's going to be a lot more about their relationship than I think can be reflected in merely the complaint. I would -- so I mean, if you were to bring another 2-619, feel free.

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

MR. FLYNN: Sure.

THE COURT: But I would still think it's going to be a question of fact as to what is clear -- Dulberg's claims are with respect to how he was misled or facts were concealed.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Because it's going to depend on their interaction.

MR. FLYNN: And it is the -- the language of statute is "knew or reasonably should have been known." And, again, this -- he does have counsel that came in right after my clients got out. So, again, the Blue Water Partners case says you -- potentially, you can't bury your head in the sand.

THE COURT: No, you can't. But because I -- of the absence of information --

MR. FLYNN: Fair enough.

THE COURT: -- I was reluctant to go further. The statute of limitations, you might get a little bit farther, but I still might run into a fact question.

MR. FLYNN: Understood.

THE COURT: So how long do you need?

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

MS. WALCZYK: If I could have 28 days, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. WALCZYK: We have a trial coming up.

THE COURT: And to answer or otherwise plead?

MR. FLYNN: 28, please.

THE COURT: All right. That would -- excuse me. Why don't we come back in -- 60 days is July 9th. How about July 11th, a Wednesday? Or do you have -- it's all the same to me, so long as I am here.

MR. FLYNN: Let's see. I believe I'm going to be out of state that week.

THE COURT: Okay. When is it convenient for you to come here? She's here all the time, so I don't --

MR. FLYNN: The following week would be --

THE COURT: What day works for either of you the following week?

MS. WALCZYK: We may actually have a trial that week. That may or may not go; I'm not sure at this point. At least the first two days, if we could do towards the end of week, that would be great for us.

THE COURT: 20th?

MR. FLYNN: 20th works.

PAUL DULBERG, Plaintiff, vs. THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., and HANS MAST, Defendants.	No. 17 LA 377

ELECTRONICALLY RECORDED Report of Proceedings had in the above-entitled cause before The Honorable Thomas A. Meyer, Judge of the Circuit Court of McHenry County, Illinois, on the 12th day of September, 2018, in the McHenry County Government Center, Woodstock, Illinois.

APPEARANCES:

CLAUSEN MILLER, PC, by:
MR. GEORGE K. FLYNN,

on behalf of the Defendants.

Received 09-19-2018 12:31 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-19-2018 01:52 PM / Transaction #2252992 / Case #17LA000377

THE COURT: Counsel, which one you on?

MR. FLYNN: Dulberg.

THE COURT: Is opposing counsel here?

MR. FLYNN: She's not. I received an email. She said she was going to be late. She's in Waukegan.

THE COURT: I'm sorry, how late?

MR. FLYNN: I'm not sure how late, Judge. She said she's in Waukegan. Mr. Gooch was apparently ill today, so she's going to be covering today's hearing.

THE COURT: And she's in Waukegan now?

MR. FLYNN: She's in Waukegan. Originally thought she might be able to be here by 10:30, but she said the judge stepped up 15 minutes late on her other matter, so --

THE COURT: I mean, that's about an hour drive.

MR. FLYNN: The email I received was -- I was in the car as well, so 10 or 15 minutes ago.

THE COURT: Okay. See if you can email her and find out if we can get an ETA.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: And we'll work from there.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. Thanks, Judge.

THE COURT: Thank you.

(Whereupon, the above-entitled cause was passed and subsequently recalled.)

THE COURT: Okay. Counsel, if you can approach. So Dulberg versus Mast.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, Your Honor. George Flynn on behalf of the defendants. I did -- I received communication from counsel. She was walking to her car at the Waukegan courthouse at 11 -- I'm sorry, at 10:10, and she indicated that her GPS estimated she would arrive here at one hour and six minutes.

THE COURT: 11:30-ish. Fair?

MR. FLYNN: Fair.

THE COURT: All right. Well, rather than delay this, I'm going to rule from the bench based upon my review of the amended complaint and consideration of the briefs in support of and opposition to.

I'm going to strike the complaint. The basis of my decision is I think the complaint states a cause of action, but there are so many things in there that are unsupported by factual allegations that I think it best just to deal with them now rather than at a later date. I reviewed -- and I'm looking for the specific allegations of negligence within the amended complaint. I felt that in paragraph 31, subparagraph (a) included enough of a fact that I -- I'm going to tell you the ones I think can stand. Then I'm going to strike the rest of them and try to explain it. I think paragraph (a) gave me enough of a fact that I would allow it to stand. I felt that (b) was a conclusion; (c) was redundant of (a); (d) I was going to allow to stand, it alleges something; (e) I was going to allow to stand; (f) is a conclusion, it's not a fact -- Where are we? -- (g) I'm just going to strike, it's a conclusion; (h), it's a conclusion, strike it; (i) it's a conclusion, strike it; (j) I'm going to allow to stand; (k) I'm -- I'm going to strike. It says there were necessary facts, but doesn't tell me what those necessary facts were. I think an allegation of coercion can stand, but I'm not quite sure what it is we're alleging.

MR. FLYNN: So just to clarify, Judge, you're ruling that there can be an allegation of coercion, but it's not supported by facts here --

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. GLYNN: -- under the 615 standard?

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. GLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: (l) there might be some facts in there, but I'm not sure what they are, so I'm going to strike it. I mean, there might be a factual basis to support what they're getting at, but I don't know what it is. I don't think it's supported, so I think it's a conclusion. I'll strike -- (m) is a conclusion, I'll strike it; (n) is I think duplicative of (a) and (c); and (o) is just a conclusion.

Received 09-19-2018 12:31 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-19-2018 01:52 PM / Transaction #2252992 / Case #17LA000377

I will allow them to replead because I think the ones I've -- and I hate to make you the note-taker, but it saves you a return trip, and I was going to ask questions, but these -- this is what I felt about the allegations in the complaint. I think there is -- this -- for going -- as far as going forward is concerned, if there were more paragraphs that weren't conclusions, I might have allowed the complaint to stand and just strike -- strike them on their face rather than go through the trouble of re-pleading. Unfortunately, most of the paragraphs were conclusions that I felt had to be stricken, and I'm dealing with that now. As a result, I'm striking the complaint.

Plaintiff gets to re-plead and the -- and if they just -- and if they limit it to the ones I've allowed to stand that I've advised you about that I think are adequate, then I'm going to -- I would deny future 615 based on the same concepts.

Received 09-19-2018 12:31 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-19-2018 01:52 PM / Transaction #2252992 / Case #17LA000377

Does that make sense?

MR. FLYNN: I -- without having gone through each of the subparagraphs, yes, I understand the Court's ruling. I think that the general theme of our motion was that the plaintiff hasn't set forth what a breach of any duty would have been as far as the McGuires and what legal standard they would have been held to and how they breached that.

THE COURT: I think --

MR. GLYNN: Just because they're a land owners and an accident happened on their property doesn't mean they're liable on this.

THE COURT: And I -- actually, I take that back. I agree, but I think that there was enough implicit in the allegations that I still felt that there was going to be an adequate cause of action, and to clarify what I said earlier, I would agree that they've got to explain that better, but it's -- I probably -- since I'm striking the complaint, I'm going to direct them to do that. I felt that I could read enough in here to understand what they were getting at, that I wouldn't have struck the complaint solely on that basis.

Does that answer your question?

Received 09-19-2018 12:31 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-19-2018 01:52 PM / Transaction #2252992 / Case #17LA000377

MR. FLYNN: I think so.

THE COURT: Okay. There's a lot to unpack here, but I think that there are enough allegations and enough of an understanding of where they're going that I think they're going to be able to state a cause of action, at least insofar as 2-615 is concerned.

We'll see what they say in their new complaint. Do you want to give them 28 days --

MR. FLYNN: Sure.

THE COURT: -- to file?

What would you like to do? Twenty-eight after or --

MR. GLYNN: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. So let's put the case out 60 days. That will each give you plenty of time, and that will take us to November 13th. That is a Tuesday. Does that day work for you?

MR. FLYNN: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. And for purposes of the record, we were advised that -- about 10:15 that plaintiff's counsel was about an hour drive away having been detained in Waukegan. As a result, I just decided to -- rather than continuing the hearing and going through the process I just did, I would provide my ruling and save everybody some effort.

Questions?

MR. FLYNN: 9:00 o'clock status on November 13th?

THE COURT: Yes.

Mr. Dulberg, any questions? I don't really want you to get substantively involved because you're represented, but do you want any clarification of anything I just said?

MR. DULBERG: Clarification, no. But I will say that I don't think that we should have to try the case in the pleading.

THE COURT: And you don't have to. And that's not what I've said. That's not what he said. But there are certain allegations that I didn't feel were adequate and that's the basis of my dismissal.

MR. DULBERG: (Inaudible).

THE COURT: I don't want you to argue too much because, again, you've got an attorney and I don't want to involve you. I just -- Do you have any questions?

MR. DULBERG: No.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Counsel, if you could draft the order.

THE COURT: Yes?

MS. WILLIAMS: Good morning, your Honor. This is Dulberg versus Popovich. It's line 2 on your call. I'm Julia Williams. I represent the plaintiff.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, your Honor. George Flynn for the defendants.

MS. WILLIAMS: So defendants have answered. We filed a motion for default. We'll withdraw that motion. It was entered --

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WILLIAMS: -- and continued to today. Written discovery's been issued and defendants have answered, as the plaintiff. We tendered documents today. We have not tendered our written answers yet. We expect to do that within 7 days.

THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

MS. WILLIAMS: This case -- this is a legal malpractice case, so it's a case within a case. We've tendered, I believe, over 2,000 pieces of paper, essentially. It's all electronic, but --

THE COURT: Yeah.

MS. WILLIAMS: -- but over 2,000 pages, and counsel's indicated that he tendered about 1500 pages. So we anticipate the review of that taking some time. There were several depositions taken in the underlying case and those all need to be reviewed by both counsel to make sure that we have everything from the underlying case that was done in the underlying case. And then we need to decide are there any fact issues from the underlying case that we need to hash out in this case. And then I think we can start taking party deps. So I think we need a bit of time to get through the 3,000-some pieces of paper --

THE COURT: All right. So I was going to give you 90 days.

MS. WILLIAMS: I think that sounds good.

THE COURT: That's --

MR. FLYNN: That is to get started on --

THE COURT: Yeah, just put it out for status on F1 and I'll let you progress at your own speed. When in late August works for you?

MS. WILLIAMS: I am out that last -- that entire -- family vacation that entire last week of August.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: Sure.

MS. WILLIAMS: -- or we can go into September 1st, but whatever defendant --

THE COURT: What's your preference?

MR. FLYNN: Doesn't matter to me. Why don't we go into September just to be safe? As long as it's not the week of the (indiscernible).

MS. WILLIAMS: So any time the 3rd, 4th, 5th, or 6th?

THE COURT: All are fine. So what's your preference?

MS. WILLIAMS: How's (indiscernible)?

MR. FLYNN: That's fine.

THE COURT: Sorry. What date?

MS. WILLIAMS: September 5th.

THE COURT: Okay. We'll see you then.

MS. WILLIAMS: Thanks, your Honor.

MR. FLYNN: Thanks, Judge.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, your Honor. George Flynn on behalf of defendants.

MS. WILLIAMS: So we're here on status of discovery. We've done written discovery. We've got some -- kind of 201(k) issues. It's not adversarial 201(k), but we need to do some 201(k) --

MS. WILLIAMS: -- conferences. We were actually going to meet after this today and take some time. We have -- we have asserted some privilege, some attorney-client privilege to some of the documents. We are likely going to waive that privilege, so we need to produce some additional documents from subsequent counsel. It's a legal malpractice case. Counsel subsequent to Popovich's firm.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. WILLIAMS: So why don't we take some time to do that. If it's okay with the Court, maybe 60 days to resolve all these issues, get the new supplemental, and then move into (f)(1)s.

THE COURT: Okay. What date did you have in mind? That puts us into November.

MS. WILLIAMS: Early, mid -- early to mid-November, I guess, would be --

THE COURT: What day?

MS. WILLIAMS: I think we're waiving privilege. I'll say it on the record, we're going to waive privilege.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: The only other issue that was raised -- I just reviewed the written discovery yesterday and you had (indiscernible) 201(k) that there was a bankruptcy that was mentioned kind of vaguely in one of the answers. It sounds or appears that either the bankruptcy judge or the trustee had enforced or required a mediation and a high-low agreement. To the extent that those documents are responsive to any of the requests -- and I'll have to go through them to see if they are. Otherwise I'll just issue a supplemental, but I think the bankruptcy file and communications with the trustee are probably responsive to our discovery, so I would just request that those be included in our --

MS. WILLIAMS: I think we produced a number of the bankruptcy issues, but we can talk about it today and definitely try to work out -- there's definitely -- there was a bankruptcy. We're not trying to hide that bankruptcy, so. And the trustee did resolve -- there was an arbitration based on the trustee's recommendation in the bankruptcy for the individual.

THE COURT: How's November 4th, Monday?

MR. DULBERG: Correct.

THE COURT: And counsel?

MR. FLYNN: George Flynn on behalf of Popovich.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, we are here for a status and my motion. I've got a motion to file an amended affirmative defense which I understand is -- has no objection.

THE COURT: Is that correct, counsel, no objection?

MS. WILLIAMS: No. Given the pleading standard, there is no objection.

We have exchanged written discovery. There is some outstanding supplemental answers owed by the plaintiff. My understanding they are out for signature.

You may recall last time we were here, your Honor, there was an indication on the record that the plaintiff is waiving a previously raised attorney-client privilege.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: So I think they are amending the discovery answers and possibly producing more documents. I'm not sure.

THE COURT: Is that correct, counsel, not putting you on the spot, but is that an accurate representation?

MS. WILLIAMS: Right. So I think we have produced pretty much everything we have, but I can talk to counsel about the documents. But we are amending -- supplementing some of the discovery responses, and I'm working with my client on that now. And then I think there might be a couple other outstanding discovery issues that's something that counsel and I have been working on, and I think will be resolved --

THE COURT: With that all being said, since you're still doing written, how about I put it on 90 days? That takes us to early February. February 3 is a Monday. Does that day work, or did you have something else in mind?
MR. FLYNN: Let's see.
MS. WILLIAMS: That's fine with me if that's fine with counsel.
MR. FLYNN: That's fine with me. It's the day after the Supper Bowl, but I'm really too old these days to have much fun for it. So --
THE COURT: All right. So it will be February 3 status (f)(1).

ELECTRONICALLY RECORDED REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS had in the above-entitled cause before the Honorable THOMAS A. MEYER, Judge of said Court of McHenry County, Illinois, on the 10th day of September, 2020, at the McHenry County Government Center, Woodstock, Illinois.

APPEARANCES:

THE CLINTON LAW FIRM, by
MS. JULIA C. WILLIAMS (via Zoom),
On behalf of the Plaintiff;
KARBAL COHEN ECONOMOU SILK DUNNE, LLC, by
MR. GEORGE K. FLYNN,
On behalf of the Defendants.

THE COURT: Good morning.
MS. WILLIAMS: Good morning, your Honor.
THE COURT: We've got Julia Williams. Ms. Williams, are you on Dulberg?
MS. WILLIAMS: Yes, that's correct, your Honor.
THE COURT: And forgive my ignorance, are you with the Plaintiff?
MS. WILLIAMS: I am, your Honor. I represent the Plaintiff.
THE COURT: Okay.
MS. WILLIAMS: And counsel for Defendant should either be present in court or on the phone.
THE COURT: Not on the phone. Ms. Wong, can you hear me? Are you on Dulberg?
MS. WONG: No, I'm here for Hill.
THE COURT: Okay. Then I'm going to pass. Mr. Dulberg is here in court. I'm going to wait, then, you know, because we're up for status anyway. So I'll wait a few minutes see if defense counsel shows.
MS. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, defense counsel will not be on the call. I did speak with him, though, yesterday.
THE COURT: Okay. Okay. All right. Then let me deal with Hill. Pass.

(Whereupon the afore-captioned cause was recalled.)

THE COURT: Okay. You're going to have to come closer because the mic is on my computer.

Counsel, for the record, your name is?

MR. FLYNN: George Flynn, F-L-Y-N-N.

THE COURT: Counsel, can you hear him?

MS. WILLIAMS: Yes, I can, your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. And your name, for the record?

MR. DULBERG: Paul Dulberg.

THE COURT: Did you hear that?

MS. WILLIAMS: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Counsel, on Zoom, it's your motion.

MS. WILLIAMS: Julia Williams for Paul Dulberg. This is my motion to withdraw as counsel for Mr. Dulberg.

Mr. Dulberg is present in court and has been served with the motion, so we would just like the right to -- the opportunity to withdraw today, if it pleases the Court.

THE COURT: Okay. Any comment, Mr. Dulberg? I don't want to get into the nature of your relationship, but do you have anything to say, an objection to the motion?

MR. DULBERG: No, Judge.

THE COURT: Okay. Counsel, do you have anything to add?

MR. FLYNN: I have some comments. I don't have a specific objection, but I would like to make a little bit of a record, if I may.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, this is a legal malpractice case. This is Mr. Dulberg's second set of attorneys that have withdrawn from the case. The first one was Tom Gooch.

The legal malpractice case was filed more than two years after my client --

THE COURT: If you're going to ask me to do something substantive --

MR. FLYNN: I'm not. But maybe housekeeping.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: So the case was filed more than two years after the withdrawal. There's a statute of limitations issue it was raised on the motion to dismiss. It's alive in the case. I propose

Mr. Dulberg -- the discovery rule that he is relying on, the information that he's relying on, actually came from Mr. Gooch.

So communications that gave rise to his knowledge of the malpractice case and the damages came from his communications with Mr. Gooch.

THE COURT: Okay. So what are you asking me to do? I don't need background but just --

MR. FLYNN: Sure. Well, I served supplemental discovery after the deposition. Ms. Williams asked me for an extension a month ago, and I agreed to it, but then I got the motion to withdraw.

So my concern is is that I'm not going to get this discovery.

THE COURT: Not within 21 days.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. I just wanted to lay the record because I probably will have to file a motion to compel, and I want the record -- the documents to be preserved but then the answers obviously to be preserved as well.

THE COURT: Okay. Did you hear that, Ms. Williams?

MS. WILLIAMS: Right. I just wanted to clarify one thing. There was a motion to dismiss filed

Received 03-30-2022 04:12 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 03-30-2022 04:16 PM / Transaction #17303699 / Case #17LA000377

early in the case. I did not brief that. I was not involved in that motion. It was denied. But then there's, I think, an affirmative defense for statute of limitations. So that's how it's alive in the case. The motion to dismiss has been ruled on. I don't think that was entirely clear, so just to clarify.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I will wait for the motion to compel. I'm not going to do anything. That's why I cut you off because -- I'm speaking to Mr. Dulberg -- we're not going to address it further today.

So I will grant your motion to withdraw. I will give Mr. Dulberg 21 days in which to retain new counsel.

Who is going to do the order?

MR. FLYNN: I've got the draft.

THE COURT: Okay. Defense counsel has agreed to draft the order.

So, Mr. Dulberg, you will have until October 1st to retain new counsel. That's 21 days from today. And let's come back October 8th. Does that work?

MR. DULBERG: I would ask one thing.

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. DULBERG: I would ask one thing. In today's COVID, it's hard to get in-person appointments with attorneys to hire them right now. Some of them are not doing it. 21 days is -- is really --

THE COURT: 21 days is what the rule says. I'm going to follow the rule. If it turns out that there is a problem -- all this requires is that somebody files an appearance. So you are going to have to file an appearance if you don't have an attorney. I don't know if you have already filed one on your own, but if you -- have you filed an appearance already?

MR. DULBERG: I don't believe so.

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. DULBERG: I don't believe so.

THE COURT: Okay. It's not going to cost you anything because it's already been paid for, but all you have to do is file an appearance within 21 days, and that doesn't mean are you prevented from retaining counsel later on.

So file it in 21 days, if you don't have an attorney. If you have an attorney, great. He'll file it or she'll file it, and then we'll see you on October 8th.

MR. FLYNN: I do have a conflict that day.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: I can do the 9th. I don't know if that works.

THE COURT: For some reason I thought that was bad. Yeah, I'm potentially not here. I can go the 15th or the 7th. What is your preference?

MR. FLYNN: On the 15th I have a deposition that morning. The 7th will work.

THE COURT: Okay. We'll see you on the 7th.

Counsel will draft the order and send you a copy as well, Ms. Williams.

Is there anything else?

MR. FLYNN: I think we're all secure on status on (f)1 depositions. I guess I can just report that Mr. Dulberg's been deposed. No other (f)1s have gone.

THE COURT: Okay. We'll resume monitoring discovery status when we come back.

MR. FLYNN: Fair enough. Thanks, Judge.

MR. FLYNN: George Flynn for Defendants.

THE COURT: George Flynn for the Defendants. And?

MR. DULBERG: Paul Dulberg.

THE COURT: And Mr. Dulberg. I'll ask defense counsel -- I know plaintiff's counsel just filed an appearance, so defense counsel, what is going on?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, we have a pending motion to compel. I do have a question about the appearance that was filed. It was termed as an additional appearance, but there are no other attorneys of record right now. So I'm not sure why it was filed as an additional. I assume that this counsel will be lead counsel.

THE COURT: Can you hear, Mr. Talarico?
MR. TALARICO: Yes, I can.

MR. TALARICO: Yes. The reason I filed as an additional is because my client had filed a pro se appearance, so he is of record.
THE COURT: Okay. That resolves it for me.
Any other questions?
MR. FLYNN: Sure enough. So we have a pending motion to compel.
THE COURT: All right. Mr. Talarico, have you seen the motion to compel?
MR. TALARICO: Very quickly, yes, Judge, I have.
THE COURT: I'm going to ask defense counsel, because I did not read it for today, what are you asking for?
MR. FLYNN: Communications between Mr. Dulberg and his prior counsel, Tom Gooch, which forms the basis for the discovery rule argument in response to a statute of limitations defense.
THE COURT: Did you hear all that?
MR. TALARICO: I did.
THE COURT: All right. What do you want to do?

I'll give you time if you are asking for time.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge. Since I've only been on the case a few days, I would ask to have additional time to respond.

MR. FLYNN: What date?

THE COURT: November 24th.

MR. FLYNN: That works for me. So no response will be required until that time?

THE COURT: I'm expecting that you're going to have a response, but I am going to give counsel an opportunity to examine the file before I compel him to respond or direct him to file an answer to that just yet. I don't know if there is objections so I'm going to give him an opportunity to explore that.

So counsel on the phone, does November 24th work?

have a clarification? Is November 24th the date by which I must respond, or is that just a continuance to give me time to dive into the waters of a prolonged pending case?

THE COURT: Here is how I -- here is what I plan. You are going to come back on November 24th, and you are going to tell me either you've complied, the issue is resolved, or you can explain to me why you haven't complied and how much more time you need.

MR. TALARICO: I understand, Judge.

THE COURT: So I'm going to put it for status of compliance to November 24th at 8:45 a.m., and counsel here in court will draft the order.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Dulberg's here in court. Plaintiff's counsel -- actually, I have a defendant's motion to compel.

Defendant's counsel, what's going on?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I contacted Mr. Talarico yesterday asking him his intentions. Sorry. I'm hearing on echo. I'm going to turn my speaker down a little bit. Hopefully that's better.

He indicated there was some confusion about the exhibits. I think that's been clarified. I don't know what else I can do. But I would just like either compliance or a briefing schedule.

THE COURT: Okay. Briefing schedule on whether or not compliance --

MR. FLYNN: On the motion to compel.

The other being of -- the other is an exhibit attached, which is the deposition of Mr. Dulberg. But within that deposition, the printout speaks of 13 exhibits, which are not attached to the motion. So there's the deposition without the exhibits, and the motion with Group Exhibit F not referenced to the -- in the text of the motion. So I'm looking for -- just clarification.

THE COURT: Defense counsel?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I -- I don't know what Group Exhibit F is, if that has anything to do with this case or it's just accidently attached; but it -- it can be disregarded.

With respect to the deposition, it's -- it's an extensive deposition. The exhibits that are applicable are already attached separately to this motion. So in my view, there's really no need to attach 13 exhibits that aren't necessarily relevant to this motion. I was trying to avoid a waste of

THE COURT: Do we have everybody on Dulberg?

A VOICE: (Inaudible), Your Honor.

MR. FLYNN: I think we do, Your Honor. George Flynn for the defendants, moving.

THE COURT: Okay. And for the plaintiff?

MR. TALARICO: Alphonse Talarico, Your Honor. Good morning. Good morning, Mr. Flynn.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, counsel.

THE COURT: And here in court we've got --

MR. DULBERG: Mr. Dulberg.

THE COURT: Mr. Dulberg's here.

And we're here on defendants' motion; am I correct?

MR. FLYNN: That's correct, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. In a nutshell, defense counsel, can you explain your position.

MR. FLYNN: Sure. Thank you, Your Honor.

Mr. Dulberg has placed his communications with his prior lawyer, Thomas Gooch, at issue in this case. Plaintiff has admitted that it filed its complaint -- I'm sorry, plaintiff has filed its complaint more than two years after my clients, his former lawyers, the Popovich firm, withdrew or were terminated from his representation. That's not at issue.

Received 02-26-2021 09:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-26-2021 10:31 AM / Transaction #12362067 / Case #17LA000377

He has placed the discovery rule at issue in his complaint and his amended complaints. However, he has failed to answer initial discovery, he has failed to respond -- or answer properly questions at his deposition regarding discovery of his malpractice and his understanding of damages related to the Popovich's alleged malpractice. We served supplemental discovery, which is somewhat duplicative of what was previously served, and that was on July 2nd after his deposition. He hasn't even answered it.

The response does nothing to address those issues or object to the discovery that's been propounded, so I would request that he be forced at a minimum to answer this discovery, that any objection be overruled, and essentially that the communications between Dulberg and Mr. Gooch be produced in whatever form. And to the extent that a subpoena to The Gooch Firm would be necessary at a later date, I would rather take it one step at a time and analyze whatever it is that Mr. Dulberg produce. So, in a nutshell, that's the motion.

I didn't know that we'd have to have a hearing. I thought that these would be responded to or at least objected to, but here we are.

THE COURT: Okay. Plaintiff's counsel?

MR. TALARICO: Let's see, Your Honor, (indiscernible) to start with, I think this is a two-step analysis. I hope the court sees it the same way. I think it should be looked upon as a 2-619 motion and at the same time a -- the question of whether there was a waiver of the attorney-client privilege under Rule of Evidence 502.

I believe that if the 2-619 is decided -- I'm sorry. Yeah, the 2-619 motion is dismissed and decided against the defendants, then the matter -- the second step would be the waiver of attorney-client privilege which I think my client did not do under either 502(a) or 502(b).

THE COURT: When you -- are you saying that their statute of limitations motion, if I deny that, only in that instance do we get to the issue of the -- of the letter?

MR. TALARICO: No. I think what we're -- what I'm saying is that that clarifies part of the 502(a) section of the argument, what I perceive as 502(a).

THE COURT: Okay. Defense counsel?

MR. TALARICO: If I might --

THE COURT: Go ahead, plaintiff.

Received 02-26-2021 09:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-26-2021 10:31 AM / Transaction #12362067 / Case #17LA000377

MR. TALARICO: -- expound a little bit. I wasn't aware that a 2-619 motion had been up. It was denied by this court, but denied with the ability to get -- to bring it again. All I've seen when I came into the case was a decision saying, you know, denied, so at that point in time I did not, let's say, approach the issues of the statute of limitations or the statute of repose. I think those two issues help clarify the 502 argument.

The 502 argument is what -- what information can be gathered, and I think my responses to that would simply be 502(b) and 502(a) have been complied with.

THE COURT: Defense counsel?

MR. FLYNN: I'm a little confused, Judge. There is no pending 619 motion. That was ruled upon years ago. This is simply a motion to compel and, you know, again, looking back, I didn't attach every discovery answer that Mr. Dulberg provided because there were many and there were issues with signature pages throughout written discovery. But here, the overarching supplemental request, Exhibit E, I believe it is, that was served on July 2 has not been answered. It's not been objected to. It's untimely at this point, and, again, it's clear that the discovery of the malpractice and damages has been placed at issue. So we're entitled to explore that discovery.

The testimony of Mr. Dulberg at his deposition makes it clear that the only basis to toll any statute of limitations was the December 2016 communications with Tom Gooch and if he's not going to produce those, he has no other basis to toll the statute and, as such, the case should be dismissed. We'll bring the appropriate motion. But you can't have it both ways using the privilege as a sword and a shield.

THE COURT: Plaintiff's counsel, with respect to the latter, your comment?

MR. TALARICO: I guess I'm not clear on what counsel was saying. I respectfully say that we have complied with the -- the 502(b) was inadvertent within the deposition and the attorney at the time, who was -- I think her name was Williams, Julia Williams, objected and objected on a continuing basis for any of the questions regarding that information. Counsel has not brought a motion to have this court decide whether or not that was appropriate, but he had answered under the continuing objection by Miss Williams that this was a protected attorney-client discussion.

As to the 502(a), the intentional disclosure, that was, in my estimation -- and I hope the court agrees -- that was done in the pleadings, in the complaint, but it was done in the -- I wouldn't say in the alternative. I would say it's additional information.

THE COURT: What specifically are you referring to when you say it's additional information? What was additional information?

MR. TALARICO: The continued comments about when -- when he was aware of -- and when the statute would begin to run, the two-year statute of limitations, as to the filing of a complaint for malpractice. Within that section, I have each one numbered, but at first the comments -- the situation was when the arbitration, the binding arbitration, matter was decided, and it was decided in such a way that my client lost close to over $200,000 because the only other person that was in the lawsuit had a maximum insurance policy of $300,000. At that point in time -- And he alleged that in the complaint, in the first amended complaint, and the second amended complaint, all of which I wasn't party to, but the words are in there, the allegations are in there. I believe that's when the statute of limitations begins to run. Further --

THE COURT: He references -- he references in his complaint -- I assume we're talking about the allegations in the complaint.

MR. TALARICO: Yes.

THE COURT: And he references in the complaint learning information from the expert, if I've read this correctly. Is that a fair statement?

MR. TALARICO: That is one of the allegations, yes.

THE COURT: So why can't -- why isn't that report or communication going to be turned over?

MR. DULBERG: It is. It already is.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, it's my position that that is not relevant to the question. The question is, when did -- when did he become aware, when does the statute start running. And the answer I believe under Illinois law is it begins running when he knows of his injury, and the injury took place with the binding arbitration award; not before, not after. So I'm saying --

THE COURT: And I guess I -- you're losing me because I -- I don't understand how a binding arbitration award is going to disclose to anybody whether or not malpractice had been -- had taken place.

The -- your client -- I don't know if you can see him. He keeps raising his hand. I'm ignoring him because he has an attorney. I'm going to -- I'm going to focus on you.

But whether or not there was an award for X dollars or no dollars, that doesn't tell me anything about whether -- whether he knew or should have known at that point. That just told him what those people --

MR. DULBERG: May I clarify on the record.

THE COURT: Mr. Dulberg, you have an attorney. You've elected to have your attorney speak for you.

MR. DULBERG: He's not not lead attorney (indiscernible).

THE COURT: I'm going to limit it to it. I recommend that you limit your conversation or comments to him out of fear that you may say something that could be harmful to your case.

MR. DULBERG: I understand.

THE COURT: In any event, the complaint identified something the expert said as establishing knowledge on behalf of Mr. Dulberg for the first time of the alleged malpractice. So the complaint by its very language tells me that that communication is relevant to the issue of the discovery rule. I don't have a problem with doing an in camera inspection of that particular communication, but I don't see how we avoid it being relevant.

Received 02-26-2021 09:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-26-2021 10:31 AM / Transaction #12362067 / Case #17LA000377

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I think in all three -- the original complaint, the first amended complaint and the second amended complaint, all three plead the injury happening with the -- I can't think of the word -- but with the binding arbitration statement.

It thereafter talks about other matters and each time the drafter of that complaint, the first -- I'm sorry, the original, the first and the second, adds in different aspects which I believe are really irrelevant. I think the focus is on when the injury occurred. The injury I believe occurred when the binding arbitration award was granted and I think that's when the statute of limitations should run.

THE COURT: But he's entitled to discovery on that. If you're claiming a particular communication established knowledge for the first time, he gets to -- defense gets to see that, because you've linked it to a unique event and he gets to challenge whether that's plausible, so you don't get -- you don't get to make that decision for him.

MR. DULBERG: If I may, I'm going -- I'm going to clarify here.

THE COURT: Mr. Dulberg, you have an attorney.

MR. DULBERG: Yes, I do. And I'm going to clarify.

Received 02-26-2021 09:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-26-2021 10:31 AM / Transaction #12362067 / Case #17LA000377

THE COURT: I'm not asking you to clarify.

MR. DULBERG: The event -- the event, okay, was a series of events --

THE COURT: Counsel, --

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I'm going to object to this as well.

MR. DULBERG: -- (continuing) prior to meeting Mr. Gooch.

THE COURT: I'm ignoring what's being said.

Mr. Talarico, do you have a comment?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, we -- Mr. Dulberg, I believe, and our position is, the statute of limitations begins to run on the date of the arbitration -- the binding arbitration, award.

THE COURT: And you could be right, but the discovery rule involves facts and the issue becomes whether you knew or should have known. You, by the complaint you've inherited, established that knowledge came as a result of a particular event and I think it -- by virtue of that allegation, you've made the facts surrounding that event relevant to the investigation of your claim of the discovery rule, its application, that I can't separate that out. If you say that communication gave you knowledge for the first time, then the defendant gets to explore that.

MR. DULBERG: That's not what it said.

THE COURT: Your subjective interpretations aren't going to be controlling.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm not relying on that. All I'm saying is that, with all due respect, that is when he had the knowledge, that is when the statute of limitations begins to run, and that information has been part of the court file long before it became part of this matter.

THE COURT: My reading of the complaint referenced something regarding an expert report and perhaps a letter from former counsel.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, may I clarify that.

THE COURT: Go ahead. Yeah.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you.

You know, the plaintiff has attempted I think to use both, a report that he received from a chainsaw -- so-called chainsaw expert, so a liability expert, relative to the underlying case. There's been some confusion with respect to his pleading and reliance on that report. However, what I clarified at his deposition is that he relied on a legal opinion to toll the statute of limitations in this case. It's that legal opinion in December of 2016 which informed him of the malpractice.

Again, he wasn't very specific. I tried to question him about each and every violation of the standard of care, breach of the standard of care, and when he found out about it; and you can read the whole deposition, but his answers are evasive. They've been evasive in his original interrogatory answers. We've covered the waterfront with every possible question and interrogatory and production request we could, but it's clear that he is relying on a legal opinion.

Now, he's not very specific about what that legal opinion is, and maybe there isn't anything in Gooch's records or in the emails and whatnot to and from Gooch and Dulberg, but, in any event, that's what he testified to, and so it's our position we should be entitled to those legal opinions, whatever they are.

THE COURT: I thought -- and obviously I didn't read the entire deposition. I thought there was one letter that really covered it, based on what I read. Is that a fair statement?

MR. FLYNN: I'm not sure if that's accurate, Judge. I think that -- I think he's pinpointed the time period to December of 2016, but I think he also testified that there was regular email communication between Dulberg and Gooch, you know, --

THE COURT: In any event, I am going to direct production of all those communications on which the plaintiff is basing his claim of the applicability of the discovery rule; and that's a little broader than I first intended, but given the nature of this discussion, it sounds like it's more than just a couple of documents. It might be several of them.

I will also have those items produced to me for an in camera inspection so that I can determine to what extent that they are disclosing information relevant to our investigation into the discovery rule, because while I agree the defendant should be allowed to investigate that issue, that doesn't mean he gets the benefit of prior counsel's work product outside of the discovery rule issue.

Does that make sense?

MR. FLYNN: So I do understand your ruling. I would just ask that it be specified also, though, to the communications with Mr. Gooch because in anticipation of how this may be produced to Your Honor, if all they produce is this chainsaw expert report, then we haven't made any progress.

Received 02-26-2021 09:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-26-2021 10:31 AM / Transaction #12362067 / Case #17LA000377

THE COURT: There is definitely something from Mr. Gooch, and if I'm not given something from Mr. Gooch, that will be a red flag.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, if I might.

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. TALARICO: If I might speak.

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, my position is that the binding arbitration award document which has been part of the court file, we believe long before I was in this case, is the day that my client knew that he had an action and, before that, it was premature by Illinois law. At the time when the award was given, and the --

THE COURT: I'm not buying that. The arbitrator's award gave you insight as to the value. Where you lose me is -- Well, let me rephrase that. It gave you their insight as to what they perceived the value of the case to be. It did not tell you whether or not you could have known that there was a viable cause of action against another defendant --

MR. DULBERG: (Indiscernible) that.

THE COURT: -- because, again, it's you knew or should have known whether --

MR. TALARICO: Of the injury, --

THE COURT: -- there was another cause of action against that --

MR. TALARICO: -- a financial injury.

THE COURT: And I fail to understand how an arbitrator's award would explain that because I can't imagine -- I certainly don't -- I'm not an arbitrator, I don't know what they put in their decisions, but I would be surprised if they spend a lot of time telling you about people you could have sued but for malpractice, so the issue for me is knew or should have known, and I am going to direct production of those documents.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, my one comment?

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. TALARICO: So it's Illinois law on that matter and a very recent case talked about specifically when the statute begins to run, but I will -- It's called Suburban Real Estate Services, Inc., versus Barus -- I'm sorry, and Barus versus William Carlson. The cite --

THE COURT: But that's a different argument. That's a rule -- that's an argument related to the applicability of -- or, in my analysis, of how the rule applies to the circumstances that we have. It doesn't address the issue of whether you should have known of the existence of the cause of action, and the information I have is that you did not and could not have known about the cause of action until the disclosure from the expert or from Mr. Gooch, and if we're going to explore that issue, you've got to produce that. You've put those items into evidence or at issue, so defense has a right to see them.

Received 02-26-2021 09:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-26-2021 10:31 AM / Transaction #12362067 / Case #17LA000377

MR. DULBERG: May I.

THE COURT: Anything else?

MR. DULBERG: Yeah, yeah. I'd like to comment. You're not going to let me comment?

THE COURT: Mr. Dulberg is attempting to speak. I'm not -- I'm neither listening nor inviting him to speak.

MR. DULBERG: I will speak on the record.

THE COURT: So I will --

MR. DULBERG: It's not about when we knew or should have known of the cause of action.

THE COURT: Sir, --

MR. DULBERG: We certainly knew or should have known --

THE COURT: Sir, --

MR. DULBERG: -- of the injury.

THE COURT: Mr. Dulberg, do not presume to tell me what the law is. All right? You understand your place.

MR. DULBERG: Yes.

THE COURT: Do not tell me what the law is. I will make that decision. I've instructed you numerous times not to talk, and yet you feel the need to express yourself. You have an attorney. Your attorney has ably represented you, but I get to make a decision regardless of what your personal thoughts are. So we will go back to my discussion. Forgive the outburst, but I have invited him not to speak and that wasn't acceptable to him.

So, in any event, how long, Mr. Talarico, do you need to produce this information?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm not absolutely sure. Whatever the court says I produce I'll produce within 28 days.

THE COURT: Okay. Twenty-eight days is fine with me.

Mr. Flynn?

MR. FLYNN: Twenty-eight days is fine, Your Honor. I would also request that, in addition to the documents being produced, that the actual discovery request be responded to and any interrogatories be amended --

THE COURT: You need a privilege log certainly as to the documents, and so I'm going to direct that you be given a privilege log because they are claiming privilege as to these items. I assume there hasn't previously been one. Is that true?

MR. FLYNN: That is true.

THE COURT: All right. So you're entitled to the privilege log.

As far as the other interrogatories are concerned, Mr. Talarico -- How many interrogatories do we have outstanding?

MR. FLYNN: The -- I think what we have is some interrogatories that weren't completely answered in the first place. It's probably a handful, Judge, but then there are seven or eight requests for production that simply weren't responded to. Those are the subject of this motion.

THE COURT: And are they covered by the privilege log, do you think?

MR. FLYNN: Well, I think that first we need to know whether there are responsive documents. They haven't even answered that, and then if they are withholding any and submitting them to the court, then the privilege log comes next, I guess, would be my request.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, can you provide a response in 28 days?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Your Honor. I will respond.

THE COURT: All right. And if you don't have documents, you don't have documents. Just tell him. If you're claiming a privilege, identify -- provide some sort of an identification of the document and the privilege you're claiming.

With respect to the interrogatories, which ones?

MR. FLYNN: These were the interrogatories propounded by Hans Mast, my other client, and that was Exhibit D, I believe, to the motion. I did not attach his answers, but Hans Mast's interrogatories which were propounded back on March 22 of 2019 -- one, two, three -- just four interrogatories.

I do believe that we have a response, but it's incomplete. It doesn't -- it doesn't identify these communications with Mr. Gooch or the legal opinion that has been alleged in the complaint and placed at issue.

THE COURT: Yeah, and I -- my concern is -- and the answer, direct answer, to those is going to require my review of the documents, so I'm going to enter and continue that part of the motion until I make a decision with respect to the documents.

Is there anything else?

MR. FLYNN: I think that covers it, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. So, Mr. Flynn, I'm going to direct you to send me an order -- Do you have our email address? You can take a picture if you like.

MR. FLYNN: I believe so. Okay.

THE COURT: Okay? And the order -- we'll pick a new date in a moment. The order will provide that the plaintiff will provide you with a privilege log for those -- provide you answers to the production request as well as a privilege log with respect to any documents that are withheld, and I'm entering and continuing your motion with respect to the interrogatories.

Plaintiff will provide me with the documents withheld and identified in the privilege log within 28 days and then we'll come back perhaps two weeks after that. Twenty-eight days is March 10th; two weeks after that would be around March 24th, and I can provide you with my ruling then. So how's March 24th at 1:30?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I actually have a deposition at 1:00 o'clock that day.

MR. TALARICO: I said it was fine, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Oh, okay. I'm sorry, I missed that. So 1:30. Is there anything else we need covered in the order?

MR. FLYNN: Just may I be clear that the motion is granted in part as stated on the record.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: And I would like to just include Mr. Gooch's name in the written order, that those be included in the production if they exist.

THE COURT: Yeah, I don't -- I don't want -- What I want to -- I guess -- And thank you for bringing that up.

My impression from reading the motion was it boiled down to -- I got the idea that it was a single document or a single communication that conveyed the information at issue. And you're indicating that it was more, it was a number of emails. Are you able to put a timeframe on it?

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Mr. Talarico, any questions or comments about that?

MR. TALARICO: No, Your Honor. I'll follow the court's order.

MR. FLYNN: No, Your Honor. I will send a draft of that order to Mr. Talarico for his review and then we will send it to your email address, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll wait to see that. I'll sign it as soon as it's in. Thank you.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you.

THE COURT: See you in March.
MR. FLYNN: Thank you, counsel.

THE COURT: Okay. Morning. Waiting for Mr. Flynn. Okay. Do I have both sides on Dulberg?

MR. FLYNN: George Flynn for --

MR. TALARICO: (Indiscernible) plaintiff, your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, you've got defendant?

MR. FLYNN: I do.

THE COURT: And Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: I have the plaintiff, Judge. It's my motion for extension of time, which at this moment, Judge, I'd like to withdraw.

THE COURT: How come?

MR. TALARICO: Because I was able to comply within the time the court order originally instructed me.

THE COURT: Well, I -- do you know about this? I'll try and get that so you can see it.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, I know that the -- that the -- that the plaintiff himself delivered the privilege log to your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, I haven't looked at it. And because it did not come from you, I felt it would be inappropriate for me to look at it. I just looked at the cover page and saw what he was transmitting.

Defense counsel, I'll show you. That's as much as I've seen.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, your Honor.

THE COURT: And I did not delve further because as I expressed last time to Mr. Dulberg, he has an attorney and he shouldn't be communicating with me directly. And I was uncomfortable because I was unsure -- Mr. Flynn, did you get a copy of this?

MR. FLYNN: Not a copy of Mr. Dulberg's transmission, no.

