You just nodded your head. That's another good point to make. She can't take down nods of the head, shrugs of the shoulders or other hand gestures. Your answers need to be verbal.

From time to time we forget those rules and I may just point to the court reporter as a reminder, if that's okay.

A. Yes.

Q. If you need to take a break at any time, feel free to stop me. I just ask that it's not while a question is pending that has not been answered. Fair enough?

A. I'll try to do that.

Q. If you've answered a question, I will assume you understood it. Okay?

A. Yes.

Q. I was asking you about your mother. She lived at the house during the pendency of the underlying case?

A. Yes.

Q. Is she still alive?

A. Yes.

MS. WILLIAMS: Can we define "underlying case"?

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. The underlying case is a personal injury

case that you filed against Bill and Caroline McGuire and David Gagnon.

A. That sounds correct.

Q. We'll get into the dates of the filing a little bit later. We'll call that, generally, the underlying case.

Your mother lived at the house at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. Did she own the house?

A. No.

Q. Do you own the house currently?

A. Yes.

Q. Does anyone else own the house?

A. No.

Q. How long have you owned it?

A. I think I first purchased it off my parents in '97, '98, something like that.

Q. Did you hire a lawyer in connection with that transaction?

A. No.

Q. Were your parents represented by a lawyer?

A. No.

Q. The building, as I understand it, is a duplex; is that right?

A. No.

Q. Were there two apartments in the building at one time?

A. No.

Q. Was there a point in time where you and your mother lived in one half of the house and Mike McArtor lived in the other half?

A. Yes.

Q. How was that arrangement with respect to the location of the living spaces, if you can describe it?

A. It has a walkout basement. He had the downstairs with an exit out the back. We had the upstairs with an exit out the front.

Q. Have you ever been convicted of a crime of fraud, dishonesty or deceit?

A. No.

Q. Besides the hiring of the Popovich firm in connection with the underlying personal injury case, up to that point in time had you ever had an occasion to hire a lawyer?

A. I did during a traffic accident, and I don't remember the year.

Q. Were you injured in about 2002? Does that sound right?

A. Roughly.

Q. Who did you hire?

A. I might get the name wrong because it's been a long time. I think it was Weiss and Michling and something else. It was a lawyer right outside the courthouse in Woodstock.

Q. A McHenry County lawyer?

A. Yeah.

Q. It was a personal injury case?

A. Yeah. It was a car accident.

Q. Did you file a lawsuit in that case?

A. I don't think we needed to.

Q. You just filed an insurance claim?

A. They did, yes.

Q. You settled it?

A. Yes.

Q. Any other occasions to hire a lawyer between that time and the time you hired the Popovich firm?

A. May I consult for a minute because I'm not sure how to answer that.

Q. Why don't you just tell me why you can't answer it.
A. Because I've hired lawyers, but they were for the company that I had. That's different.
Q. I'm asking general questions about any interaction you've had with hiring lawyers. Any experience you've had with hiring lawyers.
A. I had a corporate lawyer. My mom and dad hired a lawyer for me when I was a kid. It was something. And myself, just the corporate lawyer, the car accident lawyer and the Popovich firm.
Q. Have you ever been married?
A. No.
Q. So you never hired a divorce lawyer. Good. How old are you now?
A. Forty-nine.
Q. The underlying case arose out of an injury that occurred on June 28, 2011, correct?
A. That sounds correct.
Q. How old were you at that time?
A. Forty-one.
Q. Besides the underlying lawsuit against the McGuires and Mr. Gagnon, had you ever filed any other lawsuit up until that point in time?

Page 10

A. No.
Q. Have you filed any lawsuits since that time besides the lawsuit against Popovich and Mast?
A. No.
Q. Do you have any military experience?
A. Yes.
Q. Please tell me about that.
A. Army National Guard. Illinois Army National Guard.
Q. How long have you been in the National Guard?
A. I'm not currently in it.
Q. When were you, from when to when?
A. I may not get the year correct. '88 or '89 to '92 or '93, somewhere in there.
Q. What was your highest rank when you were discharged from the National Guard?
A. When I was discharged?
Q. Correct.
A. I don't know. I've gotten moved up and moved down. I don't know where I ended up.
Q. How was it that you were discharged?
A. Less than honorable.
Q. What was the cause?

Page 11

A. I missed morning call, roll call. If you're not there, you're AWOL.
Q. Absent without leave?
A. Yes.
Q. What is the highest level of education that you've attained?
A. I do not have a degree. Two years of college.
Q. You graduated from high school?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that in Johnsburg in 1988?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you know Mr. Gagnon from Johnsburg High School?
A. Not from high school but just after high school.
Q. Just coincidentally you attended the same high school?
A. He was three years older than I was. I didn't know who he was until after high school.
Q. You had some education after high school but did not receive a degree, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Where did you study?

Page 12

A. I had a couple classes at McHenry County College and McMurray College.
Q. What did you study?
A. The first two years. The basics.
Q. General studies?
A. Yeah. I did a criminal justice course. I did a macro/microeconomics. I did psychology, sociology. The normal stuff.
Q. How did you meet David Gagnon?
A. Through a mutual friend.
Q. When was that?
A. I want to say, roughly, 1990.
Q. Was your home located somewhere fairly close to his parents' home or his mom and stepdad's home?
A. Two streets away.
Q. That's where you were injured on June 28, 2011, was at David Gagnon's mom's house and his stepdad's house?
A. Yes.
Q. And their name is McGuire?
A. Yes.
Q. Generally speaking, you were injured assisting David with a chainsaw trying to cut down a tree?

A. He was cutting a branch.
Q. Cutting branches off a tree, correct?
A. Cutting up the branches after they were off the tree.
Q. Could you tell me a little bit about your work history. Do you have any licenses or certifications?
A. I'm certified to run printing presses. Or at least I was.
Q. You worked for Sharp Printing, Inc. from '91 to 2011; is that right?
A. Ninety-one? No. I would say 1999.
Q. Did you own that corporation?
A. Yes. Well, partner. I was a partner. I didn't own like...
Q. It was an Illinois corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you –
A. A stockholder.
Q. Let me just finish my question so she can take us down.
You were a stockholder in Sharp Printing, Inc.?

Page 14

A. Yes.
Q. Who else were the stockholders?
A. Mike McArtor and Scott Dulberg and at that time it was Herbert Dulberg.
Q. What does that mean? Do you mean Scott's name was Herbert?
A. No. Scott Dulberg was an owner and Herbert Dulberg was an owner. Three different Dulbergs: me, my brother, my dad.
Q. And Mike McArtor?
A. Yes.
Q. There were four owners at what time?
A. Until my dad died and then it went to three.
Q. Was that business incorporated?
A. Yes.
Q. Did a lawyer assist the corporation with setting up the corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. When did that happen?
A. 1999.
Q. Did you hire the lawyer yourself?
A. All three of us did. All four of us. Sorry.

Q. What was the name of that attorney?
A. McAndrews, and I don't remember the rest of it. It was McAndrews in McHenry. I can get you the rest of that information.
Q. They are based in Crystal Lake, Illinois?
A. It used to be in McHenry when we did that.
Q. Patrick McAndrews, he was also identified as the registered agent of that corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. It was voluntarily dissolved on April 8, 2011; is that right?
A. That's what the Secretary of State's Office has, yes.
Q. Is that your understanding as well?
A. I was corrected. My partners – I was corrected. It was actually after the accident. How it got to end up with that date, I'm not sure.
Q. What was corrected, exactly?
A. Well, do you want me to – Mike read my deposition and he said, "You got that wrong." I said, "What do you mean?" because I answered it twice in that deposition.
I was thinking that Juskie happened before the accident. Sharp Printing wasn't actually dissolved until after the accident when we decided to sell off the equipment and end it all. That's the honest truth.

Q. I will represent to you that the Illinois Secretary of State's Website as of today shows that the company was involuntarily dissolved on April 8, 2011. So it's your testimony that that is not true?
A. I don't know how they come up with that.
Q. Why don't we break it down and start with why the corporation was involuntarily dissolved. Do you know that?
A. Involuntarily? I don't know. It may be that I was late on paying the corporate licensing thing, which we just pay a fine and did it. We didn't renew it because we decided to end it.
We had a ten-year thing, I think, on it. I may be wrong. I've got to go back and look at the records.
Q. Is it possible that the corporation was actually involuntarily dissolved by the Illinois Secretary of State on April 8, 2011?
A. Sure.
Q. Did Sharp Printing, Inc. file corporate tax returns while it was a going concern?

A. We had a problem the couple of years before the accident because I was not up in Illinois and I usually did that with the lawyer and the accountant and things got screwed up while I was taking care of a loved one who was dying down in Florida.
Q. Did the corporation ever file tax returns?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. When did they file?
A. Quarterly and annually.
Q. Until what year?
A. Roughly somewhere in 2008. I was missing things because I was not here. I know we missed a few.
Q. I believe you testified in your underlying deposition that Sharp Printing, Inc. was not dissolved as a result of your June 28, 2011 chainsaw accident, correct?
A. Yes, I did. I stood corrected by my partners.
Q. So is it your testimony that the corporation was dissolved because of your personal injury?

A. I don't know how to answer that without going back and looking at records.
Q. Was the company winding down up until about the time you were hurt?
A. The company books got screwed up when I was down in Florida and I was back up in Illinois in 2010 getting back on my feet and I was going to pick things back up, get everything paid up, the fines and everything.
Q. Who were you taking care of in Florida?
A. My grandmother.
Q. You were gone from when until when?
A. I want to say from the mid to end of 2007 until somewhere in the beginning of 2010.
Q. Was anyone running Sharp Printing during that period of time?
A. Mike McArtor.
Q. Did Sharp Printing have any customers for that three-year period?
A. Yes, they did.
Q. How many?
A. I'm not sure, without looking at the books.

Q. Can you estimate what the yearly revenues were for Sharp Printing in the year 2007?
A. In 2007? I'd have to look at the books, to be honest with you.
Q. Was it more than $5,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it more than $100,000?
A. No.
Q. Was it more than $20,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Same line of questioning with respect to 2008. Do you know what the revenues were for Sharp Printing in '08?
A. Are you asking me what we reported or what we made and put into accounts for equipment?
Q. I'm asking you about revenues.
A. Total sales?
Q. Total revenues.
A. In two thousand...?
Q. 2008.
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Can you estimate what they were?
A. No, because I wasn't there.
Q. Do you know how many customers the company had in 2008?

A. We had a few, I know that. I don't know how many. Mike was handling it and it got messed up.
Q. What types of customers did Sharp Printing have in 2007 and 2008?
A. What kind of customers?
Q. Right. What did you do?
A. We printed on t-shirts. We printed on CDs. We printed on anything that wasn't wet. We printed on glass, all different stuff.
Q. Were there any full-time employees of Sharp Printing in '07 and '08?
A. In '07 and '08, no.
Q. Just the owners?
A. Just the owners.
Q. Did all the owners operate the business?
A. Yes.
Q. Including your brother?
A. Yes.
Q. What were the yearly revenues of Sharp Printing in 2009?
A. I don't know.
Q. What about 2010, do you know?

Page 21

A. No.
Q. When did Sharp Printing start selling its equipment?
A. I put up the ad in August. I think August. I might be off by a month or two. August of 2011.
Q. Did you sell any equipment prior to August 2011?
A. No.
Q. What type of equipment did Sharp Printing, Inc. have or own?
A. Mostly textile screen printing equipment, but we had other screen printing stuff too. Paper.
Q. Where was the equipment located?
A. My home.
Q. Did you require a license to conduct this business out of your home?
A. We had what was called a temporary -- we're in a rural area so we didn't have to have that.
Q. In any event, you didn't have a license, correct?
A. We had a license to do business there, yes.

Page 22

Q. In that location?
A. Yes.
Q. Did customers ever come to the shop?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall how many customers the business had in 2010?
A. Not in 2010.
Q. Was it more than five?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it more than 100?
A. It might be around that. I don't know, specifically.
Q. In 2010 you may have had 100 customers that you did t-shirt screen prints for?
A. Possibly. I'm not saying that is the number, but it's possible.
Q. Did Sharp Printing have any customers in 2011?
A. Mike was finishing up one customer's thing in the spring of 2011, yes. We don't -- I'll give you -- we don't typically get much work between January 1st and the first warm days of Spring. We sell t-shirts and not a lot of people buy during that period. They just don't.

Q. You did not earn a salary from Sharp Printing, correct?
A. No.
Q. You did not earn an hourly wage, correct?
A. No.
Q. I think your interrogatory answers indicate you didn't take a profit or a draw, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. How much, if any, money did you earn from Sharp Printing in 2011?
A. Can I ask how to define that? In 2011 I didn't pull any.
Q. Did you earn any income whatsoever from Sharp Printing in 2010?
A. I don't think so.
Q. You were down in Florida for '07 to 2010?
A. Sometime in early 2010, yes.
Q. Did you earn any income from Sharp Printing from 2007 to 2010?
A. No.
Q. Were you working in Florida?
A. No.
Q. Is it fair to say you were unemployed

from 2007 to 2010?
A. Yes. I was not officially collecting unemployment.
Q. You weren't an employee of any business or working for any individual, correct?
A. I did do some work for Mark. I did some traveling back and forth from Florida to Illinois back and forth during that time. When I was up here, I did do some work for Juskie Printing. Not much, though.
Q. What is Juskie Printing?
A. Juskie Printing is another one that I had listed as an employer in the underlying case.
Q. What are they?
A. Another print broker.
Q. Where are they located?
A. I don't know the exact address, but it's off of Chicago Avenue off of 355 going south.
MS. WILLIAMS: I think he's asking what city.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know how the cities break up down there.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Somewhere in the western suburbs of

Chicago?
A. Yes.
Q. How long did you have a relationship with Juskie Printing?
A. Since the early 2000s.
Q. What type of printing did Juskie do?
A. Offset, mostly.
Q. What does that mean?
A. Prints on paper.
Q. Did you have a set schedule at any time working for Juskie?
A. I don't know what you mean by "a set schedule."
Q. Did you have a particular number of hours per week?
A. No. The jobs I got were project based.
Q. How many projects did you have from 2007 to 2011 for Juskie?
A. Probably a few hundred quick little things, yeah. At least.
Q. Do you know what you earned from working at Juskie in 2007?
A. Not without looking at the returns, I don't know offhand.

Q. How often were you in the Chicago area in 2007?
A. I didn't leave here until, I want to say, August or September of '07.
Q. And then thereafter?
A. I was not back that year.
Q. You didn't work for Juskie in 2008, correct?
A. I might have done some stuff.
Q. You're not sure?
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Were you in Florida?
A. Part of the time, yeah.
Q. How often did you come back and forth between –
A. About every three months I tried to get back up here.
Q. For how long?
A. Sometimes a few weeks. Sometimes a month.
Q. Did you come back and work or did you take care of other things?
A. If I'd let Mark know I was back, "I've got something for you or I don't."

Q. Who is Mark?
A. Mark owns Juskie Printing.
Q. I think your interrogatory answers indicated from 1999 through 2006 you were employed in a barter situation; is that right?
A. With Mark, yes.
Q. What does that mean, exactly?
A. Well, he would owe me money and he would give me printing equipment instead of cash.
Q. He owed you money for working for him?
A. Well, he owed both Sharp Printing and me, personally, money. They are two different things. But he would just pay by saying, hey, I've got this or I've got this paper cutter or this or that. It was a barter.
Q. So you worked for him from 1999 to 2006 but did not earn any income in the traditional sense?
A. No money changed hands.
Q. He gave you things to pay you for projects?
A. Correct.
Q. You gave a deposition in the underlying case on January 24, 2013. Does that sound right?

Page 28

A. If it says it on there, yes.
Q. You took an oath that day?
A. Yes.
Q. You told the truth?
A. I tried to, to the best of my knowledge, on that day, yes.
Q. You told the truth in response to all of the questions that day, correct?
A. I tried to, yes.
Q. You testified you were last employed prior to the accident in May of 2011?
A. That would be with Juskie, yes.
Q. It's accurate –
A. Actually, I wasn't employed. I was a 1099 so I was self-employment.
Q. When in May did you stop working for Juskie, whether it be as an employee or an independent contractor?
A. I believe it was the end of May.
Q. Then from the beginning of June until your accident on June 28, 2011, you were not employed; is that an accurate statement?
A. Correct.
Q. You were not even acting as an independent contractor for any business from that period of time, correct?

A. Not during that month, no.
Q. Your deposition testimony from 2013 is typed up on 175 pages. I don't intend to go back over each of those details.
A. Okay.
Q. It's fair to say you were injured, your arm was injured on June 28, 2011, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Which arm was that?
A. My right arm.
Q. As a result of the injury, you hired the Popovich law firm to explore a recovery in the case?
A. I hired them to represent me, yes.
Q. You hired them to represent you and file a lawsuit against David Gagnon who was operating the chainsaw that injured you, correct?
A. He was one of them, yes.
Q. I'm asking you if you hired him to – listen to the question, please.
David Gagnon was operating the chainsaw, correct?
A. Correct.

Q. No one else was operating the chainsaw?
A. Correct.
Q. You also hired Popovich to sue Bill and Caroline McGuire, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. They were the land owners where your accident occurred?
A. They did own the land, yes.
Q. The accident occurred at their house, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. This was in the backyard, so to speak?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans Mast was the primary handling attorney at the Popovich firm for your case?
A. That's who I met with, yes.
Q. Did any other lawyer communicate with you while Popovich was handling your case?
A. The lady who sat in on my deposition. Ms. Freeman I think it is. I'm not sure about that.
Q. Generally speaking, Hans Mast, though, was the primary handling attorney?
A. Yes.
Q. Before you hired the Popovich firm in May of 2012, is that the correct time period?

Page 31

A. I don't think so. I don't think they filed it until then, but I might be wrong. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Was there a retainer agreement executed in May 2012?
A. I don't think I paid a retainer.
Q. Did you execute an attorney engagement agreement in May 2012?
A. I believe it was much earlier than that.
Q. You only executed one engagement letter or engagement agreement with Popovich, correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. Before you executed or came to an arrangement with Popovich, had you talked to any other lawyers about investigating –
A. One.
Q. Let me finish the question.
– investigating or filing the lawsuit?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that?
A. I went back to the same firm that handled the car accident for me years earlier.
Q. What was the name of that firm?

A. They changed names when I went back there. It was Weiss – I have to go back through paperwork and get you the actual name.
Q. They are known as a personal injury firm; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you not hire them to take your case?
A. The man who handled my case previously with the car accident was no longer with the firm and they said go find somebody else.
Q. I'm not sure what one has to do with the other.
A. I don't either. I just said okay and I went and found somebody else.
Q. Did you meet with an attorney at that firm?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you tell them what happened with your incident?
A. Yes.
Q. They told you that they did not want to take the case; is that right?
A. Yes.

Q. They declined the case?
A. They declined the case.
Q. Did they tell you why they declined the case?
A. No.
Q. You next went to the Popovich firm?
A. Yes.
Q. They took the case?
A. Yes.
Q. They, ultimately, filed a lawsuit against Gagnon and the McGuires on May 15, 2012; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. You reviewed the lawsuit and approved it, correct?
A. I didn't – I never got anything to review.
Q. Did you ever read the lawsuit?
A. No. I was never given any paperwork.
Q. Back to the incorporation of Sharp. What interaction did you have with corporate lawyers when they were first retained?
A. McAndrews?
Q. Correct.

Page 34

A. What relationship?
Q. What experience did you have with McAndrews when you first retained them?
A. He was good.
Q. How often did you meet with him or speak to him?
A. Once a year.
Q. Did he file corporate returns or other documents for the company?
A. No. I had to file them. He just made sure they were all done right, I believe.
Q. Have you ever had occasion to hire a criminal lawyer?
A. I did in 1990. My mom and dad had to hire one. Not me.
Q. Did you hire a criminal lawyer for your mom and dad?
A. No. They hired one for me.
Q. Who was that?
A. Give me a second. You're digging back far in my memory. Driscoll was the last name.
Q. This was a McHenry County-based criminal lawyer?
A. No. Des Plaines.

Q. What was the general nature of the reason for the need for a lawyer?
A. Drug possession.
Q. Were you convicted of it?
A. Yes. I pled guilty.
Q. That was a Cook County case, then?
A. No. It was a McHenry County case.
Q. The lawyer was in Des Plaines, though?
A. Yes.
Q. But he represented you in McHenry County in criminal court?
A. Yes.
Q. Throughout the case you met with the lawyer?
A. A few times.
Q. While Popovich represented you in the underlying personal injury case, did you ever communicate with any other lawyers about your case?
A. At the end, yes.
Q. Popovich withdrew sometime in March 2015?
A. Correct.
Q. And Brad Balke entered his appearance on March 19, 2015. Does that sound correct?
A. That is correct.

Q. Popovich also withdrew that day, right?
A. I don't know if it was on the same day. I'd have to look at the paperwork.
Q. Besides Mr. Balke, had you talked to any other lawyers towards the end of the relationship with Popovich?
A. Yes.
Q. How many?
A. Hundreds.
Q. Hundreds of lawyers?
A. I'm not kidding. Yes.
Q. Did you ask those lawyers to take your case?
A. I asked them to review it.
Q. Did any of them take the case?
A. No.
Q. They all reviewed it, though?
A. Yes. Most took the time to review it.
Q. Did any of them tell you why they didn't want to take the case?
A. There were different reasons I got from various. Some people just didn't get back to me and some people wrote me letters. I think I gave you some of those. But I got various reasons back from attorneys.

Q. I don't recall seeing any lawyers, but I would ask you to search for those.
MS. WILLIAMS: We'll search for those. I'll make a note.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. As you sit here, do you recall the basis for any attorney declining to take your personal injury case over from Popovich?
A. Say that again.
Q. As you sit here today, do you recall any of the reasons why any attorney declined to take your personal injury case over from the Popovich firm?
A. Yes.
Q. What were those reasons?
A. I remember a few. One I was looking at local lawyers in McHenry County and I was told like -- I can name them. My sister was married to him.
Anyway, I was told if Tom Popovich says you don't have a case, you don't have a case and we're not even going to look at it. That I got a lot of it.

Q. That's one reason. Any others?
A. That I got locally a lot of. As I started to work away from local further out finding attorneys, the thing was your decision to settle with the McGuires was a mistake and we don't take it because of that.
Q. Who said that?
A. Sal Ferris.
Q. When did you speak to Sal Ferris?
A. I don't know the exact date.
Q. When did he --
A. He wasn't the only one.
Q. When did he say that to you, that you just described?
A. He said it in a letter and he said it on the phone and he sent me an e-mail, I think. I don't remember the ways that he contacted me. I'd have to go back and look.
MS. WILLIAMS: We'll find it.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Besides Sal Ferris, can you recall any other attorney, specifically, that told you they wouldn't take the case because of your settlement with the McGuires?

Page 39

A. Yes.
Q. Who was that?
A. There was at least three firms downtown here right near the Daley Center that I came down to see and I don't remember their names, but they -- I got the same thing out of all three of them.
Q. Did any of the lawyers give you any other reason for declining your case?
A. Mostly it was because they knew Popovich or it was the McGuire settlement.
Q. Did any lawyer tell you that they didn't want to take your case because there was questionable liability against David Gagnon?
A. No.
Q. Did any lawyer tell you that there was questionable liability against the property owners, the McGuires?
A. No.
Q. We're jumping ahead, but did you have different lawyers that handled a binding arbitration or binding mediation for you in the underlying case?
A. Yes.
Q. Their name was Baudin?
A. Yes.

Q. Why did Brad Balke not handle the binding arbitration?
A. I fired him.
Q. When did you fire Brad Balke?
A. I'd have to look at the dates. I'm not sure, exactly.
Q. Why did you fire him?
A. Because he forced me to undergo the exact mediation at the McHenry County court in front of Judge Meyer that Hans Mast set up that I specifically said no to.
Q. When was this mediation?
A. I'd have to look at the dates again.
Q. Was it a pretrial conference?
A. Yes.
Q. You actually attended this pretrial conference?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. What happened?
A. I said no.
Q. You said no about what?
A. They offered an amount of money and I said no.
Q. The defendants offered an amount of money?

A. Yes.
Q. Was this before or after the McGuires settled out of the case?
A. They were settled.
Q. So there was an offer of settlement from David Gagnon or his insurer?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall what that amount of money was?
A. $50,000.
Q. You refused the offer?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did that cause you to fire Brad Balke?
A. He wouldn't take it any further than that and he agreed to when I hired him. He agreed that that was not going to be the end of it and then he changed his tune, and I said, you know what – and the other thing was, I finally got through to the Baudins who I wanted to take the case because they had helped my family – his dad helped my family many eons earlier.
Q. Did you ever talk to Brad Balke about the liability or lack of liability by the McGuires, the property owners in the case?

A. I don't think so. We were on the Gagnon case.
Q. You didn't discuss the McGuires?
A. There may have been a word or something, but that's not what he was there for.
Q. He never gave you an opinion one way or the other whether the settlement was appropriate?
A. I don't believe Brad did, no. Like I said – I don't think he did.
Q. At some point after your accident did you hire the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that for –
A. I didn't hire.
Q. I know you're anticipating what I'm saying.
A. I was trying to correct myself. I did not hire.
Q. Either way, let me try to get out my question before you raise any kind of response, just so she can take down –
A. Count before I answer.

Q. That's a good idea.
Did you ever retain the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. NO.
Q. Did you have any relationship with Daley Disability –
A. Yes.
Q. – Law? Let me finish it before you answer. I know you're anticipating what you think I'm going to say, but it might not come out the way you think. Either way, she can't take down both of us talking over each other.
What relationship did you ever have with the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. They stepped in as a substitute counsel for the law firm that I did hire.
Q. You originally hired some other law firm to represent you in connection with social security disability?
A. Yes.
Q. What was the name of that original law –
A. The lady's ladies name was Margaret Bradshaw.
Q. You terminated your relationship with her one way or another?

A. No.
Q. Why did Daley Disability Law substitute in for her?
A. I was told by – I have to go back and look at the communications exactly how it happened, but I was told that, basically, they are going to be taking over the hearing part of it. I don't know why. I don't know whether they sub out work. I don't know how it works.
Q. Would it be fair to say that you first retained Ms. Bradshaw in 2012 sometime?
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Is that approximately when you applied for social security?
A. It sounds like it.
Q. The Daley Disability Law Firm came in sometime in 2012 as well?
A. I don't know exactly when. I don't know.
Q. Would it be 2012 or 2013?
A. I know that they were there and – I know that something had to be signed when we went in for the hearings. Margaret Bradshaw had to sign something for the judge allowing Daley Disability to represent me at the hearings. I don't know when exactly they got involved. That's behind the scenes. I didn't have anything to do with that.

Q. Did you file for bankruptcy while your personal injury case was pending?
A. Yes.
Q. When did you file for bankruptcy?
A. I'd have to look at the paperwork again, but I don't believe that was until, I want to say, about eight or nine months, but I'm guessing, after the McGuire settlement.
MS. WILLIAMS: The question was what month and year.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know exactly. I'd have to go back and look at the paperwork.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Did you hire a lawyer to represent you in a bankruptcy?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that lawyer?
A. David Stretch.
MS. WILLIAMS: If it helps, we can stipulate to the date the bankruptcy was filed.

Page 46

MR. FLYNN: That's fine. I think we've got some e-mails that may reflect when it was. I just wondered if he knew offhand.
MS. WILLIAMS: I can stipulate, at least, that it was 2014.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. You filed for bankruptcy while the Popovich firm was still representing you —
A. Yes.
Q. — in the underlying case, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Sometimes I'll still pause in my question so if you could please pause before you answer.
In the underlying case you answered written discovery; is that true?
A. I believe so.
Q. Then you later testified at your deposition January 24, 2013, correct?
A. If that's the date, yes.
Q. Ultimately, David Gagnon was also deposed, true?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you present for his deposition?
A. No.

Q. Did Caroline McGuire give a deposition in that case?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. Were you present for that dep?
A. No.
Q. What about Bill McGuire's deposition?
A. I was not present.
Q. Did you e-mail back and forth with Hans Mast a fair amount during the Popovich firm's representation of you?
A. By "fair amount," what do you mean?
Q. Did you regularly e-mail with Hans Mast?
A. Yes.
Q. Those e-mail communications have all been produced in this case?
A. Yes.
Q. On to the exhibits. This will be 1.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 1, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me show you what's been marked as Exhibit 1. These are one set of your Answers to Interrogatories in our case, the current legal malpractice case you filed against the Popovich firm and Hans Mast.

Do you recognize this document?
A. Yes.
Q. We've been providing you with various copies of the signature page in the case that's been back and forth between me and your counsel.
I don't, frankly, know if this verification that's attached is the one that went with this document, but I'll just ask you, for the record, if these are your answers, that's your signature, and that this verification is accurate?
A. That is my signature on there, yes.
Q. What was the e-mail address you used in the communication with Hans Mast?
A. Primarily it was pdulberg@comcast.net.
Q. His address was hansmast@comcast.net?
A. And he switched it to at&t.net.
Q. Did you use some other e-mail address as well?
A. I may have accidentally e-mailed him a couple of times from a Yahoo account.
Q. In answering discovery in our case, the legal malpractice case, did you search through both of those e-mail accounts of yours?

A. I no longer have the Yahoo account.
Q. Did you search through the Comcast account?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you search for PDFs or attachments to those e-mails that you produced?
A. Everything that I got, I turned over. I had converted the e-mails to PDFs because Comcast started purging the e-mails after so many years, so I turned them all into PDFs.
MS. WILLIAMS: The question was what did you search in your in box.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. What did I search?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask you a different question.
You produced e-mails in this case?
A. Yes.
Q. You turned e-mails into PDFs and sent them to your lawyer; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. Some of the e-mails I reviewed have an icon that indicates there was a PDF or some other attachment to the e-mail. Do you understand that?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you produce the attachments to each of the e-mails in this case?
A. We went through that. I produced the attachments that I still had.
Q. There were some that were not available, correct?
A. Yeah. When I looked at them, 99 percent of them were already part of some other document that we turned over. I think 100 percent of them.
Q. At some point in time while Hans was handling your case, did he start to communicate with you relative to his analysis of the McGuires' liability in the case?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he start to generally advise you that he didn't believe that there was a strong case for liability against the McGuires?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that Hans' opinion was that the McGuires did not have liability in the case because they did not control the work that David Gagnon was doing?

Page 51

A. Yes.
Q. That's generally a fair summary of Hans' opinion?
A. Not quite exactly those words, but yeah.
Q. The McGuires' liability as property owners was questionable because based on Hans' analysis of the evidence, they did not control the work or the manner of work of David Gagnon on the date of the accident; is that a fair summary?
A. Depends on which time he said that.
Q. Did he say things like that over and over again?
A. He did say things like that, yes.
Q. Again, I don't want to go over the facts you already testified to with regards to the date of the accident. At some point in time was William McGuire swimming in the swimming pool?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that an above ground pool or —
A. Above ground.
Q. Was there a fair amount of time during the day that Mr. McGuire was inside the house watching television?
A. Maybe — he went inside the house for probably about 45 minutes before the accident happened. I don't know that he was watching television.

MR. FLYNN: Let's mark the next exhibit as 2.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 2, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 2, which is an e-mail chain including e-mails from November 18, 2013, are these e-mails between you and Hans Mast?
A. It looks like it, yes.
Q. I think the time stamps on these e-mails go from the bottom, which would be page 2, to the top of the first page, correct?
A. It's backwards, yes.
Q. In the original e-mail at 1:28 p.m., did Hans Mast relay to you a $5,000 settlement offer from the McGuires?
A. Which — where are you at?
Q. We're on Exhibit 2, which is also labeled as Bates label POP 181. At the bottom of the page, does Hans relay to you a settlement offer for $5,000?

A. Yes.
Q. He was telling you that the McGuires' attorney offered to settle the case for $5,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding that that was a settlement just for the McGuires, not including David Gagnon?
A. Yes.
Q. In the e-mail Hans says, quote, "As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now."
Is that an accurate reading?
A. Of that sentence, yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that he suggested that you take the $5,000 but didn't force you to take it?
A. It says, "So my suggestion is..."
Q. Then did you respond to the e-mail?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans replied again at 8:07 p.m. that same day, right?
A. Yes.

Q. He said, "Paul, whether you like it or not, they don't have a legal liability for your injury because they were not directing the work."
Is that right?
A. Part of it, yes.
Q. Was my prior summary of Hans' legal analysis a fair summary in view of these e-mails and his opinion that he relayed to you?
A. I think it went further than this, and other things, but yes.
Q. As far as these e-mails, I've accurately –
A. This e-mail, yes.
Q. What else did he tell you about the McGuires and why he didn't think they would be found liable in the case?
A. I'm pulling out of memory because I can't quote which document it's off of.
Q. That's what we're here for.
A. I can only give you the gist.
Q. I'll ask you for the exact language, but if you don't have it –
A. At one point he defined what an independent contractor is for me and he said that

David was an independent contractor and that the McGuires weren't liable because they had hired somebody outside even though it's their own son, he's an adult, outside to do the work and that they weren't responsible.
Q. By the way, how old was David at the time that this accident occurred?
A. I'm adding. If I was 41 – I don't know what his birthday is, but I'm assuming he would be 44, 45.
Q. Is it fair to say that there were two 40-plus-year-olds, a 41- and a 44-year-old trimming trees with a chainsaw in David's parent's backyard that day, correct?
A. I was not using it. There was one 44-year-old using a chainsaw.
Q. You, the 41-year-old was holding some branches for him?
A. Yes. Just before the accident, yes.
Q. Up until this point in time when Hans is providing this legal analysis to you, you had a fair number of occasions to interact with lawyers, as we've discussed today, correct?
A. At this point, the only lawyer that I interacted with was the first one.

Q. I'm talking about in your lifetime. You had a corporate lawyer, you had a criminal lawyer, another personal injury lawyer –
A. I didn't hire –
Q. Let me finish. You had experience with lawyers representing you up to this point in time?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding that lawyers evaluate cases differently?
A. Yes.
Q. And judges evaluate cases differently?
A. Sure. That's fair.
Q. Would it be fair to say that some laws in our country are clearer and some are open to interpretation?
A. I think all of them are.
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. Calls for speculation.
If you understand the question, you can answer it.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Would you say, for example, that the tax code is a little more clearcut than common law that's created by cases and case precedent?

A. I'm not real familiar with tax law. I have accountants for that.
Q. How about an easier question. The stop sign means that you stop, and if you go through it, it's pretty clear that you're liable for a traffic violation?
A. I'll agree with that.
Q. The legal liability for a property owner in Illinois might be a little more complicated; is that a fair statement?
A. I don't know.
Q. Would it be fair to say, in your opinion or your knowledge of the law, the property owner isn't necessarily liable because somebody is injured on their property?
A. Are you talking about what I know now or what I knew back when this was?
Q. At any time.
A. What I know now is in the circumstances that we were in, they were very liable.
Q. I'm just asking if – just because somebody is injured on a property owner's property, they are not necessarily liable, correct? Other factors are required too.

MS. WILLIAMS: I'm going to object for – he's not an expert and can't testify to legal analysis.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. As you sit here today, do you know whether a premises liability case involves multiple factors to prove liability against the property owner?
A. I don't know. I'd say that's fair. You're asking the wrong person for that.
Q. It was Hans' opinion that the McGuires did not control the work based on the evidence, correct?
A. In my opinion?
Q. That's not what I'm asking.
Was it Hans' opinion –
A. I can't –
Q. Let me just finish.
Did Hans tell you that it was his opinion that the McGuires were not liable because they did not control the work?
A. He said that right there, yes.
Q. Do you believe that he truly felt that way? That was his legal opinion?

A. Do you want the Monday morning quarterbacking version or at the time?
Q. I'm asking if at that time you felt that he truly believed that the McGuires did not have liability?
A. At the time I trusted him, yes. I hired him to represent me, and yeah.
Q. You believed that he was relying his honest legal opinion to you at that time?
A. Yes.
Q. Including on November 18, 2013?
A. Yes.
Q. You did not accept the settlement offer of $5,000 that he relayed to you on that day, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you ultimately meet with Hans to discuss the settlement offer?
A. I think it was the day before this, but I'm not sure. It was either the day before or the day after.
MS. WILLIAMS: I think the question was, did you meet with him, at all, not the date.

BY THE WITNESS:
A. Yes.
MR. FLYNN: Can we mark this as Exhibit 3, please.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 3, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 3. Do you recognize this memorandum?
A. Yes.
Q. You may have seen it from the document production that we made in this case. This is a memorandum drafted by Hans Mast, which purportedly memorializes a meeting that he had with you on November 20, 2013.
Does this refresh your memory as to when you met with him or if you met with him?
A. If he took the memorandum on the same day, then sure.
Q. In the memo Hans says, "I met with Paul and his friend."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.

Page 61

Q. Did you meet with Hans and some third person –
A. Yes.
Q. – at or about this time regarding the case?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that friend?
A. Tom Kost.
Q. Who is Tom Kost?
A. My brother.
Q. Not that it matters necessarily for privilege purposes, but can you tell me how Tom Kost is your brother?
A. We have the same mom.
Q. He was with you and observed the meeting between you and Hans?
A. Yes.
Q. The $5,000 settlement offer was discussed, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. At that time did Hans, again, relay his opinion as to the questionable liability about the McGuires – strike that.
Did he relay to you his opinion about the questionable nature of the McGuires' liability?

A. At the meeting with Tom, yes.
Q. He advised you they maintain they were not directing Dave's work. That was the McGuires' position, correct?
A. I don't know that he stayed on that at that meeting. At different times he gave different reasons.
Q. The next line says, "Paul maintains the McGuires controlled everything that Dave was doing."
Is that an accurate reflection of your opinion?
A. Yes.
Q. As you sit here today, do you know if that statement is consistent with your own deposition testimony from the underlying case?
A. Yes.
Q. We'll come back to that. Did you tell Hans that you wanted to read the depositions of the McGuires and David Gagnon's depositions?
A. Say that again.
Q. Did you tell Paul that you wanted to read the depositions of the McGuires and Dave Gagnon's depositions?

Page 63

A. Did I tell Paul?
Q. I'm sorry. Did you tell Hans that?
A. That I wanted to read the McGuires and David Gagnon's depositions?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes, I did.
Q. What was the purpose of your wanting to review those depositions?
A. Hans had told me that what they said in their depositions meant that they had no liability.
Q. You wanted to review the testimony to determine whether you wanted to consider the $5,000 settlement offer; is that correct?
A. Right.
Q. Did you do that?
A. Eventually, yes.
Q. Before you accepted the offer?
A. I think so.
Q. So sometime after this meeting on November 20, 2013 and before you accepted the settlement offer on January 29, 2014, did you review those three deposition transcripts?
A. I'll correct you. I did not accept the offer on January 20th. I signed a release on

January 29th.
Q. Fair point. Did you read the depositions between those two dates, November 20, 2013 and January 29, 2014?
A. Yes.
Q. Those are –
A. I believe I asked him -- I don't know – it may be a little earlier because I don't know that I asked him before or after the meeting. I don't remember. I'd have to go back in the e-mails to give the date.
Q. Some point in time between those two dates you read the deps?
A. I may have asked for them before. I don't know without seeing the e-mail. It was, roughly, in the last quarter of that year, yes. Or the first month. I don't remember the first time that I asked to read them. I don't remember off the top of my head.
Q. At any point in time did you ever grant Hans authority to make a settlement demand in the case?
A. No.
MR. FLYNN: Mark this as Exhibit 4.

(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 4, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 4. This is a copy of the original complaint in this instant case. It reflects a filing date of November 28, 2017.

Is this your original legal malpractice complaint against the Popovich firm and Hans Mast?

A. I believe so.

Q. Did you review and approve the allegations in this complaint?

A. For the most part. I wanted to reword some things, but the lawyer, they do their thing.

Q. At the time you were represented by the Gooch firm is when you filed this lawsuit, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Directing your attention back to Exhibit 1, if you still have it. If you could turn to page 10.

The answer to Interrogatory No. 24 indicates that on November 4, 2013, Mest was granted authority to investigate a settlement but a specific dollar amount was never provided. Do you see that?

A. He was verbally granted authority to investigate, yes.

Q. Who did you want him to investigate a settlement with?

A. The McGuires.

Q. Just the McGuires or the McGuires and –

A. He wanted to do it. I didn't. I said, "If you want to look at that, go ahead."

Q. Did you grant him authority to investigate a settlement with David Gagnon as well?

A. I don't know if I did or not, off the top of my head, but that would have been much later.

Q. Eventually did you tell Hans that you would agree to accept the $5,000 settlement offer from the McGuires?

A. Eventually did I tell him that?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. When did you tell him that?

A. I want to say just before Christmas in December of 2013.

Q. There's no doubt in your mind that you relayed your acceptance of the $5,000 settlement offer to Hans Mast before Christmas Day, which would be December 25, 2013?

A. Right.

Q. Then did Hans mail to you a settlement release by letter dated January 24, 2014?

A. I'd like to see the letter, but yeah, I believe so.

Q. I believe it's –

A. I believe he had to mail it a couple times because I didn't get it.

MR. FLYNN: Let's mark Exhibit 5.

(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 5, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 5. I'll represent to you that this is a copy of the second amended complaint that you filed in this case by your new lawyers, your current lawyers. If I could direct your attention to Exhibit D attached to this Exhibit 5.

Is Exhibit D a January 24, 2014 cover letter from Hans Mast to you enclosing the general release and settlement agreement from defense counsel for Caroline and Bill McGuire?

A. That's what it says.

Q. In the letter did he ask you to – it looks like it might be a typo. It says, "Please release and return it to me in the enclosed self-addressed stamped envelope at your earliest convenience."

A. Right, but I believe it was just a release – it was all tied into one.

Q. This letter is unsigned. Did you receive the letter unsigned?

A. Did I receive this unsigned?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever seen a signed copy of this letter?

A. No.

Q. If I could direct your attention to the next page of Exhibit D. Is that page 1 of the general release and settlement agreement?

A. Exhibit D?

Q. Correct.

MS. WILLIAMS: Turn the page.

Page 69

BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Is this what you received attached to the cover letter?
A. I don't think so. Let me see. Yes, this looks like it because it's got these things I remember.
Q. When did you receive this letter and the attachment?
A. I would say I wrote back on January 29th and I probably got it that day, signed it and sent it back.
Q. The copy of the release is also unsigned. It's attached as exhibit -- part of Exhibit D to your second amended complaint.
Do you see the signature lines and the notary signature here that's missing?
A. Yes.
Q. Is this the document that you signed and sent back to Hans Mast?
A. The document that I signed had my signature.
Q. I'm asking if this is the same document that you signed and sent back to him?
A. Yes.

Q. Right now we don't have a signed copy. I don't know that I've seen one in the case.
MS. WILLIAMS: Can we go off the record for a second?
MR. FLYNN: Sure.
(WHEREUPON, discussion was had off the record.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Is there any doubt, in your mind, that Exhibit D is the letter and attachment that you received from Hans Mast?
A. No. I believe that this is it.
Q. You signed some copy of this release and sent it back to Hans on January 29; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You accepted the settlement offer prior to Christmas and presumably defense counsel or Hans drafted the settlement release and then Hans mailed it to you, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. At any point in time from December 25th until you received this settlement release, did you contact any lawyer to discuss whether it would be appropriate to let the McGuires out for 5,000?

Page 71

A. I believe I contacted Hans again.
Q. Besides Hans, did you talk to anyone else?
A. No.
Q. Was there anything preventing you from seeking a second opinion from some other lawyer at that time?
A. No.
Q. Directing your attention to Exhibit E attached to the second amended complaint, the second amended complaint, again, being Exhibit 5. Is this an e-mail from you to Hans on January 29, 2014?
A. This is the e-mail chain between me and Hans, yes.
Q. Down below at the bottom of the page, January 29 at 10:51 a.m., it appears that you were questioning Hans regarding some of the language in the release, including social security disability check boxes. Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans responded to you and then at the top of the page here at 1:59 p.m. it says, "Okay, it's signed and in the mail."
A. Correct.

Q. What did you mean by that?
A. I signed it and mailed it.
Q. Did you -- where did you mail it from?
A. My home.
Q. How did you do that?
A. Put a stamp on the envelope and put it in the mailbox, put the flag up and waited for the mailman.
Q. Is the mailbox attached to your home or is it --
A. It's out on the street.
Q. You walked down there and you put the mail -- the envelope in the mailbox, put the flag up and --
A. That is correct.
Q. Your understanding of signing that release and sending it back to your lawyer was that you would agree to take the $5,000 settlement, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans didn't deliver the letter to you personally. He mailed it to you, correct?
A. He mailed it to me?
Q. He mailed it to you.

A. Correct. U.S. mail.
Q. Do you recall an allegation in your complaint or amended complaint or second amended complaint in this case alleging that you were pressured or alleging undue influence by Hans in urging you to accept the $5,000 settlement from the McGuires?
A. Yes.
Q. How is it, as you sit here today, can you tell me how Hans unduly influenced you to accept the $5,000 settlement offer?
A. I don't know what Hans was thinking. How did I feel influenced?
Q. Unduly influenced.
Let me put it this way. He didn't put a gun to your head?
A. No.
Q. He suggested that you take the settlement?
A. Correct.
Q. He didn't force you to take the settlement?
A. Correct.
Q. It was your decision?

Page 74

A. Correct.
Q. You signed it and you sent it back to him in the mail?
A. Yes.
Q. Aside from your e-mails with Hans on January 29, did you call him that day?
A. I believe so.
Q. Did you also discuss whether it was appropriate to accept the McGuires' $5,000 settlement offer at that time?
A. Yes.
Q. You deliberated on it and decided to take it, correct?
A. There wasn't much – it was take it or get nothing.
Q. You had the opportunity to deliberate on it, correct?
A. For that day, yeah.
Q. You had reviewed the transcripts of the McGuire depositions and David Gagnon's depositions in order to provide you with some information in order to determine whether to accept the settlement offer, correct?
A. I believe I did try to read those, yes.

Q. Did you call Hans or e-mail him and question him with respect to the evidence, the testimony contained in those deposition transcripts?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you say to him and what did he say to you?
A. There were many conversations over the phone and I'm sure some through e-mails.
Q. He continued to tell you that it was his opinion that the liability on the McGuires is questionable because they did not control David Gagnon's work that day, correct?
A. It depends on which time. Sometimes he said because they didn't tell them how to squeeze the trigger. It depends which time you are talking about.
Q. Again, there was nothing preventing you from seeking a second opinion from some other lawyer at the time you signed the settlement release and sent it back to Hans, correct?
A. From the time I received it, signed it and sent it back?
Q. Right.
A. No. It was a matter of hours. I got it

that morning.
Q. You decided to mail it that day, right?
A. He needed it. He said now or you're not going to get anything.
Q. There was nothing preventing you from seeking the advice of another attorney at that time?
A. At that time it was time. It was now or nothing.
Q. You were in the comfort of your own house when you received the letter, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You had the ability to go find another lawyer and ask them to discuss the case at that time. You had done it hundreds of times earlier – strike that.
After the settlement with the McGuires, you continued to prosecute the case against Gagnon, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding as to what, if any, insurance coverage he had?
A. Yes.
Q. How much was that?
A. What time frame are you talking about?

Page 77

Q. What was your initial understanding as to the limits on David Gagnon's insurance coverage?
A. Hans Mast told me he had $100,000.
Q. Was that in an e-mail?
A. There were – not initially, no, but later on he reiterated that in e-mails, yes.
Q. Did you, ultimately, learn that there was some additional amount of coverage with respect to Gagnon's policy?
A. Long after Hans Mast was gone, not part of the case.
Q. How much was the coverage?
A. The Allstate coverage, I believe, was 300,000.
Q. We'll talk about the settlement later, but did you ultimately settle the case again Gagnon for 300,000?
A. I believe it went to binding mediation.
Q. Was there an award of $300,000 based on a high/low agreement?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that if Hans made a mistake about the $100,000 in coverage, that that was corrected and there was never any harm done as a result of his –

A. No.
Q. Explain to me how you were harmed by the representation that there was $100,000 in coverage.
A. You want me to explain?
Q. Yes.
A. Had I known the value of the case, I would have not filed for bankruptcy.
Q. Explain to me why one has something to do with the other.
A. Is my family and me going to dump money into a black hole that we can't recover or is there a light at the end of the tunnel where I can pay them back.
Q. At the time that you filed for bankruptcy, had any settlement offer been made from David Gagnon or his lawyers to you?
A. At the time of when?
Q. When you filed for bankruptcy.
A. I don't think so. I'd have to check the dates, but I don't think so.
Q. As the case was progressing against David Gagnon, were your doctors deposed?
A. As the case progressed with David Gagnon,

Page 79

I believe they were deposed. I don't remember. I'd have to look at the dates.
Q. Discovery continued on in the case?
A. I believe one doctor was deposed after the McGuire settlement. I'm not sure, though.
Q. Did Hans continue to represent you for some period of time?
A. Yes.
MR. FLYNN: I'll have you mark this as Exhibit 6.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 6, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 6. Do you recognize this e-mail chain?
A. Yes.
Q. This is from September 23, 2014. If we go from the bottom up, it appears that Hans said to you that he wanted to give you the option of finding other counsel at this point if you really want to take the case to trial, which I think ultimately will be necessary. Correct?
A. Are we at "before I proceed" or "that's the very reason"?

Q. "That's the very reason."
Is it fair to say he was suggesting you find another counsel in the case at that point?
A. Yes.
Q. He also said, "I just do not believe strongly that defense counsel will offer much in the way of settlement."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. That's his opinion regardless of what he believed the coverage limits to be; is that a fair statement?
A. Yes.
Q. You responded to him, he responded to you and then you wrote an e-mail to him at 8:25 p.m. that night?
A. Okay.
Q. Do you see that? Did you say, "First, I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to help prove David cut me with a chainsaw"?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you start to look for other lawyers to help you in your case against Gagnon at that point in time?