THE COURT: Yeah, and that -- that -- so, Mr. Talarico, I can either throw it out or return it to you, but I'm not going to turn it over to the defense because I haven't looked at anything other than that cover page. And I don't think it should have been sent to me.

What would you prefer?

MR. TALARICO: Well, Judge, I need a clarification with all due respect. Mr. Flynn was given a copy by me of the privilege log which is what you've been served with without the attachment, without the document that's claimed to be privileged.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, how do you know what he gave me because I don't know what he gave me, so, I mean --

MR. TALARICO: Because, your Honor, it was -- he was instructed -- he volunteered to take it personally. He was instructed to what documents should be in there, and he was also instructed, sadly, to put it in an envelope with my name, not his name, so that's -- that's -- that was a miscommunication between myself and my client.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, we were not copied on any transmission to the Court. I received the privilege log directly from counsel, but I was not copied on any courtesy letter to the Court or any other transmission to the Court.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. So, Mr. Flynn, what are you asking?

MR. FLYNN: Well, I understand the motion for the extension has been withdrawn. I had filed a written objection after it was -- after the motion was filed.

THE COURT: Okay. You know what, I'm going to -- I'm going to change gears.

MR. FLYNN: Sure.

(WHEREUPON, the afore-captioned cause was recalled.)

THE COURT: All right. Okay. Mr. Flynn, I'm -- I mean, Mr. Talarico is telling me I was sent exactly the same thing you got. I don't see a problem with my disclosing it.

MR. FLYNN: No, I don't have an objection to that. I would just inform the Court that I haven't received a copy of Mr. Dulberg's transmittal letter.

THE COURT: Do I even need a copy of this?

MR. FLYNN: I don't know.

THE COURT: I mean, shouldn't it be filed?

MR. TALARICO: Excuse me, Judge?

THE COURT: Shouldn't it just be filed in the court file?

MR. TALARICO: The privilege log?

THE COURT: Yeah. I mean, if they're objecting, but, I mean -- I'm now looking at it. It does have some attachments. Okay. All right. So what do you want me to do with the documents?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, from the plaintiff's point of view, we withdrew our motion. We don't need the additional time. We've complied with the order. We -- both Mr. Flynn and your Honor have received a copy of the privilege log.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. TALARICO: And you have received the one document we claim is privileged, Judge.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: Mr. Flynn has not.

THE COURT: I can do this right now.

Okay. Mr. Flynn, you were going to say?

MR. FLYNN: Yeah, Judge, so at this point we are scheduled to come back for a hearing I believe at 1:00 or 1:30 on March 25th for further ruling and status on compliance.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: I understand that the motion for the extension has been withdrawn. I did receive plaintiff's response to Popovich's supplemental request for production, and, in my opinion, there are improper objections and it's not answered properly. And in fact there are no additional documents that have been produced other than I think two or three pages.

So there is a reference -- in response to many of the requests, there is simply a reference to 8,708 pages that have already been produced in this case. I think the Court's ruling on February 10 was very specific about what is to be produced. So if there isn't anything, then they should say so.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: If there is anything being withheld, apparently that's identified in this privilege log, which was a little confusing to me because it's from 2017. My suggestion would be that if we hold the hearing on March 25th, that the withheld documents, the privilege log, the plaintiff's response to the supplemental production request all be (audio distortion) to the Court in preparation for that hearing.

THE COURT: I don't need the 8,000 pages.

MR. FLYNN: Understood.

response to the request -- or supplemental request to produce, No. 3, there was eight documents submitted in compliance with the court order. It was the only email between The Gooch Firm and Mr. Dulberg in December of 2016 pursuant to the court order that was not privileged. And also in that answer, in the answer to No. 3, we do designate the one document that we've turned over to the Court. So both documents, the one that can be produced has been produced and the one that we claim privileged has been noted in the response.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, could you add to this?

MR. FLYNN: Yeah, Judge, I'm not exactly sure what's been tendered to the Court because, again, I wasn't copied on the transmittal. I --

THE COURT: I was copied on -- I mean, I'm sent, separate from the cover pages, a total of three pages here.

MR. FLYNN: And that's -- and I assume that includes the privilege log and then Pages 8744 through 8746?

THE COURT: I'm sorry. I took it apart. Six pages total, including the cover letter. So the privilege log I could show you; there it is.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. I have that.

THE COURT: And I'm assuming you've got it, yes, signed by Mr. Dulberg. And then three pages which seems to represent the back and forth in emails.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. And those, I assume based on the privilege log, would be Bates labels 8744 through 8746?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. So I don't have those three pages obviously.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: But I do think that it would be important for the Court to receive a copy of the plaintiff's supplemental production response.

THE COURT: That's fine.

MR. FLYNN: Or I should say response to the supplemental production request.

better way of phrasing it. What's the problem?

MR. FLYNN: The problem, again, is we had a lengthy hearing on this, and there is a specific ruling in the February 10 order relative to Dulberg's understanding that he had a legal malpractice case. Now it's been pinpointed to December 16th of 20 -- yeah, December 16, 2016. There have been no documents produced relative to that date. They're simply doing a document dump or referring to 8,000 pages that were previously produced, so it doesn't advance the case here.

THE COURT: Let me respond in a general sense. If you asked for a particular document to be produced and they say it's in the 8,000 pages previously produced, that's nonresponsive. I don't know if --

MR. FLYNN: It is.

THE COURT: -- that answers your question, but that seems to be the direction you're going. Am I accurate?

MR. FLYNN: That is accurate. That was one of the issues that we had, yes.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, do you have something to say?

THE COURT: Excuse me. Just have a seat. We'll talk to you in a minute. You can sit here. Sorry. We have people here in court, pro se.

MR. TALARICO: The one has been turned over to the Court, the only email in December of 2016. The other one has been -- and I'm sorry -- turned over to Mr. Flynn.

The other document that is responsive is the email of November of 2016 in relationship to the discovery of his -- his claim against Popovich --

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. TALARICO: -- and Mast. So those two documents, I believe, respond to the court order. One, he has the only email between Gooch and Dulberg in 2016, and the other one is the November 1, which refers -- which is we are claiming privilege, which refers to his discovery of his case, his claim. That's the one that the Court has, which is designated in our privilege log and waiting upon the judge's decision whether it should be turned over or not.

THE COURT: Okay. Hang on.

MR. FLYNN: There's -- Judge, in their response there is no mention of this other November date.

THE COURT: No.

MR. FLYNN: It's just, again, a reference to these 8700 pages.

MR. TALARICO: Well, actually that's not true, Counsel. With all due respect, if you look at the answer to No. 3, it says, Objection, privilege, Bates stamped email stream 8744 to 8746.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. I see.

MR. TALARICO: That's the one that was responding to his discovery of his case.

THE COURT: All right. I've got --

MR. TALARICO: Judge, those are the only documents I've reviewed. The latest 700 pages that were sent to me, that's the only thing. And that's all -- all the emails between Dulberg and -- and Gooch, and that's all we have.

THE COURT: All right. Here's -- and maybe you can explain this. My recollection is that he referenced -- Mr. Dulberg referenced a December email. Is that fair? Is that accurate, Mr. Flynn?

MR. FLYNN: Mr. Dulberg's testimony is that he learned in December of 2016 from a lawyer -- and I asked him this question many different ways, of how he learned of his malpractice case. He said, Gooch told me I had a malpractice case. When I pressed him further on it for specifics, he couldn't give me any. This is in his testimony.

THE COURT: How do we know there was an email? And forgive me. I know we addressed this.

MR. FLYNN: And, I'm sorry. I thought that there was a written communication as well.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: But they haven't responded that there are no written communications. They just simply reference these 8700 pages of documents expecting me to go through them apparently.

direction, and I'm going to have to see your responses.

MR. FLYNN: And that's contrary to the testimony.

THE COURT: I'll have to see the responses if you want me to rule on it, but my -- I thought -- and perhaps it would be easier just for me to go to the -- I thought it was the complaint that alleged discovery in December of whatever year.

Am I correct that it was a December -- an allegation of a December discovery?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge.

MR. FLYNN: That's true.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, the problem I'm having is these documents don't -- aren't December. They're -- frankly, they're November 2017. So my initial thought is are they responsive, because they seemed to be referencing a different communication.

MR. FLYNN: I think they would still be responsive to the broad requests -- well, my request for broad answers (indiscernible), but --

THE COURT: The basis of my ruling was -- and, again, I'm operating on memory -- that I directed Mr. Dulberg to produce whatever documents he was referring to when he said he discovered or became aware of the malpractice in -- was it 2016?

MR. FLYNN: That's correct, and that's in Line 3 of your February 10 order.

THE COURT: Okay. Yeah, and I --

MR. FLYNN: I'm sorry. February 11 order I guess it was.

THE COURT: All right. These are November 2017, the documents I have here. So they are not covered by the explicit language of my order unless the plaintiff then says he was mistaken as to the dates, but -- let me just go back to my order.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, my understanding was the December 16 communications between Dulberg and Gooch, which I submitted, the only one, and any and all records between Dulberg and Gooch that refer to his discovery. That's why the 2017 one is included because in that communication Dulberg speaks of his discovery of his case.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: So in effect, Judge, with all due respect, I have reviewed every email between Dul- -- Gooch and Dulberg, and there has been one responsive email, the one that your Honor has. And as to the December communications, I only have one in addition, which I have submitted because it wasn't privileged, so I didn't allege privilege.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, do you have a 2016 email?

MR. FLYNN: I have a -- I do have -- and this was just produced with the response last week -- it's a December 29, 2016 email chain. These are Bates labeled 8709 and 8710, and it looks like it's a communication between Dulberg and Gooch's paralegal, Ms. Buckley. This doesn't seem to explain anything about a malpractice case. It looks like they are attaching a binding mediation agreement. I don't see legal advice being provided in these documents.

MR. TALARICO: That's not what I was responding to, Mr. Flynn, with all due respect. What I was responding to was any and all communication, email or written communication between Dulberg and Gooch in 2016. That's the only one.

Okay. As to the discovery of his injury or his case, the only one that I -- I have looked at every email. I have every Bates numbered document with no gaps, and the only one that's responsive is the one I turned over to the Court, to this Honorable Court, which is a 2017 email. Those two are the only responsive. I mean, your Honor, with all due respect, we could turn over every email, but I tried to and I think I succeeded in responding to the issues here.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, if I may.

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. FLYNN: The response does not reflect that there is an absence of emails. It simply says see Bates -- see Bates stamped 181 through 8708. So the answer, if there are no documents or no additional documents, it should say that.

THE COURT: Yes, I agree. Even if you answered it elsewhere, each question deserves a direct response, and it seems to me that there is at -- what production request is this, Mr. Flynn?

MR. FLYNN: This is Popovich's supplemental production request, which was served I believe on July 2 of 2020.

THE COURT: Okay. What -- tell me the language of it. Tell me the request.

MR. FLYNN: Well, there are --

THE COURT: Numerous subparts?

MR. FLYNN: There are eight -- seven of them. For example, Any and all documents relating to your discovery of any alleged breach of the standard of care or legal malpractice by Popovich or Mast and which caused you damages or injury. The response is, Objection, undue burden, previously submitted, please see plaintiff's Bates stamped 1 through 8708.

THE COURT: Generally, that is nonresponsive, but that's as far as I can go on that without looking at the questions and the answers. I'm hoping by saying that that gives you both some guidance as to what I expect when we do sit down and go through each one of these. But you can't just say it's in the stuff I've already given. You've got to give them an answer.

That being said, I'm -- I'm still wrestling with the problem of in the complaint it alleges a December 2016, I believe, discovery. It was not until the -- Paragraph 57 -- 56, Dulberg realized for the first time in December 2016, et cetera, thought he was given false information. And I'm -- and it was my understanding that from our previous conversation, there was correspondence that disclosed this in December 2016, and that's why I directed it disclosed or produced.

MR. FLYNN: You did.

THE COURT: And what I've been given is not December 2016. It's November 2017. And while this may fall under the general requirement to produce some -- some documents, it's not responsive. It doesn't address December 2016, which is the operative date.

So, Mr. Talarico, what's your point? What's your -- what's your take on this?

MR. TALARICO: I'm sorry, Judge. The only reason you haven't received that is because we didn't claim a privilege. We turned it over.

THE COURT: But Mr. Flynn has said there is nothing about discovery in there, and I'm wrestling with that.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, you're right, it's not responsive to I think what the Court ordered. What it is --

THE COURT: Well --

MR. FLYNN: -- responsive to I think is the various discovery requests that have been made in this case.

THE COURT: He's telling me that the answer to your request for anything from December 2016 is none.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. It doesn't say that in his document.

THE COURT: Okay. Or just that one -- to the extent that you are requesting documents memorializing discovery of the malpractice claim, the answer is none, from December 2016 at least.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. And whether this sheds light on the actual discovery and what is discoverable, I would request that it be disclosed.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, with all due respect, I believe the 2017 email string or three-part answer that's been submitted to the Court is responsive and whatever -- however the judge decides, the Court decides, that's the only answer I have to submit is what you have.

THE COURT: Well, the issue I'm wrestling with is it is not in the time frame that I previously determined was relevant. If he discovered in -- the claim is discovery of the existence of the claim in 2016, not November of 2017.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. TALARICO: In his -- in Dulberg's response, he speaks to the past of the things that led him -- without giving up too much information, that's the only responsive document that I have seen. I've seen them all. It goes -- that's the one that says in the past, these things led me to believe I have a case.

THE COURT: All right. Okay. Well, in the end if it is going to be your position that the reference to the discovery of his claim is memorialized in this email chain of November 2017, then I think I have to disclose it because that's a claim made by Mr. Dulberg; he made it relevant.

MR. TALARICO: I understand, Judge.

THE COURT: The problem that I have been wrestling with is it's -- it's not from December 2016, so it's different. And I'm not going to make a decision on this today. I want to -- I want to explore it a little bit further when we come back. of the existence of a claim.

MR. TALARICO: I understand completely what the Court says, and as the Court rules, that's what I will do.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, any comment?

MR. FLYNN: No, your Honor. I think I understand where the Court is going with this. You know, if it were produced, I would alternatively ask that he be barred and that he not be allowed to, you know, amend the complaint and try to change his theory on when he discovered this, but --

THE COURT: That's interesting.

MR. FLYNN: I guess my suggestion, if the Court would entertain my suggestion, is that we do tender the plaintiff's response to the supplemental production request. I would urge the Court, again, to read the motion to compel and Dulberg's testimony that's identified or cited in the motion --

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. FLYNN: -- but also attached --

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: -- for context.

THE COURT: No. I will take care of that.

What I'm -- Mr. Talarico, what I'm -- and it seems that you're declining the offer. I wanted you to address the difference in the time frame, but it seems to me that you're acknowledging that even though the time frame isn't correct that this is the document we were -- we were after.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: And if that's the case, then I'm going to order it produced. I mean, then there is no reason to further pursue this.

MR. TALARICO: Okay. I will do that, Judge.

THE COURT: Okay. If you want -- if you want time to address the issue on the different time frame, I'll give it to you, but if your position is, no, this is it, then I'm going to order it produced.

What do you want to do?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, again, with all due respect to the Court and to Mr. Flynn, I've looked at every email from -- from Gooch to Dulberg; that's the only one I can produce because that's the only one that talks about his discovery of his case, and I will produce it.

So I'll -- I'll think about this further, and we'll talk about it in person.

MR. TALARICO: I'm sorry to interrupt, but the language in that email, as I recall it, was, I started to learn about, I started to get the idea, this document led me to this, back then I read this document that told me that I had -- that I may have a case. The next thing is, you know, the different things saying back in the past he started learning about, and I think that's responsive to knew or should have known.

THE COURT: All right. So are you conceding it's relevant based on my statements?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge.

THE COURT: All right. For the record, this is Dulberg versus Mast. And, plaintiff's counsel, if you could identify yourself.

MR. TALARICO: Your Honor, good morning. Mr. Flynn. My name is Alphonse Talarico. I represent the plaintiff, Paul Dulberg.

THE COURT: Okay. And for the defense?

MR. FLYNN: Attorney George Flynn, F-l-y-n-n. And, Judge, and, counsel, I would like to extend my apologies for the calendaring issue last week.

THE COURT: It happens. But let's -- where are we? Because I -- yeah, bring me up to date with where you are.

MR. FLYNN: Generally, Judge, the -- Okay. So the court ordered the plaintiff to produce certain documents that were withheld. That has been done. We have I think a continued issue with respect to interrogatory answers from the -- Hans Mast interrogatories served in July of 2019, and then the improper and vague answer, responses, to the production request where the plaintiff has just simply identified Bate's documents 1 through 8,708 relative to the discovery of the alleged malpractice.

THE COURT: Yeah, I looked at the answers, those answers, and I believe those are nonresponsive. Merely identifying all the records is not a direct response to your request, so I'm going to direct plaintiff to provide a supplemental response to those requests.

Mr. Talarico, you have something to say?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge, actually, I do. Those 8,707 prior documents that had been submitted, according to the information I have, between Mr. Flynn and the Clinton Law Firm, the previous law firm, were under the initial request to produce. The answers that I have from the Clinton Law Firm indicate the wording that the documents will be produced and then there is no objection between Flynn -- Mr. Flynn and the Clinton Law Firm. There's no -- and I have no way of researching how the relationship between the first set of answers that covered document 1 through 8707 have been done. I -- that's why I said that that will be unreasonable and an expense and I have to go back to each document and see how it responded.

Mr. Flynn, as far as I've seen, had not objected to those answers, so to do that would force me to review close to 9,000 documents to see which were responsive -- 9,000 -- 8,707 that have already been turned over and, in addition to that, on February 10th,

Judge, the last hearing date on this matter, you focused and ordered us to focus our response to the time Mr. Dulberg knew or should have known, and the only documents that at that time hadn't been turned over to Mr. Flynn would be six hundred something odd documents, communications between the second -- the Gooch law firm and Mr. Dulberg. Those I reviewed and submitted the one that responded to what -- to what the court indicated the communications in December of --

THE COURT: Before we get into that -- because I think that issue's resolved. Before we get into that, why are you -- I guess I'm not following. You're saying that it's -- giving him specific responses to his discovery requests is overly burdensome on you at this point?

MR. TALARICO: Right, to go back and review 8,700 documents that had been turned over in the past --

THE COURT: Well, who should?

MR. TALARICO: Excuse me?

THE COURT: Well, who's burden is that to provide the accurate answer?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, those were responded to. They were supplied to Mr. Flynn in the past in response to requests to produce.

Received 04-23-2021 03:02 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 04-26-2021 09:51 AM / Transaction #13075436 / Case #17LA000377

THE COURT: He may have -- I accept he has every single relevant document, but you can't just say in response to a discovery request find it yourself, it's in these thousands of pages of documents. You got to tell him where it is. So --

MR. TALARICO: I understand -- I'm sorry, Judge.

THE COURT: The bottom line, your answer has to be one that you can be pinned down on for purposes of impeachment, and your answers are -- don't permit that. So if you're going to respond, you've got to give him a direct response to a direct question, and you didn't do that. You've given him -- you said here's everything we have, find it yourself. And that is nonresponsive.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, with all due respect, again, the -- this was -- what I'm reflecting on is these are the documents that were submitted to Mr. Flynn by the Clinton Law Firm with no objection.

THE COURT: But I have a motion to compel that -- I mean -- so I think --

MR. FLYNN: And that's not accurate, Judge. There have been multiple 201(k) conferences and it was a long, unusual production in response to the interrogatories in the case as it was.

THE COURT: Regardless, I am ordering compliance and you must give specific responses to each of the requests, and you can't just say it's somewhere in these 8,000 plus pages. How long is it going to take you to do that?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, if I could have 60 days to cover 9,000 -- close to 9,000 documents.

THE COURT: Sure, I'll give you 60 days, because, yeah, that is a lot of -- those are a lot of documents, so I'll put this out 60 days.

Mr. Flynn, is there anything else we need to address at this time?

MR. FLYNN: Well, the supplemental production response, again, is a nonresponsive production response. The question is, is there a document in that 8,000 pages. We don't think there is, but Dulberg testified both ways essentially, whether there was a December 16, 2016, written communication with Tom Gooch that provided him with the basis for the tolling of the statute of limitations. If there is none, then the response should say there is none, not see 8,000 documents and maybe it's in them.

THE COURT: I agree.

Mr. Talarico, --

MR. FLYNN: And with respect to the --

THE COURT: Well, hang on.

Mr. Talarico, I'm not going to tell you how to respond, but if there is no such document, -- I did take note of the fact that I saw none in the documents I reviewed -- if there is no such document, then just say there is no such document.

MR. TALARICO: With all due respect, I think I did answer that question. There was one document and I turned it over to Mr. Flynn. The only document between Gooch and the plaintiff in December of 2016, one document turned over, without objection, without a privilege log.

THE COURT: Mr. Flynn? You're being told that all documents responsive to that request have been turned over. And I agree that at least in the documents I was asked to review, there was nothing that corresponded with the December 2016 date that we initially were discussing, but --

MR. FLYNN: It should be a pretty simple process then and it should be in writing. Then I can attach it to my summary judgment motion, which I know is not a surprise to anyone. The same goes with respect to the interrogatory answers. Dulberg admitted in his deposition that he didn't respond completely to interrogatory number one, in particular, from Hans Mast. So that is also part of this motion to compel.

Again, that one is a little different. It says identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach and when and how you became aware of the breach. He didn't answer it.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico? And I'm going to move on to everybody else and then come back to you -- in fact, I'll come back to you guys. I'll let -- let me get rid of everyone else and we'll resume this in a moment.

(Whereupon, the above-entitled cause was passed and subsequently recalled.)

THE COURT: That brings us back to Dulberg. What I'm doing right now is looking up -- I want to go to the interrogatory. Mr. Flynn, while I'm looking for -- it's interrogatory number one; am I correct?

MR. FLYNN: Correct.

THE COURT: All right. I'm looking in your motion to compel and since nothing is marked, I've got to page through these one at a time, so while I'm doing that, rather than just staring at me, why don't you tell me what the interrogatory says.

Received 04-23-2021 03:02 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 04-26-2021 09:51 AM / Transaction #13075436 / Case #17LA000377

MR. FLYNN: Sure. It says identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached a duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach.

THE COURT: Okay. And what was the response?

MR. FLYNN: Between October of 2013 and January 2014, Mast told Dulberg that Illinois law does not permit a recovery against the McGuires in the circumstances of Dulberg's case and that he would not receive any recovery from the McGuires.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: Mast advised Dulberg that the judge would rule in favor of the McGuires on a motion for summary judgment. Mast further told Dulberg that Dulberg would retain his claim against Gagnon and be able to seek and receive a full recovery from Gagnon. So that says nothing specifically about a breach, the date of the breach or when and how he became aware of it.

THE COURT: Well, it doesn't -- no, it doesn't tell you the date.

Mr. Talarico, do you have a response on that?

MR. TALARICO: No, Your Honor, it doesn't say specifically the date of the breach.

THE COURT: All right. And --

MR. FLYNN: And we were forwarded the discovery. Again, this goes back to the Gooch -- whether it be a verbal or written communication on December 16, 2016.

MR. TALARICO: Mr. Flynn, verbal -- I don't know where I could get verbal responses. I've gone over everything and I -- Judge, I have in total 90 emails between the two, between Mr. Gooch and Mister -- and the plaintiff, and I would be willing to turn over every one of them. That's the written -- that's what I have.

MR. FLYNN: I just want to know what the basis is for the discovery of the malpractice, and if there isn't anything other than a verbal discussion with Tom Gooch in his office, that's fine; but it just needs to specify that. And I think that's been the ruling with this.

THE COURT: And I think --

MR. FLYNN: And that's what the testimony seems to reflect.

THE COURT: I -- I think the answer -- and I certainly don't know, but based upon what I understand already, I think the answer points to that December 2016 date addressed in the production response, but I don't know and I -- my concern is making sure it is clear from the answer to interrogatory that is in fact what we're

I don't know about -- I'm not sure how he responds to the date of the breaches because I -- I do think that that's an incredibly broad question because it --

MR. FLYNN: I understand that.

THE COURT: -- in essence, it's every day after the resolution of the initial claim, and you do have a date for that, at least by way of a settlement or order.

So, Mr. Talarico, can you supplement that answer with the date of discovery?

MR. TALARICO: I will do my best, Judge. I will.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, the next one?

MR. FLYNN: You know, generally I think that's it, Judge. It's the supplemental production response and then these interrogatories, so what I would ask that the order reflect, that the specific answers need to be made and that the objections in the supplemental production response be overruled. I think the objection is undue burden on each of them --

MR. FLYNN: I guess the only thing going forward, we've got the objections in the deposition transcript. Does the court typically just rule on those when ruling on a summary judgment motion?

THE COURT: No, I -- let me -- I have not had to deal with ruling on objections in a discovery deposition related to a motion for summary judgment.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: So I haven't done that before, but I do think that we have to address that and the only way to address it is to just walk through them, so perhaps if we set -- and I know this is putting it out, but I'm wondering -- and you know better -- whether any of the objections are going to become moot once you have responses to the written discovery. Is that going to fix anything?

MR. FLYNN: I think that a lot of them are already moot. I think that some of the rulings over the last month or so on these objections have probably covered those that are contained in the dep transcripts; however, I just want to make the summary judgment process as clean as possible.

Maybe I can talk to Mr. Talarico and we can come up with an agreement on whether some of these objections in the dep are withdrawn, but, again, I just -- I don't want the summary judgment motion to bog down on objections in a dep transcript, so --

THE COURT: Okay. And I don't know.

MR. FLYNN: So -- Okay. I wanted to raise that issue in advance so the court's aware that that might be an issue.

THE COURT: Why don't we put the hearing at 1:30 on Monday, June 14th, and if you are unable to work out the issues on the discovery deposition, then we'll walk through the transcript. You'll need to give me a copy. And -- unless there is one in the court file already. You'll need -- and we'll walk through each one and I'll take argument at that time and --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- I'll rule then. And that may get you where you want to go, and if there are none, great. Then we don't have to deal with it.

Does that --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Does that resolve your concern for today at least?

MR. FLYNN: I think so.

THE COURT: All right. So, Mr. Flynn, if you could draft the order.

Mr. Talarico, is there anything you want to add?

MR. TALARICO: Well, I've read -- I wasn't present at the deposition, so I'm just trying to get my brain wrapped around it. The objections were attorney-client privilege, sir, was that --

MR. FLYNN: Many of them, yes.

MR. TALARICO: Okay. That's all.

MR. FLYNN: And, again, it goes to the discovery of the malpractice. I think that it's been placed at issue by virtue of the pleadings, so -- and, again, I think that there's been a ruling, at least in part, on some of these issues, but, --

THE COURT: In the alternative --

MR. FLYNN: -- you know, why don't we --

THE COURT: -- if you agree that some of the questions could have been answered, can you do this by way of interrogatory rather than a supplemental deposition?

MR. FLYNN: I think that for the most part Mr. Dulberg answered over the objections.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: And so the record was set there. The objections were made on the record. I think that it could probably be dealt with fairly swiftly.

THE COURT: All right. Great. Then I'll wait for your order. As soon as I see it, I'll sign it. And, otherwise, I'll see you June 14th.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. Thanks, Judge. Do you have a time that you needed the order by? I would like to send a draft to Mr. Talarico after my secretary prepares it.

THE COURT: The clerks will harass you, --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- but if you get it in by Monday, that's fine.

MR. FLYNN: Oh, okay. I was thinking sometime today.

THE COURT: Today's perfect. So anytime this afternoon is fine, but Monday is kind of the to-die date. I got to have it by then.

MR. TALARICO: Your Honor, my name is Albert Talarico. I'm the attorney for the plaintiff in this case, Paul Dulberg.

THE COURT: Okay. Defendant is not here nor is he on Zoom. Have you had any contact with him?

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor, I have not.

THE COURT: Okay. Who is defense counsel?

MR. TALARICO: Mr. Flynn, George Flynn, I believe is his name, George K. Flynn.

THE COURT: Okay. There doesn't seem to be anybody in the building or at least on our floor waiting to come in. What's going on with the case? What -- we are here for discovery compliance.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor. Well, I believe we have complied to your order completely.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: We have filed and served all the proper documents, searched all -- whatever, close to 9,500 documents and responded appropriately.

THE COURT: All right. Well, I'll -- assuming Mr. Flynn doesn't show up, what state of the case are you in? What's going on? You're still in F(1) discovery.

MR. TALARICO: That's true, your Honor. There is a couple of things on the agenda depending on what happens today or what doesn't happen today. There -- Mr. Flynn last time on April 1 had mentioned to the Court that he would like to address the issuance of the attorney-client privilege objections that were in the discovery deposition of Mr. Dulberg. There hasn't been any contact on that matter, and when I see what my -- what prior counsel did, none of my answers to the -- to the written discovery waive any of that, nor am I willing to waive any of it.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I don't have that up for hearing today, and nor do I have on the -- yeah, I just had objections on written discovery. Nothing on the dep. So if he doesn't anything, I won't address the (indiscernible.) Is there any (f)(1) discovery that needs to be taken?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge. And I'm sorry. My apology to the Court but the last 60 days based on the -- what do you call it, the written discovery, it put me back a little bit and it's my intention (indiscernible) the one -- the request to produce that Mr. Flynn had not responded to completely. So I'm going to present a motion, I haven't done it yet, a motion to spell. My client won't do (indiscernible) the amended pleadings to match the pleading facts. So there will be a motion to amend the pleadings.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: And depending on today, that's really why everything has been, like, on hold, motion to strike all the answers of the discovery deposition that Mr. Flynn is claiming he would like to use in his motion for summary judgment which I haven't seen yet.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. TALARICO: So I don't expect to see it this early.

THE COURT: Well, yeah, he's still not here. Rarely are people late for Zoom hearings. And I don't see anybody outside. And it sounds like you guys are going to be coming back in the near future on other matters.

THE COURT: All right. I'm going to continue the case assuming Mr. Flynn does not show up before I'm done. In light of what you have planned by way of discovery, I'm thinking 60 days, or do you want to go to a longer date? Mid August?

MR. TALARICO: Yeah, Judge, mid August.

THE COURT: All right. I'm just going to call it status (f)(1). How is August 18? That's a Wednesday.

MR. TALARICO: One second, your Honor, please.

THE COURT: Yeah. Any time around there is fine.

MR. TALARICO: Could we have the next day? Is there something available on the 19th of August?

receive supplemental production responses and a supplemental interrogatory answer. With respect to the supplemental production, there is one document that I consider to be responsive and that is new.

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. FLYNN: There is one document that was produced and I consider it to be responsive and a new production. The rest of the documents that were produced, it's unusual. There are actual pleadings from this case that were attached as responsive documents to my discovery requests. I don't see how those -- which basically just set forth the plaintiff's position in this case in response to the various arguments we've made in motions.

THE COURT: Well, what is it you're looking for? What didn't you get?

MR. FLYNN: I'm looking to strike any of those documents --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: -- that are not responsive.

THE COURT: Is it -- I mean, really is it necessary to go to the trouble of striking them if they're -- I mean, ultimately they're not going to be relevant as a discovery response.

MR. FLYNN: Only -- I just want to make sure there aren't any additional documents that were --

THE COURT: Are there any additional documents, Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I have no idea if -- it's our position we complied completely. We filed our answers on June 1st. If the Court had -- I don't know if the Court remembers, you had ordered us, plaintiff and defendant, to talk up through June 14th to see if there were any issues. The only response I got from the defendants was an e-mail with one word. As I told you on June 14th, the only word was, Thank you. Now I am totally surprised, 73 days later, Judge, and I don't know what else -- I want time to respond in writing, Judge. This is --

THE COURT: I don't -- I don't want to do that.

MR. TALARICO: This has been difficult.

THE COURT: This is --

MR. FLYNN: Yes, it has, Judge.

THE COURT: So what is it you -- what is it you are looking for? Because I have a representation on the record -- and I'm assuming there's an affidavit of compliance.

MR. TALARICO: There is.

THE COURT: Okay. Then -- and he says, I've given you everything.

MR. FLYNN: That's fine with respect to the production response. Now there's the interrogatory answer.

THE COURT: All right. Tell me -- we're moving on to the interrogatory.

MR. FLYNN: And again, this goes to the statute of limitations on a legal malpractice case. The plaintiff is claiming that he didn't discover it until after the 2 years --

THE COURT: Could you keep your voice up a little?

MR. FLYNN: Sure. Plaintiff is arguing for a tolling of the statute of limitations on a legal malpractice case. He was asked in Interrogatory No. 1, Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach.

His response -- his amended additional response discusses his pecuniary injury, that only addresses damages. With respect to the breach of the standard of care and how he discovered it, he simply says he knew that the defendants breached the standard of care due him based upon a verbal discussion with Attorney Tom Gooch on December 16, 2016.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: That describes the date. It doesn't describe how he became aware of it, what Gooch told him. Now, again, I know your Honor is aware of the deposition testimony in this case regarding that December 16 time period. If the answer is that Dulberg doesn't remember what Mr. Gooch told him, if Gooch said simply, You have a case, that's fine. That's what they should say. But I've already taken his deposition. There are no specifics that explain to me why Mr. Gooch crystallized this breach of the standard of care on December 16. But if this is all they have, then that's what he should say, is that I don't remember what Mr. Gooch told me.

THE COURT: I mean, he's -- I think he's complied. I'm not sure --

MR. FLYNN: What is the breach of the standard of care?

MR. FLYNN: And what is the breach of the standard of care? That's what I've asked in the interrogatory. They don't say.

THE COURT: Well, I think that -- all right. I guess that is -- my reading on it, it's implied it's a statute of limitations. But --

MR. FLYNN: No, the statute of limitations is the issue in this case.

THE COURT: All right. What is the --

MR. FLYNN: The underlying personal injury case --

THE COURT: What is the breach? Did Mr. Gooch advise him what the breach was?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, all that Mr. Dulberg recalls was relayed in the responses. There were no recordings that were going on. Nothing was done in writing. I'm not sure how I can possibly respond anymore, to give anymore.

THE COURT: I have a representation that this is all there is.

MR. FLYNN: That's satisfactory to me. As long as when I file my summary judgment motion there's not some new discovery discussion as to --

MR. TALARICO: Judge --

MR. TALARICO: I'm sorry. I hate to interrupt. Judge?
THE COURT: Yeah.
MR. TALARICO: We -- again, we were -- our response, I believe is in total compliance with the Court order of June 6th and your instructions on that day from the court record. And I'd like to respond in writing to establish that we did that.
THE COURT: No. No. I mean, you're -- you only need to respond in writing if we're going to have a hearing. If you want to file a brief that -- just in the file, that's fine, but I think we have a resolution today and I don't want to spend more time reading briefs resolving an issue that's moot. So I think this is resolved. What else is outstanding?
MR. FLYNN: I think that does resolve -- the representation resolves both issues, so --
THE COURT: I have -- you have advised -- well, you've advised that's all there is, so I'm finding you in compliance.
MR. TALARICO: Thank you, your Honor.
THE COURT: Okay. Is there anything else we need to do?

MR. FLYNN: I suppose with respect to the summary judgment motion that I anticipate, Judge, there was one document that was produced in order to avoid a second deposition of Mr. Dulberg to authenticate this document, which is a letter from Attorney Thompson -- I'm sorry -- Attorney Ferris -- that goes to the issue of the statute of limitations. If Mr. Talarico would stipulate to the authenticity of this March 4, 2015 letter on the record, I don't need to send a request to admit for --

THE COURT: Can you hear all that?

MR. TALARICO: I heard it, Judge, but I'm not familiar with that document. A request to admit would be welcome.

MR. FLYNN: Fair enough.

MR. TALARICO: Just so I can see what it is.

THE COURT: That's fine. We're back again on August 19th. Do you want to delay that date in light of the fact you may be issuing a request to admit?

MR. FLYNN: I think that --

THE COURT: Or do you want me expressly to find compliance based on representations in open court?

MR. FLYNN: I'm not requesting a hearing any longer. I think we resolved the matter. So yeah, I'll withdraw it.

THE COURT: All right. Motion's withdrawn. The record still stands. I did find that you were in compliance and we'll deal with the next step whenever it comes up. But I will see you September 17th and if you could draft the order.

THE COURT: Dulberg versus Mast?
MR. TALARICO: Alphonse Talarico for the plaintiff, Mr. Dulberg.
MR. FLYNN: Good morning, your Honor. George Flynn for the defendants, the movants.
THE COURT: All right. I have a defendant motion.
MR. FLYNN: Yes, we have a motion to deem facts admitted as well as response filed --
THE COURT: Okay. I didn't see that. Do you want to file a reply?
MR. FLYNN: I don't think it's necessary. I have a comment or two I'd like to make, but I don't think I need to file a reply.
THE COURT: If you want to wait until the end of the call, I'll address it and we'll walk through it. What would you like to do?
MR. FLYNN: That would work. The comment is really just respect to the motion -- with respect --
THE COURT: You have to wait, so --
MR. FLYNN: Fair enough.
THE COURT: I got to take a look at it and I've got a bunch of people waiting, so I will circle back to you.
(Whereupon the afore-captioned cause was recalled.)

THE COURT: Do we have a defense attorney on Dulberg versus Mast? All right. Mr. Talarico, we're missing a defense --

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: Oh, we do?

MR. FLYNN: George Flynn for defendants.

THE COURT: All right. Oh, we were going to do the -- I'm sorry. I skipped ahead.

MR. FLYNN: That's okay.

THE COURT: There's a lot of people here.

(Whereupon the afore-captioned cause was recalled.)

THE COURT: All right. I'm going to deal with Mr. Talarico.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Going back to your case. All right. Mr. Flynn, what is the basis of your motion?

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, your Honor. George Flynn on behalf of defendant/movant. The basis is it's a motion to deem facts admitted. We were trying to authentic a document that was the subject of some discussion the last couple of times we appeared before your Honor. I filed the request to admit. We received objections that we believe are inappropriate and just moving for ruling on those objections and some other relief. The -- the response that they filed, essentially is a motion to strike based on the failure to conduct a 201(k) conference, which I don't think is required with respect to objections and a request to admit, which is a hybrid discovery and evidentiary tool.

So with respect to the motion itself, I really have nothing to say more than what's in the motion. I'd be happy if the Court wanted to take it under advisement after it has an opportunity to review the attachments and the motion.

THE COURT: No, I won't take it under advisement. We'll go back to that in a minute.

Mr. Talarico, do you have any case law that says a 201(k) conference is required before 216 -- or in a 216 situation?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor. Supreme Court Rule 201(a) typically says the request to admit --

THE COURT: Do you have any case law?

MR. TALARICO: No, I have no case law, your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Because I don't think it does. I think by its own -- by the language of the rule, it's 28 days. And in fact, I believe the rule requires that the request to admit facts explicitly disclosed if you're not -- if you don't respond in 28 days, the answers are deemed admitted. So there is no requirement to engage in a 201(k) conference to resolve differences because by its own language, it resolves itself.

So let's get into the answers. Okay. Anything you want -- I see No. 1, they seem to be asking you to admit or deny the genuineness of the document that was attached?

MR. TALARICO: Correct, your Honor.

THE COURT: And do you have any -- anything to say beyond what you've written in response?

MR. TALARICO: Your Honor, use of the words defendant put into his motion, request to admit, are subject to various interpretations. And he did not include the definition of the specific words that he was using, so I relied upon the Black's Law Dictionary for definition. And within that, we were -- we reviewed the fact of the document.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: The document -- the document is not accurate. It's not true. It's none of the above. It has a wrong date of accident, the wrong date of meeting. It has a lot of inaccuracies on it, Judge.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to strike the implicit objection regarding what is genuine. That being said, I do have what appears to be an admission. Mr. Flynn?

MR. FLYNN: Yeah, Judge. I mean, it's -- I guess if it was an admission buried in these objections. But the entire document is muddled up with these various objections. I'm just asking if this is a true copy of the letter that his client received. I'm not asking if it's -- if information contained is true and accurate. If you read it, it's admit Exhibit A attached hereto is a true, accurate, and genuine copy of a March 4, 2015, letter drafted by Attorney Saul Ferris. He concluded with the content of the letter. That's not what I'm asking about.

MR. TALARICO: Your Honor, that is not in true -- truth is not within that document. That's what we're saying. Those are false statements.

THE COURT: And that's fine. But it is -- he doesn't need to lay a foundation for the document;

Received 09-10-2021 12:24 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-10-2021 12:28 PM / Transaction #14767624 / Case #17LA000377

am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: No. But the question -- I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Are you -- are you admitting -- I'm assuming, Mr. Flynn, this is for purposes of a foundation? You're not asking him to admit the contents?

MR. FLYNN: That's correct. This is produced -- again, late produced in discovery after the plaintiff's deposition. He should have produced this document years ago when he's placed the discovery of his malpractice at issue. So then he produces this letter. I don't want to have to take Saul Ferris's deposition, so I'm just asking, this is the letter that Mr. Dulberg produced and that it's a genuine copy of what he received in the mail?

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, yes or no?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, that is a genuine copy. We don't know -- when examined, Mr. Dulberg does not recall. And in the deposition, he said he did not recall when he received it or how he received it. That is left open.

THE COURT: Mr. Talarico, I asked you a yes or no question, not asking for an explanation, which is consistent with what request to admit facts require.

So are you admitting to the foundation of this document or denying --

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Then we will proceed. That's deemed admitted for purposes of foundation.

Next one -- Mr. Flynn, the next one at issue?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, there was 2 and 3, and I attempted to pin them down on when he received it. So I asked No. 2, if Mr. Dulberg received a copy of this letter within 7 days of the date dated. And then, the next one, I asked if he received it within 30 days of the date it was dated. He doesn't answer either of those.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, with all due respect, Mr. Dulberg answered as best he could. This was alleged to be sent by U.S. Mail. He has no idea. It was many years ago. So he answered as truthfully, as cooperatively as possible, that he has no independent recollection of when this letter was received. He did a search of his own records, as presumed, at my request. He has no envelope.

THE COURT: If -- what it boils down to from my perspective is I'm reading it as a denial. And actually, that subjects you to 219(c) fees if they have -- for those fees associated with the cost of proving it up. But I'm reading it as a denial. Can I -- do you have any problem with my reading it as a denial? Am I incorrect?

Received 09-10-2021 12:24 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-10-2021 12:28 PM / Transaction #14767624 / Case #17LA000377

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor, you're not.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, anything you want to add? My interpretation of all of that is a denial.

MR. FLYNN: If that's what the answer is, then he's denied that he received this letter within 30 days of the date that the lawyer put the -- stamped it. So yeah, if I need to prove it up by taking Mr. Dulberg's -- retaking Dulberg's deposition and then taking Saul Ferris's deposition, and as I've indicated in the motion, I'm seeking fees and costs.

THE COURT: Yeah. I'm going to interpret 30 -- or I'm sorry -- 3 the same way. I interpret that as a denial and you just have to prove it up.

Next one?

MR. FLYNN: The next one is just regarding the meeting that is referenced in the letter. Admit that you met with Saul Ferris upon or about December 31, 2014, with regard to your personal injury case.

Received 09-10-2021 12:24 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-10-2021 12:28 PM / Transaction #14767624 / Case #17LA000377

THE COURT: Okay. I --

MR. FLYNN: And he's denying -- he denied the date. He then says it's a later time period between February 23rd and March 6th of 2015, which also coincided with the drafting of that letter, by the way. So he's changed the premise of No. 4, but sort of provided an answer --

THE COURT: I think that's a denial because of the way you phrase your question. Anything after denies that he met Saul Ferris on or about December 31, 2014, with regard to -- with regard to the personal injury case, everything after that is surplusage. So you have a denial. All right. Is there anything else?

MR. FLYNN: No. The relief will be requested now that these denials and improper objections were raised. I'm going to have to retake Mr. Dulberg's deposition at least on the subject matter of this letter and I'll probably have to take Mr. Ferris's deposition to prove-up the foundation for the letter as well.

THE COURT: Certainly --

MR. FLYNN: So I would ask for fees and costs.