A. I believe I did, that summer. This is fall, September.
Q. You had already started looking for new lawyers?
A. I believe that Hans had told me to start looking for a new lawyer in April of that year.
Q. Did he say why?
A. We'd have to read his thing. He says why.
Q. Do you recall why he said that to you?
A. He did not feel that the case was provable against David. He did not feel the value of the case was worth it. He did not feel -- actually, this is 2014. The dates are rough.
Q. He thought the case against David was difficult, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you ever described the case as a he said, she said with respect to the facts of the accident?
A. He described that to me many times.
Q. Have you also --
A. And I used that back, yes.

Page 82

Q. Have you ever described this case as a he said, she said case?
A. I may have. I don't know.
Q. It is your word against David Gagnon's as to what happened and whose fault it was that day?
A. That's what Hans explained to me as what the problem was.
Q. Did you ever describe the accident as a he said, she said?
A. I don't think I called David a "she said" or me a "she said." I don't know. Right here I do.
Q. What do you say there?
A. I said, "I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to help prove David cut me with a chainsaw."
Q. He was denying that he even cut you, correct?
A. No, he never denied that.
Q. What was your reason for writing this sentence in that way?
A. Because Hans said that he believed David over me.
Q. With respect to what fact at issue?
A. His deposition versus mine. He said that I didn't make a good witness.

Page 83

Q. With respect to what points?
A. All of it. He was dumping me and he was coming up with his own excuses.
Q. You and David were the only ones that witnessed this accident?
A. Correct.
Q. Based on your understanding of how the evidence came out in the case, would you agree that there were differences with respect to the version of events?
A. Oh, yeah.
Q. There were differences between what he said happened and what you said happened?
A. Oh, definitely.
Q. Would it be fair to say, then, it would be up to the trier of fact, whether it be a judge or a jury, to determine who they believed?
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. Calls for a legal conclusion.
You can answer, if you understand.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I believe it would be up to a judge or jury, sure.

Page 84

BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. At the bottom of Exhibit 7 you say, "Bottom line Hans... do the best you can with what you got."
I'm sorry. I didn't mark this one yet. My apologies.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 7, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 7. Is this an e-mail chain between you and Hans?
A. I don't think it's a chain. I think it's one.
Q. Point is well taken. It's you writing to Hans?
A. Yes.
Q. At the bottom it sounds like you had been in the hospital with a migraine and then you wrote, "Bottom line, Hans... do the best you can with what you got."
A. Yes.
Q. What did you mean by that?

A. He wanted to settle, and I can tell you right now this letter was written after a very traumatic experience and – let me read it and refresh myself. I'm melting down in this letter.
Q. You said after a traumatic experience. Are you referring to the bankruptcy filing from that day?
A. That, in combination with migraines, yes.
Q. David Stretch was your lawyer that filed bankruptcy for you?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you meet with Mr. Stretch and discuss the bankruptcy process before you hired him?
A. Yes.
Q. How long did you meet with him?
A. I think I asked about it. I don't know. It may have been a couple of months or a couple weeks before it got filed. I wanted to learn about it.
Q. Did you, ultimately, list the case against David Gagnon as an asset in your bankrupt filing?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Is that why the bankruptcy trustee became involved with the binding mediation?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever meet the bankruptcy trustee?
A. Yes. The first one.
Q. What was the name of that person?
A. The first one was Heeg was her last name. H-e-e-g, I think.
Q. Again, we established that Brad Balke became your lawyer in the case on March 19, 2015, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that your relationship with Hans Mast was deteriorating over the fall and beginning of the winter of 2015?
A. I would say it had been deteriorating long before that. You can see from the last exhibit I'm melting down and it was already started deteriorating.
Q. By the time you drafted Exhibit 7, had you talked to other lawyers about taking your case?
A. I have to go back and look, but probably. If he told me to look at other lawyers in April before this, yes.
Q. How many lawyers would you say you talked to between April and the time you drafted this e-mail on September 26?

A. I couldn't count that high, probably.
Q. Quite a few?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did any of them take your case?
A. No.
MR. FLYNN: Mark this as Exhibit 8.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 8, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 8. Is this an e-mail from you to Hans Mast?
A. Yes. It's an e-mail chain, yes.
Q. On February 22, 2015 at 7:42 p.m. you wrote to Hans, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Halfway down in that e-mail message you said, quote, "Now I'm left wondering... how hard it is to sue an attorney?"
A. That is true.
Q. You wrote that?
A. Yes.

Q. The next line you wrote, "And yes, I am and have been looking for someone who will take this case..."
A. That is not in reference to suing the attorney. That was in reference to the Gagnon case.
Q. What did the reference to suing an attorney mean?
A. That was me being angry.
Q. With Hans?
A. Yes. I was seeing red.
Q. You're suggesting that you may sue him?
A. Yeah. I didn't know that I could. I'm wondering about it.
Q. You, basically, made a threat, whether it be a veiled threat or an overt threat to sue him, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You, ultimately, sued him for legal malpractice, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that what you had in mind when you wrote this?
A. No. This was about dropping Gagnon. The malpractice is about dropping the McGuires.

Page 89

Q. This –
A. We're talking – this is 2015.
Q. In this 2015 e-mail you are suggesting to Hans that you may sue him because of the McGuire settlement; is that right?
A. No.
Q. Then what is it that you're saying to him?
A. That if he damaged the Gagnon case, I didn't know if he did or didn't, and I'm threatening because I'm angry. You can see, again, I'm melting down here. These are emotional outbursts, I guess.
Q. Moving up the page a little bit also on February 22, 2015 at 8:14 p.m., you say, "To be honest, you took this case knowing it was my word versus his."
A. Yes.
Q. He said, he said, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that a fair characterization of the case, your word against David's?
A. That's how Hans kept describing it. That's the way I put it back to him, yes.
Q. You didn't correct him or dispute his characterization, did you?

A. No. I used his characterization.
Q. You agreed with it?
A. He said – how did it go? We had conversations between these e-mails on the phone. Then we would hang up and I would get angry and type it in an e-mail, type whatever it was that bothered me so he had it.
Q. Let me ask another question, if that's okay.
Did you ever correct Hans if he called this a he said, he said case? Did you ever say it's more than that?
A. Do I ever say it's more than that?
Q. Did you ever correct him? If he said it's a he said, he said case, did you say no, that's not right?
A. He said there's no witnesses. I said, "I'm a witness."
Q. You're one of the hes. It's your word against David Gagnon's, as you said in this e-mail?
A. Yes.
MR. FLYNN: If I could have you mark that as Exhibit 9.

Page 91

(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 9, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Exhibit 9, is that Brad Balke's substitute appearance that was filed on March 19, 2015 in the case against Gagnon?
A. It looks like it, yes.
Q. Back to Exhibit 5, which is the second amended complaint. If I could direct your attention to Exhibit F. This appears to be a more complete copy of another e-mail we just talked about. Is Exhibit F more of the February 22, 2015 e-mail chain?
A. I'm not sure if that's separate or the same. Oh, it looks like it.
Q. At 7:20 p.m. Hans wrote to you and said, "Paul, I can no longer represent you in the case. We obviously have differences of opinion as to the value of the case."
Right?
A. Yes.
Q. He says, "I've been telling you over a year now the problems with the case and you just don't see them."

Page 92

Correct?
A. That's what it says.
Q. Obviously, a difference of opinion, right?
A. Yes. Are you talking about difference of opinion as to the value or difference of opinion of the problems within the case?
Q. Let's go on. He says, "You keep telling me how injured you are and completely ignore that it doesn't matter if you passed away from the accident because we still have to prove that the defendant was at fault. While you think it is very clear, it is not. My guess is that seven out of ten times you will lose the case outright. That means zero. That's why I've been trying to convince you to agree to a settlement. You clearly do not want to."
Did I accurately read that?
A. Just that part of that paragraph, yes.
Q. So Hans is telling you that in his opinion your case against Gagnon you're going to lose it seven out of ten times, correct?
A. In this one, yes.
Q. He's acknowledging that you may have a chance.

A. I think later on he says nine out of ten.
Q. In this e-mail he says seven out of ten you will lose.
A. Yes.
Q. He's recognizing three times out of ten you may win, right?
A. I don't know what Hans is thinking.
Q. Is that what he said?
A. He says seven out of ten times you lose.
Q. You understood that there are risks in taking the case to trial that you could lose?
A. There are unforeseen risks, yes.
Q. There are always risks, period, in taking a case to trial?
A. Yes.
Q. Before you hired Brad Balke and after Hans told you he couldn't represent you, did you talk to any other lawyers about taking your case?
A. Yes.
Q. How many?
A. I can't tell you. A lot.
Q. Did any of them tell you that they wouldn't take the case because they didn't think you could prevail against Gagnon?

Page 94

A. No.
Q. Not one?
A. No.
Q. What are the names of any of the lawyers you talked to about taking your case over from Popovich?
A. I can't tell you without looking at documents who it was and what date it was, what it was between these two.
Q. I don't think documents I produced would help you in that regard.
I'll just ask you based on your memory the names of any lawyers you met with from the time Hans wrote this February 22 e-mail –
A. I believe –
Q. Let me finish.
A. I believe –
MS. WILLIAMS: He has not finished his question.
THE WITNESS: Sorry.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. From the time that Hans wrote this February 22 e-mail and the time that Brad Balke enters an appearance on March 19. Just the name of any lawyer you –

Page 95

A. I believe that Sal Ferris that I was talking about was one of the lawyers that I talked to.
Q. You're not sure? You believe that he was?
A. In between this time and this time?
Q. Yes.
A. I believe it's right around then.
Q. What type of law practice does Sal Ferris have?
A. I believe personal injury.
Q. Did you ever talk to him about taking your case before that date?
A. Before the date of this e-mail?
Q. Yes.
A. I'd have to look at it.
Q. He wasn't one of the original attorneys that you spoke with at the beginning of the case?
A. No.
Q. Fair to say once Balke entered his appearance on March 19, 2015 that Mast and Popovich were no longer your attorneys, correct?

Page 96

A. When Balke enters his appearance?
Q. Yes.
A. I would believe that, yes.
Q. They were terminated and Balke stepped in?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell me how the binding mediation which proceeded on December 8, 2015 evolved and came to be.
A. I was ordered into it from a bankruptcy court.
Q. Why is that?
A. I believe that the trustee put a motion up. I don't know who did it. I assume it was the trustee and the court ordered that it be put into binding mediation.
Q. Did you appear at the mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall the name of the mediator?
A. Not off the top of my head, no.
Q. One of the exhibits to your second amended complaint indicates it was retired Judge James Etchingham.
A. That sounds familiar.

Page 97

Q. Do you recall how long the mediation lasted?
A. All day.
Q. Do you know if the parties submitted mediation briefs or statements to the judge?
A. I believe both sides submitted a whole bunch of things.
Q. The Boudins represented you in this mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. Because you had fired Balke by this point?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. Directing your attention, again, to Exhibit 5, the second amended complaint and Exhibit G. Exhibit G is, apparently, a memorialization of the mediation award. Do you see that?
A. It's how the judge decided to break it down, yes.
Q. Do you see that there's an award for future medical expenses of $200,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Since that date of December 8, 2015, have you received any medical treatment relative to your injuries –

A. Yes.
Q. Let me finish. Strike the question.
Since that date, December 8, 2015, have you received any medical treatment for your injuries incurred on January 28, 2011?
A. You're asking since the date of the binding mediation?
Q. That's right.
A. Yes.
Q. What medical treatment have you received?
A. I do an ongoing with the neurologist for the dystonia.
Q. That's in your right arm?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you calculated the medical bills that you've incurred since that day?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Are they anywhere near $200,000?
A. It depends if you calculate with or without insurance. I know what I pay, but then I have to pay for the insurance that pays for that.
Q. How much have you paid out of pocket since that date for medical treatment on your arm?

Page 99

A. I don't know, offhand.
Q. Was there any doctor that opined that you would require $200,000 in future medical expenses?
A. I believe so.
Q. Who was that?
A. I believe that was Dr. Patel. I don't know that she said $200,000. She was the doctor that was handling it at the time.
Q. Did you discuss your injury with the mediator at the mediation?
A. He did ask me a few questions.
Q. How much time did you spend with him?
A. On and off. He would come in and ask me questions and then go away and then come in and would ask me questions and then go away.
I don't remember which one was the mediator, which one was the Allstate adjuster, which one was the – I don't remember.
Q. You're not sure which one was the mediator?
A. They came in and they said they are going to ask you some questions and I answered them.
Q. As you sit here today, you don't know how much face time you had with the mediator that day?

Page 100

A. I don't remember the face of which one is which.
Q. Did the issue of lost wages ever come up?
A. At the mediation with me?
Q. Yes.
A. I don't remember.
Q. Did you ever make a claim of lost wages of $250,000?
A. I may have.
Q. Do you know what that was based on?
A. Yeah.
Q. What is that based on?
A. Past and future.
Q. What past wages had you ever earned that could lead to an award of $250,000?
A. To me, that's not a very high number. I think I asked for more than that. It would be an average over a certain number of years plus benefits and that's all lost.
Q. Would it be fair to say that your income would be accurately reflected in the tax returns you've produced in this case, so I don't want to ask you about each one of them?
A. I would say my personal income, yeah.

Q. Have you filed personal tax returns since 2015?
A. Tried.
Q. I didn't ask you if you tried.
A. No. They won't let me. They said I don't make enough anymore.
MR. FLYNN: I believe the next exhibit is 10.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 10, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I'm handing you what's been marked as Exhibit 10. This is a six-page binding mediation agreement. The copy I have is unsigned.
Do you recognize this as the mediation agreement that governed your December 8, 2016 mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. If I could direct your attention to -- first, let me ask you.
Do you know why the bankruptcy trustee or the bankruptcy court ordered binding mediation as opposed to nonbinding?
A. I have no idea.

Q. On page 4, section F, subsection B -- I'm sorry, 1B. It says, "The parties agree that for this mediation the minimum award to Paul Dulberg will be $50,000. Also, the maximum award to Paul Dulberg will be $300,000."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know why the parties agreed to this high/low agreement?
A. No.
Q. Do you recall alleging in your original complaint against Popovich that there was a high/low agreement?
A. There is. There was.
MS. WILLIAMS: Can you repeat the question, please.
(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know. I'd have to read it.
MS. WILLIAMS: I asked her to read it. And you had answered it previously.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Directing your attention back to

Exhibit 4, which is the original complaint in this case. Page 4, paragraph 16.
A. Okay.
Q. There's a sentence that begins with, "Unfortunately, a high/low agreement had been executed by Dulberg reducing the maximum account he could recover to $300,000 based upon the insurance policy available."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. It's not your position or testimony that Popovich had anything to do with the high/low agreement?
A. That was a mistake in there. No.
Q. You would agree that Popovich had nothing to do with the high/low agreement?
A. I believe that events that unfolded the way they did was due to Hans Mast's initial assessment of the value of the case.
Q. Let me ask it a different way.
Did Popovich have any idea that this high/low agreement existed when it was entered into?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you have any reason to believe that he did?

A. I don't know. I don't know how much the Boudins were in contact with them because they worked together. I don't know.
Q. What do you mean, "they worked together"?
A. They worked together on all different cases. That's a small county out there.
Q. Did you ever write to Hans and accuse Popovich of having a conflict of interest because he may have gone to high school with David Gagnon?
A. I did learn that.
Q. Do you believe the fact that someone went to high school with another person may give rise to a conflict of interest in a lawsuit?
A. I was shooting in the dark and guessing why they didn't see this as a viable case.
Q. Do you think that was appropriate to send to your lawyer at the time?
A. When you're wondering why they are doing what they are doing and you learn that and they were pretty much in the same class and they all knew each other and it's a small town, let me ask you, are you friends with the guy I'm suing? That's an appropriate question.

Q. You didn't say that. You asked if they went to school together.
A. Correct.
Q. Popovich did not enter into this high/low agreement on your behalf, correct?
A. Popovich, no.
Q. When I say "Popovich," I mean generally the Popovich firm and your lawyers.
A. This was years later. No.
Q. They had nothing to do with it, right?
A. I wouldn't say anything to do with it.
Q. Withdrawn.
Who drafted this high/low agreement that's contained in the mediation agreement?
A. I'm not sure who drafted it.
Q. Would it have been either the mediator, the bankruptcy trustee, your lawyers or the defense attorneys?
A. I assume that this would have been an agreement of all of them.
Q. You don't think Popovich had anything to do with drafting this high/low agreement, do you?
A. I don't know that he did or didn't.
Q. Do you have any reason to believe that he did?

A. At this point, no.
Q. Continuing on in Exhibit 4. Directing your attention to the bottom of page 4, paragraph 10.
A. Exhibit 4. Say it again.
Q. The bottom of page 4, paragraph 20. This is your complaint against Popovich and Mast.
A. This has been amended since then.
Q. I understand. Paragraph 20 reads, "Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the high/low agreement contained therein and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time that the information Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading and that, in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell me, as you sit here today, what false and misleading information did Mast and Popovich give you?
A. That I realized on the day of the – following the execution of the mediation agreement?

Page 107

Q. Correct.
A. The liability of the McGuires.
Q. What was false about it?
A. What made them liable and what didn't.
Q. What is it you learned to dispute what you were told?
A. I learned from a reliability expert that had the report there that day that the McGuires provided the tools which made Gagnon an agent of the McGuires. He was working at their behest.
Q. Who was this liability expert?
A. What's his name?
Q. He's a doctor?
A. Yes.
Q. Continue on with that paragraph. "Following mediation, Dulberg was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016."
Do you see that allegation?
A. Yeah.
Q. Who advised you to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters?

Page 108

A. I believe that was Boudin.
Q. You believe that or you know that?
A. I know that.
Q. You alleged it in this complaint so it's important that we know who that was.
A. Yes, that was Boudin.
Q. Boudin told you to seek an independent opinion from an attorney that handles malpractice matters?
A. Yes.
Q. It says you received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.
A. Yes.
Q. That's separate and apart from any opinion you may have received from a liability expert, a doctor, an expert on chainsaws?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was the lawyer that you received a legal opinion from on December 16, 2016?
A. I believe that would be Thomas Gooch.
Q. The drafter of this complaint?
A. I'd have to look at the dates because I think – December 8th was the mediation; is that right?

Page 109

Q. Correct.
A. So the 16th would sound about right to be meeting with Gooch, but I can get that date.
Q. You met with Gooch –
A. Soon, within weeks. It was quick.
Q. Now that the door has been opened, you fired Gooch in this case, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. He drafted this complaint and he's also the one that gave you an opinion about legal malpractice liability on the part of my clients?
A. Yes.
Q. What is it that he told you on December 16, 2016?
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. I don't think we've waived that privilege, but – can we go off the record for a second?
MR. FLYNN: I don't want to go off the record. I've asked this interrogatory in about five different ways and it hasn't been answered appropriately.
The allegation was made in the complaint. That's why I drafted the interrogatory the way I did. I don't think that there's been a square answer to it. This is clear that you're talking about a legal opinion.

BY THE WITNESS:
Q. Is this the same wording as we have in the current complaint?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. It's not exactly.
A. What would this be valid for, then?
Q. You've raised a response to a statute of limitations defense in this case and placed your knowledge of the malpractice and the date of incurring of an injury at issue.
Because your discovery of malpractice has been placed at issue, it's our position that you've waived privilege anyhow with respect to this conversation on December 16, 2016.
A. I'm not sure –
MS. WILLIAMS: There's not a question pending. I'm going to make a standing objection as to privilege with Gooch.
If we can agree that that objection will stand, we can go through this line of questioning and then if we need to later, have a judge determine whether or not that line of questioning is admissible. Are you agreeable to that?

MR. FLYNN: I'm agreeable to continuing on for a few minutes. I want to explore. I'll try to lay foundation for – to confirm this wasn't anyone else, for starters. Why don't we continue on and if you need to raise it again, we can talk.
MS. WILLIAMS: Otherwise, I'm just going to raise it to every single question you ask. I just don't want to have to continue to make the objection as to – if questions are asked about advice given by a legal malpractice attorney, I'm going to raise an objection as to that.
MR. FLYNN: Okay. But this is why we had the 201K conferences, multiple 201K conferences. It was made clear, to me, that there was a waiver with respect to subsequent counsel.
MS. WILLIAMS: Tom Gooch isn't subsequent counsel.
MR. FLYNN: The allegation has been made in this complaint and apparently this is subsequent counsel subsequent to my client's representation.
MS. WILLIAMS: It is a different case. It's not subsequent counsel in the underlying case. It's a new case.

MR. FLYNN: We'll get to the interrogatory in a few minutes. I'll pull that out.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask you. Is there any other attorney besides Mr. Gooch that gave you an opinion that's referenced here on December 16?
A. No one that isn't privileged.
Q. Could it have been anyone else?
A. No.
Q. So Gooch is the only person that's being referenced here in this allegation that's in your complaint that's a public record?
I'm not asking you right now what the opinion is. I'm going to do that later. I'm asking you who gave it to you. It's not anyone besides Mr. Gooch, correct?
A. Yes. It was Thomas Gooch.
Q. He drafted the very complaint that that allegation is contained in?
A. Yes.
Q. Dr. Landford was the liability expert that you referenced earlier, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Back to the allegation that Gooch and – that Popovich and Mast provided you false and misleading information. That information was simply their legal opinion on the McGuires' liability; isn't that correct?

A. No. There was nothing simple about that. That's a very complex series of things that go all the way back to before the McGuire settlement.
Q. They didn't lie to you, did they?
A. It depends on how you define lie.
Q. How do you define lie?
A. If you know better and you say something else, that's a lie. Omission is a lie.
Q. Did they provide you with anything other than a legal opinion as to the McGuires' liability?
A. Yes. They provided me with case laws. They provided me with all different stuff. Yes.
Q. Whatever the advice that was given to you on December 16, 2016, you felt that you were mislead by Popovich and Mast at that point in time, correct?
A. At that point in time it was confirmed to me that I had a valid case against Popovich.
Q. You had a valid malpractice case against Popovich?
A. Yes. I did not know before that.

Page 114

Q. As of December 16, 2016?
A. Yes.
Q. Why is it that you didn't file that lawsuit until nearly a year later on November 28, 2017?
A. I believe because Thomas Gooch had some health issues and then his wife had some health issues. It took a while.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 11, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I'm handing you what has been marked as Exhibit 11. This is one set of your supplemental Answers to Interrogatories.
First, I'll ask you if that is your verification and signature at the end?
A. That is my signature.
Q. Again, I don't know if that verification was attached to this original document. It may have been. But there's been some confusion with respect to these verification pages. This is your signature and you answered these interrogatories, correct?
A. Yeah.

Q. So this is a valid verification page with respect to this discovery document; is that a fair statement?
A. This is supplemental to original answers.
Q. That's your signature and you agree these are your answers?
A. I've reviewed them and we went over them and yes, I agree.
Q. And they are accurate?
A. As accurate as we can be.
Q. If I could direct your attention to Interrogatory No. 26. Do you see that?
A. Okay. Yes, I see it.
Q. This is similar to what we just talked about a few minutes ago. I'll read the interrogatory to you. "Identify and describe the false and misleading information Mast and Popovich provided to you and explain how you realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information was false and misleading and the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake as alleged in paragraph 56 of your second amended complaint."
Do you see your supplemental answer here?

A. I see it, yes.
Q. You reference the mediation award and then you state, quote, "At that time Dulberg realized that Mast's advice to settle with the McGuires for $5,000 was incorrect because Mast had cited Dulberg being able to recover in full from Gagnon as his reasoning."
A. I do.
Q. Can you explain what that means because I don't quite understand it.
A. Hans Mast assured me — I want to go back to 2013, the Fall between October and the signature of the final release for the McGuires.
He assured me that, he said -- at that time he didn't tell me what anybody's policies were. He assured me that if we let the McGuires out of the case, Gagnon has enough insurance, you're going to get everything from him, so it doesn't matter that you're carrying the McGuires in the case.
Q. The next interrogatory is 27. "Identify and describe the expert opinions provided to you in December 2016 as alleged in paragraph 57 of your second amended complaint including the identity of the expert, any opinions and any other information provided by the expert which caused you to learn in the summer of 2016 and became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent you."

What does the summer of 2016 have to do with your discovery of malpractice?

A. Technically, I was sent Dr. Landford's report – I might be off a little by a couple months here, but I think in July of that year. And I read it, but I didn't – you don't catch everything the first time you read it.

It was not until later that I caught the part of the report that was brought to the attention – it caught my eye when I was sitting there and reading it.

Q. You didn't read any of this interrogatory or the original interrogatory as requesting legal opinions that you had alleged that gave you notice that there was a malpractice claim against Mast and Popovich?

A. Excuse me?

MR. FLYNN: Can you read that back.

(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)

BY THE WITNESS:

A. The way she said it, I don't understand.

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. I'll rephrase it.

We've known about this allegation in the original complaint since it was filed. You received some legal opinion in 2016. That's why you didn't know you had a malpractice case against Mast and Popovich.

We asked you in discovery answers a couple different ways what those legal opinions are. You didn't read 26 and 27 as requesting information about legal opinions?

A. I don't know that an expert witness would be considered a legal opinion. Wouldn't that be more like an attorney?

Q. I'll ask you again. Why is it that you first became aware of a legal malpractice matter against Mast and Popovich on or about December 16, 2016?

A. December 16th I was talking to a legal malpractice attorney.

Q. You were told that there was a case against –

Page 119

A. A valid case, yes.

Q. – Mast and Popovich?

A. Yes.

Q. Why is it you didn't know about this valid case prior to that date?

A. Because I hadn't talked to anybody that was a lawyer that specialized in that area.

Q. Whatever it is that he said to you gave you the basis for believing you had a valid case against Mast and Popovich?

A. Very much so, yes.

Q. You're withholding that information from me right now, as we sit here. You won't tell me what that expert said, correct?

MS. WILLIAMS: Repeat the question.

(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)

MS. WILLIAMS: I'm asserting attorney-client privilege on behalf of my client for Gooch's advice on December – in December of 2016.

However, because I want to move forward with this deposition, if he can answer the question, I believe we should go ahead and move forward and have him answer the question.

I'll assert the privilege with the understanding that this may have to be briefed later.

MR. FLYNN: To be stricken later?

MS. WILLIAMS: Right.

MR. FLYNN: The substance of the answer he can put on the record. You're just saying you may move to strike it later?

MS. WILLIAMS: Right. I want to maintain the privilege with the objection, but I don't want to have to call the judge right now. I don't think it's something we should have to call the judge about right now.

MR. FLYNN: Just for the record, I believe it's been placed at issue by virtue of the first amended complaint. The responses to the statute of limitation defenses that were raised in very dispositive motions before Gooch withdrew from the case, the gist of that is the discovery rule has been raised and, therefore, it's our position that the date of discovery has been placed at issue and, accordingly, any legal opinions that were provided to this plaintiff have been exposed and that we're entitled to know what those are.

MS. WILLIAMS: Can I also note one more thing?
MR. FLYNN: Sure.
MS. WILLIAMS: In the supplemental -- in the request it specifically refers to paragraph 57 of the second amended complaint, which is different.
MR. FLYNN: It is different. I'll acknowledge that. I believe that the prior original interrogatories asked for any opinions relative to the discovery of the malpractice. I could be wrong. There was a reason I asked this and that's why I believe that's what it was about.
MS. WILLIAMS: So --
MR. FLYNN: That particular one I agree with you is not phrased as calling for --
MS. WILLIAMS: Right. That's the question that was asked. We answered the question that was asked, which that particular paragraph does not refer to a legal expert. It just merely -- I'll read it out loud. "It was not until the mediation in December of 2016 based on the expert's opinion that Dulberg retain for mediation that Dulberg became reasonably aware."
I just want it clear that he did answer the question that was asked. I understand your line of questioning and we'll agree to move forward.

MR. FLYNN: I believe there were other discovery requests that did point to that and I think we can take a break here and I can find them fairly quickly because I think we're getting close to the end anyway.
MS. WILLIAMS: Okay.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Did you ever receive any money from the mediation award?
A. No. I received money from the bankruptcy itself. It was a surplus bankruptcy.
Q. There was a $300,000 award given in the mediation.
A. That did not go to me. That went to bankruptcy.
Q. It was collected on your behalf and paid to the bankruptcy trustee, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. All $300,000?
A. I don't know that because I think -- I don't know how exactly it works. I heard attorneys have a lien that's special. I don't know how they break it up. I assume it goes to the trustee.

Page 123

Q. The Boudins weren't working for free. They got something out of it, right?
A. Yes.
Q. The trustee took the remainder and paid off some of your creditors, correct?
A. Correct. All of them.
Q. But the award was paid to the trustee on your behalf?
A. I believe so. I don't know how it worked.
Q. How much was the surplus after your creditors were paid?
A. After just the creditors?
Q. How much did you get?
A. How much did I get?
Q. Yes.
A. A third.
Q. I'm asking how much money did you get?
A. A third of the award.
Q. Dollars. How much money did you get?
A. Roughly a hundred.
Q. $100,000?
A. I don't know the exact number. It's roughly a hundred.

Page 124

Q. Was there a check that was issued to you?
A. By the trustee, yes.
Q. Did you cash it?
A. Yes.
Q. At what bank?
A. McHenry Bank & Trust.
Q. Do you still have an account there?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you have a copy of the canceled check?
A. I'm sure the bank has a photo thing.
Q. You can request a copy of the check, correct?
A. I could. I could see if they got it.
Q. I would ask you to do that. If you have any other documentation relative to the payouts that were made by the bankruptcy trustee on your behalf, we are requesting that information.
MR. FLYNN: Why don't we take a break and I'm going to look for one document and then we're just about done here.
(WHEREUPON, a recess was had.)
MR. FLYNN: Mark these as the next two.

Page 125

(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 12, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 13, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I'm going to show you what I've marked as Exhibits 12 and 13. Twelve are your answers to Hans Mast's interrogatories. Thirteen is your responses to Popovich's request for production.
Interrogatory No. 1 from Mast asks, "Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach."
Do you understand that?
A. Yes.
Q. So how is it they committed malpractice?
A. May I see it?
Q. I'm going to show it to you in a second. I only have one copy.
This is basically, how did you first become aware that they committed malpractice?

That's the essence of that interrogatory.
Here is your response. I can show that to you. It doesn't reflect any discussion with any malpractice lawyer in December of 2016.
Tell me –
A. Let me read it again. We're talking about No. 1 on this?
Q. Correct.
A. Okay.
Q. You understand it?
A. Yes.
Q. Would you agree that the legal opinion you received on December 16, 2016 is responsive to that interrogatory, whatever it is that you were told?
A. Yes.
Q. You didn't identify this December 16, 2016 discussion in the answer to that interrogatory, correct?
A. Say that again.
Q. Your discussion with Mr. Gooch on December 16, 2016, that's referenced in your original complaint, you didn't respond and identify it in this answer to the interrogatory, correct?

Page 127

A. This asks for every way Popovich or Mast breached the duty of care. It didn't ask for Gooch's opinion.
Q. How did you find out that Mast and Popovich breached the duty of care to you? Because Gooch told you, right?
A. Yes.
Q. That's what you've alleged here in this complaint.
A. Yes.
Q. Here I'm asking you, each and every way that they ever breached a duty of care to you. I covered the waterfront. You didn't answer --
A. On the McGuire case it was between October 2013 and January 2014. Yes. There's a multitude of things and that's why I listed a range.
Q. I'm asking when you became aware of it, in that interrogatory. Do you see that?
A. I became aware of that when Thomas Gooch read them and said there's a problem here.
Q. That's not the way you answered the interrogatory, correct?
A. I answered the first part. I did not answer after the comma and the and.

Q. There's no objection and indication that any information is being withheld, correct?
A. Excuse me?
Q. There's no objection and an indication that you're withholding –
A. I was not withholding.
Q. I'll show you Exhibit 13. It asks – Exhibit 13 are the production requests to you. Number 8 asks for you to produce a privilege log identifying the creator and recipient of any document withheld, the basis for any claimed privilege, the date the document was created and the date the recipient received the document.
The answer is, "The plaintiff is only withholding attorney-client communication between his successor counsel."
Is that your answer to the production request and did I accurately read No. 8?
A. May I consult with her for a minute?
Q. Sure.
THE WITNESS: Can we go off the record?
MS. WILLIAMS: If you can answer the question, answer the question first.

BY THE WITNESS:
A. It's been a while since I've done this, so I'm not sure who the successor counsel is. Is it her or is it the Boudins or Balke?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I think successor counsel, we can both agree, the successor counsel in the underlying case which would be Balke and then Boudin.
You didn't identify any documents withheld other than documents between you and successor counsel, correct?
THE WITNESS: I believe we waived those, didn't we, for Balke and Boudin?
MS. WILLIAMS: For Balke and Boudin we can represent that we waived those.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask a different question.
Did Gooch communicate with you in writing relative to his opinion that you had a legal malpractice case against Mast and Popovich?
A. In writing?
Q. Yes.
A. I suppose the agreement between us that he would represent me because I had the case is a document in writing.

Q. Did he tell you -- strike that.
The discussion that you reference in the complaint, paragraph 20 of December 16, 2016, was that a face-to-face communication with Gooch?
A. What number is that?
Q. Exhibit 4, paragraph 20. The legal opinion you received, was it verbal, was it written?
A. I believe it was verbal.
Q. Now, I'm going to ask you what he said. There was an objection and that will be addressed by the Court later. Please tell me what Gooch told you.
A. He read what I brought him, looked through some things, and I don't remember if it was the same day that we talked to him or he took a day or two. I don't remember. He got back to me and he said, "You have a case here. You have a valid case."
Q. Did he say why?
A. On the basis of what I brought to him. Yes.
Q. Specifics, though. I don't want to talk about generalities. Did he tell you what Mast and

Page 131

Popovich did wrong and how it injured you?
A. How it injured me? Yeah.
Q. The first part of my question was, did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with your -- their representation of you?
A. He probably did. I'm not recalling it right now. I'm pulling a blank.
The parts of the conversation I'm remembering, and for some reason I'm not pulling it. We've been at this a while and this is a long thing. Yes, he said based on what he saw, he saw reason for malpractice.
Q. You don't remember any details, as you sit here? Did you discuss the liability of property owners in Illinois?
A. Well, if they were just property owners in the case, that would be one thing, but they weren't just property owners.
Q. That wasn't my question. I'm asking if you discussed it?
A. Certainly.
Q. You and Gooch discussed the liability of the McGuires in the case?
A. Yes.

Q. What did you say to him and what did he say to you?
A. I showed him the expert opinion.
Q. The chainsaw expert?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you show him any deposition transcripts?
A. Yes.
Q. Which ones?
A. All of them.
Q. And he read them before you talked?
A. I don't remember. Like I said, it may have been a few days between our initial meeting and bringing the whole file that I had and trying to get what the Boudins had and letting him go through it. I don't remember how long that took.
Q. How did you transmit the documents to him --
A. My brother carried them.
Q. Let me finish.
How did you transmit the documents to Mr. Gooch, including the deposition transcripts?
A. I believe we brought him a box.
Q. So you physically handed the documents to him?

A. I didn't physically hand them. My brother did.
Q. Did you communicate with Mr. Gooch by e-mail, at all, leading up to this meeting?
A. No.
Q. Did he ever write you any letters?
A. An e-mail or regular mail or what are you talking about?
Q. Any letters whatsoever.
A. Throughout the course of his representation, yes.
Q. What about in December of 2016?
A. I believe we started communicating in December, yes.
Q. But in writing?
A. In e-mails, sure.
Q. Did he discuss –
A. We may have. I'm not – whenever we started – whenever he started sending me things and going back and forth, I don't remember the exact date, but it was right after he started representing me, sure, we exchanged e-mails and started, yes.
Q. When did Gooch begin representing you?

A. The day that he agreed to represent me. I believe it would have been the day that he decided that he had a case.
Q. On or about December 16?
A. Yes.
Q. At that point in time, or shortly thereafter, he communicated with you in writing the details of the breach of the standard of care committed by Popovich and Mast; is that correct?
A. I believe he started to detail those out in the complaint and we were working it back and forth trying to get it right.
Q. When did you first exchange drafts of the complaint?
A. I'd have to look back in the e-mails. I don't remember the dates.
Q. Did you look for any of these e-mails in connection with my discovery requests in this case?
A. At the time I think we thought they were privileged.
Q. That privilege objection wasn't exactly made. My question is, did you look for them?
A. Did I look for them? I have them.
Q. I would ask that you preserve each and every communication between you and Mr. Gooch, all written communications, even phone records that might reflect the dates and times of your phone communications, if any. Did you use a cell phone back then?

A. I used VOIP over a data line.
Q. Who was your carrier?
A. Comcast.
Q. Is that still your carrier?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you have the same phone that you utilized?
A. Same phone number for 50 years, yes.
Q. What else could you remember that Gooch told you on or about the 16th of December 2016 about Mast and Popovich breaching the standard of care and how it damaged you?
A. Say that again.
Q. What, if anything, else do you recall about your discussions with Gooch on December 16 regarding the breach of the standard of care by Popovich and Mast and how it injured you?
A. We discussed the whole scenario between October and January and what happened. It was pretty detailed. We discussed everything that you see that's been communicated in the e-mails. He didn't have much else to go on other than the documents and the e-mails.

Q. You're talking about the e-mails between you and Hans from the fall of 2013?
A. Yes.
Q. Ultimately leading to the $5,000 settlement?
A. Yes.
Q. Other than you have a case, what did Gooch say to you?
A. He said that they definitely committed malpractice.
Q. Did he ever put this in writing?
A. Did he ever put it in writing? I think he backed it up by filing a suit. That's documented.
Q. Again, the suit wasn't filed until November of 2017.
A. Yes, he had some health problems and then his wife had some health problems. Believe me, I was pushing for him to get that done.
Q. From December of 2016 until the complaint was filed, you exchanged some drafts of complaints with him?

A. I believe he let me see what he wanted to put in the complaint. I got to review some things. Of course I had, do this or that's not right. In fact, a couple of these things in here we had to definitely – you caught one. He totally worded it wrong. It was wrong. We had to amend.
MS. WILLIAMS: His question was, did he give you drafts for you to review?
THE WITNESS: Yes.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. These were exchanged by e-mail?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. So you would have records of them?
A. Yes.
Q. Any comments with respect to the pleadings, as well, did you ever ask him questions? Did he explain to you the basis for the allegations in the draft complaints, similar to what you did with Hans?
A. Over many times, yes.
Q. This is all reflected in e-mails?
A. Yes.

Page 138

Q. Ultimately, you didn't file until November of 2017?
A. Correct.
Q. Popovich ceased being your lawyer March 19 of 2015, correct?
A. That sounds about right.
Q. Until December 16, 2016, you didn't have any reason to believe there was a malpractice case against –
A. Say the date again.
Q. Until December 16, 2016, you didn't have any other reason to believe there was a malpractice case against Popovich and Mast?
A. I did not know that I had a case, no.
Q. You threatened one with respect to the Gagnon case –
A. Yes.
Q. – at another point in time, correct?
A. I think I threatened him a few times in there. Yeah. I was actually nice to what I really wanted to say.
Q. Subject to the ruling on these objections, you don't recall any other specific details that you discussed with Popovich – I'm sorry – Gooch on December 16, other than what we already talked about?

A. I discussed the exact same things that you – the same documents that you already have. We went over the case that Mast and Popovich had against the McGuires. He followed through all the way to the end. We went over the whole case. You see as much as he did.
Q. Did Gooch ever explain to you why the McGuires would have been liable any more than Mast explained to you that they wouldn't be liable?
A. He said he agreed right away. He said that's obvious.
Q. Did Gooch ever provide you with any cases or statutes?
A. Provide to me, maybe. Maybe. I don't know.
Q. Would that be by e-mail?
A. It could be. I was in his office quite a few times. He may have.
Q. As you sit here today, other than you have a case against Popovich and Mast, what did Gooch tell you specifically that was any different than what Mast and Popovich told you with respect to the McGuires' liability?

A. That they were definitely liable. He tried to say that – like Popovich and Mast were first- or second-year lawyers and that they may have made a mistake here.
I said they've got 20 years in this. You think they'd know the difference. That's the kind of thing. He agreed with me. Twenty years, yeah, they should have known better.
Q. Did you ever discuss the specifics of the McGuires' potential liability with Gooch?
A. Liability with Gooch?
Q. With Gooch, did you ever discuss the specifics of the McGuires' liability other than he thinks you have a case?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he ever tell you why? What was it?
A. Because he agreed with the expert's opinion.
Q. The expert on the chainsaw?
A. Yes. The liability expert.
Q. The expert said you should use safety goggles and gloves and things like that?
A. He said more than that, but yes.

Page 141

Q. Do you know who commissioned that expert report?
A. Boudins.
Q. Do you know when the first draft of that doctor's expert report was circulated?
A. I heard that Boudin got it in February, maybe. I don't think I got it until July, but I'm not sure about that.
Q. July of what year?
A. The same year as the mediation.
Q. Of 2016?
A. Yeah.
Q. So you actually read it in advance of the mediation?
A. I talked about this earlier. I said yes. You don't catch everything the first time you read it. I was sitting there at the mediating table and I was reading it and I caught it and I turned to Randy and I said, after it was over, does this mean – that means.
Q. Means what?
A. Does this mean the McGuires are liable? Yeah, that means they are liable. He said, call my office after everything and I'll give you a name for an attorney you should go see.

MR. FLYNN: Any follow-up, Julia?
MS. WILLIAMS: I have two follow-up questions.

EXAMINATION

BY MS. WILLIAMS:

Q. Did you ever give Hans authority to make a settlement demand regarding Mr. Gagnon?
A. I think at one time in one of my meltdown letters I said get whatever you can, but no, I never actually signed anything saying you have the right to offer a settlement.
Q. Did you ever give Hans authority to make a settlement demand with regard to the McGuires?
A. A demand, no. He said he was going to probe and see what was out there, and I said, if you want to do that, that's fine.
MS. WILLIAMS: I have no further questions.
MR. FLYNN: Signature?
MS. WILLIAMS: We can waive signature.

3. Identify the address of the McGuire's property described in paragraph 6 of your second amended complaint, and your address identified in paragraph 7 of the second amended complaint.

ANSWER: McGuires' real property is located at 1016 W. Elder Ave., McHenry, IL 60051.

Dulberg's home is located at 4606 Hayden Ct., McHenry IL 60051

4. Identify and describe how you were invited to the McGuires' property to see if you wanted any of the wood from the tree, as alleged in paragraph 12 of your second amended complaint.

ANSWER: Dulberg received a call from Gagnon on June 27, 2011. Over the phone, Gagnon asked Dulberg if he wanted wood from the tree that the McGuires were removing and invited Dulberg to come see the wood.

5. Identify how William McGuire physically assisted in cutting down the tree, including the date, time, and location of his assistance, and describe how and when he supervised David Gagnon's actions in cutting down the tree, as alleged in paragraph 13 of your second amended complaint.

ANSWER: On June 28, 2011, Dulberg went to the McGuires' home and arrived between 8:30-9:00 am. He observed William McGuire working with Gagnon between that time and approximately noon that same day to remove tree branches from the tree. Gagnon continued to work throughout the day, after William stopped working. Caroline was present observing the work and supervising the work.

William and Caroline McGuire purchased and provided the chainsaw that was used to cut the branches. William and Caroline McGuire provided the ropes and straps that Gagnon used to climb the tree. Caroline had the chain saw owner's manual in her possession and instructed Gagnon what fuel/oil ratio to use for the chain saw.

William and Caroline McGuire instructed Gagnon as to which trees and branches that they wanted removed and where they wanted the trees and branches to fall during the removal process. Gagnon climbed into the tree and cut the branches utilizing the chain saw that the McGuire's provided. The branches would fall to the ground and William would pile the branches in the yard. He also started a fire and burnt some of the branches. At times, William started the chainsaw for Gagnon.

Throughout the entire day, Caroline observed the work and instructed Gagnon to "be careful" on several occasions. She also provided water to both William and Gagnon.

William, Caroline, and Gagnon had several conversations throughout the morning as to which trees and branches to cut, how to best remove the trees and branches, where the trees and branches would fall, and how to clean them up. William and Caroline instructed Gagnon regarding those matters.

At approximately noon on that same date, William stopped working on cutting down the tree and went into the house. He then came out of the house and entered the McGuires' pool that is located on the same property.

Gagnon continued to work through the afternoon and early in the afternoon complained to Caroline that he was "working alone" and couldn't complete the work that day without help. Caroline and Gagnon then asked Dulberg to assist. Dulberg agreed to assist.

Dulberg assisted William McGuire by moving branches to the garden and started the chainsaw for Gagnon once while Gagnon was in the tree.

Dulberg then assisted Gagnon by moving the large branches that had already been cut and holding the large limbs steady so that Gagnon could cut them. Dulberg would hold the large branch while Gagnon would cut the smaller branches off the larger branch with the chain saw.

Gagnon would tell Dulberg which branches to pick up and move to the location where Gagnon was cutting them into smaller pieces by cutting off smaller limbs with the chain saw. Gagnon would also instruct Dulberg as to how and where to hold the limbs so that he could cut the branch with the chain saw. Gagnon placed the larger limb, which was now stripped of the smaller branches in a pile and instructed Dulberg to grab the next limb, which still had the smaller branches, to start the process again.

The chain saw was very loud and little conversation occurred during the time the chain saw was on. Instead, Gagnon would gesture to communicate with Dulberg as to how he wanted the branch held or moved.

No one cut down the entire tree that day, instead branches were removed from the tree and cut down into smaller pieces.

6. Identify and describe how Caroline McGuire supervised David Gagnon and William McGuire's actions, as alleged in paragraph 14 of the second amended complaint.

ANSWER: See answer to 5.

7. Identify the date, time, the location, and the exact words exchanged between Gagnon and the McGuires on the one hand and you on the other as alleged in paragraph 15 of your second amended complaint, in which it is alleged that were asked to assist the trimming and removal of the tree.

ANSWER: See answer to 5. Dulberg does not recall the "exact words exchanged" but does recall the incident as outlined in his answer to 5.

8. Identify what safety information was readily available to Caroline and William McGuire as alleged in paragraph 18 of your second amended complaint, and how you know this information.

ANSWER: Caroline and William McGuire had the owner's manual to the chain saw. Caroline was reading parts of it aloud to Gagnon in the morning of June 28, 2011. Dulberg observed Caroline in possession of the owner's manual and saw her reading it in the morning of June 28, 2011.

The owner's manual had safety instructions and warnings that would have prevented the accident.

9. Did you request any protective equipment or other safety devices from the McGuires or Gagnon while you provided assistance to Gagnon in operating the chainsaw?

MEMORANDUM

TO: File

FROM: Hans

DATE: November 20, 2013

SUBJECT: PAUL DULBERG

On November 20, 2013, I met with Paul and his friend to discuss the McGuire's $5,000 settlement offer and other issues with regard to this case. I also told them there is a dispute as to McGuire's liability, as they maintain that they were not directing Dave's work. Paul maintains that the McGuire's controlled everything that Dave was doing. I told him that that's not what the evidence seems to show. I told them the McGuire's could possibly get out of the case on motion, and the alternative is to accept the $5,000 offer. Paul wants to read the deps of the McGuire's and also wants us to order his and Dave's dep to review. I agreed to do so.

By copy of this memo, I ask Sheila to order copies of Paul and Dave's deps. I think defense counsel ordered them, so all we need to do is get copies. Please let me know if the copies have not been already ordered so we don't have to order the originals.

Thanks,

Hans

4. That due to the actions and status of MAST in relation to POPOVICH, the actions and inactions of MAST are directly attributable to his employer, partnership, or principal, being THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPVICH, P.C.

5. Venue is therefore claimed proper in McHenry County, Illinois, as the Defendants transact substantial and regular business in and about McHenry County in the practice of law, where their office is located.

6. On or about June 28, 2011, your Plaintiff, DULBERG was involved in a horrendous accident, having been asked by his neighbors Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, in assisting a David Gagnon in the cutting down of a tree on the McGuire property. DULBERG lived in the neighborhood.

7. At this time, Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw he was using causing it to strike DULBERG. This caused substantial and catastrophic injuries to DULBERG, including but not limited to great pain and suffering, current as well as future medical expenses, in an amount in excess of $260,000.00, along with lost wages in excess of $250,000.00, and various other damages.

11. That as Exhibit B reveals, Defendants property filed suit against not only the operator of the chain saw, but also his principals, Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, who purportedly were supervising him in his work on the premises.

12. At the time of filing of the aforesaid Complaint, MAST certified pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 137, that he had made a diligent investigation of the facts and circumstances around the Complaint he filed, and further had ascertained the appropriate law. MAST evidently believed a very good and valid cause of action existed against Caroline McGuire and William McGuire.

13. The matter proceeded through the normal stages of litigation until sometime in late 2013 or early 2014, when MAST met with DULBERG and other family members and advised them there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and told DULBERG he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuire's for the sum of $5,000.00. DULBERG, having no choice in the matter, reluctantly agreed with MAST and to accept the sum of $5,000.00 releasing not only William and Caroline McGuire, but also Auto-Owners Insurance Company from any further responsibility or liability in the matter. A copy of the aforesaid general release and settlement agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

14. MAST and POPOVICH continued to represent DULBERG through to and including March of 2015, following which DULBERG and the Defendants terminated their relationship.

15. Continuously throughout the period of representation, MAST and POPOVICH represented repeatedly to DULBERG there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and lulled DULBERG into believing that the matter was being properly handled. Then, due to a claimed failure of communication, MAST and POPOVICH withdrew from the representation of DULBERG.

16. Thereafter, DULBERG retained other attorneys and proceeded to a binding mediation before a retired Circuit Judge, where DULBERG received a binding mediation award of $660,000.00 in gross, and a net award of $561,000.00. Unfortunately, a "high-low agreement" had been executed by DULBERG, reducing the maximum amount he could recover to $300,000.00 based upon the insurance policy available. The award was substantially more than that sum of money, and could have been recovered from McGuire's had they not been dismissed from the Complaint. A copy of the aforesaid Mediation Award is attached hereto as Exhibit D.

17. The McGuire's were property owners and had property insurance covering injuries or losses on their property, as well as substantial personal assets, including the property location where the accident took place at 1016 West Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, Illinois. McGuire's were well able to pay all, or a portion of the binding mediation award had they still remained parties.

18. DULBURG, in his relationship with POPOVICH and MAST, cooperated in all ways with them, furnishing all necessary information as required, and frequently conferred with them.

19. Until the time of the mediation award, DULBURG had no reason to believe he could not recover the full amount of his injuries, based on POPOVICH'S and MAST'S representations to DULBERG that he could recover the full amount of his injuries from Gagnon, and that the inclusion of the McGuire's would only complicate the case.

20. Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the "high-low agreement" contained therein, and the final mediation award, DULBURG realized for the first time that the information MAST and POPOVICH had given DULBERG was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuire's was a serious and substantial mistake. Following the mediation, DULBERG was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling Legal Malpractice matters, and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.

21. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBURG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:

a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuire's) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG;

b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

c) Failed to conduct necessary discovery, so as to fix the liability of the property owners to DULBERG;

d) Failed to understand the law pertaining to a property owner's rights, duties and responsibilities to someone invited onto their property;

e) Improperly urged DULBURG to accept a nonsensical settlement from the property owners, and dismissed them from all further responsibility;

f) Failed to appreciate and understand further moneys could not be received as against Gagnon, and that the McGuire's and their obvious liability were a very necessary party to the litigation;

g) Falsely advised DULBURG throughout the period of their representation, that the actions taken regarding the McGuire's was proper in all ways and respects, and that DULBURG had no choice but to accept the settlement;

Received 11-28-2017 04:31 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-29-2017 09:53 AM / Transaction #17111117451 / Case #17LA000377

h) Failed to properly explain to DULBURG all ramifications of accepting the McGuire settlement, and giving him the option of retaining alternative counsel to review the matter;

i) Continually reassured DULBURG that the course of action as to the property owners was proper and appropriate;

j) Were otherwise negligent in their representation of DULBERG, concealing from him necessary facts for DULBURG to make an informed decision as to the McGuire's, instead coercing him into signing a release and settlement agreement and accept a paltry sum of $5,000.00 for what was a grievous injury.

22. That DULBERG suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of MAST and POPOVICH in urging DULBURG to release the McGuire's, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of MAST and THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.

WHEREFORE, your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG prays this Honorable Court to enter judgment on such verdict as a jury of twelve (12) shall return, together with the costs of suit and such other and further relief as may be just, all in excess of the jurisdictional minimums of this Honorable Court.

15. Gagnon and the McGuires asked Dulberg to assist with trimming and removal of the tree.

16. Gagnon was acting on behalf of Caroline and William and at their direction.

17. Caroline, William, and Gagnon all knew or show have known that a chainsaw was dangerous and to take appropriate precautions when utilizing the chain saw.

18. The safety information was readily available to Caroline and William as the safety instructions are included with the purchase of the chainsaw.

19. It is reasonably foreseeable that the failure to take appropriate caution and safety measures could result in serious injury.

20. The likelihood of injury when not properly utilizing the chainsaw or not following the safety precautions is very high.

21. The safety instructions outlined are easy to follow and do not place a large burden on the operator of the chainsaw or the owner of the property.

22. Caroline, William, and Gagnon had a duty to exercise appropriate caution and follow the safety instructions for the chainsaw.

23. Caroline, William, and Gagnon breached that duty by either not exercising appropriate care, failing to follow the safety instructions, or failing to instruct Gagnon to exercise appropriate care and/or follow the safety instructions.

24. Caroline and William, owners of the property and the chainsaw, instructed Gagnon to use the chain saw despite Gagnon not being a trained in operating the chainsaw.

25. Gagnon was operating the chain saw in close proximity to Dulberg.

26. Neither Gagnon nor Dulberg were provided protective equipment when operating or assisting with operating the chainsaw.

27. Gagnon failed to utilize the chainsaw in compliance with the safety measures outlined in the owner's manual.

28. Caroline and William failed to instruct and require that Gagnon utilize the chainsaw only in compliance with the safety measures outlined in the owner's manual.

29. Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw that he was using and it struck Dulberg in the right arm, cutting him severely.

30. Dulberg incurred substantial and catastrophic injuries, including, but not limited to, pain and suffering, loss of use of his right arm, current and future medical expenses in amount in excess of $260,000, lost wages in excess of $250,000, and other damages.

31. In May 2012, Dulberg hired Mast and Popovich to represent him in prosecuting his claims against Gagnon and the McGuires. Exhibit A.

32. Mast and Popovich, on behalf of Dulberg filed a complaint against Gagnon and the McGuires. Exhibit B.

33. Mast and Popovich entered into an attorney client relationship with Dulberg.

34. Based upon the attorney client relationship, Mast and Popovich owed professional duties to Dulberg, including to a duty of care.

35. On behalf of Dulberg, Mast and Popovich prosecuted claims against both Gagnon and the McGuire's.

36. The claims against Gagnon were resolved later through binding mediation with new counsel.

37. The claims against the McGuires included (a) common law premises liability, (b) statutory premises liability, (c) common law negligence, and (d) vicarious liability for the acts of their son and agent.

Received 12-07-2018 03:38 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-10-2018 01:03 PM / Transaction #3126388 / Case #17LA000377

38. In late 2013 or early, Mast urged Dulberg to settle the claims against the McGuire's for $5,000.

39. On November 18, 2013, Mast wrote two emails to Dulberg urging Dulberg to accept the $5,000.00, "the McGuire's atty has offered us (you) $5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only. As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery...." * * * "So if we do not accept their $5,000 they will simply file a motion and get out of the case for free. That's the only other option is letting them file motion getting out of the case". (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

40. Similarly, on November 20, 2013, Mast emailed Dulberg urging him to accept the $5,000.00 otherwise "the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion." (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

41. On or around December 2013 or January 2014, Mast met with Dulberg and again advised them there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and verbally told Dulberg that he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of $5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing.

42. During that same time frame, Mast advised Dulberg that the Restatement of Torts 318 was the only mechanism to recover from the McGuires and that Illinois did not recognize the Restate of Torts 318, thus Dulberg did not have any viable claims against the McGuires.

43. Mast failed to advise or inform Dulberg of other basis for recovery against the McGuires.

44. Based upon Mast's erroneously advice that Dulberg's claims against the McGuire's were not viable and that Dulberg would not recover if he pursued the claims, Dulberg settled with the McGuire's and their insurance company, Auto-Owners Insurance Company, for $5,000, which included a release of all claims against the McGuire's and claim for indemnification under the McGuire's insurance policy. Exhibit D (Settlement).

45. Mast also told Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was limited to $100,000.

46. From 2013 forward, Mast and Popovich represented repeatedly to Dulberg that there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and led Dulberg to believe that the matter was being properly handled.

47. Mast also reassured Dulberg that Dulberg would be able to receive the full amount of any eventual recovery from Gagnon.

48. After accepting the $5,000 settlement, Dulberg wrote Mast an email on January 29, 2014 stating "I trust your judgment." (See Email attached as Exhibit E.)

49. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Dulberg into 2015 and continuously assured him that his case was being handled properly.

50. The McGuires owned their home, had homeowner's insurance, and had other property that could have been utilized to pay a judgment against them and in favor of Dulberg.

51. Dulberg cooperated with and appropriately assisted Mast and Popovich in prosecuting the claims against Gagnon and the McGuires.

52. In December of 2016, Dulberg participated in binding mediation related to his claims against Gagnon.

Received 12-07-2018 03:38 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-10-2018 01:03 PM / Transaction #3126388 / Case #17LA000377

53. In December of 2016, Dulberg was awarded a gross amount of $660,000 and a net award of $561,000 after his contributory negligence was considered.

54. Dulberg was only able to recovery approximately $300,000 of the award from Gagnon's insurance and was unable to collect from Gagnon personally.

55. Only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon did he discover that his claims against the McGuires were viable and valuable.

56. Following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake.

57. It was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation, that Dulberg became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000.00 on an "all or nothing" basis.

58. Mast and Popovich, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed Dulberg by violating the standard of care owed Dulberg in the following ways and respects:

a) failed to fully and properly investigate the claims and/or basis for liability against the McGuires;

b) failed to properly obtain information through discovery regarding McGuires assets, insurance coverages, and/or ability to pay a judgement and/or settlement against them;

c) failed to accurately advise Dulberg of the McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance coverage related to the claims against them and/or Dulberg's ability to recover through McGuires'and Gagnon's insurance policies, including, but not limited to, incorrectly informing

Received 12-07-2018 03:38 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-10-2018 01:03 PM / Transaction #3126388 / Case #17LA000377

Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was "only $100,000" and no insurance compnay would pay close to that;

d) failed to take such actions as were necessary during their respective representation of Dulberg to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed and/or were principals of Gagnon, and who sought the assistance Dulberg by for example failing to obtain an expert;

e) failed to accurately advise Dulberg regarding the McGuires' liability, likelihood of success of claims against the McGuires, the McGuires' ability pay any judgment or settlement against them through insurance or other assets, and/or necessity of prosecuting the all the claims against both the McGuires and Gagnon in order to obtain a full recovery;

f) Coerced Dulberg, verbally and though emails, into accepting a settlement with the McGuires for $5,000 by misleading Dulberg into believing that he had no other choice but to accept the settlement or else "The McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion."

59. As a direct result of Mast and Popovich's wrongful actions, Dulberg suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of Mast and Popovich in urging Dulberg to release the McGuires, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of Mast and The Law Offices of Thomas Popovich, P.C.

WHEREFORE, your Plaintiff, Paul Dulberg prays this Honorable Court to enter judgment on such verdict as a jury of twelve (12) shall return, together with the costs of suit and such other and further relief as may be just, all in excess of the jurisdictional minimums of this Honorable Court.

Morning Hans,
Ok we can meet. I will call Sheila today and set up a time.
Please send me a link to the current Illinois statute citing that the property owner is not liable for work done on their property resulting in injury to a neighbor.
I need to read it myself and any links to recent case law in this area would be helpful as well.
Thanks,
Paul

The legality of it all is that a property owner does not have legal liability for a worker (whether friend, son or otherwise) who does the work on his time, using his own independent skills. Here, I deposed the McGuires, and they had nothing to do with how Dave did the work other than to request the work to be done. They had no control on how Dave wielded the chain saw and cut you. Its that simple. We don't have to accept the $5,000, but if we do not, the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion. So that's the situation.

Just because Dave was doing the work doesn't mean they were not trying to tell their kid what to do. They told him plenty of times throughout the day what to do. How is that not supervising?

They all left me out in the yard screaming for help while they were busy making sure they were covered.

She even went as far as to finally call the Emergency Room after I was already there just to tell me she was covered.

How selfish are people when they worry about if their insured over helping the person who was hurt and bleeding badly in their yard.

I'm glad she got her answer and had to share it with me only to find out her coverage won't even pay the medical bills.

I'm not happy with the offer.

As far as John Choyinski, he knows he has to call you and said he will tomorrow.

As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery....

Ok, it's signed and in the mail.
Hope that some yahoo in the govt. doesn't someday decide to go after everyone they think they might get a dollar out of and end up holding me responsible for the McGuires fees incurred while they fight it out.
I'm not in the business of warranting, insuring or protecting the McGuires from government. Especially for only 5 grand. For that kind of protection it could cost millions but I trust your judgement.

How hard is it to sue an atty?

And yes I am and have been looking for someone who will take this case...

The issue of my word vs David Gagnons... Did he cut me or did I cut myself?

Of coarse he cut me.

You keep telling me how injured you are and completely ignore that it doesn't matter if you passed away from the accident because we still have to prove that the defendant was at fault. While you think it is very clear - it is not. My guess is that seven out of 10 times you will lose the case outright. That means zero. That's why I have been trying to convince you to agree to a settlement. You clearly do not want to. There's only $100,000 in coverage. Allstate will never offer anything near the policy limits therefore there's no chance to settle the case. The only alternative is to take the case to trial and I am not interested in doing that. I will wait for you to find a new attorney. I can't assist you any further in this case. Just let me know.

Hans,
if I use a chainsaw and cut you badly who is going to believe me when I say it's not my fault, Hans just fell into it?

Who in their right mind is going to believe me when your pointing your finger at me saying I did it?

Who?

First, I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to help prove David cut me with a chainsaw. I was but a lowly printer/graphic designer my whole life and never asked for anyone's sympathy till now.

Secondly, I'm sorry I must live among a bunch of potential jurors that you don't trust to just do the right thing.

Thirdly, I'm most sorry for agreeing to lend David Gagnon a hand when he needed some help, I had no idea he was going to try and lop it off.

Fourth, I'm sorry you don't feel good about pushing for a trial. I wish whatever mysterious evidence you seek would be shared with me because without a video camera I can only say what I've seen from direct experience. And I guess in this case "me" the victim isn't credible enough but the one wielding a chainsaw that hurt me is.

A few questions from a layman,

How much could a trial actually cost?
What,
$50,000
$150,000
Does it even cost as much as a car?
What number?

How much would you hope to get for us in a settlement?

How much could be expected if the trial does proceed and we have a favorable outcome?

Hans, if your heart is not in this I'm sorry

Paul

Hi Paul. My view hasn't changed. I think each time we've talked I've always tried to be open about my reservation to take this case to trial. I just don't think we have enough evidence to prove our case and to invest the time and cost and preparing for trial and moving to trial just in my mind does not make sense to me. I have to be very realistic about things and honest with my opinion. It doesn't do you any good if I do not feel strongly about the case.

That's the very reason why I wanted to have this discussion. I want to give you the option of finding other counsel at this point if you really want to take the case to trial which I think ultimately will be necessary. I just do not believe strongly that defense counsel will offer much in the way of a settlement. Although I will ask him if he is going to make an offer and maybe that will allow you to make a better judgment on this.

Hans,

Last evening I was in the hospital with the most severe migraine I've ever had.

This morning I filed for bankruptcy with David Stretch.

This afternoon I spent with my regular physician Dr Zaide doing a follow up from yesterday.

And right now, I have to email you. All when I still have a slight residual headache and should be in bed.

At first I thought the migraine was brought on by the medications I'm taking but it wasn't, it was brought on after our discussions. Now I can't prove that but it seems pretty obvious to me. Joke no pun intended there!

That migraine made me realize I need the stress of this situation over with. All the stress on top of losing everything is too much and I'd rather live than die from it all before my body does something worse.

My body is not reacting well and the migraines are getting more frequent and worse. Have you ever vomited at the same time as deficating while being in some of the most excruciating pain in your life?

If not, neither did I till the chainsaw went through my arm. That's when the migraines became more frequent, stronger and faster coming on. And now for the first time during the day.

Ever since I awoke this morning, all I can I think is the stress of it all is killing me more and more as the reality sets in and I just can't afford to care about it anymore.

My health means more than some lawsuits and the lure of money.

All because some idiot named David Gagnon forgot to tell me to move out of the way and he can't seem to admit it.

Yes, after reading his deposition and hearing it was my fault I was pissed.

In my anger I suspected all sorts of things. Including it being intentional especially after my discussions at his home only trying to get his homeowners policy number and him wanting money and threatening me for it.

Yes, my arm and elbow were hurt from his stupidity irregardless if some dr can link the two together or not.

Yes, there will be ongoing medical as a result of all this because it still hurts and doesn't work right.

Yes, I am now disabled irregardless of what SSDI appeal goes because of this.

Yes, I understand I'm screwed because of a system that allows one person to hurt another and even after a trial and judgement entered all they have to do is go file for bankruptcy in the same courthouse on the same day.

Yes, it just took me almost an hour just to type this.

Yes, yes, yes...

but none of it matters anymore!

Bottom line Hans... Do the best you can with what you got, I've got nothing more to lose or give. I need it all to just go away.

2. The Parties agree that they will not disclose any and all dollar figures relating to the high/low agreement; last offer and last demand; policy limits; and /or set-offs orally or in written form, to the Mediator at any time before or during the conference, or while under advisement, prior to the Mediator's final decision.

a. Violation of this rule set forth in (D)(2) shall constitute a material breach of this Agreement. The non-disclosing Party must formally object to the Mediator upon learning of the breach, or the breach will be considered waived. The non-disclosing Party shall then have the option to continue the Mediation from the point of objection to its completion; or to terminate the Mediation at the point of objection as null and void. The ADR Systems case manager must be made aware of this breach at the time of the objection, so the objection is addressed in accordance with the Agreement; and

b. If the Mediation is terminated as null and void, all costs of the Mediation will be charged entirely to the disclosing Party. A new Mediation shall then take place with a new Mediator on a new date. If the Mediation is not terminated, the costs of the Mediation shall remain the responsibility of each Party or in accordance with the Agreement.

3. The Parties agree if a Party has an objection to the evidence or material submitted by any other Party pursuant to Paragraph (D)(1), notice of the objection shall be given to the ADR Systems case manager and opposing counsel by telephone and in writing at least seven days prior to the Mediation. If resolution cannot be obtained, the case manager will forward the objection to the Mediator to be ruled upon before or at the Mediation. The case manager will notify each of the Parties of the objection. The objection may result in a postponement of the proceedings. If the objection is because of new material being disclosed with the submission for the first time (for example, new or additional reports, additional medical/wage loss claims, etc.) then the disclosing party shall be charged for the total cost associated with the continuance.

4. The Parties agree that any Party desiring to introduce any of the items described in Paragraph (D)(1) without foundation or other proof, must deliver said items to the Mediator and to the other Parties no later than Monday, November 21, 2016.

5. The items are considered delivered as of the date that one of the following events occur:

   a. If mailed, by the date of the postmark;

   b. If delivered by a courier or a messenger, the date the item is received by the courier or messenger; and

   c. The date transmitted by facsimile or email.

6. The Parties agree to deliver any of the items described in Paragraph (C)(1) and (D)(1) to the following addresses:

   If emailing Submissions, please send to submissions@adrsystems.com, however, please do not send anything over 50 pages, including exhibits.

E. Conference Procedure

1. The Parties may present opening statements but there will be no live testimony.
2. The Parties will attempt to reach a voluntary settlement through negotiation with the assistance of the Mediator.
3. If the Parties cannot voluntarily reach a settlement, the Mediator will advise the Parties that settlement cannot be reached. The Mediator will then take the matter under advisement and render an award that will be binding to all Parties, (the "Award"), subject to the terms of any high/low agreement that the Parties may have as described below in Paragraph (F)(1).

F. Award Limits

1. The Parties may agree prior to the Mediation that a minimum and maximum amount will serve as parameters for the Award (sometimes referred to as a "high/low agreement"), such that the actual amount that must be paid to the plaintiff or claimant shall not exceed a certain amount (the "high" or "maximum award") and shall not be less than a certain amount (the "low" or "minimum award").

   a. If liability is disputed and comparative fault or negligence is asserted as an affirmative defense, the Mediator shall make a finding regarding comparative fault or negligence, if any. In the event that there is a finding of comparative fault or negligence of the plaintiff that is greater than 50% (fifty percent), the plaintiff shall receive the negotiated minimum award. In the event that there is a finding of comparative fault or negligence of 50% (fifty percent) or less against the plaintiff, then any damages awarded in favor of the plaintiff shall be reduced by the amount of the plaintiff's comparative fault or negligence, but shall be no less than the minimum parameter or more than the maximum parameter.

   b. All award minimum and maximum parameters are subject to applicable set-offs if any, as governed by policy provisions if not specified in the Agreement.

      The Parties agree that for this Mediation the minimum award to Paul Dulberg will be $50,000.00. Also, the maximum award to Paul Dulberg will be $300,000.00. These amounts reflect the minimum and maximum amounts of money that David Gagnon shall be liable to pay to Paul Dulberg.

IV. Effect of this Agreement

A. After the commencement of the Mediation, no Party shall be permitted to cancel this Agreement or the Mediation and the Mediator shall render a decision that shall be in accordance with the terms set forth in this Agreement. When the Award is rendered, the Mediation is resolved, and any Award arising from this Mediation shall operate as a bar and complete defense to any action or proceeding in any court or tribunal that may arise from the same incident upon which the Mediation is based.

B. The Parties further agree that any pending litigation will be dismissed, with prejudice, as to those Parties participating in this Mediation upon the conclusion thereof. Any and all liens, including contractual rights of subrogation owed are subject to existing Illinois law. By agreement of the Parties, the Mediator's Award will be final and binding and not subject to appeal or motion for reconsideration by any Party.

V. Mediation Costs

A. ADR Systems Fee Schedule

1. A deposit is required for the Administrative Fee, Mediator's estimated review, session, and follow-up time ("Mediation Costs"). Binding-Mediations are billed at a four hour per day minimum. The required deposit amount is $2,590.00 from Party B and is due by November 21, 2016. Any unused portion of the deposit will be refunded based on the four hour minimum. If the Mediator's review, session and follow-up time go over the estimated amount, each Party will be invoiced for the additional time.
2. Mediation Costs are usually divided equally among all Parties, unless otherwise agreed upon by the Parties. ADR Systems must be notified of special fee arrangements.
3. All deposits are due two weeks prior to the session. ADR Systems reserves the right to cancel a session if deposits are not received from all Parties two weeks prior to the session.
4. ADR Systems requires 14-day notice in writing or via electronic transmission of cancellation or continuance. For Binding-Mediations cancelled or continued within 14 days of the session, the Party causing the cancellation will be billed for the Mediation Costs of all the Parties involved, which includes the four hour per day minimum, additional review time, and any other expenses incurred("cancellation fees"). If the cancellation is by agreement of all Parties, or if the case has settled, the cancellation fees will be split equally among all Parties, unless ADR Systems is instructed otherwise. The cancellation fees may be waived if the Mediator's lost time can be filled by another matter.

Administrative Fee	$390.00 (Non-refundable)
Mediator's Review Time	$450.00 per hour
Session Time	$450.00 per hour
Mediator's Decision Writing Time	$450.00 per hour
Mediator's Travel Time (if any)	$75.00 per hour

B. Responsibility for Payment Special Billing

1. Each Party and its counsel (including that counsel's firm) shall be jointly and severally responsible for the payment of that Party's allocated share of the Mediation Costs as set forth above.
2. All expenses and disbursements made by ADR Systems in connection with the Mediation, including, but not limited to, outside room rental fee, meals, express mail and messenger charges, and any other charges associated with the Mediation, will be billed equally to the Parties at the time of the invoice.

3. In the event that a Party and/or its counsel fails to pay ADR Systems in accordance with the terms of this Agreement, then that Party and/or its counsel shall be responsible for all costs, including attorney's fees, incurred by ADR Systems in connection with the collection of any amount due and owing. Payment of additional costs incurred by ADR Systems in connection with the collection of any amount due and owing shall be made within 15 days of invoice.

4. In the event ADR Systems' session rooms are completely booked on your selected session date, ADR Systems will attempt to find another complimentary venue for your session. If ADR Systems cannot find a complimentary venue or the parties cannot agree on the complimentary venue, ADR Systems reserves the right to schedule your case in a location that may involve a facilities charge. The facilities charge will be split equally among the parties unless ADR Systems is instructed otherwise.

5. *Defendant agrees to pay up to $3,500.00 of Plaintiff's Binding Mediation Costs.

VI. Acknowledgment of Agreement

A. By signing this Agreement, I acknowledge that I have read and agree to all the provisions as set forth above.

B. Each Party is responsible for only his/her own signature where indicated and will submit this signed Agreement to ADR Systems within 10 days of receipt of the Agreement. Counsel may sign on behalf of the Party.

DULBERG'S SUPPLEMENTAL ANSWERS TO DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.'S INTERROGATORIESTO PLAINTIFF PAUL DULBERG

Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorneys, The Clinton Law Firm, LLC, pursuant to the provisions of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 213, responds, in supplement, to Defendant, The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C.'s Interrogatories To Plaintiff Paul Dulberg as follows:

INTERROGATORIES

12. Identify and describe each of your employers in the ten year period prior to the accident of June 28, 2011, including any self-employment. For each employer, identify your wage rate or salary, your title, your job description, your required duties, and your income for the ten year period prior to the accident in question.

SUPPLEMENT TO ORIGINAL ANSWER:

1. 1999-2011 Sharp Printing, Inc., 4606 Hayden Ct., McHenry, IL 60051

Paul Dulberg was an owner and operator of Sharp Printing, Inc. along with his two partners Scott Dulberg and Michael McArtor. Dulberg provided full time employment services to Sharp Printing, Inc. and thus was "employed" by Sharp Printing, Inc. However, Dulberg did not draw a salary from Sharp Printing, Inc. and did not receive any profits from the company.

Paul Dulberg was the President, salesperson, graphic designer, 8 color screen print pressman, handled fulfillment, shipping & receiving, as well as other day to day operations of the company.

For income, see tax returns.

EXHIBIT # 11
2-19-20

Sharp Printing, Inc. operated out of the lower floor of Paul Dulberg's personal residence and paid all utilities bills, including garbage, water, natural gas, electric, internet, phone, and cable. The approximate value is $650 per month.

19. As a result of your personal injuries from the underlying case, were you unable to work? If so, state:

(a) The name and address of your employer, if any, at the time of the occurrence, your wage and/or salary, and the name of your supervisor and/or foreperson;
(b) The date or inclusive dates on which you were unable to work;
(c) The amount of wage and/or income lost by you; and
(d) The name and address of your present employer and/or wage and/or salary.

SUPPLEMENT TO ORIGINAL ANSWER:

Paul Dulberg was self-employed by Sharp Printing and unable to work after the accident. He was also an independent contractor with Juskie Printing. He has not been employed since the date of the accident. See tax returns for lost wages. See SSDI documents for current income.

26. Identify and describe the false and misleading information Mast and Popovich provided to you, and explain how you realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information was false and misleading and the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake, as alleged in paragraph 56 of your second amended complaint.

SUPPLEMENT TO ORIGINAL ANSWER:

On December 8, 2016, the mediator issued a net award to Dulberg of $561,000. Dulberg discovered he could not recover the entire mediation award from Gagnon. At that time Dulberg realized that Mast's advice to settle with the McGuires for $5,000 was incorrect, because Mast had cited Dulberg being able to recover in full from Gagnon as his reasoning.

27. Identify and describe the expert opinions provided to you in December 2016 as alleged in paragraph 57 of your second amended complaint, including the identity of the expert, the opinions, and any other information provided by the expert which caused you to learn in the summer of 2016 and become reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent you.

SUPLEMENT TO ORIGINAL ANSWER:

Dr. Landford is a chainsaw expert who was retained by Dulberg during the mediation which occurred in 2016. Landford's expert opinion demonstrates that contrary to Mast's advice, the McGuires were liable for Gagnon's actions with the chainsaw. The expert report came out in February of 2016 and the mediation award was issued in December of 2016.

EXAMINATION

BY MS. WILLIAMS:

MS. WILLIAMS: Okay, so this is the discovery deposition of Hans Mast taken pursuant to all applicable rules and notice in the case of Dulberg versus The Law Offices of Thomas Popovich, et al. This deposition is being taken for the purposes of discovery.

Q. Hans, can you state your name for the record, please?

A. Hans Mast.

Q. Have you had your deposition taken before?

A. Yes.

Q. And how many times?

A. I think two.

Q. And for what purpose?

A. Long, long time ago I think there was a malpractice case I was a witness on and a legal -- a medical malpractice case that turned into a legal malpractice case, not against me but against the office I was with.

Q. Okay. So you weren't named in the lawsuit as a defendant?

A. I might have been named. I might have been named, but I was somebody that appeared on a motion. I think I got out eventually.

Q. Okay, and then -- And then -- Sorry. And then you said you think twice, so do you know approximately what year that medical malpractice case that turned into a legal malpractice case, do you know roughly what year that was?

A. '94 or something.

Q. Okay, and then the second time, what would have that been?

A. It's not coming to me. It was another legal case. I don't remember the details.

Q. Okay --

A. There -- Go ahead.

Q. More than 10 years? I'm sorry, I didn't mean to interrupt you.

A. Yes.

Q. We can go over the -- I'm going to try not to interrupt you, you're going to try not to interrupt me. You've taken depositions before, I'm sure we can get into that and appreciate you answering orally, all of those typical things that apply, and I'll try not to interrupt you too much. Have you ever -- Other than the one time you just identified, have you ever been sued other than this suit for legal malpractice?

A. No.

Q. Do you recall any other details about that medical malpractice lawsuit that turned into a legal malpractice suit? Do you know what the basis of the suit was?

A. It was a medical malpractice case that I think lost on a summary judgment motion and they were -- the client was suing the office and I think I got involved in it because I was on a motion.

Q. Were you the one that drafted the summary judgment motion?

A. I don't think so. I don't really remember clearly back then, but I don't think I did.

Q. Okay.

A. I think I argued -- I might have argued it. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Have you -- Have you taken depositions before?

A. Yes.

Q. Roughly how many depositions do you think you've taken in your legal career?

A. Lots. Lots.

Page 8

Q. Hundreds?

A. Probably.

Q. Oh, I'm sorry, I forgot to do this, but I think we saw your room. It's just you and George Flynn in the room with you, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And there's no one else in the room and if there were, you would identify them, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you don't have any devices or anything with you? You're not communicating with anyone during this deposition other than the attorney in the room with you, correct?

A. And you and who else is on this meeting.

Q. Okay. I'm sorry, let me rephrase. Is there anyone that I don't know that you are communicating with that I wouldn't know?

A. Not that I'm aware of.

Q. Okay. If you take any notes or otherwise communicate with people during the deposition, we just ask that those notes be produced. Okay. Did you do anything to prepare for the deposition today?

A. Well, I just saw some exhibits you sent George. I didn't really prepare them. I looked them over briefly.

Q. Did you review any of the other files that have been produced in this case?

A. No.

Q. Did you review any notes?

A. No.

Q. Any other documents?

A. No.

Q. Did you meet with anyone --

A. Other than George?

Q. -- to prepare? Other than George.

A. No.

Q. And you did meet with George, I'm assuming. I don't want to know the contents of that meeting, but you met with George to prepare?

A. Not very long.

Q. Okay. Did you talk to anyone else about today's deposition prior to the deposition today?

A. No.

Q. Where did you go to law school?

A. Kent.

Q. And what year did you graduate?

A. '91.

Q. And were you admitted to practice in

Page 10

Illinois that same year?
A. Yes.
Q. And have you -- Are you admitted to practice anywhere else?
A. No.
Q. Have you ever been reprimanded or disciplined by any courts?
A. No.
Q. Have you ever been publicly reprimanded or disciplined by any oversight body, such as the ARDC?
A. No.
Q. When did you start practicing?
A. '91.
Q. And where did you start?
A. In Rockford.
Q. With a firm?
A. Yeah, Cacciatore.
Q. And how long were you there?
A. About a year and a half.
Q. And what kind of work did you do there?
A. Personal injury, plaintiff.
Q. Have you done personal injury your entire career?
A. No, I did some defense work.

Q. Okay. So you were at Cacciatore for a year and a half and you were doing plaintiff's personal injury work. What did you do after that?
A. I went to the Loggans firm in Chicago for about 6 months.
Q. And what did you do there?
A. Plaintiff's.
Q. PI again, personal injury?
A. Yeah.
Q. And after that?
A. Judge and James in Park Ridge.
Q. And how long were you there?
A. 7 years, I think.
Q. Did you do plaintiff's personal injury there as well?
A. No, that was defense.
Q. What kind of defense work?
A. Lots -- All kinds, municipal, tort.
Q. Did you defend personal injury cases while you were there as well?
A. Yes.
Q. And then after that, where did you go?
A. Kemper, I think.
Q. And how long were you with Kemper?

Page 12

A. I think a couple years. Maybe a little more than that.
Q. And what kind of work did you do at Kemper?
A. Defense.
Q. Defense of what type of cases?
A. Lots of different kinds, auto accidents, premises.
Q. Mostly torts though, negligence-type cases?
A. Yes.
Q. And then after Kemper?
A. I think Popovich was next.
Q. And how long were you with the Popovich firm?
A. About 18 years, I think.
Q. And do you know what year you -- roughly what year you joined Popovich?
A. 2001 maybe.
Q. And you were there for roughly 18 years you think?
A. Yes.
Q. So you left maybe just last year?
A. In '18.
Q. 2018?
A. Yeah.

Page 13

Q. And why did you leave Popovich?
A. To start on my own.
Q. And where are you now?
A. With Compton Law Group.
Q. I'll give you just a second to come back.
A. Yeah.
Q. And what types of -- I'm sorry, I'm going to go back to the Popovich firm. What kind of cases did you handle at Popovich's firm?
A. Plaintiff's personal injury, all kinds.
Q. And then at Compton, what kind of work do you do?
A. Same thing, same kind of cases, plaintiff's personal injury.
Q. So is it fair to say you've been doing plaintiff's personal injury cases steadily throughout your career?
A. Yeah, except for the time I was with the defense offices.
Q. Okay. But you were still doing personal injury, just on the defense side, not on the plaintiff side?
A. Right.
Q. Okay. Did you answer discovery in this case, in the malpractice case that we're -- the Dulberg versus Thomas Popovich case?

A. I think I did.
Q. Do you remember -- Did you review discovery in this case, do you recall?
A. Like I said, I think I answered some and signed off on some, I just don't remember. I haven't seen them recently.
Q. Okay. Okay. If you recall, do you remember reviewing the documents that were produced in this case?
A. I don't know what was produced.
Q. Okay.
A. I assume the file.
Q. Right. Okay, if I represented that the file was produced, would that make sense to you? Can we kind of agree that the file was produced?
A. Well, if you told me that.
Q. Okay. So when the file was produced, I don't know if you recall, there were black -- some black pages between the file. Do you remember any discussions about that?
A. I didn't produce anything so and I haven't reviewed what was produced, that wasn't my -- I was in a different office when it was produced, I think.

Q. Okay. So Thomas Popovich would have had possession of the file?
A. Right.
Q. You did not have possession of any documents from the underlying case, from the Dulberg versus Gagnon-McGuire case?
A. I didn't.
Q. Okay. So you would not have had access to that file since you were with Thomas Popovich in 2018?
A. Once I left the firm, I have not had the file.
Q. Okay. In this case did you produce emails that you possessed or did you not have access to those either?
A. I would -- I don't know what was produced, again, by the Popovich firm. I don't know if they had my emails, but I have a new email address. I don't think it's the same as it was back then.
Q. Okay.
A. So I didn't produce anything.
Q. So you didn't produce any emails or communications that -- in the -- from the underlying case?

A. Not that I'm aware of. Unless I produced it to Popovich and he produced it. I don't know how that worked.
Q. Okay. When were you retained by Paul Dulberg?
A. I don't recall. I'm assuming there's paperwork that shows that.
Q. Yes. Let me upload a file here. Just give me a second.
A. I don't think he retained me. I think he retained Tom Popovich's office.
Q. Okay. I just uploaded a file that's titled Dulberg Mast Dep Exhibit 1, if you can -- And, George, you should have that as well -- and it should be the retainer contract.
A. Yeah, I see it.
Q. Okay. So it's a contract for legal services and it's marked POP, P O P, 000586 on the bottom, just for reference, so this will be the first exhibit in this deposition. Do you recognize this document?
A. I recognize what it looks like, yeah.
Q. Yeah, and it's the contract for legal services and it's undated, it looks like.

Page 17

A. That's what it looks like.
Q. Okay. I'm going to upload another exhibit. So I'm uploading Exhibit 2, it's titled Dulberg Mast Dep Exhibit 2, and this should be the original complaint filed in the case of Dulberg versus Gagnon, et al., 12 LA 178, filed in McHenry County. Do you see that document?
A. Yeah. What I'm going off are an email I got with all the exhibits attached, so I'm not — that's what I'm looking at.
Q. Okay.
A. It's a complaint and it says Exhibit 2.
Q. Right, okay. So our numbers may be a little off, but the description should be correct. In that complaint shows file stamp May 15, 2012?
A. Yeah, that's what it says.
Q. Okay, and so Mr. Dulberg would have hired you sometime -- hired the Popovich firm sometime prior to that, correct?
A. I'm assuming. I --
Q. Okay. Do you have any idea?
A. I'm sorry.
Q. I'm sorry, I didn't mean to interrupt you. Go ahead.

Page 18

A. Go ahead.
Q. Do you have any idea about -- Do you have any idea about what timeframe he would have hired -- retained you?
A. I really, again, I don't have an independent recollection of it. I think there's probably a memo out there of me meeting with him, too.
Q. Okay. Actually, I think there is. Okay, I just uploaded Dulberg Mast Dep Exhibit No. 3 and the top says -- it's titled, "Intake Memo." At the top it says, "Memorandum," it's Popovich, it says POP00961 and 000962. Do you recognize this document?
A. I -- It looks familiar.
Q. And it indicates that it's from you, so you would have drafted this document, correct?
A. I would have dictated it, yeah.
Q. Okay, and it looks like you had a new client meeting with Paul on December 1st of 2011?
A. That's what it says.
Q. Okay. Does that seem like that timeframe would have been roughly correct?
A. I have no reason not to believe that's accurate.
Q. Okay. So Paul retained you probably sometime in December of 2011 and then you filed a complaint around May 15, 2012?

A. That's what it appears.
Q. Okay. So can you just tell me what the case against Mr. -- I'm sorry. Can you describe the case between Paul Dulberg and David Gagnon, Caroline and William McGuire?
A. What do you mean describe it? What it's about?
Q. Yeah, basically what was it about?
A. An injury, a chain saw injury.
Q. Okay. Was there anything about the case that was unique to you?
A. Other than it was a chain saw injury.
Q. Okay. What was your theory of that case? What was your theory of liability in the case?
A. I think the -- Paul had claimed Dave struck him with the chain saw.
Q. So was it just a negligence theory or was it a strict liability or --
A. I believe it was negligence, if I recall correct.
Q. Negligence against Gagnon, David Gagnon?
A. Yeah, and I think the McGuires actually were named as well.

Q. And what was the theory as to the McGuires?
A. I think Paul had said that they were the ones that owned and looked over the work that was being done.
Q. Okay. So if they owned the chain saw and were overseeing the work, what's the legal theory for liability on that? Why would they be liable?
A. Under case law potentially there's liable -- liability for people that oversee and direct the work.
Q. Okay, and is that a strict liability or is it some other form of liability?
A. It would be negligence.
Q. So negligent oversight?
A. Potentially.
Q. Okay. Were there any other theories that you were going to pursue or could be pursued?
A. Not that I recall.
Q. Okay. So a negligence claim against Gagnon for negligently utilizing the chain saw and then a negligence claim against McGuires for not -- for not controlling his use of the chain saw, is that accurate?

A. I don't recall the exact allegations, but I think in a general theme that was what we were going to try to prove.
Q. Okay. In the intake memo, do you want to go back to that? There are some notes on this exhibit that state -- it looks to me like it says, "Hans BC the accident occurred on their premises, their HO med pay will cover the bills," and then it's signed. Do you recognize that handwriting?
A. Yeah, that would be Tom.
Q. Okay, and what does that note mean?
A. Medical coverage, medical payments coverage.
Q. So there -- So the McGuires -- When he says their, is he referring to Caroline and Bill McGuire?
A. Well, I don't know what he's referring to. I think what he's -- Well, he circled their names, so that probably indicates what he's referring to.
Q. Okay. Would their -- Would their insurance cover medical bills in an instance like this?
A. Possibly.
Q. Okay. Did you reach out to their insurance company about covering any medical bills?
A. I don't recall if that was applicable or I don't know -- I don't recall that issue.

Page 22

Q. Okay.
A. Oh, uh, I think -- It just kicked me off.
MR. FLYNN: I got disconnected, too. It's the Wi-Fi.
BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. Okay, we'll just wait a minute here.
A. I can hear you. I just can't see you.
Q. We'll wait a minute until you can get your video back on.
MR. FLYNN: Julia, we think the Wi-Fi may have dropped here in the office.
MS. WILLIAMS: Okay. Well, let's just give it a minute and see.
MR. FLYNN: Okay.
(Whereupon, a break was taken, after which the following proceedings were had:)
MS. WILLIAMS: Okay. I think we're back on the record. Barb, are you doing all right?
THE REPORTER: Yes.
BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. Okay. So we just went through the memo that Tom made a note about insurance and your testimony was that you don't recall whether you made any requests to the McGuires' insurance to pay Paul's medical bills; is that correct?

A. I don't remember, right.
Q. Okay. Back to the actual claims made. Do you remember -- Do you recall what the defense was for first Gagnon and then Bill -- William and Caroline McGuire?
A. What do you mean by defense?
Q. What was their theory of defense in the case, do you recall? As you understood it.
A. I mean, that's a big question. I mean, they, like every case, they were denying what we were alleging.
Q. Were they denying the facts? Did they dispute the facts of the case?
A. Definitely.
Q. Okay. Do you recall what they were alleging as far as the facts that were different from what you were alleging?
A. I mean, I can probably answer that for -- with an hour -- an hour answer. There's a lot that they were denying. There was a lot that, you know, I mean, I'd have to -- I could look at their answer. I could look at their deposition testimony, but, I mean, that brings up a lot of issues.

Q. Okay. Let's -- Let me narrow it down a little bit and try to get more to a point that will be useful for our discussion. At some point, you had recommended that Paul settle the case as to the McGuires; is that correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. And what was the reasoning for settling the case as to William and Bill McGuire?
A. Just risk, like you always discuss with any settlement.
Q. Can you be a little more specific about what type of risk?
A. Again, that's a long question but, I mean, it's like any settlement, you're taking a risk if you don't settle the case when you have issues that could be problematic.
Q. Okay. When you say issues that can be problematic, and I know it could be a very long answer, but as much as you can, can you summarize what you think those risks were?
A. Understanding it's a summary that, I mean, I could probably answer that in a couple hours, but the chance of recovery was in my view very slim if at all because of lots of reasons, one, because of Paul's testimony, Gagnon's testimony, the McGuires' testimony. The evidence didn't seem to be something that was going to allow us to prove the case against the McGuires.

Q. Okay. What -- And, again, I understand this is -- these are very long questions, but just in summary, what were you going to need to prove the case against the McGuires?
A. Now, again, understanding I would have to put myself in my place where I was back at the time that I fully evaluated this with Paul, but if I'm just trying to come up with some thoughts now years later the case law, I think, was against us. The defense was going to file a motion for summary judgment if we didn't work out some sort of settlement that I felt they were going to win and the testimony from all parties was not helpful to us.
Q. Okay. I'm going to move forward and then we may come back to this a little bit. Do you recall when the first time was that you talked to Paul about settling the claims with the McGuires?
A. No, whenever -- You know, the defense attorney would have reached out to me to ask for some sort of demand, I assume.

Q. Did you make a demand at some point?
A. I think -- I think some of your paperwork showed that I did.
Q. Okay. I just uploaded Dulberg Mast Exhibit 4 and it says letter -- it's "Letter Re Settlement," and that should be -- still be Exhibit 4 that was emailed around to Counsel so that you would have it. And it is labeled POP192 and POP193. Do you recognize those documents?
A. Wait. I think the Internet, maybe because we were having problems, is the Internet went down, so now my exhibits aren't pulling up. Can you try it again? Do you have that, George?
MR. FLYNN: Yeah, here's the hard copy.
THE WITNESS: I'll look at the hard copy, so what are you asking?
BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. Great. So it should be the document it has letterhead on the top, Popovich letterhead on the top, and at the bottom it's POP000192 and POP000193.
A. Right.
Q. Do you recognize those documents?

Page 27

A. I mean, they look familiar. Documents from the Popovich firm, if that's what you're asking.
Q. Is that your signature?
A. Yes.
Q. So you would have drafted or caused this letter to be drafted and sent?
A. It appears that way, yeah.
Q. And this is a demand letter where you make a demand of $7,500; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall making that demand?
A. No.
Q. Do you recall if you talked to Paul prior to making the demand?
A. I'm sure I would have.
Q. Okay. Do you recall -- Do you have any memos or notes regarding that conversation with Paul?
A. I don't personally.
Q. Okay. If there were memos and notes, would they be in Thomas Popovich's file?
A. It should.
Q. Okay. Do you recall any emails about the demand -- the 7,500 demand?
A. I know there were lots of emails. I don't know if this number is identified in those emails, but, again, it would have been something I would have talked to him about before making it.

Q. Okay. But at this time you don't know if there are any memos, notes or emails memorializing any conversation with Paul prior to sending the October 22, 2013 demand?
A. Not that I recall.
Q. Okay, and if they did exist, they would be in the possession of Thomas Popovich, correct?
A. I would think so.
Q. Okay, and if you had those in your possession, you would produce them in discovery, correct?
A. If I had them.
Q. Okay. Just uploaded Exhibit 5, and this is email dated October 30, 2013, and it's marked at the bottom POP000195.
A. Okay.
Q. Okay, and here in this email it looks like you started this email chain to Paul on October 25, 2013. Do you see that?
A. It looks like there's a couple emails here. There's several pages. You just mean the first page?

Page 29

Q. I think -- It should only be, I believe it's only one page and it looks like --
A. Oh, these aren't part of it? Just one page?
Q. The document that I have is just one page. Are we looking at the same thing?
A. Okay.
Q. It's POP00195 on the bottom.
A. Yeah, he had a couple other pages on it, but okay.
Q. Okay. I just want to make sure that I didn't -- Okay. And on the bottom there of the first sheet, if you have several, I've only published one sheet for the purposes of this deposition, it states, "Friday, October 25, 2013," do you see that?
A. Where does it say that?
Q. So about halfway down the page it looks like it says, "Original message from Paul"?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. So that looks like Paul reached out to you about medical deposition and then on the top it appears to be your reply of October 30, 2013. Does that seem like that's accurate?
A. That's what it shows.
Q. Okay. Okay. And here you first -- Am I correct in summarizing this is an email where you talk to Paul about liability for Mr. Gagnon?

Page 30

A. Look likes I did cover that issue.
Q. Okay, and do you recall at the time what your purpose was behind this email?
A. I mean, every purpose is just to have open communication. That's all the purpose --
Q. Okay. Would you have been trying to explain to Paul the liability issues in his case that you described earlier?
A. Yeah, I definitely was discussing several issues for him so he knows what's going on.
Q. Okay, and this email response is dated October 30th, so that was after you sent that initial letter. Do you recall whether there would have been anything prior to this?
A. Whether what was prior to this?
Q. Would there have been any communications about liability either to Gagnon or the McGuires prior to the October 30, 2013 email?
A. Every time we talked, there were issues about liability, I mean, for whatever I first -- he first came to the office I recall he was lots of questions and I gave him lots of answers as is reflected in my emails.

Q. Okay. Did you meet with Paul after you sent that October 22nd demand letter?
A. Did I meet with him?
Q. Yes. In person.
A. I'm sure I did.
Q. Okay. Do you recall -- Do you recall meeting -- the dates of those meetings?
A. No, I don't recall the dates.
Q. Okay. So I'm going to upload another file here.
A. Yeah, our Internet is down. That's why I can't bring these up.
Q. Okay.
MR. FLYNN: Julia, just so you know, I've got hard copies of the majority of the exhibits you sent with the exception of the larger files, like the insurance policy and the dep transcripts.
MS. WILLIAMS: Okay. Okay, great.
MR. FLYNN: I've got some of the deposition transcripts, but I didn't want to waste a lot of paper and ink at home.
MS. WILLIAMS: Okay. I think we'll be -- For the most part, I think we'll be fine and we'll deal with it if and when we get to that point.

Q. Okay. So the document that I'm looking at now is another email on the -- it's now titled Exhibit 6. I don't think it was entitled Exhibit 6 in what I sent to George, but it's an email that the first date on the email is November 4, 2013, and the last date on the email is November 5, 2013 email chain and it's -- at the bottom it's stamped Dulberg001531.
A. What exhibit is it?
Q. I think it might have been 5-A to George. It's now Exhibit 6 for the purposes of this deposition.
A. Yeah, that wasn't part of the download then. Do you have --
MR. FLYNN: Yeah, I don't think that was included.
THE WITNESS: What's the Bates stamp or what's the stamp?
MS. WILLIAMS: The Bates stamp is Dulberg001531.
THE WITNESS: Yeah, I don't recall --
MR. FLYNN: I don't recall seeing a 5-A on the download. I think it just went straight from 5 to 6.

MS. WILLIAMS: Okay, let me see if I can do something else. I'm going to try to share my screen. I don't know if I'm going to be able to do it. So bear with me. Okay. I can't -- I can't share the screen. Can I email -- George, can you pull up an email if I email it to you?
MR. FLYNN: I should be able to eventually.
MS. WILLIAMS: Okay, let me see if that will --
THE WITNESS: Let me run to the washroom real quick while you guys do --
MS. WILLIAMS: We'll take a quick break, that's fine, we'll try to work this out. If anybody else needs a break, obviously take a break now.
(Whereupon, a break was taken, after which the following proceedings were had:)
BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. Okay, back on the record. This is the Exhibit 6 for the deposition and it's marked at the bottom Dulberg001531 and it's an email chain between Paul Dulberg and Hans Mast dated November 4th through about November 5th, is that accurate, Hans?