Received 09-10-2021 12:24 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-10-2021 12:28 PM / Transaction #14767624 / Case #17LA000377

THE COURT: You have leave to depose Mr. Ferris. I'm not sure you need Mr. Dulberg's deposition -- I'm willing to listen -- because your deposition of Mr. Dulberg would merely result in him repeating --

MR. FLYNN: Raising the same denial, so --

THE COURT: I mean, he's on the record denied any recollection. So I don't think you need the deposition to get him to say that in the transcript because you've got it in the request to admit. And I'll hold him to that unless there's something else you think you need from the deposition.

MR. FLYNN: No, Judge. I -- as you said, I think he's going to make the same denials and in my opinion play the same games he's been playing. So I'll take Mr. Ferris's deposition. I'll seek -- I'm requesting fees and costs in connection with the deposition because it shouldn't be necessary.

THE COURT: Well, I think -- and unless there's a different issue with respect to the cost associated with that deposition, I think that's an issue that I would have to address after trial because my reference to 219(c) is when you have to expend money to prove-up a fact that they deny, then you are entitled to those fees, but -- so I couldn't award them yet because you haven't --

Received 09-10-2021 12:24 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 09-10-2021 12:28 PM / Transaction #14767624 / Case #17LA000377

MR. FLYNN: Fair enough.

THE COURT: -- you haven't done it. And I can only do that after the fact because if you fail to prove it up, you're not entitled to those fees, obviously.

MR. FLYNN: Understood.

THE COURT: So is there anything else we need to do today?

MR. FLYNN: I don't think so, Judge. If I could just clarify the order that will read that No. 1 is admitted, 2, 3, and 4 are denied.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: That I have leave to depose Mr. Ferris.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: And then I assume come back for status.

THE COURT: Yeah, we're back on September 17th. That's awful soon in light of what you're now going to do. I'm thinking more like 60 days unless you guys have a better idea.

MR. FLYNN: I agree.

MR. TALARICO: Judge?

THE COURT: 60 days puts us into -- actually November 8th is my default date. Any time earlier is fine.

MR. FLYNN: That works for me.

MR. TALARICO: Fine, Judge.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Flynn, since it's going to be a more complicated order, can you send it in?

MR. FLYNN: Yes.

THE COURT: Can you copy --

MR. FLYNN: I will.

THE COURT: Do you have our address?

MR. FLYNN: I do, I do. And I'll send a copy of the draft to Mr. Talarico this morning. I'd like to hear back from him by noon so there's no confusion.

THE COURT: Okay. I will --

MR. FLYNN: All right.

THE COURT: -- wait for the order. And then otherwise -- and please strike September 17th.

MR. FLYNN: We will. Thank you, Judge.

THE COURT: Okay. So let's assume that Mr. Flynn produces whatever it is you're looking for within the next two, three weeks, what do you anticipate doing next on this case, Mr. Talarico?

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, is a summary judgment in the offing, or have you decided yet?

MR. FLYNN: We have certainly decided. There are at least two grounds that I plan to bring at the end of the fact discovery. Just because of the underlying record, I have two more arguments to make that may be more appropriate for later on in the case.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, it tells me, then, we have to ramp up at one before we can move onto your motion. I'm going to put this out for 30 days. And I'm going to order all outstanding written to be completed by that date. And we will wait and see

THE COURT: Okay. Do I have both sides on anything or an agreed order?

MR. TALARICO: On Dulberg, Your Honor. I see Mr. Flynn.

THE COURT: Mr. Flynn, are you on Dulberg?

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning. Are you on Dulberg?

MR. FLYNN: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. And for the record, if you -- plaintiff's counsel, if you could identify yourself?

MR. TALARICO: Your Honor, my name is Alphonse Talarico. I'm here for the plaintiff, Mr. Paul Dulberg.

And if I could take a moment of the Court's time just to send warm wishes on Pearl Harbor Remembrance Day to everyone and especially to the Court.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

Mr. Flynn, if could you identify yourself.

MR. FLYNN: George Flynn for defendants.

THE COURT: All right. Plaintiff's counsel, you have a motion to compel.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. Mr. Flynn, what -- What's your response on that?
MR. FLYNN: Judge, I just filed a response yesterday afternoon.
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. FLYNN: There was some exhibits. I imagine it will take a little time for the Court to review it.
THE COURT: Yeah. I do see that now.
And what I was intending to do was just to go through your answers.
I'd like to resolve this today if you guys can -- can hang around until the end. And how much time do you have?
MR. FLYNN: Well, Judge, I don't think that -- In my view, I think that if the Court were able to review the response and the exhibits, that it might change the game plan a little bit as far as going through each of these.
THE COURT: Okay.
MR. FLYNN: I have a letter from plaintiff's prior counsel, which in my view resolves all of these issues.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, I do, Judge. And --
THE COURT: And how long do you need to reply?
MR. TALARICO: -- I think it's warranted.
THE COURT: I'm sorry?
MR. TALARICO: I said, I think it's warranted, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Okay. How long do you need?
MR. TALARICO: If I could have fourteen days.
THE COURT: Okay. Fourteen days will take us to December 21. And --
MR. FLYNN: Judge --
THE COURT: Yes?
MR. FLYNN: The plaintiff just filed this motion late last week.
I had my response on file yesterday afternoon.
I think that a couple of days is really all that is necessary, and we'd like to get that discovery closed so we can move on.

So it -- It, unfortunately, works better for me to kick it over into January. I can do it January 4th, Tuesday.

THE COURT: Plaintiff's counsel?

MR. TALARICO: Good morning, Judge. My name is Alphonse Talarico for Mr. Dulberg.

THE COURT: Okay. Where are we because I know there was a dispute over whether discovery had been produced, and it seems to have been -- I think I directed it be produced again and just get past this.

So what is the current status of the motion? I'll ask plaintiff.

MR. TALARICO: At this moment, Judge, there has been a motion, a response, and reply filed. There has been no determination by the Court whether or not plaintiff's claims are justified, so at this moment that's what the motion to compel is before you.

THE COURT: Well, the issue as I -- the core issue is, as I understood it, is you alleged that they had not complied with discovery and defendant said otherwise saying they had previously produced it. It was my recollection I directed them to send it again.

Is that a fair assessment?

MR. FLYNN: Not exactly, your Honor.

MR. TALARICO: No, Judge.

MR. FLYNN: If I could explain.

THE COURT: Yeah, go ahead. I'll ask defense counsel.

MR. FLYNN: Mr. Talarico is the third lawyer representing Mr. Dulberg in this case. The first lawyer, Tom Gooch, propounded discovery -- written discovery shortly before he withdrew from the case.

And Julia Williams from the Clinton Law Firm came into the case, propounded discovery -- written discovery, a separate set, and we agreed that I would not be answering the written discovery that Pop- -- I'm sorry -- Gooch had propounded. We answered two and a half years ago.

Mr. Talarico came in the case. And I've laid out an outline of all the pertinent dates in our response, but I did have an agreement. Ms. Williams has confirmed this just back in December. I think it was December 3rd. She wrote to me and confirmed all of my representations that she had never intended for me to answer the first set of discovery. We answered the second set of discovery. Moved on. We reported to the Court that discovery had been answered. We moved on to depositions. I deposed the plaintiff. She then deposed Hans Mast, one of the defendants I'm representing, and then her firm later withdrew.

Mr. Talarico never raised an issue until over 13 months after he was in the case, so we've raised the timeliness issue. Moreover, I had an agreement with counsel that we would not be answering the first set. And, again, it's laid out in detail.

THE COURT: There is also -- Ultimately did you produce copies of the discovery you previously answered?

MR. FLYNN: We've -- I'm not sure what the issue is there. So Ms. Williams had issues with some blank pages contained in our --

THE COURT: But there was -- you referred to the first set of discovery. I think you called it the Gooch discovery.

MR. FLYNN: We never answered the Gooch discovery --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: -- because by agreement we weren't --

THE COURT: But you answered somebody's discovery. Forgive me if I misunderstood.

MR. FLYNN: We answered Ms. Williams' discovery --

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: -- which included interrogatories to both the Popovich firm and Hans Mast, request for production to both, and 213 interrogatories, so I laid out all of our witnesses. Went through several rounds of 201(k) discussions with Ms. Williams.

She thought that there were some blank pages contained in our large production, and this production included transcripts from depositions of several doctors and other witnesses we obtained at our expense and then produced to her. She didn't take copies of everything, but we gave her the opportunity to inspect the file live.

I met her at my client's office.

Received 01-11-2022 08:24 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-11-2022 09:29 AM / Transaction #16230094 / Case #17LA000377

She went through it. And then as we represented that these blank pages were actually just page dividers in the original physical file, she was satisfied and we moved on.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: There was a lot there, Judge. Let me think. First of all, there was no -- there was no Gooch responses. There was no documentation of withdrawal of Gooch's discovery. The Court had not been made aware of it. The client had not been made aware of it.

The Gooch discovery question has major questions which the Clinton discovery does not have. It refers as to the standard of care in a legal malpractice case and as to conflicts of interest. Those types of questions have disappeared.

Now, the questions that did go from the Clinton's, a lot of the responses, and I outlined them specifically, was See Document 1 through 1,455. Nothing more specific than that.

So in my -- my -- what I'm trying to do is get the answers to the Gooch discovery. I'm trying to get the answers to the Clinton discovery.

Received 01-11-2022 08:24 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-11-2022 09:29 AM / Transaction #16230094 / Case #17LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

I have very little -- very little documentation unless I'm -- you know, I've got 1400 pages I have to search through, but nothing specific. And those answers were over -- probably six or seven times they answered that same way.

As to Julia Williams, I tried to contact her when Mr. Flynn said, well, Julia Williams agreed to that. I sent an email to her. She has not yet responded. That was before Mr. Flynn even talked to her. Then Mr. Flynn talked to her, and his -- his letters, which are included which I attached, are don't you remember, don't you agree, don't you do this, don't -- he's -- he's giving her the answers. He's leading her. And in her answers I specify it and show it in my reply that she says, um, I'm not sure. I think. I believe we did that. None of this was absolute.

So what I have and the reason why I didn't see this is because I see -- according to 201(m), Supreme Court Rule 201(m), I see file of discovery, answer of discovery. I don't -- I didn't -- when the Clinton discovery was filed, they did not file a 201(m). They called it the first set. It wasn't. It was the second set. When Mr. Flynn answered, he called it the first set. It wasn't. It was the second set.

When I got into the case, I saw this and I saw your standing order about discovery. I thought everything was -- everything was answered and done.

Now, the Clintons turned over information to me piecemeal by different attorneys. They had different attorneys working the file, and different attorneys sent me different documents. I'm still not sure I have a complete set. So they are --

THE COURT: So what is it ultimately -- Ultimately what are you looking for?

MR. TALARICO: Answers to the discovery. Answers to the Clinton discovery.

THE COURT: Well, are any of these -- I'm assuming some of these are duplicative. I can't imagine that the Gooch discovery omitted or was entirely radically different from what was filed by Williams.

MR. TALARICO: With all due respect --

MR. FLYNN: Judge, many of them -- I'm sorry.

Received 01-11-2022 08:24 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-11-2022 09:29 AM / Transaction #16230094 / Case #17LA000377

MR. TALARICO: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Go ahead. Plaintiff.

MR. TALARICO: With all due respect, it was because it did not talk about conflicts of interest, which was a question that I believe Mr. Gooch was trying to get to, and also standard of care questions were not asked.

THE COURT: In the Williams' discovery?

MR. TALARICO: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. Defense counsel?

MR. FLYNN: I disagree, Judge, not pointing to any specific interrogatory or production request. In any event, it's late. You know, we are not -- I would request that the Court not reopen written discovery at this late date. We answered two and a half years ago, presented a lawyer for his deposition.

THE COURT: Here is one of the problems I have with that. I think technically you have a very valid point, but I suspect that if I submitted this or if this was submitted to the Appellate Court, they would say give him another chance. And they probably wouldn't like my saying that, but that is a common complaint. At this level when we attempt to strictly enforce the rules as we are told, the frequent result is give them one more chance. So we take that into consideration. So that is why I fashioned my -- or tried to make sure everybody gets what they want.

MR. FLYNN: I understand that and I appreciate it, and that's why I laid out in the response to the motion the extensive history and my agreements with Ms. Williams.

Now, I did stand up here in front of your Honor as I am doing today, and I understand the Appellate Court issues and that's one reason I am here right now because my -- my testimony is part of this motion.

THE COURT: And what would happen if I granted leave to issue supplemental discovery?

MR. FLYNN: You know, Judge, the expenses that my clients have incurred because of the third -- the third attorney coming in --

THE COURT: Realistically.

MR. FLYNN: I have to question whether Mr. Dulberg and his current attorney have even had an opportunity to review the correspondence between me and Ms. Williams because there have been several instances where it is apparent to me that they have not either willing -- they are either unwilling or unable to, and I don't know what the answer is.

And I can give you another example of that when we get to the next motion that Mr. Talarico has brought relative to the affirmative defenses. I have the documentation. He's made accusations in the motion that Ms. Williams was somehow misled because of the labeling and the content of my affirmative defense; but as the Court will see, that is not the case at all. So I have to question whether Mr. Dulberg and his lawyer even have the communication between me and Ms. Williams.

When we first appeared here back in November and Mr. Talarico indicated that he may be bringing a motion to compel, he didn't even know what it was going to be. I had to write to him and ask him what is this outstanding discovery that is purportedly missing. He then wrote back to me and said, well, you didn't sign the interrogatories and the discovery and only one of your clients did.

Well, that wasn't true either. I forwarded him the transmittal emails from my secretary to Ms. Williams with all the signatures from all three parties involved, me and my two clients.

So, you know, we are ready to file a summary judgment motion. There isn't anything relative to the standard of care in the discovery and that they haven't had a chance to already explore with my client. He was deposed for --

THE COURT: Maybe you're right.

MR. FLYNN: -- two or three hours. He's a lawyer. They had the chance.

THE COURT: I am sympathetic, but in the back of my head I'm -- I suspect I know what would happen at the next level. If we proceeded to summary judgment and I granted it, there would remain that issue, well, you should have given him this discovery.

And my policy is when a summary judgment is filed, I'll ask, typically the plaintiff, is there anything you need before you respond and I give it to them because I don't want that to come haunting -- and haunt any decision I made that, oh, you should have let this -- you should have let them do this one little bit of discovery. I want to be a hundred percent satisfied that everything is done. And I know that's not fair to you under the circumstances, but I think in the long run that policy serves us all well even if it means we may spend time and money in some cases that's not necessary.

MR. FLYNN: I appreciate that. That is why I laid the entire history out in the response. I would just implore the Court to review that before final ruling on --

THE COURT: Your -- your -- I think -- I won't say that because the record may be reviewed, but I'm very cautious about barring discovery. I mean, we would have to be on the eve of trial for me to feel comfortable doing that based on the Appellate Court decisions I've read, and generally the theme is give them one more chance. And so I'm going to adhere to that, which is why I am focusing on what it is we are looking for.

And so I'm now looking at Mr. Talarico. What are you looking for?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'd like to respond to Mr. Flynn's allegations against me.

THE COURT: No, no.

Received 01-11-2022 08:24 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-11-2022 09:29 AM / Transaction #16230094 / Case #17LA000377

MR. TALARICO: I just want to say one --

THE COURT: No, no. You guys -- you guys want to argue what you want to argue about. I want to -- I want to cut to the chase because if you start -- if you respond, he has to respond. So anything he said that might have attacked your character in any way, shape, or form is not relevant to me and I didn't consider it. So let's move on.

So what is it you are looking for?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm looking for the answers to the Gooch discovery and for the Clinton discovery. Nothing new. Just answered this time.

THE COURT: Well, I think -- I think the suggestion that they've avoided answering it is probably inaccurate because until this moment it had not been brought to my attention, meaning with respect to this motion, that it was an issue. So to -- and I'll ask counsel here in court, how much overlap is there between the Clinton and the Gooch discovery before we get to the Williams' discovery?

MR. FLYNN: Ballpark, 75 percent at least.

THE COURT: Okay. And if your answers can say see this answer to --

MR. FLYNN: That's the problem because what he's pointing to in the motion is my -- the issues that I took --

THE COURT: How many interrogatories are there?

MR. FLYNN: -- with respect to Dulberg's answers and what I considered to be invasive written and oral discovery answers because we were trying to get to a specific point and that is the statute of limitations in his discovery and his incurred damages.

On the other hand, when I'm faced with a production request, for example, that says produce the client file from your representation of Mr. Dulberg and I say, See Pages 1 through 1400, that's the client file, that's the client file.

THE COURT: That's adequate.

MR. FLYNN: That's a different inquiry. So, you know, if there had been something specific they were looking for, I thought it would have come out by now.

THE COURT: And a corollary concern is how many interrogatories are we talking about?

MR. FLYNN: And that's a good question, your Honor. With respect -- I'm not sure if we've reached 30 with respect to --

THE COURT: I can't believe we haven't.

MR. FLYNN: Each -- each -- well, I think there were about ten or fifteen Gooch, ten or fifteen from -- from Ms. Williams, and then there were the -- you know, I answered the 213 witness interrogatories which I consider to be a separate requirement whether they are propounded on the party or not, so I answered the 213(f)(1), (2), and (3) discovery as if someone had propounded it on me. So have we reached the 30? It's probably not too much greater than 30, to be honest.

THE COURT: All right. So, Mr. Talarico, rather than just telling me you want answers to everything because I got to believe that the interrogatories are duplicative and the fact that you've got three sets of interrogatories filed by three different sets of attorneys doesn't mean you get each one of them. There are --

MR. TALARICO: Correction.

THE COURT: -- two.

MR. TALARICO: There's only two sets.

THE COURT: I'm sorry.

MR. TALARICO: And those are the -- those are the Gooch and the Clinton. I have not filed any. I'm trying to get answers to the Gooch and (audio distortion).

THE COURT: I don't know who that is.

MR. FLYNN: It couldn't be me. I'm live.

THE COURT: Okay. So why can't you identify the specific Gooch interrogatories that you need answered, and we can then omit the duplicative ones because I've got to believe that are duplicative ones.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, a review doesn't show -- I don't remember any duplicative ones. They went in different directions completely. Like I said, the Gooch stuff involves conflicts of interest and standard of care. Those were, you know, the major issues. That's none of that in the Clinton.

MR. FLYNN: If he could even identify by interrogatory where the standard of care was posed and not answered, I would -- that would be even helpful to me.

I think one of the other issues we'll run into, Judge, is that we've spent hours and hours and hours on the document production portion.

Now, Ms. Williams may not have taken everything. I don't think she asked for copies of all of the documents we had. But not only did we produce them and copy them for them, I drove to McHenry to my client's office and met with her at his office where she went through the file and decided what she wanted. So for my client to have to go through the cost again --

THE COURT: It's all you've got to do.

MR. FLYNN: -- is -- All the interrogatories?

THE COURT: No. With respect to the production request, you gave her the opportunity to review. She took advantage of that.

MR. FLYNN: She did.

THE COURT: And whatever she took is whatever she took, so I don't know that it's your burden to fill in gaps if she left something undone.

Mr. Talarico, tell me your position on that.

nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Okay. That's a different issue. That's a different issue than what we were just talking about, so --

MR. TALARICO: Judge, the issue he's talking -- Mr. Flynn is talking about are 106 pages that were blacked out in what I received, completely blacked out, although they were counted in the Popovich Bates stamp. I wanted to know what those 106 blacked out pages were. That's what he's talking about. He's talking about the Clintons, we went -- they also wanted to know. And as far as Mr. Flynn has represented to the Court, the Clintons were satisfied. I don't know if they were. All I know there is black -- there is 106 black pages -- blacked out pages.

THE COURT: Well, the fact that the Clintons didn't push the issue suggests to me that they didn't see it as an issue. It's incumbent on them to bring it to my attention otherwise I assume they are satisfied.

That being said, what about the 106 pages?

MR. FLYNN: I don't know that that's the exact number, but there were a significant number of blank pages in the document production. The record is clear and I've attached some of the commentary on that between myself and Ms. Williams, but in any event, she raised the issue, said why are these pages redacted. I checked with my client. It turns out they were not redacted pages. They were actually pink. I remember the color. They were pages of pink paper -- construction paper or, you know, 8 and a half by 11 paper that divided certain sections of the file. So in order to confirm that, Ms. Williams came to Mr. Popovich's office, looked at it, saw those pink pieces of paper dividing the files, and was satisfied. And then we moved on. We came back into court, reported the --

THE COURT: Do I have the production response attached in --

MR. TALARICO: You have it all, your Honor.

THE COURT: What's it attached to?

MR. TALARICO: It's attached to my reply.

THE COURT: All right. Let me find it.

MR. FLYNN: So following these 201(k) conferences, phone calls, emails, and meeting, we reported that the parties had answered discovery and moved on to depositions.

Now, had there been any outstanding issues, I wouldn't have proceeded. I wouldn't have presented my client for deposition, and I don't think Ms. Williams would have taken the deposition. But I don't want to --

THE COURT: I accept all that. I mean, it all --

MR. FLYNN: Makes sense.

THE COURT: -- logically makes sense.

All right. Do we still have -- No, we don't. Let me -- All right. I'm looking at Page 39 of the reply. Okay. With respect to Request Number 1, it's my assumption, and you can correct me, but the nature of the question followed by the answer tells me that Page 1 through 1455 is all correspondence, communications, emails, or text messages, and I -- I'm not sure how I can make him break it down further. I'm assuming that that's exactly what's in that 1400-some-odd pages.

Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Correct, Judge, but there are multiple times that same answer is given that can be specific -- specifically answered.

THE COURT: All right. The fact that you have the same answer to Number 2 with respect to pleadings tells me Number 1 includes documents that are not responsive to Number 1 because Number 1 doesn't ask for pleadings.

MR. FLYNN: I suppose Number 2 is over -- or, well, I'm sorry, no, I guess Number 1 would be overinclusive because the 1 through 1455 is --

THE COURT: There is overlap.

MR. FLYNN: -- was everything that we had. That included pleadings.

THE COURT: So your response is, here is the entire file.

MR. FLYNN: Right, these were not specific. If they had been more specific, I would have broken down Bates ranges for particular things, but I think it's kind of silly. And 1400 pages is really not that much in the grand scheme of things.

THE COURT: As a rule, I don't like it when -- these are a little broader than I was expecting, but if somebody says produce all letters written on this date and you say look at --

MR. FLYNN: And I wouldn't have done that.

THE COURT: -- 1500 pages, that's nonresponsive, and I see it quite a bit.

MR. FLYNN: I agree.

THE COURT: I think the solution -- Well, Mr. Talarico, have you been given an opportunity to review the file?

MR. TALARICO: No.

THE COURT: Okay. Can you make that available for him?

MR. FLYNN: To review which file?

THE COURT: Your -- your client's file, the file that Ms. Williams previously reviewed.

MR. FLYNN: He's never asked for it. Should we be required to go through that again?

THE COURT: Well, yeah, I recognize the operative word here is again, but the -- I don't think it's reasonable to make you do again what you've done if there have been no objections over the past however long.

MR. FLYNN: I don't -- Yes, I don't think there has ever been a request by Mr. Talarico to review the file.

THE COURT: No.

which were transmitted and anything over and above that --

THE COURT: You've produced all 1400 pages?

MR. FLYNN: Yes, I believe -- I can't recall if it was a thumb drive or some other electronic transmittal, but they have those pages. Now, if he didn't receive them from prior counsel, again, that's an issue between --

THE COURT: Have you, Mr. Talarico? I'm sorry.

MR. TALARICO: I'm sorry, Judge?

THE COURT: Do you have them? Do you have the pages, all 1400 pages?

MR. TALARICO: I believe I do in one of the Julia Clinton files.

I would like to make a statement about that type of response. When Mr. Flynn was searching for information and I responded the same as he's saying now, okay, I told this Court, the Honorable Court that I believe Ms. Clinton -- Ms. Williams and Mr. Flynn reached an agreement. They just had switched documents. She gave him many thousands of documents. He gave her many -- or 1500 documents. When that was presented to the judge, to yourself, you said that's not a good answer.

THE COURT: No.

MR. TALARICO: In other words, I said the same thing, Look at page something through something. You said, no, you need a specific answer, and you made me give specific answers to those questions rather than the range of documents.

THE COURT: There is a little bit -- there is one significant difference in here, at least as far as I understand, and that's the fact that he's previously answered these, and you are raising objections to discovery that was submitted and implicitly accepted by prior counsel. Now you are trying to revisit the issue. Fine. I'm supportive of getting you what you want, but I'm -- I'm reluctant to dump on counsel to do again what prior -- your prior plaintiff's attorney accepted.

So the end result is I want to get you everything you think you need, and I also don't want to unfairly burden one or the other of you.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, what I think he's saying is what's good for the goose is good for the gander. This is not a situation -- it's not oranges and oranges here.

So when I sought -- when I propounded discovery seeking production of documents that supported Dulberg's claim that he did not discover the malpractice and incur damages until December of 2016, a very specific inquiry, and they gave us very general answers. That was when I brought the motion to compel. And I had also taken his deposition and asked it about ten different ways in cross-examination, and that was when I brought the motion to compel. So to try to compare that situation to these general answers to general production requests is inaccurate.

THE COURT: So, Mr. Talarico, what is it specifically you want because I want to get you that, but I need to know what it is you are wanting?

MR. TALARICO: Excuse me for me (indiscernible). Judge, I would like answers to the Gooch discovery and answers to the Clinton discovery so I can pin someone down as to a document or a response or a position. I just have general statements.

THE COURT: Well, you have the production of the client file effectively serving as the answer. Now we are switching back to interrogatories, I'm assuming. I'm talking about the production request.

So are you switching to the interrogatories now?

MR. TALARICO: I'm switching to discovery as a whole because the answers go back and forth. But, yes, the interrogatories are the same thing.

THE COURT: What page -- Well, I'll just assume they are not responded to. So I can't compel defendant to answer discovery that prior counsel waived. And I can't resolve, short of a deposition of Ms. Williams, I can't resolve whether or not she waived the requirement for that discovery.

So I think the solution here is that I'm going to give you leave to issue ten supplemental interrogatories, and we'll just move forward from that because of all the problems associated with what prior counsel may have agreed to or may not have. And I think we can spend a lot of time to figure that out to no avail, so it's not going to advance the case at all. So I'm just going to give you ten supplemental interrogatories. You can ask whatever you like.

And with respect to the production request, I -- the nature of your questions are fairly broad, but I agree with you on some level that the answers to your production request should have been a little more detailed as to what pages that's on.

So as far as production request is concerned, what do you want to do?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, because it's so encompassing, okay, again, I'd like to have answers. I'd like to have any and all of those that I noted in my -- in my -- in my motion what I considered nonresponsive in my initial motion and the reason why I considered it nonresponsive. I'd like responses.

THE COURT: But this is on potentially waived discovery, so, again, we are just going to start fresh. I'll give you ten supplemental production requests. You can ask what you want, the way you want, and you'll get specific answers. And we don't have to rely on other attorneys to tell us what they did or did not agree on.

How quickly can you get those issued?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm going to be -- I'm having a medical problem. I think the Court has been made aware and Mr. Flynn has too. I'm facing vision surgery for a detached retina, so I could use a little time. I've been trying to get this done.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: With the COVID-19 situation and the courts, the hospitals are backed up. I was scheduled on 11/11 and they canceled. I was scheduled on December, I think it was, 20 -- December 21st. I was scheduled for January 7th. I've just been canceled again.

THE COURT: Yeah, the --

MR. TALARICO: My vision is -- is slacking. I have to at least have cataract surgery, and the ophthalmologist said it looks like you have a detached retina. And my vision is becoming very bad very quickly. This is not a secret. I let Mr. Flynn know that.

THE COURT: And I suspect, based on what I'm reading, that would be considered elective surgery and you've got to wait. Is that a fair --

MR. TALARICO: That's what I'm guessing although the thought of being nearly blind or blind doesn't fit with elective surgery.

THE COURT: Oh, I agree, but from the medical perspective, they might call it -- you might fall into elective, so --

MR. TALARICO: They just canceled me again before this court date. They just called.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. TALARICO: Can I have 60 days? I don't know when I'm going to -- I've got to move fast. If they open -- if something opens up, I have to start calling more hospitals.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to enter and -- I'm going to give you 28 days. We are going to enter and continue this 28 days to give you status. And if you issued it, fine, then we've got a schedule. If not, I'll give you more time. But you are kind of in limbo right now, so I think a shorter date makes sense.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you, Judge.

THE COURT: Formally I'm denying your motion to compel, and the reason for that is because of the questions of dealing with prior counsel's representations and the fact that the objections to the answers that have been filed are somewhat late to put it mildly, but I'm going to still try and address the issue. I'm giving you leave to issue ten supplemental interrogatories and ten production requests with the expectation they be issued in the next 28 days, but we'll see about your medical condition in 28 days.

If for some reason you are unable to appear in 28 days, please notify Mr. Flynn and I'm sure he'll be happy to tell me, and I'll give you more time. But that -- I'm not granting leave for depositions. I'm not granting leave for anything else, just those specific discovery requests.

Is there anything else we need to do?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge, I have a second --

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I would just ask to --

MR. TALARICO: -- motion --

MR. FLYNN: -- before we get to the motion --

MR. TALARICO: Oh, I'm sorry. Excuse me.

requests are being allowed, I would just request, because I have to ask, that the cost and expenses be borne by the plaintiff because of the duplicative nature and the late nature of these requests. We've been through all of this. My client has incurred thousands and thousands of dollars in responding to this discovery, so I understand that the Court is giving latitude to the plaintiff, but I would also ask that the cost be borne by the plaintiff. It's not my client's fault that they are on their third lawyer, and it's not Mr. Talarico's fault either. But this is a problem for Mr. Dulberg.

THE COURT: I suspect, and here's my -- my logic is I suspect we save money by just reissuing the discovery and my granting leave to do it than we go through the process of deposing Ms. Williams and have further hearings on this, so it is an effort on my part to forestall further expense. Whether or not it actually saves you anything, I don't know, but it is my -- and I'm also saving arguably a wasted appeal, so I'm -- I'm trying to bear in mind your client's expenses and keep them to a minimum, and I'm not going to grant your request.

MR. FLYNN: Understood.

THE COURT: It's an unfortunate -- it's unfortunate, but I don't think I could come up with a better solution at this stage.

So that being said, the affirmative defense issue?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor, as part of the review of the discovery, I found, I noticed that the Clintons did not respond to Mr. Flynn's fourth affirmative defense which was filed and served separately much later.

When the complaint was filed, Mr. Flynn filed an answer and three affirmative defenses. I think, and I don't have it in front of me, quite a while later he filed a fourth affirmative defense. The Clintons were still, you know, in the case. The affirmative -- the fourth affirmative defense was titled the judge -- the attorney judgmental rule, but in reality, the first two paragraphs were a restatement of the first affirmative defense. So they are talking about I think it was contributory negligence under the guise of judge -- attorney judgmental rule. The final one, Paragraph 3, dealt with what the affirmative defense was titled.

Now, the Clintons didn't respond. My only guess because she will not -- well, at this time she hasn't had the opportunity to communicate, although I've reached out --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: -- is that when she read the fourth affirmative defense, she just thought it was a continuation or a restatement of the first one. She never responded. I've attached the response denying the first -- stating that the first two are the exact same as the first one and then making a statement as to the attorney judgmental rule.

THE COURT: So you are asking leave to file -- late file a response to the fourth affirmative defense?

MR. TALARICO: That is correct, your Honor.

THE COURT: Response?

MR. FLYNN: It's really the background that I need to respond to, Judge. If you may allow me to briefly. Again, this is a problem that would have been solved had the plaintiff reviewed the correspondence between me and Ms. Williams and the court file.

So I have an email chain between me and Ms. Williams, and, again, I have to ask whether they even have access to it because this will --

THE COURT: Let's say everything you say is right, what prevents me from granting leave to make their late filing to the amended affirmative defense?

MR. FLYNN: I'm actually not objecting to it, Judge.

THE COURT: Okay. Then prolem solved.

MR. FLYNN: If I could still talk for a minute.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll let --

MR. FLYNN: And I just want to point out because --

THE COURT: I cut him. I've got to cut you off because it sounds like you are going into a statement regarding opposing counsel. The only thing that --

MR. FLYNN: I'm not. I'm not. But the representation was made that somehow I misled Ms. Williams and that's why she didn't answer it. And I --

THE COURT: She's not here, and I don't believe that. So it's not relevant to anything I'm doing. So I'm going to grant leave to file the answer to the amended affirmative defense, and I'll give you seven days to do it. I know it's already prepared, but I'll make it formal and you have seven days.

MR. FLYNN: And just so we are clear, that it's the fourth affirmative defense. So I filed a motion, which is in the court file, seeking leave to file an amended affirmative defense. Ms. Williams told me in this email from October 30th that she's not objecting and that she was going to appear by CourtCall on Monday. That's in an October 30 email. Then we got a November 4th order, which I drafted, stated in Paragraph 1, Popovich is granted leave to file an amended affirmative defense. So what we did is we added one to the first three.

THE COURT: Yeah, you have leave.

MR. FLYNN: And there is nothing confusing about it.

THE COURT: If there is any question, you have leave to --

THE COURT: Are we ready to proceed on Dulberg right now? Dulberg versus Mast.

MR. FLYNN: Mast and Popovich.

THE COURT: Okay. Plaintiff's counsel, if you can identify yourself?

MR. TALARICO: Yes. My name is Alphonse Talarico for the plaintiff, Paul Dulberg.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: George Flynn on behalf of the defendants, Hans Mast and the Popovich Law Offices.

THE COURT: All right. Plaintiff's counsel, what's going on?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, the last time we were here -- actually in January, you allowed plaintiff ten additional interrogatories and ten additional requests to produce and you had stated reasons which I won't go through right now. But we served the ten additional interrogatories, ten additional requests to produce. The defendants have answered that, and at this moment, we are -- we are still talking. 201(K) conversations are going on.

THE COURT: What's the -- if he's answered, what's the 201(k) conference?

MR. TALARICO: Basically, how best can I say it, nonresponse to a lot of answers.

THE COURT: All right. So Mr. Flynn, you're aware of their objections?

MR. FLYNN: Yes, Judge. We painstakingly responded to discovery. Much of it was duplicative. I had a paralegal go through all the prior discovery including deposition testimony and pinpointed citations where the discovery was duplicative. There was other discovery that was irrelevant, though we answered it best we could. But for example, going on conflict of interest, the conflicts checks that were prevented (indiscernible) the case. There has never been an allegation in five years that there was an issue of conflict.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: Nevertheless --

THE COURT: Hang on. Hang on. I'm going to hold you guys to the end, and I'm going to try and work our way through this as best we can. I see that we have an April 13 -- I think it's April 13 motion to compel. I assume that's plaintiff's motion, am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: That's correct, your Honor. But I have not filed a motion because of we are still in 201(k). I set the date when I first got a response.

THE COURT: Okay. Let me --

MR. FLYNN: I have not seen -- I have not seen that motion --

THE COURT: There is not a motion in the file. There is just a date reserved. So I'm going to pass this. I'll come back to you guys, and we will try and work this out without further motions.

(Whereupon the afore-captioned cause was recalled.)

THE COURT: All right. Go back to Dulberg. Sorry about the lengthy wait. All right. Dulberg, do I -- and maybe I can't address your issue. But most of these are a -- more easily resolved than writing motions.

So Mr. Talarico, if you could tell me what the issue is with their response specifically.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, well, specifically, I submitted a six-page letter with numerous issues to Mr. Flynn for us to talk about pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 201. I can name a few. But it's a six-page document.

THE COURT: Yeah. That -- yeah, you are right. I was overly ambitious. So Mr. Flynn, you made reference, and I'm hoping to provide some guidance so we waste as little time as possible. That's not directed at either one of you.

You made reference to duplicative, is that correct?

MR. FLYNN: Yes, I did.

THE COURT: All right. And I limited them, and I'm thinking out loud. I certainly am not looking at the interrogatories or your answers or the basis of your objection, but is -- the failed to have may be duplicative tells me you can just refer to the prior answers. Or did you do that?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I have actually done that.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: In fact, I've referenced even specific deposition pages.

THE COURT: All right. But where -- the fact that it shows up in the deposition, in my opinion, doesn't make it duplicative, doesn't prohibit them from asking in writing effectively the same question. I mean -- and I'm just trying to be clear.

So in your answer relative to the deposition, you said, see answer on Page 45,

Lines 10 through 12 or something like that.

MR. FLYNN: Some cases, yes.

THE COURT: Then I guess I will have to -- I -- what I was afraid of you're saying is see deposition, and you didn't do that so that's --

MR. FLYNN: I just put specific page numbers of the deposition testimony. If you think it's (indiscernible.)

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: It was after -- after the discovery was already done.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: Those --

THE COURT: Have you seen his letter?

MR. FLYNN: I have, Judge. To be honest, I got it yesterday. I received it yesterday.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: By the way, I never did receive whatever was noticed from the 13th. But the letter is --

THE COURT: Yes, there isn't a notice. So -- and forth (indiscernible) to advance the case. But on the other hand, I don't see how the Court can make rulings without copies of the discovery responses and the (indiscernible) pages that I have referenced.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: And other --

THE COURT: I was kind of hoping I would find them in the court file. That was dumb on my part, and I feel bad for making you wait because this was --

MR. FLYNN: No. No. That's okay.

THE COURT: So what I would -- what I don't want to do is have you brief it. What I -- what I prefer to do, and I don't know if we have done it previously in this case, is just walk through them and I'll make my rulings. You can tell me orally what your -- your objections are and why you think it's inappropriate. And hopefully we will save some time, effort and money by doing it that way unless you have a specific issue with it. Mr. Talarico?

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. FLYNN: For instance, deposition --

THE COURT: You are cutting in and out. But what I -- I agree. I'm going to need copies of the interrogatories, production requests that are at issue. Probably it wouldn't hurt to have your -- the plaintiff's letter documenting what he finds objectionable. So that will give you some guidance in preparation. And what I anticipate doing then is asking your response and explaining your answers. And I'll make a ruling on the fly whether or not that's responsive to the interrogatory of production request.

Okay. Any questions? All right. I have drafted the order. It just says hearing on discovery objections. I will await your courtesy copies. I guess you can file them at the proposed orders email address and then get to me. You don't need to physically file them. So that would be helpful. All right anything else?

THE COURT: And defendant?

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, Your Honor. George Flynn on behalf of defendants Mast and Popovich firm.

THE COURT: Okay. And for the record I also note that Mr. Dulberg is attending via Zoom.

So what do you guys want to do today? What do you intend to do?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I think both of us -- and I won't speak for Mr. Flynn, but it appears that Mr. Flynn has objections to my questions, and I have objections to his answers --

THE COURT: Well, I thought this was on interrogatories and a production request. Am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: That is correct.

THE COURT: I didn't get copies.

MR. TALARICO: Oh.

THE COURT: I got sent copies of exhibits from the deposition.

MR. FLYNN: By email. Linda Walters, my secretary, sent those.

THE COURT: Do you know about when?

MR. FLYNN: I want to say -- I think I can pull it up here, actually.

THE COURT: I do have it.

MR. FLYNN: It was the afternoon after we appeared last.

THE COURT: Yeah, okay. I think I've got it.

MR. FLYNN: So, you know, I don't know that we actually have a motion pending, although I know the court would like to resolve these discovery differences.

THE COURT: We don't really have a motion pending. The way I interpret what's happened is plaintiff brought to my attention your objections, which I think satisfies his burden to resolve them, but it -- I hate to have people draft motions on these things because I end up doing the hearing this way anyway. He said, Judge, Mr. Flynn's office sent to you a six-page draft that I made that explained all of my -- my allegations of non- -- of Mr. Flynn's office being nonresponsive in the request to produce for both defendants and the interrogatories for both defendants.

MR. FLYNN: Well, these are my clients' answers and production responses, but I signed (indiscernible) for purposes of the objections.

THE COURT: Okay. So let's attempt to go through these. I'm not finding the letter, but --

MR. FLYNN: The letter is not on a letterhead, Judge. I think it might have been a Word document and that -- that was the manner in which I received it.

THE COURT: Your volume dropped.

But in the list of attachments, I'm not seeing that's readily identifiable as plaintiff's letter.

MR. FLYNN: I think it was described in the PDFs as a 201(k) letter perhaps.

All right. Here's the list of items: Notice of service, Law Office Popovich answers, Law Office Popovich response, Hans Mast answer additional, Hans Mast response to Dulberg court-ordered -- I'm just reading the titles -- defendants' nonresponsive answers, PDF --

MR. FLYNN: That's probably it.

THE COURT: All right. Let me pull that up.

MR. TALARICO: Additionally, Your Honor, there was a deposition that Mr. Flynn's office sent that -- that corresponds to my adding the exhibits to that deposition.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. TALARICO: So --

It starts with Defendants' answers to Plaintiff's court-allowed additional -- ten additional interrogatories and ten additional Request to Produce are nonresponsive as follows. Looks like page two of a -- perhaps a letter. Could that be --

MR. FLYNN: It does, but --

MR. TALARICO: If I might, Judge. Initially, in the spirit of cooperation, I sent a 201(k) letter to Mr. Flynn saying, you know, I have a problem, this is a 201(k) letter. I think your -- I think your answers are nonresponsive. He said, okay, send me -- you know, send me your documents, send me something to show me why they're not.

That's what I did. I just -- That was an attachment. That wasn't meant to be the letter by its independent self. It was a six-page attachment.

MR. TALARICO: I'm sorry, Judge. I didn't hear you.

THE COURT: Which set of interrogatory or production requests do you want to start it off?

MR. TALARICO: Okay. I guess, Judge, the simplest one would be the response of Mr. Thomas J. Popovich to the court-ordered interrogatories.

THE COURT: All right. I'm looking at a document entitled The Law Office of Thomas J. Popovich PC Answers to Dulberg's Court-Ordered Additional Interrogatories. Is that the document you mean?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Tell me the first one that's at issue.

MR. TALARICO: Number one I say is nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Okay. I've seen -- read the interrogatory: Please identify with specificity any and all conflicts of interests checks performed pursuant, et cetera; an objection, irrelevant, not reasonably calculated, et cetera, that no allegation of a conflict of interest has ever been raised or alleged.

All right. Mr. Flynn, you want to add anything?

MR. FLYNN: I don't think I have anything to add.

interrogatory. It was my recollection as well that conflicts of interests was not an issue in this case.

MR. TALARICO: At this point it wasn't, Judge, by the -- by the pleadings that were filed by the Gooch office and the Clinton office, but, Judge, I would like an answer to that question because I can still amend the pleadings. It's relevant to whether or not there was legal malpractice or settlement malpractice.

THE COURT: Okay. But you have an answer.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, the answer is objection. There's an objection that needs to be ruled on.

THE COURT: He says Tom Popovich conducted a conflicts check by personal recollection as sole shareholder in the firm and -- I mean, do you have a problem with the information contained in that answer?

MR. TALARICO: All right. Judge, then -- then if that stands as the answer, then the objection is waived by Mr. Flynn?

THE COURT: The objection remains. It doesn't need to be ruled on because he's answered it, but it's not presently relevant, as near as I can tell, but he answered it. So I don't -- I don't see it as an issue. It's effectively waived.

MR. TALARICO: With all due respect, the question is

THE COURT: It could, but it's not -- it's not an issue at this point because he answered the question. If he said I'm not answering, then I think you would have a point, but he did give an answer.

MR. FLYNN: After nearly five years of litigation in this case, there's never been an allegation of a conflict of interest (Zoom audio feed fading) (indiscernible) --

Next one?

MR. TALARICO: All right. My response is that that answer is nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Which one, number two?

MR. TALARICO: Number two, Judge, yes.

THE COURT: All right. My reading of number two, it says Popovich was the supervising partner in the firm and implicitly, as I'm reading this, that Mr. Popovich performed the supervisory role.

Is that a fair assessment, Mr. Flynn?

MR. FLYNN: That's to the extent necessary. The way that the interrogatory was phrased (indiscernible) leading to a legal conclusion.

THE COURT: Okay. You're breaking up a little, but go on.