Page 34

A. That's what it appears.
Q. Okay, and it appears at the bottom that Paul is asking you if he should bring anything to a meeting.
A. Okay.
Q. And that meeting appears to be at 3:00 p.m. on November 4th of 2013.
A. Okay.
Q. Is that an accurate description? Okay? Do you recall having --
A. Go ahead, I'm sorry.
Q. Do you recall having a meeting on November 4th of 2013 with Paul Dulberg?
A. I don't have an independent recollection.
Q. Okay. Okay.
MR. FLYNN: Julia, now I recall, this is a separate exhibit you sent a little bit later than the original download, so I did have this.
MS. WILLIAMS: Okay. Okay. We got it worked out.
MR. FLYNN: Yeah, okay.
BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. Okay. So you don't recall calling a meeting for November 4th?

Page 35

A. We had lots of meetings so --
Q. Okay.
A. -- I don't have an independent recollection of that one particular date.
Q. Okay. Okay, I'm going to stop screen sharing. Okay. I'm going to upload another file. This is Deposition Exhibit 7. George, you probably had it as Exhibit 6, but for the purposes of this deposition right now it's going to be 7 and it's an email chain dated --
A. I have these on the computer. You don't need to, unless you want to, but I'm just saying I have these on the computer.
Q. Okay, but Barb needs them, so that's why I keep uploading them, otherwise she doesn't have them. Okay. So Exhibit 7, and it's POP00181 and POP00182, and it's two pages of an email chain, November 15th, looks like on the second page it starts November 15th and ends November 19th, is that accurate?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay, great. So here it looks like Paul started this email chain, but then on November 18th you note that, "The McGuires' attorney has offered us, you, $5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only," do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Do you recall that offer being made?
A. I do have some recollection of having a conversation with them.
Q. Okay. So I'm going to upload another document and then we can keep going here. And then this is Exhibit 8 and for -- it is a letter from Ronald Barch to you, Hans, and it's POP000667. Do you have that?
A. What's it dated?
Q. I'm sorry, dated November 18, 2013.
A. Yeah, I have that.
Q. Okay. And that's a settlement letter from Barch offering the settlement of $5,000, correct?
A. Right.
Q. Do you recall receiving this letter?
A. I mean, I don't today recall getting the letter, but I'm familiar with the transaction, yes.
Q. Okay. Okay. So you would have received the $5,000 offer from Barch and you communicated it to Paul via the email on November 18th?
A. As well as when we talked, yes.
Q. Okay. Okay. And when did you talk?

Page 37

A. Again, I don't know the dates. I just know generally how this all transpired.
Q. Would you have talked to Paul on the 18th when the letter came in?
A. It's dated the 18th. I doubt I got it on the 18th. Whenever I got it, I would have told Paul.
Q. Okay. And it looks like the email you sent, which is Exhibit 7, communicated that offer?
A. Okay.
Q. Would you have talked to the McGuires' attorney prior to receiving the letter about the offer?
A. I don't recall. It might have -- that might have happened.
Q. Okay. Do you recall whether you met with Paul sometime after -- on or after November 18 to discuss the settlement offer?
A. I'm sure we did. I know we had several conversations and meetings about that.
Q. Okay. In this email chain that's Exhibit 7 about halfway down the page it says on November 18, 2013, at 7:40 p.m., Paul responds to your email. Can you see that?
A. Are we going back to the email now?

Page 38

Q. Yep, it's POP00181.
A. What exhibit?
Q. It's Exhibit 7.
A. 7, that's the letter.
Q. If may be 6 for you. It may be 6 for you.
A. Let's take a look. What page is the email?
Q. The date at the top of the email chain is Tuesday, November 19, 2013.
A. Yeah, I have that.
Q. Okay. And then about maybe halfway down the page it's dated on November 18, 2013, at 7:40 p.m., do you see that?
A. Yep.
Q. And there it says, "Only five? That's not much at all," do you see that?
A. That's his response, yes.
Q. Right. Right. Do you recall talking to Paul about the $5,000 and that not being much?
A. Like I said, yes, we've had plenty of conversations and meetings on that.
Q. Okay. When you originally offered the 7,500, did you talk about what the possible outcomes as far as counteroffers, what they may demand, something like that, did you talk about that prior to making that $7,500 offer?

A. I mean, I think I generally understand what you're asking. Did we just have general conversations of numbers? Yes.
Q. Okay. In this email and this is -- I understand this is speculation, but in this email it appears that Paul is surprised that it's $5,000 was the offer, correct? Would that be fair to characterize it that way?
A. Is he surprised at it or is he surprised at the amount? It looks like he didn't think it was much.
Q. Right. So if you originally offered 7,500 and they came back at 5,000, in your experience, does that seem like much of a difference when it comes to counteroffers?
MR. FLYNN: I'll object to the form.
THE WITNESS: Yeah, I'm not real sure what you mean by that.
BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. I guess let me rephrase because I don't think I'm getting to the point. Prior to making the $7,500 offer, did you discuss with Paul that the McGuires may come back with an offer that was lower than the 7,500?

A. Again, I'm -- I understand the question. I'm just not trying to play games, but you're asking me do I recall specific words that are used or topics. All I can tell you about this is we talked about the whole gamut of options, that I didn't feel it was a strong case, that they were reaching out to us for $5,000, and that balancing everything, the risks, costs, even though it wasn't much, it was something that would have been desirable for him if he wants to end up with money versus the McGuires.
Q. I'm going to add another exhibit here. Okay, for the purposes of this deposition it's Deposition Exhibit 9. This is a memorandum. At the top it will say, "Memorandum," and the date is November 20, 2013, and at the bottom it's identified as POP and then 3 — there's 000003, I believe. Do you have that?
A. What exhibit is it?
Q. I think you're probably going to have it as Exhibit 8, but for the purposes of this deposition it's actually going to be Exhibit 9.
A. Okay.
Q. And it's Dulberg Mast Memo,

Page 41

2013 November 20.
A. Okay, yeah.
Q. Okay. It looks from this memo that you had a meeting with Paul and his friend on November 20th, is that accurately reflected what's stated in the memo?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember this document? Do you recall this?
A. As I said before, I understand what you're asking, but we've had lots of meetings. Do I remember that particular date, no, but I remember the meetings.
Q. Do you recognize this memorandum?
A. I recognize the discussion that's referenced in the memo. I haven't seen the memo for 7 years.
Q. Okay. Do you recall the advice that you gave in that meeting of November 20th?
A. Yeah, like I said, it's summarized a little bit in there. Yeah.
Q. Okay. And what was the -- Why don't -- What was the advice that you gave?
A. Do you want me to read the memo or you want me to just tell you generally what the topics were or what?

Q. Generally to the best that you can recall.
A. Looks like on that day he brought his friend in because before he wanted to consider the offer, he wanted to have his friend come with him to talk about these issues with me. So we went over --
Q. So --
A. Go ahead.
Q. No, I'll let you finish. Go ahead. I'm sorry.
A. Well, we went over all the issues, all the risks, all the money issues, all of the issues.
Q. Do you recall who the friend was?
A. Not as I sit here today.
Q. From this memo it says, "Paul maintains the McGuires controlled everything that they were doing and you told him that wasn't what the evidence seemed to show." So can you expound on what -- This is really going to be a complicated question, but to the best of your ability, can you explain what the theory of your case was against the McGuires and what the evidence was that was going to -- what evidence was your reason for believing that you couldn't prove your theory?

A. We already talked a little bit about that earlier, but every time we met, we talked about this because this was a subject at the time with the McGuires and given the testimony of the McGuires, given Paul's testimony, given the lack of any evidence that they were controlling any work or even knew what Paul was doing, I felt it was a big, high risk of moving forward on that claim.
Q. So I'm going to try to summarize this. Maybe in parts. So in order for the McGuires to be liable for Gagnon's work, Paul would have to prove in his case that the McGuires controlled Gagnon's work, is that accurate?
A. Are you asking me if that's an accurate statement of the law?
Q. Yes.
A. I think that's partially right. There's a lot more to it. It's different branches and elements that you have to prove, control was a factual matter, and he would have to be able to establish there was some oversight. It goes down into some factual issues that you have to be able to show.
Q. Okay. So can you -- To the best of your ability, can you kind of walk me through for the negligence claim against the McGuires what the legal elements were that you would have to show?

A. I haven't brushed up recently on that area, but I can tell you that under the case law they have to have some oversight and control over what was going on and some involvement in the work and some knowledge higher and above what Paul was doing, and if you look at their testimony, they were not out there, they were not looking at it, they didn't even really know what Paul was doing frankly.
Q. And what about David? Did they have to control what David was doing as well?
A. I meant David, I'm sorry.
Q. Okay. So the McGuires would have to have oversight and control over David Gagnon?
A. Over the work.
Q. Okay. Over the work. Okay. So William and Caroline did buy the chain saw, correct?
A. I believe that is true.
Q. Okay. But then David Gagnon was the one operating the chain saw?
A. Right.
Q. And you would have to show in Paul's case that Bill and Caroline, one or the other, had control over David's operation of the chain saw?

A. Control could mean a lot of things. They would have to be in a position to instruct him, tell him what to do, be aware of the work that was being done and have some control over what he was doing.
Q. Okay. So in your -- Your opinion of the case was that it was insufficient for them to have simply purchased the chain saw and provided it to Gagnon?
A. Yeah.
Q. And what about if they were paying him? Would that make any difference?
A. No.
Q. I'm sorry, I don't know or no?
A. No.
Q. Just bear with me for a second here. And you informed Paul -- I'm sorry, let me back up. In exhibit -- Deposition Exhibit 7, so it's probably 6 for you, the email chain between you and Paul, roughly November 18th through the 19th, Popovich 000181, on the bottom of that first page, November 18, 2013, at 1:28 p.m. there's an email from you. Do you see that?
A. Yes.

Q. "In addition, the McGuires' attorney," so it's ATTY, "has offered us, you, 5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only. As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners so they likely will get out of the case on a motion." Did I read that correctly?

A. Yes.

Q. So this is where you told Paul that you didn't believe the McGuires had any liabilities for the reasons -- in part for the reasons we just discussed?

A. Right.

Q. Ultimately Paul accepted that $5,000 offer, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you communicated that to the other side later in 2013, does that sound correct to you?

A. Yes.

Q. I'm uploading Exhibit 10, and it should be Exhibit 10 for you as well, and it's a memorandum dated December 20, 2013, and at the bottom it's POP000884, do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. And that's a memorandum that you wrote to the legal file; is that correct?

A. It looks like that.

Q. I think I already said this, it's dated December 20, 2013?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And the substance of it, it appears that you had a conversation on December 18th with Paul and that he was authorizing you to accept the $5,000 settlement?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Do you recall that conversation of December 18?

A. I recall having lots of conversations, this is one of them, and generally I do recall the conversations in a general sense, not the exact dates.

Q. Okay. So you don't remember anything specific to this December 18th call what you would have discussed?

A. Not other than what I've already said we discussed over the time.

Q. Okay.

A. Paul was weighing his options. He knew the risk and he had -- he wanted some time to think about it and consider it.

Q. Okay. All right, just bear with me here. Okay, I just uploaded Deposition Exhibit 11, it's a settlement acceptance letter, letterhead from Thomas Popovich's office dated December 26, 2013. Hans, your signature appears on there and it's POP00670. Do you recognize this document?

A. That appears to be a letter from Popovich's office to defense counsel.

Q. Do you recognize your signature on here?

A. Yes.

Q. And this is the letter where you accepted the offer on behalf of Paul, is that accurate?

A. It appears, yeah.

Q. Okay. So the Defendants made the original offer around November 18 and Paul -- November 18, 2013, and Paul accepted it around December 20, 2013. Is that statement accurate?

A. I don't have, like I said, independent recollection of the dates. I would just have to go off the documents.

Q. Okay. Was there -- If that timeframe is roughly correct, was there anything that occurred during that timeframe that indicated to you, you know, why Paul changed his mind from originally thinking it was too little to now accepting it. Was there anything that stuck out in your mind about that?

Page 49

A. Yeah.

Q. Can you expound on that?

A. Well, he had his friend with him during our meeting and he reviewed the depositions.

Q. Okay. Did he not have the depositions prior to that?

A. I remember he asked for copies of them, so I provided them to him.

Q. Okay, and when you say the depositions, do you mean just the party depositions, the McGuires and the Gagnon?

A. I don't remember if I gave him the doctors. I don't remember which ones I gave him, but I know specifically it was Gagnon and the McGuires.

Q. Okay, I'm uploading Dulberg Mast Dep Exhibit 12. This is titled, "Legal Research." And this is hard because there's -- it's 27 pages. Some of them have Bates numbers, but some of them are black on the bottom, so I think the Bates numbers didn't -- didn't take, but it's roughly -- looks like roughly 204, maybe 205, Dulberg204, 205 through roughly Dulberg00304 -- Actually, I'm sorry, these aren't going to be continuous. But do you have that packet of legal research in front of you? It appears to be copies out of a -- copies of case law out of the Northeastern Digest.

A. I just have the one case here.

Q. Just one case? Which -- What's the case title?

A. The first one, it's L A J A T O.

Q. Okay. Do you -- Did you copy this case law?

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you recall providing any case law to Paul?

A. I don't know if I did or didn't. I don't know if he asked.

Q. Okay. Do you recall doing case law research?

A. I'm sure I did, yeah.

Q. Would have there been a memo or something regarding that research?

A. Not necessarily. I was familiar with the law.

Page 51

Q. Okay. Okay. Was there any -- Was there any case law that stuck out to you, any particular cases that stuck out to you?

MR. FLYNN: Object to the form.

THE WITNESS: You mean stuck out to me with regard to Paul and his case?

BY MS. WILLIAMS:

Q. No. Were there any applicable cases that stuck out to you one way or the other as to whether the McGuires would be liable? Was there any specific cases that made you think that the McGuires may not be liable given the facts in Paul's case?

A. I mean, you deal with this issue a lot and I can't think of one particular name of a case, but these cases all go along the same line, so there were lots of cases on this one particular issue. It wasn't a complicated issue.

Q. So particularly the issue of control of Gagnon.

A. Of a premises owner's liability for an independent contractor.

Q. Okay. So can you explain generally what an independent contractor is?

A. I'll give you have an answer if you want, but just, I mean, we're talking now, what is it, 7 years later? I haven't been asked to do any research before today's deposition, but so, I mean, if you're asking me for what the case law says, I'd have to look at the case law, if that's what you're asking.

Q. I'm asking based on your -- on your experience and knowledge as a personal injury attorney and not necessarily related to Dulberg's case specifically.

A. Okay.

Q. But based on your knowledge and experience in premises liability cases, what is an independent contractor?

A. Someone that works on their own.

Q. And can you explain what you mean by on their own?

A. Somebody that's hired, like, somebody that's hired to paint the house.

Q. Okay. So somebody that's hired by a homeowner or maybe a business?

A. Yes.

Q. But someone that's hired by a homeowner but the homeowner doesn't -- doesn't tell them how to do their job?

A. Right.

Q. Did you ever obtain a copy of the McGuires' insurance policy, do you recall?

A. I don't have an independent recollection.

Q. Did you ever advise Paul as to the limits of the McGuires' policy?

A. I'm sure we talked about it.

Q. Okay. I just uploaded Dulberg Mast Deposition Exhibit 13 McGuire Interrogatory Answers and they're Bates stamped Dulberg000162 is the first page and there's roughly 14 pages. Do you see that document?

A. Yes.

MR. FLYNN: This is 14?

MS. WILLIAMS: It should be Exhibit 13 -- 13 or 14. I think I have it as 13. Yes, okay. And this -- I'm looking at paragraph 15 or at least I'm trying to look at paragraph 15.

Q. Okay. In paragraph 15 it looks like there was a question about the homeowner's insurance and the McGuires respond with their personal liability and their medical liability, do you see that?

A. Yes.

Page 54

Q. Okay. Now that you see that, do you recall whether you ever got a copy of that policy?
A. I don't -- You mean the dec pages or the whole policy?
Q. Either. Did you get a copy of the dec pages?
A. I have no idea.
Q. And you have no idea whether you got a copy of the whole policy?
A. Yeah, don't know.
Q. But they are representing what their insurance was and the liability there, correct, or their liability coverage there?
A. That's what it appears.
Q. Okay. And these -- This was -- looks like this was responded to based on the McGuires' signature on roughly the 12th page of the document. It looks like it was August 6th of 2012.
A. That's what it appears.
Q. Yeah. So prior to when they would have made the settlement offers, correct?
A. That's what it appears.
Q. Okay. Did you ever talk to Paul about those -- the limits of the insurance policy and how that may be important in his case?

A. I suspect we talked about the policy, yeah.
Q. Okay. Prior to any settlement discussions?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. But you've already testified you didn't -- You don't know if you -- You don't know if you obtained a copy. What about Gagnon's insurance policy, did you ever obtain a copy of that?
A. I don't know. I don't know.
Q. Okay. Did you issue interrogatories to Mr. Gagnon?
A. I'm sure I did.
Q. Let me upload this. Would they have been in Popovich's file if you --
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. So I can tell you, I don't recall seeing any documents issued by you. I'm going to upload a document that appears to be interrogatories issued by McGuires' counsel in the case. I'm going to upload it right now. It's Exhibit 14 and Answers to Co-Defendant Interrogatories and it is stamped Dulberg00178. Do you see that document?
A. Yes.
Q. It appears that these were issued by

Page 56

Co-Defendants, in other words, the McGuires, does that seem accurate to you?
A. Yes.
Q. So would you have issued interrogatories in addition to what the McGuires' counsel issued?
A. It's probable.
Q. Okay. Do you recall one way or the other today as we sit here?
A. Not other than it's probable I did.
Q. I have not seen those in discovery, so if they exist, we'd ask that they be produced. Do you ever recall talking to Paul about the policy limits of the Gagnon insurance policy?
A. It's a topic that frequently comes up. I don't have an independent recollection.
Q. Would you have any memos or notes on that?
A. I could. I may. I don't have an independent recollection of that.
Q. Okay. And, again, that would have been in the file that -- in Thomas Popovich's file?
A. Correct.
Q. In your knowledge and experience not related to the Dulberg case but just in your general knowledge and experience, are there any situations where a homeowner may be strictly liable for someone doing work on their property?

MR. FLYNN: I'm just going to object to the hypothetical being inaccurate and incomplete, also calls for an expert opinion. While this witness is a lawyer, I won't necessarily -- I don't expect to call him as an F-2 or F-3 witness in the case.
THE WITNESS: So you're asking if a homeowner can be strictly liable for an injury?
BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. Right.
A. In general terms, not with regard to this case?
Q. No, in general terms. I'm just asking in general terms in your -- based on your experience and knowledge of injury cases.
A. I mean, I think -- Not in Paul's case, but I think I could probably think of something that maybe could be -- as products strict liability, there's hazardous materials strict liability, there's different issues that potentially factually if they're applicable could apply, but not in Paul's case.
Q. Okay. Just in general, what kind of hazardous -- When you say hazardous, are you talking about hazardous chemical-type cases?

A. There's a string of cases when you're dealing with hazardous chemicals and hazardous materials, like a bomb or something like that, things like that.

Q. Okay. Okay. Are there any, like, hazardous actions? Could something be considered, like, some type of action be considered hazardous?

A. What do you mean by action? Activity?

Q. Yeah, like, I'm trying to give you an example because I'm just trying to understand it more than anything else. Yeah, is there an activity that you could be doing on your property, I don't know, like, what about tearing down your home, would that be considered -- would that be something that could be hazardous?

A. There would have to be statutory authority for that and there isn't.

Q. Okay. Okay. Okay. So generally for strict liability there has to be some type of statutory authority for that?

A. Or common law. Yeah. They have a particular fact pattern.

Page 59

Q. Okay. But this case particularly is simply a negligence case. Paul's case against the McGuires was a simple negligent failure to control case in your opinion?

A. That's what was pled.

Q. Okay. Did you ever make any -- ever consider pleading any other allegations?

MR. FLYNN: Object to the form.

THE WITNESS: I don't -- No. Not that I recall.

MS. WILLIAMS: Okay. Can we take about a 4-minute break?

MR. FLYNN: Sure.

MS. WILLIAMS: Let's just take -- I just want to take a quick break and review my notes and I want to give everybody an opportunity to kind of stretch for a second. I'm going to go on mute.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

(Whereupon, a break was taken, after which the following proceedings were had:)

MS. WILLIAMS: Let's go back on the record. Okay, thank you everyone. Okay, just a little bit more here.

Q. On -- When you were talking to Paul about settlement in the general timeframe of November-December 2013, did you ever suggest at that time that he seek alternative counsel or any recommendation related to that?

A. I think that did come up.

Q. Do you recall what your advice to him was or what the discussion was?

A. I think, you know, we always talk about the risks of not settling and further down the road what, you know, having to try the case and having to try prove the case or getting a motion for summary judgment, having the costs exceed the benefits and all that, and I think my position with Paul, since he didn't give a relatively very good deposition, my thought was we were going to have a tough time, an uphill battle, and he can always seek other counsel if he doesn't agree with me.

Q. And you just stated that you thought Paul didn't give a very good deposition, that may not have been your exact language, but roughly that the deposition wasn't great. Can you explain what -- as you recall it, what about the deposition was problematic?

A. I mean, he even agreed with me, but he just doesn't do a very good job.

Q. You mean -- Can you expand on that a little bit?

A. As a witness, as I recall, again, it's been quite some time, as I recall he was -- his testimony wasn't given -- wasn't strong, it wasn't definite, it didn't have credible points and some points were incredible when compared to other -- other testimony. I mean, there's just a lot -- there was a lot of problems with his testimony.

Q. Okay. Do you recall the circumstances that Paul described as to why he came to the McGuires'?

A. I think he was either going to pick up something or drop something off.

Q. Okay.

A. I don't really recall. I'm just thinking back now.

Q. Okay. Do you recall whether he was asked to come over to help with the tree, to help take down the tree? Was that the purpose of his visit?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. Would it matter as for liability whether it was or wasn't?

Page 62

A. As by who? As to whose liability?
Q. I'm sorry, his and McGuires' liability.
A. As to how he got there?
Q. Whether he was -- Whether he was invited for the purpose of assisting with the removal of the tree.
MR. FLYNN: Object to the form. Just invited by whom?
THE WITNESS: Yeah, that's a complicated question, but I don't think --
BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. Let me clarify if I can. Okay. So my question was does it matter if the McGuires invited Paul to their residence to remove the tree on that -- on the June -- roughly June, I believe, 2011 date?
MR. FLYNN: Object to the hypothetical.
THE WITNESS: I don't think it matters.
BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. Okay. Would it matter if they were paying Paul?
A. That's not the issue. The issue is Dave.
Q. Okay. So the relationship between the McGuires and Paul is somewhat irrelevant?
A. I'm just saying the issue really that -- about liability is Dave's relationship with them.

Q. Because Dave is the one that controlled the chain saw that injured Paul, is that accurate?
A. He was the one hired to do the work or asked to do the work, however, whatever that background was.
Q. And Caroline and William McGuire both testified that they had never used a chain saw; is that correct?
A. I think that's accurate. I'd have to refresh my memory, but that sounds right.
Q. Okay. Do you remember discussing bankruptcy with Paul?
A. I don't remember that.
Q. Do you remember that Paul filed for bankruptcy? Do you recall that?
A. I saw a -- Maybe I didn't see one. I remember there was some sort of bankruptcy matter. I don't know the dates or when it came up.
Q. Okay. Do you recall if you advised Paul to file for bankruptcy?
A. I don't advise people to file for bankruptcy.
Q. All right. So you would not have advised

Page 64

Paul to file for bankruptcy?
A. Would not.
Q. Okay. And then sometime after the McGuire settlement but before the -- but while the Gagnon -- the claims against David Gagnon were still pending you withdrew from the case; is that correct?
A. The law firm did. I -- Again, he hired the law firm.
Q. Sure. Sure. I'm sorry. The Popovich firm withdrew?
A. Right.
Q. And I -- Let's see -- I think we're on Exhibit 14.
THE REPORTER: 15.
MS. WILLIAMS: 15, okay.
Q. I have, I think, one more and then -- Okay, I am uploading Exhibit 15, Dulberg Mast Dep Exhibit 15. It's a motion to withdraw and it's four pages and on the first page it has a Dulberg versus Gagnon case caption and file stamped March 13, 2015. Do you have that document?
A. Yeah.
Q. And this is the Popovich's firm motion to withdraw as counsel for Paul Dulberg in the Dulberg versus Gagnon-McGuire case, correct?

A. Yes.
Q. And you drafted or caused this motion to be drafted and filed?
A. Yes.
Q. And was it granted that same day it was filed?
A. I'm sure it had to be noticed up.
Q. Okay. On the notice of motion it looks like it was noticed for March 13, filed on March 13, but sent to the service list on March 5th, does that seem accurate?
A. That's what it says.
Q. But at any rate, you withdrew sometime in roughly March of 2015?
A. It appears that way. Again, I don't have an independent recollection of the date.
Q. Okay. Okay. That's fine. And I didn't see it -- an order actually showing the exact date of when you withdrew. Can you explain why you withdrew from the case?
A. The short version is just we had a difference of opinion.
Q. Can you give me the long version or slightly longer?

A. Well, we have difference of opinion but Paul was a bit difficult, so I just had to -- there were a couple times that I told him I was going to withdraw and then he begged me not to and so I didn't, but then ultimately he -- it got pretty -- it got pretty tough. He was saying some unfavorable, unflattering things and I just decided we're not going to get anywhere, I'm going to move on.
Q. Okay, so you -- the client relationship broke down and you withdrew?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Was there anything about Gagnon's liability or your thoughts on his liability that would have caused you to withdraw?
A. That was another aspect of it. Paul was looking for the stars and the moon and I didn't see it.
Q. And when you say Paul was looking for the stars and the moon, you mean -- Well, what do you mean by that?
A. He was looking for a lot of money.
Q. Okay, and what was your opinion as to David Gagnon's liability in the case?

Page 67

A. I didn't think much of the liability issue. I thought it was going to be a long, tough haul given that --
Q. And --
A. -- Paul was going to be our only witness on our side pretty much.
Q. Okay, and there were no other witnesses other than Paul and David; is that correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And what about -- Anything related to, like, the actual injury, the doctors' depositions or anything like that?
A. That all -- It was the whole ball of wax. The doctors weren't supporting his claim. Dave was saying he's a liar, he tried to bribe him. There was just a lot of -- a lot of bad stuff, not enough good stuff.
Q. Okay, and then at that point you and Paul disagreed and Paul retained alternative counsel?
A. Right.
Q. Okay. Was there anything else about the case that you can recall right now that gave you pause as to the liability either to the McGuires or David Gagnon?

Page 68

A. Anything other than what? Pretty much everything was not good.
Q. Okay. I mean, anything that we haven't really discussed here today. We've talked about Paul's testimony, Gagnon's testimony a little bit, the McGuires, the premises liability. We talked -- You mentioned the doctors' depositions. Is that sort of the general gamut of it?
A. That's the whole case.
Q. Okay. Have you ever had any other chain saw liability cases other than this particular case?
A. I'm sure I have. I don't -- If you're going to ask me to name a date, I don't know. I mean, it's not a common issue, but it comes up from time to time.
Q. Okay. Did you state -- Did you seek out a liability expert, a chain saw liability expert, during the time you were representing Paul?
A. No.
Q. Is there a reason for that?
A. That's always a possibility. It's always a consideration, but I had to consider even more whether we could even get to prove a credible case and that was my first object, my first -- my first tier. It doesn't do any good to hire an expert if you don't have a good case.

Q. Okay. Okay. If you were going to take the case to trial, at that point would you have hired an expert, chain saw expert?
A. For this case, I don't know. I'd have to look at it again and see what we need to prove, what they're arguing. There's -- As I recall, they weren't arguing the chain saw -- They weren't arguing. He didn't get hit with the chain saw. So I'm not real sure. I'd have to think whether we need to prove -- what we need to prove, anything more than that.
Q. Okay.
A. It was more what happened, who caused it to happen, not that it happened.
Q. Okay. Is there a difference between an independent contractor and an employee?
A. In terms of what? In terms of duty or what?
Q. Right. In terms of the supervisor's duty. So if the Gagnons -- If Gagnon was, and this is a hypothetical, if Gagnon was an employee of his parents as opposed to an independent contractor, would there be a liability difference?

MR. FLYNN: Object to the hypothetical. It's inaccurate and incomplete.

THE WITNESS: That's a very complicated question, even though it doesn't sound like one. It depends on lots of things.

BY MS. WILLIAMS:

Q. Okay. We've already talked about an independent contractor. So just in your experience and knowledge, what is a supervisor's duty as to an employee? That's actually a really terrible question. Let's strike that question.

Is there a difference -- Is there a difference between the control aspect of -- Would an -- Let me start again. This is a complicated question, more complicated than I'm anticipating right now. Okay.

We've generally established that in order for an -- someone who hires an independent contractor to be liable for the actions of that independent contractor, they would have to control the work. In a situation, an employer-employee situation, is that control element also present when considering liability? Does the employer have to control the work of the employee in the same way?

A. I think there are --

MR. FLYNN: I just want to raise an objection for the record. I object to the form. I think that the premise of the question indicated that we already established some legal precedent. I don't think that's the case. I don't think that he's testified to that, so, again, I'll just object to the form. But if you can --

THE WITNESS: You're asking me to compare two different theories without a fact pattern, but there's a lot to each issue and it's hard to just say, well, if you have this, then you have that. There's a lot of different facts that apply, but now I'm forgetting what you asked initially about the employer-employee question.

BY MS. WILLIAMS:

Q. So I guess my question to the point of is an employer liable for their employees in a different way than a homeowner would be liable for an independent contractor?

A. I think --

Q. Based on -- You go ahead.

A. I think under the law there are different elements to those actions.

Page 72

Q. And there are --

A. Go ahead.

Q. So there would be different elements if something was an employer-employee situation, that would be different law, different case law?

A. Yeah, there's a different cause of action.

Q. Okay.

A. Different elements potentially have to be pled and proved.

Q. Okay. But in this case you were trying to prove -- In Dulberg's case against the McGuires and Gagnon you were trying to show that -- The theory of the case was that Gagnon was not an employee, but an independent contractor, and the McGuires had to control him in order to be liable?

A. Well, that's ultimately what it appeared. You followed the evidence, you follow the facts, so if it turned out it was employee-employer-employee relationship, that's a different evaluation.

Q. Okay. So but, for the most part, you were -- your evaluations of the liability were based on an independent contractor analysis?

A. Well, that's where it went because of the evidence.

Page 73

MS. WILLIAMS: Okay. I'm going to go on mute for just a second so you guys don't hear me shuffling papers, but I think I'm almost finished here or may be finished.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

BY MS. WILLIAMS:

Q. Okay. Just a couple more questions and then we'll wrap things up here. When did you first advise Paul that you didn't think the claims against Gagnon were going to be very strong?

A. Probably day one.

Q. Before the settlement with the McGuires?

A. Yeah.

Q. And did you discuss that several times prior to that McGuire settlement?

A. Like I said, we discussed those issues every time we'd meet, liability issues, damages issues.

Q. Do you recall any particular instances, like maybe after Paul's deposition, after David's deposition, did that stick out in your mind at all?

A. Discussing what, the issues of liability against Gagnon?

Q. Yes.

A. Those are probably something we talked about every visit.

Q. Okay. So we discussed this a little bit before, but I believe the testimony was that the McGuires testified that they purchased the chain saw and I believe you said yes, that was your recollection as well; is that correct?
A. That sounds right. I just don't have an independent recollection at this point.
Q. Okay. If the McGuires -- Let's assume that -- Just for the purposes of this, let's assume that the McGuires did -- it was their chain saw, they purchased it and let Gagnon use it on their property. Would they have any duties to share the manual of that chain saw with Gagnon or provide any other education as to the use of the chain saw to Gagnon?
A. All right, so you're asking me to make a judicial decision whether they had a duty or not?
Q. No, I'm asking you in your experience with these types of cases is there any duty there for them.
A. All right, so a legal duty?
Q. Right. Right. And -- Go ahead, George.
MR. FLYNN: Yeah, I'll just object. I mean, there isn't any evidence that Gagnon asked for a manual, for one, but as far as him providing legal opinions not based on the facts of this case, I'm just going to caution him not to provide what could be considered an expert opinion.

THE WITNESS: You don't want me to answer?
MR. FLYNN: It's up to you. I don't know if you can.
THE WITNESS: I don't remember the question. You're asking me should the McGuires have given Gagnon the manual to the chain saw?
BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. Yes.
A. Sure, if he asked for it or if they wanted to give it to him.
Q. Are there any other warnings that they should have provided?
A. See, I mean, you're asking me to -- I get the question, but I'm saying you're asking me to evaluate the conduct of both parties and interpret something and I don't know that that's my position as a witness, but should they have warned him? You know, sure, go ahead and warn him, but obviously when you take on a piece of equipment that you're skilled and experienced in operating, you should be able to operate it effectively yourself safely.

Q. Sure. Okay. And --
A. So I mean --
Q. Okay. But today you're not giving an opinion one way or the other whether they had a duty to provide warnings, whether they had a duty to provide the manual, fair enough?
A. Yeah, legal wise, no, I'm not giving you a legal opinion on that.
MS. WILLIAMS: Okay. Okay, I don't think I have anything further.
MR. FLYNN: I actually have just a few follow-ups to that.
MS. WILLIAMS: Sure.
EXAMINATION
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Hans, is your understanding based on the evidence that there were only two eyewitnesses to Mr. Dulberg's accident, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. That was Mr. Dulberg himself and David Gagnon?
A. Correct.
Q. And did you have an understanding as to how the evidence and testimony shook out as to each gentleman's version of the accident and how it occurred?

A. Well, as I said before, I thought Paul's case was going to be very difficult to prove based on the testimony of everybody, credibility issues, and the lack of evidence to support and prove.
Q. David Gagnon's testimony regarding the facts surrounding the accident differed from Paul Dulberg's version of the facts, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. You took that into account in your evaluation and analysis of the case?
A. Definitely.
Q. Did you also take into account your professional analysis of Paul Dulberg's performance as a witness at his discovery deposition?
A. Definitely.
Q. You didn't think he made a very good witness for himself, did he?
A. He even admits he didn't and I don't think he -- I think -- that was one of the worst -- that was one of my worst fears with this case. I had lots of cases and on a scale of weak witnesses, he's probably up at the top, and I'm not putting him down, that's just a reality and I think he even acknowledged that reality.

Q. Okay. Not everyone is a professional witness?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Generally speaking, your evaluation of the case hinged in part on whether the McGuires controlled the manner and method of the use of the chain saw, correct?

A. Right.

Q. Do you have any recollection as to what the McGuires were doing while the work was being done?

A. They were inside the house, just another day to them. They weren't even -- I don't think even paying attention to what was going on outside.

Q. Did Mr. McGuire testify that he was watching television inside the house while David was working on the tree?

A. They were both inside as I recall.

Q. Your recommendation or suggestion that Mr. Dulberg settle the case for $5,000 was based on your analysis of the entire case, including the risks and benefits of going forward and potentially losing the case at trial, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have any way to predict whether the case would result in a verdict on behalf of the plaintiff in the case against the McGuires?

A. I'm sorry?

Q. Did you have any -- Did you have any certainty as to whether Mr. Dulberg could prevail at trial on liability against the McGuires?

A. I would have staked a lot that we would not have recovered in the case and just something that didn't come up with the direct is they didn't offer the arbitrator to me. That was something that was later decided. I talked to them about that. They did not offer that to me, so that was not an option to me.

Q. So you were -- Based on your professional judgment, you suggested that you attempt to settle the matter as opposed to taking it to trial versus the McGuires, correct?

A. Right.

MR. FLYNN: Okay. That's all I have.

MS. WILLIAMS: I have no follow-up.

THE REPORTER: Signature?

THE WITNESS: I'll waive signature.

MS. WILLIAMS: We'll order the original, E-tran.

MR. FLYNN: I'll take a regular and a mini copy.

MEMORANDUM

FROM: Hans

DATE: December 5, 2011

SUBJECT: PAUL DULBERG - NEW CLIENT

HAM
B/C the accident occurred on their premises, their H.O. net will pay the bills.

On December 1, 2011, I met Paul Dulberg and his mother, concerning a recent injury that Paul suffered at a friend's house due to a chainsaw accident on June 28, 2011. Paul was referred to our office by a former client, Hubert McArtor. Paul had previously been with Francisco Botto in Woodstock but they rejected the case. He did sign a contract with Botto but we have correspondence in the file that they rejected him and sent him away. They did not refer him to us. Apparently, they rejected the case because they did not think that they would be able to prove that the defendant was more than 50% negligent causing the accident. I disagree.

Date: 6/25/20

Paul's contact information is as follows:

Paul describes that he was at a friend's house, Caroline and Bill McGuire who live at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, McHenry, IL 60051, phone 815/344-4274. The McGuire's son, Dave was at the home and Dave was cutting up some tree limbs in the yard. Caroline had called Paul over to the house earlier to see if he wanted the wood for firewood. Dave asked Paul to hold some tree limbs while he cut them up. He had held two tree branches previously and then about an hour after he arrived he was holding another branch and Dave suddenly swung around with the chainsaw rising it in the air and cutting his Paul's forearm severely while holding on to a branch. Paul said that the chainsaw went about 40% through his forearm. Dave took him immediately to NIMC where they stitched him up. It was a very deep and open wound. Unfortunately, he did not take any photos of the wound. Instead, he followed up with his family physician, Dr. Frank Sek on Route 120 in McHenry who removed the stitches about a week later. Dr. Sek thought there was going to be possible nerve damage due to his arm being very painful. About two weeks later he went to a doctor at the Associates in Neurology in Libertyville and they took and EMG test which found that there were some branch nerves that had been severed which may be the cause of his ongoing pain. They thought that the pain was probably more ligamentous and they referred him to Dr. Paul Papierski, phone 847/247-0547. That was in August. He has not returned to see Dr. Papierski because apparently they needed an MRI and he did not have money to pay for an MRI. I urged him to return to see Dr. Papierski and to have the MRI done even if they have to hold a lien on our case. His arm is very painful when he lifts anything and he drops things continuously. He said that he will follow up with Dr. Papierski and advise me further what needs to be done as far as treatment.

At the time of the accident he was not employed but he had been just recently hired when the accident occurred by AMS Screw Products in Spring Grove. He was going to earn $12 an hour for 40 hours per week. He had talked to Karen over at AMS Screw and she agreed to hire him, but unfortunately, he was injured before he could start work. Their phone number is 732/545-8888x231.

The central issue in my view in this case is whether there is insurance coverage. Since the son was not living with the McGuire's at the time of the accident, it may be that David Gagnon is not going to be insured for the accident. However, Paul and his mother advised me that Dave also had a home and lived at 39010 90th Place in Genoa City, Wisconsin. Therefore, hopefully he has homeowner's insurance that will apply to this claim as well as med-pay coverage to help pay for the MRI that needs to be done.

The McGuire's were insured by:

By copy of this memo, I ask Alarie to set up a new file.

By copy of this memo, I ask Marla to order the medical records and bills from NIMC, Dr. Frank Sek and Associates in Neurology in Libertyville. Please also diary the 1 and 2 year SOL deadlines in this case.

Paul, here are my thoughts regarding your case. There are two issues. The first liability, or whether Mr. Gagnon is liable for your injury. If he is not proven liable, then it does not matter how badly you were hurt since he will not be found responsible for your damages. The second issue is your damages, or to what extent you were injured due to Mr. Gagnon’s acts.
Both of these issues are strongly contested in your case.
As to liability, there were no witnesses to the accident. So, whether Mr. Gagnon will be held responsible for your damages is uncertain and a gamble. That is because it is your word against his word. Our argument is that you were simply holding a limb when he caused the chain saw to strike you. His argument is that you moved your arm in the path of the chain saw unexpectedly. If the jury determines that we did not prove your "version" of the accident, then they can find against you and in favor of Mr. Gagnon at trial.
As to damages, the issue is complicated. That is because your treating physicians do not all agree on exactly what injury you suffered or whether your had a fully recovery or not.
Dr. Talerico at MidAmerica Hand and Shoulder, saw you twice. The first time was in December, six months after your injury. He was not supportive of your claim in most respects. He didn’t really feel there was anything wrong with you - as to the forearm. He said that you complained mostly of pain radiating down the forearm from the laceration site with numbness and tingling. On exam he noted no tenderness and it was mostly a normal presentation. Strength was good. He did not see any nerve problem. He prescribed physical therapy due to a muscular sort of symptomology - not nerve related. Apparently you did only 2 sessions of therapy and returned January, 2012. No new complaints at the time. The EMG was normal. He did not believe you were disabled. He continued you on therapy. He saw no evidence of nerve problems. The only symptoms were subjective - not represented by any abnormal exam finding.
Dr. Sagerman has also been deposed. I will summarize his testimony for your soon. His was more favorable, but still limited in what he related to the chain saw accident. Apparently he does not believe you presently have any symptoms relatable to the chain saw injury.
Think about these issues. I will provide you Dr. Sagerman’s summary soon.
Hans

Morning Hans,Wanted to touch base this morning because the call from you about something not being medically linked has been on my mind.I'm not sure what was said during that deposition with the drs that prompted the call but I have been thinking about what it could be. Most likely it was the right elbow procedure. During my deposition I remember being asked if the two were linked and I answered yes. Let me explain my answer to you. If the chainsaw had not gone through my arm then the procedure on my elbow wouldn't have happened. That procedure was exploratory to find what was bothering the arm from the chainsaw. Upon opening up the arm they did find some compressions which from my understanding was nothing unusual for a male of my age and very well may or may not have happened during my retreat from the chainsaw when I ended up half way across the yard on the ground. Incidental finding or not it still would not have been found if I hadn't had the chainsaw incident. So as I see it they are linked good or bad and cannot be separated. The exploratory procedure was to find and possibly fix issues relating to the chainsaw incident. They also removed a ton of scar tissue in the forearm on the same day during the same exploratory procedure that was a direct result of the chainsaw.

Hope this helps explain things better.Let me know,Thanks,Paul

Below is a link to an article talking about the integration of digital cameras at the centegra facilities.

A friend of mine who works at NIMC for well over a decade just replied to me and she says everything is recorded and available exactly for the purposes we discussed.

I still don't get how they don't feel responsible for work done on their property by their own son that ended up cutting through 40% of my arm.

Perhaps their negligence is the fact that they didn't supervise the work close enough but they did oversee much of the days activity with David. Just because Dave was doing the work doesn't mean they were not trying to tell their kid what to do. They told him plenty of times throughout the day what to do. How is that not supervising?

Case: Paul Dulberg v. David Gagnon, Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire
(McHenry County Case No. 12 LA 178)

Issued For Settlement Purposes Only

Dear Mr. Mast:

I am writing to confirm our telephone conversation earlier this morning, wherein I advised you that I was authorized to propose settlement of Mr. Dulberg's claim against Carolyn and Bill McGuire for a lump-sum total of $5,000.00. The settlement would of course be contingent upon customary settlement documents, including a release, a good faith settlement finding and dismissal.

Pursuant to your request, I searched my file materials for lien notices. The only notice of lien contained in my file at this time is your Attorney's Lien (enclosed). I have asked my contact at Auto-Owners Insurance Company to confirm no lien notices have arrived on his end since Mr. Dulberg's case was assigned to me for the defense of Mr. and Mrs. McGuire. I do not anticipating any lien notices, but just wanted to be safe.

I understand that you intend to run my settlement proposal by Mr. Dulberg. I look forward to hearing from you once you have had a chance to confer with him.

Very truly yours,

RONALD A. BARCH

DATE: November 20, 2013

SUBJECT: PAUL DULBERG

On November 20, 2013, I met with Paul and his friend to discuss the McGuire's $5,000 settlement offer and other issues with regard to this case. I also told them there is a dispute as to McGuire's liability, as they maintain that they were not directing Dave's work. Paul maintains that the McGuire's controlled everything that Dave was doing. I told him that that's not what the evidence seems to show. I told them the McGuire's could possibly get out of the case on motion, and the alternative is to accept the $5,000 offer. Paul wants to read the deps of the McGuire's and also wants us to order his and Dave's dep to review. I agreed to do so.

By copy of this memo, I ask Sheila to order copies of Paul and Dave's deps. I think defense counsel ordered them, so all we need to do is get copies. Please let me know if the copies have not been already ordered so we don't have to order the originals.

Thanks,

Hans

On December 18, 2013, I called Paul today after an email and we had a long discussion about the McGuire's liability and he seemed to concede and understand that probably based on the testimony there is nothing we can prove against the McGuric's and he is willing to take their $5,000 settlement offer.

debridement and skin grafting. In Fomond, a two-and-one-half-year-old girl sustained third-degree burns that required at least seven surgeries, including two skin grafts and continued physical therapy even several years after receiving the burns. In Negrete, a 17-month-old baby boy sustained burns from hot water, resulting in permanent scarring across 60% of his body and, due to the burning of his genital area, possible permanent damage to his reproductive capacity. In Rogers, the defendant poured grain alcohol on top of the female victim's head and then threw a lit match at her, causing her head, face, chest and pants to ignite.

In light of the above-cited case law, I would reverse defendant's conviction for heinous battery.

Defendant was properly convicted of aggravated battery against a child, however, no sentence was imposed for that crime. If a reviewing court reverses a conviction on which the sentence was imposed, it can remand for sentencing on a conviction on which no sentence was imposed. Such process has been approved in People v. Dizon, 91 Ill.2d 346, 63 Ill.Dec. 442, 438 N.E.2d 180 (1982) and People v. Frantz, 150 Ill.App.3d 296, 300, 103 Ill.Dec. 649, 501 N.E.2d 966 (1986) ("[i]f the reviewing court acts to affirm the incomplete judgment of conviction, the reviewing court then must remand the cause for imposition of sentence").

Fernando LAJATO, Plaintiff–Appellant,

v.

AT & T, INC., Defendant–Appellee, and Third Party Plaintiff (Quinn Delivery Service, Inc., Third Party Defendant).

No. 1–95–0447.

Appellate Court of Illinois,
First District, Fifth Division.

Aug. 9, 1996.

Independent contractor who was injured when loading telephone company's battery hoist for transport brought negligence action against telephone company. The Circuit Court, Cook County, Anthony J. Bosco, J., granted summary judgment for telephone company. Contractor appealed. The Appellate Court, Gordon, J., held that: (1) contractor's motion for reconsideration was timely; (2) telephone company had not voluntarily undertaken duty to properly maintain and secure battery hoist for transport; (3) telephone company was not liable as gratuitous bailor; and (4) trial court did not abuse its discretion by denying contractor's motion to amend his complaint.

Affirmed.

1. Judgment ⇐321, 386(1)

Posttrial motion must be filed within 30 days of final judgment or trial court will lose jurisdiction to modify or vacate final order which it entered after lapse of 30 days. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2–1203.

2. Motions ⇐39

Motion to reconsider is posttrial motion, and therefore falls within purview of post-judgment motions which must be filed within 30 days after challenged judgment is entered. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2–1203.

3. Appeal and Error ⇐344

Only if posttrial motion is timely filed will it extend time for filing notice of appeal. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rule 303(a)(1).

4. Judgment ⇐186

Motion to reconsider filed within 30 days of entry of summary judgment was timely, although no certificate of service was filed until well after 30 days of entry of summary judgment. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2–1203; Sup. Ct.Rules, Rule 104.

5. Appeal and Error ⇐893(1), 1073(1)

Although trial court did not entertain motion for reconsideration of summary judgment in erroneous belief that it did not have jurisdiction to hear motion, appellate court

d not need to remand to allow trial court to nsider merit of motion, as grant of sum- ary judgment required de novo review by ppellate court to determine question of law.

Negligence ⇐36

Independent contractor could not base rsonal injury action against defendant on eory of premises liability, where he was ured in bed of his truck and not due to any ndition of defendant's premises.

Appeal and Error ⇐893(1)

Appellate review of order granting sum- ary judgment is de novo.

Judgment ⇐185(2)

Negligence ⇐1

To withstand motion for summary judg- ent in action based in negligence, plaintiff ust allege facts sufficient to show that de- ndant owed him a duty, that defendant reached that duty, and that his injury proxi- ately resulted from that breach.

Negligence ⇐20

Telephone company did not voluntarily ndertake duty to properly maintain and se- re its battery hoist for transport, where dependent contractor, who was injured by ist when loading it for transport as result loosening of strap securing motor, had tal discretion in preparing and moving ist, and there was no evidence that tele- one company had strapped motor, that rapping was undertaken as protection for ntractor, or that contractor relied upon fety of strapping. Restatement (Second) Torts § 323.

Negligence ⇐136(14)

Whether a duty has been voluntarily ndertaken is question of law to be deter- ined by court. Restatement (Second) of orts § 323.

Bailment ⇐35

Telephone company was not liable as ratuitous bailor for injuries sustained by dependent contractor when strap securing otor on battery hoist loosened when con- ractor was loading hoist for transport, here contractor presented no evidence oth- r than inadmissible hearsay rumors to show either defect in hoist or that telephone company knew or should have known of any dangerous propensities in hoist.

12. Appeal and Error ⇐169

Contentions not raised in trial court are waived on appeal, even in summary judgment case.

13. Bailment ⇐9, 21

Gratuitous bailor may be liable for physical harm caused by use of chattel when he knows or has reason to know that chattel is or is likely to be dangerous when put to use for which it was supplied, has no reason to believe that those for whose use chattel is supplied will realize its dangerous condition, and fails to exercise reasonable care to inform user of its dangerous condition or of facts which make it likely to be dangerous.

14. Judgment ⇐185(1)

Unsubstantiated hearsay statements cannot be considered in ruling on motion for summary judgment.

15. Pleading ⇐236(6)

Trial court did not abuse its discretion by denying motion of independent contractor, who was injured when loading telephone company's battery hoist for transport, to amend his complaint to allege more specifically facts that there was voluntary undertaking by telephone company, after trial court granted summary judgment for telephone company, where issue was not that complaint was deficient in its framing of issues but that evidence presented in support of voluntary undertaking theory failed to establish genuine issue of material fact, and amendment would be prejudicial to telephone company in that amendment was sought on eve of trial and five years after inception of lawsuit, with no explanation as to why contractor never before attempted to develop facts necessary to withstand telephone company's summary judgment motion.

Justice GORDON delivered the opinion of the Court:

This is an action for damages brought by the plaintiff, Fernando Lajato, arising from injuries he incurred while working as an independent contractor for third-party defendant Quinn Delivery Service, Inc. (Quinn) to move a battery hoist owned by defendant AT & T. AT & T filed a contingent third-party complaint against Quinn, not at issue in this appeal, seeking indemnification pursuant to the delivery service contract between Quinn and AT & T, in the event plaintiff recovered a judgment in his tort action against AT & T. AT & T subsequently filed a motion for summary judgment against plaintiff which the trial court granted. In that order, the court also denied plaintiff's oral motion requesting leave to amend his complaint. Subsequently, plaintiff filed a motion to reconsider, which the court ultimately struck by reason of its alleged lack of jurisdiction to hear it. Plaintiff appeals from the orders granting summary judgment to AT & T, denying his motion to amend his complaint, and refusing to hear his motion to reconsider. AT & T has moved to dismiss this appeal for lack of appellate jurisdiction.

In November 1989, plaintiff filed a complaint against AT & T, wherein he alleged that on July 1, 1988, he was on the premises of AT & T on behalf of Quinn in order to move an AT & T battery hoist. The complaint further alleged that while performing that task, the hoist fell upon him, causing him injuries for which he sought damages. The complaint averred that AT & T was negligent in its failure to maintain, inspect, and repair the battery hoist, and for AT & T's failure to warn plaintiff of the propensity of the hoist to fall. In April 1990, AT & T filed its answer, specifically denying each basis for recovery alleged in plaintiff's complaint. The matter was scheduled for trial in June 1995.

On April 25, 1994, AT & T filed a motion for summary judgment, alleging that, based upon the undisputed facts, it was clear that [illegible] owed no duty of care to plaintiff with respect to his injuries. In support of its motion, AT & T submitted excerpts of the deposition testimony of plaintiff and a copy of the delivery services contract between AT & T and Quinn. In his deposition, plaintiff testified that on the date of the accident, July 1, 1988, he was making pick-ups and deliveries of telephone equipment at various AT & T locations as an independent contractor for Quinn. He stated that he had received instructions from Quinn via radio to go to an AT & T property in Rolling Meadows, Illinois, the scene of the accident, to pick up a battery hoist and to transport it to another AT & T location in Rockford, Illinois. Approximately 99% of plaintiff's delivery work for Quinn involved pick-ups and deliveries of AT & T equipment. The plaintiff stated that AT & T did not direct him in his moving work, but rather, allowed him to use his own expertise to determine how each move would be accomplished.

Plaintiff further testified that the battery hoist, which weighs approximately [illegible] pounds, was used to lift batteries weighing approximately 300 pounds up onto shelves. Plaintiff described the hoist as being rectangular in shape, on wheels, and consisting of a large, black metal frame with a motor and hoist accessories suspended from the middle of the frame. The hanging motor and accessories could be pulled to one side of the hoist frame and secured thereto with a nylon strap and a chain, both of which were also attached to the hoist, in order to stabilize the hoist during transport and when not in use to perform its battery-lifting function. It was plaintiff's customary practice to inspect the hoist to ensure that the motor and accessories were firmly secured with the strap and the chain prior to moving the hoist. Plaintiff had moved this particular hoist on at least 10–15 different occasions.

Plaintiff's deposition further revealed that when he reached the AT & T Rolling Meadows location, an AT & T employee directed him to the hoist, and that after that brief conversation, plaintiff had no further discussions with anyone, AT & T employees or otherwise, until after the accident.

intiff approached the hoist, he observed t its motor and accessories were already apped and secured to the hoist's frame. also testified that he personally examined strap to ensure that the hanging appara- was firmly secured to the frame of the st with the nylon strap and the motor ain before attempting to move the hoist. intiff then wheeled the hoist to the back his truck and onto his truck's hydraulic lift form, which he had lowered to ground- el in order to lift the hoist into his truck. er raising the lift and the hoist from und-level up to the truck's bed, plaintiff bed into the truck bed and began to pull hoist into the bed.

Plaintiff further testified that while pulling hoist into the truck, the strap around the or and hoist accessories loosened for rea- beyond his knowledge, permitting the or and the accessories to swing free and weight of the hoist to shift towards him. ediately thereafter, the hoist fell onto tiff, causing him various injuries. Plain- stated that there were no known wit- es to the accident. He also stated that t two months after the accident, he d from an AT & T installer that certain laborers at AT & T had told him that plaintiff's accident, they would not use hoist because it was unsafe, and that AT ultimately shipped the hoist back to the facturer.

addition to plaintiff's deposition testimo- AT & T submitted the Quinn–AT & T ery contract in support of its motion for mary judgment. That contract reveals Quinn, through its own independent con- tors, performed moving services for de- dant AT & T. The contract required n to eceive, pick up, load, transport, unload, d deliver telephone equipment and other terial (the "Material"), and perform the her services provided for in this agree- ent as ordered by [AT & T] from April 1, 87 to March 31, 1989."

contract further provided that Quinn or gents hall have the sole and exclusive care, ustody and control of the Material from the time it is tendered to [Quinn], [Quinn's] agents or servants, until it is delivered to and accepted by [AT & T] * * *."

In his response to AT & T's motion for summary judgment, plaintiff argued that AT & T had voluntarily assumed and breached a duty to him to keep its premises safe and to maintain the hoist such that it would not do harm to those moving it. In support of his position, plaintiff attached additional excerpts from his own deposition, pointing to his testimony that the AT & T hoist's motor and accessories were already secured to the frame of the hoist by the nylon strap and the motor chain when he arrived at the site to move the hoist. He also referred to his testimony that there was no motor lock securing the motor to the frame, and that the motor and accessories would not have swung free after the strap loosened if there had been such a motor lock.

In a hearing on July 27, 1994, the trial court granted AT & T's motion for summary judgment with prejudice. Later at that same hearing, the trial court heard plaintiff's oral request for leave to amend his complaint pursuant to section 2–1005(g) of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure (735 ILCS 5/2–1005(g) (West 1994)), where plaintiff argued that he should be allowed to amend his complaint to show that AT & T voluntarily undertook to secure the hoist and did so negligently. The court denied plaintiff's motion to amend, stating as its reason that "[i]t's an '89 case."

On August 25, 1994, within 30 days of the July 27 order granting summary judgment and denying leave to amend, plaintiff filed a motion to reconsider. However, plaintiff did not serve AT & T with that motion until September 18, 1994, at which time he transmitted that motion to AT & T via facsimile at AT & T's request. No notice of motion was served upon AT & T until November 9, 1994, and plaintiff did not file a certificate of service for that motion until November 17, 1994.

AT & T subsequently filed a motion objecting to plaintiff's motion to reconsider, arguing that the trial court had no jurisdiction to hear it based on plaintiff's failure to file a proof of service within 30 days of the July 27 order. On January 13, 1995, the trial court sustained AT & T's objection, finding that it had no jurisdiction to hear plaintiff's motion to reconsider, and therefore did not address the merits of that motion. On January 25, 1995, within 30 days of the trial court's January 13 order, plaintiff filed his notice of appeal, both from that order and from the July 27, 1994 order granting summary judgment and denying plaintiff leave to amend.

Plaintiff contends on appeal that the trial court erred in granting summary judgment because by improperly securing the battery hoist for transport, AT & T negligently performed a voluntary undertaking, and because as a gratuitous bailor, AT & T knew the hoist was dangerous yet failed to inform plaintiff of its dangerous condition. Plaintiff also contends that the trial court abused its discretion in denying him leave to amend his complaint after the grant of summary judgment.

I. JURISDICTION:

Before reaching plaintiff's contentions on appeal, we must first address defendant's motion to dismiss this appeal for want of appellate jurisdiction. Bell Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n v. Bank of Ravenswood, 203 Ill.App.3d 219, 148 Ill.Dec. 559, 560 N.E.2d 1156 (1990). In its motion to dismiss, AT & T contends that plaintiff's failure to file a proof of service with its August 25, 1994 motion to reconsider prevents this court from reviewing either of the trial court's July 27 or January 13 orders. Defendant argues, somewhat obliquely, that plaintiff's motion to reconsider should not be considered as being timely filed, because it was not accompanied by a proof of service, and as a result, the trial court was correct in stating that it had no jurisdiction to consider it. Consequently, defendant would urge that the motion to reconsider did not have the effect of extending the time for filing plaintiff's notice of appeal beyond the initial 30 day period following entry of the summary judgment order. See Illinois Supreme Court Rule 303(a)(1) (155 Ill.2d R. 303(a)(1)) (discussed more fully below). We disagree.

[1-3] Under Supreme Court Rule 303(a)(1), a notice of appeal must be filed within 30 days after the entry of the final judgment from which the appeal is taken, or, if a timely post-trial motion directed at the judgment is filed, within 30 days after entry of the order disposing of the last pending post-trial motion. (134 Ill.2d R. 303(a)(1)). Under section 2-1203 of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure, a post-trial motion must be filed within 30 days of a final judgment. 735 ILCS 5/2-1203 (West 1994). Otherwise, the trial court will lose jurisdiction to modify or vacate the final order which it entered after the lapse of 30 days. Archer Daniels Midland Co. v. Barth, 103 Ill.2d 536, 83 Ill.Dec. 332, 470 N.E.2d 290 (1984); In Matter of Application of County Treasurer, 208 Ill.App.3d 561, 153 Ill.Dec. 528, 567 N.E.2d 486 (1990). A motion to reconsider is a post-trial motion (Elmhurst Auto Parts v. Fencl-Tufo Chevrolet, 235 Ill.App.3d 88, 175 Ill.Dec. 771, 600 N.E.2d 1229 (1992)), and therefore "falls within the purview of post-judgment motions which must be filed within 30 days after the challenged judgment is entered." Sho-Deen, Inc. v. Michel, 263 Ill.App.3d 288, 290, 200 Ill.Dec. 729, 732, 635 N.E.2d 1068, 1071 (1994). Only if a post-trial motion is timely filed pursuant to section 2-1203 will it extend the time for filing the notice of appeal under Rule 303(a). In Matter of Application of County Treasurer.

[4] Thus, the question as to whether the appellant's notice of appeal was filed beyond the 30 day period allowed under Rule 303(a), thereby depriving this court of its jurisdiction, depends upon whether the failure to file a certificate of service vitiated the filing of the plaintiff's motion to reconsider. If we determine that the filing of plaintiff's motion to reconsider on August 25 within 30 days after the July 27 summary judgment order was timely, notwithstanding the failure to file an accompanying certificate of service within that 30-day period, then plaintiff's notice of appeal from both the July 27 and the January 13 orders was timely. This would follow under Rule 303(a), since the notice of appeal was filed on January 25, within 30 days after the trial court's disposition on January 13 of plaintiff's motion to reconsider. On the other hand, if the trial court was correct in its determination that under section 2-1203, the timely filing of a certificate of service is jurisdictional, [illegible] reconsider cannot [illegible] timely filed, then [illegible] case, filed more tha[illegible] entry of the summa[illegible] be untimely pursu[illegible] leave this court w[illegible] tion.

[5] Defendant next would urge that if we determine that the January 13 order is reviewable, we should confine our review solely to the correctness of the trial court's denial of its jurisdiction over the motion to reconsider. Defendant contends that if we find that the trial court's jurisdictional determination was erroneous, we should remand the matter to the trial court to allow the trial court to first consider the merit of that motion. We disagree for the same reasons as articulated in Myers v. Health Specialists, S.C., 225 Ill.App.3d 68, 167 Ill.Dec. 225, 587 N.E.2d 494 (1992). There, the court stated as follows:

> "Defendant initially urges us, without citation to authority, to remand this matter to the circuit court because that court did not address the merits of plaintiff's motion. This argument betrays a misperception of the nature both of the question presented and of our review. As noted above, we consider summary judgment orders de novo: we, like the circuit court, must decide only whether the parties' pleadings and other submissions present an issue of triable fact and if not, whether plaintiff is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. This is a question of law, not of fact." Myers v. Health Specialists, S.C., 225 Ill.App.3d 68, 76, 167 Ill.Dec. 225, 231, 587 N.E.2d 494, 500 (1992).

Here, too, the grant of summary judgment is subject to de novo review, requiring our de novo determination whether the submissions of the parties presented triable issues of fact and if not whether defendant was entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. Thus, here, as in Myers, we may consider this appeal on its merits without the necessity of a remand.

II. MERITS:

[6] As noted earlier, plaintiff contends on appeal that the trial court erred in granting summary judgment because the facts are sufficient to create an inference that AT & T voluntarily assumed a duty to properly secure the battery hoist for transport, a duty which was breached as a result of AT & T's negligence. Additionally, plaintiff contends, for the first time on appeal, that there was error in granting summary judgment because the facts are sufficient to create an inference that as a gratuitous bailor, AT & T knew the hoist was dangerous yet failed to inform plaintiff of its dangerous condition. Plaintiff also contends that even if summary judgment was properly entered in favor of AT & T under the issues framed by the existing complaint, the trial court abused its discretion in denying him leave to amend his complaint pursuant to section 2–1005(g) of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure (735 ILCS 5/2–1005(g) (West 1994)).[1]

[7, 8] We first address plaintiff's contention that the trial court erred in entering summary judgment pursuant to the issues framed by the existing complaint. Summary judgment is proper when the pleadings, depositions and affidavits on file, construed in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party, establish that there is no genuine issue of material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. See generally 735 ILCS 5/2–1005 (West 1994); First State Insurance Co. v. Montgomery Ward & Co., 267 Ill.App.3d 851, 204 Ill.Dec. 814, 642 N.E.2d 715 (1994); Torres v. City of Chicago, 261 Ill.App.3d 499, 197 Ill.Dec. 985, 632 N.E.2d 54 (1994); Giannoble v. P & M Heating & Air Conditioning, Inc., 233 Ill.App.3d 1051, 175 Ill.Dec. 169, 598 N.E.2d 1183 (1992). 1. As previously noted, at the trial level, plaintiff urged liability both on the basis of premises liability and the law governing voluntary undertakings. Plaintiff has conceded on appeal that he cannot base his action against AT & T upon a theory of premises liability as a matter of law, due to the holding in Pagano v. Occidental Chemical Corp., 257 Ill.App.3d 905, 913, 196 Ill.Dec. 24, 30, 629 N.E.2d 569, 575 (1994), insofar as he incurred his injuries in the bed of his truck, and not due to any condition of AT & T's premises. See also Jackson v. Hilton Hotels Corp., 273 Ill.App.3d 457, 214 Ill.Dec. 31, 660 N.E.2d 222 (1995) (in action based on premises liability, no duty to plaintiff existed where plaintiff failed to show that his injuries were caused by any condition of the premises).

sdictional, without which the motion to consider cannot be deemed to have been ely filed, then the notice of appeal in this e, filed more than three months after the ry of the summary judgment order, would untimely pursuant to Rule 303(a) and ve this court without appellate jurisdic-n.

The rule is clear that the absence of a rtificate of service will not vitiate the filing a motion to reconsider. This matter has en specifically preempted by Illinois Su-me Court Rule 104 (134 Ill.2d Rule 104), ich provides at parts (b) and (d) as follows:

"(b) Filing of Papers and Proof of Service. Pleadings subsequent to the complaint, written motions, and other papers required to be filed shall be filed with the clerk with a certificate of counsel or other proof that copies have been served on all parties who have appeared * * *.

* * * * * *

(d) Failure to deliver or serve copies as required by this rule does not in any way impair the jurisdiction of the court over the person of any party, but the aggrieved party may obtain a copy from the clerk and the court shall order the offending party to reimburse the aggrieved party for the expense thereof." 134 Ill.2d R. 104(b), (d) (Emphasis added).

Thus, under Rule 104(d), the failure to liver or serve copies does not impair the risdiction of the court. This rule has been plied to post-trial motions in In re Mar-age of Collins, 154 Ill.App.3d 655, 107 Ill. ec. 109, 506 N.E.2d 1000 (1987) and in ollath v. Chicago Title and Trust Co., 24 Ill.App.3d 353, 321 N.E.2d 344 (1974), which eld that the failure to include proof of ser-ce with a post-trial motion will not invali-ate the motion or render it untimely.

Defendant contends that Rule 104(d) only addresses the failure to actually serve copies of the motion but does not address the fail-re to file a certificate of service. This con-tention is devoid of any rationale since a failure to serve will preclude the filing of a certificate, unless the movant seeks to per-jure himself. Thus, if the failure to actually serve notice does not impair jurisdiction, then a fortiori, the failure to serve a certificate of service will not impair the validity or timeliness of the motion. See In re Marriage of Collins.

Defendant's reliance on Vlahakis v. Parker, 3 Ill.App.3d 126, 278 N.E.2d 523 (1971) (abstract of op.) and Ingrassia v. Ingrassia, 156 Ill.App.3d 483, 109 Ill.Dec. 68, 509 N.E.2d 729 (1987) is misplaced. Although Vlahakis reached a contrary result, it is clear that that opinion did not purport to in any way consider or confront the impact of Rule 104(d) in its determination. That opinion has therefore been distinguished and rejected on that basis in Kollath v. Chicago Title and Trust Co., 24 Ill.App.3d at 357–58, 321 N.E.2d at 348 ("Rule 104(d) renders a failure to comply with Rule 104(b) * * * non-jurisdictional * * * [and] the only cases decided since enactment of rule 104(d) which reached a contrary result [, including Vlahakis v. Parker,] did not consider that provision at all"). Likewise, the opinion in Ingrassia does not purport to consider rule 104(d) in its determination. Moreover, Ingrassia does not purport to deal with the validity or timeliness of the filing of a post-trial motion, but, rather, with the sufficiency of the notice of that motion when given to the opposing party only a few hours before the hearing on the motion. Hence, Ingrassia is not in point, since here there is no question that defendant had actual knowledge of the pendency of plaintiff's motion to reconsider well in advance of the scheduled hearing date on that motion.

Consequently, plaintiff's August 25 motion to reconsider, and therefore his January 25 notice of appeal, were seasonably filed, notwithstanding that no certificate of service was filed until long after 30 days had passed since summary judgment was entered on July 27. Since the August 25 motion was timely, the notice of appeal filed on January 25 complied with Rule 303(a) since it was filed within 30 days after the trial court disposed of the motion to reconsider, albeit on jurisdictional grounds, on January 13. Accordingly, our jurisdiction to review both the July 27 and January 13 orders of the trial court remains unimpaired.

(1994). To withstand a motion for summary judgment in an action based in negligence, a plaintiff must allege facts sufficient to show that the defendant owed him a duty, that defendant breached that duty, and that his injury proximately resulted from that breach. See DiBenedetto v. Flora Township, 153 Ill.2d 66, 178 Ill.Dec. 777, 605 N.E.2d 571 (1992); Ziemba v. Mierzwa, 142 Ill.2d 42, 153 Ill.Dec. 259, 566 N.E.2d 1365 (1991).

[9, 10] With respect to plaintiff's contention concerning AT & T's duty arising from its purported voluntary undertaking, section 323 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts provides as follows:

"One who undertakes, gratuitously or for consideration, to render services to another which he should recognize as necessary for the protection of the other's person or things, is subject to liability to the other for physical harm resulting from his failure to exercise reasonable care to perform his undertaking, if

(a) his failure to exercise such care increases the risk of such harm, or

(b) the harm is suffered because of the other's reliance upon the undertaking." Restatement (Second) of Torts § 323, at 135 (1965).

See generally, Cross v. Wells Fargo Alarm Services, 82 Ill.2d 313, 45 Ill.Dec. 121, 412 N.E.2d 472 (1980); Jackson v. Hilton Hotels Corp., 277 Ill.App.3d 457, 214 Ill.Dec. 31, 660 N.E.2d 222 (1995). Whether a duty has been voluntarily undertaken is a question of law to be determined by the court. Gouge v. Central Illinois Public Service Co., 144 Ill.2d 535, 163 Ill.Dec. 842, 582 N.E.2d 108 (1991); Jackson v. Hilton Hotels Corp.

In the instant case, plaintiff has failed to allege facts sufficient to establish in the first instance that defendant voluntarily assumed or undertook any duty to properly maintain and secure the battery hoist for transport. First, it is undisputed that AT & T had neither control nor influence over the manner in which plaintiff, an independent contractor retained by Quinn (who was also an independent contractor), readied or moved the hoist, and that plaintiff had total discretion in preparing and moving the hoist. Moreover, plaintiff did not submit any evidence that AT & T strapped the motor to the hoist, nor any evidence regarding whether the strapping was undertaken as protection for the plaintiff. Lastly, and more overridingly, even if we were to presume that the strapping was effected by AT & T, there is no evidence whatsoever submitted by plaintiff that he relied upon the safety of that strapping. In fact, the record is clear that plaintiff himself checked the strapping of the motor to ensure it was fastened securely prior to moving the hoist, as was his customary practice when moving that particular hoist.

[11-13] Plaintiff urges that even if there is no basis for liability under a theory of voluntary undertaking, there is a basis established for liability under a theory of gratuitous bailment. In that regard, he contends that there is a genuine issue of material fact that AT & T, as a gratuitous bailor of the hoist, breached a duty to plaintiff to provide a safe hoist or to warn plaintiff of its dangers. We first note that contentions not raised in the trial court are waived on appeal, even in a summary judgment case. Witek v. Leisure Technology Midwest, Inc., 39 Ill.App.3d 637, 640, 350 N.E.2d 242, 245 (1976) ("This rule of waiver applies even in a summary judgment case"); Wilson v. Gorski's Food Fair, 196 Ill.App.3d 612, 143 Ill.Dec. 477, 554 N.E.2d 412 (1990). However, even if the argument were preserved, we note that there was no evidence presented that AT & T breached a duty to plaintiff as a gratuitous bailor of the hoist.

"[A] gratuitous bailor may be liable for physical harm caused by the use of his chattel when he knows or has reason to know that the chattel is or is likely to be dangerous when put to the use for which it is supplied; has no reason to believe that those for whose use the chattel is supplied will realize its dangerous condition; and fails to exercise reasonable care to inform the user of its dangerous condition or of the facts which make it likely to be dangerous." Pagano v. Occidental Chemical Corp., 257 Ill.App.3d 905, 913, 196 Ill.Dec. 24, 30, 629 N.E.2d 569, 575 (1994).

[14] Plaintiff has not produced evidence as to any specific defect either in the design or manufacture of the hoist itself which would indicate that AT & T had actual or constructive knowledge that the hoist was unsafe when it was handed over to plaintiff. Plaintiff himself did not testify as to the condition of the hoist except to say that the strap loosened. The only other evidence that plaintiff has presented consists of unsubstantiated hearsay statements. In that regard, plaintiff testified in his deposition to a conversation which took place after the accident with an AT & T installer who told plaintiff that certain other fellow employees had stated that after plaintiff's accident they refused to use the hoist because it was unsafe, and that AT & T ultimately returned the hoist to its manufacturer. However, plaintiff was unable to identify those other AT & T employees, and he did not provide any further detail regarding the specific contents of their statements. Such unsubstantiated hearsay statements cannot be considered in a ruling on a motion for summary judgment. See Certified Mechanical Contractors, Inc. v. Wight & Co., Inc., 162 Ill.App.3d 391, 113 Ill.Dec. 888, 515 N.E.2d 1047 (1987) (in deciding a motion for summary judgment, court should ignore personal conclusions, opinions and self-serving statements and consider only facts admissible in evidence under the rules of evidence); Seefeldt v. Millikin National Bank of Decatur, 154 Ill.App.3d 715, 107 Ill.Dec. 161, 506 N.E.2d 1052 (1987) (although a complaint may purport to raise an issue of material fact, summary judgment is appropriate if such issue is not further supported by evidentiary facts, and in determining the genuineness of a fact, a court should ignore personal conclusions and opinions and consider only admissible facts).

Plaintiff's reliance on Pagano is not well taken. There, the court on appeal did find an issue of fact as to whether a defective dolly supplied by the defendant to help move certain barrel drums of ink rendered the defendant liable under a theory of gratuitous bailment. However, in that case, plaintiff gave direct testimony as to specific, observable defects in the dolly which, if believed, would establish that the dolly was defective. Here, aside from the inadmissible hearsay rumors which were reported, the plaintiff himself presented no evidence to show either a defect in the hoist or that AT & T knew or should have known of any dangerous propensities in the hoist. Consequently, the evidence presented here was not effective to support a counterinference for purposes of summary judgment.

[15] Plaintiff next contends that the trial court erred in its refusal in its July 27 order to allow him leave to amend his complaint to more specifically allege facts that there was a voluntary undertaking and that it was implemented negligently. We disagree.

Section 2-1005(g) of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure (735 ILCS 5/2-1005(g) (West 1994)) provides as follows:

"(g) Amendment of pleading. Before or after the entry of a summary judgment, the court shall permit pleadings to be amended upon just and reasonable terms."

The allowance of an amendment to the pleadings is in the trial court's discretion, and reversible error can only be found if there is a manifest abuse of discretion. Loyola Academy v. S & S Roof Maintenance, Inc., 146 Ill.2d 263, 166 Ill.Dec. 882, 586 N.E.2d 1211 (1992). See also Misselhorn v. Doyle, 257 Ill.App.3d 983, 195 Ill.Dec. 881, 629 N.E.2d 189 (1994); Eyman v. McDonough District Hospital, 245 Ill.App.3d 394, 184 Ill.Dec. 502, 613 N.E.2d 819 (1993).

As noted, on July 27, immediately after the trial court entered summary judgment against him, plaintiff made an oral motion to amend his complaint, as follows:

"MR. JOHNSON [Plaintiff's attorney]: I set it out to specifics that they undertook the duty to secure the hoist and they negligently performed that duty and as a result Plaintiff was injured based upon the Nelson v. Pippen, Phillips [sic] case, that once undertakes a duty to do something, they do so negligently, and someone is injured they are absolutely liable.

There will be no new deps. That's what the evidence is through the Plaintiff's deposition."

The court denied plaintiff's motion to amend, stating that "It's an '89 case. I'll deny the motion [to amend]."

We first note that plaintiff never made the proposed amended complaint a part of the record on appeal, except for his oral proposal before the trial judge which, without any offers of new evidence, essentially duplicates the voluntary undertaking theory which has already been argued and rejected. Plaintiff's failure to include the proposed amendment and supporting facts therefor in the record could be found to constitute a waiver in this court of his right to have the denial of his request for leave to amend reviewed. See Mendelson v. Ben A. Borenstein & Co., 240 Ill.App.3d 605, 181 Ill.Dec. 114, 608 N.E.2d 97 (1992) (plaintiff's failure to tender amended complaint or to include it in the appellate record diminished the appellate court's ability to determine whether the proposed amendment would provide a viable theory against defendant, and constituted waiver of right to a review of the denial of his request for leave to amend). See also Ignar v. Norbut, 271 Ill.App.3d 522, 207 Ill.Dec. 2, 648 N.E.2d 285 (1995) (no abuse of discretion in denying motion for leave to amend complaint where movant orally moved to amend yet failed to submit proposed amendment to trial court).

Notwithstanding waiver, even if we were to review the amendment which plaintiff orally proposed, we would find no abuse of discretion by the trial court in denying plaintiff leave to amend. As already discussed, there was ample evidence before the trial court to support its conclusion that the facts in this case as revealed in the summary judgment submissions would not permit a pleading which could allege a valid cause of action. Moreover, by the same token, even if the complaint were amended to more specifically allege a voluntary undertaking as requested by the plaintiff, the allegations of the complaint would be superseded by the extrinsic facts already submitted which as noted would dictate for summary judgment. See Werckenthein v. Bucher Petrochemical Co., 248 Ill.App.3d 282, 188 Ill.Dec. 332, 618 N.E.2d 902 (1993) (where allegations in nonmovant's complaint are contravened by movant's extrinsic submissions in summary judgment proceedings, extrinsic submissions control); East Side Fire Protection District v. City of Belleville, 221 Ill.App.3d 654, 164 Ill.Dec. 192, 582 N.E.2d 755 (1991) (nonmovant must controvert proofs offered by movant in support of motion for summary judgment and cannot merely rest on pleadings); Seefeldt v. Millikin National Bank of Decatur. The issue here is not simply that plaintiff's complaint is deficient in its framing of the issues, but that, as discussed, the testimony and evidence presented in support of his negligent voluntary undertaking theory are deficient, and fall short of establishing a genuine issue of material fact such that judgment should not be entered as a matter of law on that theory of action.

Plaintiff's reliance on Loyola Academy v. S & S Roof Maintenance, Inc., 146 Ill.2d 263, 166 Ill.Dec. 882, 586 N.E.2d 1211 (1992) is not well taken. In Loyola, the court on appeal set forth four factors to determine whether the trial court had abused its discretion in denying a section 2–1005(g) amendment, including whether the proposed amendment would cure the defective pleading, whether it would cause prejudice or surprise to other parties, whether it was timely, and whether previous opportunities to amend the pleading could be identified.

Applying these factors in order, in the instant case the question of whether plaintiff's proposed amendment would cure the defective pleading is not relevant, because as already discussed, AT & T succeeded in its motion for summary judgment not because plaintiff's complaint was improperly pleaded, but because the evidence presented at summary judgment shows no genuine issue of material fact regarding the allegations in the complaint. Werckenthein v. Bucher Petrochemical Co.; East Side Fire Protection District v. City of Belleville. Taking the second and third Loyola factors together (whether there would be prejudice or surprise to AT & T and whether the proposed amendment was timely), the record is ample to support the trial court's determination that the allowance of an amendment would in fact be prejudicial to AT & T, insofar as the amendment was being sought on the eve of trial, five years after the inception of this lawsuit, with no explanation from plaintiff as to why he never before attempted to develop the facts which would be necessary to withstand AT & T's motion for summary judgment. See Mendelson v. Ben A. Borenstein & Co. (no abuse of discretion in denying leave to amend following grant of summary judgment where proposed amendment was sought beyond the pleading stages). See also Ignarski v. Norbut.

The final Loyola factor is whether plaintiff had sufficient prior opportunities to amend. To that extent, we note that plaintiff indeed had substantial opportunities to amend. Although plaintiff complains that AT & T never gave him notice of any deficiency in his complaint which would require amendment because AT & T never filed a motion to dismiss prior to filing its motion for summary judgment, it is axiomatic that a party can amend its pleading on its own motion. See 3 R. Michael, Illinois Practice, ch. 26, at 446 (West 1989). The case of Evans v. United Bank of Illinois, N.A., 226 Ill.App.3d 526, 168 Ill.Dec. 533, 589 N.E.2d 933 (1992), upon which plaintiff relies, does give credence to plaintiff's contention under the fourth Loyola factor that the failure of AT & T to challenge his pleadings prior to its motion for summary judgment deprived plaintiff of any prior opportunity to amend. However, we note that in Evans the court on appeal did not rely on that factor alone in finding that the trial court abused its discretion in denying the plaintiff in that case leave to amend, but found that all of the Loyola factors supported that plaintiff's motion for leave to amend.

In any event, even if plaintiff were correct in his reliance upon Evans, we need not consider its application here. As already discussed, the issue here is not whether the allegations of the complaint were sufficient to state a cause of action based upon a voluntary undertaking theory, but whether the facts adduced were sufficient to create an inference to support such allegations. See Werckenthein v. Bucher Petrochemical Co.; East Side Fire Protection District v. City of Belleville. As previously noted, the fa submitted here are insufficient to raise su an inference. Hence, we find that the tr court's denial of the motion to amend was an abuse of discretion. See Regas v. Asso ated Radiologists, Ltd., 230 Ill.App.3d 9 172 Ill.Dec. 553, 595 N.E.2d 1223 (19 (where a cause of action cannot be sta even after amendment, leave to am should be denied).

In his response to AT & T's motion for summary judgment, plaintiff argued that AT & T had voluntarily assumed and breached a duty to him to keep its premises safe and to maintain the hoist such that it would not do harm to those moving it. In support of his position, plaintiff attached additional excerpts from his own deposition, pointing to his testimony that the AT & T hoist's motor and accessories were already secured to the frame of the hoist by the nylon strap and the motor chain when he arrived at the site to move the hoist. He also referred to his testimony that there was no motor lock securing the motor to the frame, and that the motor and accessories would not have swung free after the strap loosened if there had been such a motor lock.

In a hearing on July 27, 1994, the trial court granted AT & T's motion for summary judgment with prejudice. Later at that same hearing, the trial court heard plaintiff's oral request for leave to amend his complaint pursuant to section 2–1005(g) of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure (735 1LCS 5/2–1005(g) (West 1994)), where plaintiff argued that he should be allowed to amend his complaint to show that AT & T voluntarily undertook to secure the hoist and did so negligently. The court denied plaintiff's motion to amend, stating as its reason that "[i]t's an '89 case."

On August 25, 1994, within 30 days of the July 27 order granting summary judgment and denying leave to amend, plaintiff filed a motion to reconsider. However, plaintiff did not serve AT & T with that motion until September 18, 1994, at which time he transmitted that motion to AT & T via facsimile at AT & T's request. No notice of motion was served upon AT & T until November 9, 1994, and plaintiff did not file a certificate of service for that motion until November 17, 1994.

AT & T subsequently filed a motion objecting to plaintiff's motion to reconsider, arguing that the trial court had no jurisdiction to hear it based on plaintiff's failure to file a proof of service within 30 days of the July 27 order. On January 13, 1995, the trial court debridement and skin grafting. In Fomond, a two-and-one-half-year-old girl sustained third-degree burns that required at least seven surgeries, including two skin grafts and continued physical therapy even several years after receiving the burns. In Negrete, a 17-month-old baby boy sustained burns from hot water, resulting in permanent scarring across 60% of his body and, due to the burning of his genital area, possible permanent damage to his reproductive capacity. In Rogers, the defendant poured grain alcohol on top of the female victim's head and then threw a lit match at her, causing her head, face, chest and pants to ignite.

In light of the above-cited case law, I would reverse defendant's conviction for heinous battery.

Defendant was properly convicted of aggravated battery against a child, however, no sentence was imposed for that crime. If a reviewing court reverses a conviction on which the sentence was imposed, it can remand for sentencing on a conviction on which no sentence was imposed. Such process has been approved in People v. Dixon, 91 Ill.2d 346, 63 Ill.Dec. 442, 438 N.E.2d 180 (1982) and People v. Frantz, 150 Ill.App.3d 296, 300, 103 Ill.Dec. 649, 501 N.E.2d 966 (1986) ("[i]f the reviewing court acts to affirm the incomplete judgment of conviction, the reviewing court then must remand the cause for imposition of sentence").

Fernando LAJATO, Plaintiff–Appellant,

v.

AT & T, INC., Defendant–Appellee, and Third Party Plaintiff (Quinn Delivery Service, Inc., Third Party Defendant).

No. 1–95–0447.

Appellate Court of Illinois,
First District, Fifth Division.

Aug. 9, 1996.

Independent contractor who was injured when loading telephone company's battery hoist for transport brought negligence action against telephone company. The Circuit Court, Cook County, Anthony J. Bosco, J., granted summary judgment for telephone company. Contractor appealed. The Appellate Court, Gordon, J., held that: (1) contractor's motion for reconsideration was timely; (2) telephone company had not voluntarily undertaken duty to properly maintain and secure battery hoist for transport; (3) telephone company was not liable as gratuitous bailor; and (4) trial court did not abuse its discretion by denying contractor's motion to amend his complaint.

Affirmed.

1. Judgment ⇐321, 386(1)

Posttrial motion must be filed within 30 days of final judgment or trial court will lose jurisdiction to modify or vacate final order which it entered after lapse of 30 days. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2–1203.

2. Motions ⇐39

Motion to reconsider is posttrial motion, and therefore falls within purview of post-judgment motions which must be filed within 30 days after challenged judgment is entered. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2–1203.

3. Appeal and Error ⇐344

Only if posttrial motion is timely filed will it extend time for filing notice of appeal. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rule 303(a)(1).

4. Judgment ⇐186

Motion to reconsider filed within 30 days of entry of summary judgment was timely, although no certificate of service was filed until well after 30 days of entry of summary judgment. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2–1203; Sup. Ct.Rules, Rule 104.

5. Appeal and Error ⇐893(1), 1073(1)

Although trial court did not entertain motion for reconsideration of summary judgment in erroneous belief that it did not have jurisdiction to hear motion, appellate court

d not need to remand to allow trial court to nsider merit of motion, as grant of sum- ary judgment required de novo review by ppellate court to determine question of law.

. Negligence ⇐36

Independent contractor could not base ersonal injury action against defendant on eory of premises liability, where he was ured in bed of his truck and not due to any ndition of defendant's premises.

. Appeal and Error ⇐893(1)

Appellate review of order granting sum- ary judgment is de novo.

. Judgment ⇐185(2)

Negligence ⇐1

To withstand motion for summary judg- ent in action based in negligence, plaintiff ust allege facts sufficient to show that de- ndant owed him a duty, that defendant reached that duty, and that his injury proxi- ately resulted from that breach.

. Negligence ⇐20

Telephone company did not voluntarily dertake duty to properly maintain and se- re its battery hoist for transport, where dependent contractor, who was injured by ist when loading it for transport as result loosening of strap securing motor, had al discretion in preparing and moving ist, and there was no evidence that tele- one company had strapped motor, that apping was undertaken as protection for ntractor, or that contractor relied upon fety of strapping. Restatement (Second) Torts § 323.

. Negligence ⇐136(14)

Whether a duty has been voluntarily dertaken is question of law to be deter- ined by court. Restatement (Second) of rts § 323.

. Bailment ⇐35

Telephone company was not liable as ratuitous bailor for injuries sustained by dependent contractor when strap securing otor on battery hoist loosened when con- actor was loading hoist for transport, here contractor presented no evidence oth- than inadmissible hearsay rumors to show either defect in hoist or that telephone company knew or should have known of any dangerous propensities in hoist.

12. Appeal and Error ⇐169

Contentions not raised in trial court are waived on appeal, even in summary judgment case.

13. Bailment ⇐9, 21

Gratuitous bailor may be liable for physical barm caused by use of chattel when he knows or has reason to know that chattel is or is likely to be dangerous when put to use for which it was supplied, has no reason to believe that those for whose use chattel is supplied will realize its dangerous condition, and fails to exercise reasonable care to inform user of its dangerous condition or of facts which make it likely to be dangerous.

14. Judgment ⇐185(1)

Unsubstantiated hearsay statements cannot be considered in ruling on motion for summary judgment.

15. Pleading ⇐236(6)

Trial court did not abuse its discretion by denying motion of independent contractor, who was injured when loading telephone company's battery hoist for transport, to amend his complaint to allege more specifically facts that there was voluntary undertaking by telephone company, after trial court granted summary judgment for telephone company, where issue was not that complaint was deficient in its framing of issues but that evidence presented in support of voluntary undertaking theory failed to establish genuine issue of material fact, and amendment would be prejudicial to telephone company in that amendment was sought on eve of trial and five years after inception of lawsuit, with no explanation as to why contractor never before attempted to develop facts necessary to withstand telephone company's summary judgment motion.

Justice GORDON delivered the opinion of the Court:

This is an action for damages brought by the plaintiff, Fernando Lajato, arising from injuries he incurred while working as an independent contractor for third-party defendant Quinn Delivery Service, Inc. (Quinn) to move a battery hoist owned by defendant AT & T. AT & T filed a contingent third-party complaint against Quinn, not at issue in this appeal, seeking indemnification pursuant to the delivery service contract between Quinn and AT & T, in the event plaintiff recovered a judgment in his tort action against AT & T. AT & T subsequently filed a motion for summary judgment against plaintiff which the trial court granted. In that order, the court also denied plaintiff's oral motion requesting leave to amend his complaint. Subsequently, plaintiff filed a motion to reconsider, which the court ultimately struck by reason of its alleged lack of jurisdiction to hear it. Plaintiff appeals from the orders granting summary judgment to AT & T, denying his motion to amend his complaint, and refusing to hear his motion to reconsider. AT & T has moved to dismiss this appeal for lack of appellate jurisdiction.

In November 1989, plaintiff filed a complaint against AT & T, wherein he alleged that on July 1, 1988, he was on the premises of AT & T on behalf of Quinn in order to move an AT & T battery hoist. The complaint further alleged that while performing that task, the hoist fell upon him, causing him injuries for which he sought damages. The complaint averred that AT & T was negligent in its failure to maintain, inspect, and repair the battery hoist, and for AT & T's failure to warn plaintiff of the propensity of the hoist to fall. In April 1990, AT & T filed its answer, specifically denying each basis for recovery alleged in plaintiff's complaint. The matter was scheduled for trial in June 1995.

On April 25, 1994, AT & T filed a motion for summary judgment, alleging that, based upon the undisputed facts, it was clear that it owed no duty of care to plaintiff with respect to his injuries. In support of its motion, AT & T submitted excerpts of the deposition testimony of plaintiff and a copy of the delivery services contract between AT & T and Quinn. In his deposition, plaintiff testified that on the date of the accident, July 1, 1988, he was making pick-ups and deliveries of telephone equipment at various AT & T locations as an independent contractor for Quinn. He stated that he had received instructions from Quinn via radio to go to an AT & T property in Rolling Meadows, Illinois, the scene of the accident, to pick up a battery hoist and to transport it to another AT & T location in Rockford, Illinois. Approximately 99% of plaintiff's delivery work for Quinn involved pick-ups and deliveries of AT & T equipment. The plaintiff stated that AT & T did not direct him in his moving work, but rather, allowed him to use his own expertise to determine how each move would be accomplished.

Plaintiff further testified that the battery hoist, which weighs approximately [illegible] pounds, was used to lift batteries weighing approximately 300 pounds up onto shelves. Plaintiff described the hoist as being rectangular in shape, on wheels, and consisting of a large, black metal frame with a motor and hoist accessories suspended from the middle of the frame. The hanging motor and accessories could be pulled to one side of the hoist frame and secured thereto with a nylon strap and a chain, both of which were permanently attached to the hoist, in order to stabilize the hoist during transport and when not in use to perform its battery-lifting function. It was plaintiff's customary practice to inspect the hoist to ensure that the motor and accessories were firmly secured with the strap and the chain prior to moving the hoist. Plaintiff had moved this particular hoist on at least 10–15 different occasions.

Plaintiff's deposition further revealed that when he reached the AT & T Rolling Meadows location, an AT & T employee directed him to the hoist, and that after that brief conversation, plaintiff had no further discussions with anyone, AT & T employees or otherwise, until after the accident.

sustained AT & T's objection, finding that it had no jurisdiction to hear plaintiff's motion to reconsider, and therefore did not address the merits of that motion. On January 25, 1995, within 30 days of the trial court's January 13 order, plaintiff filed his notice of appeal, both from that order and from the July 27, 1994 order granting summary judgment and denying plaintiff leave to amend.

Plaintiff contends on appeal that the trial court erred in granting summary judgment because by improperly securing the battery hoist for transport, AT & T negligently performed a voluntary undertaking, and because as a gratuitous bailor, AT & T knew the hoist was dangerous yet failed to inform plaintiff of its dangerous condition. Plaintiff also contends that the trial court abused its discretion in denying him leave to amend his complaint after the grant of summary judgment.

I. JURISDICTION:

Before reaching plaintiff's contentions on appeal, we must first address defendant's motion to dismiss this appeal for want of appellate jurisdiction. Bell Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n v. Bank of Ravenswood, 203 Ill.App.3d 219, 148 Ill.Dec. 559, 560 N.E.2d 1156 (1990). In its motion to dismiss, AT & T contends that plaintiff's failure to file a proof of service with its August 25, 1994 motion to reconsider prevents this court from reviewing either of the trial court's July 27 or January 13 orders. Defendant argues, somewhat obliquely, that plaintiff's motion to reconsider should not be considered as being timely filed, because it was not accompanied by a proof of service, and as a result, the trial court was correct in stating that it had no jurisdiction to consider it. Consequently, defendant would urge that the motion to reconsider did not have the effect of extending the time for filing plaintiff's notice of appeal beyond the initial 30 day period following entry of the summary judgment order. See Illinois Supreme Court Rule 303(a)(1) (155 Ill.2d R. 303(a)(1)) (discussed more fully below). We disagree.

[1-3] Under Supreme Court Rule 303(a)(1), a notice of appeal must be filed within 30 days after the entry of the final judgment from which the appeal is taken, or, if a timely post-trial motion directed at the judgment is filed, within 30 days after entry of the order disposing of the last pending post-trial motion. (134 Ill.2d R. 303(a)(1)). Under section 2-1203 of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure, a post-trial motion must be filed within 30 days of a final judgment. 735 ILCS 5/2-1203 (West 1994). Otherwise, the trial court will lose jurisdiction to modify or vacate the final order which it entered after the lapse of 30 days. Archer Daniels Midland Co. v. Barth, 103 Ill.2d 536, 83 Ill.Dec. 332, 470 N.E.2d 290 (1984); In Matter of Application of County Treasurer, 208 Ill. App.3d 561, 153 Ill.Dec. 528, 567 N.E.2d 486 (1990). A motion to reconsider is a post-trial motion (Elmhurst Auto Parts v. Fencl-Tufo Chevrolet, 235 Ill.App.3d 88, 175 Ill.Dec. 771, 600 N.E.2d 1229 (1992)), and therefore "falls within the purview of post-judgment motions which must be filed within 30 days after the challenged judgment is entered." Sho-Deen, Inc. v. Michel, 263 Ill.App.3d 288, 290, 200 Ill.Dec. 729, 732, 635 N.E.2d 1068, 1071 (1994). Only if a post-trial motion is timely filed pursuant to section 2-1203 will it extend the time for filing the notice of appeal under Rule 303(a). In Matter of Application of County Treasurer.

[4] Thus, the question as to whether the appellant's notice of appeal was filed beyond the 30 day period allowed under Rule 303(a), thereby depriving this court of its jurisdiction, depends upon whether the failure to file a certificate of service vitiated the filing of the plaintiff's motion to reconsider. If we determine that the filing of plaintiff's motion to reconsider on August 25 within 30 days after the July 27 summary judgment order was timely, notwithstanding the failure to file an accompanying certificate of service within that 30-day period, then plaintiff's notice of appeal from both the July 27 and the January 13 orders was timely. This would follow under Rule 303(a), since the notice of appeal was filed on January 25, within 30 days after the trial court's disposition on January 13 of plaintiff's motion to reconsider. On the other hand, if the trial court was correct in its determination that under section 2-1203, the timely filing of a certificate of service is dictional, without which the motion to consider cannot be deemed to have been ely filed, then the notice of appeal in this e, filed more than three months after the try of the summary judgment order, would untimely pursuant to Rule 303(a) and ve this court without appellate jurisdic-n.

The rule is clear that the absence of a tificate of service will not vitiate the filing a motion to reconsider. This matter has en specifically preempted by Illinois Su-eme Court Rule 104 (134 Ill.2d Rule 104), ich provides at parts (b) and (d) as follows:

"(b) Filing of Papers and Proof of Service. Pleadings subsequent to the complaint, written motions, and other papers required to be filed shall be filed with the clerk with a certificate of counsel or other proof that copies have been served on all parties who have appeared * * *.

* * * * * *

(d) Failure to deliver or serve copies as required by this rule does not in any way impair the jurisdiction of the court over the person of any party, but the aggrieved party may obtain a copy from the clerk and the court shall order the offending party to reimburse the aggrieved party for the expense thereof." 134 Ill.2d R. 104(b), (d) (Emphasis added).

Thus, under Rule 104(d), the failure to deliver or serve copies does not impair the risdiction of the court. This rule has been plied to post-trial motions in In re Mar-ge of Collins, 154 Ill.App.3d 655, 107 Ill. ec. 109, 506 N.E.2d 1000 (1987) and in ollath v. Chicago Title and Trust Co., 24 Ill.App.3d 353, 321 N.E.2d 344 (1974), which eld that the failure to include proof of ser-ce with a post-trial motion will not invali-ate the motion or render it untimely.

Defendant contends that Rule 104(d) only addresses the failure to actually serve copies of the motion but does not address the fail-ure to file a certificate of service. This con-tention is devoid of any rationale since a failure to serve will preclude the filing of a certificate, unless the movant seeks to per-jure himself. Thus, if the failure to actually serve notice does not impair jurisdiction, then a fortiori, the failure to serve a certifi-cate of service will not impair the validity or timeliness of the motion. See In re Mar-riage of Collins.