MR. FLYNN: The way that the interrogatory reads, it finishes with a legal conclusion that there is a requirement under the rule of professional conduct 5.1 that there is a necessity of supervision. In any event, Popovich is the owner of the firm. Hans Mast is someone that has practiced as a lawyer since 1991. Mast testified -- form his superior is a supervisor, technically, at least as far as the hierarchy of the firm is concerned. What's involved in that I think is a separate issue, but, I mean, somebody's got to be responsible. So --

MR. FLYNN: Yes, again, Popovich owns the firm; Mast was an associate. I don't think there's any dispute about that.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, first of all, the answer of "Popovich" doesn't -- is non- -- I'm sorry, nonresponsive because under -- there was more than one Popovich attorneys, or more than one Popovich working at the firm at the time, and there were more than one Popovich licensed to practice law in the United States. I need a definite answer. I don't just need Popovich.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: Also, --

THE COURT: I think that's reasonable. And I don't know the timeframe as to whether Kim Popovich was still working there, but, Mr. Flynn, could you clarify that.

MR. FLYNN: This was Tom Popovich --

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. FLYNN: Tom Popovich.

THE COURT: I think it needs to be in writing, but I think that -- yeah, just for clarification, if you could put it in writing. So if you could amend that to reflect that Tom Popovich was the supervising partner, I think that's adequately responsive.

Unless I'm missing something, Mr. Talarico.

MR. TALARICO: There's an additional answer there, Judge. It says see generally Hans Mast's deposition testimony, it being instructions. I believe that's the answer.

THE COURT: I'm sorry.

MR. TALARICO: If I'm misreading it, please correct me. It says see generally Hans (indiscernible) -- Hans' deposition testimony. My instruction says that when the response is to a document already submitted, a specific area or label or place should be noted. That's not responsive. It just says see generally. I don't know what he wants me to go look -- or not Mr. Flynn. I'm sorry. I don't mean Mr. Flynn. I mean the office that is representing --

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, do you have any more specific answer as to where -- what you're referring to?

MR. FLYNN: I do not with respect to this particular interrogatory. I mean, --

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. FLYNN: Not with respect to this particular interrogatory.

THE COURT: Can you identify where in Mr. Mast's deposition he discusses his -- how he's supervised, if anywhere?

MR. FLYNN: (Indiscernible) sure I can, Your Honor, but the answer is that it's Tom Popovich that owns the firm and who is responsible. (Indiscernible) if I need to amend the answer to include "Tom," I think that's the more efficient way to do this.

THE COURT: All right. I mean, you've answered, but you really do answer adequately by -- if you say Tom Popovich was the supervisor. I don't know that you need to identify it elsewhere, so -- All right.

Mr. Talarico, anything else on that?

MR. TALARICO: Well, I am unclear as to the -- identifying where in the Mast deposition. Is Mr. Flynn or Mr. Flynn's office responsible for identifying where he is specifying the response to this question is within the deposition?

MR. FLYNN: I'm going to object to that. I'm going to answer the interrogatory -- the supplement, and anything else is duplicative. I was trying to be helpful, but I'm not going to go through this exercise and waste time unnecessarily.

THE COURT: You don't have to. You don't have to. You've asked for -- Your question is, who is the supervisor, and he's answered it.

MR. TALARICO: Is the instruction to see the deposition stricken?

THE COURT: That -- I think he -- I assume that's what he was saying he was going to do and if he strikes that, then there is no need to identify where in the deposition it says it because he's answered it.

MR. TALARICO: That's fine. If he strikes that in his answer and if he gives me the correct Popovich, then that answer is acceptable and it is responsive.

THE COURT: Okay.

All right. Next one?

MR. TALARICO: Okay. Number three: It's objection, interrogatory three calls for a response which would be violative of the attorney-client privilege. I don't know what attorney-client privilege he's referring to. I don't have -- he hasn't included the privilege log or whatever information. I don't know if he's talking about a relationship between Mast and Popovich and Dulberg or is there another relationship? I don't know. What attorney-client privilege?

THE COURT: I think that's reasonable.

Mr. Flynn?

MR. FLYNN: The attorney-client privilege between my office and --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: -- my clients. The majority of the work (indiscernible) done here.

THE COURT: Could you identify that. Could you specify that is the privilege you're referring to.

MR. FLYNN: Yes.

THE COURT: Anything else on number three?

MR. TALARICO: That's all that's in that group, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. The next one -- Let me just close this out.

MR. TALARICO: The next one would be the -- excuse me, Judge, -- the interrogatory answers by Hans Mast.

THE COURT: All right. Hang on. Interrogatory answers?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge.

THE COURT: I have a document entitled Defendant Hans Mast's Answer to Plaintiff's Court-Ordered Additional Interrogatories to Hans Mast. Is that the one?

MR. TALARICO: It is, Judge.

THE COURT: All right. Tell me the first one that's at issue.

MR. TALARICO: Well, let me go down the line, Judge. I'm saying that all seven are nonresponsive.

The first one is please identify the nonparty witness or potential nonparty witness in the underlying matter that you or someone under your control and direction interviewed or attempted to interview.

THE COURT: Okay. So what -- where is it deficient? Tell me what's missing.

MR. TALARICO: I will, Judge. My note's saying what specific deposition, Judge. There is no related -- there is nothing there that says as -- in the second sentence, it says see also Mast's response to supplemental request to produce number two relative to discovery which was conducted in the underlying case including the depositions of various treating physicians.

I need something more specific. I have to know what he's referring me to.

THE COURT: He's told you what he's referring to in the supplemental request number two, so he's directed you and he's stuck with that, whatever the answer is.

There is no question about that.

With respect to various treating physicians, what -- what is -- were there any doctor deps?

MR. FLYNN: Yes, Judge, there was a handful of doctors' deps. I think four or five are identified in response to (Zoom audio feed fading).

MR. TALARICO: Judge, those depositions --

(Cross talking.)

THE COURT: Hang on. Mr. Flynn, you cut off again.

MR. FLYNN: Well, those discovery depositions were identified in the supplemental production response. I consider the discovery deposition to be an interview. I think that is responsive to this (Zoom audio feed fading).

THE COURT: Yeah, I would agree with that.

Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Just please keep in mind, Your Honor, that those discovery responses were not included in the 1455 documents that were -- that later on in a response that those were all included and that's all the documents. All of the depositions of the doctors were not included.

THE COURT: They don't have to. They don't have to give you all those deps. You asked for the names.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, -- Okay. If I might, Judge, just to make it as simple as possible, there have been questions before by the Clinton firm give me all your documents, give me all your documents. Answer's here are all my documents.

The last time we were up before Your Honor, Mr. Flynn indicated that Julia Williams also agreed to not take settlement documents, so that the answer give me all your documents, here are all my documents, that's -- it's not correct. It has to be another agreement between Mr. Flynn's office and the Clinton office.

THE COURT: That's a different issue.

Mr. Flynn, do you have a response?

MR. FLYNN: I don't understand the point, but if there's a question about whether Popovich ordered the transcripts of the doctors, I don't think that they did. And, matter of fact, when I got this case years ago, I went out and ordered the transcripts of the fact witnesses which were not contained in the file and we paid for them, so, you know, the plaintiff is welcome to contact court reporters for depositions that have not been written. It's not our job to do that work for them.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, that's a different issue.

I'm not going down that road yet.

MR. FLYNN: I think that's what the point is that's being made.

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. FLYNN: I think that's the point. I think that he believes that there are transcripts that are not in our possession that were not produced and we don't have them.

THE COURT: Well, I mean, I'm looking at the interrogatory and it just says give me the names.

MR. FLYNN: Right.

THE COURT: And whether or not you produced documents isn't, I don't think, relevant to this interrogatory, so maybe it will come up later. But I think if your request -- your response to supplemental request to produce number two identifies all these individuals, that's responsive.

Is there an issue I'm missing?

MR. FLYNN: I don't think so. Judge, just for the record, page four is where we begin to identify all the discovery subpoenas, depositions that were taken. The entire list is right here.

THE COURT: And that's attached to your response?

MR. FLYNN: That is the Defendant Hans Mast's

Response to Plaintiff's Court-Ordered Additional Request for Production to Defendant Hans Mast.

MR. TALARICO: And so they're not including depositions, just notices of depositions.

MR. FLYNN: Again, depositions were taken, were not necessarily ordered. So you asked what discovery was done. We listed it.

THE COURT: And that -- if there's a demand for a production of the transcripts, I haven't seen it yet. And we'll cross that bridge when we get to it and I'll address the interrogatory as far as costs are concerned, but this interrogatory number one has been answered, and I find the -- it -- the answer is responsive.

Is there anything else?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, just to clarify, and forgive me, but I'm trying to make it -- I need the court's help to get information, I need to explain why I'm trying to get this help from the court.

In the Clinton discovery, they asked for all documents --

THE COURT: That's a different issue.

MR. TALARICO: -- in the file.

THE COURT: Let's not conflate issues. Number one asked for the identity of witnesses. Number one is responsive.

I'll deal with these based on the language of the individual requests, not the other problem about whether or not there was full compliance with Clinton. I mean, we can come back to that. So can we move on to number two. Number one is responsive.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, -- Oh, there is two things in here. The statement of -- the defendants -- respondent is deciding that the lawsuit is in violation of the statute of limitations and also the word -- the use of the word "likely." Likely is a nonresponsive answer. Likely is a range, a percentage --

THE COURT: Speculation.

MR. TALARICO: -- (indiscernible).

THE COURT: He's speculating. He doesn't know. I mean, that's how I read it. He doesn't know and he's stuck with that. I mean, I interpret this answer as saying I don't remember or I don't know. And if there's -- if there's an issue -- I agree, "likely" doesn't tell me he did anything; it's just speculation.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, likely he can come back later and say, well, now in October it was likely and here's more information. If that's stricken, okay.

THE COURT: It's -- it is stricken to the extent that it doesn't tell me anything. It's -- I interpret this answer as saying one of two different things: Either I don't know or I don't remember. And, unfortunately, as we all know, people remember things they forget at their convenience. No offense to Mr. Popovich or anybody else. It's just, we've all experienced it, convenient memories.

Received 05-03-2022 03:38 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 05-03-2022 04:01 PM / Transaction #17749676 / Case #17LA000377

So, I mean, if suddenly there's a detailed recollection as to what was reviewed, you can attempt to impeach; but that -- that's the answer. I interpret this as I don't recall or I don't know.

Mr. Flynn, can you weigh in.

MR. FLYNN: I believe line two actually even says, quote, it is difficult to recall each and every --

MR. TALARICO: (Indiscernible).

MR. FLYNN: I don't see any need to strike the answer. The answer is what it is.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, if I might explain and I'll move on -- move on after this, but "likely" is a nonresponsive answer. You can take judicial notice of that fact. He's already said it is -- it is not an answer. If it's stricken, I have no problem.

THE COURT: See, it's kind of an answer because I suspect that this is giving you a heads-up that he's going to tell you what his custom and practice is, but he has no specific recollection of what he did here, and I think that is responsive. I think that is -- if he has no records, as I am interpreting this -- and I would hold them to that -- if he has no records, then he can't suddenly produce them and say, oh, here's the list of all the cases I reviewed, so he's stuck with his memory. I don't -- I don't recall. And he's told you his custom and practice. I -- where we go with that, I don't know, but I don't think I have to strike it.

To the extent that you want an order, my interpretation -- or a finding, my interpretation of number two is that the deponent is saying I don't recall, and then we have to deal with that at some later date.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: If anybody has case law on all of the problems raised with "I don't recall," I'm happy to look at it, but it's always been a problem, probably always will be.

MR. FLYNN: Goes to the weight of the evidence, doesn't it, Judge?

MR. TALARICO: Your Honor, I do have case law on the "likely" issue, or at least the common -- the court's ability to take judicial notice of common terms and what they mean, but if that's not what you're aiming at, then let's just move on.

THE COURT: He's saying "my custom and practice is," that's how I interpret that, and there may have been a -- it may be worded differently, but that's how I interpret this. My custom and practice is X, but I don't recall.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Next one?

MR. TALARICO: First is an objection as to duplicative -- of previous discovery, Judge. That's in opposition to exactly what you said, we're starting fresh, I can ask what I want. I've cited the place in the last transcript of report of proceedings that you -- that you made that clear because in lieu of -- in lieu of deposing Julia Williams, you were giving me ten interrogatories and ten requests to produce, but you specifically said that we're starting fresh.

MR. FLYNN: I don't recall that being the language. I thought that the court admonished the plaintiff not to be duplicative.

MR. TALARICO: Actually, I can cite it in the record if you want to wait a second.

THE COURT: Well, here's my interpretation. I don't think -- I think what I might have been concerned about is duplicating a prior interrogatory, but your response tells me that this information is contained in depositions or in a production response. Is that fair? Because it just says see POP 192, 93, and I don't know what that is.

MR. FLYNN: That's correct. That's correct, Judge. And 201(a) prohibits duplicative discovery or at least it (Zoom audio feed fading).

THE COURT: Is --

MR. FLYNN: (Indiscernible).

THE COURT: Well, generally I agree, but --

MR. TALARICO: Judge, --

THE COURT: Well, hang on. Let me find out a little bit more.

So what is this duplicating? How did they get this information previously? Because you don't tell me.

MR. FLYNN: Through document production and testimony, so if they're asking for a third -- if they're asking for a third sworn interrogatory, I don't think we should be required to do that. It's going to be used for impeachment.

THE COURT: Well, yeah.

MR. FLYNN: If there's a comma (indiscernible) -- if there's a comma that's different or a word that's different, I can see that this will be used for impeachment, so --

THE COURT: I need to see the other -- the other request in order to determine this is duplicative and your response is not telling me it's duplicative. It's just saying we've addressed this elsewhere. And if it's duplicative, then it's got to be pretty much exactly the same, from my perspective, and I -- if you're producing documents, that tell -- that tells me it's a little bit different, so I'm not quite sure and since I'm not looking at the documents, I can't resolve that.

MR. FLYNN: The documents are several correspondence regarding offers and settlement demands that were contained in the document production.

THE COURT: Is that each and every settlement demand slash offer?

MR. FLYNN: Those were all the settlement demands in writing that we were able to locate.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: First of all, Judge, the rule that Mr. Flynn quoted, that's fine. This honorable court has plenty of leeway to pursue this -- to pursue discovery and help my client get answers to his questions.

THE COURT: I'm not sustaining the objection, so I want to get to the end here and get you your answers. And so my question for Mr. Flynn is, are the five documents identified in your response to interrogatory number three representative of all written settlement demands and offers as requested in the interrogatory?

MR. FLYNN: I believe so, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. And --

MR. FLYNN: There's extensive testimony regarding the settlement offers --

THE COURT: Yeah, and I -- and --

All right. Mr. Talarico, what about oral --

MR. TALARICO: That's not specific enough. I need to know is this his answer or is this part of an answer, is there more answer?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, there's a 79-page deposition transcript of Hans Mast that was taken in this case. You know, first (Zoom audio feed fading).

THE COURT: You're cutting in and out. It's kind of weird; but I'm having that problem with a number of people, so it could be on this end.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. It's a 79-page deposition transcript that the plaintiff is (indiscernible) to read it just as much (Zoom audio feed distortion) --

THE COURT: My -- my general rule is that if you're going to refer to a cache of documents, you've got to identify where those documents are. You can't say see the deposition of so-and-so; you've got to say see page 20 of the deposition of so-and-so, and then that's -- that's adequate. So -- and given the nature of this case, I imagine you're going to say something like see pages 10 through 30, or something else, of the deposition, but you've got to direct him of where to find it.

MR. FLYNN: There are a number of -- as you said, there are a number of pages where settlement demands and offers are discussed.

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. FLYNN: I believe -- I believe it's actually covered in some of these other discovery responses. We had talked about this.

THE COURT: We'll come back to it if it is.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge.

stuck out to you one way or the other as to whether the McGuires could be liable? Was there any specific cases that made you think the McGuires may not be liable given the facts in Paul's case?

And then Hans' response: I mean, we deal with this issue a lot. I can't think of one particular name of a case, that these cases all go along the same lines, so there are a lot of cases on this one particular issue. It wasn't a complicated issue.

They go on (indiscernible) an independent contractor, so there's several pages of testimony about this issue. I don't know what else we can do to respond to this.

THE COURT: Well, what are -- I mean, you're referring to Popovich documents 205 to 304. What are those?

MR. FLYNN: Offhand, I'm not sure. The testimony, just so you have a reference, is also identified in the answer here pages 50, 51 and 52.

THE COURT: Okay.

All right. Mr. Talarico, if they track that down, I don't know what the end result is, but does that satisfy you for now?

MR. TALARICO: For now, Judge, yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: But just for the record, Judge, I think there may have been a typo in the response because Miss Williams is discussing Dulberg pages 205 -- or 204 through 304.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: She goes back and forth with the numbers. This is at page 50 of (Zoom audio feed fading).

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'm going to strike the answer to number four and let you file an amended response.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Next one?

MR. TALARICO: Again, Judge, an objection, it's duplicative of previously discovered -- I'm sorry, previous discovery.

THE COURT: Well, I struck it, so he has to file a new response.

MR. TALARICO: No, I'm talking about number five, Judge. I'm sorry. I thought you moved on.

THE COURT: Okay. I did. I didn't know you were talking about number five.

All right. So they -- they object, but then they answer and he identifies the pages in the deposition as well as documents. So tell me what's nonresponsive.

MR. TALARICO: Well, Judge, I raised this before verbally and what I'm trying to inform the court is that the deposition is missing an exhibit. There is no record of a -- there's a record of an exhibit, but it's not attached to defendants' responses, and within the mini index, it designates or shows that the exhibit is

THE COURT: Which exhibit?

MR. TALARICO: Exhibit No. 12.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, -- And that's referenced in those deposition pages?

MR. FLYNN: It is.

THE COURT: All right. So, Mr. Flynn, do you have number 12?

MR. FLYNN: I don't know. Judge, we -- the court invited the parties to submit documents for purposes of this hearing. I submitted certain documents, including the mini-script, and I (indiscernible) include deposition exhibits because I didn't know that the court wanted to see everything.

THE COURT: Okay. And I --

MR. FLYNN: And Mr. Talarico had the opportunity to (indiscernible) through additional documents, and he said what he chose to say.

THE COURT: All true, perhaps, but do you have number 12?

MR. FLYNN: I may. I don't know. I haven't looked for it.

THE COURT: Can you produce number 12 if it's in your possession? Which I hope it is.

MR. FLYNN: If it is.

THE COURT: Is it part of the deposition transcript?

MR. FLYNN: It is. It's (indiscernible) -- this is plaintiff's deposition. They took my client and it was a Zoom deposition early on in the pandemic.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: So they have as much access to it as I do. I may have that. (Indiscernible).

THE COURT: If -- and I'm trying to --

MR. FLYNN: The court reporter's name is on the front of the transcript and (indiscernible) page two.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, in the mini index it indicates in the transcript that Exhibit 12 is missing.

THE COURT: All right. Who took the dep?

MR. FLYNN: Miss Williams.

THE COURT: All right. And whose exhibit was it?

MR. FLYNN: Plaintiff's exhibit.

THE COURT: All right. So how do I penalize or sanction defendant for the failure to produce a document that constructively is yours? Unless you can show me that they removed it.

MR. TALARICO: I have no idea, Judge. I just saw now that 12 was missing when Mr. Flynn's office submitted the deposition without exhibits to you.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, just again remind you that my experience with the prior counsel, she's been nonresponsive to me. I can't (indiscernible) -- she did not respond to the -- We did this before with the blacked-out pages, that Mr. Flynn (indiscernible) reached an agreement. I tried to reach that person and they won't respond. And we made that -- we made that clear in court and effectively said in lieu of this, you'll get the ten and ten rather than bring her in for a deposition.

THE COURT: Okay. The issue that I'm dealing with right now is their production of what ultimately was your Exhibit No. 12, and I'm asking Mr. Flynn to produce it if he has it; if he doesn't have it, to tell you. And if nobody has it, then we're going to have to figure out how to find it.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge.

that's just -- particularly under these circumstances, I can't determine that he's constructively in possession of something your predecessor had, presumably.

Next one?

MR. TALARICO: Okay, Judge, that's basically the same answer. It objects as to duplicative and also makes reference to the Hans Mast deposition.

THE COURT: Okay. But I -- and I -- but he identifies the pages of Hans Mast.

MR. TALARICO: Uh-hum (indicating an affirmative response).

THE COURT: And I think that's adequate.

MR. TALARICO: Okay then.

THE COURT: The fact that he objects for the record doesn't make it nonresponsive.

Next one?

MR. TALARICO: Number seven I ask for facts. Their response is improperly calls for a legal conclusion. I didn't ask for a legal conclusion. I asked for facts. And then later in the answer it says that -- it talks about, again, what the defendants' going to do in the future. MR. FLYNN: Judge, the way I read this, this is an improper interrogatory seeking a legal conclusion regarding the -- whether the consent was --

THE COURT: Well, you're --

MR. TALARICO: As I read it --

MR. FLYNN: -- informed consent.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I read this as, the answers to the question is going to be given in the future sometime. They may be. Because the words are will be argued, will form the basis for supporting facts establishing -- again, they have facts, but they're going to give them to me in the future.

THE COURT: You're -- Mr. Flynn, you're relying on a deposition and -- and that's fine -- and forgive me and maybe I'm wrong, but is that -- is Mr. Dulberg the sole respository of the facts that support this? That --

MR. FLYNN: The informed consent? No, Judge. I mean, I can summarize how this went down and we already discussed some of the paperwork relative to the settlement demand. MR. FLYNN: There are transmittal letters relative to the demand when he came in for a face-to-face meeting, and all of this is going to be argued in a summary judgment motion. summary judgment. Now they're asking, informed consent, well, that's their -- that's where we --

THE COURT: They're asking facts. They're asking for all the facts that you relied on in determining he gave his consent, and if all those facts are contained in his deposition and in the attachments to your -- or otherwise identified in your summary judgment, I think it's adequate to identify where in the summary judgment that can be found as an easy -- as an easy way to respond to this, but I think you need the answer. I think you need to answer this a little better.

MR. FLYNN: Again, these are (Zoom audio feed fading).

THE COURT: Yes, you're right. But I did allow these interrogatories with the expectation there would be overlap. And my goal is to get to the end rather than to quibble about whether it is 100 percent duplicative.

Yeah, I'm sure this issue's been raised, but maybe not exactly in this manner, so my preference is to get an answer to it and move on.

MR. FLYNN: Well, I haven't filed it yet, so that's the thing. You're asking for what our theory's going to be.

THE COURT: Of course they are. But the issue of consent is not limited to the summary judgment and I think it is in effect a contention interrogatory. We contend he gave his consent. Please state all those facts on which you rely on the determination or the allegation that he gave his consent. I --

MR. FLYNN: That's a great point, Judge. We haven't even made that contention yet. I haven't filed the summary judgment motion. They're assuming that we're making the contention that he did give informed consent. Haven't made that argument.

THE COURT: Informed -- informed -- I think when you say informed consent, I think more -- that's more of a legal issue, but consent is -- is factual and I --

MR. FLYNN: I can and -- but they're well aware of it, Judge. This is all scattered all throughout the depositions.

THE COURT: They -- I agree they probably are well aware of it, but they still are entitled to an answer and -- just to make sure that you don't have any extra facts, and I -- so this is to pin you down and they have a right to do that. So --

THE COURT: I'm sorry.

MR. FLYNN: If I cite to, say, 19 pages of testimony and on this one because there happens to be about 20 or 22 pages, I just don't think we should be limited. I mean, this is an over-arching theme. They are well aware of facts --

MR. TALARICO: I object to him asking for a ruling before it's been done. He wants to know what you're going to rule if he does something.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, other than the objection that they failed to differentiate between their stuff and the stuff served by the co-defendant, do you have any objection?

MR. TALARICO: No, Judge.

THE COURT: All right. Because I think each document is self-explanatory, and they've identified it. I'm going to overrule your objection to number three unless you are somehow prejudiced because the documents speak for themselves as to who served them, and perhaps they could have presented it in a less -- I won't say less -- ah, less confusing manner, they still responded.

So next one?

MR. TALARICO: I believe the response in number five -- number four is clearly nonresponsive.

THE COURT: All right. Number four regarding assets?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge.

THE COURT: All right. And they say all three defendants were deposed in the underlying case. I read that as saying the same thing as nothing other than their deposition testimony.

And, Mr. Flynn, is there any objection to my interpretation?

MR. FLYNN: No.

THE COURT: Okay. I mean, they're stuck with that. That's an answer.

MR. TALARICO: Your Honor, the instruction again -- I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. TALARICO: The instruction to the request (indiscernible), if there's a document tell me where, if it's a document already produced.

THE COURT: Okay. And I'm assuming that the deposition transcripts are identified in number three. Is that fair?

MR. FLYNN: Well, two and three.

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. FLYNN: Number two and three.

THE COURT: All right. Can you identify the deposition -- technically, you gotta. Can you identify the depositions of the defendants and the page numbers?

MR. FLYNN: With respect to --

THE COURT: Number four.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, with respect to assets and net worth, I don't know where in those depositions he's referring me to.

THE COURT: That's it. He's telling you. The deposition. And if there are no questions, I mean, -- I don't know how he can pin it down further. You said all investigation or analysis done. The depositions. I think that's responsive.

Next one?

MR. TALARICO: And, then, Judge, I'm asking for specifics and the responses seem like basically see my deposition.

THE COURT: He says there's none. You're talking about number five.

MR. TALARICO: Yes.

THE COURT: And he says no litigation risk analysis in written form exists. And then he references his deposition, but the answer is none.

Did I pretry this, the underlying matter? I seem to think I did.

MR. TALARICO: You did.

MR. FLYNN: I think so, Judge. You did disclose that to the parties at least one time.

THE COURT: All right. Well, this is -- I keep thinking the answers to some of these would incorporate pretrial discussions with me, even though I don't have a recollection of what I would have said, but I'm sure that we discussed these things; and I don't know if that's makes any difference, but I think that is part of the answers, if we had these kind of discussions. I'll defer to Mister --

MR. FLYNN: Well, this is a production -- this is a production request. He's asking for documents that exist.

THE COURT: Okay. But what about the interrogatories? Didn't they get into that?

MR. FLYNN: I'm --

THE COURT: All right. Well, it's --

MR. FLYNN: (Indiscernible) litigation risk analysis.

THE COURT: I thought there was an interrogatory that would have somehow incorporated the pretrials and -- at least in my opinion. I'll leave that to you guys to figure it out and in case there's any question, I have no notes or records and barely any recollection of what transpired at any pretrial. I tend to forget that quickly, and that's kind of the plan. The -- but I -- did this involve -- Forgive me again. This involved a chainsaw or trees?

MR. FLYNN: Yes.

MR. TALARICO: Chainsaw, Judge.

In any event, I'll let you guys deal with that as you wish. Is there anything else that we haven't dealt with?

MR. TALARICO: No, Judge.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, how long do you need to file this supplemental answer?

MR. FLYNN: Twenty-one days, Judge.

THE COURT: All right. I'll give you 21 days. Do you want to come back in about five or six weeks for status of compliance?

MR. FLYNN: That's fine, Judge. And then we've been asking for months for fact discovery to be closed so we can move on to the summary judgment motion.

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. FLYNN: (Zoom audio feed distortion) issued -- issued a handful of fact (Zoom audio feed fading).

on even longer. Just want the court to be aware that the subpoenas were issued --

THE COURT: Well, the subpoenas should be answered by the time we return in June based on my time schedule, at least I'm hoping.

Comments?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, the subpoenas are not at issue. Have been answered. I've indicated that.

THE COURT: All right. Well, --

MR. FLYNN: I have not seen any answers to the subpoenas, so I think those would be responsive --

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I need -- I need to address one of them before I respond. I need to address this to the court. One of the responses, -- what I have, Judge, is a question about forged signatures on depositions by the court reporters -- or the certified court reporters.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: There are questions about that. I have done -- subpoenaed some of them, got their documents. Judge, some of those documents contain a lot of personal information. If I turn that over -- I'm leery of that. I noted it's a subpoena and response, but I didn't turn over the documents themselves (indiscernible) this moment. I'm a little leery of doing that because it has a lot of personal information.

THE COURT: Turn over to Mr. Flynn?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, to Mr. Flynn or to file it with the court.

THE COURT: All right. Well, I don't know what you mean by personal information, and you don't have to turn it over to me, unless it's an exhibit in something, so what -- what ultimately is your concern?

MR. TALARICO: Again, Judge, that I am in possession of a respondent's very personal information. They gave me all their mortgage documents, et cetera, signatures, addresses, Social Security number.

THE COURT: From whom -- I'm sorry, from whom?

MR. TALARICO: One of the court reporters, one of the certified court reporters.

THE COURT: Why did the court reporter give you mortgage documents? I'm not looking at the subpoena, but --

MR. TALARICO: I really can't answer that, but that was what they gave me.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Flynn, comment?

MR. FLYNN: I would just make a general comment that the subpoenas were issued. I have not seen any response to any of them. To the extent that my -- our -- the defendants' prior discovery requests call for supplementation and that these subpoena responses are responsive to prior discovery requests, they should be produced. I haven't made a specific request for copies of any subpoena response, but I wasn't aware that they had been made.

THE COURT: All right. With respect to the seemingly nonresponsive and personal information, private information, produced by the deponents, I think you got to disclose that to Mr. Flynn and then agree to destroy them, but he at least gets to see them so he can determine that they're -- they should be destroyed.

MR. TALARICO: Absolutely.

THE COURT: So don't file them with the court. I don't want them. And if you both agree that there's -- they're not relevant and they should be destroyed, then let the deponent know and/or destroy them or return them. I'll let you choose your path.

All right. What other issues are out there? Okay.

MR. TALARICO: I have none at the moment.

THE COURT: Here's my plan. Let's assume that the answers are -- that the supplemental answers are responsive. Then it is my intent to close discovery when we return and if plaintiff is going to argue he needs more discovery, he can argue it; but I'm going to need to understand what more you need and why that should delay things and I may just proceed with the summary judgment if I don't think that the discovery -- the discovery should hold it up. So I'll cross that bridge when I come to it.

MR. TALARICO: With all due respect, Judge, there is no summary judgment pending.

THE COURT: Yeah, but he keeps saying he's going to file it.

MR. TALARICO: I know.

THE COURT: So if he files it, when we come back and I close discovery and he files the motion, then we'll proceed with a briefing schedule. So I'm just trying to map out where we're going to go from here.

So let me just pick a date. How is June 8th? That's a --

MR. TALARICO: I think that is not good for me, Judge.

THE COURT: I can do the 7th, 8th or 9th -- or the 10th, really, all at 9:45.

MR. TALARICO: Could we have -- Mr. Flynn, June 10th?

MR. FLYNN: Any of those dates are fine.

THE COURT: All right. I'm going to say 9:45. I'm going to need you guys to submit the order because it isn't -- it's something a little bit beyond just a continuance. I'm giving you a 9:45 time because I anticipate we're going to have some discussion beyond merely status of discovery, so we'll have more time, a little more time.

Is there anything else we need to do today? I'm going to figure out who's going to send me the order.

MR. TALARICO: With all due respect, I don't have all the notes clearly to be able to draft it.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: I could order the transcript and go from there.

THE COURT: You guys order the transcript anyway, so, I mean, it's going to be there.

MR. TALARICO: Yeah, I mean, but that will take a few days.

brief that's due by the end of the day, and I have several hours of work to put in on it.

THE COURT: Yeah, yeah. That's fine.

I mean, if you'd get it -- we have a little bit of time. We know our timeframe. Please include the date -- today's date on the order, though, because, otherwise, I got to plug in my own and then that screws things up. And, yeah, I'll sign it when I see it. What's today? I can tell your Honor that Mr. Talarico had an issue with stipulations being contained in the order. I don't see there's a problem. The Court executed the order. So that was really the last I heard from him a few weeks ago.

THE COURT: All right.

A VOICE: He hasn't filed any motions, and there have been no depositions noticed up. So, again, I would request that fact discovery be closed and then I plan to file summary judgment motion (indiscernible) within 45 days thereafter.

That's sort of all that's been going on.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. I'm going to take the case into July, and I can -- We can do it July 8th, Friday, or the 7th, Thursday, at 8:45. 9:45 is possible, too. What's your preference?

MR. FLYNN: There's never been a motion filed. I'm not even sure what this is about. There have been some notices relative to court reporting in the case and in the underlying case. Some subpoenas issued to court reporters and for the circuit clerk here, but I really don't know what this is about. And since no motion has ever been filed on this issue, I would object to this hearing not being recorded.

Your Honor, the sensitivity of the matter is such that I thought it would be better for fewer ears, but that's okay. I don't have a problem with that.

What I -- what this is all about, and I think Mr. Flynn has an indication at least of it is the Exhibit 12 to Mr. Hans Mast's deposition. If you remember this case, this Exhibit 12 issue has been ongoing. I think the last time we spoke of it -- we spoke to it, you said -- you told us that when -- either produce it or saying you don't have it.

What I have gotten in return is what I believe, I hate to use this word, but a forgery, a false document, a document that is not part of the record was created recently.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: Now, how do I know this? I -- I did a records only subpoena to the court reporter. She answered, which her answers were sent to Mr. Flynn. Thereafter, she sent me a flash drive with -- because -- because she said all her notes were not -- were too large to send by the proper response. The flash drive was also sent to Mr. Flynn.

What she said -- what is there is that there was no Exhibit 12. She never produced Exhibit 12. The issue -- the mini and the total original had no Exhibit 12, but somehow I have received a copy of Exhibit 12.

I also sent Exhibit 12 to a document examination, a professional. I got his report this morning -- I'm sorry, last night at 11:15 p.m., and the indication what was sent is -- does not match the other sections, the other labels -- the other 14 exhibits. Someone, it appears, has created something new and sent it to me saying this is Exhibit 12. So I -- I think that I should be --

THE COURT: What's Exhibit 12? What is that? What is it?

MR. TALARICO: I'm sorry. What is Exhibit 12?

THE COURT: What is Exhibit 12? What is the document?

the -- in the period of time of convincing him to settle the case for $5,000 --

THE COURT: Identified a number of -- he allegedly identified a number of similar cases?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, even that is an issue because there was some problem on the Internet between Mr. Flynn's office, Ms. Clinton's office and the recordings for the Zoom deposition.

My whole thing is, Judge, I have a 50-page order -- 50-page report saying -- well, just, for example, you can take judicial notice, the label is -- the label that was sent to me in April of this year misspelled the defendant's name.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, that's a different issue. That's on the merits of your anticipated motion with -- whatever it may be with respect to what you've told me is Exhibit 12. Exhibit 12 is an attachment to a deposition as opposed to something that took place in court, is that true?

MR. TALARICO: That is correct.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. TALARICO: There was a deposition.

THE COURT: And what -- let's assume -- Mr. Flynn, no offense. But let's assume 100 percent of what you're saying is true that it's a forged document, how does that impact what we're doing right now?

MR. TALARICO: How it impacts us is because I would like to have the opportunity to present a motion to exclude Mr. Hans Mast's deposition. This is just one of the issues that -- that are centered on that deposition. The Internet -- the Internet not working properly during it, the Exhibit 12 that was never produced by the reporter, the cases that came in this April filing does not include one of the major cases that was part of that, it was called (indiscernible) versus Spangler, and that's not in there.

So there are so many issues that are centered on that deposition that I would like some time to file a motion to exclude that and then (indiscernible) over.

THE COURT: Mr. Flynn, and please ignoring the implied accusations because that's not relevant to what I'm interested in, what is your original motion? Forgive my lack of memory.

MR. FLYNN: The original motion that we are here for today was just simply a motion to finally close

(f)(1) discovery. There was an oral motion only because this has been an ongoing issue. If we could just (indiscernible) the case. Counsel came into the case I think a year and three quarters ago and hasn't noticed up a certain deposition. The case just needs to move along. I -- I haven't really had a need for a summary judgment motion --

THE COURT: That's what I was thinking. Okay. I was thinking you had filed your summary judgment.

MR. FLYNN: We had not. Waiting for fact discovery to be closed. I was present for Hans Mast's deposition back in I think it was the spring of 2020 at the onset of the pandemic. It was done by Zoom. I was in his -- Hans Mast's office, at the time our office, and plaintiff was represented by Julia Williams from the Clinton Law Firm. It was her deposition, her exhibits, and I haven't read any (indiscernible) because there has been no motion. I didn't realize there was this issue, but I can't see how any of the exhibits from that deposition being forged.

From what I recall of Exhibit 12, I believe it was some photocopies of case law from an -- it looked like it had been copied from a -- one of the old law books. I think --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: -- the Court, if I remember correctly. And asked Mast about those documents at his deposition, not in great detail, by the way, but I believe he was asked about his depositions -- I'm sorry, those cases.

So I don't understand what the issue is. I don't see how having a hearing on the summary judgment of this case moving along. There have been a number of conspiracy theories put forth that have never -- never been filed in court. And I would just request strenuously that the (f)(1) discovery be closed, and we move along so that motions could be addressed.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, I don't have a motion, and --

MR. TALARICO: That is correct. What I'm asking for right now, by the same token there is no -- there is only an oral motion, while I wasn't here last time because of my own illness, I was hospitalized, et cetera. So the (f)(1)s, I believe, should not be closed because if I -- if my motion is granted and Mr. Mast's deposition is stricken, that -- that may lead to other people I have to -- I have to list as (f)(1)s, and it may also impact Mr. Flynn's motion -- motion for summary judgment.

But this entire thing, the deposition itself should be stricken. That's why I may not have time to file a motion for. I have a court -- I have a court reporter saying on her -- sending it in responses to my records only subpoena, that she -- every time they tried -- whoever tried to keep sending her that exhibit, the first 22 pages were blank. She's written it over and over and over again in her response which I sent to Mr. Flynn.

How can they now come up with 25 or 27 pages to put in a full -- with a label that misspelled the defendant's name and with a label that is not -- to be your burden because you haven't otherwise identified discovery you want to take other than related to this deposition issue.

THE COURT: You are arguing the merits. You are arguing the merits.

MR. TALARICO: May I please file that motion?

And have you -- forgive me for fishing a little bit, but have you talked to Ms. Clinton, I guess that was the name of the attorney, Mr. Flynn?

MR. FLYNN: Ms. Williams.

THE COURT: Ms. William. I'm sorry. The Clinton Law Firm. Is that what you told me? All right. Have you contacted them for whatever Exhibit 12 is?

MR. TALARICO: No, Judge. If you remember when we talked about the pink pages, the black -- the blank pages, she would not respond to me back on that issue.

THE COURT: All right. I think I do recall that. All right. And have you issued a subpoena for Exhibit 12? Because I can't see how an attorney-client privilege would attach to a document that was used as an exhibit in the course of a discovery deposition.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, if -- maybe I'm misunderstanding. There is no Exhibit 12. That -- I can't subpoena what doesn't exist.

THE COURT: Well, we don't have a formal response from her one way or another, do we?

MR. TALARICO: No, we don't. But we have a forged Exhibit 12, and we have the reporter saying there is no Exhibit 12.

THE COURT: She says she doesn't have it. She didn't say there was no such thing.

MR. TALARICO: No, excuse me, Judge. In her handwriting, the discussion about asking the Clinton firm for Exhibit 12 over and over and over again and getting no response.

THE COURT: That -- that doesn't look good, but it doesn't resolve the issue because I'm imagining, correct me if I'm wrong, that the record reflects a discussion of Exhibit 12.

MR. FLYNN: And I believe that being the case, Judge. I don't -- I can pull the transcript. I have it here within a few feet of my desk. But I recall Mr. Mast being questioned about Exhibit 12. Now --

THE COURT: I think that's obvious simply because there was no discussion of it, we wouldn't -- their wouldn't be -- if there was no testimony regarding the existence of Exhibit 12, we wouldn't be having this discussion.

And I think that in the end, I'm going to ask you to get a formal response out of that law firm or that attorney as to whether or not Exhibit 12 exists. And if they are going to claim attorney-client privilege, I don't see how. But I mean, I'll look at whatever their responses are. But if they have got it, they should produce it. Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, whatever way you want to go, I will do.

THE COURT: Okay. I have not -- and I'll show my hand a little bit, if everything you're saying is true with respect to the court reporter not having Exhibit 12, that's not going to be enough for me to strike the deposition and/or bar the use of Exhibit 12. It's going to create some issues, but given the fact that it was not an in-person deposition, her testimony does not -- her anticipated testimony doesn't establish for me that Exhibit 12 does not exist or that Exhibit 12, as produced in discovery in this case, is a forgery. I don't know.

MR. TALARICO: But Judge, if you -- may I speak?

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. TALARICO: If you recall, this all started when we -- with the deposition was about -- was going to be used, the deposition of Hans Mast. And in the deposition as it was produced, there was no Exhibit 12. It says Exhibits 1 to 11, 13 through 15. That's when I brought it to your Honor's attention. When it was produced, there was no Exhibit 12. As of April of this year, there is Exhibit 12.

THE COURT: But there is testimony regarding Exhibit 12.

MR. TALARICO: There is.

THE COURT: And if -- if we have -- if the attorney who presented Exhibit 12 isn't responsive, then -- then, I think we have to address the issue. But I need to know what she says. If she says I don't have it, it never existed, yeah, there is a problem. But if she produces an Exhibit 12, then we have to discuss that.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, just my recollection of the transmittal of this deposition once it was written up is there was -- it was done electronically. I could be wrong again. I didn't realize -- I wasn't aware of what the issue was here. But my recollection was that the court reporter sent us the transcripts and sent the exhibits electronically. So perhaps I'm wrong, you know. It was a couple years ago, but that was my understanding.

THE COURT: Yeah, I want to know what the attorney says. I mean, that's really the bottom line.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, are you suggesting a deposition of Ms. Williams to get that?

THE COURT: I don't know that that's necessary. I mean, a subpoena -- if you issue a subpoena and she produces one -- produces Exhibit 12, we will talk about whether or not a deposition is necessary.

MR. TALARICO: Okay.

THE COURT: And -- or -- I mean, I can see laying a foundation, but if she -- for it, or if we want to take her deposition, yeah, I'd probably be open to letting you do that. But I do agree with Mr. Flynn, it's time to get moving on this.

And Mr. Flynn, without showing me your hand, can I ask if Exhibit 12 is relevant to you're anticipated motion? If you don't want to answer, you don't have to.

MR. FLYNN: I -- you know, I suppose it may be discussed. It's part of the overall advice that was given relative to my client recommending a settlement. It's not a major part of the motion. You know, we've got statute of limitations issues which would be part of the summary judgment motion. So I don't think had any bearing on that argument.

THE COURT: Is it possible that -- to split this motion?

MR. FLYNN: Well, I -- I've always anticipated, you know, unlike my motion this morning on another matter which is one issue, I would have four or five issues on summary judgment in this case. If the Court would allow it, I could use the extra pages anyhow, or I may need to to square it up, and I really won't know until I start writing it, to tell you the truth.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, my -- and forgive me if I'm contradicting something, because I'm -- that I've said or done in the past, but is, in effect, the statute of limitations argument is 2-619 generally. And I would think that could be isolated from anything involving -- and I would make Mr. Mast's testimony -- we wouldn't have to touch it, I don't think, but I don't know. I don't know what -- I don't know the issues. That's just my general recollection.

And I'm thinking of if we are able to at least get rid of some of this without having to reopen discovery, because I anticipate that Mr. Talarico's issues could lead to more depositions. And I'll let you guys proceed how you want. I just want to get something done.

MR. FLYNN: I --

THE COURT: Let me add to this, the Supreme Court has made it clear that we have to move cases, and if we don't cases --

MR. FLYNN: I understand that.

THE COURT: -- within the allotted time, we will be punished. They are vague about what punishment is.

MR. FLYNN: I understand. I think there are multiple issues on -- I thank you for the (indiscernible) page limit. I may have some problems with that anyway. So I suppose if the Court would allow it, I could attempt to break up the various issues.

THE COURT: I'll consider any motion you guys

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: And -- but if it's impossible to split it up, then we will waive. Okay.

MR. FLYNN: There are a lot of intertwined issues for the Court's ruling. So I'll do my best to make it easy on us all if I can.

THE COURT: You know, if they are all intertwined, forget everything I said.

Mr. Talarico, do you want to weigh in?