Defendant's reliance on Vlahakis v. Par-ker, 3 Ill.App.3d 126, 278 N.E.2d 523 (1971) (abstract of op.) and Ingrassia v. Ingrassia, 156 Ill.App.3d 483, 109 Ill.Dec. 68, 509 N.E.2d 729 (1987) is misplaced. Although Vlahakis reached a contrary result, it is clear that that opinion did not purport to in any way consider or confront the impact of Rule 104(d) in its determination. That opinion has therefore been distinguished and rejected on that basis in Kollath v. Chicago Title and Trust Co., 24 Ill.App.3d at 357–58, 321 N.E.2d at 348 ("Rule 104(d) renders a failure to comply with Rule 104(b) * * * non-jurisdictional * * * [and] the only cases decided since enactment of rule 104(d) which reached a contrary result [, including Vlahakis v. Parker,] did not consider that provision at all"). Likewise, the opinion in Ingrassia does not purport to consider rule 104(d) in its determination. Moreover, Ingrassia does not purport to deal with the validity or timeliness of the filing of a post-trial motion, but, rather, with the sufficiency of the notice of that motion when given to the opposing party only a few hours before the hearing on the motion. Hence, Ingrassia is not in point, since here there is no question that defendant had actual knowledge of the pendency of plaintiff's motion to reconsider well in advance of the scheduled hearing date on that motion.

Consequently, plaintiff's August 25 motion to reconsider, and therefore his January 25 notice of appeal, were seasonably filed, notwithstanding that no certificate of service was filed until long after 30 days had passed since summary judgment was entered on July 27. Since the August 25 motion was timely, the notice of appeal filed on January 25 complied with Rule 303(a) since it was filed within 30 days after the trial court disposed of the motion to reconsider, albeit on jurisdictional grounds, on January 13. Accordingly, our jurisdiction to review both the July 27 and January 13 orders of the trial court remains unimpaired.

[5] Defendant next would urge that if we determine that the January 13 order is reviewable, we should confine our review solely to the correctness of the trial court's denial of its jurisdiction over the motion to reconsider. Defendant contends that if we find that the trial court's jurisdictional determination was erroneous, we should remand the matter to the trial court to allow the trial court to first consider the merit of that motion. We disagree for the same reasons as articulated in Myers v. Health Specialists, S.C., 225 Ill.App.3d 68, 167 Ill.Dec. 225, 587 N.E.2d 494 (1992). There, the court stated as follows:

> "Defendant initially urges us, without citation to authority, to remand this matter to the circuit court because that court did not address the merits of plaintiff's motion. This argument betrays a misperception of the nature both of the question presented and of our review. As noted above, we consider summary judgment orders de novo: we, like the circuit court, must decide only whether the parties' pleadings and other submissions present an issue of triable fact and if not, whether plaintiff is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. This is a question of law, not of fact." Myers v. Health Specialists, S.C., 225 Ill.App.3d 68, 76, 167 Ill.Dec. 225, 231, 587 N.E.2d 494, 500 (1992).

Here, too, the grant of summary judgment is subject to de novo review, requiring our de novo determination whether the submissions of the parties presented triable issues of fact and if not whether defendant was entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. Thus, here, as in Myers, we may consider this appeal on its merits without the necessity of a remand.

II. MERITS

[6] As noted earlier, plaintiff contends on appeal that the trial court erred in granting summary judgment because the facts are sufficient to create an inference that AT & T voluntarily assumed a duty to properly secure the battery hoist for transport, a duty which was breached as a result of AT & T's negligence. Additionally, plaintiff contends, for the first time on appeal, that there was error in granting summary judgment because the facts are sufficient to create an inference that as a gratuitous bailor, AT & T knew the hoist was dangerous yet failed to inform plaintiff of its dangerous condition. Plaintiff also contends that even if summary judgment was properly entered in favor of AT & T under the issues framed by the existing complaint, the trial court abused its discretion in denying him leave to amend his complaint pursuant to section 2–1005(g) of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure (735 ILCS 5/2–1005(g) (West 1994)).[1]

[7, 8] We first address plaintiff's contention that the trial court erred in entering summary judgment pursuant to the issues framed by the existing complaint. Summary judgment is proper when the pleadings, depositions and affidavits on file, construed in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party, establish that there is no genuine issue of material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. See generally 735 ILCS 5/2–1005 (West 1994); First State Insurance Co. v. Montgomery Ward & Co., 267 Ill.App.3d 851, 204 Ill.Dec. 814, 642 N.E.2d 715 (1994); Torres v. City of Chicago, 261 Ill.App.3d 499, 197 Ill.Dec. 985, 632 N.E.2d 54 (1994); Giannoble v. P & M Heating & Air Conditioning, Inc., 233 Ill.App.3d 1051, 175 Ill.Dec. 169, 599 N.E.2d 1183 (1992). Appellate review of an order granting summary judgment is de novo. E.g., Hesselink v. R.L. Perlow Corp., 265 Ill.App.3d 478, 202 Ill.Dec. 36, 637 N.E.2d 575 (1994); La Salle National Bank v. Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, 262 Ill.App.3d 899, 200 Ill.Dec. 225, 635 N.E.2d 564

1. As previously noted, at the trial level, plaintiff urged liability both on the basis of premises liability and the law governing voluntary undertakings. Plaintiff has conceded on appeal that he cannot base his action against AT & T upon a theory of premises liability as a matter of law, due to the holding in Pagano v. Occidental Chemical Corp., 257 Ill.App.3d 905, 913, 196 Ill.Dec. 24, 30, 629 N.E.2d 569, 575 (1994), insofar as he incurred his injuries in the bed of his truck, and not due to any condition of AT & T's premises. See also Jackson v. Hilton Hotels Corp. 273 Ill.App.3d 457, 214 Ill.Dec. 31, 660 N.E.2d 222 (1995) (in action based on premises liability, no duty to plaintiff existed where plaintiff failed to show that his injuries were caused by any condition of the premises).

(1994). To withstand a motion for summary judgment in an action based in negligence, a plaintiff must allege facts sufficient to show that the defendant owed him a duty, that defendant breached that duty, and that his injury proximately resulted from that breach. See DiBenedetto v. Flora Township, 153 Ill.2d 66, 178 Ill.Dec. 777, 606 N.E.2d 571 (1992); Ziemba v. Mierzwa, 142 Ill.2d 42, 153 Ill.Dec. 259, 566 N.E.2d 1365 (1991).

[9, 10] With respect to plaintiff's contention concerning AT & T's duty arising from its purported voluntary undertaking, section 323 of the Restatement (Second) of Torts provides as follows:

"One who undertakes, gratuitously or for consideration, to render services to another which he should recognize as necessary for the protection of the other's person or things, is subject to liability to the other for physical harm resulting from his failure to exercise reasonable care to perform his undertaking, if

(a) his failure to exercise such care increases the risk of such harm, or

(b) the harm is suffered because of the other's reliance upon the undertaking." Restatement (Second) of Torts § 323, at 135 (1965).

See generally, Cross v. Wells Fargo Alarm Services, 82 Ill.2d 313, 45 Ill.Dec. 121, 412 N.E.2d 472 (1980); Jackson v. Hilton Hotels Corp., 277 Ill.App.3d 457, 214 Ill.Dec. 31, 660 N.E.2d 222 (1995). Whether a duty has been voluntarily undertaken is a question of law to be determined by the court. Gouge v. Central Illinois Public Service Co., 144 Ill.2d 535, 163 Ill.Dec. 842, 582 N.E.2d 108 (1991); Jackson v. Hilton Hotels Corp.

In the instant case, plaintiff has failed to allege facts sufficient to establish in the first instance that defendant voluntarily assumed or undertook any duty to properly maintain and secure the battery hoist for transport. First, it is undisputed that AT & T had neither control nor influence over the manner in which plaintiff, an independent contractor retained by Quinn (who was also an independent contractor), readied or moved the hoist, and that plaintiff had total discretion in preparing and moving the hoist. Moreover, plaintiff did not submit any evidence that AT & T strapped the motor to the hoist, nor any evidence regarding whether the strapping was undertaken as protection for the plaintiff. Lastly, and more overridingly, even if we were to presume that the strapping was effected by AT & T, there is no evidence whatsoever submitted by plaintiff that he relied upon the safety of that strapping. In fact, the record is clear that plaintiff himself checked the strapping of the motor to ensure it was fastened securely prior to moving the hoist, as was his customary practice when moving that particular hoist.

[11–13] Plaintiff urges that even if there is no basis for liability under a theory of voluntary undertaking, there is a basis established for liability under a theory of gratuitous bailment. In that regard, he contends that there is a genuine issue of material fact that AT & T, as a gratuitous bailor of the hoist, breached a duty to plaintiff to provide a safe hoist or to warn plaintiff of its dangers. We first note that contentions not raised in the trial court are waived on appeal, even in a summary judgment case. Witek v. Leisure Technology Midwest, Inc., 39 Ill.App.3d 637, 640, 350 N.E.2d 242, 245 (1976) ("This rule of waiver applies even in a summary judgment case"); Wilson v. Gorski's Food Fair, 196 Ill.App.3d 612, 143 Ill.Dec. 477, 554 N.E.2d 412 (1990). However, even if the argument were preserved, we note that there was no evidence presented that AT & T breached a duty to plaintiff as a gratuitous bailor of the hoist.

"[A] gratuitous bailor may be liable for physical harm caused by the use of his chattel when he knows or has reason to know that the chattel is or is likely to be dangerous when put to the use for which it is supplied; has no reason to believe that those for whose use the chattel is supplied will realize its dangerous condition; and fails to exercise reasonable care to inform the user of its dangerous condition or of the facts which make it likely to be dangerous." Pagano v. Occidental Chemical Corp., 257 Ill.App.3d 905, 913, 196 Ill.Dec. 24, 30, 629 N.E.2d 569, 575 (1994).

[14] Plaintiff has not produced evidence as to any specific defect either in the design or manufacture of the hoist itself which would indicate that AT & T had actual or constructive knowledge that the hoist was unsafe when it was handed over to plaintiff. Plaintiff himself did not testify as to the condition of the hoist except to say that the strap loosened. The only other evidence that plaintiff has presented consists of unsubstantiated hearsay statements. In that regard, plaintiff testified in his deposition to a conversation which took place after the accident with an AT & T installer who told plaintiff that certain other fellow employees had stated that after plaintiff's accident they refused to use the hoist because it was unsafe, and that AT & T ultimately returned the hoist to its manufacturer. However, plaintiff was unable to identify those other AT & T employees, and he did not provide any further detail regarding the specific contents of their statements. Such unsubstantiated hearsay statements cannot be considered in a ruling on a motion for summary judgment. See Certified Mechanical Contractors, Inc. v. Wight & Co., Inc., 162 Ill.App.3d 391, 113 Ill.Dec. 888, 515 N.E.2d 1047 (1987) (in deciding a motion for summary judgment, court should ignore personal conclusions, opinions and self-serving statements and consider only facts admissible in evidence under the rules of evidence); Seefeldt v. Millikin National Bank of Decatur, 154 Ill.App.3d 715, 107 Ill.Dec. 161, 506 N.E.2d 1052 (1987) (although a complaint may purport to raise an issue of material fact, summary judgment is appropriate if such issue is not further supported by evidentiary facts, and in determining the genuineness of a fact, a court should ignore personal conclusions and opinions and consider only admissible facts).

Plaintiff's reliance on Pagano is not well taken. There, the court on appeal did find an issue of fact as to whether a defective dolly supplied by the defendant to help move certain barrel drums of ink rendered the defendant liable under a theory of gratuitous bailment. However, in that case, plaintiff gave direct testimony as to specific, observable defects in the dolly which, if believed, would establish that the dolly was defective. Here, aside from the inadmissible hearsay rumors which were reported, the plaintiff himself presented no evidence to show either a defect in the hoist or that AT & T knew or should have known of any dangerous propensities in the hoist. Consequently, the evidence presented here was not effective to support a counterinference for purposes of summary judgment.

[15] Plaintiff next contends that the trial court erred in its refusal in its July 27 order to allow him leave to amend his complaint to more specifically allege facts that there was a voluntary undertaking and that it was implemented negligently. We disagree.

Section 2–1005(g) of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure (735 ILCS 5/2–1005(g) (West 1994)) provides as follows:

"(g) Amendment of pleading. Before or after the entry of a summary judgment, the court shall permit pleadings to be amended upon just and reasonable terms."

The allowance of an amendment to the pleadings is in the trial court's discretion, and reversible error can only be found if there is a manifest abuse of discretion. Loyola Academy v. S & S Roof Maintenance, Inc., 146 Ill.2d 263, 166 Ill.Dec. 882, 586 N.E.2d 1211 (1992). See also Misselhorn v. Doyle, 257 Ill.App.3d 983, 195 Ill.Dec. 881, 629 N.E.2d 189 (1994); Eyman v. McDonough District Hospital, 245 Ill.App.3d 391, 184 Ill.Dec. 502, 613 N.E.2d 819 (1993).

As noted, on July 27, immediately after the trial court entered summary judgment against him, plaintiff made an oral motion to amend his complaint, as follows:

"MR. JOHNSON [Plaintiff's attorney]: [I] set it out to specifics that they undertook the duty to secure the hoist and they negligently performed that duty and as a result Plaintiff was injured based upon the Nelson v. Pippen, Phillips [sic] case, that once undertakes a duty to do something, to do so negligently, and someone is injured they are absolutely liable.

The court denied plaintiff's motion to amend, stating that "It's an '89 case. I'll deny the motion [to amend]."

We first note that plaintiff never made the proposed amended complaint a part of the record on appeal, except for his oral proposal before the trial judge which, without any offers of new evidence, essentially duplicates the voluntary undertaking theory which has already been argued and rejected. Plaintiff's failure to include the proposed amendment and supporting facts therefor in the record could be found to constitute a waiver in this court of his right to have the denial of his request for leave to amend reviewed. See Mendelson v. Ben A. Borenstein & Co., 240 Ill.App.3d 605, 181 Ill.Dec. 114, 608 N.E.2d 97 (1992) (plaintiff's failure to tender amended complaint or to include it in the appellate record diminished the appellate court's ability to determine whether the proposed amendment would provide a viable theory against defendant, and constituted waiver of right to a review of the denial of his request for leave to amend). See also Ignar v. Norbut, 271 Ill.App.3d 522, 207 Ill.Dec. 9, 648 N.E.2d 285 (1995) (no abuse of discretion in denying motion for leave to amend complaint where movant orally moved to amend yet failed to submit proposed amendment to trial court).

Notwithstanding waiver, even if we were to review the amendment which plaintiff orally proposed, we would find no abuse of discretion by the trial court in denying plaintiff leave to amend. As already discussed, there was ample evidence before the trial court to support its conclusion that the facts in this case as revealed in the summary judgment submissions would not permit a pleading which could allege a valid cause of action. Moreover, by the same token, even if the complaint were amended to more specifically allege a voluntary undertaking as requested by the plaintiff, the allegations of the complaint would be superseded by the extrinsic facts already submitted which as noted would dictate for summary judgment. See Werckenthein v. Bucher Petrochemical Co., 248 Ill.App.3d 282, 188 Ill.Dec. 332, 618 N.E.2d 902 (1993) (where allegations in nonmovant's complaint are contravened by movant's extrinsic submissions in summary judgment proceedings, extrinsic submissions control); East Side Fire Protection District v. City of Belleville, 221 Ill.App.3d 654, 164 Ill.Dec. 192, 582 N.E.2d 755 (1991) (nonmovant must controvert proofs offered by movant in support of motion for summary judgment and cannot merely rest on pleadings); Seefeldt v. Millikin National Bank of Decatur. The issue here is not simply that plaintiff's complaint is deficient in its framing of the issues, but that, as discussed, the testimony and evidence presented in support of his negligent voluntary undertaking theory are deficient, and fall short of establishing a genuine issue of material fact such that judgment should not be entered as a matter of law on that theory of action.

Plaintiff's reliance on Loyola Academy v. S & S Roof Maintenance, Inc., 146 Ill.2d 263, 166 Ill.Dec. 882, 586 N.E.2d 1211 (1992) is not well taken. In Loyola, the court on appeal set forth four factors to determine whether the trial court had abused its discretion in denying a section 2–1005(g) amendment, including whether the proposed amendment would cure the defective pleading, whether it would cause prejudice or surprise to other parties, whether it was timely, and whether previous opportunities to amend the pleading could be identified.

Applying these factors in order, in the instant case the question of whether plaintiff's proposed amendment would cure the defective pleading is not relevant, because as already discussed, AT & T succeeded in its motion for summary judgment not because plaintiff's complaint was improperly pleaded, but because the evidence presented at summary judgment shows no genuine issue of material fact regarding the allegations in the complaint. Werckenthein v. Bucher Petrochemical Co.; East Side Fire Protection District v. City of Belleville. Taking the second and third Loyola factors together (whether there would be prejudice or surprise to AT & T and whether the proposed amendment was timely), the record is ample to support the trial court's determination that the allowance of an amendment would in fact be prejudicial to AT & T, insofar as the amendment was being sought on the eve of trial, five years after the inception of this lawsuit, with no explanation from plaintiff as to why he never before attempted to develop the facts which would be necessary to withstand AT & T's motion for summary judgment. See Mendelson v. Ben A. Borenstein & Co. (no abuse of discretion in denying leave to amend following grant of summary judgment where proposed amendment was sought beyond the pleading stages). See also Ignarski v. Norbut.

The final Loyola factor is whether plaintiff had sufficient prior opportunities to amend. To that extent, we note that plaintiff indeed had substantial opportunities to amend. Although plaintiff complains that AT & T never gave him notice of any deficiency in his complaint which would require amendment because AT & T never filed a motion to dismiss prior to filing its motion for summary judgment, it is axiomatic that a party can amend its pleading on its own motion. See 3 R. Michael, Illinois Practice, ch. 26, at 446 (West 1989). The case of Evans v. United Bank of Illinois, N.A., 226 Ill.App.3d 526, 168 Ill.Dec. 533, 589 N.E.2d 933 (1992), upon which plaintiff relies, does give credence to plaintiff's contention under the fourth Loyola factor that the failure of AT & T to challenge his pleadings prior to its motion for summary judgment deprived plaintiff of any prior opportunity to amend. However, we note that in Evans the court on appeal did not rely on that factor alone in finding that the trial court abused its discretion in denying the plaintiff in that case leave to amend, but found that all of the Loyola factors supported that plaintiff's motion for leave to amend.

In any event, even if plaintiff were correct in his reliance upon Evans, we need not consider its application here. As already discussed, the issue here is not whether the allegations of the complaint were sufficient to state a cause of action based upon a voluntary undertaking theory, but whether the facts adduced were sufficient to create an inference to support such allegations. See Werckenthein v. Bucher Petrochemical Co.; East Side Fire Protection District v. City of Belleville. As previously noted, the fa submitted here are insufficient to raise s an inference. Hence, we find that the t court's denial of the motion to amend was an abuse of discretion. See Regas v. Asso ated Radiologists, Ltd., 230 Ill.App.3d 9 172 Ill.Dec. 553, 595 N.E.2d 1223 (19 (where a cause of action cannot be sta even after amendment, leave to am should be denied).

In other words, he could stop me from asking anything, at any time and I will just stop and leave the room." (He said he still wanted to talk to me.)

Dickett testified that she gave defendant the Miranda warnings one at a time, speaking slowly. After each one she asked defendant if he understood and he said he did. She testified that she told him the word attorney meant lawyer and instead of the phrase, "appoint a lawyer", she told him the court would give him a lawyer.

In contrast to this questioning by Kill and Dickett, Smith testified that she interviewed defendant on December 15, 1989, six months after the fire. In questions she posed which were intended to determine whether or not he could intelligently waive what are commonly known as "Miranda rights or Miranda warnings" she would ask him "what does this mean, and then I would say what the particular right was" and his reaction would be to "look around, scratch his head and draw a blank. He didn't say anything." From these reactions she concluded that "he didn't understand what these rights meant."

The contrast in the manner in which the police officer and assistant State's Attorney advised the defendant and the form of the questions posed to the defendant by the psychologist lead us to the conclusion that the record does not support the trial court's conclusion that defendant did not understand his rights and therefore did not knowingly and intelligently waive them. The court's grant of defendant's motion to suppress is not supported by the record.

Here we find the defendant was advised of his right to remain silent and his right to have an attorney present in language he could understand. He was advised that anything he told the officer could be used against him in court. Defendant then stated that he wanted to tell the police about the fire. He repeated the story to the officer and to the assistant State's Attorney in a coherent manner. Although he was asked to do so, he chose not have his statement taken down verbatim in writing. Since he was unable to read, he could not verify what a written statement contained.

While the State has a heavy burden to show that a defendant has waived his constitutional rights in a knowing, intelligent and voluntary manner, (Brownell, 79 Ill.2d at 516, 38 Ill.Dec. 757, 404 N.E.2d 181) we find the State has met that burden. We find the weight of the evidence establishes that defendant waived his Miranda rights in a knowing and intelligent manner. For all of the foregoing reasons the order of the trial court granting defendant's motion to suppress his statements is reversed.

Rehearing Denied Aug. 26, 1991.

Independent contractor's employee brought action against owner of nuclear power plant to recover for injuries sustained when he slipped and fell on wet concrete floor. The Circuit Court, Cook County, Dean Sodaro, J., granted summary judgment for owner, and employee appealed. The Appellate Court, Cerda, P.J., held that owner's duty to maintain safe workplace did not include mopping up water that accumulated on floor when snow and ice from pipes used in construction project melted onto floor, causing puddles of water.

Johnson, Cusack and Bell, Ltd., John W. Bell, Michael B. Gunzburg and Thomas H. Fegan, Chicago, for defendant-appellee.

Presiding Justice CERDA delivered the opinion of the court:

Plaintiff, Byong K. Choi, brought this action against defendant Commonwealth Edison Company seeking recovery for injuries sustained when plaintiff fell on a concrete floor while working at a construction site. The trial court granted defendant's motion for summary judgment. On appeal, plaintiff argues that the trial court erred in granting defendant's motion for summary judgment because a genuine issue of material fact exists. In addition, he argues that the trial court erred by failing to recognize defendant's duty to provide a safe workplace for workmen engaged in construction work on its premises and by failing to extend that duty to include taking precautions against the accumulation of water inside the building.

On January 10, 1979, plaintiff Choi was employed by Universal Power Piping, Inc. (UPP) as a welder at the Dresden Nuclear Power Plant, which is owned by defendant

Commonwealth Edison Company. UPP was a subcontractor hired by Commonwealth Edison to complete installation of a decontamination flushing system in the Reactor 1 building. Plaintiff was working on the third-floor turbine deck receiving pipes brought in from the outside by UPP employees. While stored outside, the pipes became encrusted with snow and ice. Once inside, the pipes were raised from the ground floor to the third-floor turbine deck area by an overhead crane, which was operated by a Commonwealth Edison employee. Then, the pipe was taken from the crane, placed on a cart, and moved through the interlock hatch to the reactor building by UPP employees, including plaintiff. Snow and ice melted from the frozen pipes, forming puddles of water on the deck wherever the pipes were transported. Plaintiff was working in this manner all day prior to the accident.

As plaintiff and a co-worker were carrying a pipe, approximately 20 feet long and 10 inches in diameter, plaintiff slipped on water that was on the concrete floor. He fell backward, hitting his back on a pipe, and a floor spacer fell across his mid-section, causing injuries.

Previously, the appellate court upheld the trial court's summary judgment order for defendant regarding a Structural Work Act (Ill.Rev.Stat.1983, ch. 48, pars. 60 through 69). (Choi v. Commonwealth Edison Co. (1984), 129 Ill.App.3d 878, 85 Ill. Dec. 17, 473 N.E.2d 385.) In plaintiff's second amended complaint, he alleged that defendant was guilty of several negligent acts in its supervision of the construction work. Defendant filed a motion for summary judgment, arguing that under Illinois law, it had no duty to take precautions against natural accumulations of snow, ice or water that were tracked into a building. Defendant noted that the UPP foreman's deposition stated that he did not inform Edison of the condition because it was the duty of the contractor's own employees to clean up after themselves. Defendant pointed out that the snow came from pipes that plaintiff and his co-workers had brought in and carried to the area.

In response to defendant's motion for summary judgment, plaintiff argued that defendant owed him a duty to maintain a reasonably safe work place because it retained control over the construction work performed by UPP employees and could stop the work in progress for safety or other reasons. Plaintiff also argued that defendant breached that duty by failing to provide a reasonably safe workplace and by failing to stop work that was being performed in an unsafe manner. In addition, plaintiff contended that the melted snow and ice that caused the unsafe condition did not accumulate naturally, was not transported into the building by pedestrian traffic, and was caused by defendant's refusal to allow the pipes to be brought into the building and cleaned off before being transported to the work area. Plaintiff notes that the deposition of Commonwealth Edison's superintendent stated that Commonwealth Edison employees had the responsibility to clean snow and ice which came into the building, had the authority to stop work being performed in an unsafe manner, and regularly inspected the area.

Concluding that the facts were essentially undisputed, the trial court ordered summary judgment for defendant. The trial court stated that there was a common law duty of an occupier of land to exercise reasonable care for the safety of people lawfully on the premises, but that duty did not extend to a building owner being required to mop up water from an accumulation of snow, ice or water brought inside a building construction site. The trial court indicated that it would be an impossible burden placed on an owner of a building construction site to require following the independent contractor's employees around, mopping up every drip of water brought in from the outside. The trial court further ruled that Commonwealth Edison did not create the dangerous condition, but merely failed to clean up a mess which is common whenever building materials from the outside of a building are moved into a building.

The trial court analogized this case to Lohan v. Walgreens Co. (1986), 140 Ill. App.3d 171, 173, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679, which ruled that a landowner has no duty to clean up snow, ice or water that is tracked into a building from a natural accumulation on the outside. The trial court made no finding whether the accumulation inside the building was natural or unnatural, but did state that the water began as a natural accumulation of snow and ice on the pipes outside, and was brought into the building the same way as people tracking it on their feet. The trial court did not consider the expert's affidavit and deposition because it was not factually based. The expert did not actually examine the premises, the court noted, but merely looked at photographs.

After the trial court denied plaintiff's motion to reconsider, plaintiff appealed the summary judgment order. Plaintiff's argument emphasizes that Commonwealth Edison owed him a duty to maintain a safe workplace even though he was employed by an independent contractor hired by Commonwealth Edison. He asserts that the duty included mopping up water that accumulated on the building's floor when snow and ice from the pipes melted onto the floor, causing puddles of water. Plaintiff relies on cases holding that the landowner owes a duty to the employee of an independent contractor if the owner retains sufficient control over the contractor's work. Claudy v. City of Sycamore (1988), 170 Ill.App.3d 990, 120 Ill.Dec. 812, 524 N.E.2d 994; See Haberer v. Village of Sauget (1987), 158 Ill.App.3d 313, 110 Ill.Dec. 628, 511 N.E.2d 805; Tsourmas v. Dineff (1987), 161 Ill.App.3d 897, 113 Ill.Dec. 758, 515 N.E.2d 743; Weber v. Northern Illinois Gas Co. (1973), 10 Ill.App.3d 625, 295 N.E.2d 41; Pasko v. Commonwealth Edison Co. (1973), 14 Ill.App.3d 481, 302 N.E.2d 642. These cases state that the duty owed is to maintain a reasonably safe workplace.

Even if the water began as a natural accumulation on the outside, plaintiff asserts, Commonwealth Edison's intervening acts caused the water to be unnaturally accumulated on the inside of the building. In the alternative, plaintiff states, the condition was aggravated by Commonwealth Edison because it would not allow the pipes to be stored inside where the snow and ice could be safely removed after it melted. Furthermore, plaintiff argues, the pipes were brought in from the outside and loaded onto an overhead crane operated by a Commonwealth Edison employee. The overhead crane then took the pipes to the third floor of the building, where UPP employees transported the pipes through a tunnel into the reactor building. By the time the pipes reached the third floor, the snow and ice was melting, and water from the pipes was dripping on the floor. It is on that water that plaintiff fell and injured himself.

Defendant responds that the water was a natural accumulation tracked in from the outside by UPP employees, including plaintiff. It asserts that this situation should be treated the same as a natural accumulation tracked in from the outside by pedestrian traffic, thus creating no duty by the landowner.

Defendant relies on two types of cases: those concerning natural accumulations of snow, ice or water outdoors and those concerning snow, ice or water tracked into a building from the outside, whether tracked in by pedestrians' shoes, coats or umbrellas. In Lohan, 140 Ill.App.3d at 172, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679, the plaintiff slipped and fell on water that had been tracked from the outside into the common hallway of the defendants' stores. The appellate court ruled that the owners did not have a duty to continuously remove the tracks left by customers who had walked through the natural accumulations of snow or water outside, tracking them inside. Even if the owner has knowledge that the accumulation caused a dangerous condition, the court stated, there is no duty if the accumulation is natural. (Lohan, 140 Ill.App.3d at 173, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679.) See also Handy v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1989), 182 Ill.App.3d 969, 131 Ill.Dec. 471, 538 N.E.2d 846 (summary judgment in favor of defendant store affirmed where plaintiff slipped and fell on water located within store); Shoemaker v. Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center (1989), 187 Ill.App.3d 1040, 135 Ill.Dec. 446, 543 N.E.2d 1014 (hospital had no duty to clean up natural accumulation of water tracked into hospital on pedestrians' coats and umbrellas); Serritos v. Chicago Transit Authority (1987), 153 Ill.App.3d 265, 106 Ill.Dec. 243, 505 N.E.2d 1034 (city transit authority had no duty where plaintiff fell on snow and slush covered steps of bus owned and operated by defendant).

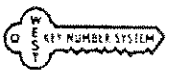
[1, 2] The purpose of summary judgment is to determine whether a triable issue of fact exists. (Haberer, 158 Ill.App.3d at 316, 110 Ill.Dec. 628, 511 N.E.2d 805.) It may be granted if the pleadings, exhibits, affidavits, and depositions on file establish that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. (Ill.Rev. Stat.1985, ch. 110, par. 2–1005(c); Branson v. R & L Investment, Inc. (1990), 196 Ill. App.3d 1088, 1090, 143 Ill.Dec. 689, 554 N.E.2d 624.) Although the plaintiff does not have to try his case, he must provide a factual basis which would arguably entitle him to judgment. (Handy, 182 Ill.App.3d at 972, 131 Ill.Dec. 471, 538 N.E.2d 846.) The determination that summary judgment is appropriate will not be reversed absent an abuse of the trial court's discretion such that the plaintiff's right to fundamental justice is violated. Breeze v. Payne (1989), 181 Ill.App.3d 720, 727, 130 Ill.Dec. 386, 537 N.E.2d 453.



[3–5] Commonwealth Edison owed plaintiff the duty to maintain a reasonably safe workplace, but it did not extend to taking precautions against water tracked inside from a natural accumulation outside. Duty is determined by considering a number of factors: the foreseeability of harm (Breeze, 181 Ill.App.3d at 727, 130 Ill.Dec. 386, 537 N.E.2d 453), the likelihood of the injury, the magnitude of the burden of guarding against it, the consequences of placing that burden on the defendant, public policy, and social considerations. Dealers Service & Supply Co. v. St. Louis National Stock. (1987), 155 Ill.App.3d 1075, 1080, 108 Ill.Dec. 664, 508 N.E.2d 1241.

[6, 7] In Illinois, a landowner owes no duty where a natural accumulation of snow, ice or water exists on the outside or is tracked into a building by pedestrian traffic. (Lohan, 140 Ill.App.3d at 172, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679.) However, a property owner does have a duty and may be liable where the injuries are a result of an unnatural or artificial accumulation, or a natural condition aggravated by the owner's use of the area and creation of the condition. (Handy v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1989), 182 Ill.App.3d 969, 971, 131 Ill. Dec. 471, 538 N.E.2d 846.) To establish a duty, the plaintiff must make an affirmative showing of an unnatural accumulation or an aggravation of a natural condition before recovery will be allowed. (McCann v. Bethesda Hospital (1979), 80 Ill.App.3d 544, 549, 35 Ill.Dec. 879, 400 N.E.2d 16.) Plaintiff made no such showing in this case.

[8] Therefore, summary judgment for defendant was proper. The water in the nuclear power plant was a continuation of a natural accumulation. There was no evidence presented that Commonwealth Edison did anything to aggravate the condition. To require an owner of a construction site to follow workmen around and immediately clean up any melting snow, ice or water that had been brought in from the outside would be too high a burden.

Affirmed.

9. State the name and address of each witness that knows or claims to know the circumstances of the alleged accident, how it occurred or how the Plaintiff became injured – as alleged in the Complaint.

ANSWER: On information and belief, David Gagnon and Paul Dulberg were present at the time of the alleged occurrence and therefore know the circumstances surrounding the occurrence. Answering further, Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire were not present at the time of the occurrence but knew that David Gagnon and Paul Dulberg were present on the date of the occurrence. From conversations with David Gagnon, the answering Defendants believe that Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg had been cutting logs and tree branches into smaller sections without incident. While in the process of cutting tree branches Paul Dulberg unexpectedly and without warning moved his right arm directly in the path of the running chain saw. Investigation continues.

10. With respect to the chain saw that was being operated on the premises at the time of the alleged injury, state as follows:

a. Who was operating the chain saw at the time of the Plaintiff's alleged injury;

b. Who owned the chain saw at the time of Plaintiff's alleged injury;

c. who requested that the chain saw be used to perform work at the time of Plaintiff's injury.

ANSWER:

a. On information and belief, David Gagnon was operating the chain saw at the time Mr. Dulberg was injured.

b. Bill McGuire was the owner of the chain saw on the date of the occurrence.

c. David Gagnon had Bill McGuire's permission to use the chain saw.

11. With respect to David Gagnon's experience in use of a chain saw prior to the date of the alleged accident, state as follows:

a. How many times had David Gagnon operated the same or similar chain saw prior to the date of alleged accident;

b. What formal training did David Gagnon receive in use or operation of a chain saw prior to the occurrence alleged;

c. Who, if any, (names and addresses) trained David Gagnon in use or operation of a chain saw prior to the occurrence.

ANSWER:

a. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, and to the best of the answering parties' knowledge, David Gagnon has used chain saws in the past but the answering parties do not known how often he has used chain saws in the past.

b. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, the answering parties do not know whether David Gagnon has been formally trained the use or operation of a chain saw. Answering further, the answering parties are aware that Mr. Gagnon has used chain saws many times in the past and he appears/appeared to know what he is doing.

c. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, the answering party do now know whether or by whom David Gagnon was trained in the use of chain saws. Answering further, the answering parties are aware that Mr. Gagnon has used chain saws many times in the past and he appears/appeared to know what he is doing.

12. What was the scope of work or task David Gagnon was engaged in with use of the chain saw at or about the time of the alleged accident.

ANSWER:

To the extent "scope of work" or "engaged" constitute legal conclusions, the answering Defendants object to Interrogatory No. 12. Answering subject to objection, at the time of the alleged occurrence, the answering Defendants were in the process of replacing an old shed on their property. Paul Dulberg helped David Gagnon tear down the old shed. The answering Defendants further believe that Mr. Dulberg took the components of the old shed to his property for eventual reassembly. On the date of the occurrence, Mr. Dulberg was helping David Gagnon take down several trees to make room for a new shed. On information and belief, prior to the occurrence Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg had been cutting logs and tree branches into smaller sections without incident. While in the process of cutting tree branches Paul Dulberg unexpectedly and without warning moved his right arm directly in the path of the running chain saw. Answering further, the answering Defendants did not engage, hire or pay either individual for their activities on site. Nor did either answering Defendant dictate, control or otherwise supervise the methods and means by which Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg performed the tree and branch cutting at issue.

13. Who (names and addresses) requested or chose to engage Gagnon in the "task" of use and operation of the chain saw at or about the time of the alleged accident.

ANSWER:

To the extent the words "chose" and "engage" constitute legal conclusions, the answering Defendants object to Interrogatory No. 13. Answering subject to objection, David Gagnon undertook the tree cutting and trimming in question as a favor to his parents. He was not engaged, hired or paid for the activities in question.

14. What instructions or guidance, if any, was given to Gagnon prior to Plaintiff's alleged injury/accident with regard to how he was to perform the chain saw work at the premises.

ANSWER: See response to Interrogatory No. 11.

ANSWER: (a) thru (f): See summary of oral communication received from David Gagnon set forth in response to Interrogatory No. 9. Answering further, on information and belief, a few weeks after the subject occurrence Paul Dulberg did roofing work and moved heavy pieces of lumber for Mike Thomas, 460 Walbeck Drive, Twin Lakes, WI 53181 (312/961-9655). Investigation continues.

19. Do you know of any statements made by any person relating to the occurrence complained of by the plaintiff? If so, give the name and address of each such witness, the date of said statement, and state whether such statement was written and/or oral.

22. Had the Plaintiff ever used or operated a chain saw on the premises or for the Defendant's prior to his alleged accident. If so, state the dates and times such occurred.

ANSWER: Yes. In June 2011 Carolyn and Bill McGuire had a contractor take down a large tree on their property. The contractor left the fallen limbs. Subject: Findings and Conclusions for Dulberg v. Gagnon and McGuire

After reviewing the Depositions of Mr. Dulberg and Mr. Gagnon and the chainsaw owner's manual, the following observations and conclusions were made:

Mr. Dulberg was cut on the forearm (bottom) by a chainsaw while helping Mr. Gagnon limb a pine tree on the property of Mr. Gagnon's parents – Bill and Carol McGuire. While power tools such as this chainsaw make work more efficient, they carry hazards such as experienced in this incident. Manufacturers and retailers of power equipment go to great lengths to reduce the dangers associated with such equipment through training and warnings listed in owner's manuals. The chainsaw in this incident appears from a photograph to be a EFCO MT3500 purchased by the McGuires close to the date of the incident and probably was a new saw and probably equipped with an owner's manual. Depositions from both Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg indicated that they received no additional chainsaw training. Therefore, the owner's manual and their field experience were the primary sources of instructions for the safe use of the saw.

Mr. Gagnon was the only operator of the saw and, therefore, was responsible for its use. While the saw was appropriate for the tasks involved, there are safe and unsafe activities that could have taken place. The owner's manual shows 2 bar lengths for this saw – 14 and 16 inches. It appears that the McGuires chose the 16 inch bar. For the work involved, the shorter bars would have been safer and might have prevented or reduced the injury. It appears that Mr. Gagnon performed some unsafe acts which lead to Mr. Dulberg being cut. Also, Mr. and Mrs. McGuire who owned the saw apparently did not heed the warnings posted on page 2 of the owners manual which states: "Allow persons only who understand this manual to operate your chainsaw."

Cuts with chainsaws cause more damage than those caused by power or hand tools having a thinner blade such as that of a table saw. Chainsaws are designed to take out a "kerf" of about ¼ -inch, so if someone is cut, the sides of the cut are separated by this gap (or kerf) removing a chunk of meat and causing excessive bleeding and organ damage.

From the depositions, there is no mention of safety apparel – hard hat with ear and eye protection, safety chaps or pants nor safety gloves. (See page 7 of the owners manual for proper safety apparel.)

EXHIBIT I

Proper safety apparel may have eliminated or reduced the severity of the injury.

Mr. Gagnon and the McGuires' goal was to remove a tall pine tree (40 – 50 feet in height) in their yard without damaging their buildings. From depositions, Mr. Gagnon chose to delimb this tree as it stood in a vertical position. According to Mr. Dulberg, Mr. Gagnon did this by climbing and cutting off limbs as he climbed the tree using limb stubs as a ladder where he placed his feet. In the owner's manual on page 9, it tells to never cut limbs from a ladder or a tree and always cut from a firm foundation or platform. Not having seen the exact circumstances, it cannot be stated unequivocally, but my recommendations would have been to fell the tree first before trying to remove any limbs higher than could be reached safely from the ground. Once the tree has been felled on the ground, the secondary limbs could have been removed while the primary limbs were still attached to the main bole. Bucking the primary limbs into firewood lengths could also be done in a safer fashion with them attached to the bole. Doing the work in this fashion would have eliminated the conditions of where Mr. Dulberg was cut. From Mr. Gagnon's deposition, there was room to fell the pine tree with its described height.

The EFCO MT3500 has a number of features designed to operate it safely. The handle where the accelerator trigger is located has a throttle trigger lockout device that must be depressed before the engine can accelerate which means that Mr. Gagnon had a tight hold on the trigger handle when the saw accelerated before cutting Mr. Dulberg. Mr. Dulberg states in his deposition that he was holding the butt end of a primary limb, and Mr. Gagnon was removing the secondary limbs moving from the tip of that primary limb toward the butt. The accident occurred after Mr. Gagnon removed the last secondary limb and was moving toward him with the saw. The saw accelerated with the bar and chain moving upward contacting the bottom of Mr. Dulberg's arm.

There was no mention of the chain brake being used. The MT3500 has a lever mounted just forward of the front handle. This lever serves to stop and lock the cutting chain movement when pushed forward; when in the rear position, the chain travels freely on the bar. On page 8 of the owners manual, it is recommended that the chain brake be set whenever the operator moves from place to place. Also, the bar should be facing to the rear of the direction of travel so that the sawyer would not fall on the bar and chain if he were to trip and fall. This applies directly to this incident. If Mr. Gagnon had set his chain brake and/or put the bar in a rearward position as he finished cutting the last secondary limb, Mr. Dulberg would not have been cut.

The MT3500 comes with a saw chain designed to reduce kickback. Kickback is a violent upward action of a chainsaw bar when the chain on the upper quadrant of the bar's tip comes in contact with an object. While this chain does not completely eliminate kickback, it helps. It is assumed here that the chain supplied by the manufacturer had not been replaced. In addition, if the saw chain had come in contact with some object that caused a kickback, the chain brake would have instantly stopped the chain as the bar traveled vertically and Mr. Gagnon's hand activated the chain brake. This brake activation would probably have protected Mr. Dulberg. Therefore, it is doubtful that a kickback occurred.

Page 7 of the owner's manual recommends that other people (bystanders) be kept at least 35 feet from someone operating a chainsaw. This is because the chainsaw operator should be focusing his attention on his task, not bystanders. Chainsaws are noisy and anyone around them should be wearing ear protection thus muffling emergency calls for help. It is recommended that bright clothing be worn by all bystanders and operators to help operators see people who might inadvertently move into the danger zones. This distance of 35 feet may be a bit overcautious, but the intent is to keep bystanders beyond the reach of the saw, limbs or trees being cut. The operator is the person in control of his saw and responsible for whatever results from his cutting. When trees are being felled, bystanders should be beyond the height of the tree; 2 tree heights is the recommended distance. If this rule had been followed, Mr. Dulberg would not have been cut.

Page 7 of the owner's manual has some additional recommendations that might apply to this incident. Cutting with chainsaws is fatiguing even for professional sawyers who use their saws everyday. For the occasional operator, chainsaw work can be very exhaustive. In this incident, Mr. Gagnon not only used a chainsaw when he was not accustomed to using one, but he also climbed a tree and delimbed it as he climbed. By the time Mr. Gagnon stop limbing and started removing secondary limbs from the primary limbs, he must have been very fatigued even with frequent breaks as described by Mr. Dulberg. The warning of the owner's manual not to cut when fatigued is very important in that fatigue impairs judgment, reduces response time and probably impairs reflexive actions. Simply put, we make mistakes when we are tired.

Another factor of this incident may have been a loose chain. New saw chains stretch when first used. This saw was probably new; this may have been its first application. The owner's manual discussed how to tension the chain on page 17 and describes proper break-in of the chain. The chain should have been tightened after the engine had become warm and later after some use. A loose chain might jump off the bar. Pertinent to this incident was that a loose chain will not decelerate as fast as a properly tightened one. Without the chain brake engaged, the chain continues to travel along the bar until it naturally comes to a stop. Mr. Dulberg said he tried to move away from the saw chain but could not escape its travel path. With a properly tensioned chain, it may have stopped before contacting his arm or at least been traveling at a slower speed and caused less damage to his arm.

After the review of the above evidence, it is my opinion that Mr. Gagnon was fully responsible for this accident and his parents – the McGuires – were also somewhat responsible by letting their son, Mr. Gagnon, use their chainsaw – a potentially dangerous tool – without enforcing the warnings and instructions available in the owner's manual. Mr. Gagnon was in full control of the saw and Mr. Dulberg was his assistant. Mr. Gagnon could have prevented this accident by following the instructions given in the owner's manual. The instructions in the owner's manual are quite clear and unambiguous, and if followed, would have prevented this accident. Mr. Gagnon admits that he was relatively inexperienced in the use of chainsaws, and therefore, should have been more careful while using such a potentially dangerous tool.

DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S MOTION TO COMPEL PLAINTIFF TO ANSWER WRITTEN DISCOVERY

Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast ("Popovich"), by and through their attorneys, Karbal, Cohen, Economou, Silk & Dunne, LLC, for their motion to compel Plaintiff to answer written discovery, state as follows:

1) On November 28, 2017, Plaintiff Paul Dulberg ("Dulberg") filed a complaint for legal malpractice against Defendants, more than two years after Defendants withdrew their appearance for Dulberg in his personal injury action against Defendant David Gagnon in Dulberg v. Gagnon, Case No. 12 LA 178 in the Circuit Court of McHenry County, Illinois (the underlying complaint), which arose out of a chainsaw accident.

2) At the time of the original filing in the instant matter, Plaintiff was represented by the Gooch Law Firm, and the complaint against Popovich was signed by Thomas W. Gooch, III. (Complaint, Ex. A)

3) In ¶20 of Exhibit A, Dulberg invoked the "discovery rule" in an attempt to toll the two year statute of limitations for legal malpractice claims under 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3. He alleged that Mast and Popovich had provided Dulberg false and misleading information in connection with his settlement in the premises liability case with Gagnon's co-defendants, Bill and Carolyn McGuire in the premises liability case, and that Dulberg was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.

4) The Gooch firm withdrew from representing Dulberg in the instant case, and the Clinton Law Firm substituted as his counsel, with attorney Julia Williams as the primary handling attorney.

5) On December 6, 2018, Dulberg filed his second amended complaint in this case (Ex., B) filed by the Clinton Law Firm. As compared to Exhibit A, Dulberg's allegations regarding the "discovery" on his cause action against Popovich are slightly different. In ¶¶ 56 and 57 of his second amended complaint, Dulberg alleges that he did not learn that false and misleading information had been provided to him until the mediation in December 2016 based on the expert opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation.

6) Dulberg gave a discovery deposition in this case on February 19, 2020 (Ex. C). Dulberg was questioned about the "discovery" of his cause of action against Popovich and his law firm beginning on page 106 of his deposition (See also, page 108 where plaintiff Dulberg testified that his attorney at the time, Randy Boudin had told him to seek an independent opinion from an attorney that handles malpractice matters, and that Dulberg received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016 from Thomas Gooch.) Dulberg again confirmed that Gooch provided him with the legal opinion on December 16, at page 112 of his deposition. See also, pp. 113 and 114.

7) At Dulberg's deposition, Ms. Williams asserted the attorney-client privilege on behalf of her client relative to Gooch's advice in December 2016, but over the objection allowed

Dulberg to testify concerning the substantive the discussions. The substantive testimony was sparse and vague. At p. 126 of his deposition, Dulberg agreed that his discussion with any malpractice lawyer in December 2016 is responsive to interrogatory no. 1 from Hans Mast (Ex. D). At p. 127 of his deposition, Dulberg responded to the following question:

Q: How did you find out that Mast and Popovich breached the duty of care to you? Because Gooch told you, right?

A: Yes.

Q: That's what you've alleged here in this complaint.

A: Yes.

8) On July 2, Popovich served supplemental production requests aimed at Dulberg's discovery of the malpractice as alleged in December of 2016, including the following production requests. (Ex. E)

9) On July 30, 2020, Julia Williams, then Dulberg's counsel requested 28 days to respond to Popovich's supplemental request for production. Counsel for Popovich agreed, but then received notice of the Clinton Law Firm's motion to withdraw on August 18, 2020.

10) On September 10, 2020, this Honorable Court granted the Clinton Law firm's motion to withdraw as Dulberg's counsel. Dulberg currently has a pro se appearance filed on his own behalf.

11) The attorney-client privilege exists to encourage and promote full and frank consultation between a client and legal advisor by removing the fear of compelled disclosure of information. Waste Management, Inc. v. International Surplus Lines Ins. Co., 144 Ill. 2d 178, 190 (1991); Daily v. Greensfelder, Hemker & Gale, P.C., 2018 IL App (5th) 150384, ¶1122-23. However, it is not unconditional, and it is the privilege, not the duty to disclose, that is the exception. Id. Illinois adheres to a strong policy of encouraging disclosure, with an eye toward ascertaining that the truth which is essential to the proper disposition of a lawsuit. Center Partners, Ltd. v. Growth Head GP, LLC, 2012 IL 113107, ¶ 35; Daily, 2018 IL App (5th) 150384 at ¶ 23. Accordingly, "the privilege ought to be strictly confined within its narrowest possible limits." Waste Management, Inc., 144 Ill. 2d at 190; Daily, 2018 IL App (5th) 150384, ¶ 23.

While the Illinois Supreme Court has not had occasion to find an "at issue" exception to the attorney-client privilege, it has clearly recognized that such an exception exists where the client voluntarily injects into a case either a factual or legal issue, the truthful resolution of which requires examination of confidential communications. Center Partners, Ltd., 2012 IL 113107 at ¶ 35; Daily, 2018 IL App (5th) 150384 at Irri 24-25. The Illinois Supreme Court in Fischel & Kahn, Ltd. v. Van Straaten Gallery, Inc. illustrated that the test in determining whether the exception exists is whether or not the communications in question are necessary to resolve the truthfulness of a factual or legal issue that was introduced by the client holding the privilege. 189 Ill. 2d 579 (2000). Furthermore, when a plaintiff places at issue in a case the extent to which multiple attorneys representing it proximately caused its alleged damages, all communications between the plaintiff and its attorneys are discoverable "to truthfully resolve the factual and legal issues necessary to adjudicate the causation element of plaintiff's claims." Daily, 2018 IL App (5th) 150384 at ¶¶31- 32 (finding that the "at-issue" exception applied because "there is an issue of whether [plaintiffs' attorneys] contributed to the cause . . . and the relative contribution of each to the plaintiffs' damages").

12) In Lama v. Preskill, 353 Ill. App. 3d 300 (2nd Dist. 2004), the Plaintiff's husband met with an attorney 4 days after her medical procedure (in March 1999) that was the subject of a medical malpractice claim. The claim was untimely filed, and the doctor sought production of records relative to the husband's meeting with the attorney. The patient asserted that production would violate the attorney-client privilege. The court affirmed the trial court's finding that the privilege was waived when she voluntarily injected the statute of limitations issue into her case, alleging she did not discover her medical malpractice claim until June 1999. This case is on point and binding.

13) At pages 133-142 of his deposition, Dulberg admitted that he communicated in writing with Gooch regarding Popovich's breaches of the standard of care, and the bases for same.

14) Based on all of the above, Dulberg has placed the discovery of his malpractice claim "at issue" and must produce any and all communications which form the basis for his "discovery" of his malpractice claims, and the bases for his argument that the 2 year statute of limitations should be tolled.

WHEREFORE Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast, respectfully request that this Court grant their motion to compel Plaintiff to answer written discovery and produce requested documents and that Plaintiff be required to answer the outstanding written discovery and produce all documents requested in Exhibit D within 14 days of the presentation of this motion, deny any and all objections to said production, including any objection based on the attorney-client privilege, and for any and all further relief this Court deems just and appropriate.

4. That due to the actions and status of MAST in relation to POPOVICH, the actions and inactions of MAST are directly attributable to his employer, partnership, or principal, being THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPVICH, P.C.

5. Venue is therefore claimed proper in McHenry County, Illinois, as the Defendants transact substantial and regular business in and about McHenry County in the practice of law, where their office is located.

6. On or about June 28, 2011, your Plaintiff, DULBERG was involved in a horrendous accident, having been asked by his neighbors Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, in assisting a David Gagnon in the cutting down of a tree on the McGuire property. DULBERG lived in the neighborhood.

7. At this time, Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw he was using causing it to strike DULBERG. This caused substantial and catastrophic injuries to DULBERG, including but not limited to great pain and suffering, current as well as future medical expenses, in an amount in excess of $260,000.00, along with lost wages in excess of $250,000.00, and various other damages.

8. In May of 2012, DULBERG retained THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., pursuant to a written retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A.

9. A copy of the Complaint filed by MAST on his own behalf, and on behalf of DULBERG, is attached hereto as Exhibit B, and the allegations of that Complaint are fully incorporated into this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

10. An implied term of the retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, was that at all times, the Defendants would exercise their duty of due care towards their client and conform their acts and actions within the standard of care every attorney owes his client.

11. That as Exhibit B reveals, Defendants property filed suit against not only the operator of the chain saw, but also his principals, Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, who purportedly were supervising him in his work on the premises.

12. At the time of filing of the aforesaid Complaint, MAST certified pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 137, that he had made a diligent investigation of the facts and circumstances around the Complaint he filed, and further had ascertained the appropriate law. MAST evidently believed a very good and valid cause of action existed against Caroline McGuire and William McGuire.

13. The matter proceeded through the normal stages of litigation until sometime in late 2013 or early 2014, when MAST met with DULBERG and other family members and advised them there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and told DULBERG he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuire's for the sum of $5,000.00. DULBERG, having no choice in the matter, reluctantly agreed with MAST and to accept the sum of $5,000.00 releasing not only William and Caroline McGuire, but also Auto-Owners Insurance Company from any further responsibility or liability in the matter. A copy of the aforesaid general release and settlement agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

14. MAST and POPOVICH continued to represent DULBERG through to and including March of 2015, following which DULBERG and the Defendants terminated their relationship.

15. Continuously throughout the period of representation, MAST and POPOVICH represented repeatedly to DULBERG there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and lulled DULBERG into believing that the matter was being properly handled. Then, due to a claimed failure of communication, MAST and POPOVICH withdrew from the representation of DULBERG.

16. Thereafter, DULBERG retained other attorneys and proceeded to a binding mediation before a retired Circuit Judge, where DULBERG received a binding mediation award of $660,000.00 in gross, and a net award of $561,000.00. Unfortunately, a "high-low agreement" had been executed by DULBERG, reducing the maximum amount he could recover to $300,000.00 based upon the insurance policy available. The award was substantially more than that sum of money, and could have been recovered from McGuire's had they not been dismissed from the Complaint. A copy of the aforesaid Mediation Award is attached hereto as Exhibit D.

17. The McGuire's were property owners and had property insurance covering injuries or losses on their property, as well as substantial personal assets, including the property location where the accident took place at 1016 West Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, Illinois. McGuire's were well able to pay all, or a portion of the binding mediation award had they still remained parties.

18. DULBURG, in his relationship with POPOVICH and MAST, cooperated in all ways with them, furnishing all necessary information as required, and frequently conferred with them.

19. Until the time of the mediation award, DULBURG had no reason to believe he could not recover the full amount of his injuries, based on POPOVICH'S and MAST'S representations to DULBERG that he could recover the full amount of his injuries from Gagnon, and that the inclusion of the McGuire's would only complicate the case.

20. Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the "high-low agreement" contained therein, and the final mediation award, DULBURG realized for the first time that the information MAST and POPOVICH had given DULBERG was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuire's was a serious and substantial mistake. Following the mediation, DULBERG was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling Legal Malpractice matters, and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.

21. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBURG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:

a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuire's) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG;

b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

c) Failed to conduct necessary discovery, so as to fix the liability of the property owners to DULBERG;

d) Failed to understand the law pertaining to a property owner's rights, duties and responsibilities to someone invited onto their property;

e) Improperly urged DULBURG to accept a nonsensical settlement from the property owners, and dismissed them from all further responsibility;

f) Failed to appreciate and understand further moneys could not be received as against Gagnon, and that the McGuire's and their obvious liability were a very necessary party to the litigation;

g) Falsely advised DULBURG throughout the period of their representation, that the actions taken regarding the McGuire's was proper in all ways and respects, and that DULBURG had no choice but to accept the settlement;

Received 11-28-2017 04:31 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-29-2017 09:53 AM / Transaction #17111117451 / Case #17LA000377

h) Failed to properly explain to DULBURG all ramifications of accepting the McGuire settlement, and giving him the option of retaining alternative counsel to review the matter;

i) Continually reassured DULBURG that the course of action as to the property owners was proper and appropriate;

j) Were otherwise negligent in their representation of DULBERG, concealing from him necessary facts for DULBURG to make an informed decision as to the McGuire's, instead coercing him into signing a release and settlement agreement and accept a paltry sum of $5,000.00 for what was a grievous injury.

22. That DULBERG suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of MAST and POPOVICH in urging DULBURG to release the McGuire's, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of MAST and THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.

WHEREFORE, your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG prays this Honorable Court to enter judgment on such verdict as a jury of twelve (12) shall return, together with the costs of suit and such other and further relief as may be just, all in excess of the jurisdictional minimums of this Honorable Court.

B. Relevant Facts

6. On or about June 28, 2011, Dulberg assisted Caroline McGuire ("Caroline"), William McGuire ("Williams") (Caroline and William collectively referred to herein as "the McGuires"), and David Gagnon ("Gagnon") in cutting down a tree on the McGuire's property.

7. Dulberg lives in the next neighborhood over from the McGuire family.

8. Caroline McGuire and William McGuire are a married couple, who own real property in McHenry, McHenry County, Illinois ("the Property").

9. David Gagon is Caroline's son and William's stepson.

10. On June 28, 2011, at the Property, Gagnon was operating a chainsaw to remove branches from a tree and cut it down on the Property.

11. The McGuire's purchased and owned the chainsaw that was being utilized to trim, remove branches, and cut down the tree.

12. Dulberg was invited to the McGuire's property to see if he wanted any of the wood from the tree.

13. William physically assisted with cutting down the tree and, then, later supervised Gagnon's actions.

14. Caroline supervised Gagnon's and William's actions.

15. Gagnon and the McGuires asked Dulberg to assist with trimming and removal of the tree.

16. Gagnon was acting on behalf of Caroline and William and at their direction.

17. Caroline, William, and Gagnon all knew or show have known that a chainsaw was dangerous and to take appropriate precautions when utilizing the chain saw.

18. The safety information was readily available to Caroline and William as the safety instructions are included with the purchase of the chainsaw.

19. It is reasonably foreseeable that the failure to take appropriate caution and safety measures could result in serious injury.

20. The likelihood of injury when not properly utilizing the chainsaw or not following the safety precautions is very high.

21. The safety instructions outlined are easy to follow and do not place a large burden on the operator of the chainsaw or the owner of the property.

22. Caroline, William, and Gagnon had a duty to exercise appropriate caution and follow the safety instructions for the chainsaw.

23. Caroline, William, and Gagnon breached that duty by either not exercising appropriate care, failing to follow the safety instructions, or failing to instruct Gagnon to exercise appropriate care and/or follow the safety instructions.

24. Caroline and William, owners of the property and the chainsaw, instructed Gagnon to use the chain saw despite Gagnon not being a trained in operating the chainsaw.

25. Gagnon was operating the chain saw in close proximity to Dulberg.

26. Neither Gagnon nor Dulberg were provided protective equipment when operating or assisting with operating the chainsaw.

27. Gagnon failed to utilize the chainsaw in compliance with the safety measures outlined in the owner's manual.

28. Caroline and William failed to instruct and require that Gagnon utilize the chainsaw only in compliance with the safety measures outlined in the owner's manual.

29. Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw that he was using and it struck Dulberg in the right arm, cutting him severely.

30. Dulberg incurred substantial and catastrophic injuries, including, but not limited to, pain and suffering, loss of use of his right arm, current and future medical expenses in amount in excess of $260,000, lost wages in excess of $250,000, and other damages.

31. In May 2012, Dulberg hired Mast and Popovich to represent him in prosecuting his claims against Gagnon and the McGuires. Exhibit A.

32. Mast and Popovich, on behalf of Dulberg filed a complaint against Gagnon and the McGuires. Exhibit B.

33. Mast and Popovich entered into an attorney client relationship with Dulberg.

34. Based upon the attorney client relationship, Mast and Popovich owed professional duties to Dulberg, including to a duty of care.

35. On behalf of Dulberg, Mast and Popovich prosecuted claims against both Gagnon and the McGuire's.

36. The claims against Gagnon were resolved later through binding mediation with new counsel.

37. The claims against the McGuires included (a) common law premises liability, (b) statutory premises liability, (c) common law negligence, and (d) vicarious liability for the acts of their son and agent.

Received 12-07-2018 03:38 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-10-2018 01:03 PM / Transaction #3126388 / Case #17LA000377

38. In late 2013 or early, Mast urged Dulberg to settle the claims against the McGuire's for $5,000.

39. On November 18, 2013, Mast wrote two emails to Dulberg urging Dulberg to accept the $5,000.00, "the McGuire's atty has offered us (you) $5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only. As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery...." * * * "So if we do not accept their $5,000 they will simply file a motion and get out of the case for free. That's the only other option is letting them file motion getting out of the case". (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

40. Similarly, on November 20, 2013, Mast emailed Dulberg urging him to accept the $5,000.00 otherwise "the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion." (See Emails attached as Group Exhibit C.)

41. On or around December 2013 or January 2014, Mast met with Dulberg and again advised them there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and verbally told Dulberg that he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuires for the sum of $5,000.00 and if he did not, he would get nothing.

42. During that same time frame, Mast advised Dulberg that the Restatement of Torts 318 was the only mechanism to recover from the McGuires and that Illinois did not recognize the Restate of Torts 318, thus Dulberg did not have any viable claims against the McGuires.

43. Mast failed to advise or inform Dulberg of other basis for recovery against the McGuires.

Received 12-07-2018 03:38 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-10-2018 01:03 PM / Transaction #3126388 / Case #17LA000377

44. Based upon Mast's erroneously advice that Dulberg's claims against the McGuire's were not viable and that Dulberg would not recover if he pursued the claims, Dulberg settled with the McGuire's and their insurance company, Auto-Owners Insurance Company, for $5,000, which included a release of all claims against the McGuire's and claim for indemnification under the McGuire's insurance policy. Exhibit D (Settlement).

45. Mast also told Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was limited to $100,000.

46. From 2013 forward, Mast and Popovich represented repeatedly to Dulberg that there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and led Dulberg to believe that the matter was being properly handled.

47. Mast also reassured Dulberg that Dulberg would be able to receive the full amount of any eventual recovery from Gagnon.

48. After accepting the $5,000 settlement, Dulberg wrote Mast an email on January 29, 2014 stating "I trust your judgment." (See Email attached as Exhibit E.)

49. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Dulberg into 2015 and continuously assured him that his case was being handled properly.

50. The McGuires owned their home, had homeowner's insurance, and had other property that could have been utilized to pay a judgment against them and in favor of Dulberg.

51. Dulberg cooperated with and appropriately assisted Mast and Popovich in prosecuting the claims against Gagnon and the McGuires.

52. In December of 2016, Dulberg participated in binding mediation related to his claims against Gagnon.

Received 12-07-2018 03:38 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-10-2018 01:03 PM / Transaction #3126388 / Case #17LA000377

53. In December of 2016, Dulberg was awarded a gross amount of $660,000 and a net award of $561,000 after his contributory negligence was considered.

54. Dulberg was only able to recovery approximately $300,000 of the award from Gagnon's insurance and was unable to collect from Gagnon personally.

55. Only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon did he discover that his claims against the McGuires were viable and valuable.

56. Following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake.

57. It was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation, that Dulberg became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000.00 on an "all or nothing" basis.

58. Mast and Popovich, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed Dulberg by violating the standard of care owed Dulberg in the following ways and respects:

a) failed to fully and properly investigate the claims and/or basis for liability against the McGuires;

b) failed to properly obtain information through discovery regarding McGuires assets, insurance coverages, and/or ability to pay a judgement and/or settlement against them;

c) failed to accurately advise Dulberg of the McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance coverage related to the claims against them and/or Dulberg's ability to recover through McGuires'and Gagnon's insurance policies, including, but not limited to, incorrectly informing

Received 12-07-2018 03:38 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 12-10-2018 01:03 PM / Transaction #3126388 / Case #17LA000377

Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was "only $100,000" and no insurance compnay would pay close to that;

d) failed to take such actions as were necessary during their respective representation of Dulberg to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed and/or were principals of Gagnon, and who sought the assistance Dulberg by for example failing to obtain an expert;

e) failed to accurately advise Dulberg regarding the McGuires' liability, likelihood of success of claims against the McGuires, the McGuires' ability pay any judgment or settlement against them through insurance or other assets, and/or necessity of prosecuting the all the claims against both the McGuires and Gagnon in order to obtain a full recovery;

f) Coerced Dulberg, verbally and though emails, into accepting a settlement with the McGuires for $5,000 by misleading Dulberg into believing that he had no other choice but to accept the settlement or else "The McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion."

59. As a direct result of Mast and Popovich's wrongful actions, Dulberg suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of Mast and Popovich in urging Dulberg to release the McGuires, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of Mast and The Law Offices of Thomas Popovich, P.C.

WHEREFORE, your Plaintiff, Paul Dulberg prays this Honorable Court to enter judgment on such verdict as a jury of twelve (12) shall return, together with the costs of suit and such other and further relief as may be just, all in excess of the jurisdictional minimums of this Honorable Court.

Morning Hans,
Ok we can meet. I will call Sheila today and set up a time.
Please send me a link to the current Illinois statute citing that the property owner is not liable for work done on their property resulting in injury to a neighbor.
I need to read it myself and any links to recent case law in this area would be helpful as well.
Thanks,
Paul

The legality of it all is that a property owner does not have legal liability for a worker (whether friend, son or otherwise) who does the work on his time, using his own independent skills. Here, I deposed the McGuires, and they had nothing to do with how Dave did the work other than to request the work to be done. They had no control on how Dave wielded the chain saw and cut you. its that simple. We don't have to accept the $5,000, but if we do not, the McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion. So that's the situation.

Just because Dave was doing the work doesn't mean they were not trying to tell their kid what to do. They told him plenty of times throughout the day what to do. How is that not supervising?

They all left me out in the yard screaming for help while they were busy making sure they were covered.

She even went as far as to finally call the Emergency Room after I was already there just to tell me she was covered.

How selfish are people when they worry about if their insured over helping the person who was hurt and bleeding badly in their yard.

I'm glad she got her answer and had to share it with me only to find out her coverage won't even pay the medical bills.

I'm not happy with the offer.

As far as John Choyinski, he knows he has to call you and said he will tomorrow.

Im waiting to hear from John. I tried calling him last week, but no one answered.

In addition, the McGuire's atty has offered us (you) $5,000 in full settlement of the claim against the McGuires only. As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now. You probably won't see any of it due to liens etc. but it will offset the costs deducted from any eventual recovery....

Let me know what you think..

Hans,
Just spoke with John Choyinski again about talking with you.
I am leaving your number with him as he has agreed to talk with you about David Gagnon.
I believe he will try and call sometime tomorrow.
Paul
Oh and I know that nothing that happened right after the incident makes any difference as to the validity of the injuries but David's conduct immediately after the incident does show his lack of moral values for other humans and what he was willing and was not willing to do to help me get medical help. For his actions towards me or any other human being is enough to sue the shit out him alone. It is the things that happened afterwards that upset me the most.
Sorry for the rant but Dave was a complete ass all the way and deserves this.

Ok, it's signed and in the mail.
Hope that some yahoo in the govt. doesn't someday decide to go after everyone they think they might get a dollar out of and end up holding me responsible for the McGuires fees incurred while they fight it out.
I'm not in the business of warranting, insuring or protecting the McGuires from government. Especially for only 5 grand. For that kind of protection it could cost millions but I trust your judgement.

And yes I am and have been looking for someone who will take this case...

The issue of my word vs David Gagnons... Did he cut me or did I cut myself?

Of ccarse he cut me.

I've been telling you over a year now the problems with the case and you just don't see them. You keep telling me how injured you are and completely ignore that it doesn't matter if you passed away from the accident because we still have to prove that the defendant was at fault. While you think it is very clear - it is not. My guess is that seven out of 10 times you will lose the case outright. That means zero. That's why I have been trying to convince you to agree to a settlement. You clearly do not want to. There's only $100,000 in coverage. Allstate will never offer anything near the policy limits therefore there's no chance to settle the case. The only alternative is to take the case to trial and I am not interested in doing that. I will wait for you to find a new attorney. I can't assist you any further in this case. Just let me know.

PAUL DULBERG,

called as the plaintiff herein, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

EXAMINATION

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. Let the record reflect that this is the discovery deposition of Paul Dulberg taken by agreement of the parties and pursuant to notice.

This deposition is being taken pursuant to the Rules of the Illinois Supreme Court, the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure and any applicable local rules in McHenry County.

Sir, could you state your name and spell your last name for the record.

A. Palm Dulberg, D-u-l-b-e-r-g.

Q. What is your address?

A. 4606 Hayden Court, McHenry, Illinois 60051.

Q. How long have you lived there?

A. Forty-nine years.

Q. Who do you live there with now?

A. Mike McArtor.

Q. Did your mother live there at some point throughout the history of this case?

A. Yes.

Q. I'm just going to go over a few rules for the deposition. I know you've testified at least one time in a deposition before because you testified in the underlying personal injury case, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Have you testified in any other depositions before?

A. No.

Q. I'll just remind you of a few rules that I'm sure you were aware of back then when you gave your deposition.

The court reporter is here to take down everything that you and I say. She can only take down one at a time so I'd ask that before you answer a question, let me finish the entire question. Okay?

A. Yes.

Q. I'll try to do the same. I'll try to let you respond before I ask a follow-up question.

You just nodded your head. That's another good point to make. She can't take down nods of the head, shrugs of the shoulders or other hand gestures. Your answers need to be verbal.

From time to time we forget those rules and I may just point to the court reporter as a reminder, if that's okay.

A. Yes.

Q. If you need to take a break at any time, feel free to stop me. I just ask that it's not while a question is pending that has not been answered. Fair enough?

A. I'll try to do that.

Q. If you've answered a question, I will assume you understood it. Okay?

A. Yes.

Q. I was asking you about your mother. She lived at the house during the pendency of the underlying case?

A. Yes.

Q. Is she still alive?

A. Yes.

MS. WILLIAMS: Can we define "underlying case"?

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. The underlying case is a personal injury

Page 6

case that you filed against Bill and Caroline McGuire and David Gagnon.

A. That sounds correct.

Q. We'll get into the dates of the filing a little bit later. We'll call that, generally, the underlying case.

Your mother lived at the house at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. Did she own the house?

A. No.

Q. Do you own the house currently?

A. Yes.

Q. Does anyone else own the house?

A. No.

Q. How long have you owned it?

A. I think I first purchased it off my parents in '97, '98, something like that.

Q. Did you hire a lawyer in connection with that transaction?

A. No.

Q. Were your parents represented by a lawyer?

A. No.

Page 7

Q. The building, as I understand it, is a duplex; is that right?

A. No.

Q. Were there two apartments in the building at one time?

A. No.

Q. Was there a point in time where you and your mother lived in one half of the house and Mike McArtor lived in the other half?

A. Yes.

Q. How was that arrangement with respect to the location of the living spaces, if you can describe it?

A. It has a walkout basement. He had the downstairs with an exit out the back. We had the upstairs with an exit out the front.

Q. Have you ever been convicted of a crime of fraud, dishonesty or deceit?

A. No.

Q. Besides the hiring of the Popovich firm in connection with the underlying personal injury case, up to that point in time had you ever had an occasion to hire a lawyer?

A. I did during a traffic accident, and I don't remember the year.

Q. Were you injured in about 2002? Does that sound right?

A. Roughly.

Q. Who did you hire?

A. I might get the name wrong because it's been a long time. I think it was Weiss and Michling and something else. It was a lawyer right outside the courthouse in Woodstock.

Q. A McHenry County lawyer?

A. Yeah.

Q. It was a personal injury case?

A. Yeah. It was a car accident.

Q. Did you file a lawsuit in that case?

A. I don't think we needed to.

Q. You just filed an insurance claim?

A. They did, yes.

Q. You settled it?

A. Yes.

Q. Any other occasions to hire a lawyer between that time and the time you hired the Popovich firm?

A. May I consult for a minute because I'm not sure how to answer that.

Page 9

Q. Why don't you just tell me why you can't answer it.
A. Because I've hired lawyers, but they were for the company that I had. That's different.
Q. I'm asking general questions about any interaction you've had with hiring lawyers. Any experience you've had with hiring lawyers.
A. I had a corporate lawyer. My mom and dad hired a lawyer for me when I was a kid. It was something. And myself, just the corporate lawyer, the car accident lawyer and the Popovich firm.
Q. Have you ever been married?
A. No.
Q. So you never hired a divorce lawyer. Good. How old are you now?
A. Forty-nine.
Q. The underlying case arose out of an injury that occurred on June 28, 2011, correct?
A. That sounds correct.
Q. How old were you at that time?
A. Forty-one.
Q. Besides the underlying lawsuit against the McGuires and Mr. Gagnon, had you ever filed any other lawsuit up until that point in time?

Page 10

A. No.
Q. Have you filed any lawsuits since that time besides the lawsuit against Popovich and Mast?
A. No.
Q. Do you have any military experience?
A. Yes.
Q. Please tell me about that.
A. Army National Guard. Illinois Army National Guard.
Q. How long have you been in the National Guard?
A. I'm not currently in it.
Q. When were you, from when to when?
A. I may not get the year correct. '88 or '89 to '92 or '93, somewhere in there.
Q. What was your highest rank when you were discharged from the National Guard?
A. When I was discharged?
Q. Correct.
A. I don't know. I've gotten moved up and moved down. I don't know where I ended up.
Q. How was it that you were discharged?
A. Less than honorable.
Q. What was the cause?

Page 11

A. I missed morning call, roll call. If you're not there, you're AWOL.
Q. Absent without leave?
A. Yes.
Q. What is the highest level of education that you've attained?
A. I do not have a degree. Two years of college.
Q. You graduated from high school?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that in Johnsburg in 1988?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you know Mr. Gagnon from Johnsburg High School?
A. Not from high school but just after high school.
Q. Just coincidentally you attended the same high school?
A. He was three years older than I was. I didn't know who he was until after high school.
Q. You had some education after high school but did not receive a degree, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Where did you study?

Page 12

A. I had a couple classes at McHenry County College and McMurray College.
Q. What did you study?
A. The first two years. The basics.
Q. General studies?
A. Yeah. I did a criminal justice course. I did a macro/microeconomics. I did psychology, sociology. The normal stuff.
Q. How did you meet David Gagnon?
A. Through a mutual friend.
Q. When was that?
A. I want to say, roughly, 1990.
Q. Was your home located somewhere fairly close to his parents' home or his mom and stepdad's home?
A. Two streets away.
Q. That's where you were injured on June 28, 2011, was at David Gagnon's mom's house and his stepdad's house?
A. Yes.
Q. And their name is McGuire?
A. Yes.
Q. Generally speaking, you were injured assisting David with a chainsaw trying to cut down a tree?

A. He was cutting a branch.
Q. Cutting branches off a tree, correct?
A. Cutting up the branches after they were off the tree.
Q. Could you tell me a little bit about your work history. Do you have any licenses or certifications?
A. I'm certified to run printing presses. Or at least I was.
Q. You worked for Sharp Printing, Inc. from '91 to 2011; is that right?
A. Ninety-one? No. I would say 1999.
Q. Did you own that corporation?
A. Yes. Well, partner. I was a partner. I didn't own like...
Q. It was an Illinois corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you –
A. A stockholder.
Q. Let me just finish my question so she can take us down.
You were a stockholder in Sharp Printing, Inc.?

Page 14

A. Yes.
Q. Who else were the stockholders?
A. Mike McArtor and Scott Dulberg and at that time it was Herbert Dulberg.
Q. What does that mean? Do you mean Scott's name was Herbert?
A. No. Scott Dulberg was an owner and Herbert Dulberg was an owner. Three different Dulbergs: me, my brother, my dad.
Q. And Mike McArtor?
A. Yes.
Q. There were four owners at what time?
A. Until my dad died and then it went to three.
Q. Was that business incorporated?
A. Yes.
Q. Did a lawyer assist the corporation with setting up the corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. When did that happen?
A. 1999.
Q. Did you hire the lawyer yourself?
A. All three of us did. All four of us. Sorry.

Page 15

Q. What was the name of that attorney?
A. McAndrews, and I don't remember the rest of it. It was McAndrews in McHenry. I can get you the rest of that information.
Q. They are based in Crystal Lake, Illinois?
A. It used to be in McHenry when we did that.
Q. Patrick McAndrews, he was also identified as the registered agent of that corporation?
A. Yes.
Q. It was voluntarily dissolved on April 8, 2011; is that right?
A. That's what the Secretary of State's Office has, yes.
Q. Is that your understanding as well?
A. I was corrected. My partners – I was corrected. It was actually after the accident. How it got to end up with that date, I'm not sure.
Q. What was corrected, exactly?
A. Well, do you want me to – Mike read my deposition and he said, "You got that wrong." I said, "What do you mean?" because I answered it twice in that deposition.
I was thinking that Juskie happened before the accident. Sharp Printing wasn't actually dissolved until after the accident when we decided to sell off the equipment and end it all. That's the honest truth.

Q. I will represent to you that the Illinois Secretary of State's Website as of today shows that the company was involuntarily dissolved on April 8, 2011. So it's your testimony that that is not true?
A. I don't know how they come up with that.
Q. Why don't we break it down and start with why the corporation was involuntarily dissolved. Do you know that?
A. Involuntarily? I don't know. It may be that I was late on paying the corporate licensing thing, which we just pay a fine and did it. We didn't renew it because we decided to end it.
We had a ten-year thing, I think, on it. I may be wrong. I've got to go back and look at the records.
Q. Is it possible that the corporation was actually involuntarily dissolved by the Illinois Secretary of State on April 8, 2011?
A. Sure.
Q. Did Sharp Printing, Inc. file corporate tax returns while it was a going concern?

A. We had a problem the couple of years before the accident because I was not up in Illinois and I usually did that with the lawyer and the accountant and things got screwed up while I was taking care of a loved one who was dying down in Florida.
Q. Did the corporation ever file tax returns?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. When did they file?
A. Quarterly and annually.
Q. Until what year?
A. Roughly somewhere in 2008. I was missing things because I was not here. I know we missed a few.
Q. I believe you testified in your underlying deposition that Sharp Printing, Inc. was not dissolved as a result of your June 28, 2011 chainsaw accident, correct?
A. Yes, I did. I stood corrected by my partners.
Q. So is it your testimony that the corporation was dissolved because of your personal injury?

A. I don't know how to answer that without going back and looking at records.
Q. Was the company winding down up until about the time you were hurt?
A. The company books got screwed up when I was down in Florida and I was back up in Illinois in 2010 getting back on my feet and I was going to pick things back up, get everything paid up, the fines and everything.
Q. Who were you taking care of in Florida?
A. My grandmother.
Q. You were gone from when until when?
A. I want to say from the mid to end of 2007 until somewhere in the beginning of 2010.
Q. Was anyone running Sharp Printing during that period of time?
A. Mike McArtor.
Q. Did Sharp Printing have any customers for that three-year period?
A. Yes, they did.
Q. How many?
A. I'm not sure, without looking at the books.

Page 19

Q. Can you estimate what the yearly revenues were for Sharp Printing in the year 2007?
A. In 2007? I'd have to look at the books, to be honest with you.
Q. Was it more than $5,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it more than $100,000?
A. No.
Q. Was it more than $20,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Same line of questioning with respect to 2008. Do you know what the revenues were for Sharp Printing in '08?
A. Are you asking me what we reported or what we made and put into accounts for equipment?
Q. I'm asking you about revenues.
A. Total sales?
Q. Total revenues.
A. In two thousand...?
Q. 2008.
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Can you estimate what they were?
A. No, because I wasn't there.
Q. Do you know how many customers the company had in 2008?

A. We had a few, I know that. I don't know how many. Mike was handling it and it got messed up.
Q. What types of customers did Sharp Printing have in 2007 and 2008?
A. What kind of customers?
Q. Right. What did you do?
A. We printed on t-shirts. We printed on CDs. We printed on anything that wasn't wet. We printed on glass, all different stuff.
Q. Were there any full-time employees of Sharp Printing in '07 and '08?
A. In '07 and '08, no.
Q. Just the owners?
A. Just the owners.
Q. Did all the owners operate the business?
A. Yes.
Q. Including your brother?
A. Yes.
Q. What were the yearly revenues of Sharp Printing in 2009?
A. I don't know.
Q. What about 2010, do you know?

Page 21

A. No.
Q. When did Sharp Printing start selling its equipment?
A. I put up the ad in August. I think August. I might be off by a month or two. August of 2011.
Q. Did you sell any equipment prior to August 2011?
A. No.
Q. What type of equipment did Sharp Printing, Inc. have or own?
A. Mostly textile screen printing equipment, but we had other screen printing stuff too. Paper.
Q. Where was the equipment located?
A. My home.
Q. Did you require a license to conduct this business out of your home?
A. We had what was called a temporary – we're in a rural area so we didn't have to have that.
Q. In any event, you didn't have a license, correct?
A. We had a license to do business there, yes.

Page 22

Q. In that location?
A. Yes.
Q. Did customers ever come to the shop?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall how many customers the business had in 2010?
A. Not in 2010.
Q. Was it more than five?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it more than 100?
A. It might be around that. I don't know, specifically.
Q. In 2010 you may have had 100 customers that you did t-shirt screen prints for?
A. Possibly. I'm not saying that is the number, but it's possible.
Q. Did Sharp Printing have any customers in 2011?
A. Mike was finishing up one customer's thing in the spring of 2011, yes. We don't – I'll give you – we don't typically get much work between January 1st and the first warm days of Spring. We sell t-shirts and not a lot of people buy during that period. They just don't.

Page 23

Q. You did not earn a salary from Sharp Printing, correct?
A. No.
Q. You did not earn an hourly wage, correct?
A. No.
Q. I think your interrogatory answers indicate you didn't take a profit or a draw, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. How much, if any, money did you earn from Sharp Printing in 2011?
A. Can I ask how to define that? In 2011 I didn't pull any.
Q. Did you earn any income whatsoever from Sharp Printing in 2010?
A. I don't think so.
Q. You were down in Florida for '07 to 2010?
A. Sometime in early 2010, yes.
Q. Did you earn any income from Sharp Printing from 2007 to 2010?
A. No.
Q. Were you working in Florida?
A. No.
Q. Is it fair to say you were unemployed

from 2007 to 2010?
A. Yes. I was not officially collecting unemployment.
Q. You weren't an employee of any business or working for any individual, correct?
A. I did do some work for Mark. I did some traveling back and forth from Florida to Illinois back and forth during that time. When I was up here, I did do some work for Juskie Printing. Not much, though.
Q. What is Juskie Printing?
A. Juskie Printing is another one that I had listed as an employer in the underlying case.
Q. What are they?
A. Another print broker.
Q. Where are they located?
A. I don't know the exact address, but it's off of Chicago Avenue off of 355 going south.
MS. WILLIAMS: I think he's asking what city.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know how the cities break up down there.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Somewhere in the western suburbs of

Page 25

Chicago?
A. Yes.
Q. How long did you have a relationship with Juskie Printing?
A. Since the early 2000s.
Q. What type of printing did Juskie do?
A. Offset, mostly.
Q. What does that mean?
A. Prints on paper.
Q. Did you have a set schedule at any time working for Juskie?
A. I don't know what you mean by "a set schedule."
Q. Did you have a particular number of hours per week?
A. No. The jobs I got were project based.
Q. How many projects did you have from 2007 to 2011 for Juskie?
A. Probably a few hundred quick little things, yeah. At least.
Q. Do you know what you earned from working at Juskie in 2007?
A. Not without looking at the returns, I don't know offhand.

Page 26

Q. How often were you in the Chicago area in 2007?
A. I didn't leave here until, I want to say, August or September of '07.
Q. And then thereafter?
A. I was not back that year.
Q. You didn't work for Juskie in 2008, correct?
A. I might have done some stuff.
Q. You're not sure?
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Were you in Florida?
A. Part of the time, yeah.
Q. How often did you come back and forth between –
A. About every three months I tried to get back up here.
Q. For how long?
A. Sometimes a few weeks. Sometimes a month.
Q. Did you come back and work or did you take care of other things?
A. If I'd let Mark know I was back, "I've got something for you or I don't."

Page 27

Q. Who is Mark?
A. Mark owns Juskie Printing.
Q. I think your interrogatory answers indicated from 1999 through 2006 you were employed in a barter situation; is that right?
A. With Mark, yes.
Q. What does that mean, exactly?
A. Well, he would owe me money and he would give me printing equipment instead of cash.
Q. He owed you money for working for him?
A. Well, he owed both Sharp Printing and me, personally, money. They are two different things. But he would just pay by saying, hey, I've got this or I've got this paper cutter or this or that. It was a barter.
Q. So you worked for him from 1999 to 2006 but did not earn any income in the traditional sense?
A. No money changed hands.
Q. He gave you things to pay you for projects?
A. Correct.
Q. You gave a deposition in the underlying case on January 24, 2013. Does that sound right?

Page 28

A. If it says it on there, yes.
Q. You took an oath that day?
A. Yes.
Q. You told the truth?
A. I tried to, to the best of my knowledge, on that day, yes.
Q. You told the truth in response to all of the questions that day, correct?
A. I tried to, yes.
Q. You testified you were last employed prior to the accident in May of 2011?
A. That would be with Juskie, yes.
Q. It's accurate –
A. Actually, I wasn't employed. I was a 1099 so I was self-employment.
Q. When in May did you stop working for Juskie, whether it be as an employee or an independent contractor?
A. I believe it was the end of May.
Q. Then from the beginning of June until your accident on June 28, 2011, you were not employed; is that an accurate statement?
A. Correct.
Q. You were not even acting as an independent contractor for any business from that period of time, correct?

Page 29

A. Not during that month, no.
Q. Your deposition testimony from 2013 is typed up on 175 pages. I don't intend to go back over each of those details.
A. Okay.
Q. It's fair to say you were injured, your arm was injured on June 28, 2011, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Which arm was that?
A. My right arm.
Q. As a result of the injury, you hired the Popovich law firm to explore a recovery in the case?
A. I hired them to represent me, yes.
Q. You hired them to represent you and file a lawsuit against David Gagnon who was operating the chainsaw that injured you, correct?
A. He was one of them, yes.
Q. I'm asking you if you hired him to – listen to the question, please.
David Gagnon was operating the chainsaw, correct?
A. Correct.

Page 30

Q. No one else was operating the chainsaw?
A. Correct.
Q. You also hired Popovich to sue Bill and Caroline McGuire, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. They were the land owners where your accident occurred?
A. They did own the land, yes.
Q. The accident occurred at their house, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. This was in the backyard, so to speak?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans Mast was the primary handling attorney at the Popovich firm for your case?
A. That's who I met with, yes.
Q. Did any other lawyer communicate with you while Popovich was handling your case?
A. The lady who sat in on my deposition. Ms. Freeman I think it is. I'm not sure about that.
Q. Generally speaking, Hans Mast, though, was the primary handling attorney?
A. Yes.
Q. Before you hired the Popovich firm in May of 2012, is that the correct time period?

Page 31

A. I don't think so. I don't think they filed it until then, but I might be wrong. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Was there a retainer agreement executed in May 2012?
A. I don't think I paid a retainer.
Q. Did you execute an attorney engagement agreement in May 2012?
A. I believe it was much earlier than that.
Q. You only executed one engagement letter or engagement agreement with Popovich, correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. Before you executed or came to an arrangement with Popovich, had you talked to any other lawyers about investigating –
A. One.
Q. Let me finish the question.
– investigating or filing the lawsuit?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that?
A. I went back to the same firm that handled the car accident for me years earlier.
Q. What was the name of that firm?

Page 32

A. They changed names when I went back there. It was Weiss – I have to go back through paperwork and get you the actual name.
Q. They are known as a personal injury firm; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you not hire them to take your case?
A. The man who handled my case previously with the car accident was no longer with the firm and they said go find somebody else.
Q. I'm not sure what one has to do with the other.
A. I don't either. I just said okay and I went and found somebody else.
Q. Did you meet with an attorney at that firm?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you tell them what happened with your incident?
A. Yes.
Q. They told you that they did not want to take the case; is that right?
A. Yes.

Page 33

Q. They declined the case?
A. They declined the case.
Q. Did they tell you why they declined the case?
A. No.
Q. You next went to the Popovich firm?
A. Yes.
Q. They took the case?
A. Yes.
Q. They, ultimately, filed a lawsuit against Gagnon and the McGuires on May 15, 2012; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. You reviewed the lawsuit and approved it, correct?
A. I didn't – I never got anything to review.
Q. Did you ever read the lawsuit?
A. No. I was never given any paperwork.
Q. Back to the incorporation of Sharp. What interaction did you have with corporate lawyers when they were first retained?
A. McAndrews?
Q. Correct.

Page 34

A. What relationship?
Q. What experience did you have with McAndrews when you first retained them?
A. He was good.
Q. How often did you meet with him or speak to him?
A. Once a year.
Q. Did he file corporate returns or other documents for the company?
A. No. I had to file them. He just made sure they were all done right, I believe.
Q. Have you ever had occasion to hire a criminal lawyer?
A. I did in 1990. My mom and dad had to hire one. Not me.
Q. Did you hire a criminal lawyer for your mom and dad?
A. No. They hired one for me.
Q. Who was that?
A. Give me a second. You're digging back far in my memory. Driscoll was the last name.
Q. This was a McHenry County-based criminal lawyer?
A. No. Des Plaines.

Page 35

Q. What was the general nature of the reason for the need for a lawyer?
A. Drug possession.
Q. Were you convicted of it?
A. Yes. I pled guilty.
Q. That was a Cook County case, then?
A. No. It was a McHenry County case.
Q. The lawyer was in Des Plaines, though?
A. Yes.
Q. But he represented you in McHenry County in criminal court?
A. Yes.
Q. Throughout the case you met with the lawyer?
A. A few times.
Q. While Popovich represented you in the underlying personal injury case, did you ever communicate with any other lawyers about your case?
A. At the end, yes.
Q. Popovich withdrew sometime in March 2015?
A. Correct.
Q. And Brad Balke entered his appearance on March 19, 2015. Does that sound correct?
A. That is correct.

Page 36

Q. Popovich also withdrew that day, right?
A. I don't know if it was on the same day. I'd have to look at the paperwork.
Q. Besides Mr. Balke, had you talked to any other lawyers towards the end of the relationship with Popovich?
A. Yes.
Q. How many?
A. Hundreds.
Q. Hundreds of lawyers?
A. I'm not kidding. Yes.
Q. Did you ask those lawyers to take your case?
A. I asked them to review it.
Q. Did any of them take the case?
A. No.
Q. They all reviewed it, though?
A. Yes. Most took the time to review it.
Q. Did any of them tell you why they didn't want to take the case?
A. There were different reasons I got from various. Some people just didn't get back to me and some people wrote me letters. I think I gave you some of those. But I got various reasons back from attorneys.

Q. I don't recall seeing any lawyers, but I would ask you to search for those.
MS. WILLIAMS: We'll search for those. I'll make a note.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. As you sit here, do you recall the basis for any attorney declining to take your personal injury case over from Popovich?
A. Say that again.
Q. As you sit here today, do you recall any of the reasons why any attorney declined to take your personal injury case over from the Popovich firm?
A. Yes.
Q. What were those reasons?
A. I remember a few. One I was looking at local lawyers in McHenry County and I was told like – I can name them. My sister was married to him.
Anyway, I was told if Tom Popovich says you don't have a case, you don't have a case and we're not even going to look at it. That I got a lot of it.

Page 38

Q. That's one reason. Any others?
A. That I got locally a lot of. As I started to work away from local further out finding attorneys, the thing was your decision to settle with the McGuires was a mistake and we don't take it because of that.
Q. Who said that?
A. Sal Ferris.
Q. When did you speak to Sal Ferris?
A. I don't know the exact date.
Q. When did he –
A. He wasn't the only one.
Q. When did he say that to you, that you just described?
A. He said it in a letter and he said it on the phone and he sent me an e-mail, I think. I don't remember the ways that he contacted me. I'd have to go back and look.
MS. WILLIAMS: We'll find it.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Besides Sal Ferris, can you recall any other attorney, specifically, that told you they wouldn't take the case because of your settlement with the McGuires?

Page 39

A. Yes.
Q. Who was that?
A. There was at least three firms downtown here right near the Daley Center that I came down to see and I don't remember their names, but they – I got the same thing out of all three of them.
Q. Did any of the lawyers give you any other reason for declining your case?
A. Mostly it was because they knew Popovich or it was the McGuire settlement.
Q. Did any lawyer tell you that they didn't want to take your case because there was questionable liability against David Gagnon?
A. No.
Q. Did any lawyer tell you that there was questionable liability against the property owners, the McGuires?
A. No.
Q. We're jumping ahead, but did you have different lawyers that handled a binding arbitration or binding mediation for you in the underlying case?
A. Yes.
Q. Their name was Baudin?
A. Yes.

Page 40

Q. Why did Brad Balke not handle the binding arbitration?
A. I fired him.
Q. When did you fire Brad Balke?
A. I'd have to look at the dates. I'm not sure, exactly.
Q. Why did you fire him?
A. Because he forced me to undergo the exact mediation at the McHenry County court in front of Judge Meyer that Hans Mast set up that I specifically said no to.
Q. When was this mediation?
A. I'd have to look at the dates again.
Q. Was it a pretrial conference?
A. Yes.
Q. You actually attended this pretrial conference?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. What happened?
A. I said no.
Q. You said no about what?
A. They offered an amount of money and I said no.
Q. The defendants offered an amount of money?

A. Yes.
Q. Was this before or after the McGuires settled out of the case?
A. They were settled.
Q. So there was an offer of settlement from David Gagnon or his insurer?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall what that amount of money was?
A. $50,000.
Q. You refused the offer?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did that cause you to fire Brad Balke?
A. He wouldn't take it any further than that and he agreed to when I hired him. He agreed that that was not going to be the end of it and then he changed his tune, and I said, you know what – and the other thing was, I finally got through to the Baudins who I wanted to take the case because they had helped my family – his dad helped my family many eons earlier.
Q. Did you ever talk to Brad Balke about the liability or lack of liability by the McGuires, the property owners in the case?

A. I don't think so. We were on the Gagnon case.
Q. You didn't discuss the McGuires?
A. There may have been a word or something, but that's not what he was there for.
Q. He never gave you an opinion one way or the other whether the settlement was appropriate?
A. I don't believe Brad did, no. Like I said – I don't think he did.
Q. At some point after your accident did you hire the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that for –
A. I didn't hire.
Q. I know you're anticipating what I'm saying.
A. I was trying to correct myself. I did not hire.
Q. Either way, let me try to get out my question before you raise any kind of response, just so she can take down –
A. Count before I answer.

Page 43

Q. That's a good idea.
Did you ever retain the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. NO.
Q. Did you have any relationship with Daley Disability –
A. Yes.
Q. – Law? Let me finish it before you answer. I know you're anticipating what you think I'm going to say, but it might not come out the way you think. Either way, she can't take down both of us talking over each other.
What relationship did you ever have with the Daley Disability Law Firm?
A. They stepped in as a substitute counsel for the law firm that I did hire.
Q. You originally hired some other law firm to represent you in connection with social security disability?
A. Yes.
Q. What was the name of that original law –
A. The lady's ladies name was Margaret Bradshaw.
Q. You terminated your relationship with her

Page 44

one way or another?
A. No.
Q. Why did Daley Disability Law substitute in for her?
A. I was told by – I have to go back and look at the communications exactly how it happened, but I was told that, basically, they are going to be taking over the hearing part of it. I don't know why. I don't know whether they sub out work. I don't know how it works.
Q. Would it be fair to say that you first retained Ms. Bradshaw in 2012 sometime?
A. I'd have to go back and look.
Q. Is that approximately when you applied for social security?
A. It sounds like it.
Q. The Daley Disability Law Firm came in sometime in 2012 as well?
A. I don't know exactly when. I don't know.
Q. Would it be 2012 or 2013?
A. I know that they were there and – I know that something had to be signed when we went in for the hearings. Margaret Bradshaw had to sign something for the judge allowing Daley Disability to represent me at the hearings. I don't know when exactly they got involved. That's behind the scenes. I didn't have anything to do with that.

Q. Did you file for bankruptcy while your personal injury case was pending?
A. Yes.
Q. When did you file for bankruptcy?
A. I'd have to look at the paperwork again, but I don't believe that was until, I want to say, about eight or nine months, but I'm guessing, after the McGuire settlement.
MS. WILLIAMS: The question was what month and year.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know exactly. I'd have to go back and look at the paperwork.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Did you hire a lawyer to represent you in a bankruptcy?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that lawyer?
A. David Stretch.
MS. WILLIAMS: If it helps, we can stipulate to the date the bankruptcy was filed.

Page 46

MR. FLYNN: That's fine. I think we've got some e-mails that may reflect when it was. I just wondered if he knew offhand.
MS. WILLIAMS: I can stipulate, at least, that it was 2014.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. You filed for bankruptcy while the Popovich firm was still representing you –
A. Yes.
Q. – in the underlying case, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Sometimes I'll still pause in my question so if you could please pause before you answer.
In the underlying case you answered written discovery; is that true?
A. I believe so.
Q. Then you later testified at your deposition January 24, 2013, correct?
A. If that's the date, yes.
Q. Ultimately, David Gagnon was also deposed, true?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you present for his deposition?
A. No.

Page 47

Q. Did Caroline McGuire give a deposition in that case?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. Were you present for that dep?
A. No.
Q. What about Bill McGuire's deposition?
A. I was not present.
Q. Did you e-mail back and forth with Hans Mast a fair amount during the Popovich firm's representation of you?
A. By "fair amount," what do you mean?
Q. Did you regularly e-mail with Hans Mast?
A. Yes.
Q. Those e-mail communications have all been produced in this case?
A. Yes.
Q. On to the exhibits. This will be 1.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 1, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me show you what's been marked as Exhibit 1. These are one set of your Answers to Interrogatories in our case, the current legal malpractice case you filed against the Popovich firm and Hans Mast.

Page 48

Do you recognize this document?
A. Yes.
Q. We've been providing you with various copies of the signature page in the case that's been back and forth between me and your counsel.
I don't, frankly, know if this verification that's attached is the one that went with this document, but I'll just ask you, for the record, if these are your answers, that's your signature, and that this verification is accurate?
A. That is my signature on there, yes.
Q. What was the e-mail address you used in the communication with Hans Mast?
A. Primarily it was pdulberg@comcast.net.
Q. His address was hansmast@comcast.net?
A. And he switched it to at&t.net.
Q. Did you use some other e-mail address as well?
A. I may have accidentally e-mailed him a couple of times from a Yahoo account.
Q. In answering discovery in our case, the legal malpractice case, did you search through both of those e-mail accounts of yours?

A. I no longer have the Yahoo account.
Q. Did you search through the Comcast account?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you search for PDFs or attachments to those e-mails that you produced?
A. Everything that I got, I turned over. I had converted the e-mails to PDFs because Comcast started purging the e-mails after so many years, so I turned them all into PDFs.
MS. WILLIAMS: The question was what did you search in your in box.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. What did I search?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask you a different question. You produced e-mails in this case?
A. Yes.
Q. You turned e-mails into PDFs and sent them to your lawyer; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. Some of the e-mails I reviewed have an icon that indicates there was a PDF or some other attachment to the e-mail. Do you understand that?