MR. TALARICO: Just so I understand, Judge, you are suggesting, and I will comply, a subpoena on Julia Williams as to Exhibit 12, and -- well, if I -- well, then, depending on -- well, I would still like to do a motion to -- to strike or exclude the deposition of --

THE COURT: You can, but I think that attorney's testimony or subpoena response is going to be critical to my decision on that --

MR. TALARICO: Then, I would -- relied upon by all the parties at the deposition and she just doesn't have it. I -- so that -- that's not going to result in my barring the dep or the exhibit, just her testimony.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, may I just comment on that as well?

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. FLYNN: I just wanted to point out and just for the record that these issues for all on the -- according to this side of the aisle, the deposition was taken by the plaintiff. The exhibit was introduced by the plaintiff. It is plaintiff's new counsel now that is moving to strike that deposition that was taken by the plaintiff.

The only thing I did in this case was pass along what I thought was Exhibit 12 after it was sent to me by the court reporter.

THE COURT: And you raise an interesting point, but I'll address that at the appropriate time.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, can I make a comment?

THE COURT: Sure. Sure.

MR. TALARICO: I -- the court reporter gave me no indication that she passed on Exhibit 12 to Mr. Flynn. So that's -- that's a question now.

MR. FLYNN: It was.

MR. TALARICO: It was a Zoom dep.

THE COURT: And was the court reporter even present?

MR. TALARICO: No.

THE COURT: You see, that's -- that's an issue for me because you've got everybody in separate locations.

MR. TALARICO: All I'm saying, Judge, is the documents I sent to Mr. Flynn by the court reporter, there were -- there were ongoing issues with Exhibit 12 saying I don't have it, I don't have it, somebody give it to me, what is this. There is for the -- we have got two things. You've got the reporter actually focusing on 12 and saying I don't have it, the reporter --

THE COURT: I believe it.

MR. TALARICO: -- not producing an Exhibit 12, and then the document expert saying it's a forgery.

purposes of moving forward.

So my recollection was Ms. Williams forwarded the proposed exhibits of the deposition prior to the deposition. My recollection was that some of them were fairly extensive, and I didn't print out every single one. I recall getting hard copies of some of the exhibits to Mr. Mast's office.

We had some technical issues with screen sharing the exhibits. I recall showing him one or two hard copies of exhibits. But again, my recollection of the exhibits were sent in the proposed form prior to the deposition. That may, at least, help us, not that I am getting -- chasing down this issue because I'd rather not spend time on it. But just for everyone's edification, I think that was the case.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, anything to add?

MR. TALARICO: No, Judge.

THE COURT: All right. So please issue a subpoena. I guess I had misunderstood. I thought that the deposition was from a companion case, not this case. So simply by names of the attorneys, I had overlooked that. And we will have to address that when we get to it.

But if you want to file a motion, file a motion. But I think issuing a subpoena or even contacting her and getting an affidavit is fine. I don't care. But I want to know what she says. And I just don't know where we are going if you file a motion based upon the court reporter saying I never got them because that doesn't establish for me that Exhibit 12 doesn't exist or that the one that you've been produced is the wrong one then, and I don't know how to resolve that.

MR. TALARICO: All right, Judge. I will gladly take your advice and move forward with a -- with a subpoena.

THE COURT: Okay. When did we want to come back?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, is that -- I'm happy to prepare the order. Is fact discovery closed?

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Closing fact discovery on my motion today. But that does not prevent Mr. Talarico from filing a motion to reopen discovery for purposes of pursuing this issue. So you're really -- with respect to the issues Mr. Talarico has raised today, there is no prejudice. He can still pursue exactly what I said he could pursue.

So in case there is any question, I will explicitly grant leave to issue his subpoena or obtain an affidavit from that attorney in question regarding Exhibit 12.

MR. FLYNN: Showing who the parties in the order.

THE COURT: I think that's better. Mr. Talarico, does that cover what you want to cover?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge.

MR. FLYNN: Works for me.

MR. TALARICO: I'm checking, your Honor.

THE COURT: I have it -- I think I had your other case up at 8:45.

MR. TALARICO: Mr. Flynn, you were right, this case was scheduled for 9:45 also.

MR. FLYNN: It was. I think, Judge, you drafted the last order. I'm not trying to blame you, but I think originally 8:45 and then it was stricken on the order and then changed 8 to 9:45.

THE COURT: That was my mistake, and somebody brought it to my attention and made fun of me. I will accept blame for that.

Let's go 9:30. You put it in the order, and you can even say by order of the Judge at 9:30. And the reason for that is so that we don't have to wait for a large call to dissipate before talking.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, your Honor. George Flynn for defendants.

THE COURT: All right. We have a -- What's going on? Let me just put it that way.

MR. TALARICO: You're right. What is going on? Okay. The last time we were up, you gave me permission to subpoena the records and the deposition of Hans Mast, especially Exhibit 12, which I've been challenging as fraudulent.

Served the subpoena on both Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton. Those are two people that handled the case for the Clinton Law Firm.

I got -- The day before they were supposed to respond, I called to try to ask if, you know, they're going to respond. They said yes. They sent me some documents, but other documents, they claim that they are not all that they want -- that they could respond to and were not going to respond. They won't give -- They're not in compliance. They won't give me an affidavit of completion, et cetera.

As a courtesy to other -- to two members of the bar, I said, Okay, look, I'll extend this. Can you consider this and do this?

So I -- I sent them a notice that I changed the compliance date to October 6th. The earlier compliance date was September 22nd. But every indication in writing is if I -- if I do a motion to compel, they're going to claim attorney-client privilege and work product.

THE COURT: Well, they've got to do something. My interpretation of the law is if you're not going to comply with the subpoena, your options are -- your only option, then, is to file an objection. You can't just refuse.

The ball is in their court. They've done nothing. And you may want to pass that information on to them that unless or until I see something filed on their behalf objecting to the scope of your subpoena, I assume it's appropriate and should be complied with. If you want to do a rule, do a rule, and I'm fine. But they're going to have to do something. They can't just say, No, we're not gonna.

MR. TALARICO: That is, so far, what I've gotten, but I will pass that along, your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Yeah. I expect if they're not going to give full compliance -- and based on what you're telling me they're acknowledging it's not full compliance -- if they are not going to give you full compliance, they need to come to court.

MR. TALARICO: I'll pass that along.

THE COURT: Either voluntarily or involuntarily. It's their call.

THE COURT: All right. Anything else?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, so yesterday we filed our summary judgment motion on the statute of limitations issue. You may recall we discussed that we believe there were multiple grounds for summary judgment, but they're separate grounds and it made sense to separate those issues.

This record relies mainly on the testimony in this instant malpractice case; whereas, some of the other grounds are more geared toward the underlying case.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: Number one, whether there could have even been liability on the part of the property owners; and secondly, I believe, which dovetails with that, would be the attorney judgment -- attorney immunity doctrine, essentially.

So those (indiscernible) all relied on facts regarding the accident itself that would have taken, you know, additional five to ten pages of facts that are -- So we'd like to do that separately. In fact, we might wait until if and when expert discovery is completed, but -- I'm going to have some more thoughts, but I think we have plenty to chew on now.

As far as the Exhibit 12 from the Hans Mast deposition, I have forwarded a copy of that to counsel. I don't frankly understand what the issue is. I was there for the deposition. Perhaps, at some point, if some motion could clarify what the problem is, but I just don't understand it, and hopefully won't delay the issue -- delay the summary judgment briefing.

THE COURT: I don't have any reason to believe it does, but if plaintiff wants to bring that to my attention, I'll listen.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, if I might, as to Exhibit 12 in the deposition, I've already drafted the first part of a motion to exclude the deposition, and it's based on Supreme Court Rule 206(h)(2). This is not before the Court yet, but I'm giving you some idea of where I'm going.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. TALARICO: 206(h)(2), and orders of the Supreme Court MR30370 and MR303 -- twice amended. It was amended. So two orders, plus the fact that the exhibit, in any form, was not at the deposition and not shown.

THE COURT: Mr. Flynn, for you, is the exhibit and/or deposition relevant to your motion?

MR. FLYNN: It is. This is the deposition of my client, Hans Mast.

judgment if that ever becomes necessary.

THE COURT: All right. Until I see the motion, both motions, I can't really determine to what extent one is going to impact the other. So I'll wait and see and I'll -- Because summary judgment isn't in the file yet, and --

MR. TALARICO: I haven't got notice either.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: Counsel, my secretary sent a drop box link to your e-mail address yesterday. So you're aware of it.

MR. TALARICO: I'm aware of it. I didn't know you noticed -- I haven't gotten notice that you put it on today's call because I got it yesterday, and all I got was the document. I don't deny that, Mr. Flynn, of course I did. All I'm saying is it wasn't put on the Judge's call, and I didn't know that. So --

THE COURT: I'm going to put, on my motion -- because here's what I want to do. Your compliance date on the subpoena, the second one -- I think you said October 6th?

MR. TALARICO: October 6th, yes.

THE COURT: So why don't we come back on the 7th for status of compliance and status on the motion for summary judgment, at which time we'll also, perhaps, address the motion you intend to file. Then I'll have an opportunity to look at them and maybe we'll have compliance by that date. But they're -- They've got to do something. They can't just say, No, we're excused. They've got to come to court and say, We're protected by attorney-client privilege, so this is all the compliance we need to give. They don't get to call those shots.

That being said, let's put it on the call for 9:30. Let's say 9:45, sorry, on the 7th.

Who wants to send me the order?

MR. FLYNN: Well, Judge, I'm happy to send it. Will a briefing schedule be entered today or not until --

THE COURT: He doesn't have the motion. It's not noticed up today. I was reluctant -- I can do it, if you're agreeable, but I was (indiscernible) Mr. Talarico's comments that he would be objecting.

compliance, if there's going to be compliance. Because then my motion to strike the deposition, which is part of his summary judgment motion, would be -- have to be --

THE COURT: I'll take a look at it. I'm not going to enter a briefing schedule. I want to take a look at both motions to determine if we can proceed with the summary judgment or if I've got to resolve the motion to strike first.

MR. TALARICO: Okay. Thank you, Judge.

MR. FLYNN: So the compliance date of the subpoena was October 6th? I just -- I hate to delay this any further. If there's going to be a motion, I would like to see it on file. Fact discovery has been closed for some time.

THE COURT: Yeah. You mean the motion to strike the deposition?

MR. FLYNN: Right. Right now it's just a thought. There's no motion on file. The fact discovery has been closed --

MR. TALARICO: That's the -- I don't know what information I'm going to get from them regarding the deposition.

THE COURT: Okay. How about we come back October 14th? That gives you enough time. Then your motion will be on file by that day and we can deal with everything.

MR. TALARICO: Fine with me, your Honor.

THE COURT: You know what? I've got to do it on the 13th. I can't do it on the 14th.

Can you make it the 13th at 10:00 o'clock?

THE COURT: Hold on. I can't rule on the motion until I see it. I can't rule -- I can't determine whether or not the issues raised about the deposition are even relevant to your motion -- to the motion for summary judgment until I see it because I do have questions, and I want to resolve those on my own.

I don't want any unnecessary delay, either, and that's why I'm trying to give this a short date after the compliance date. I do want to move this along, and the Supreme Court tells me it should have been resolved two years ago, but they don't have to deal with the actual case. Not this one in particular, but all cases should be resolved at three.

THE COURT: Dulberg versus Mast. Plaintiff's counsel, if you can identify yourself. You're on mute.

MR. TALARICO: Good morning. My name is Alphonse Talarico for the plaintiff Paul Dalberg.

THE COURT: Okay. Defendant?

MR. FLYNN: Morning, Your Honor. George Flynn on behalf of the defendant Popovich and Mast. Good morning, counsel.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, it's come to my attention we have reason to believe that Mr. Dulberg is recording these hearings and I think that's very likely. So you might want to talk to your client about that because I will hold him in contempt of court for doing that and I will refer that for criminal prosecution, if need be. So you might want to talk to him about it.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Your Honor, I will.

THE COURT: I'm not going to make you have that conversation here on the record, but it's not going to happen again. And the source of that information is Mr. Dulberg himself, in case you're curious. He has had discussions with our court reporters and he has challenged aspects of the transcript, and the only reasonable way that a person could challenge a transcript would be by having a separate recording, some of the nature of his challenges.

So he exposed himself on that issue. It's not going to happen anymore. And if I find out it is, we will pursue it. All right. Let's move on. Let's go back to your motion.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, can I address that issue very briefly?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: Whatever these communications were with the court staff or circuit clerk personnel are ex parte, I don't know if --

THE COURT: He is contacting the court reporter's office. He orders the transcripts. And when they produce the transcripts, apparently he is challenging the language in the transcripts, and there's only one way to do that. There's only one way an individual would be able to have information that would contradict the recordings -- and I'm pointing at the microphones -- the recordings is by having one of his own, so I suspect he's recording these.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: And I think the information I have is probably reliable. I'm not going to ask him to respond, but I'm bringing this to the attention of his attorney. It's not going to happen anymore.

MR. FLYNN: Very well.

THE COURT: And, of course, I could issue a subpoena. I could order -- not issue a subpoena, but I could order production of all those recordings because that may be something that Mr. Flynn wants. I don't know. But in any event, I will move on. With respect to your motion, Mr. Talarico, tell me what's going on.

MR. TALARICO: Well, Your Honor, last time we were up you allowed me to subpoena, the record subpoenas, on two of Mr. Dulberg's former attorneys, Julia C. Williams and I think his name is Edward X. Clinton. I have had communications with them, and they have filed documents which I have -- which is part of the clerk's file. I had it filed so that the Court could see what they responded to or how they responded.

But my position is very clear. My position is they are not in compliance for a variety of reasons I state within the motion. Starting off with Mr. Clinton hasn't filed a response or an affidavit of compliance. Secondarily, Miss Williams has attempted to amend my affidavit of compliance without asking me or asking the Court's permission to do that. She has changed the wording of the affidavit of compliance. Third of all, she's trying to -- she's attempting to file on behalf of herself and --

THE COURT: What's the date of this filing?

MR. TALARICO: I don't have it in front of me, Judge, but it was fairly recent. I can't -- I must say I can't go back to the Court's file right now because something new has happened electronically in the last couple of days and I can't get back there.

THE COURT: Yeah, we're having issues. I only just got back in 20 minutes ago.

MR. TALARICO: So I really can't pull that out right now.

THE COURT: In any event, what would you like to do? Because I'm able to pull up the compliance document.

MR. TALARICO: Okay. In the compliance document, Your Honor, they have general objections of attorney/client privilege and work product. Without presenting that to you, I have no idea what those documents are. And so I believe they have to bring those to you before they can withhold them from me.

THE COURT: Well, I'll just order -- I will order them to produce all such documents being withheld under claims of privilege or work product to me for an in camera inspection.

MR. TALARICO: Okay. That's just to clarify, Your Honor, to make it easy on them because in conversation they're talking about a blanket waiver and I believe Illinois Rules of Evidence 502 allows Mr. Dulberg to do a limited waiver and that's what we -- we just want you to, if you would so kindly, include that in the order saying the waiver is relative to --

THE COURT: A waiver of what?

MR. TALARICO: Of any information sought in their subpoena that is in response to the issue, the subject of the subpoena.

THE COURT: So you would waive the attorney/client privilege to the extent that it affects any of the documents to be produced?

MR. TALARICO: Correct.

THE COURT: Okay. And certainly that doesn't address work product, but I guess I'm confused by that assertion by them. In any event, Mr. Flynn, any comments?

MR. FLYNN: Well, Judge, there were a couple of filings or at least motions that had been forwarded to me that I guess should be discussed. So as you know, we filed a summary judgment motion on September 15th. I'm going to ask -- continue to ask that a briefing schedule be set on that. Late last night or late yesterday afternoon I received a motion. It's a long title, but it's a motion to exclude Hans Mast's deposition. Hans Mast is my client. He was deposed by the plaintiff in this case at the beginning of the Pandemic remotely.

THE COURT: I haven't seen that. I haven't seen the motion, the motion to exclude, and I'm looking through the court file right now.

MR. FLYNN: This was suggested, I guess, by counsel during our last hearing. We discussed the timing of any such motion, again, in view of my summary judgment and request for a briefing schedule.

THE COURT: And I take that back. You're right. It was a very long title. I was reading this as a motion to compel, but I see the reference to barring Hans Mast in there as well.

MR. FLYNN: Well, there's a confusion, though, there's some confusion because the motion to exclude is contained in the title, two different versions that I received. So one of the motions is directed to the Williams and Clinton firms as a motion to compel. I think it should probably be couched as a petition for rule to show cause because they're third parties at this point. But be that as it may, the second motion that I received late yesterday afternoon was directed at excluding Mast's deposition.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to let Mr. Talarico explain that to me. On what basis?

Received 10-27-2022 08:41 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 10-27-2022 08:59 AM / Transaction #20063201 / Case #2017LA000377

MR. FLYNN: Okay. Last thing when we were before you, Judge, the indication was that -- a discussion was that Hans -- I would be bringing a motion to exclude the discovery deposition of Hans Mast after I got the replies from Julia Williams and Edward Clinton. The replies I received were non-compliant and, therefore, what I'm asking in addition is that when I do get compliance, I can amend my motion. The motion was served yesterday. It was supposed to be last Thursday, Judge. There was electronic problems with the court's filing system, so it just got submitted yesterday. The one that was served -- I mean submitted on Thursday didn't get accepted until Tuesday of this week, so I didn't --

THE COURT: Well, for my purposes, on what basis would I be able to bar Hans Mast's deposition? And correct me if I'm wrong, because I'm relying on memory, the deponents you're seeking records from are your client's former attorneys, aren't they?

MR. TALARICO: They are.

THE COURT: Okay. So I guess there's a disconnect and maybe I'm missing something. How would I sanction Hans Mast for something your client's attorneys did or allegedly did?

MR. TALARICO: The deposition was -- what's it called -- a remote deposition violated the Supreme Court rules and Supreme Court orders. At the time I explained it and spell it out in detail. And it's not just Julia Williams, but Mr. Flynn's electronic equipment stopped working, and I have quotes from him in the deposition. The entire deposition should be wiped out because it's non-compliant. The exhibits, they don't know what numbers they're looking at. They're missing exhibits. It never got concluded.

We started with Exhibit 12. Exhibit 12 was never part of the deposition. It was served, I believe, 12 days later after the conclusion. I have to have all this put out. If you read the deposition, Judge, and I cite all of these questions and answers in what's being filed, there has been a total disconnect. They kept saying I can't see that, what's the exhibit, my internet is down. It's not just one. It's through the entire deposition. And, Judge, I would stand on the motion I filed when you see it. I'm quoting them.

THE COURT: Is this -- Let me -- Hang on. Mr. Flynn, I don't recall, but is your motion based on anything Hans Mast says from the dep?

MR. FLYNN: Well, if I may, Judge, the motion is based on Hans Mast's deposition. I attached it. It's not a reliance on the pages where he was questioned about Exhibit 12.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: So if I can back up a little bit and explain our position on this. I understand the Court hasn't read the motion to exclude, but I would like to raise some points that hopefully the Court will find relevant when it does read the motion. So Mast was deposed in 2020. Plaintiff's counsels realized -- The deposition was noticed by the plaintiff, perpetuated by the plaintiff, taken by the plaintiff.

THE COURT: I realize that, but let's go back to my question because I'm not going -- I haven't read the motion, so I'm not going to rule on the motion I haven't read. But I am trying to get some background. And the purpose of my question about your motion for summary judgment is I wondered is this even a necessary issue before we proceed on your motion. If you're not relying on Hans Mast's deposition, then I think I can defer it until some later date.

MR. FLYNN: I'm getting there. I'm sorry. It's taken me a minute, but I just thought it would be important to provide his background, Judge. The answer is no, I don't think it's dependent and the summary judgment briefing should not be held up.

But to continue on, Paul Dulberg appeared by Zoom during this remote deposition. By the way, it's not my equipment. It was my client Hans Mast's equipment at his law office at I believe it's called the Compton law firm. I was in his office physically and we were both attending by Zoom that day. You know, as I sit here, I don't know if I had a separate laptop that I brought and I know Hans was using his iPhone for at least part of the deposition. The Wifi went out once or twice. It was really not a huge issue.

With respect to Exhibit 12, Mast was questioned about that at pages 49 through 53 of his deposition. It's very general questioning about some case law that was contained in his file relative to the underlying case and the liability of the property orders. That is a motion that we plan to bring, if necessary, a motion at a later date demonstrating that the property owners could never have been found liable and, furthermore, that the attorney judgmental immunity, also known as the attorney judgment rule, bars this claim. The current pending motion for summary motion is based on the statute of limitations. It's my position that that testimony at pages 49 through 53, relative to Exhibit 12 have nothing to do and no bearing on the pending motion for summary judgment.

THE COURT: Okay. So I could exclude this -- Could I exclude this from consideration on your motion for summary judgment and then we can move on to the motion?

MR. FLYNN: I don't think there's any need to exclude it. And there are a few other points, Judge. The parties waived any objection to the (indiscernible) to enter.

THE COURT: I recognize that, but I'm reluctant to rule until I actually see the motion. But what I'm looking for, a separate path here, is if you're able to tell me yeah, you can exclude reliance on Hans Mast's deposition and we'll stand on our motion otherwise, then this dispute over Exhibit 12 and his deposition is no longer an obstacle to our proceeding on the motion, your motion.

MR. FLYNN: I don't see why the defendants really should have to concede or waive anything. The plaintiff is not explaining why it is --

THE COURT: I'm just asking you. If you --

MR. FLYNN: Right, right. I understand. The path of at least resistance sometimes is the way to go, but I just don't see it here. Plaintiff hasn't identified any reason why the deposition should be excluded relative to this motion, anyway.

THE COURT: I'm not ruling that. But if you were going to tell me it makes no difference, I'll concede the point for purposes of my motion for summary judgment, then we -- And I think that it's fine.

MR. FLYNN: I think that that portion that he's relying on relative to this exhibit which was part of the deposition and was shared on the screen, although there apparently was some confusion again on the plaintiff's side when his lawyer transmitted it to the court reporter. So none of these disputes and issues --

THE COURT: You're arguing the merits of a motion I haven't read yet.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: It's not in the court file.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I think that generally the deposition, although it's not heavily relied on, it is part of the motion and I don't think we can exclude it. The plaintiff hasn't explained why it does have a bearing on these issues.

THE COURT: I don't know, and I've got to wait and I've got to read the motion, and hopefully the motion will explain to me why it is relevant and necessary for me to address this. That being said, we will enter or grant the request of the plaintiff to compel production of those documents to be produced to the Court for an in camera inspection.

Did you want to include the waiver in the order that the plaintiff explicitly waives any claim of attorney/client privilege with respect to such documents?

MR. TALARICO: Absolutely, Judge.

THE COURT: Then we'll put that in the order. That means one of you gets to draft it. How long do you think it's going to take them to produce the records? I know it's not you, but --

MR. TALARICO: They've been resistant all along, Judge. It started in August when we first started.

THE COURT: Well, I'm entering an order compelling that they give them to me.

MR. TALARICO: Correct.

THE COURT: The issue is whether or not -- And I'm not -- I haven't looked at it for this purpose, whether or not the Court has jurisdiction over them, but I will happily hold them in contempt, assuming we've got all our T's crossed and I's dotted to do so because I just want the record.

MR. TALARICO: I don't think it would take them long. They must have them.

THE COURT: So if I were to put this out two weeks, do you think that is something that can be done?

MR. TALARICO: I really don't know, Judge, but I can guess yes.

THE COURT: I mean it doesn't sound like we're talking about a lot of documents. Do you have a guess from what they've said?

MR. TALARICO: No, Judge, because there's a couple of things that appeared, like Julia Williams has used another name in some of her communications regarding this matter. She used the name Floyd as her email name. So I really don't know if there's Julia Williams Floyd documents. It's in her emails, but we're requesting that communication --

THE COURT: I'm going to grant your motion for a rule to show cause.

MR. TALARICO: Okay.

THE COURT: And I'm going to ask that you -- I'm worried about the notice issue. So I'm going to order that they produce these documents for an in camera inspection or in the alternative that they appear, this is a fake rule to show, I guess, or that they appear in court to explain why they haven't complied with the subpoena. Because I don't think you've noticed up a rule to show cause, but on my motion I'm going to ask that they come in and explain to me what the problems are if they don't send me for in camera inspection, these documents.

Mr. Flynn, is there a hole in my thinking?

MR. FLYNN: I don't think so. I'm just concerned about the summary judgment. I -- At least issues and disputes between the plaintiff and his various attorneys that we've been ensnared in, I'd rather just stay out of it, but --

THE COURT: Well, as a third party to this discussion, I was wondering if -- Because we're not formally doing it the right way, I think in a perfect world plaintiff issues a petition for rule to show cause and let's just leave it that way. Issue -- Have the order reflect that I'm ordering them to comply and submit the records for in camera inspection. And that you are explicitly waiving any attorney/client privilege with respect to any documents that are produced to me for in camera inspection. And I'm granting you leave to file a petition for a rule to show cause against them, and then we'll have that noticed for the date we return. And I think I'm playing a little too fast and loose and we'll do it in the right order. If they don't show up or don't comply, I'll issue the rule and we'll see what happens.

So when can you come back? I'm thinking two weeks is going to put us to October 27th. Any day after that is fine by me. You know what, I'm going to put you over to Thursday, November 3rd at 9:15. There is a chance the trial that is scheduled to start next week will still be going, in which case I might not be available, but I'll try and work that out.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I have a 9:00 o'clock in Joliet that day. Well, it's probably going to be attended by Zoom. I know that particular judge, usually he's not on the bench until about 9:15 or 9:20.

THE COURT: Let's go Friday, the 4th. Does that work?

MR. FLYNN: If it's early, yes.

THE COURT: At 9:15, does that give you enough time?

MR. FLYNN: Yes. Back to the pending summary judgment motion again because the motion to exclude technically I don't think has even been noticed for hearing.

THE COURT: No.

MR. FLYNN: Although we did discuss it today. The motion does not provide a basis or a reason to exclude it relative to the summary judgment motion.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. To exclude Hans Mast's deposition?

MR. FLYNN: Exclude Hans Mast's deposition relative to the summary judgment. So I mean I would just ask a schedule be entered; and if they want to attack it, they need to notice up the motion and explain why.

THE COURT: I have an October 6th filing that I -- based on what has been said, I don't think it's the same document. Mr. Talarico, is there a subsequent motion?

MR. TALARICO: There was one filed yesterday, Judge.

THE COURT: So yeah, I'll enter a briefing schedule over objection.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge, I object. I don't see why -- if this is a key document, first Mr. Flynn said he would let it go, last time he said it's important, now he changes. You've ruled and now he just talked you into changing again.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. What did I rule on?

MR. TALARICO: He told us everything that you wanted in the order.

on petition for rule.

THE COURT: I'm letting you do that. And I'm going to assume compliance with the subpoena by the time we return and my intention is to factor in that delay in the time that you're given to respond to the motion. And if something arises, then certainly you've got time to file a motion and we can address it. But I'm going to assume that by the time we return on November 4th, you're in possession of these documents. And if there's another issue, then it's going to be incumbent on you to bring it to my attention.

MR. TALARICO: And, Judge, just -- Okay. I think enough has been said on this matter.

THE COURT: All right. We'll, as far as -- So let's assume you've got all the documents in your hands on or about November 4th, Mr. Talarico. How long after that do you need to respond?

MR. TALARICO: Mr. Flynn's motion is quite extensive. I think it's over 400 pages. No, more than that, maybe 600 pages. I'm just estimating. I'm guessing. So Mr. Flynn, please, correct me if I'm wrong, but I would think at least 60, if not 90 days. There's a lot of -- a lot of -- I think the first filing was 464 pages.

THE COURT: And 118.

MR. FLYNN: The motion itself, memorandum is combined, it's 15 pages or less. So the remainder of the pages are exhibits which have been well-known to all the parties for many years in this case.

THE COURT: I agree, but here's an additional complicating factor. Let's assume, just for sake of argument, I give him the standard 28 days. How long would you need to reply?

MR. FLYNN: 28 days from -- So another complication, I'm having a total knee replacement on November 17th, so that's why.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: I'm getting a hip in January. So that's why -- So based on your old man surgery and my old man surgery, I think we're going to have to look at a date after I return for the hearing simply because we'd be cutting it close. I anticipate the earliest date post-surgery, post-anticipated surgery that I think I can give you is February 1st.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. Again, the motion has already been on file for nearly a month, so --

THE COURT: It is, but unfortunately, you're stuck with my schedule and yours, so I can blame you. How long are you going to be out, out of curiosity?

MR. FLYNN: This doctor claims it's a fairly non-evasive surgery. I mean I may be working within seven days, but realistically I'm going to plan for about three weeks.

THE COURT: Okay. I was curious about that. I know they've had tremendous advances in the surgery, but still.

MR. FLYNN: They have. I'm actually doing it over Thanksgiving holiday, the week before to try to use those long weekends to recover, so I hope to be back in the saddle right after Thanksgiving, but you never know.

THE COURT: Yeah, you do never know. February 1st.

MR. FLYNN: February 1st hearing, sure.

THE COURT: Yeah, and that will be at 10:00 o'clock. All right. And all I ask, then, let's work backwards from that date. If let's say that can you -- Let's say the final brief is due -- the reply is due January 19th, that's a Thursday. How long would you need for your reply because you've also got the Christmas holidays?

MR. FLYNN: If I could have 21 days from the date it's served, I mean that should be sufficient.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. So we have the motion on schedule and I will await any motions that are filed. I look forward to the petition for rule to show cause; and when the other motion shows up, I'll take a look at that as well.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, did you say 12-28 for the response to the summary judgment?

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. Last thing, now that I've been given a few minutes to think about this, I would ask that any recording of any court hearing in this case be made part of the court file. I'm sure Mr. Dulberg would expect nothing less if it were done on the other side, so that's my request.

THE COURT: I'm going to ask you to put that in writing.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

I did file a rule after I read their motion to vacate. Historically, or chronologically, I think maybe that's the starting point. (Indiscernible) you held them in contempt and --

MR. TALARICO: -- here we are. You did.

THE COURT: When did I hold them in contempt? I'm looking at --

MR. TALARICO: I think so. The last order.

MS. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, we're not concerned about producing. We're -- Mr. Dulberg is entitled to these documents, even without a subpoena.

contesting that issue, and I'm not going to go down that path to find out who's right, ultimately, because it doesn't make any difference, at least to me.

So all I care about is the production of the documents. And am I correct that -- my reading of your response indicated that you've produced the documents. Is that -- was that accurate?

MS. WILLIAMS: Yes, your Honor. So we have produced nonconfidential documents to both -- at this point, we've now produced to both counsels of record in this case, plaintiff's counsel and defendant's counsel. The only thing that has not been produced to defendant's counsel is the communication between our firm and Mr. Dulberg, which was produced to plaintiff's counsel. And then there are, I want to say, about 13 pages of e-mails that were internal work product communications within our office that have not been produced to any -- anyone.

because we were parties to the -- we were counsel in the case, so we should be.

THE COURT: Yeah. Forgive me. Okay. Then no problem. I'll sign it whenever it shows up.

MR. CLINTON: Thank you, Judge.

MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you very much.

(WHEREUPON, Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams disconnect.)

THE COURT: All right. Moving on.

Mr. Flynn, we have your motion for summary judgment; am I correct?

MR. FLYNN: That's already been --

THE COURT: Yeah, I do see that.

MR. FLYNN: Yeah. The briefing schedules are set on that. There, actually, was another motion that relates to Ms. Williams and this Exhibit 12 from the Hans Mast deposition. I was kind of hoping that she might stay on the line there.

THE COURT: I apologize.

MR. FLYNN: That's okay.

THE COURT: I -- you know, Mr. Talarico, can you call them back? If you have their number.

MR. TALARICO: I don't.

number, one of you. Because, yeah, I screwed up there.

MR. FLYNN: I'll see if I can. I think I've got a number here.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I was able to reach Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams. I think they're going to log back on.

THE COURT: All right. As soon as I see them, I'll let them in.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you.

(WHEREUPON, Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams reconnect.)

THE COURT: There he is. All right. I apologize. Mr. Flynn pointed out that I was dumb, and I let you go before we resolved one other question.

Mr. Flynn, I'll let you speak.

MR. FLYNN: And for the record, I did --

THE COURT: And for the record --

MR. FLYNN: -- not say that.

THE COURT: -- he implied.

So, Mr. Clinton -- Mr. Flynn, you had a question for Mr. Clinton.

MR. FLYNN: Well, for Ms. Williams. It's not necessarily a question, but I think that this next motion -- there's a motion to exclude the Hans Mast deposition. Ms. Williams was involved in that, noticed the deposition, took the deposition, was involved in the communications with the court reporter.

So I thought that if she could and would be willing to explain what happened. And, you know, it's my position that there's nothing nefarious about this deposition. It was taken at the beginning of the pandemic when lawyers were still trying to figure out how to use the Zoom deposition method. All objections to that manner were waived by both parties. The deposition was, again, noticed by the plaintiff, Mr. Dulberg's agents. The court reporter was hired by the plaintiff, his agents.

THE COURT: But your question for Ms. Williams is?

MR. FLYNN: If she could explain what happened with Exhibit 12. I think I know what -- and, again, there's been a 213(f)(3) opinion that was just disclosed a day or two ago. I think it's improper because --

THE COURT: In this case?
MR. FLYNN: (Indiscernible). In this case.
THE COURT: Oh, I don't (indiscernible).
MR. FLYNN: It was a document examiner who was identified by the plaintiff.
THE COURT: But that's a different issue, so I'm going to cut you off.
MR. FLYNN: No, it's not a different issue.
THE COURT: I want to cut -- I want to cut to what my one question is.
Ms. Williams, what can you tell us about Exhibit 12?
MS. WILLIAMS: So -- so my understanding -- as I recall, yes, it was the beginning of the pandemic. We had Mr. Mast's deposition, I believe, scheduled, I want to say, for March, and we canceled it because it was March 2020, right when everything was -- was starting, and it was canceled due to COVID concerns. And -- and so we -- we opted to utilize the -- the court's -- I think it was the Illinois Supreme Court that came out with the rules as to -- and I could be incorrect, it could be each county court, but that said you could do Zoom depositions.
So we noticed it up for a remote deposition, and we utilized a court reporter. I can't remember the court reporter's name. There are several e-mails about this with Mr. -- Mr. Flynn that -- that have been produced pursuant to the subpoena that we received. And my recollection is is that we took that deposition, and there were several difficulties with Mr. Mast's internet connection, and so we had come on and off, but we did get through the deposition.

Mr. Flynn had -- I had produced to Mr. Flynn, prior to the deposition, all of the exhibits that I believed we would use. And then I also, during the deposition, uploaded them into the court reporting system so that the court reporter would have them and mark them.

As to Exhibit 12, we had uploaded it into the system. I don't know that Mr. Mast could actually see those, so he may have used the paper copies that Mr. Flynn had.

And then after the deposition, the court reporter notified me that Exhibit 12, specifically, was -- they couldn't read it, and we needed to get them a copy. I believe there's e-mails to that effect, as well. If I'm recalling correctly, a number of the pages were blank. It was a larger exhibit. I want to say it was around 27 pages, I think, or 25 pages.

So sometime after the deposition, we -- we did provide the exhibit that was utilized in the deposition to the court reporter, and at that time they marked it and sent it back to everyone.

THE COURT: Okay. What was Exhibit 12 again?

MS. WILLIAMS: It was a series of cases. I don't know that -- I just can't recall what all was asked about it, but I know there were -- it was -- it was --

THE COURT: All right. These would have --

MS. WILLIAMS: -- copies of case law.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. FLYNN: They were photocopies of the old books, Judge, cases that were contained in Mast's file.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: And he was -- you know, they have -- they're, obviously, not complete because they -- placed on a printer, appeared like we used to do in the old days.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: So the issue now, though, is that the plaintiff knew --

THE COURT: Hang on. Before -- before we get into argument, Mr. Talarico, is there anything -- any questions you have, since we have Ms. Williams here?

MR. TALARICO: Yes. Was the Tilsner case included in -- in the blank Exhibit 12 you sent to U.S. Legal, Barbara Schmidt? And was -- when you discussed with Mr. Flynn the failure of his -- or Mr. Mast's internet, didn't he say, I can't see these, I can only see their first one (indiscernible), which was the Lagano (phonetic) case? And wasn't there continued discussion by Mr. Flynn that he didn't -- he didn't produce all of the documents you sent on -- in hardcopy because he wanted to save paper?

MS. WILLIAMS: So that's -- I guess that's a lot of questions. So what --

MR. TALARICO: It is.

MS. WILLIAMS: What -- what -- I cannot recall what cases were included and weren't included at this point. There -- there was an e-mail to Mr. Flynn with the exhibit that is attached that I believe was produced in the subpoena.

So whatever that exhibit was is -- is what I would have used. So I know there was, like, a Laravo case or -- I remember the first case was like Laravo or Lavajo, L-A-V-A-J-O, or something like that.

But right now, off the top of my head, I don't remember what other cases were included.

MR. TALARICO: I'm talking about -- Judge, if I might, please? Excuse me. I'm sorry, Ms. Williams.

There was -- what the reporter had was blank. What Mr. Flynn's client said was, I see the Lagano (phonetic) one. So the Exhibit 12 that was sent, like, a week or two after the deposition had Lagano, Troy, and the same exact Lagano case, and it did not have the Tilsner case involved, and the Tilsner case was very important. So it was an exact duplication of one case and a second case.

But this is -- Judge, it's not just the Exhibit 12. The entire deposition --

THE COURT: Well, are you asking a question about Exhibit 12? Because if we're done asking questions, I'm gonna let her go.

MR. TALARICO: Okay. Yep. I'm done.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, anything?

MR. FLYNN: Yes, Judge. So, again, this -- this 213(f)(3) report that was just produced --

THE COURT: Well, do we need the Clinton -- Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams for this?

MR. FLYNN: Yes. I'm getting there.

THE COURT: Okay. Sorry.

MR. FLYNN: So if you can just indulge me for a moment.

So the expert document reviewer is of the opinion that the exhibit sticker on Exhibit 12 did not come from the same batch as the other exhibit stickers.

The defense's position is, so what? You know, these kind of things happen, I'm sure, with the court reporter, and if it was marked later because it was not sent in until later, that makes perfect sense.

But this is -- this is -- the argument that's being made is that -- and there's no other conclusion, it's just that it didn't come from the same batch. So, again, it's the so-what position on our part.

Received 11-18-2022 11:01 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-18-2022 11:39 AM / Transaction #20352559 / Case #2017LA000377

But because it's being used to exclude the deposition, it's our position that the deposition was fine -- finally concluded to the satisfaction of plaintiff's counsel, that there was never any indication that they needed a follow-up deposition or a supplemental deposition or a Session 2.

So in our view, any objection to that deposition has been waived. And, again, there was nothing nefarious. Ms. Williams was nothing but professional and courteous during her tenure in this case.

This motion -- this conspiracy that's been presented and caused the defendant to be caught in the crossfire between the plaintiff and his former attorney is through no fault of theirs, and should not continue.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Talarico, you can respond.

MR. TALARICO: Two points, Judge. First of all, what's very obvious -- the label on Exhibit 12 doesn't even have the deponent's name spelled right.

THE COURT: Okay. But what does -- what impact does that have?

MR. TALARICO: What impact is that it was not done at the same time by the same people. It was never produced in time.

Secondarily, about Mr. Flynn's allegation of some type of conspiracy, if he wants to push that, I think I have evidence that, if necessary, that -- that Mr. Flynn and Ms. Williams have consulted at times.

THE COURT: I'm sorry? Have what?

MR. TALARICO: Consulted.

THE COURT: Okay. Frankly, Counsel, if you're suggesting that either one of them has engaged in unethical behavior, I'm sure you're aware of the Himmel decision, and --

MR. TALARICO: I am.

THE COURT: -- it's not something you can threaten; you have to do.

MR. TALARICO: And I will.

THE COURT: Don't make that threat and not follow through with it if, in fact, there's anything to it. You don't -- you don't have an option. And you put a burden on me, as well, when you start going down this road.

So you've got to make a decision, and --

MR. TALARICO: (Indiscernible.)

THE COURT: -- I'm not going to hear -- I'm not going to hear suggestions of unethical behavior.

I mean, you're either going to pursue it or we're not even going to entertain that, so please continue.

MR. TALARICO: Well, Judge, I will -- I will not pursue it if Mr. Flynn (indiscernible) --

THE COURT: It's not an issue. You don't get to choose.

MR. TALARICO: I'm aware.

THE COURT: I'm not -- I'm not telling you that you have to do one thing or the other. But the Himmel decision removes discretion from the equation. You have to act, if you are aware.

So I'm not telling you that -- that you've got to file. You know what you have. But what I'm saying is, if you're going to make an argument suggesting that other attorneys engaged in unethical behavior, I'm not going to listen to it unless you're also making a -- making a complaint with the ARDC.

So I'm not interested in attorneys casting aspersions on each other and then not following through, if that makes sense. Following through with the ARDC.

That being said, what -- what is your response on the -- do we have to keep Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton here? Does anybody else need them?

MR. TALARICO: I have no need for them.

MR. FLYNN: I don't. Just in closing, with respect to Ms. Williams, again, I was just provided these documents by Ms. Williams and/or her court reporter and then passed them along. I had nothing to do with -- with anything other than I did print out certain of the exhibits for ease of use at the deposition when I went to Hans Mast's office. And because I was working from home at the time, I printed a few of them out, not all of them, due to a limited amount of printer paper. And that is my total involvement in Exhibit 12.

THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton, do you want to stay? You can, until we resolve the issue, since we're addressing you guys. What do you want to do?

MS. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, if you wish for us to stay, we're happy to stay.

option to leave, if you wanted.

All right. So, Mr. Talarico, we're moving on to your motion to -- to bar; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor. Within the motion, I asked to amend the motion after I get the responses from Clinton and Williams. They may be appropriate to put into the motion. I filed a motion. The motion can be -- actually, Mr. Flynn just responded to the motion without responding -- without responding.

I don't know how you want to look at it. If that was his response, I'll file a reply to what he said. But I still -- I have asked, from the beginning, to be allowed to amend that motion once I find out what Mr. Clinton and Ms. Flynn have -- I'm sorry, Ms. Williams. Forgive me.

THE COURT: All right. Can you -- are you asking me for leave to supplement your motion?

MR. TALARICO: Not -- Judge -- yes. If you want me to make a determination now, yes.

THE COURT: All right. And we haven't proceeded to hearing.

Mr. Flynn, have you filed a response to the motion? I'm not seeing it.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I have not. And my -- my point is that there hasn't even been a prima facie showing of any prejudice to the plaintiff with respect to his deposition. For my client to again have to file a written response to a brief of this nature --

THE COURT: You don't really have -- I don't know that -- I mean, it's up to you as to whether or not you want to file a written response. I've heard your argument. Plaintiff -- more importantly, plaintiff's counsel has heard your argument, so there's -- there's not going to be any prejudice if he simply files his reply or if I allow amendment and then we proceed to hearing. I don't think it's that complicated an issue.

MR. FLYNN: I don't either.

THE COURT: So I don't know that we need further briefing.

What do you want to do, Mr. Flynn, because the ball will be in your court once he files his amendment.

MR. FLYNN: I'd like to examine whatever the amendment is and then, if necessary, request, I guess, what will be called a surreply. However, I'm doubtful that I would need to file it.

THE COURT: Mr. Talarico, when can you file your -- your brief?

MR. TALARICO: Well, after I get and review the response from Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton, two weeks.

THE COURT: Mr. Clinton, how quickly can you get him the documents? I know you said it earlier. You're on mute.

MR. CLINTON: My apology, again. We can get them to him today.

THE COURT: Okay. So I think two weeks from today, ultimately, is plenty of time. That would give plaintiff until --

MR. TALARICO: (Indiscernible.)

THE COURT: -- November 18th to file his amended response -- or amended motion. And then why don't we -- and then I'm out.

So I'll give plaintiff until the 21st and then we'll come back on November 28th, and then, Mr. Flynn, at that point, you can tell me what you want to do.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, your Honor. And, again, I know -- I understand this is not on the table but it's a housekeeping issue with respect to this f(3) opinion. This (f)3 opinion, the document examiner was disclosed as a trial witness relative to this Exhibit 12. I don't think that's proper --

THE COURT: Yeah, I -- you know --

MR. FLYNN: And then he called it a mini trial but not trial.

THE COURT: The -- I -- I haven't seen the report, but if the expert is going to render opinions on case law, copies of case law that were allegedly tendered by former counsel to Mr. Dulberg, I don't see how that comes up in the trial of the matter.

MR. FLYNN: He's really only opining on the authenticity of the exhibit sticker and whether it came from the same batch as the other stickers in that deposition.

So it has nothing to do with the standard of care in this case or any --

THE COURT: I don't know. I'll let Mr. Talarico tell me otherwise. Not now, but I -- there's a couple of thresholds. I don't know. I haven't seen exactly what he says, and I -- I suspect we could even stipulate that the sticker is different without a whole lot of -- a whole lot of effort or prejudice to anybody. Because based on what you've told me, it likely is a different sticker because of the way the documents were transferred back and forth and the problem at the deposition.

That all being said, I'm -- I'm going to be -- frankly, Mr. Talarico, I'm going to be hard-pressed, but I need to see the report before I can say anything further, so I'll quit speculating.

Anything else that we've got to deal with today? No?

MR. TALARICO: No.

MR. FLYNN: I believe so, your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Dulberg has, I think you can see it, I tested my speakers. They work. I believe the Court has my audio muted. I do not. I have done nothing. So I don't know what the problem is. In any event, although, I might think about it -- might have thought about doing that, but in any event -- and that's because of the prior issues regarding the recording of these proceedings.

In any event, Mr. Talarico, do you have the records from the former attorneys? Do you have everything?

MR. TALARICO: I have -- I have a response from -- yes. I have response from Williams and Clinton.

THE COURT: Okay. Are you satisfied they are complete?

MR. TALARICO: I am.

MR. FLYNN: Yes, I do. And this relates to that production. Judge, after we were on the record, after the parties went back and forth on the language of your order from November 9, Ms. Williams and Mr. Clinton forwarded by email the records that were at issue that had previously been tendered to the Court and had been identified as responsive to Mr. Talarico, Mr. Dulberg's subpoena. And what I received were redacted copies, even though the understanding was that unredacted copies would be sent to me and to Mr. Talarico.

So they sent me a redacted copy. They sent an unredacted and a redacted copy to Mr. Talarico. So I emailed Ms. Williams and asked what was going on, and she said, well, we have now determined that those withheld documents are not responsive to the subpoena, even though, as I indicated in my motion, they identified them as being responsive before.

So -- so we filed a motion to enforce your order from November 9. I've got the motion. I don't know what to say other than that there was an agreement. There were plenty of representations on the record, and we should have these records.

THE COURT: Okay. Forgive me, but I'm confused. So let me explain or tell you what I'm drawing from this. After the fact, Clinton and company decided that certain of their records were nonresponsive and withheld them or redacted them or both?

MR. FLYNN: They were redacted.

THE COURT: All right. So -- but as far as the documents are concerned, you guys have everything you think you are entitled to.

MR. FLYNN: I think we had those in the first place, Judge. The whole purpose of that hearing was -- was relative to those documents. So I don't know what the whole point of the November 9 hearing was because we already had those -- your Honor had copies of those for an in camera inspection which never occurred. And then they decided, okay, well, we are not going to produce the unredacted copies to defense counsel, only to plaintiff's counsel pursuant to a subpoena.

THE COURT: If -- if -- all right. Mr. Talarico, what comment, if any, do you have?

MR. TALARICO: May I start, Judge, with happy holidays --

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. TALARICO: -- to you and Mr. Dulberg and Mr. Flynn. And I'm sorry to hear that things are going to be changing there as far as what kind of cases you'll be hearing. I think -- well, I won't tell you what I think, but -- okay.

Now, as far as -- first thing is there is a motion that's just up. I want time to respond. I mean -- but if you want me to tell you what I'm thinking, that's easy. But I would like time to respond to the motion so I have -- so I have it of record.

THE COURT: Well, here is my -- let me walk through a little of this.

The prior order says attorney-client and work-product privileges are waived. Therefore, any redactions based upon attorney-client privilege or work product are inappropriate based on my order. I think that's pretty black and white, and I covered it, I think, extensively because I was concerned about this issue. And I was concerned that Clintons would be afraid of disclosing documents for fear of a malpractice claim.

So I'm at a loss to see what -- what remains at issue because my order is straightforward and we addressed this. But Mr. Talarico, I'll let you respond.

MR. TALARICO: Your Honor, what Ms. Clinton

redacted was nonresponsive answers. There were -- there were a time frame and a subject matter and your order was -- and we waived all attorney-client privilege and work product in response to the subpoena. And Mr. -- Mr. Flynn received those.

THE COURT: But then she decided that -- all right. So you are saying that the redactions contain irrelevant information.

MR. TALARICO: Correct.

THE COURT: All right. And the -- if that's the basis of your position, I don't think it's a valid one because you don't make the determination of relevance at this stage. Relevance is determined at trial. And certainly, it may not be permitted at trial, but --

MR. TALARICO: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: It's not a -- relevance is not an objection I put a lot of weight on in the course of written discovery.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, the word relevant -- I'm not saying relevant.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: Responsive. Responsive. That's what we waived, what was responsive to the subpoena.

Received 12-07-2022 02:01 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-07-2022 02:16 PM / Transaction #20579215 / Case #2017LA000377

Anything and everything she had that was responsive, and Mr. Flynn has received that.

THE COURT: But you got them too.

MR. TALARICO: Of course.

THE COURT: So he is being denied possession of documents that you were given, and the contention is that they -- what you were given isn't responsive. I guess I'm having a hard time reconciling this argument with the discussion we had, and I've also reviewed those documents, although, I don't have them in front of me right now. And that wasn't an issue that jumped out at me as I read them.

So I really don't know where we are going because responsive is kind of an odd objection. I think that really is something that rests with the defendant in this case, not you, on behalf of Clinton.

MR. TALARICO: Well, Judge, I'm not objecting. This is what Ms. Williams decided was responsive to the subpoena, and she sent it to Mr. Flynn. Now, what we are talking about as what's responsive and not responsive is documents that are outside the date range, outside the subject range, anything and anything -- anything and everything that are not responsive, we didn't waive. We waived everything that's responsive. Anything that's from a year ago that's in those documents is not responsive, and she -- and she -- she struck that.

And I -- I (indiscernible) Mr. Flynn if he has an issue, it's with her, not with me. I'm not going to turn over documents that I wasn't ordered to turn over. But we are only talking about things that were stricken that were not responsive, dates and subject matter. If they are talking about -- or if their documents are in reference to something other than what the subpoena called for which was the deposition of Hans Mast on June, I believe 25, 2020, that's not -- that's not what we waived.

THE COURT: Okay. But then, if you have waived your attorney-client and work-product privilege, then there really doesn't seem to be a basis on which you can withhold the documents, and I --

MR. TALARICO: Judge, we didn't waive -- I'm sorry. I apologize.

THE COURT: Well, that's where I'm having a problem.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, we didn't waive all attorney-client. It was a limited waiver, if you remember. It was limited to the responses to the subpoena.

THE COURT: Those documents. No. No. I'm not buying this. Mr. Flynn, what do you got?

MR. FLYNN: Same argument, your Honor. I mean, these documents were tendered to the Court as being responsive to that subpoena. There was a subpoena response that Williams and Clinton served, and they served an amended response.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: We had a lengthy discussion on the record. I have attached the transcript and the order to my motion this morning. Now, they -- to turn around in their third -- third swoop here and saying, well, they are not responsive. Well, I don't buy it either. Of course, I can't read the documents because I -- they are redacted as far as the version I got. But they can't have it both ways.

THE COURT: All right. So Mr. Flynn, what's the relief you're asking for?

MR. FLYNN: I didn't notice Ms. Clinton and Mr. Williams -- I'm sorry, Mr. Clinton and Ms. Williams on this motion because plaintiff has copies of these records. They are pursuant to this subpoena. I'm just asking that the Court order the plaintiff to turn these over unredacted.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to grant that request. I'm going to direct plaintiff to turn them over to you in seven days, and -- because I -- we have been through this and we have been through this extensively, and I don't think nonresponsive is a valid objection at this stage, particularly in light of the fact that I have previously reviewed the documents.

And responsiveness, I don't think that that's an objection that the plaintiff is able to make when we are talking about documents that were produced by a third party. So they can't be withheld, and since plaintiff has them, defendant gets them. And the only bases under which I would allow plaintiff to withhold them is if they breached attorney-client or work-product privilege, but as we have disclosed, that's been waived.

So plaintiff has seven days to turn them over, and let's come back in ten days for status of compliance. Ten days would take us to December 15th, that's a Thursday. Does that day

MR. FLYNN: The 15th is better for me, your Honor, if that's okay.

MR. TALARICO: 16th is better for me.

THE COURT: All right. Let's check 16th. How about 9:15 on the 16th?

MR. FLYNN: I have a 9:00 o'clock. Can we make it say 9:30 or 9:45?

THE COURT: 9:30.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Sorry. I can't give you 10:00.

MR. FLYNN: And then there is the other matter, Judge, the motion to exclude the Hans Mast deposition. Plaintiff filed his --

THE COURT: All right. Let me switch gears for a moment because Ms. Vernagallo and Ms. Polo are waiting, and they have -- want something really simple.

(Whereupon the afore-captioned cause was recalled.)

THE COURT: All right. Now, we will go back to Dulberg. Mr. Flynn, what were you saying?

MR. FLYNN: Yes, your Honor. The Court granted the plaintiff leave to file a second amended motion to exclude the Hans Mast deposition. We had some extensive argument about the motion at the last hearing. At the time, I didn't expect to file a response, but after having received the second amended motion that was filed after the hearing, and despite my knee replacement, I decided -- I thought I'd get something on record. So I did file a response on November 30.

THE COURT: Okay. So Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'd like to -- I want to file a reply.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. TALARICO: I'd like 14 days.

THE COURT: Sure. I'll give you 14 days. All right. 14 days will give you until the 19th, and I think one way or another, even if I'm gone, this is more appropriately brought back in front of me. So I can do the hearing at 9:30 on December 21, that is a Wednesday. Does that work for you guys?

MR. FLYNN: That day works, Judge. May I just address the request for the reply, though?

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. FLYNN: Given that this is the second amended motion, I mean, this -- I did file a response, you know, not even pursuant to the briefing schedule. I got it on file quickly.

We have a summary judgment motion pending. The last thing that I want is for the dates to be affected by any of these motions.

THE COURT: What's the date of your summary judgment?

MR. FLYNN: It's -- the plaintiff's response is due on December 28. The motion was originally filed way back on September 15. So it's -- we have had an extensive amount of time.

THE COURT: I won't be hearing the summary judgment. So --

MR. FLYNN: Yeah. I understood there was some comments being made before I left about your Honor's handling the case or --

THE COURT: Well, after 13 years, they have decided this is the worst place for me. So I'm being moved to traffic, and then, Judge Berg is taking over January 1. So it's -- I don't know what's going to happen with the scheduling of your summary judgment because he's going to be combining his small claims call with a law division jury, and I -- I question the practicality of that but that's not my -- that's not my call.

MR. FLYNN: Well, then, I would request from the chief judge that your Honor hear this motion through since it's -- because of your familiarity with the case over these many years.

THE COURT: Yeah, but I don't make the rules. So --

MR. FLYNN: Sure. I understand.

THE COURT: Mr. Talarico, what did you want to say?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge. I was allowed to file an amended motion, and Mr. Flynn has filed two responses. The first one was before you, an oral response, if you remember --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. TALARICO: -- the transcript. And you said to him, if you decide to do a written one -- he called it a sur-response, I want to sur-reply.

Mast deposition on the 21st?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, that's -- can we do it the 9th? It's going to affect my time no matter what. Can it be done closer to Christmas, like the 23rd or -- the 23rd I can do.

THE COURT: Nope. Nope.

MR. FLYNN: The 21st works for me.

THE COURT: The 21st is my last day before vacation. And as much as I love you guys, I'm not coming back for you. It will -- yeah, we got to get it done on the 21st, and -- because, frankly, given the status of this motion, I can't imagine Judge Berg not sending it back to me to complete it.

So I think for -- it's all in our best interests to get this done in front of me before the 21st. So that's why I'm picking 9:30 on the 21st. Can we do that?

MR. FLYNN: That works for me, Judge.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'll move things around.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, final word.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, this is for the aid to -- for the Court -- this Honorable Court to understand what's going on.

failure -- or the alleged failure to produce it prior to the deposition or give an exhibit list.

So tell me, what is the reason why you want to re-depose Mr. Mast? Because I think that's ultimately your request.

MR. TALARICO: That's right. Judge, within our motion and our reply, we've indicated that it's not just Exhibit 12. Focusing on Exhibit 12 makes it too easy. any -- the plaintiff's attorney, at that time, was aware of any glitches or difficulties with respect to having the deponent view all of the exhibits; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: That's correct, your Honor.

THE COURT: And the plaintiff (sic) who was representing Mr. Dulberg at the time, for whatever reason, did not raise an objection at the time or ever with respect to the manner in which the deposition proceeded.

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. (Indiscernible) she left it to me -- or to the following counsel. She said to Mr. Dulberg, Mr. Dulberg, whatever those objections are, your next counsel has to make them.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, that -- but the handling attorney at the time who represented Mr. Dulberg's interests proceeded with the deposition and did not give notice to anyone of any complaint with respect to the manner in which it was conducted; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct.

THE COURT: Okay. What else do you want me to know?

MR. TALARICO: I want you to know, Judge, also, that not only does the objection have to take place at the time of the deposition itself. When the evidence is being brought -- when the evidence is being subject to admission, I can bring that -- I can raise that now and object to it.

THE COURT: Okay. But the -- the exhibits were always in control of the plaintiff's attorneys, and you're asking to penalize the defendant for what appears to be a -- an issue you have with the manner in which prior counsel conducted the deposition.

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. It's -- as far as the defendant, it's their electronic equipment that failed.

THE COURT: And there were no objections made at the time or subsequent, and this motion was brought approximately two and a half years after the deposition in question; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct. But it's also within the time of the ruling. I can do this now.

THE COURT: You can file any motion you like, but I'm -- I'm going to deny your request. I don't think that there's any reasonable basis under which I can compel the defendant to appear for a second deposition because of these issues. It appears that prior counsel was satisfied with the -- her ability to conduct the deposition, and she was always in control of all of the exhibits, so I don't see a problem there.

If anybody should have been raising an objection about the problems, it should have been defendant, not -- not the plaintiff two and a half years after the deposition they proceeded with. So I'm going to deny the request.

Anything else that we need to do today?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, just that there was some additional relief requested in the latest reply brief filed, and that included a request that the Court take judicial notice of -- what's really an implication. I think this is on Page 17 of the response.

I would just request that that specific request for relief also be denied in connection with the motion.

THE COURT: Okay. Let me just call it up. I'm looking at Page 18. What is it?

MR. FLYNN: I believe it was on Page 17 of the response -- I'm sorry -- the reply brief that was just filed.

THE COURT: Okay. The notice of the adjudicative facts?

MR. FLYNN: Correct. I think it says in Paragraph 12(j), plaintiff requests that this Honorable Court take judicial notice of the adjudicative fact that the references to Restatement (Second) of Torts Section 318 impliedly references Tilschner versus Spangler.

THE COURT: That -- that's not really ultimately the purpose of this motion, and it's not contained in the prayer for relief. That strikes me as a new motion. Wasn't going to consider it, and so I'm -- to the extent that I have to rule on it, on an issue I don't even think that's in front of me appropriately --

MR. FLYNN: It's just relief that was in -- in this response that I didn't have any opportunity to address.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: You are here on Dulberg against Mast?

MR. FLYNN: I am, Judge.

THE COURT: I have the other side here on that as well. Well, no. I have Mr. Dulberg here. I have Mr. Talarico as well. Mr. Talarico, are you ready for a hearing if I call it early, sir? I'm sorry, sir, you are muted. I'm not --

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning. Are you ready for hearing a couple minutes early, sir?

MR. TALARICO: Absolutely.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. This is Dulberg against Mast, et al. I have Mr. Talarico present via Zoom as is Mr. Dulberg. Counsel, would you please state your name?

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, your Honor, George Flynn on behalf of the defendants.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Flynn. We are before the Court for a hearing on pending motions. The one most notable is the summary judgment. What else are we hearing this morning, gentlemen?

MR. FLYNN: That's all we have, as far as I know, Judge.

THE COURT: Good. Because that's all I read.

MR. TALARICO: That's all I know, Judge.

THE COURT: Now I feel way better. It just said pending motions. All I could find was summary judgment. I read the motion. I read the response. I read the reply. I have read all the attachments, as they were relevant. It's your motion.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. And I wasn't sure I -- with Judge Meyer's standing orders, with respect to courtesy copies, I wasn't sure if the Court had a chance to review the briefs, but since your Honor has indicated that you have --

THE COURT: I have read everything. It's all based on a two-year statute of limitations on a lawsuit over a chain saw.

MR. FLYNN: That's exactly right. So I will be brief. The only case cited by the plaintiff in its response with respect to the accrual of the injury was a Suburban Real Estate case which is a transactional legal malpractice case, not a litigated matter. I think the -- all of the cases we have cited and including the dicta in that Suburban Real Estate case indicates that the accrual date in a litigated matter is the date of settlement, judgment or dismissal.

Here, we had a January 14 settlement that was consummated. There was a good faith finding and dismissal at that time. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Mr. Dulberg for another year or so and prosecuting the case against the other defendant in the case.

Dulberg became disillusioned with Mast, admitted that he was looking for additional counsel -- or substitute counsel even as early as July of 2014. Ultimately, Mast and Popovich withdrew in March of 2015. The case proceeded against Gagnon. There was a mediation in December of 2016 at which time he indicates now that he first became aware of his legal malpractice case.

Mr. Dulberg had every opportunity in discovery through interrogatories, production requests, I took his deposition. I asked him over and over again in several different ways how he first became aware of his injury and that it was wrongfully caused. The only response he could give was that a lawyer told him that he had a case. He couldn't provide any specifics. He has a burden of proving the -- a late discovery. He cannot meet it.

He will never be able to meet it.

THE COURT: Do we know, by the way, how did he come to me because the lawyer, if I recall, was Mr. Gooch. So he was represented by I believe Mr. Balke if I recall correctly followed by Mr. Baudin.

MR. FLYNN: That's correct.

THE COURT: Where did Mr. Gooch come into this? Who shipped him off to Mr. Gooch to even get opinion, do we know?

MR. FLYNN: One of those two lawyers, I think, recommended that he seek an opinion from a lawyer, generally speaking, that handles legal malpractice cases. Whether it was a direct referral, I don't know if the evidence shows that. I think Mr. Dulberg testified that I believe it was Mr. Baudin recommended that he see a legal malpractice attorney.

So Mr. Gooch met with him. Allegedly provided an opinion that there was a case without any reason and then almost a year later filed a lawsuit. Again, first Mr. Dulberg raised privilege when I asked him how -- how and what -- how you became aware of this legal malpractice case, the injury and the wrongful causation, he claimed privilege. Finally, that was waived or otherwise disposed of, and then, he admitted he couldn't -- I said the legal opinion Dulberg received from Gooch was verbal. Gooch simply stated you have a case here. You have a valid case. When asked did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with the representation, Dulberg said he probably did. I'm not recalling it right now. I'm pulling a blank. There are no specifics.

So again, the burden is his to prove a later discovery. He's not able to do that. I'm happy to answer any questions the Court has, but again, I'll rest on the briefs.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. Mr. Talarico, sir?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, sir. I'm -- what would you like me to address first? I guess we could start with the fact that defendant didn't follow the local rules, and therefore, plaintiff could not properly respond. And the local rule says that if they do not follow the local rules, you can strike the motion or deny it.

All I'm asking is deny the motion based on the fact that they did not follow the local rules.

THE COURT: I respectfully decline to do so, sir. A written motion could have been filed expressly asking for that relief. A response was filed that addressed it. I've read the response. I understand your concerns that by not following the local rules, they may have made it more difficult for us to suss out what are the disputed issues of material fact and what aren't. But I've been able to pretty much get a grip on everything the way it's been filed.

MR. TALARICO: All right. Thank you, Judge. The second thing is, again, we didn't follow the rules that (indiscernible) we didn't respond -- we responded generally. So I would like that the ruling you just made to extend to our response too.

THE COURT: Of course it does.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you, sir. Okay. Then, the next issue is the Suburban case. Plaintiff -- defendant, I'm sorry, defendant seems to indicate -- well, he does indicate that the reason that Suburban doesn't apply is that there is a difference between a transactional case and a litigation case. Now, I read the Suburban case many, many times over and the Supreme Court does not distinguish that their ruling is for one type of case or the other. What their ruling is is that the statute of limitation and they construed the exact specific statute does not begin until there is a pec -- pecuniary loss.

Prior to that, Mr. Dulberg would have brought an action, he would have had no damages. So that -- what that does is because the general rule and which has been voiced in -- by the Illinois Supreme Court Justice Thomas in the Porter case is that when the Supreme Court construes a statute, that becomes part of the statute until the -- the -- I can't think of the word, legislation -- legislature decides to change it. So what we have is the prior cases cited by Mr. Dulberg are not effective because he's citing it to the rule and not to the particular case we are talking about. The Suburban case says no damages, the statute does not begin to run. And that is part of the statute. It hasn't been changed.

Now, as to the last thing, we have raised many affirmative -- I mean, I'm sorry, many issues of material fact that are in dispute. But most important -- the clearest ones, Judge, are the defendant's affirmative defenses. There are four affirmative defenses which -- which plaintiff has denied all four.

Now, there is a recent case, if you'll hold on just one second, and I'll find it, but the indication -- it's not that recent, but it's -- the indication is that -- this is West Suburban Mass Transit versus Consolidated Rail Corporation. It's 1-89-2916. If this was done the Appellate Court but it was by the -- the opinion was by Justice McMorrow, who of course became Supreme Court judge, that summary judgment is not appropriate when there is affirmative defenses in dispute.

I think that pretty much sums it all, Judge. We have got many material facts in dispute, including four affirmative defenses which were denied specifically by plaintiff.

THE COURT: Respectfully, sir, merely saying something is in dispute does not make it so though, does it?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm saying that the answer filed was it was in dispute.

THE COURT: So by filing a response to their affirmative defense denying the affirmative defense,

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

you're telling me that that in and of itself is sufficient to defeat summary judgment.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, I am.

THE COURT: What if your client --

MR. TALARICO: I --

THE COURT: What if your client at subsequent depositions testifies inconsistent with the answer?

MR. TALARICO: In the case that I cited, Judge, the burden is upon the person, in effect, in this case the defendant, to eliminate that dispute. The dispute exists as he did not resolve that dispute.

THE COURT: So when did the cause of action arise?

MR. TALARICO: December 12, 2016, I believe.

THE COURT: Why on that date?

MR. TALARICO: Because there was an arbitrary -- a mandatory arbitration hearing which I included the -- the findings that showed that the judge -- the retired judge in that case evaluated it at $660,000, and Mr. Dulberg was not able to obtain anything close to that.

THE COURT: And why not?

MR. TALARICO: Well, for two reasons, one, because he settled first improperly for $5,000 with

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

the landowner, and the second case is because he was instructed improperly to -- to sign -- well, he actually claims he never signed the agreement, but that there was an agreement to do a binding arbitration limited to the policy amount of 300,000.

THE COURT: Who entered into that agreement?

MR. TALARICO: That is a question of fact. I don't know, but Dulberg says he did not sign it and never wanted to.

THE COURT: When was the agreement entered into?

MR. TALARICO: I don't have the exact date, Judge. A few months before that. I can only say that that was -- that was during the time that Mr. Dulberg was in bankruptcy, and that was also part of the Baudin's instruction.

THE COURT: So the agreement to limit recovery to 300,000 was signed well after the Popovich firm was no longer representing Mr. Dulberg on this matter?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, that's true.

THE COURT: So how is his change in strategy somehow extend -- so in other words, what you're saying -- well, I'm trying to wrap my head around this. You are saying that that agreement your client never wished to enter into, he didn't sign, Popovich didn't sign, Mr. Mast didn't sign. His actual third attorney signed it, Mr. Baudin, not even Mr. Balke. But because that was somehow signed and in effect, then the cause of action against Mast and Popovich for legal malpractice is extended out to the date of the final mediation hearing because of an agreement and limitation on damages at the mediation hearing over which they had zero control?

MR. TALARICO: What I am saying, Judge, is the analysis in the Suburban case, the damages -- prior to that, Mr. Dulberg had no actual damages, therefore, he couldn't bring an action. He had nothing to say that Mast cost him this much or this much or Popovich cost him this much because that would -- that would have been stricken for -- they had no damages, so he had no cause of action.

The damages arrive -- arose on the days that Mr. Dulberg found out through the binding arbitration that the case was worth so much more than what he's going to get, and therefore -- that -- that enumerates the damages.

THE COURT: But respectfully, Mr. Talarico, and please correct me if I'm wrong because this is where I'm getting the disconnect, the but-for portion of this analysis but for the high-low agreement limiting damages to the policy amount of $300,000, he would have had a judgment for the entire $660,000 if Tom Popovich and Hans Mast had never even existed.

MR. TALARICO: I'm not clear on what you are asking, Judge. Could you --

THE COURT: What I'm asking is isn't the failure to recover the $660,000 as opposed to 300,000 attributable to the high-low agreement that was entered into well over a year or if not two or more years after Popovich and Mast were out of the case?

MR. TALARICO: Well, Judge, I -- first of all, he didn't enter into it. He's claimed over and over that that's not his signature. It was forged. There is many issues about that in the bankruptcy.

THE COURT: But again, counsel -- but again, my point being I don't really care if he signed it or didn't sign it. My point being that it is that agreement that limited his damages, and that agreement was entered into way after Popovich and Mast withdrew from this case, right?

MR. TALARICO: That's right, but --

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

THE COURT: He so would have got -- so he would have gotten all 660,000 had that agreement not been entered into.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, but at -- before the judge ruled in that binding mediation, he had no idea how much the case was worth. They had told him it was worth $5,000 and then some. That -- that date -- that's the date when he knows when there was a factual pecuniary damage. He knows the case is worth much more than they told him and he's got numbers behind it. Before that, he had nothing to plead.

THE COURT: Respectfully, the case is worth that much against Mr. Gagnon, not necessarily against Mr. Gagnon's -- I believe it was his parents, the two people that settled out of it. The $660,000 is a finding of liability against Mr. Gagnon, isn't it?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: So how is it a finding of liability against the two people that were settled with?

MR. TALARICO: Because those people were settled with instructions by Mr. Mast that they could not win any money against them. His instructions were that they -- they would get out on summary judgment, he would get nothing, take $5,000 as a gift. He was over and over that that -- that that argument was made between Mast and between Dulberg, and some of those documents are part of what we filed.

THE COURT: All right. Anything else, Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Not at the moment, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, sir. Final word, please.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. Just briefly with respect to the pecuniary loss, the loss or the injury, which is the language used in the statute, was in January of 2014 when the case against the McGuires, Bill and Caroline McGuire. Caroline was Gagnon's mother. Bill McGuire was the stepfather. That case was foreclosed in January of 2014. No recovery could have been had other than the $5,000 at that point in time. That's when there was an injury.

The question -- the second prong of the analysis is when did he have a reasonable belief that the injury was wrongfully caused. Dulberg had every opportunity, he admitted that he had talked to hundreds of lawyers. He could have asked Balke, he could have asked Baudin. He didn't ask any of them, allegedly.

Under Illinois law, he has a duty to investigate if he thinks there is an issue. He had -- he became disillusioned with Mast in 2014. Mast withdrew in March of 2015. Again, the injury is January 2014.

THE COURT: Thank you very much.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, may I say one thing?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you. The Supreme Court case, the Suburban case makes it clear that being alerted to a problem or alerted to malpractice is not sufficient enough until -- they use the specific word alerted and say that is not sufficient. There has to be a pecuniary loss.

So whether he talked to a thousand attorneys and whether they all told him all different things, he's alerted but he had to face a loss. That's all, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you. He was clearly alerted. Let's cut to the chase. He was hesitant -- he was hesitant to ever even sign the settlement agreement to the point where it took him over two months to do it. He clearly had his doubts. He clearly had his lack of faith. He signed the settlement agreement anyway. A year later, the attorneys withdrew. He went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Met with hundreds of attorneys. He was clearly alerted.

When did the pecuniary loss occur? Here is the amazing part, and this is what -- where the disconnect comes on this case and it's why I'm having so much trouble with it, I'm being urged that the pecuniary loss occurred when the decision was given on the binding mediation. But the reason I believe that's a disconnect is because -- for two reasons. The loss that occurred on the binding mediation that is being urged upon the Court is a loss of what appears to be $360,000. The difference between the $660,000 that the mediator indicated the -- were the appropriate measure of damages against Mr. Gagnon and the $300,000 insurance policy limit, that $360,000 difference and the amount that was awarded and the amount that the mediator claimed should have been awarded is based on an agreement that somebody entered into. We don't know who that somebody was, but we know for a fact that that somebody was not Hans Mast or the Law Offices of Tom Popovich because the agreement occurred well after they were out of Dodge.

But didn't the pecuniary loss itself, in fact, occur if there was a cause of action to which you were alerted? The pecuniary loss occurred when he only got $5,000. I agree with defense counsel. Statute of limitations lapsed. Merely denying the statute of limitation without more in the depositions and the sworn testimony does not itself create an issue of material fact.

The motion for summary judgment is heard. It is most respectfully allowed. Thank you very much, gentlemen.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you.

THE COURT: Both of you, outstanding. Even though they didn't comply with local rules, I will say gentlemen, to both of you, outstanding pleadings. Very thorough, very well written. I had no issues going through them. I spent three days going through all of them repeatedly, and you both made my job -- well, I'm not going to say easy, but you certainly did your jobs. MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. And for what it's worth, I apologize for not doing numbered paragraphs on the statement of facts. I did follow that format with Judge Meyer in another summary judgment motion that was granted. This case was originally before Judge Meyer. So --

EMERGENCY MOTION

AND FOURTH MOTION TO EXTEND TIME TO FILE APPELLANT"S BRIEF

(CIVIL)

EMERGENCY MOTION TO CONDUCT AN AUDIT OF THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO DISCOVER CHANGED OR MISSING DOCUMENTS; SUPPLEMENT THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND, IF GRANTED, FOR 35 DAYS EXTENSION OF TIME AFTER THE TRIAL

COURT CLERK HAS SUPPLEMENTED AND/OR CORRECTED THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO FILE APPELLANT'S BRIEF

I. APPELLANT'S FOURTH MOTION FOR AN EXTENSION OF TIME TO FILE APPELLANT'S BRIEF

1) On November 2, 2023, Plaintiffs Attorney communicated with Appellees' Attorney indicating the nature of this Motion, to which Appellees' Attorney indicating his objection to the Motion. (Ill. S. Ct. 361(a) and Local Rule Article 1 General Rules 102(b).

2) Appellant's Attorneys e-mailed a copy of this Motion to Appellees' Attorneys before filing it.

3) The number of days previously requested is 211, the number of days previously granted is 155, and the total number of days is 155. (Local rule 104 (a)(l))

4) The total number of days requested, and the total number of days granted to other parties are (0) none. (Local Rule 104(a)(2))

5) The number of days that will have elapsed from the date of filing of the Notice of Appeal to the date that the case will be ready for disposition is three hundred twenty-nine days. (Local Rule 104(a)(3), Local Rule 106(b) and Local Rule 108(a) & (b))

6) Appellant filed his Notice of Appeal on March 3, 2023.

7) The Record on Appeal was filed on April 24, 2023 and made available for download on April 25, 2023 at 8:48 AM. (Please see Appellant Exhibit F attached)

7a. Common Law Volume 1 has a creation date of April 24, 2023 at 9:31 AM. Common Law Volume 2 has a creation date of April 24, 2023 at 9:28 AM. The Reports of proceedings has a creation date of April 25, 2023 at 806 AM. (Please see Exhibit G attached)

7b. Common Law Record Volume 1, Common Law Record Volume 2 and Reports of proceedings all have a submission date of April 24, 2023 from 10:00 Am to 10:03 AM. (Please see Appellant Exhibit H attached)

8) Appellant's Brief due date was first extended sixty days by this Honorable Court to July 31, 2023.

9) Appellant's Brief due date was thereafter extended a second time by this Honorable Court to September 29, 2023.

10) Appellant's Brief due date was extended a third time by this Honorable Court to November 3, 2023.

11) Twenty-One days is insufficient to prepare and file Appellant's Brief for the following reasons:

(a) The record on appeal consists of three volumes totaling 2,660 pages; Appellant requested the entire record be prepared, but Appellant's attorney has discovered missing Report of Proceedings, mismatched sections, documents with only one of the Defendants' names where it should be all, Memorandums of Law where the body of the motions should be, violations of the Supreme Court of Illinois Standards and Requirements for Electronic Filing the Record on Appeal (Revised- Effective March 1, 2022) regarding §1. Definitions (i) Hyperlink... and so on. (Investigation Continues.)

(b) Appellant's attorney has made extensive efforts to have Appellant's Brief ready for filing by the November 3, 2023 considering his extremely heavy court schedule, with two active Appellate cases, two active Decedent's Estates, a First Judicial Law Division with nineteen named Defendants … and being a sole proprietor without full time staff and the following facts that relate to this matter.

II. APPELLANT's BASIS FOR AN EMERGENCY MOTION

1) Appellant has recently discovered that the Trial Court Judge for this case, 2017LA000377 from inception on November 28, 2017 to December 21, 2022 was a friend of Defendant The Law Offices of Thomas J Popovich, P.C.'s owner Thomas J. Popovich and said Judge had recused himself from at least one case where Thomas J. Popovich was a named Defendant. (Please see Appellant's Exhibit A attached)

2) That the Trial Court Judge for this case, 2017LA000377 from inception on November 28, 2017 to December 21, 2022 was also the Judge at all times in 2012 LA 000178 where Appellant herein was represented by the Law Offices of Thomas A. Popovich P.C. and Thomas J. Popovich individually. (Please see Appellant's Exhibits B page 3 L22 to page 4 L5, C page 4L8-10) where the afore- mentioned Judge acknowledged this fact at least two separate times on the record.

3) That the Trial Court Judge refused a subpoenaed certified electronic thumb drive complete recording by the certified Shorthand Reporter of the deposition of Defendant Hans Mast which reflects the violations of Supreme Court rules and local rules during a hearing to strike the Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast. (Please see appellant's Exhibit D page 477 L21-24 to page 481 line 9)

4) Appellant has discovered missing Transcripts and a materially changed transcript to support Appellant's request for a professional audit trail be produced by an independent service and to supplement the questionable Record on Appeal. The Auditor's Report was finalized and submitted late in the day yesterday, November 2, 2023 (and was the reason for the delay in filing and serving of this Emergency Motion).(Please see Appellant Exhibit E which is a sample test of changed and missing transcripts by an independent service.)

Wherefore, Plaintiff-Appellant prays that this Honorable Court recognize Plaintiff-Appellant's Attorney good faith and extensive efforts to comply with the extended briefing schedules, the problems caused by the Record on Appeal based on its page size and the errors by the Clerk of the 22nd Judicial Circuit in preparation of the Record on Appeal, grant Appellant a 35-day extension of time to file Appellant's Brief, allow Appellant to amend his Docketing Statement to include related cases, order the Clerk of the 22nd Judicial District to amend the Record on Appeal to include all missing documents and hyperlinks, allow Appellant to Request the Record on Appeal for all related cases, file and for any and all additional relief this Honorable Court deems equitable and just.

THE COURT: How many F1 deps do you anticipate?

MS. WILLIAMS: Well, we'll have probably two. One from the firm and one -- defendant counsel and then defendant firm.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WILLIAMS: And then, obviously, the plaintiff. Now, whether we need more witness deps -- this is a legal malpractice case. Witness deps were taken in the underlying case. I don't know if we're going to need to take those a second time to --

THE COURT: Let's go to work on Dulberg.

MS. WALCZYK: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MS. WALCZYK: Sabina Walczyk on behalf of Dulberg.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning. George Flynn on behalf of the Popovich firm and Hans Mast.

THE COURT: It is -- it is rare when I know both the plaintiff and the defendant ahead of time. Only through the courtroom, but still unusual.

I looked at -- I'm going to tell you what I'm thinking. And then if you choose to argue, you can to -- if you wish to convince me that I'm wrong; or we can go forward. Either is fine.

I felt that the 2-615 motion was appropriate because I felt that -- and I -- for a specific reason, not -- not perhaps all the reasons that were cited by the defendant. I felt that the complaint, when it talked about how -- I'm looking for the words, misled -- when it said that the attorneys misled -- lied and misled Mr. Dulberg, I felt that there was some specificity that was going to be required. Because they -- ultimately, these things are going to factor into the statute of limitations issue. And if you're going to say that it was a breach of his duty in lying or misleading, I think we need more particularity in the allegations. You can't just make a conclusory statement to that effect.

That's my perspective. What would you like -- I'll give you an opportunity -- opportunity to replead; but if you want to argue against my thinking, I'll listen.

MS. WALCZYK: Well, Your Honor, I -- I won't argue with the Court. If Your Honor would like some more specificity as to those certain terms, we can certainly replead and plead those a little bit more specifically to --

THE COURT: And with respect to the discovery rule issue --

MS. WALCZYK: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: -- since it's going to come up one way or another, although I think it's a question of fact, I would like to see it touched upon, because I'm not following the -- the fact that he got more from the arbitrator than had been initially suggested by his attorneys, isn't really telling me anything. So I need maybe a little bit more information to understand the relationship of the two things.

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

With respect to the issue of -- on the 2-619, I felt that in light of how I was going with the 2-615, I really couldn't rule on the -- the application of the discovery rule. And, ultimately, I saw that in the long run, it was going to be a question of fact, and I would probably need -- and I could only address that with some more facts than what's just contained in the complaint.

With respect to estoppel, I didn't agree -- and you can tell me why you think I'm wrong, but I didn't agree with the argument that you were making because it -- it, carried to its logical conclusion, I could mislead and lie to my client about the -- about the implications and why he should settle, and then once he agrees to it, then I'm -- I'm released from my breach of my duty.

So I don't think that it -- that that was the type of scenario involved when the courts were discussing the estoppel issue.

Do you have anything -- do you want to contest that?

MR. FLYNN: Not at this time, Your Honor. I --

I've always learned that it's better to quit while you're ahead. And with -- without giving a roadmap to the plaintiff, I do think that having their best complaint on file benefits us all.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: So going back to the 2-615 issues, again, a legal malpractice case, they've got to plead and prove, not only the legal malpractice, but the elements of the underlying case. And it seemed to me, and as we pointed out, that -- that all of the allegations were very conclusory. That they would have gotten more, they wouldn't have done this, that the -- that Hans Mast and the Popovich firm should have undertaken additional actions in the underlying case, but they don't say what those are. And I think that they -- they're required to if they believe that there was a breach of a duty that led to damages.

The high-low agreement, which is very confusing to me and to my client, frankly, because he's never seen it, and as I understand it, that's outside of the four corners --

THE COURT: It is outside, but it did lead to an area where I was also a little bit confused. And

I -- and I think you touched on -- I'll ask you: Is the complaint having to do with the settlement with the McGuires, or does it somehow relate to the suit that continued with respect to Gagnon and the high-low agreement?

MS. WALCZYK: Well, I think it's a little bit of both, because it started with the suit against McGuires, which settled. And then it looks like there was a high-low agreement signed.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: And --

THE COURT: Was it signed by Mr. Mast?

MS. WALCZYK: Oh, I believe it was signed by Mr. Dulberg. I haven't seen it.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: However, we can attach it if -- if you want --

THE COURT: If -- if you are going to allege malpractice as a result of entering into the high-low agreement, yes, I would require you, then, to attach it and to make that a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Yes.

THE COURT: Because I -- I came away thinking

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

that was not part of your complaint, but I wasn't a 100 percent sure.

Also, let's see -- yeah, I need to know with some specificity what facts were concealed and how he was misled. I had problems with, particularly, I had -- paragraphs 20 and 21 and felt that you should have included more in that. And I won't probably say more than that.

MS. WALCZYK: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: And I -- on the estoppel argument, as I've said, I don't think that it is clear that the signing of the release was something that could be assumed to be knowing and voluntary when the plaintiff is alleging that he was misled as to the ramifications of that. Excuse me. Let's see. Okay.

Any -- so I'm granting on the 2-615. I will grant you leave to refile or replead.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And what else? Is there anything else that we need?

MR. FLYNN: Just as a housekeeping, again, depending on what theory you're going under, if it's related to the Gagnon settlement, and we may have more people coming to the party; but if not, then that's it.

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

THE COURT: Yeah. I mean, if you're going to draw that in, then I need it a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And I got -- in fact -- I'm reading from my notes. I need facts on what was false, misleading and what -- what you mean by coercion.

MR. FLYNN: So the 615 is granted with leave to replead.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: I wasn't clear, I guess, on whether there's an actual ruling on the 619 or --

THE COURT: 619, I'm denying because --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- there's a question of fact --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- at this stage.

And I think that even if they include additional facts in their complaint, I would still come back to it being a question of fact, because I -- there's going to be a lot more about their relationship than I think can be reflected in merely the complaint. I would -- so I mean, if you were to bring another 2-619, feel free.

MR. FLYNN: Sure.

THE COURT: But I would still think it's going to be a question of fact as to what is clear -- Dulberg's claims are with respect to how he was misled or facts were concealed.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Because it's going to depend on their interaction.

MR. FLYNN: And it is the -- the language of statute is "knew or reasonably should have been known." And, again, this -- he does have counsel that came in right after my clients got out. So, again, the Blue Water Partners case says you -- potentially, you can't bury your head in the sand.

THE COURT: No, you can't. But because I -- of the absence of information --

MR. FLYNN: Fair enough.

THE COURT: -- I was reluctant to go further. The statute of limitations, you might get a little bit farther, but I still might run into a fact question.

MR. FLYNN: Understood.

THE COURT: So how long do you need?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. WALCZYK: We have a trial coming up.

THE COURT: And to answer or otherwise plead?

MR. FLYNN: 28, please.

THE COURT: All right. That would -- excuse me. Why don't we come back in -- 60 days is July 9th. How about July 11th, a Wednesday? Or do you have -- it's all the same to me, so long as I am here.

MR. FLYNN: Let's see. I believe I'm going to be out of state that week.

THE COURT: Okay. When is it convenient for you to come here? She's here all the time, so I don't --

MR. FLYNN: The following week would be --

THE COURT: What day works for either of you the following week?

MS. WALCZYK: We may actually have a trial that week. That may or may not go; I'm not sure at this point. At least the first two days, if we could do towards the end of week, that would be great for us.

THE COURT: 20th?

MR. FLYNN: 20th works.

THE COURT: For the record, this is on Dulberg versus Mast.

Plaintiff's counsel, if you could identify yourself.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor. My name is Alphonse Talarico.

THE COURT: And defendant.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, your Honor. George Flynn for the defendants.

THE COURT: And for the record, I -- Mr. Dulberg is in attendance, and once again, I hope we're not being recorded. That being said, we'll move on to the motion.

Plaintiff, you have a motion.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge. I'd like to -- we filed our motion -- we filed -- counsel filed a response, we filed a reply. We'd like to rely on that, with one additional presentation or request of the Court.

THE COURT: Okay. What is that?

MR. TALARICO: I'd like to offer an informal proof -- an offer of proof, which is the exact and -- and -- what is the best way -- the audio transmission of the deposition, in full, with all the parties, which was sent to us through a subpoena.

THE COURT: Okay. You mean from Mr. Mast's -- or Mast's -- deposition?

MR. TALARICO: Correct. Everything that -- that would help the Court understand all of these problems. Because you --

THE COURT: Well, we do have -- we have the transcript.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor, but the transcript is selective.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, comment.

MR. FLYNN: I would object, Judge. The plaintiff has already filed a second amended motion and response. He's had plenty of opportunity to bring this to the Court's attention.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, final word.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, this is for the aid to -- for the Court -- this Honorable Court to understand what's going on.

As to the second amended, I replied to that, that -- the only difference between the amended and the second amended, Judge, was the stamp on Exhibit 17 didn't show up, so I re-filed it. But it was filed timely. As soon as I realized the stamp didn't show up on Exhibit 17, I re-filed it with an emphasis on the Exhibit 17. Mr. Flynn received it on time with notification that it's Exhibit 17.

THE COURT: Well, that's not the issue, but the issue is --

MR. FLYNN: It's not. And just for the record, there was a typo in my response brief. I wasn't taking issue with the timing of the filing of the second amended, other than the fact that it's two years after the deposition.

THE COURT: But that -- that's a different --

MR. FLYNN: But --

THE COURT: That's a different issue.

MR. FLYNN: Exactly.

THE COURT: The first issue is whether or not to -- the Court will accept plaintiff's request to submit the audio of the deposition at issue of Mr. Mast that, I believe, was taken June 25th, 2020.

And, Mr. Talarico, anything else to say in support of that oral motion?

MR. TALARICO: No, Judge. That -- that's -- if you'll accept it, it's in the -- I believe

MR. SCOTT DULBERG: Scott Dulberg.

MR. SCOTT DULBERG: Yes.

THE COURT: All right. And I -- But I'm going to rule on plaintiff's motion. I'm not going to accept it. I'm not going to consider it for purposes of the hearing on this motion. So you can keep it, but thank you for -- for showing up and bringing it.

MR. SCOTT DULBERG: Thank you.

THE COURT: Because -- I'm not going to accept it because I don't think it adds, materially, to my understanding of what transpired. I've got the deposition transcript. I've read the parts that I believe are relevant. I've read the motions. I've heard this argument.

I don't think that the audio tran- -- the audio recording is going to assist me in any way, based upon my understanding of what the ultimate issue is on this motion.

So that will be denied, and we'll incorporate that into the motion -- or in the order. I'm sorry.

Moving on to the motion, this is plaintiff's motion to either re-depose or strike, or both, the deposition of Mr. Mast taken June 25th, 2020; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: And, further, am I correct that the -- the reason for this is issues with respect to what's identified as Exhibit 12?

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. That's just one small part of it. The entire motion is based on Supreme Court rules and on -- or in effect at the time the deposition was taken.

THE COURT: No, no, no. Tell me the substance. Don't tell me what the rules are. Because my reading of your motion focused on Exhibit 12 and the failure -- or the alleged failure to produce it prior to the deposition or give an exhibit list.

So tell me, what is the reason why you want to re-depose Mr. Mast? Because I think that's ultimately your request.

MR. TALARICO: That's right. Judge, within our motion and our reply, we've indicated that it's not just Exhibit 12. Focusing on Exhibit 12 makes it too easy. The entire deposition -- the Internet went down almost the entire time. It's in the notes that I highlighted. It's in the transcript. They were not seeing Exhibits 1 through 15 at the same time. They weren't seeing them. They weren't being uploaded to the admin- -- the administer of -- of oath. 12 wasn't even part of it. It was added, I don't know, 14 days later.

THE COURT: But, ultimately --

MR. TALARICO: So we --

THE COURT: -- the exhibits were seen; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: No. They were not seen.

THE COURT: None of the exhibits were seen?

MR. TALARICO: They were not seen in accordance with the rules, your Honor.

THE COURT: That's -- see, you --
MR. TALARICO: The rules --
THE COURT: You throw those phrases in, in accordance with the rules.
Did the deponent see the exhibits, yes or no?
MR. TALARICO: No.
THE COURT: Mr. Flynn, comment.
MR. FLYNN: Judge, to say that the Internet was down for --
THE COURT: I don't want to go down there. Did the -- did Mr. Mast see the exhibits?
MR. FLYNN: My recollection and understanding is that Mr. Mast saw all of the exhibits. There may have been an issue with a portion of Exhibit 12; however, he was -- he was cross-examined at Page 49 through 52 regarding Exhibit 12, generally speaking, and the case law that was contained in his file.
The bottom line is, it doesn't add anything. He didn't recall the specific cases that he discussed with -- exhibit in its entirety.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: It -- But it wasn't necessarily provided to him, so --

THE COURT: For purposes of this record, Exhibit 12 is copies of case law; am I correct?

MR. FLYNN: Generally speaking, correct.

THE COURT: Mr. Talarico.

MR. TALARICO: That's correct, Judge. But, again, we're not just focusing on Exhibit 12. We're focusing on all the exhibits that were supposedly shown to Mr. -- to Mr. Mast. He didn't see them. He didn't see them.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: There was confusion as to what the numbers were.

THE COURT: Whose exhibits were they?

MR. TALARICO: They were the plaintiff's, but it was the defendant's equipment that caused the problem.

THE COURT: And the plaintiff conducted the deposition; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: That is correct.

THE COURT: And the plaintiff was aware of any -- the plaintiff's attorney, at that time, was aware of any glitches or difficulties with respect to having the deponent view all of the exhibits; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: That's correct, your Honor.

THE COURT: And the plaintiff (sic) who was representing Mr. Dulberg at the time, for whatever reason, did not raise an objection at the time or ever with respect to the manner in which the deposition proceeded.

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. (Indiscernible) she left it to me -- or to the following counsel. She said to Mr. Dulberg, Mr. Dulberg, whatever those objections are, your next counsel has to make them.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, that -- but the handling attorney at the time who represented Mr. Dulberg's interests proceeded with the deposition and did not give notice to anyone of any complaint with respect to the manner in which it was conducted; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct.

THE COURT: Okay. What else do you want me to know?

MR. TALARICO: I want you to know, Judge, also, that not only does the objection have to take place at the time of the deposition itself. When the evidence is being brought -- when the evidence is being subject to admission, I can bring that -- I can raise that now and object to it.

THE COURT: Okay. But the -- the exhibits were always in control of the plaintiff's attorneys, and you're asking to penalize the defendant for what appears to be a -- an issue you have with the manner in which prior counsel conducted the deposition.

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. It's -- as far as the defendant, it's their electronic equipment that failed.

THE COURT: And there were no objections made at the time or subsequent, and this motion was brought approximately two and a half years after the deposition in question; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct. But it's also within the time of the ruling. I can do this now.

THE COURT: You can file any motion you like, but I'm -- I'm going to deny your request. I don't think that there's any reasonable basis under which I can compel the defendant to appear for a second deposition because of these issues. It appears that prior counsel was satisfied with the -- her ability to conduct the deposition, and she was always in control of all of the exhibits, so I don't see a problem there.

If anybody should have been raising an objection about the problems, it should have been defendant, not -- not the plaintiff two and a half years after the deposition they proceeded with. So I'm going to deny the request.

Anything else that we need to do today?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, just that there was some additional relief requested in the latest reply brief filed, and that included a request that the Court take judicial notice of -- what's really an implication. I think this is on Page 17 of the response.

I would just request that that specific request for relief also be denied in connection with the motion.

THE COURT: Okay. Let me just call it up. I'm looking at Page 18. What is it?

MR. FLYNN: I believe it was on Page 17 of the response -- I'm sorry -- the reply brief that was just filed.

THE COURT: Okay. The notice of the adjudicative facts?

MR. FLYNN: Correct. I think it says in Paragraph 12(j), plaintiff requests that this Honorable Court take judicial notice of the adjudicative fact that the references to Restatement (Second) of Torts Section 318 impliedly references Tilschner versus Spangler.

THE COURT: That -- that's not really ultimately the purpose of this motion, and it's not contained in the prayer for relief. That strikes me as a new motion. Wasn't going to consider it, and so I'm -- to the extent that I have to rule on it, on an issue I don't even think that's in front of me appropriately --

MR. FLYNN: It's just relief that was in -- in this response that I didn't have any opportunity to address.

THE COURT: I will -- I will deny all aspects of plaintiff's motion.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: I think that covers it.

MR. FLYNN: I will. And, Judge, we spoke last time about your continued handling of the case. Do you have any information to share in that regard?

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. And I wasn't sure I -- with Judge Meyer's standing orders, with respect to courtesy copies, I wasn't sure if the Court had a chance to review the briefs, but since your Honor has indicated that you have --

THE COURT: I have read everything. It's all based on a two-year statute of limitations on a lawsuit over a chain saw.

MR. FLYNN: That's exactly right. So I will be brief. The only case cited by the plaintiff in its response with respect to the accrual of the injury was a Suburban Real Estate case which is a transactional legal malpractice case, not a litigated matter. I think the -- all of the cases we have cited and including the dicta in that Suburban Real Estate case indicates that the accrual date in a litigated matter is the date of settlement, judgment or dismissal.

Here, we had a January 14 settlement that was consummated. There was a good faith finding and dismissal at that time. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Mr. Dulberg for another year or so and prosecuting the case against the other defendant in the case.

Dulberg became disillusioned with Mast, admitted that he was looking for additional counsel -- or substitute counsel even as early as July of 2014. Ultimately, Mast and Popovich withdrew in March of 2015. The case proceeded against Gagnon. There was a mediation in December of 2016 at which time he indicates now that he first became aware of his legal malpractice case.

Mr. Dulberg had every opportunity in discovery through interrogatories, production requests, I took his deposition. I asked him over and over again in several different ways how he first became aware of his injury and that it was wrongfully caused. The only response he could give was that a lawyer told him that he had a case. He couldn't provide any specifics. He has a burden of proving the -- a late discovery. He cannot meet it.

He will never be able to meet it.

THE COURT: Do we know, by the way, how did he come to me because the lawyer, if I recall, was Mr. Gooch. So he was represented by I believe Mr. Balke if I recall correctly followed by Mr. Baudin.

MR. FLYNN: That's correct.

THE COURT: Where did Mr. Gooch come into this? Who shipped him off to Mr. Gooch to even get opinion, do we know?

MR. FLYNN: One of those two lawyers, I think, recommended that he seek an opinion from a lawyer, generally speaking, that handles legal malpractice cases. Whether it was a direct referral, I don't know if the evidence shows that. I think Mr. Dulberg testified that I believe it was Mr. Baudin recommended that he see a legal malpractice attorney.

So Mr. Gooch met with him. Allegedly provided an opinion that there was a case without any reason and then almost a year later filed a lawsuit. Again, first Mr. Dulberg raised privilege when I asked him how -- how and what -- how you became aware of this legal malpractice case, the injury and the wrongful causation, he claimed privilege. Finally, that was waived or otherwise disposed of, and then, he admitted he couldn't -- I said the legal opinion Dulberg received from Gooch was verbal. Gooch simply stated you have a case here. You have a valid case. When asked did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with the representation, Dulberg said he probably did. I'm not recalling it right now. I'm pulling a blank. There are no specifics.

So again, the burden is his to prove a later discovery. He's not able to do that. I'm happy to answer any questions the Court has, but again, I'll rest on the briefs.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. Mr. Talarico, sir?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, sir. I'm -- what would you like me to address first? I guess we could start with the fact that defendant didn't follow the local rules, and therefore, plaintiff could not properly respond. And the local rule says that if they do not follow the local rules, you can strike the motion or deny it.

All I'm asking is deny the motion based on the fact that they did not follow the local rules.

THE COURT: I respectfully decline to do so, sir. A written motion could have been filed expressly asking for that relief. A response was filed that addressed it. I've read the response. I understand your concerns that by not following the local rules, they may have made it more difficult for us to suss out what are the disputed issues of material fact and what aren't. But I've been able to pretty much get a grip on everything the way it's been filed.

MR. TALARICO: All right. Thank you, Judge. The second thing is, again, we didn't follow the rules that (indiscernible) we didn't respond -- we responded generally. So I would like that the ruling you just made to extend to our response too.

THE COURT: Of course it does.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you, sir. Okay. Then, the next issue is the Suburban case. Plaintiff -- defendant, I'm sorry, defendant seems to indicate -- well, he does indicate that the reason that Suburban doesn't apply is that there is a difference between a transactional case and a litigation case. Now, I read the Suburban case many, many times over and the Supreme Court does not distinguish that their ruling is for one type of case or the other. What their ruling is is that the statute of limitation and they construed the exact specific statute does not begin until there is a pec -- pecuniary loss.

Prior to that, Mr. Dulberg would have brought an action, he would have had no damages. So that -- what that does is because the general rule and which has been voiced in -- by the Illinois Supreme Court Justice Thomas in the Porter case is that when the Supreme Court construes a statute, that becomes part of the statute until the -- the -- I can't think of the word, legislation -- legislature decides to change it. So what we have is the prior cases cited by Mr. Dulberg are not effective because he's citing it to the rule and not to the particular case we are talking about. The Suburban case says no damages, the statute does not begin to run. And that is part of the statute. It hasn't been changed.

Now, as to the last thing, we have raised many affirmative -- I mean, I'm sorry, many issues of material fact that are in dispute. But most important -- the clearest ones, Judge, are the defendant's affirmative defenses. There are four affirmative defenses which -- which plaintiff has denied all four.

Now, there is a recent case, if you'll hold on just one second, and I'll find it, but the indication -- it's not that recent, but it's -- the indication is that -- this is West Suburban Mass Transit versus Consolidated Rail Corporation. It's 1-89-2916. If this was done the Appellate Court but it was by the -- the opinion was by Justice McMorrow, who of course became Supreme Court judge, that summary judgment is not appropriate when there is affirmative defenses in dispute.

I think that pretty much sums it all, Judge. We have got many material facts in dispute, including four affirmative defenses which were denied specifically by plaintiff.

THE COURT: Respectfully, sir, merely saying something is in dispute does not make it so though, does it?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm saying that the answer filed was it was in dispute.

THE COURT: So by filing a response to their affirmative defense denying the affirmative defense, you're telling me that that in and of itself is sufficient to defeat summary judgment.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, I am.

THE COURT: What if your client --

MR. TALARICO: I --

THE COURT: What if your client at subsequent depositions testifies inconsistent with the answer?

MR. TALARICO: In the case that I cited, Judge, the burden is upon the person, in effect, in this case the defendant, to eliminate that dispute. The dispute exists as he did not resolve that dispute.

THE COURT: So when did the cause of action arise?

MR. TALARICO: December 12, 2016, I believe.

THE COURT: Why on that date?

MR. TALARICO: Because there was an arbitrary -- a mandatory arbitration hearing which I included the -- the findings that showed that the judge -- the retired judge in that case evaluated it at $660,000, and Mr. Dulberg was not able to obtain anything close to that.

THE COURT: And why not?

MR. TALARICO: Well, for two reasons, one, because he settled first improperly for $5,000 with

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

the landowner, and the second case is because he was instructed improperly to -- to sign -- well, he actually claims he never signed the agreement, but that there was an agreement to do a binding arbitration limited to the policy amount of 300,000.

THE COURT: Who entered into that agreement?

MR. TALARICO: That is a question of fact. I don't know, but Dulberg says he did not sign it and never wanted to.

THE COURT: When was the agreement entered into?

MR. TALARICO: I don't have the exact date, Judge. A few months before that. I can only say that that was -- that was during the time that Mr. Dulberg was in bankruptcy, and that was also part of the Baudin's instruction.

THE COURT: So the agreement to limit recovery to 300,000 was signed well after the Popovich firm was no longer representing Mr. Dulberg on this matter?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, that's true.

THE COURT: So how is his change in strategy somehow extend -- so in other words, what you're saying -- well, I'm trying to wrap my head around this. You are saying that that agreement your client never wished to enter into, he didn't sign, Popovich didn't sign, Mr. Mast didn't sign. His actual third attorney signed it, Mr. Baudin, not even Mr. Balke. But because that was somehow signed and in effect, then the cause of action against Mast and Popovich for legal malpractice is extended out to the date of the final mediation hearing because of an agreement and limitation on damages at the mediation hearing over which they had zero control?

MR. TALARICO: What I am saying, Judge, is the analysis in the Suburban case, the damages -- prior to that, Mr. Dulberg had no actual damages, therefore, he couldn't bring an action. He had nothing to say that Mast cost him this much or this much or Popovich cost him this much because that would -- that would have been stricken for -- they had no damages, so he had no cause of action.

The damages arrive -- arose on the days that Mr. Dulberg found out through the binding arbitration that the case was worth so much more than what he's going to get, and therefore -- that -- that enumerates the damages.

THE COURT: But respectfully, Mr. Talarico, and please correct me if I'm wrong because this is where

I'm getting the disconnect, the but-for portion of this analysis but for the high-low agreement limiting damages to the policy amount of $300,000, he would have had a judgment for the entire $660,000 if Tom Popovich and Hans Mast had never even existed.

MR. TALARICO: I'm not clear on what you are asking, Judge. Could you --

THE COURT: What I'm asking is isn't the failure to recover the $660,000 as opposed to 300,000 attributable to the high-low agreement that was entered into well over a year or if not two or more years after Popovich and Mast were out of the case?

MR. TALARICO: Well, Judge, I -- first of all, he didn't enter into it. He's claimed over and over that that's not his signature. It was forged. There is many issues about that in the bankruptcy.

THE COURT: But again, counsel -- but again, my point being I don't really care if he signed it or didn't sign it. My point being that it is that agreement that limited his damages, and that agreement was entered into way after Popovich and Mast withdrew from this case, right?

MR. TALARICO: That's right, but --

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

THE COURT: He so would have got -- so he would have gotten all 660,000 had that agreement not been entered into.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, but at -- before the judge ruled in that binding mediation, he had no idea how much the case was worth. They had told him it was worth $5,000 and then some. That -- that date -- that's the date when he knows when there was a factual pecuniary damage. He knows the case is worth much more than they told him and he's got numbers behind it. Before that, he had nothing to plead.

THE COURT: Respectfully, the case is worth that much against Mr. Gagnon, not necessarily against Mr. Gagnon's -- I believe it was his parents, the two people that settled out of it. The $660,000 is a finding of liability against Mr. Gagnon, isn't it?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: So how is it a finding of liability against the two people that were settled with?

MR. TALARICO: Because those people were settled with instructions by Mr. Mast that they could not win any money against them. His instructions were that they -- they would get out on summary judgment, he would get nothing, take $5,000 as a gift. He was over and over that that -- that that argument was made between Mast and between Dulberg, and some of those documents are part of what we filed.

THE COURT: All right. Anything else, Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Not at the moment, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, sir. Final word, please.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. Just briefly with respect to the pecuniary loss, the loss or the injury, which is the language used in the statute, was in January of 2014 when the case against the McGuires, Bill and Caroline McGuire. Caroline was Gagnon's mother. Bill McGuire was the stepfather. That case was foreclosed in January of 2014. No recovery could have been had other than the $5,000 at that point in time. That's when there was an injury.

The question -- the second prong of the analysis is when did he have a reasonable belief that the injury was wrongfully caused. Dulberg had every opportunity, he admitted that he had talked to hundreds of lawyers. He could have asked Balke, he could have asked Baudin. He didn't ask any of them, allegedly.

Under Illinois law, he has a duty to investigate if he thinks there is an issue. He had -- he became disillusioned with Mast in 2014. Mast withdrew in March of 2015. Again, the injury is January 2014.

THE COURT: Thank you very much.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, may I say one thing?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you. The Supreme Court case, the Suburban case makes it clear that being alerted to a problem or alerted to malpractice is not sufficient enough until -- they use the specific word alerted and say that is not sufficient. There has to be a pecuniary loss.

So whether he talked to a thousand attorneys and whether they all told him all different things, he's alerted but he had to face a loss. That's all, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you. He was clearly alerted. Let's cut to the chase. He was hesitant -- he was hesitant to ever even sign the settlement agreement to the point where it took him over two months to do it. He clearly had his doubts. He clearly had his lack of faith. He signed the settlement agreement anyway. A year later, the attorneys withdrew. He went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Met with hundreds of attorneys. He was clearly alerted.

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

When did the pecuniary loss occur? Here is the amazing part, and this is what -- where the disconnect comes on this case and it's why I'm having so much trouble with it, I'm being urged that the pecuniary loss occurred when the decision was given on the binding mediation. But the reason I believe that's a disconnect is because -- for two reasons. The loss that occurred on the binding mediation that is being urged upon the Court is a loss of what appears to be $360,000. The difference between the $660,000 that the mediator indicated the -- were the appropriate measure of damages against Mr. Gagnon and the $300,000 insurance policy limit, that $360,000 difference and the amount that was awarded and the amount that the mediator claimed should have been awarded is based on an agreement that somebody entered into. We don't know who that somebody was, but we know for a fact that that somebody was not Hans Mast or the Law Offices of Tom Popovich because the agreement occurred well after they were out of Dodge.

But didn't the pecuniary loss itself, in fact, occur if there was a cause of action to which you were alerted? The pecuniary loss occurred when he only got $5,000. I agree with defense counsel. Statute of limitations lapsed. Merely denying the statute of limitation without more in the depositions and the sworn testimony does not itself create an issue of material fact.

The motion for summary judgment is heard. It is most respectfully allowed. Thank you very much, gentlemen.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you.

THE COURT: Both of you, outstanding. Even though they didn't comply with local rules, I will say gentlemen, to both of you, outstanding pleadings. Very thorough, very well written. I had no issues going through them. I spent three days going through all of them repeatedly, and you both made my job -- well, I'm not going to say easy, but you certainly did your jobs. appreciate your time. Thank you, gentlemen.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. And for what it's worth, I apologize for not doing numbered paragraphs on the statement of facts. I did follow that format with Judge Meyer in another summary judgment motion that was granted. This case was originally before Judge Meyer. So --

AFFIDAVIT

Saira Pasha, being first duly sworn on oath, deposes and states as follows:

1. I am a licensed attorney in Illinois. I graduated from Chicago-Kent College of Law in 2012 and was admitted to the bar the same year. I have a Bachelor of Science degree in Operations and Information Management with an emphasis in information systems from Northern Illinois University. Since August 2020, I have worked as an independent consultant and testifying expert specializing in audit trail analysis, specifically in medical malpractice cases. I consult for and testify on behalf of both plaintiffs and defendants. A large portion of my work focuses on data integrity and completeness of production, such as obtaining prior versions of modified records and identifying, requesting, and obtaining data and records that were created but have not yet been produced. I have reviewed over 300 audit trails from more than 20 electronic medical record systems. The underlying concepts of audit trails for systems and the storage and retrieval of data from a database are essentially universal and apply to many kinds of systems, including court filing systems.

2. An audit trail is a timestamped report of actions performed by all users in a system, such as view, edit, add, delete, print, etc. In addition to audit trails, there are other reports and analytical tools that can be performed on record systems to conduct a comprehensive forensic analysis of electronically stored information.

3. I have been retained as a consultant by The Law Office of Alphonse A. Talarico for the purpose of evaluating file content discrepancies and missing file contents for a case under appellate review.

4. I reviewed the following materials for my analysis:

    - Transcript of court proceeding from 9/16/2022 titled “Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Transcript of court proceeding from 9/16/2022 titled “Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Emails to and from court reporters related to the transcripts listed above
    - Report titled “[Compare Report] Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Table of Contents of the Report of Proceedings filed on 4/24/2023 for the appellate case (2-23-0072) listing all Report of Proceedings in the file in chronological order
    - McHenry County Circuit Court’s Public Case Access website information for the underlying case (2017LA000377)

5. Based on my analysis of these materials, I conclude to a reasonable degree of professional certainty and recommend as follows:

- There are multiple substantive differences, including modifications and deletions, between two transcripts for the same court proceeding that took place on 9/16/2022. One of the edits is about a material issue: whether expert discovery was closed. To verify the accuracy of what was said at this proceeding, I recommend a forensic investigation, including but not limited to obtaining a copy of the original recording and obtaining an audit trail for the recording system itself. Based on what the audit trail from the audio recording system shows, a live forensic inspection of the system may be warranted.

- The Table of Contents for the Report of Proceedings for the appellate review that was filed on 4/24/2023 does not list all court proceeding recordings that were created in the underlying matter. It is also inconsistent with representations made on the McHenry County Circuit Court Public Case Access website. I recommend an audit trail of the appellate court's filing system(s) be produced to objectively determine which documents were uploaded to its system(s), when they were uploaded, the user(s) who uploaded the documents, and if applicable, which documents were removed from the appellate review file. Based on what the audit trails from the systems show, a live forensic inspection of the systems may be warranted.

- Because there are allegations of removing the existence of recordings from specific court proceedings from the public access website for the McHenry County Circuit, I recommend an audit and forensic investigation to obtain objective facts and the timeline of when data was added and then removed from the underlying case's record. I recommend obtaining the audit trails for McHenry County Circuit Court's filing system(s) and performing a live forensic inspection of the system if warranted by the audit trail data.

Discrepancies between two transcripts for the 9/16/2022 court proceeding

6. A court proceeding was held on 9/16/2022 in Judge Meyer's courtroom in the McHenry County Circuit Court courthouse for the underlying case (2017 L 000377).

7. The McHenry County Circuit Court courthouse uses technology that creates audio recordings of court proceedings which court reporters can access to create transcripts of those proceedings.

8. There are two distinct transcripts for this proceeding. The first transcript was emailed from a court reporter to Plaintiff on 9/26/2022 and is titled "Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg." The second transcript was emailed from a different court reporter to Plaintiff on 9/27/2022 and is titled "Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg." (The names of the files were presumably created to distinguish the transcripts).

9. There are multiple substantive differences between the two transcripts. Below is one example of a significant substantive difference in a statement made by defense counsel George Flynn about a material issue: expert discovery. The first transcript includes the phrase "You gave a ruling that expert discovery is completed" (page 5, lines 12-13)

So those (indiscernible) all relied on facts regarding the accident itself that would have taken, you know, additional five to ten pages of facts that are -- So we'd like to do that separately. In fact, we might wait until -- You gave a ruling that expert discovery is completed, but I'm going to (indiscernible) but I think (indiscernible).

10. The second transcript includes phrase "if and when expert discovery is completed" for the same page and line numbers:

So those (indiscernible) all relied on facts regarding the accident itself that would have taken, you know, additional five to ten pages of facts that are -- So we'd like to do that separately. In fact, we might wait until if and when expert discovery is completed, but -- I'm going to have some more thoughts, but I think we have plenty to chew on now.

11. These two statements are not only substantively different, they also do not sound alike when spoken aloud.

12. Another substantive difference between the two transcripts is the inclusion of the word "dilatory" in two sentences.

13. In the "Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg" transcript (page 11, line 2) the court reporter uses "(indiscernible)", implying that the word stated by Mr. Flynn could not be understood. In the next line, there are hyphens at the end of "do" in Mr. Talarico's response, implying Mr. Talarico never said any word after "do."

just don't see what the issue is.  It seems as if it's a (indiscernible) tactic to avoid --
    MR. TALARICO:  I don't do --
    THE COURT:  Hold on.  I can't rule on the motion until I see it.  I can't rule -- I can't determine

14. In "Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg," page 11, line 2, the transcription of defense counsel's statement by replacing the "(indiscernible)" with "dilatory " On the next line, plaintiff's Mr. Talarico's response is transcribed as "I don't to dilatory.." implying that the word was spoken, while the original transcript indicates no word was spoken nor was there an indiscernible sound.

I just don't see what the issue is.  It seems as if it's a another dilatory tactic to avoid --
    MR. TALARICO:  I don't do dilatory --
    THE COURT:  Hold on.  I can't rule on the motion until I see it.  I can't rule -- I can't determine

15. These are two examples of significant and substance differences between the two transcripts that warrant further investigation to confirm accuracy.

16. To verify the accuracy of both transcripts and determine what was actually said by the parties on 9/16/2022, I recommend obtaining the original recording of the proceeding from the McHenry County Circuit Court's audio recording system. I also recommend simultaneously obtaining an audit trail for the specific audio recording file at issue, from 9/16/2022 through present, to identify all parties who accessed the recording, when they accessed it, if any edits were made to the recording, and other objective data pertaining to the veracity of the recording.

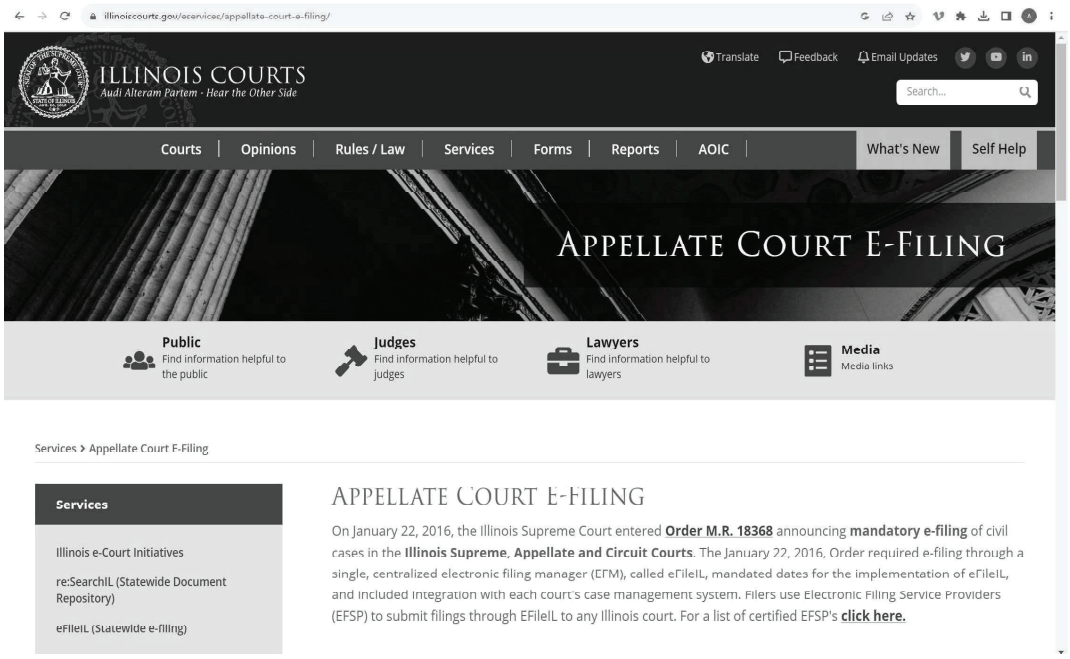
20. As seen in the screen shot above, there was a court event on 1/10/2018 during which a motion to extend time was granted and a court event on 2/27/2019 during which a motion to dismiss was set for hearing. The third court event listed took place on 5/10/2018.

21. The recordings from the first two court events in the underlying case were not included in the file contents for appellate review. I did perform a line-item check for evert court event; it is possible recordings for other events are also missing.

22. The 1/10/2018 court event was listed as "Motion – Extend Time." I reviewed the Table of Contents to determine if any recording for a "Motion- Extend Time" court event existed and found one for 3/15/2021. Therefore, there is no reason to conclude that the 1/10/2018 recording was not included in the file materials because that type of court event is not recorded.

02/10/2021	HEARING - MOTION COMPEL	R 101-R 124 (Volume 1)
03/15/2021	MOTION - EXTEND TIME	R 125-R 153 (Volume 1)
03/25/2021	HEARING - MOTION COMPEL	R 154-R 159 (Volume 1)

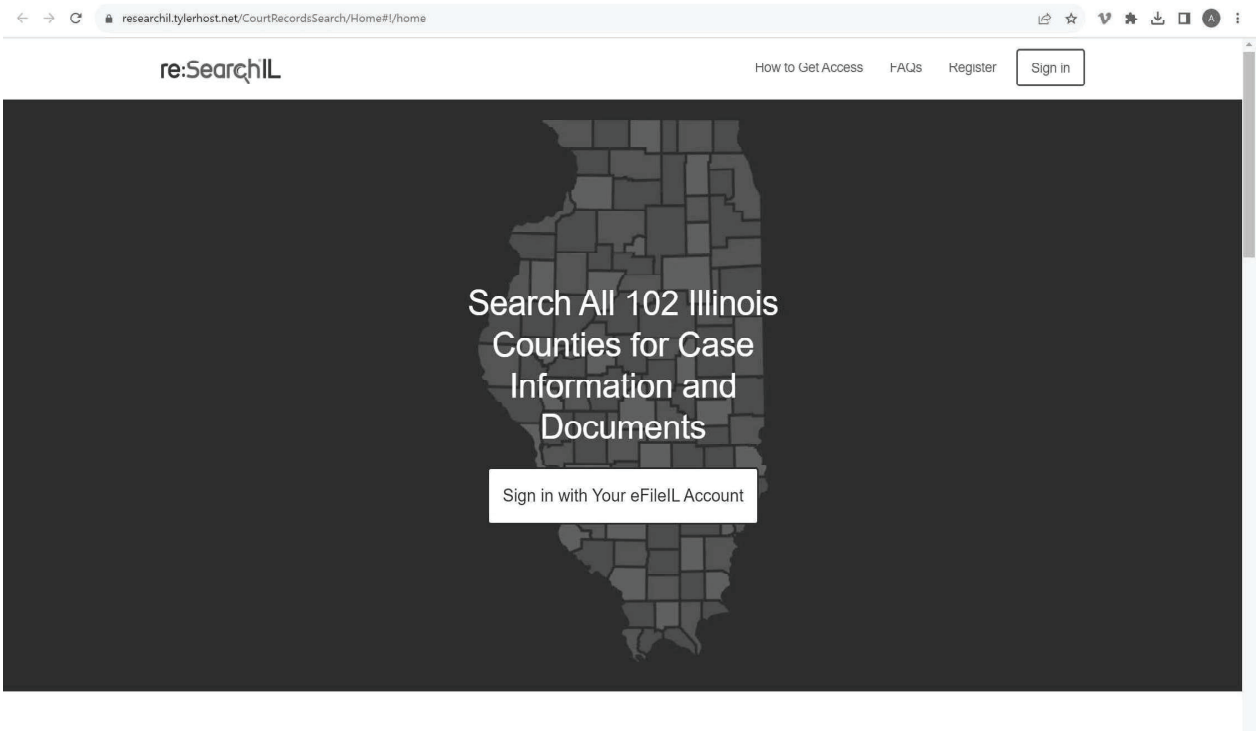
23. Plaintiff/Appellant alleges that the public record access system for McHenry County originally listed recordings for these two 2018 proceedings under the documents tab but were removed at a later date. Below is a screen shot of the top portion of the "Documents" tab for the underlying case. As the image below indicates, "Report – Proceedings" is a type of document included in the list.



24. To objectively determine if the "Documents" tab of the McHenry County Circuit Court public portal ever included a listing of "Report – Proceedings" for the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events, I recommend a forensic audit of the system(s) in which these data elements are stored and used to display information on the public access portal website.

25. To objectively determine if the recordings from the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events were 1)ever part of the McHenry County Circuit Court file for the underlying, 2) were transmitted/uploaded to the appellate court filing system, and 3) were ever received or were part of the appellate court's filing system or file, audit trails from each of the respective systems must be generated and produced. Based on the data included in those reports, a live forensic inspection of the systems may be warranted. If audit trails from those systems are not produced, I recommend performing a live forensic inspection of the systems at issue.

26. To objectively determine if recordings were created for the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events, an audit trail from the McHenry County Circuit Court audio recording system must be generated and produced. Based on the data contained in those reports, a live forensic audit of the audio recording system may be necessary.



27. The website for Illinois's court systems makes reference to two distinct systems: one document repository system and efiling systems.

28. The website displays several options for efiling:

29. The document repository system link takes you to a separate system called re:SearchIL, managed by Tyler Technologies.

30. Based on my preliminary review of these websites and technologies, the systems used by both the appellate court and the circuit court in this case are capable of producing audit trails for regulatory and compliance reporting. These reports can also be used to verify the integrity of the records and data in this matter.

Under penalty of perjury, I certify the above statements are true and correct.

EMERGENCY MOTION

AND FOURTH MOTION TO EXTEND TIME TO FILE APPELLANT"S BRIEF

(CIVIL)

EMERGENCY MOTION TO CONDUCT AN AUDIT OF THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO DISCOVER CHANGED OR MISSING DOCUMENTS; SUPPLEMENT THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND, IF GRANTED, FOR 35 DAYS EXTENSION OF TIME AFTER THE TRIAL

COURT CLERK HAS SUPPLEMENTED AND/OR CORRECTED THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO FILE APPELLANT'S BRIEF

I. APPELLANT'S FOURTH MOTION FOR AN EXTENSION OF TIME TO FILE APPELLANT'S BRIEF

1) On November 2, 2023, Plaintiffs Attorney communicated with Appellees' Attorney indicating the nature of this Motion, to which Appellees' Attorney indicating his objection to the Motion. (Ill. S. Ct. 361(a) and Local Rule Article 1 General Rules 102(b).

2) Appellant's Attorneys e-mailed a copy of this Motion to Appellees' Attorneys before filing it.

3) The number of days previously requested is 211, the number of days previously granted is 155, and the total number of days is 155. (Local rule 104 (a)(l))

4) The total number of days requested, and the total number of days granted to other parties are (0) none. (Local Rule 104(a)(2))

5) The number of days that will have elapsed from the date of filing of the Notice of Appeal to the date that the case will be ready for disposition is three hundred twenty-nine days. (Local Rule 104(a)(3), Local Rule 106(b) and Local Rule 108(a) & (b))

6) Appellant filed his Notice of Appeal on March 3, 2023.

7) The Record on Appeal was filed on April 24, 2023 and made available for download on April 25, 2023 at 8:48 AM. (Please

see Appellant Exhibit F attached)

7a. Common Law Volume 1 has a creation date of April 24, 2023 at 9:31 AM. Common Law Volume 2 has a creation date of April 24, 2023 at 9:28 AM. The Reports of proceedings has a creation date of April 25, 2023 at 806 AM. (Please see Exhibit G attached)

7b. Common Law Record Volume 1, Common Law Record Volume 2 and Reports of proceedings all have a submission date of April 24, 2023 from 10:00 Am to 10:03 AM. (Please see Appellant Exhibit H attached)

8) Appellant's Brief due date was first extended sixty days by this Honorable Court to July 31, 2023.

9) Appellant's Brief due date was thereafter extended a second time by this Honorable Court to September 29, 2023.

10) Appellant's Brief due date was extended a third time by this Honorable Court to November 3, 2023.

11) Twenty-One days is insufficient to prepare and file Appellant's Brief for the following reasons:

(a) The record on appeal consists of three volumes totaling 2,660 pages; Appellant requested the entire record be prepared, but Appellant's attorney has discovered missing Report of Proceedings, mismatched sections, documents with only one of the Defendants' names where it should be all, Memorandums of Law where the body of the motions should be, violations of the Supreme Court of Illinois Standards and Requirements for Electronic Filing the Record on Appeal (Revised- Effective March 1, 2022) regarding §1. Definitions (i) Hyperlink... and so on. (Investigation Continues.)

(b) Appellant's attorney has made extensive efforts to have Appellant's Brief ready for filing by the November 3, 2023 considering his extremely heavy court schedule, with two active Appellate cases, two active Decedent's Estates, a First Judicial Law Division with nineteen named Defendants … and being a sole proprietor without full time staff and the following facts that relate to this matter.

II. APPELLANT's BASIS FOR AN EMERGENCY MOTION

1) Appellant has recently discovered that the Trial Court Judge for this case, 2017LA000377 from inception on November 28, 2017 to December 21, 2022 was a friend of Defendant The Law Offices of Thomas J Popovich, P.C.'s owner Thomas J. Popovich and said Judge had recused himself from at least one case where Thomas J. Popovich was a named Defendant. (Please see Appellant's Exhibit A attached)

2) That the Trial Court Judge for this case, 2017LA000377 from inception on November 28, 2017 to December 21, 2022 was also the Judge at all times in 2012 LA 000178 where Appellant herein was represented by the Law Offices of Thomas A. Popovich P.C. and Thomas J. Popovich individually. (Please see Appellant's Exhibits B page 3 L22 to page 4 L5, C page 4L8-10) where the afore- mentioned Judge acknowledged this fact at least two separate times on the record.

3) That the Trial Court Judge refused a subpoenaed certified electronic thumb drive complete recording by the certified Shorthand Reporter of the deposition of Defendant Hans Mast which reflects the violations of Supreme Court rules and local rules during a hearing to strike the Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast. (Please see appellant's Exhibit D page 477 L21-24 to page 481 line 9)

4) Appellant has discovered missing Transcripts and a materially changed transcript to support Appellant's request for a professional audit trail be produced by an independent service and to supplement the questionable Record on Appeal. The Auditor's Report was finalized and submitted late in the day yesterday, November 2, 2023 (and was the reason for the delay in filing and serving of this Emergency Motion).(Please see Appellant Exhibit E which is a sample test of changed and missing transcripts by an independent service.)

Wherefore, Plaintiff-Appellant prays that this Honorable Court recognize Plaintiff-Appellant's Attorney good faith and extensive efforts to comply with the extended briefing schedules, the problems caused by the Record on Appeal based on its page size and the errors by the Clerk of the 22nd Judicial Circuit in preparation of the Record on Appeal, grant Appellant a 35-day extension of time to file Appellant's Brief, allow Appellant to amend his Docketing Statement to include related cases, order the Clerk of the 22nd Judicial District to amend the Record on Appeal to include all missing documents and hyperlinks, allow Appellant to Request the Record on Appeal for all related cases, file and for any and all additional relief this Honorable Court deems equitable and just.

MR. FLYNN: George Flynn for defendants.

MS. WILLIAMS: We're just going to set it out again for status on discovery. We are pretty well finished with written discovery, at least between the parties.

THE COURT: Really old for F1 written --

MS. WILLIAMS: Right. Here's our -- we're actually -- we should be done today. We had some 201(k) issues.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WILLIAMS: We are going to the law firm to look through their -- through their documents today. I believe everything has been produced, but we just

So I think we're actually going to be fully completed with that today and looking to do -- getting ready to do deps, I think, is our next step --

THE COURT: How many are --

MS. WILLIAMS: -- for depositions.

THE COURT: How many F1 deps do you anticipate?

MS. WILLIAMS: Well, we'll have probably two. One from the firm and one -- defendant counsel and then defendant firm.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WILLIAMS: And then, obviously, the plaintiff. Now, whether we need more witness deps -- this is a legal malpractice case. Witness deps were taken in the underlying case. I don't know if we're going to need to take those a second time to --

MS. WILLIAMS: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: I think I did see Your Honor's name in connection with maybe one order in the case; but I don't see it as an issue.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll periodically throw it out there. But in any event, so if we come back in 60 days, do you think that gives you enough time to complete?

I felt that the 2-615 motion was appropriate because I felt that -- and I -- for a specific reason, not -- not perhaps all the reasons that were cited by the defendant. I felt that the complaint, when it talked about how -- I'm looking for the words, misled -- when it said that the attorneys misled -- lied and misled Mr. Dulberg, I felt that there was some specificity that was going to be required. information to understand the relationship of the two things.

With respect to the issue of -- on the 2-619, I felt that in light of how I was going with the 2-615, I really couldn't rule on the -- the application of the discovery rule. And, ultimately, I saw that in the long run, it was going to be a question of fact, and I would probably need -- and I could only address that with some more facts than what's just contained in the complaint.

With respect to estoppel, I didn't agree -- and you can tell me why you think I'm wrong, but I didn't agree with the argument that you were making because it -- it, carried to its logical conclusion, I could mislead and lie to my client about the -- about the implications and why he should settle, and then once he agrees to it, then I'm -- I'm released from my breach of my duty.

So I don't think that it -- that that was the type of scenario involved when the courts were discussing the estoppel issue.

Do you have anything -- do you want to contest that?

MR. FLYNN: Not at this time, Your Honor. I --

I've always learned that it's better to quit while you're ahead. And with -- without giving a roadmap to the plaintiff, I do think that having their best complaint on file benefits us all.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: So going back to the 2-615 issues, again, a legal malpractice case, they've got to plead and prove, not only the legal malpractice, but the elements of the underlying case. And it seemed to me, and as we pointed out, that -- that all of the allegations were very conclusory. That they would have gotten more, they wouldn't have done this, that the -- that Hans Mast and the Popovich firm should have undertaken additional actions in the underlying case, but they don't say what those are. And I think that they -- they're required to if they believe that there was a breach of a duty that led to damages.

The high-low agreement, which is very confusing to me and to my client, frankly, because he's never seen it, and as I understand it, that's outside of the four corners --

THE COURT: It is outside, but it did lead to an area where I was also a little bit confused. And

I -- and I think you touched on -- I'll ask you: Is the complaint having to do with the settlement with the McGuires, or does it somehow relate to the suit that continued with respect to Gagnon and the high-low agreement?

MS. WALCZYK: Well, I think it's a little bit of both, because it started with the suit against McGuires, which settled. And then it looks like there was a high-low agreement signed.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: And --

THE COURT: Was it signed by Mr. Mast?

MS. WALCZYK: Oh, I believe it was signed by Mr. Dulberg. I haven't seen it.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: However, we can attach it if -- if you want --

THE COURT: If -- if you are going to allege malpractice as a result of entering into the high-low agreement, yes, I would require you, then, to attach it and to make that a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Yes.

THE COURT: Because I -- I came away thinking that was not part of your complaint, but I wasn't a 100 percent sure.

Also, let's see -- yeah, I need to know with some specificity what facts were concealed and how he was misled. I had problems with, particularly, I had -- paragraphs 20 and 21 and felt that you should have included more in that. And I won't probably say more than that.

MS. WALCZYK: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: And I -- on the estoppel argument, as I've said, I don't think that it is clear that the signing of the release was something that could be assumed to be knowing and voluntary when the plaintiff is alleging that he was misled as to the ramifications of that. Excuse me. Let's see. Okay.

Any -- so I'm granting on the 2-615. I will grant you leave to refile or replead.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And what else? Is there anything else that we need?

MR. FLYNN: Just as a housekeeping, again, depending on what theory you're going under, if it's related to the Gagnon settlement, and we may have more people coming to the party; but if not, then that's it.

THE COURT: Yeah. I mean, if you're going to draw that in, then I need it a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And I got -- in fact -- I'm reading from my notes. I need facts on what was false, misleading and what -- what you mean by coercion.

MR. FLYNN: So the 615 is granted with leave to replead.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: I wasn't clear, I guess, on whether there's an actual ruling on the 619 or --

THE COURT: 619, I'm denying because --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- there's a question of fact --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- at this stage.

And I think that even if they include additional facts in their complaint, I would still come back to it being a question of fact, because I -- there's going to be a lot more about their relationship than I think can be reflected in merely the complaint. I would -- so I mean, if you were to bring another 2-619, feel free.

MR. FLYNN: Sure.

THE COURT: But I would still think it's going to be a question of fact as to what is clear -- Dulberg's claims are with respect to how he was misled or facts were concealed.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Because it's going to depend on their interaction.

MR. FLYNN: And it is the -- the language of statute is "knew or reasonably should have been known." And, again, this -- he does have counsel that came in right after my clients got out. So, again, the Blue Water Partners case says you -- potentially, you can't bury your head in the sand.

THE COURT: No, you can't. But because I -- of the absence of information --

MR. FLYNN: Fair enough.

MR. FLYNN: The following week would be --

THE COURT: What day works for either of you the following week?

MS. WALCZYK: We may actually have a trial that week. That may or may not go; I'm not sure at this point. At least the first two days, if we could do towards the end of week, that would be great for us.

THE COURT: For the record, this is on Dulberg versus Mast.

Plaintiff's counsel, if you could identify yourself.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor. My name is Alphonse Talarico.

THE COURT: And defendant.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, your Honor. George Flynn for the defendants.

THE COURT: And for the record, I -- Mr. Dulberg is in attendance, and once again, I hope we're not being recorded. That being said, we'll move on to the motion.

Plaintiff, you have a motion.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge. I'd like to -- we filed our motion -- we filed -- counsel filed a response, we filed a reply. We'd like to rely on that, with one additional presentation or request of the Court.

THE COURT: Okay. What is that?

MR. TALARICO: I'd like to offer an informal proof -- an offer of proof, which is the exact and -- and -- what is the best way -- the audio transmission of the deposition, in full, with all the parties, which was sent to us through a subpoena.

THE COURT: Okay. You mean from Mr. Mast's -- or Mast's -- deposition?

MR. TALARICO: Correct. Everything that -- that would help the Court understand all of these problems. Because you --

THE COURT: Well, we do have -- we have the transcript.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor, but the transcript is selective.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, comment.

MR. FLYNN: I would object, Judge. The plaintiff has already filed a second amended motion and response. He's had plenty of opportunity to bring this to the Court's attention.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, final word.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, this is for the aid to -- for the Court -- this Honorable Court to understand what's going on.

As to the second amended, I replied to that, that -- the only difference between the amended and the second amended, Judge, was the stamp on Exhibit 17 didn't show up, so I re-filed it. But it was filed timely. As soon as I realized the stamp didn't show up on Exhibit 17, I re-filed it with an emphasis on the Exhibit 17. Mr. Flynn received it on time with notification that it's Exhibit 17.

THE COURT: Well, that's not the issue, but the issue is --

MR. FLYNN: It's not. And just for the record, there was a typo in my response brief. I wasn't taking issue with the timing of the filing of the second amended, other than the fact that it's two years after the deposition.

THE COURT: But that -- that's a different --

MR. FLYNN: But --

THE COURT: That's a different issue.

MR. FLYNN: Exactly.

THE COURT: The first issue is whether or not to -- the Court will accept plaintiff's request to submit the audio of the deposition at issue of Mr. Mast that, I believe, was taken June 25th, 2020.

And, Mr. Talarico, anything else to say in support of that oral motion?

So that will be denied, and we'll incorporate that into the motion -- or in the order. I'm sorry.

Moving on to the motion, this is plaintiff's motion to either re-depose or strike, or both, the deposition of Mr. Mast taken June 25th, 2020; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: And, further, am I correct that the -- the reason for this is issues with respect to what's identified as Exhibit 12?

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. That's just one small part of it. The entire motion is based on Supreme Court rules and on -- or in effect at the time the deposition was taken.

THE COURT: No, no, no. Tell me the substance. Don't tell me what the rules are. Because my reading of your motion focused on Exhibit 12 and the failure -- or the alleged failure to produce it prior to the deposition or give an exhibit list.

So tell me, what is the reason why you want to re-depose Mr. Mast? Because I think that's ultimately your request.

MR. TALARICO: That's right. Judge, within our motion and our reply, we've indicated that it's not just Exhibit 12. Focusing on Exhibit 12 makes it too easy. The entire deposition -- the Internet went down almost the entire time. It's in the notes that I highlighted. It's in the transcript. They were not seeing Exhibits 1 through 15 at the same time. They weren't seeing them. They weren't being uploaded to the admin- -- the administer of -- of oath. 12 wasn't even part of it. It was added, I don't know, 14 days later.

THE COURT: But, ultimately --

MR. TALARICO: So we --

MR. TALARICO: No.
THE COURT: Mr. Flynn, comment.
MR. FLYNN: Judge, to say that the Internet was down for --
THE COURT: I don't want to go down there. Did the -- did Mr. Mast see the exhibits?
MR. FLYNN: My recollection and understanding is that Mr. Mast saw all of the exhibits. There may have been an issue with a portion of Exhibit 12; however, he was -- he was cross-examined at Page 49 through 52 regarding Exhibit 12, generally speaking, and the case law that was contained in his file.
The bottom line is, it doesn't add anything. He didn't recall the specific cases that he discussed with -- exhibit in its entirety.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: It -- But it wasn't necessarily provided to him, so --

THE COURT: For purposes of this record, Exhibit 12 is copies of case law; am I correct?

MR. FLYNN: Generally speaking, correct.

THE COURT: Mr. Talarico.

MR. TALARICO: That's correct, Judge. But, again, we're not just focusing on Exhibit 12. We're focusing on all the exhibits that were supposedly shown to Mr. -- to Mr. Mast. He didn't see them. He didn't see them.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: There was confusion as to what the numbers were.

THE COURT: Whose exhibits were they?

MR. TALARICO: They were the plaintiff's, but it was the defendant's equipment that caused the problem.

THE COURT: And the plaintiff conducted the deposition; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: That is correct.

any -- the plaintiff's attorney, at that time, was aware of any glitches or difficulties with respect to having the deponent view all of the exhibits; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: That's correct, your Honor.

THE COURT: And the plaintiff (sic) who was representing Mr. Dulberg at the time, for whatever reason, did not raise an objection at the time or ever with respect to the manner in which the deposition proceeded.

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. (Indiscernible) she left it to me -- or to the following counsel. She said to Mr. Dulberg, Mr. Dulberg, whatever those objections are, your next counsel has to make them.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, that -- but the handling attorney at the time who represented Mr. Dulberg's interests proceeded with the deposition and did not give notice to anyone of any complaint with respect to the manner in which it was conducted; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct.

that not only does the objection have to take place at the time of the deposition itself. When the evidence is being brought -- when the evidence is being subject to admission, I can bring that -- I can raise that now and object to it.

THE COURT: Okay. But the -- the exhibits were always in control of the plaintiff's attorneys, and you're asking to penalize the defendant for what appears to be a -- an issue you have with the manner in which prior counsel conducted the deposition.

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. It's -- as far as the defendant, it's their electronic equipment that failed.

THE COURT: And there were no objections made at the time or subsequent, and this motion was brought approximately two and a half years after the deposition in question; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct. But it's also within the time of the ruling. I can do this now.

THE COURT: You can file any motion you like, but I'm -- I'm going to deny your request. I don't think that there's any reasonable basis under which I can compel the defendant to appear for a second deposition because of these issues. It appears that prior counsel was satisfied with the -- her ability to conduct the deposition, and she was always in control of all of the exhibits, so I don't see a problem there.

If anybody should have been raising an objection about the problems, it should have been defendant, not -- not the plaintiff two and a half years after the deposition they proceeded with. So I'm going to deny the request.

Anything else that we need to do today?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, just that there was some additional relief requested in the latest reply brief filed, and that included a request that the Court take judicial notice of -- what's really an implication. I think this is on Page 17 of the response.

I would just request that that specific request for relief also be denied in connection with the motion.

THE COURT: Okay. The notice of the adjudicative facts?

MR. FLYNN: Correct. I think it says in Paragraph 12(j), plaintiff requests that this Honorable Court take judicial notice of the adjudicative fact that the references to Restatement (Second) of Torts Section 318 impliedly references Tilschner versus Spangler.

THE COURT: That -- that's not really ultimately the purpose of this motion, and it's not contained in the prayer for relief. That strikes me as a new motion. Wasn't going to consider it, and so I'm -- to the extent that I have to rule on it, on an issue I don't even think that's in front of me appropriately --

MR. FLYNN: It's just relief that was in -- in this response that I didn't have any opportunity to address.

THE COURT: You are here on Dulberg against Mast?

MR. FLYNN: I am, Judge.

THE COURT: I have the other side here on that as well. Well, no. I have Mr. Dulberg here. I have Mr. Talarico as well. Mr. Talarico, are you ready for a hearing if I call it early, sir? I'm sorry, sir, you are muted. I'm not --

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning. Are you ready for hearing a couple minutes early, sir?

MR. TALARICO: Absolutely.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. This is Dulberg against Mast, et al. I have Mr. Talarico present via Zoom as is Mr. Dulberg. Counsel, would you please state your name?

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, your Honor, George Flynn on behalf of the defendants.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Flynn. We are before the Court for a hearing on pending motions. The one most notable is the summary judgment. What else are we hearing this morning, gentlemen?

MR. FLYNN: That's all we have, as far as I know, Judge.

THE COURT: Good. Because that's all I read.

MR. TALARICO: That's all I know, Judge.

THE COURT: Now I feel way better. It just said pending motions. All I could find was summary judgment. I read the motion. I read the response. I read the reply. I have read all the attachments, as they were relevant. It's your motion.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. And I wasn't sure I -- with Judge Meyer's standing orders, with respect to courtesy copies, I wasn't sure if the Court had a chance to review the briefs, but since your Honor has indicated that you have --

THE COURT: I have read everything. It's all based on a two-year statute of limitations on a lawsuit over a chain saw.

MR. FLYNN: That's exactly right. So I will be brief. The only case cited by the plaintiff in its response with respect to the accrual of the injury was a Suburban Real Estate case which is a transactional legal malpractice case, not a litigated matter. I think the -- all of the cases we have cited and including the dicta in that Suburban Real Estate case indicates that the accrual date in a litigated matter is the date of settlement, judgment or dismissal.

Here, we had a January 14 settlement that was consummated. There was a good faith finding and dismissal at that time. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Mr. Dulberg for another year or so and prosecuting the case against the other defendant in the case.

Dulberg became disillusioned with Mast, admitted that he was looking for additional counsel -- or substitute counsel even as early as July of 2014. Ultimately, Mast and Popovich withdrew in March of 2015. The case proceeded against Gagnon. There was a mediation in December of 2016 at which time he indicates now that he first became aware of his legal malpractice case.

Mr. Dulberg had every opportunity in discovery through interrogatories, production requests, I took his deposition. I asked him over and over again in several different ways how he first became aware of his injury and that it was wrongfully caused. The only response he could give was that a lawyer told him that he had a case. He couldn't provide any specifics. He has a burden of proving the -- a late discovery. He cannot meet it.

He will never be able to meet it.

THE COURT: Do we know, by the way, how did he come to me because the lawyer, if I recall, was Mr. Gooch. So he was represented by I believe Mr. Balke if I recall correctly followed by Mr. Baudin.

MR. FLYNN: That's correct.

THE COURT: Where did Mr. Gooch come into this? Who shipped him off to Mr. Gooch to even get opinion, do we know?

MR. FLYNN: One of those two lawyers, I think, recommended that he seek an opinion from a lawyer, generally speaking, that handles legal malpractice cases. Whether it was a direct referral, I don't know if the evidence shows that. I think Mr. Dulberg testified that I believe it was Mr. Baudin recommended that he see a legal malpractice attorney.

So Mr. Gooch met with him. Allegedly provided an opinion that there was a case without any reason and then almost a year later filed a lawsuit. Again, first Mr. Dulberg raised privilege when I asked him how -- how and what -- how you became aware of this legal malpractice case, the injury and the wrongful causation, he claimed privilege. Finally, that was waived or otherwise disposed of, and then, he admitted he couldn't -- I said the legal opinion Dulberg received from Gooch was verbal. Gooch simply stated you have a case here. You have a valid case. When asked did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with the representation, Dulberg said he probably did. I'm not recalling it right now. I'm pulling a blank. There are no specifics.

So again, the burden is his to prove a later discovery. He's not able to do that. I'm happy to answer any questions the Court has, but again, I'll rest on the briefs.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. Mr. Talarico, sir?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, sir. I'm -- what would you like me to address first? I guess we could start with the fact that defendant didn't follow the local rules, and therefore, plaintiff could not properly respond. And the local rule says that if they do not follow the local rules, you can strike the motion or deny it.

All I'm asking is deny the motion based on the fact that they did not follow the local rules.

THE COURT: I respectfully decline to do so, sir. A written motion could have been filed expressly asking for that relief. A response was filed that addressed it. I've read the response. I understand your concerns that by not following the local rules, they may have made it more difficult for us to suss out what are the disputed issues of material fact and what aren't. But I've been able to pretty much get a grip on everything the way it's been filed.

MR. TALARICO: All right. Thank you, Judge. The second thing is, again, we didn't follow the rules that (indiscernible) we didn't respond -- we responded generally. So I would like that the ruling you just made to extend to our response too.

THE COURT: Of course it does.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you, sir. Okay. Then, the next issue is the Suburban case. Plaintiff -- defendant, I'm sorry, defendant seems to indicate -- well, he does indicate that the reason that Suburban doesn't apply is that there is a difference between a transactional case and a litigation case. Now, I read the Suburban case many, many times over and the Supreme Court does not distinguish that their ruling is for one type of case or the other. What their ruling is is that the statute of limitation and they construed the exact specific statute does not begin until there is a pec -- pecuniary loss.

Prior to that, Mr. Dulberg would have brought an action, he would have had no damages. So that -- what that does is because the general rule and which has been voiced in -- by the Illinois Supreme Court Justice Thomas in the Porter case is that when the Supreme Court construes a statute, that becomes part of the statute until the -- the -- I can't think of the word, legislation -- legislature decides to change it. So what we have is the prior cases cited by Mr. Dulberg are not effective because he's citing it to the rule and not to the particular case we are talking about. The Suburban case says no damages, the statute does not begin to run. And that is part of the statute. It hasn't been changed.

Now, as to the last thing, we have raised many affirmative -- I mean, I'm sorry, many issues of material fact that are in dispute. But most important -- the clearest ones, Judge, are the defendant's affirmative defenses. There are four affirmative defenses which -- which plaintiff has denied all four.

Now, there is a recent case, if you'll hold on just one second, and I'll find it, but the indication -- it's not that recent, but it's -- the indication is that -- this is West Suburban Mass Transit versus Consolidated Rail Corporation. It's 1-89-2916. If this was done the Appellate Court but it was by the -- the opinion was by Justice McMorrow, who of course became Supreme Court judge, that summary judgment is not appropriate when there is affirmative defenses in dispute.

I think that pretty much sums it all, Judge. We have got many material facts in dispute, including four affirmative defenses which were denied specifically by plaintiff.

THE COURT: Respectfully, sir, merely saying something is in dispute does not make it so though, does it?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm saying that the answer filed was it was in dispute.

THE COURT: So by filing a response to their affirmative defense denying the affirmative defense, you're telling me that that in and of itself is sufficient to defeat summary judgment.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, I am.

THE COURT: What if your client --

MR. TALARICO: I --

THE COURT: What if your client at subsequent depositions testifies inconsistent with the answer?

MR. TALARICO: In the case that I cited, Judge, the burden is upon the person, in effect, in this case the defendant, to eliminate that dispute. The dispute exists as he did not resolve that dispute.

THE COURT: So when did the cause of action arise?

MR. TALARICO: December 12, 2016, I believe.

THE COURT: Why on that date?

MR. TALARICO: Because there was an arbitrary -- a mandatory arbitration hearing which I included the -- the findings that showed that the judge -- the retired judge in that case evaluated it at $660,000, and Mr. Dulberg was not able to obtain anything close to that.

THE COURT: And why not?

MR. TALARICO: Well, for two reasons, one, because he settled first improperly for $5,000 with

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

the landowner, and the second case is because he was instructed improperly to -- to sign -- well, he actually claims he never signed the agreement, but that there was an agreement to do a binding arbitration limited to the policy amount of 300,000.

THE COURT: Who entered into that agreement?

MR. TALARICO: That is a question of fact. I don't know, but Dulberg says he did not sign it and never wanted to.

THE COURT: When was the agreement entered into?

MR. TALARICO: I don't have the exact date, Judge. A few months before that. I can only say that that was -- that was during the time that Mr. Dulberg was in bankruptcy, and that was also part of the Baudin's instruction.

THE COURT: So the agreement to limit recovery to 300,000 was signed well after the Popovich firm was no longer representing Mr. Dulberg on this matter?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, that's true.

THE COURT: So how is his change in strategy somehow extend -- so in other words, what you're saying -- well, I'm trying to wrap my head around this. You are saying that that agreement your client never wished to enter into, he didn't sign, Popovich didn't sign, Mr. Mast didn't sign. His actual third attorney signed it, Mr. Baudin, not even Mr. Balke. But because that was somehow signed and in effect, then the cause of action against Mast and Popovich for legal malpractice is extended out to the date of the final mediation hearing because of an agreement and limitation on damages at the mediation hearing over which they had zero control?

MR. TALARICO: What I am saying, Judge, is the analysis in the Suburban case, the damages -- prior to that, Mr. Dulberg had no actual damages, therefore, he couldn't bring an action. He had nothing to say that Mast cost him this much or this much or Popovich cost him this much because that would -- that would have been stricken for -- they had no damages, so he had no cause of action.

The damages arrive -- arose on the days that Mr. Dulberg found out through the binding arbitration that the case was worth so much more than what he's going to get, and therefore -- that -- that enumerates the damages.

THE COURT: But respectfully, Mr. Talarico, and please correct me if I'm wrong because this is where

I'm getting the disconnect, the but-for portion of this analysis but for the high-low agreement limiting damages to the policy amount of $300,000, he would have had a judgment for the entire $660,000 if Tom Popovich and Hans Mast had never even existed.

MR. TALARICO: I'm not clear on what you are asking, Judge. Could you --

THE COURT: What I'm asking is isn't the failure to recover the $660,000 as opposed to 300,000 attributable to the high-low agreement that was entered into well over a year or if not two or more years after Popovich and Mast were out of the case?

MR. TALARICO: Well, Judge, I -- first of all, he didn't enter into it. He's claimed over and over that that's not his signature. It was forged. There is many issues about that in the bankruptcy.

THE COURT: But again, counsel -- but again, my point being I don't really care if he signed it or didn't sign it. My point being that it is that agreement that limited his damages, and that agreement was entered into way after Popovich and Mast withdrew from this case, right?

MR. TALARICO: That's right, but --

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

THE COURT: He so would have got -- so he would have gotten all 660,000 had that agreement not been entered into.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, but at -- before the judge ruled in that binding mediation, he had no idea how much the case was worth. They had told him it was worth $5,000 and then some. That -- that date -- that's the date when he knows when there was a factual pecuniary damage. He knows the case is worth much more than they told him and he's got numbers behind it. Before that, he had nothing to plead.

THE COURT: Respectfully, the case is worth that much against Mr. Gagnon, not necessarily against Mr. Gagnon's -- I believe it was his parents, the two people that settled out of it. The $660,000 is a finding of liability against Mr. Gagnon, isn't it?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: So how is it a finding of liability against the two people that were settled with?

MR. TALARICO: Because those people were settled with instructions by Mr. Mast that they could not win any money against them. His instructions were that they -- they would get out on summary judgment,

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

he would get nothing, take $5,000 as a gift. He was over and over that that -- that that argument was made between Mast and between Dulberg, and some of those documents are part of what we filed.

THE COURT: All right. Anything else, Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Not at the moment, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, sir. Final word, please.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. Just briefly with respect to the pecuniary loss, the loss or the injury, which is the language used in the statute, was in January of 2014 when the case against the McGuires, Bill and Caroline McGuire. Caroline was Gagnon's mother. Bill McGuire was the stepfather. That case was foreclosed in January of 2014. No recovery could have been had other than the $5,000 at that point in time. That's when there was an injury.

The question -- the second prong of the analysis is when did he have a reasonable belief that the injury was wrongfully caused. Dulberg had every opportunity, he admitted that he had talked to hundreds of lawyers. He could have asked Balke, he could have asked Baudin. He didn't ask any of them, allegedly.

Under Illinois law, he has a duty to investigate if he thinks there is an issue. He had -- he became disillusioned with Mast in 2014. Mast withdrew in March of 2015. Again, the injury is January 2014.

THE COURT: Thank you very much.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, may I say one thing?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you. The Supreme Court case, the Suburban case makes it clear that being alerted to a problem or alerted to malpractice is not sufficient enough until -- they use the specific word alerted and say that is not sufficient. There has to be a pecuniary loss.

So whether he talked to a thousand attorneys and whether they all told him all different things, he's alerted but he had to face a loss. That's all, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you. He was clearly alerted. Let's cut to the chase. He was hesitant -- he was hesitant to ever even sign the settlement agreement to the point where it took him over two months to do it. He clearly had his doubts. He clearly had his lack of faith. He signed the settlement agreement anyway. A year later, the attorneys withdrew. He went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Met with hundreds of attorneys. He was clearly alerted.

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

When did the pecuniary loss occur? Here is the amazing part, and this is what -- where the disconnect comes on this case and it's why I'm having so much trouble with it, I'm being urged that the pecuniary loss occurred when the decision was given on the binding mediation. But the reason I believe that's a disconnect is because -- for two reasons. The loss that occurred on the binding mediation that is being urged upon the Court is a loss of what appears to be $360,000. The difference between the $660,000 that the mediator indicated the -- were the appropriate measure of damages against Mr. Gagnon and the $300,000 insurance policy limit, that $360,000 difference and the amount that was awarded and the amount that the mediator claimed should have been awarded is based on an agreement that somebody entered into. We don't know who that somebody was, but we know for a fact that that somebody was not Hans Mast or the Law Offices of Tom Popovich because the agreement occurred well after they were out of Dodge.

But didn't the pecuniary loss itself, in fact, occur if there was a cause of action to which you were alerted? The pecuniary loss occurred when he only got $5,000. I agree with defense counsel. Statute of limitations lapsed. Merely denying the statute of limitation without more in the depositions and the sworn testimony does not itself create an issue of material fact.

The motion for summary judgment is heard. It is most respectfully allowed. Thank you very much, gentlemen.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you.

THE COURT: Both of you, outstanding. Even though they didn't comply with local rules, I will say gentlemen, to both of you, outstanding pleadings. Very thorough, very well written. I had no issues going through them. I spent three days going through all of them repeatedly, and you both made my job -- well, I'm not going to say easy, but you certainly did your jobs. AFFIDAVIT

Saira Pasha, being first duly sworn on oath, deposes and states as follows:

1. I am a licensed attorney in Illinois. I graduated from Chicago-Kent College of Law in 2012 and was admitted to the bar the same year. I have a Bachelor of Science degree in Operations and Information Management with an emphasis in information systems from Northern Illinois University. Since August 2020, I have worked as an independent consultant and testifying expert specializing in audit trail analysis, specifically in medical malpractice cases. I consult for and testify on behalf of both plaintiffs and defendants. A large portion of my work focuses on data integrity and completeness of production, such as obtaining prior versions of modified records and identifying, requesting, and obtaining data and records that were created but have not yet been produced. I have reviewed over 300 audit trails from more than 20 electronic medical record systems. The underlying concepts of audit trails for systems and the storage and retrieval of data from a database are essentially universal and apply to many kinds of systems, including court filing systems.

2. An audit trail is a timestamped report of actions performed by all users in a system, such as view, edit, add, delete, print, etc. In addition to audit trails, there are other reports and analytical tools that can be performed on record systems to conduct a comprehensive forensic analysis of electronically stored information.

3. I have been retained as a consultant by The Law Office of Alphonse A. Talarico for the purpose of evaluating file content discrepancies and missing file contents for a case under appellate review.

4. I reviewed the following materials for my analysis:

    - Transcript of court proceeding from 9/16/2022 titled “Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Transcript of court proceeding from 9/16/2022 titled “Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Emails to and from court reporters related to the transcripts listed above
    - Report titled “[Compare Report] Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Table of Contents of the Report of Proceedings filed on 4/24/2023 for the appellate case (2-23-0072) listing all Report of Proceedings in the file in chronological order
    - McHenry County Circuit Court’s Public Case Access website information for the underlying case (2017LA000377)

5. Based on my analysis of these materials, I conclude to a reasonable degree of professional certainty and recommend as follows:

- There are multiple substantive differences, including modifications and deletions, between two transcripts for the same court proceeding that took place on 9/16/2022. One of the edits is about a material issue: whether expert discovery was closed. To verify the accuracy of what was said at this proceeding, I recommend a forensic investigation, including but not limited to obtaining a copy of the original recording and obtaining an audit trail for the recording system itself. Based on what the audit trail from the audio recording system shows, a live forensic inspection of the system may be warranted.

- The Table of Contents for the Report of Proceedings for the appellate review that was filed on 4/24/2023 does not list all court proceeding recordings that were created in the underlying matter. It is also inconsistent with representations made on the McHenry County Circuit Court Public Case Access website. I recommend an audit trail of the appellate court's filing system(s) be produced to objectively determine which documents were uploaded to its system(s), when they were uploaded, the user(s) who uploaded the documents, and if applicable, which documents were removed from the appellate review file. Based on what the audit trails from the systems show, a live forensic inspection of the systems may be warranted.

- Because there are allegations of removing the existence of recordings from specific court proceedings from the public access website for the McHenry County Circuit, I recommend an audit and forensic investigation to obtain objective facts and the timeline of when data was added and then removed from the underlying case's record. I recommend obtaining the audit trails for McHenry County Circuit Court's filing system(s) and performing a live forensic inspection of the system if warranted by the audit trail data.

Discrepancies between two transcripts for the 9/16/2022 court proceeding

6. A court proceeding was held on 9/16/2022 in Judge Meyer's courtroom in the McHenry County Circuit Court courthouse for the underlying case (2017 L 000377).

7. The McHenry County Circuit Court courthouse uses technology that creates audio recordings of court proceedings which court reporters can access to create transcripts of those proceedings.

8. There are two distinct transcripts for this proceeding. The first transcript was emailed from a court reporter to Plaintiff on 9/26/2022 and is titled "Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg." The second transcript was emailed from a different court reporter to Plaintiff on 9/27/2022 and is titled "Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg." (The names of the files were presumably created to distinguish the transcripts).

9. There are multiple substantive differences between the two transcripts. Below is one example of a significant substantive difference in a statement made by defense counsel George Flynn about a material issue: expert discovery. The first transcript includes the phrase "You gave a ruling that expert discovery is completed" (page 5, lines 12-13)

So those (indiscernible) all relied on facts regarding the accident itself that would have taken, you know, additional five to ten pages of facts that are -- So we'd like to do that separately. In fact, we might wait until -- You gave a ruling that expert discovery is completed, but I'm going to (indiscernible) but I think (indiscernible).

10. The second transcript includes phrase "if and when expert discovery is completed" for the same page and line numbers:

So those (indiscernible) all relied on facts regarding the accident itself that would have taken, you know, additional five to ten pages of facts that are -- So we'd like to do that separately. In fact, we might wait until if and when expert discovery is completed, but -- I'm going to have some more thoughts, but I think we have plenty to chew on now.

11. These two statements are not only substantively different, they also do not sound alike when spoken aloud.

12. Another substantive difference between the two transcripts is the inclusion of the word "dilatory" in two sentences.

13. In the "Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg" transcript (page 11, line 2) the court reporter uses "(indiscernible)", implying that the word stated by Mr. Flynn could not be understood. In the next line, there are hyphens at the end of "do" in Mr. Talarico's response, implying Mr. Talarico never said any word after "do."

just don't see what the issue is.  It seems as if it's a (indiscernible) tactic to avoid --
    MR. TALARICO:  I don't do --
    THE COURT:  Hold on.  I can't rule on the motion until I see it.  I can't rule -- I can't determine

14. In "Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg," page 11, line 2, the transcription of defense counsel's statement by replacing the "(indiscernible)" with "dilatory " On the next line, plaintiff's Mr. Talarico's response is transcribed as "I don't to dilatory.." implying that the word was spoken, while the original transcript indicates no word was spoken nor was there an indiscernible sound.

I just don't see what the issue is.  It seems as if it's a another dilatory tactic to avoid --
    MR. TALARICO:  I don't do dilatory --
    THE COURT:  Hold on.  I can't rule on the motion until I see it.  I can't rule -- I can't determine

15. These are two examples of significant and substance differences between the two transcripts that warrant further investigation to confirm accuracy.

16. To verify the accuracy of both transcripts and determine what was actually said by the parties on 9/16/2022, I recommend obtaining the original recording of the proceeding from the McHenry County Circuit Court's audio recording system. I also recommend simultaneously obtaining an audit trail for the specific audio recording file at issue, from 9/16/2022 through present, to identify all parties who accessed the recording, when they accessed it, if any edits were made to the recording, and other objective data pertaining to the veracity of the recording.

Missing recordings of court proceedings from January and February 2018

17. The Table of Contents for the Report of Proceedings from the appellate case was filed on 4/24/2023. It lists all reports of proceedings from the underlying case included in chronological order beginning on 5/10/2018, as seen in the excerpt below:

18. The public case access website for the McHenry County Circuit Court allows users to search for court events and documents related to cases. For the underlying case at issue, the top of the "Court Events" tab looks like this:

19. Scrolling to the bottom of the same tab reveals the court events beginning from 1/10/2018.

20. As seen in the screen shot above, there was a court event on 1/10/2018 during which a motion to extend time was granted and a court event on 2/27/2019 during which a motion to dismiss was set for hearing. The third court event listed took place on 5/10/2018.

21. The recordings from the first two court events in the underlying case were not included in the file contents for appellate review. I did perform a line-item check for evert court event; it is possible recordings for other events are also missing.

22. The 1/10/2018 court event was listed as "Motion – Extend Time." I reviewed the Table of Contents to determine if any recording for a "Motion- Extend Time" court event existed and found one for 3/15/2021. Therefore, there is no reason to conclude that the 1/10/2018 recording was not included in the file materials because that type of court event is not recorded.

02/10/2021	HEARING - MOTION COMPEL	R 101-R 124 (Volume 1)
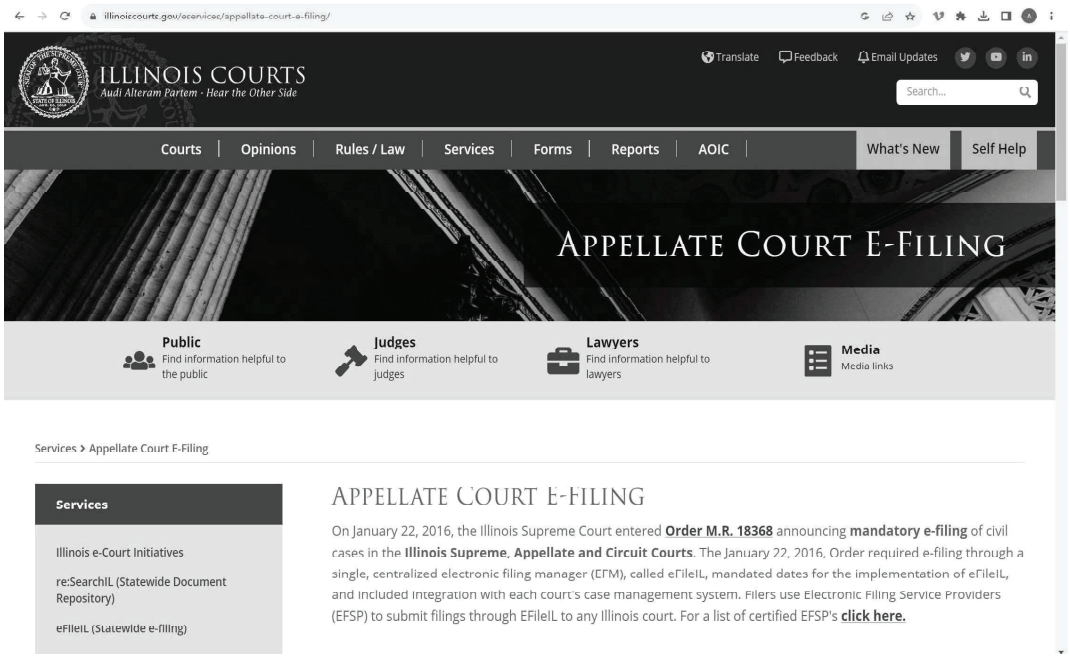
03/25/2021	HEARING - MOTION COMPEL	R 154-R 159 (Volume 1)

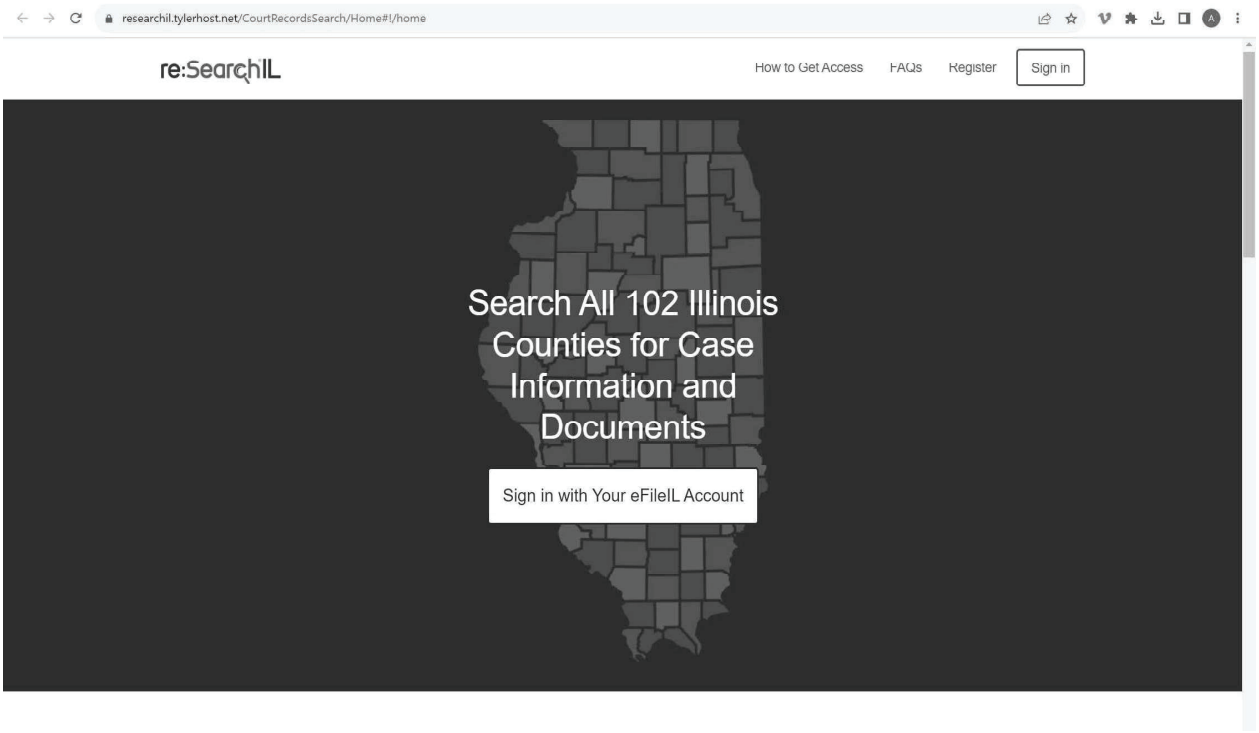
23. Plaintiff/Appellant alleges that the public record access system for McHenry County originally listed recordings for these two 2018 proceedings under the documents tab but were removed at a later date. Below is a screen shot of the top portion of the "Documents" tab for the underlying case. As the image below indicates, "Report – Proceedings" is a type of document included in the list.



24. To objectively determine if the "Documents" tab of the McHenry County Circuit Court public portal ever included a listing of "Report – Proceedings" for the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events, I recommend a forensic audit of the system(s) in which these data elements are stored and used to display information on the public access portal website.

25. To objectively determine if the recordings from the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events were 1)ever part of the McHenry County Circuit Court file for the underlying, 2) were transmitted/uploaded to the appellate court filing system, and 3) were ever received or were part of the appellate court's filing system or file, audit trails from each of the respective systems must be generated and produced. Based on the data included in those reports, a live forensic inspection of the systems may be warranted. If audit trails from those systems are not produced, I recommend performing a live forensic inspection of the systems at issue.

26. To objectively determine if recordings were created for the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events, an audit trail from the McHenry County Circuit Court audio recording system must be generated and produced. Based on the data contained in those reports, a live forensic audit of the audio recording system may be necessary.



27. The website for Illinois's court systems makes reference to two distinct systems: one document repository system and efiling systems.

28. The website displays several options for efiling:

29. The document repository system link takes you to a separate system called re:SearchIL, managed by Tyler Technologies.

30. Based on my preliminary review of these websites and technologies, the systems used by both the appellate court and the circuit court in this case are capable of producing audit trails for regulatory and compliance reporting. These reports can also be used to verify the integrity of the records and data in this matter.

Under penalty of perjury, I certify the above statements are true and correct.

Dear Mr Talarico,

I just called the appellate court and they say they will be emailing me a copy of the actual court order from the emergency motion.

They informed me that my attorney has access to the orders and In the future I should get them through my attorney.

I will forward the ORDER when I receive it.

RE: Dulberg, Paul R., v. Mast, Hans, et al.
Appeal No.: 2-23-0072
County: McHenry County
Trial Court No.: 17LA377

The court has this day, December 04, 2023, entered the following order in the above entitled case:

Appellant's motion for leave to file a reply is denied.

Appellant's motion to reconsider is denied. As appellant has failed to file an opening brief pursuant to this court's order of November 9, 2023, this appeal is dismissed.

THIS ORDER IS FINAL AND SHALL STAND AS THE MANDATE OF THIS COURT.

Dear Mr Talarico,

As you should know, I did inform you about Judge Hutchinson before during and after we filed the appeal in the Popovich case.

Obviously I would have asked for a substitution of Judge had I been informed Hutchinson was assigned to the panel.

I first learned of Hutchinson's involvement in the final court order dated December 4, 2023.

I need to know in writing and with supporting documentation the first time you were informed by the court which Judges were assigned to the appeal.

Thank You,
Paul

Dear Mr Talarico,

Thank you.

Knowing that you learned it the same way I did is a huge relief.

I believe that I can make the argument that the Judges names were actively concealed from us. Who in this country doesn't get to know the name of the Judge/s that will be deciding the issues before them?

By concealing the names of the judges assigned to the appeal, the appellate court deprived us of the same rights everyone else enjoys that goes to court, the right to ask for a substitution of Judge before any major decisions are made.

Of coarse any legal advise you have on the issue and how to move on it is always welcomed and appreciated.

Thank you again,
Paul

That's 2 out of 3 of the Judges assigned to the appellate panel in our case with issues.

We have no record of which Judge voted which way. McLaren may have been outvoted.

Watch the panel claim since we used McLaren's quote we knew who was assigned the case.

By dumb luck, you hit it dead on with the quote by McLaren.

How do we proceed?

Dear Mr Talarico,

Per our phone conversation…

When I questioned the appellate court orders being signed by the clerk, you told me that they have the ability to adopt that rule.

Since then I googled and think I found the local rules adopted this year by the 2nd district appellate court and could not find any reference or adopted rule allowing a clerk to sign the courts orders.

This is a reminder to you to check the local rules adopted by the 2nd appellate court for anything that would grant the clerk any authority to sign the orders of the court for the various judges or any rule that allows the required proposed order filed with each motion to be tossed aside.

Thank You,
Paul

This form is approved by the Illinois Supreme Court and is required to be accepted in all Illinois Appellate Courts.

Instructions

Check the box to the right if your case involves custody, visitation, or removal of a child.

Enter the appellate court case number.

Just below "In the Appellate Court of Illinois," enter the number of the appellate district where the appeal was filed.

If the case name in the trial court began with "In re" (for example, "In re Marriage of Jones"), enter that name. Below that, enter the names of the parties in the trial court, and check the correct boxes to show which party filed the appeal ("appellant") and which party is responding to the appeal ("appellee").

To the far right, enter the trial court county, trial court case number, and trial judge's name.

MOTION

In 1, check the box that identifies who is filing the Motion.

1. ☑ Plaintiff/Petitioner-Appellant ☐ Plaintiff/Petitioner-Appellee

☐ Defendant/Respondent-Appellant ☐ Defendant/Respondent- Appellee

In 2, state specifically what you want the court to give you (e.g., "35 more days to file my brief"). This should be a short statement. You will give your reasons in the next section.

2. State what you want the court to do for you: Appellant moves for a ruling on his Motion to Reconsider filed on November 21, 2023 and for a ruling on his Motion to allow Appellant to file a Reply to Appellees' Response to Appellant's Motion to Reconsider filed on November 28, 2023 pursuant to the common-law of the State of Illinois, most currently stated by the Illinois Supreme Court in (Docket No. 128474) THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS, Appellant, v. BRYAN N. BRUSAW, APPELLEE. (November 30, 2023) and the earliest statement found in CASE v. PHILLIPS 182 Ill. 187, 55 N.E. 66 (1899).

Enter the Case Number given by the Appellate Court Clerk: 2-23-0072

In 3, write down the reasons why the court should give the relief you are asking for (e.g. "I need more time to finish and file my brief, because [insert reasons]").

3. State the reasons why the court should do what you have asked it to do:

Pursuant to the Illinois common law holdings that a motion that is not ruled upon by the trial court (in THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS, Appellant, v. BRYAN N. BRUSAW, Appellee) or that is not ruled upon by the Appellate Court (in CASE v. PHILLIPS 182 Ill.187, 55 N.E.66) (1899) is presumed to have been abandoned or waived by the movant.

Under the Code of Civil Procedure, 735 ILCS 5/1-109, making a statement on this form that you know to be false is perjury, a Class 3 Felony.

I certify that everything in the Motion is true and correct. I understand that making a false statement on this form is perjury and has penalties provided by law under 735 ILCS 5/1-109.