Page 50

A. Yes.
Q. Did you produce the attachments to each of the e-mails in this case?
A. We went through that. I produced the attachments that I still had.
Q. There were some that were not available, correct?
A. Yeah. When I looked at them, 99 percent of them were already part of some other document that we turned over. I think 100 percent of them.
Q. At some point in time while Hans was handling your case, did he start to communicate with you relative to his analysis of the McGuires' liability in the case?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he start to generally advise you that he didn't believe that there was a strong case for liability against the McGuires?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that Hans' opinion was that the McGuires did not have liability in the case because they did not control the work that David Gagnon was doing?

Page 51

A. Yes.
Q. That's generally a fair summary of Hans' opinion?
A. Not quite exactly those words, but yeah.
Q. The McGuires' liability as property owners was questionable because based on Hans' analysis of the evidence, they did not control the work or the manner of work of David Gagnon on the date of the accident; is that a fair summary?
A. Depends on which time he said that.
Q. Did he say things like that over and over again?
A. He did say things like that, yes.
Q. Again, I don't want to go over the facts you already testified to with regards to the date of the accident. At some point in time was William McGuire swimming in the swimming pool?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that an above ground pool or –
A. Above ground.
Q. Was there a fair amount of time during the day that Mr. McGuire was inside the house watching television?
A. Maybe – he went inside the house for probably about 45 minutes before the accident happened. I don't know that he was watching television.

MR. FLYNN: Let's mark the next exhibit as 2.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 2, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 2, which is an e-mail chain including e-mails from November 18, 2013, are these e-mails between you and Hans Mast?
A. It looks like it, yes.
Q. I think the time stamps on these e-mails go from the bottom, which would be page 2, to the top of the first page, correct?
A. It's backwards, yes.
Q. In the original e-mail at 1:28 p.m., did Hans Mast relay to you a $5,000 settlement offer from the McGuires?
A. Which – where are you at?
Q. We're on Exhibit 2, which is also labeled as Bates label POP 181. At the bottom of the page, does Hans relay to you a settlement offer for

$5,000?
A. Yes.
Q. He was telling you that the McGuires' attorney offered to settle the case for $5,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding that that was a settlement just for the McGuires, not including David Gagnon?
A. Yes.
Q. In the e-mail Hans says, quote, "As we discussed, they have no liability in the case for what Dave did as property owners. So they will likely get out of the case on a motion at some point, so my suggestion is to take the $5,000 now."
Is that an accurate reading?
A. Of that sentence, yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that he suggested that you take the $5,000 but didn't force you to take it?
A. It says, "So my suggestion is..."
Q. Then did you respond to the e-mail?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans replied again at 8:07 p.m. that same day, right?
A. Yes.

Page 54

Q. He said, "Paul, whether you like it or not, they don't have a legal liability for your injury because they were not directing the work."
Is that right?
A. Part of it, yes.
Q. Was my prior summary of Hans' legal analysis a fair summary in view of these e-mails and his opinion that he relayed to you?
A. I think it went further than this, and other things, but yes.
Q. As far as these e-mails, I've accurately –
A. This e-mail, yes.
Q. What else did he tell you about the McGuires and why he didn't think they would be found liable in the case?
A. I'm pulling out of memory because I can't quote which document it's off of.
Q. That's what we're here for.
A. I can only give you the gist.
Q. I'll ask you for the exact language, but if you don't have it –
A. At one point he defined what an independent contractor is for me and he said that

Page 55

David was an independent contractor and that the McGuires weren't liable because they had hired somebody outside even though it's their own son, he's an adult, outside to do the work and that they weren't responsible.
Q. By the way, how old was David at the time that this accident occurred?
A. I'm adding. If I was 41 – I don't know what his birthday is, but I'm assuming he would be 44, 45.
Q. Is it fair to say that there were two 40-plus-year-olds, a 41- and a 44-year-old trimming trees with a chainsaw in David's parent's backyard that day, correct?
A. I was not using it. There was one 44-year-old using a chainsaw.
Q. You, the 41-year-old was holding some branches for him?
A. Yes. Just before the accident, yes.
Q. Up until this point in time when Hans is providing this legal analysis to you, you had a fair number of occasions to interact with lawyers, as we've discussed today, correct?
A. At this point, the only lawyer that I interacted with was the first one.

Q. I'm talking about in your lifetime. You had a corporate lawyer, you had a criminal lawyer, another personal injury lawyer –
A. I didn't hire –
Q. Let me finish. You had experience with lawyers representing you up to this point in time?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding that lawyers evaluate cases differently?
A. Yes.
Q. And judges evaluate cases differently?
A. Sure. That's fair.
Q. Would it be fair to say that some laws in our country are clearer and some are open to interpretation?
A. I think all of them are.
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. Calls for speculation.
If you understand the question, you can answer it.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Would you say, for example, that the tax code is a little more clearcut than common law

Page 57

that's created by cases and case precedent?
A. I'm not real familiar with tax law. I have accountants for that.
Q. How about an easier question. The stop sign means that you stop, and if you go through it, it's pretty clear that you're liable for a traffic violation?
A. I'll agree with that.
Q. The legal liability for a property owner in Illinois might be a little more complicated; is that a fair statement?
A. I don't know.
Q. Would it be fair to say, in your opinion or your knowledge of the law, the property owner isn't necessarily liable because somebody is injured on their property?
A. Are you talking about what I know now or what I knew back when this was?
Q. At any time.
A. What I know now is in the circumstances that we were in, they were very liable.
Q. I'm just asking if – just because somebody is injured on a property owner's property, they are not necessarily liable, correct? Other factors are required too.

MS. WILLIAMS: I'm going to object for – he's not an expert and can't testify to legal analysis.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. As you sit here today, do you know whether a premises liability case involves multiple factors to prove liability against the property owner?
A. I don't know. I'd say that's fair. You're asking the wrong person for that.
Q. It was Hans' opinion that the McGuires did not control the work based on the evidence, correct?
A. In my opinion?
Q. That's not what I'm asking.
Was it Hans' opinion –
A. I can't –
Q. Let me just finish.
Did Hans tell you that it was his opinion that the McGuires were not liable because they did not control the work?
A. He said that right there, yes.
Q. Do you believe that he truly felt that way? That was his legal opinion?

Page 59

A. Do you want the Monday morning quarterbacking version or at the time?
Q. I'm asking if at that time you felt that he truly believed that the McGuires did not have liability?
A. At the time I trusted him, yes. I hired him to represent me, and yeah.
Q. You believed that he was relying his honest legal opinion to you at that time?
A. Yes.
Q. Including on November 18, 2013?
A. Yes.
Q. You did not accept the settlement offer of $5,000 that he relayed to you on that day, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you ultimately meet with Hans to discuss the settlement offer?
A. I think it was the day before this, but I'm not sure. It was either the day before or the day after.
MS. WILLIAMS: I think the question was, did you meet with him, at all, not the date.

BY THE WITNESS:
A. Yes.
MR. FLYNN: Can we mark this as Exhibit 3, please.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 3, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 3. Do you recognize this memorandum?
A. Yes.
Q. You may have seen it from the document production that we made in this case. This is a memorandum drafted by Hans Mast, which purportedly memorializes a meeting that he had with you on November 20, 2013.
Does this refresh your memory as to when you met with him or if you met with him?
A. If he took the memorandum on the same day, then sure.
Q. In the memo Hans says, "I met with Paul and his friend."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.

Page 61

Q. Did you meet with Hans and some third person –
A. Yes.
Q. – at or about this time regarding the case?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that friend?
A. Tom Kost.
Q. Who is Tom Kost?
A. My brother.
Q. Not that it matters necessarily for privilege purposes, but can you tell me how Tom Kost is your brother?
A. We have the same mom.
Q. He was with you and observed the meeting between you and Hans?
A. Yes.
Q. The $5,000 settlement offer was discussed, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. At that time did Hans, again, relay his opinion as to the questionable liability about the McGuires – strike that.
Did he relay to you his opinion about the

Page 62

questionable nature of the McGuires' liability?
A. At the meeting with Tom, yes.
Q. He advised you they maintain they were not directing Dave's work. That was the McGuires' position, correct?
A. I don't know that he stayed on that at that meeting. At different times he gave different reasons.
Q. The next line says, "Paul maintains the McGuires controlled everything that Dave was doing."
Is that an accurate reflection of your opinion?
A. Yes.
Q. As you sit here today, do you know if that statement is consistent with your own deposition testimony from the underlying case?
A. Yes.
Q. We'll come back to that. Did you tell Hans that you wanted to read the depositions of the McGuires and David Gagnon's depositions?
A. Say that again.
Q. Did you tell Paul that you wanted to read the depositions of the McGuires and Dave Gagnon's depositions?

Page 63

A. Did I tell Paul?
Q. I'm sorry. Did you tell Hans that?
A. That I wanted to read the McGuires and David Gagnon's depositions?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes, I did.
Q. What was the purpose of your wanting to review those depositions?
A. Hans had told me that what they said in their depositions meant that they had no liability.
Q. You wanted to review the testimony to determine whether you wanted to consider the $5,000 settlement offer; is that correct?
A. Right.
Q. Did you do that?
A. Eventually, yes.
Q. Before you accepted the offer?
A. I think so.
Q. So sometime after this meeting on November 20, 2013 and before you accepted the settlement offer on January 29, 2014, did you review those three deposition transcripts?
A. I'll correct you. I did not accept the offer on January 20th. I signed a release on

Page 64

January 29th.
Q. Fair point. Did you read the depositions between those two dates, November 20, 2013 and January 29, 2014?
A. Yes.
Q. Those are –
A. I believe I asked him – I don't know – it may be a little earlier because I don't know that I asked him before or after the meeting. I don't remember. I'd have to go back in the e-mails to give the date.
Q. Some point in time between those two dates you read the deps?
A. I may have asked for them before. I don't know without seeing the e-mail. It was, roughly, in the last quarter of that year, yes. Or the first month. I don't remember the first time that I asked to read them. I don't remember off the top of my head.
Q. At any point in time did you ever grant Hans authority to make a settlement demand in the case?
A. No.
MR. FLYNN: Mark this as Exhibit 4.

Page 65

(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 4, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 4. This is a copy of the original complaint in this instant case. It reflects a filing date of November 28, 2017.

Is this your original legal malpractice complaint against the Popovich firm and Hans Mast?

A. I believe so.

Q. Did you review and approve the allegations in this complaint?

A. For the most part. I wanted to reword some things, but the lawyer, they do their thing.

Q. At the time you were represented by the Gooch firm is when you filed this lawsuit, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Directing your attention back to Exhibit 1, if you still have it. If you could turn to page 10.

The answer to Interrogatory No. 24 indicates that on November 4, 2013, Mast was granted authority to investigate a settlement but a specific dollar amount was never provided. Do you see that?

A. He was verbally granted authority to investigate, yes.

Q. Who did you want him to investigate a settlement with?

A. The McGuires.

Q. Just the McGuires or the McGuires and –

A. He wanted to do it. I didn't. I said, "If you want to look at that, go ahead."

Q. Did you grant him authority to investigate a settlement with David Gagnon as well?

A. I don't know if I did or not, off the top of my head, but that would have been much later.

Q. Eventually did you tell Hans that you would agree to accept the $5,000 settlement offer from the McGuires?

A. Eventually did I tell him that?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. When did you tell him that?

A. I want to say just before Christmas in December of 2013.

Q. There's no doubt in your mind that you relayed your acceptance of the $5,000 settlement offer to Hans Mast before Christmas Day, which would be December 25, 2013?

A. Right.

Q. Then did Hans mail to you a settlement release by letter dated January 24, 2014?

A. I'd like to see the letter, but yeah, I believe so.

Q. I believe it's –

A. I believe he had to mail it a couple times because I didn't get it.

MR. FLYNN: Let's mark Exhibit 5.

(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 5, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 5. I'll represent to you that this is a copy of the second amended complaint that you filed in this case by your new lawyers, your current lawyers. If I could direct your attention to Exhibit D attached to this Exhibit 5.

Is Exhibit D a January 24, 2014 cover letter from Hans Mast to you enclosing the general release and settlement agreement from defense counsel for Caroline and Bill McGuire?

A. That's what it says.

Q. In the letter did he ask you to – it looks like it might be a typo. It says, "Please release and return it to me in the enclosed self-addressed stamped envelope at your earliest convenience."

A. Right, but I believe it was just a release – it was all tied into one.

Q. This letter is unsigned. Did you receive the letter unsigned?

A. Did I receive this unsigned?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever seen a signed copy of this letter?

A. No.

Q. If I could direct your attention to the next page of Exhibit D. Is that page 1 of the general release and settlement agreement?

A. Exhibit D?

Q. Correct.

MS. WILLIAMS: Turn the page.

Page 69

BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Is this what you received attached to the cover letter?
A. I don't think so. Let me see. Yes, this looks like it because it's got these things I remember.
Q. When did you receive this letter and the attachment?
A. I would say I wrote back on January 29th and I probably got it that day, signed it and sent it back.
Q. The copy of the release is also unsigned. It's attached as exhibit -- part of Exhibit D to your second amended complaint.
Do you see the signature lines and the notary signature here that's missing?
A. Yes.
Q. Is this the document that you signed and sent back to Hans Mast?
A. The document that I signed had my signature.
Q. I'm asking if this is the same document that you signed and sent back to him?
A. Yes.

Page 70

Q. Right now we don't have a signed copy. I don't know that I've seen one in the case.
MS. WILLIAMS: Can we go off the record for a second?
MR. FLYNN: Sure.
(WHEREUPON, discussion was had off the record.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Is there any doubt, in your mind, that Exhibit D is the letter and attachment that you received from Hans Mast?
A. No. I believe that this is it.
Q. You signed some copy of this release and sent it back to Hans on January 29; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You accepted the settlement offer prior to Christmas and presumably defense counsel or Hans drafted the settlement release and then Hans mailed it to you, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. At any point in time from December 25th until you received this settlement release, did you contact any lawyer to discuss whether it would be appropriate to let the McGuires out for 5,000?

Page 71

A. I believe I contacted Hans again.
Q. Besides Hans, did you talk to anyone else?
A. No.
Q. Was there anything preventing you from seeking a second opinion from some other lawyer at that time?
A. No.
Q. Directing your attention to Exhibit E attached to the second amended complaint, the second amended complaint, again, being Exhibit 5. Is this an e-mail from you to Hans on January 29, 2014?
A. This is the e-mail chain between me and Hans, yes.
Q. Down below at the bottom of the page, January 29 at 10:51 a.m., it appears that you were questioning Hans regarding some of the language in the release, including social security disability check boxes. Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans responded to you and then at the top of the page here at 1:59 p.m. it says, "Okay, it's signed and in the mail."
A. Correct.

Page 72

Q. What did you mean by that?
A. I signed it and mailed it.
Q. Did you -- where did you mail it from?
A. My home.
Q. How did you do that?
A. Put a stamp on the envelope and put it in the mailbox, put the flag up and waited for the mailman.
Q. Is the mailbox attached to your home or is it –
A. It's out on the street.
Q. You walked down there and you put the mail -- the envelope in the mailbox, put the flag up and –
A. That is correct.
Q. Your understanding of signing that release and sending it back to your lawyer was that you would agree to take the $5,000 settlement, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Hans didn't deliver the letter to you personally. He mailed it to you, correct?
A. He mailed it to me?
Q. He mailed it to you.

Page 73

A. Correct. U.S. mail.
Q. Do you recall an allegation in your complaint or amended complaint or second amended complaint in this case alleging that you were pressured or alleging undue influence by Hans in urging you to accept the $5,000 settlement from the McGuires?
A. Yes.
Q. How is it, as you sit here today, can you tell me how Hans unduly influenced you to accept the $5,000 settlement offer?
A. I don't know what Hans was thinking. How did I feel influenced?
Q. Unduly influenced.
Let me put it this way. He didn't put a gun to your head?
A. No.
Q. He suggested that you take the settlement?
A. Correct.
Q. He didn't force you to take the settlement?
A. Correct.
Q. It was your decision?

Page 74

A. Correct.
Q. You signed it and you sent it back to him in the mail?
A. Yes.
Q. Aside from your e-mails with Hans on January 29, did you call him that day?
A. I believe so.
Q. Did you also discuss whether it was appropriate to accept the McGuires' $5,000 settlement offer at that time?
A. Yes.
Q. You deliberated on it and decided to take it, correct?
A. There wasn't much – it was take it or get nothing.
Q. You had the opportunity to deliberate on it, correct?
A. For that day, yeah.
Q. You had reviewed the transcripts of the McGuire depositions and David Gagnon's depositions in order to provide you with some information in order to determine whether to accept the settlement offer, correct?
A. I believe I did try to read those, yes.

Page 75

Q. Did you call Hans or e-mail him and question him with respect to the evidence, the testimony contained in those deposition transcripts?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you say to him and what did he say to you?
A. There were many conversations over the phone and I'm sure some through e-mails.
Q. He continued to tell you that it was his opinion that the liability on the McGuires is questionable because they did not control David Gagnon's work that day, correct?
A. It depends on which time. Sometimes he said because they didn't tell them how to squeeze the trigger. It depends which time you are talking about.
Q. Again, there was nothing preventing you from seeking a second opinion from some other lawyer at the time you signed the settlement release and sent it back to Hans, correct?
A. From the time I received it, signed it and sent it back?
Q. Right.
A. No. It was a matter of hours. I got it

Page 76

that morning.
Q. You decided to mail it that day, right?
A. He needed it. He said now or you're not going to get anything.
Q. There was nothing preventing you from seeking the advice of another attorney at that time?
A. At that time it was time. It was now or nothing.
Q. You were in the comfort of your own house when you received the letter, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You had the ability to go find another lawyer and ask them to discuss the case at that time. You had done it hundreds of times earlier – strike that.
After the settlement with the McGuires, you continued to prosecute the case against Gagnon, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have an understanding as to what, if any, insurance coverage he had?
A. Yes.
Q. How much was that?
A. What time frame are you talking about?

Page 77

Q. What was your initial understanding as to the limits on David Gagnon's insurance coverage?
A. Hans Mast told me he had $100,000.
Q. Was that in an e-mail?
A. There were – not initially, no, but later on he reiterated that in e-mails, yes.
Q. Did you, ultimately, learn that there was some additional amount of coverage with respect to Gagnon's policy?
A. Long after Hans Mast was gone, not part of the case.
Q. How much was the coverage?
A. The Allstate coverage, I believe, was 300,000.
Q. We'll talk about the settlement later, but did you ultimately settle the case again Gagnon for 300,000?
A. I believe it went to binding mediation.
Q. Was there an award of $300,000 based on a high/low agreement?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that if Hans made a mistake about the $100,000 in coverage, that that was corrected and there was never any harm done as a result of his –

A. No.
Q. Explain to me how you were harmed by the representation that there was $100,000 in coverage.
A. You want me to explain?
Q. Yes.
A. Had I known the value of the case, I would have not filed for bankruptcy.
Q. Explain to me why one has something to do with the other.
A. Is my family and me going to dump money into a black hole that we can't recover or is there a light at the end of the tunnel where I can pay them back.
Q. At the time that you filed for bankruptcy, had any settlement offer been made from David Gagnon or his lawyers to you?
A. At the time of when?
Q. When you filed for bankruptcy.
A. I don't think so. I'd have to check the dates, but I don't think so.
Q. As the case was progressing against David Gagnon, were your doctors deposed?
A. As the case progressed with David Gagnon,

Page 79

I believe they were deposed. I don't remember. I'd have to look at the dates.
Q. Discovery continued on in the case?
A. I believe one doctor was deposed after the McGuire settlement. I'm not sure, though.
Q. Did Hans continue to represent you for some period of time?
A. Yes.
MR. FLYNN: I'll have you mark this as Exhibit 6.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 6, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 6. Do you recognize this e-mail chain?
A. Yes.
Q. This is from September 23, 2014. If we go from the bottom up, it appears that Hans said to you that he wanted to give you the option of finding other counsel at this point if you really want to take the case to trial, which I think ultimately will be necessary. Correct?
A. Are we at "before I proceed" or "that's the very reason"?

Q. "That's the very reason."
Is it fair to say he was suggesting you find another counsel in the case at that point?
A. Yes.
Q. He also said, "I just do not believe strongly that defense counsel will offer much in the way of settlement."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. That's his opinion regardless of what he believed the coverage limits to be; is that a fair statement?
A. Yes.
Q. You responded to him, he responded to you and then you wrote an e-mail to him at 8:25 p.m. that night?
A. Okay.
Q. Do you see that? Did you say, "First, I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to help prove David cut me with a chainsaw"?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you start to look for other lawyers to help you in your case against Gagnon at that point in time?

A. I believe I did, that summer. This is fall, September.
Q. You had already started looking for new lawyers?
A. I believe that Hans had told me to start looking for a new lawyer in April of that year.
Q. Did he say why?
A. We'd have to read his thing. He says why.
Q. Do you recall why he said that to you?
A. He did not feel that the case was provable against David. He did not feel the value of the case was worth it. He did not feel -- actually, this is 2014. The dates are rough.
Q. He thought the case against David was difficult, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you ever described the case as a he said, she said with respect to the facts of the accident?
A. He described that to me many times.
Q. Have you also --
A. And I used that back, yes.

Page 82

Q. Have you ever described this case as a he said, she said case?
A. I may have. I don't know.
Q. It is your word against David Gagnon's as to what happened and whose fault it was that day?
A. That's what Hans explained to me as what the problem was.
Q. Did you ever describe the accident as a he said, she said?
A. I don't think I called David a "she said" or me a "she said." I don't know. Right here I do.
Q. What do you say there?
A. I said, "I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to help prove David cut me with a chainsaw."
Q. He was denying that he even cut you, correct?
A. No, he never denied that.
Q. What was your reason for writing this sentence in that way?
A. Because Hans said that he believed David over me.
Q. With respect to what fact at issue?
A. His deposition versus mine. He said that I didn't make a good witness.

Page 83

Q. With respect to what points?
A. All of it. He was dumping me and he was coming up with his own excuses.
Q. You and David were the only ones that witnessed this accident?
A. Correct.
Q. Based on your understanding of how the evidence came out in the case, would you agree that there were differences with respect to the version of events?
A. Oh, yeah.
Q. There were differences between what he said happened and what you said happened?
A. Oh, definitely.
Q. Would it be fair to say, then, it would be up to the trier of fact, whether it be a judge or a jury, to determine who they believed?
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. Calls for a legal conclusion.
You can answer, if you understand.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I believe it would be up to a judge or jury, sure.

Page 84

BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. At the bottom of Exhibit 7 you say, "Bottom line Hans... do the best you can with what you got."
I'm sorry. I didn't mark this one yet. My apologies.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 7, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 7. Is this an e-mail chain between you and Hans?
A. I don't think it's a chain. I think it's one.
Q. Point is well taken. It's you writing to Hans?
A. Yes.
Q. At the bottom it sounds like you had been in the hospital with a migraine and then you wrote, "Bottom line, Hans... do the best you can with what you got."
A. Yes.
Q. What did you mean by that?

Page 85

A. He wanted to settle, and I can tell you right now this letter was written after a very traumatic experience and -- let me read it and refresh myself. I'm melting down in this letter.
Q. You said after a traumatic experience. Are you referring to the bankruptcy filing from that day?
A. That, in combination with migraines, yes.
Q. David Stretch was your lawyer that filed bankruptcy for you?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you meet with Mr. Stretch and discuss the bankruptcy process before you hired him?
A. Yes.
Q. How long did you meet with him?
A. I think I asked about it. I don't know. It may have been a couple of months or a couple weeks before it got filed. I wanted to learn about it.
Q. Did you, ultimately, list the case against David Gagnon as an asset in your bankrupt filing?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Is that why the bankruptcy trustee became involved with the binding mediation?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever meet the bankruptcy trustee?
A. Yes. The first one.
Q. What was the name of that person?
A. The first one was Heeg was her last name. H-e-e-g, I think.
Q. Again, we established that Brad Balke became your lawyer in the case on March 19, 2015, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Is it fair to say that your relationship with Hans Mast was deteriorating over the fall and beginning of the winter of 2015?
A. I would say it had been deteriorating long before that. You can see from the last exhibit I'm melting down and it was already started deteriorating.
Q. By the time you drafted Exhibit 7, had you talked to other lawyers about taking your case?
A. I have to go back and look, but probably. If he told me to look at other lawyers in April before this, yes.
Q. How many lawyers would you say you talked to between April and the time you drafted this e-mail on September 26?

A. I couldn't count that high, probably.
Q. Quite a few?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did any of them take your case?
A. No.
MR. FLYNN: Mark this as Exhibit 8.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 8, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 8. Is this an e-mail from you to Hans Mast?
A. Yes. It's an e-mail chain, yes.
Q. On February 22, 2015 at 7:42 p.m. you wrote to Hans, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Halfway down in that e-mail message you said, quote, "Now I'm left wondering... how hard it is to sue an attorney?"
A. That is true.
Q. You wrote that?
A. Yes.

Q. The next line you wrote, "And yes, I am and have been looking for someone who will take this case..."
A. That is not in reference to suing the attorney. That was in reference to the Gagnon case.
Q. What did the reference to suing an attorney mean?
A. That was me being angry.
Q. With Hans?
A. Yes. I was seeing red.
Q. You're suggesting that you may sue him?
A. Yeah. I didn't know that I could. I'm wondering about it.
Q. You, basically, made a threat, whether it be a veiled threat or an overt threat to sue him, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You, ultimately, sued him for legal malpractice, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that what you had in mind when you wrote this?
A. No. This was about dropping Gagnon. The malpractice is about dropping the McGuires.

Page 89

Q. This –
A. We're talking – this is 2015.
Q. In this 2015 e-mail you are suggesting to Hans that you may sue him because of the McGuire settlement; is that right?
A. No.
Q. Then what is it that you're saying to him?
A. That if he damaged the Gagnon case, I didn't know if he did or didn't, and I'm threatening because I'm angry. You can see, again, I'm melting down here. These are emotional outbursts, I guess.
Q. Moving up the page a little bit also on February 22, 2015 at 8:14 p.m., you say, "To be honest, you took this case knowing it was my word versus his."
A. Yes.
Q. He said, he said, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that a fair characterization of the case, your word against David's?
A. That's how Hans kept describing it. That's the way I put it back to him, yes.
Q. You didn't correct him or dispute his characterization, did you?

Page 90

A. No. I used his characterization.
Q. You agreed with it?
A. He said – how did it go? We had conversations between these e-mails on the phone. Then we would hang up and I would get angry and type it in an e-mail, type whatever it was that bothered me so he had it.
Q. Let me ask another question, if that's okay.
Did you ever correct Hans if he called this a he said, he said case? Did you ever say it's more than that?
A. Do I ever say it's more than that?
Q. Did you ever correct him? If he said it's a he said, he said case, did you say no, that's not right?
A. He said there's no witnesses. I said, "I'm a witness."
Q. You're one of the hes. It's your word against David Gagnon's, as you said in this e-mail?
A. Yes.
MR. FLYNN: If I could have you mark that as Exhibit 9.

Page 91

(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 9, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Exhibit 9, is that Brad Balke's substitute appearance that was filed on March 19, 2015 in the case against Gagnon?
A. It looks like it, yes.
Q. Back to Exhibit 5, which is the second amended complaint. If I could direct your attention to Exhibit F. This appears to be a more complete copy of another e-mail we just talked about. Is Exhibit F more of the February 22, 2015 e-mail chain?
A. I'm not sure if that's separate or the same. Oh, it looks like it.
Q. At 7:20 p.m. Hans wrote to you and said, "Paul, I can no longer represent you in the case. We obviously have differences of opinion as to the value of the case."
Right?
A. Yes.
Q. He says, "I've been telling you over a year now the problems with the case and you just don't see them."

Page 92

Correct?
A. That's what it says.
Q. Obviously, a difference of opinion, right?
A. Yes. Are you talking about difference of opinion as to the value or difference of opinion of the problems within the case?
Q. Let's go on. He says, "You keep telling me how injured you are and completely ignore that it doesn't matter if you passed away from the accident because we still have to prove that the defendant was at fault. While you think it is very clear, it is not. My guess is that seven out of ten times you will lose the case outright. That means zero. That's why I've been trying to convince you to agree to a settlement. You clearly do not want to."
Did I accurately read that?
A. Just that part of that paragraph, yes.
Q. So Hans is telling you that in his opinion your case against Gagnon you're going to lose it seven out of ten times, correct?
A. In this one, yes.
Q. He's acknowledging that you may have a chance.

A. I think later on he says nine out of ten.
Q. In this e-mail he says seven out of ten you will lose.
A. Yes.
Q. He's recognizing three times out of ten you may win, right?
A. I don't know what Hans is thinking.
Q. Is that what he said?
A. He says seven out of ten times you lose.
Q. You understood that there are risks in taking the case to trial that you could lose?
A. There are unforeseen risks, yes.
Q. There are always risks, period, in taking a case to trial?
A. Yes.
Q. Before you hired Brad Balke and after Hans told you he couldn't represent you, did you talk to any other lawyers about taking your case?
A. Yes.
Q. How many?
A. I can't tell you. A lot.
Q. Did any of them tell you that they wouldn't take the case because they didn't think you could prevail against Gagnon?

A. No.
Q. Not one?
A. No.
Q. What are the names of any of the lawyers you talked to about taking your case over from Popovich?
A. I can't tell you without looking at documents who it was and what date it was, what it was between these two.
Q. I don't think documents I produced would help you in that regard.
I'll just ask you based on your memory the names of any lawyers you met with from the time Hans wrote this February 22 e-mail –
A. I believe –
Q. Let me finish.
A. I believe –
MS. WILLIAMS: He has not finished his question.
THE WITNESS: Sorry.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. From the time that Hans wrote this February 22 e-mail and the time that Brad Balke enters an appearance on March 19. Just the name of any lawyer you –

Page 95

A. I believe that Sal Ferris that I was talking about was one of the lawyers that I talked to.
Q. You're not sure? You believe that he was?
A. In between this time and this time?
Q. Yes.
A. I believe it's right around then.
Q. What type of law practice does Sal Ferris have?
A. I believe personal injury.
Q. Did you ever talk to him about taking your case before that date?
A. Before the date of this e-mail?
Q. Yes.
A. I'd have to look at it.
Q. He wasn't one of the original attorneys that you spoke with at the beginning of the case?
A. No.
Q. Fair to say once Balke entered his appearance on March 19, 2015 that Mast and Popovich were no longer your attorneys, correct?

Page 96

A. When Balke enters his appearance?
Q. Yes.
A. I would believe that, yes.
Q. They were terminated and Balke stepped in?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell me how the binding mediation which proceeded on December 8, 2015 evolved and came to be.
A. I was ordered into it from a bankruptcy court.
Q. Why is that?
A. I believe that the trustee put a motion up. I don't know who did it. I assume it was the trustee and the court ordered that it be put into binding mediation.
Q. Did you appear at the mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall the name of the mediator?
A. Not off the top of my head, no.
Q. One of the exhibits to your second amended complaint indicates it was retired Judge James Etchingham.
A. That sounds familiar.

Page 97

Q. Do you recall how long the mediation lasted?
A. All day.
Q. Do you know if the parties submitted mediation briefs or statements to the judge?
A. I believe both sides submitted a whole bunch of things.
Q. The Boudins represented you in this mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. Because you had fired Balke by this point?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. Directing your attention, again, to Exhibit 5, the second amended complaint and Exhibit G. Exhibit G is, apparently, a memorialization of the mediation award. Do you see that?
A. It's how the judge decided to break it down, yes.
Q. Do you see that there's an award for future medical expenses of $200,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Since that date of December 8, 2015, have you received any medical treatment relative to your injuries –

Page 98

A. Yes.
Q. Let me finish. Strike the question.
Since that date, December 8, 2015, have you received any medical treatment for your injuries incurred on January 28, 2011?
A. You're asking since the date of the binding mediation?
Q. That's right.
A. Yes.
Q. What medical treatment have you received?
A. I do an ongoing with the neurologist for the dystonia.
Q. That's in your right arm?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you calculated the medical bills that you've incurred since that day?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Are they anywhere near $200,000?
A. It depends if you calculate with or without insurance. I know what I pay, but then I have to pay for the insurance that pays for that.
Q. How much have you paid out of pocket since that date for medical treatment on your arm?

Page 99

A. I don't know, offhand.
Q. Was there any doctor that opined that you would require $200,000 in future medical expenses?
A. I believe so.
Q. Who was that?
A. I believe that was Dr. Patel. I don't know that she said $200,000. She was the doctor that was handling it at the time.
Q. Did you discuss your injury with the mediator at the mediation?
A. He did ask me a few questions.
Q. How much time did you spend with him?
A. On and off. He would come in and ask me questions and then go away and then come in and would ask me questions and then go away.
I don't remember which one was the mediator, which one was the Allstate adjuster, which one was the – I don't remember.
Q. You're not sure which one was the mediator?
A. They came in and they said they are going to ask you some questions and I answered them.
Q. As you sit here today, you don't know how much face time you had with the mediator that day?

Page 100

A. I don't remember the face of which one is which.
Q. Did the issue of lost wages ever come up?
A. At the mediation with me?
Q. Yes.
A. I don't remember.
Q. Did you ever make a claim of lost wages of $250,000?
A. I may have.
Q. Do you know what that was based on?
A. Yeah.
Q. What is that based on?
A. Past and future.
Q. What past wages had you ever earned that could lead to an award of $250,000?
A. To me, that's not a very high number. I think I asked for more than that. It would be an average over a certain number of years plus benefits and that's all lost.
Q. Would it be fair to say that your income would be accurately reflected in the tax returns you've produced in this case, so I don't want to ask you about each one of them?
A. I would say my personal income, yeah.

Page 101

Q. Have you filed personal tax returns since 2015?
A. Tried.
Q. I didn't ask you if you tried.
A. No. They won't let me. They said I don't make enough anymore.
MR. FLYNN: I believe the next exhibit is 10.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 10, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I'm handing you what's been marked as Exhibit 10. This is a six-page binding mediation agreement. The copy I have is unsigned.
Do you recognize this as the mediation agreement that governed your December 8, 2016 mediation?
A. Yes.
Q. If I could direct your attention to -- first, let me ask you.
Do you know why the bankruptcy trustee or the bankruptcy court ordered binding mediation as opposed to nonbinding?
A. I have no idea.

Q. On page 4, section F, subsection B – I'm sorry, 1B. It says, "The parties agree that for this mediation the minimum award to Paul Dulberg will be $50,000. Also, the maximum award to Paul Dulberg will be $300,000."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know why the parties agreed to this high/low agreement?
A. No.
Q. Do you recall alleging in your original complaint against Popovich that there was a high/low agreement?
A. There is. There was.
MS. WILLIAMS: Can you repeat the question, please.
(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't know. I'd have to read it.
MS. WILLIAMS: I asked her to read it. And you had answered it previously.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Directing your attention back to

Page 103

Exhibit 4, which is the original complaint in this case. Page 4, paragraph 16.
A. Okay.
Q. There's a sentence that begins with, "Unfortunately, a high/low agreement had been executed by Dulberg reducing the maximum account he could recover to $300,000 based upon the insurance policy available."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. It's not your position or testimony that Popovich had anything to do with the high/low agreement?
A. That was a mistake in there. No.
Q. You would agree that Popovich had nothing to do with the high/low agreement?
A. I believe that events that unfolded the way they did was due to Hans Mast's initial assessment of the value of the case.
Q. Let me ask it a different way.
Did Popovich have any idea that this high/low agreement existed when it was entered into?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you have any reason to believe that he did?

A. I don't know. I don't know how much the Boudins were in contact with them because they worked together. I don't know.
Q. What do you mean, "they worked together"?
A. They worked together on all different cases. That's a small county out there.
Q. Did you ever write to Hans and accuse Popovich of having a conflict of interest because he may have gone to high school with David Gagnon?
A. I did learn that.
Q. Do you believe the fact that someone went to high school with another person may give rise to a conflict of interest in a lawsuit?
A. I was shooting in the dark and guessing why they didn't see this as a viable case.
Q. Do you think that was appropriate to send to your lawyer at the time?
A. When you're wondering why they are doing what they are doing and you learn that and they were pretty much in the same class and they all knew each other and it's a small town, let me ask you, are you friends with the guy I'm suing? That's an appropriate question.

Q. You didn't say that. You asked if they went to school together.
A. Correct.
Q. Popovich did not enter into this high/low agreement on your behalf, correct?
A. Popovich, no.
Q. When I say "Popovich," I mean generally the Popovich firm and your lawyers.
A. This was years later. No.
Q. They had nothing to do with it, right?
A. I wouldn't say anything to do with it.
Q. Withdrawn.
Who drafted this high/low agreement that's contained in the mediation agreement?
A. I'm not sure who drafted it.
Q. Would it have been either the mediator, the bankruptcy trustee, your lawyers or the defense attorneys?
A. I assume that this would have been an agreement of all of them.
Q. You don't think Popovich had anything to do with drafting this high/low agreement, do you?
A. I don't know that he did or didn't.
Q. Do you have any reason to believe that he did?

A. At this point, no.
Q. Continuing on in Exhibit 4. Directing your attention to the bottom of page 4, paragraph 10.
A. Exhibit 4. Say it again.
Q. The bottom of page 4, paragraph 20. This is your complaint against Popovich and Mast.
A. This has been amended since then.
Q. I understand. Paragraph 20 reads, "Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the high/low agreement contained therein and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time that the information Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading and that, in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell me, as you sit here today, what false and misleading information did Mast and Popovich give you?
A. That I realized on the day of the – following the execution of the mediation agreement?

Page 107

Q. Correct.
A. The liability of the McGuires.
Q. What was false about it?
A. What made them liable and what didn't.
Q. What is it you learned to dispute what you were told?
A. I learned from a reliability expert that had the report there that day that the McGuires provided the tools which made Gagnon an agent of the McGuires. He was working at their behest.
Q. Who was this liability expert?
A. What's his name?
Q. He's a doctor?
A. Yes.
Q. Continue on with that paragraph. "Following mediation, Dulberg was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016."
Do you see that allegation?
A. Yeah.
Q. Who advised you to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters?

Page 108

A. I believe that was Boudin.
Q. You believe that or you know that?
A. I know that.
Q. You alleged it in this complaint so it's important that we know who that was.
A. Yes, that was Boudin.
Q. Boudin told you to seek an independent opinion from an attorney that handles malpractice matters?
A. Yes.
Q. It says you received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.
A. Yes.
Q. That's separate and apart from any opinion you may have received from a liability expert, a doctor, an expert on chainsaws?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was the lawyer that you received a legal opinion from on December 16, 2016?
A. I believe that would be Thomas Gooch.
Q. The drafter of this complaint?
A. I'd have to look at the dates because I think – December 8th was the mediation; is that right?

Page 109

Q. Correct.
A. So the 16th would sound about right to be meeting with Gooch, but I can get that date.
Q. You met with Gooch –
A. Soon, within weeks. It was quick.
Q. Now that the door has been opened, you fired Gooch in this case, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. He drafted this complaint and he's also the one that gave you an opinion about legal malpractice liability on the part of my clients?
A. Yes.
Q. What is it that he told you on December 16, 2016?
MS. WILLIAMS: Objection. I don't think we've waived that privilege, but – can we go off the record for a second?
MR. FLYNN: I don't want to go off the record. I've asked this interrogatory in about five different ways and it hasn't been answered appropriately.
The allegation was made in the complaint. That's why I drafted the interrogatory the way I did. I don't think that there's been a square answer to it. This is clear that you're talking about a legal opinion.

BY THE WITNESS:
Q. Is this the same wording as we have in the current complaint?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. It's not exactly.
A. What would this be valid for, then?
Q. You've raised a response to a statute of limitations defense in this case and placed your knowledge of the malpractice and the date of incurring of an injury at issue.
Because your discovery of malpractice has been placed at issue, it's our position that you've waived privilege anyhow with respect to this conversation on December 16, 2016.
A. I'm not sure –
MS. WILLIAMS: There's not a question pending. I'm going to make a standing objection as to privilege with Gooch.
If we can agree that that objection will stand, we can go through this line of questioning and then if we need to later, have a judge determine whether or not that line of questioning is admissible. Are you agreeable to that?

MR. FLYNN: I'm agreeable to continuing on for a few minutes. I want to explore. I'll try to lay foundation for – to confirm this wasn't anyone else, for starters. Why don't we continue on and if you need to raise it again, we can talk.
MS. WILLIAMS: Otherwise, I'm just going to raise it to every single question you ask. I just don't want to have to continue to make the objection as to – if questions are asked about advice given by a legal malpractice attorney, I'm going to raise an objection as to that.
MR. FLYNN: Okay. But this is why we had the 201K conferences, multiple 201K conferences. It was made clear, to me, that there was a waiver with respect to subsequent counsel.
MS. WILLIAMS: Tom Gooch isn't subsequent counsel.
MR. FLYNN: The allegation has been made in this complaint and apparently this is subsequent counsel subsequent to my client's representation.
MS. WILLIAMS: It is a different case. It's not subsequent counsel in the underlying case. It's a new case.

Page 112

MR. FLYNN: We'll get to the interrogatory in a few minutes. I'll pull that out.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask you. Is there any other attorney besides Mr. Gooch that gave you an opinion that's referenced here on December 16?
A. No one that isn't privileged.
Q. Could it have been anyone else?
A. No.
Q. So Gooch is the only person that's being referenced here in this allegation that's in your complaint that's a public record?
I'm not asking you right now what the opinion is. I'm going to do that later. I'm asking you who gave it to you. It's not anyone besides Mr. Gooch, correct?
A. Yes. It was Thomas Gooch.
Q. He drafted the very complaint that that allegation is contained in?
A. Yes.
Q. Dr. Landford was the liability expert that you referenced earlier, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Back to the allegation that Gooch and – that Popovich and Mast provided you false and misleading information. That information was simply their legal opinion on the McGuires' liability; isn't that correct?

A. No. There was nothing simple about that. That's a very complex series of things that go all the way back to before the McGuire settlement.
Q. They didn't lie to you, did they?
A. It depends on how you define lie.
Q. How do you define lie?
A. If you know better and you say something else, that's a lie. Omission is a lie.
Q. Did they provide you with anything other than a legal opinion as to the McGuires' liability?
A. Yes. They provided me with case laws. They provided me with all different stuff. Yes.
Q. Whatever the advice that was given to you on December 16, 2016, you felt that you were mislead by Popovich and Mast at that point in time, correct?
A. At that point in time it was confirmed to me that I had a valid case against Popovich.
Q. You had a valid malpractice case against Popovich?
A. Yes. I did not know before that.

Page 114

Q. As of December 16, 2016?
A. Yes.
Q. Why is it that you didn't file that lawsuit until nearly a year later on November 28, 2017?
A. I believe because Thomas Gooch had some health issues and then his wife had some health issues. It took a while.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 11, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I'm handing you what has been marked as Exhibit 11. This is one set of your supplemental Answers to Interrogatories.
First, I'll ask you if that is your verification and signature at the end?
A. That is my signature.
Q. Again, I don't know if that verification was attached to this original document. It may have been. But there's been some confusion with respect to these verification pages. This is your signature and you answered these interrogatories, correct?
A. Yeah.

Q. So this is a valid verification page with respect to this discovery document; is that a fair statement?
A. This is supplemental to original answers.
Q. That's your signature and you agree these are your answers?
A. I've reviewed them and we went over them and yes, I agree.
Q. And they are accurate?
A. As accurate as we can be.
Q. If I could direct your attention to Interrogatory No. 26. Do you see that?
A. Okay. Yes, I see it.
Q. This is similar to what we just talked about a few minutes ago. I'll read the interrogatory to you. "Identify and describe the false and misleading information Mast and Popovich provided to you and explain how you realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information was false and misleading and the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake as alleged in paragraph 56 of your second amended complaint."
Do you see your supplemental answer here?

A. I see it, yes.
Q. You reference the mediation award and then you state, quote, "At that time Dulberg realized that Mast's advice to settle with the McGuires for $5,000 was incorrect because Mast had cited Dulberg being able to recover in full from Gagnon as his reasoning."
A. I do.
Q. Can you explain what that means because I don't quite understand it.
A. Hans Mast assured me – I want to go back to 2013, the Fall between October and the signature of the final release for the McGuires.
He assured me that, he said -- at that time he didn't tell me what anybody's policies were. He assured me that if we let the McGuires out of the case, Gagnon has enough insurance, you're going to get everything from him, so it doesn't matter that you're carrying the McGuires in the case.
Q. The next interrogatory is 27. "Identify and describe the expert opinions provided to you in December 2016 as alleged in paragraph 57 of your second amended complaint including the identity of the expert, any opinions and any other information provided by the expert which caused you to learn in the summer of 2016 and became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent you."

What does the summer of 2016 have to do with your discovery of malpractice?

A. Technically, I was sent Dr. Landford's report – I might be off a little by a couple months here, but I think in July of that year. And I read it, but I didn't – you don't catch everything the first time you read it.

It was not until later that I caught the part of the report that was brought to the attention – it caught my eye when I was sitting there and reading it.

Q. You didn't read any of this interrogatory or the original interrogatory as requesting legal opinions that you had alleged that gave you notice that there was a malpractice claim against Mast and Popovich?

A. Excuse me?

MR. FLYNN: Can you read that back.

(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)

Page 118

BY THE WITNESS:

A. The way she said it, I don't understand.

BY MR. FLYNN:

Q. I'll rephrase it.

We've known about this allegation in the original complaint since it was filed. You received some legal opinion in 2016. That's why you didn't know you had a malpractice case against Mast and Popovich.

We asked you in discovery answers a couple different ways what those legal opinions are. You didn't read 26 and 27 as requesting information about legal opinions?

A. I don't know that an expert witness would be considered a legal opinion. Wouldn't that be more like an attorney?

Q. I'll ask you again. Why is it that you first became aware of a legal malpractice matter against Mast and Popovich on or about December 16, 2016?

A. December 16th I was talking to a legal malpractice attorney.

Q. You were told that there was a case against –

Page 119

A. A valid case, yes.

Q. – Mast and Popovich?

A. Yes.

Q. Why is it you didn't know about this valid case prior to that date?

A. Because I hadn't talked to anybody that was a lawyer that specialized in that area.

Q. Whatever it is that he said to you gave you the basis for believing you had a valid case against Mast and Popovich?

A. Very much so, yes.

Q. You're withholding that information from me right now, as we sit here. You won't tell me what that expert said, correct?

MS. WILLIAMS: Repeat the question.

(WHEREUPON, the record was read by the reporter as requested.)

MS. WILLIAMS: I'm asserting attorney-client privilege on behalf of my client for Gooch's advice on December – in December of 2016.

However, because I want to move forward with this deposition, if he can answer the question, I believe we should go ahead and move forward and have him answer the question.

Page 120

I'll assert the privilege with the understanding that this may have to be briefed later.

MR. FLYNN: To be stricken later?

MS. WILLIAMS: Right.

MR. FLYNN: The substance of the answer he can put on the record. You're just saying you may move to strike it later?

MS. WILLIAMS: Right. I want to maintain the privilege with the objection, but I don't want to have to call the judge right now. I don't think it's something we should have to call the judge about right now.

MR. FLYNN: Just for the record, I believe it's been placed at issue by virtue of the first amended complaint. The responses to the statute of limitation defenses that were raised in very dispositive motions before Gooch withdrew from the case, the gist of that is the discovery rule has been raised and, therefore, it's our position that the date of discovery has been placed at issue and, accordingly, any legal opinions that were provided to this plaintiff have been exposed and that we're entitled to know what those are.

Page 121

MS. WILLIAMS: Can I also note one more thing?
MR. FLYNN: Sure.
MS. WILLIAMS: In the supplemental – in the request it specifically refers to paragraph 57 of the second amended complaint, which is different.
MR. FLYNN: It is different. I'll acknowledge that. I believe that the prior original interrogatories asked for any opinions relative to the discovery of the malpractice. I could be wrong. There was a reason I asked this and that's why I believe that's what it was about.
MS. WILLIAMS: So –
MR. FLYNN: That particular one I agree with you is not phrased as calling for –
MS. WILLIAMS: Right. That's the question that was asked. We answered the question that was asked, which that particular paragraph does not refer to a legal expert. It just merely – I'll read it out loud. "It was not until the mediation in December of 2016 based on the expert's opinion that Dulberg retain for mediation that Dulberg became reasonably aware."
I just want it clear that he did answer the question that was asked. I understand your line of questioning and we'll agree to move forward.

MR. FLYNN: I believe there were other discovery requests that did point to that and I think we can take a break here and I can find them fairly quickly because I think we're getting close to the end anyway.
MS. WILLIAMS: Okay.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Did you ever receive any money from the mediation award?
A. No. I received money from the bankruptcy itself. It was a surplus bankruptcy.
Q. There was a $300,000 award given in the mediation.
A. That did not go to me. That went to bankruptcy.
Q. It was collected on your behalf and paid to the bankruptcy trustee, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. All $300,000?
A. I don't know that because I think – I don't know how exactly it works. I heard attorneys have a lien that's special. I don't know how they break it up. I assume it goes to the trustee.

Page 123

Q. The Boudins weren't working for free. They got something out of it, right?
A. Yes.
Q. The trustee took the remainder and paid off some of your creditors, correct?
A. Correct. All of them.
Q. But the award was paid to the trustee on your behalf?
A. I believe so. I don't know how it worked.
Q. How much was the surplus after your creditors were paid?
A. After just the creditors?
Q. How much did you get?
A. How much did I get?
Q. Yes.
A. A third.
Q. I'm asking how much money did you get?
A. A third of the award.
Q. Dollars. How much money did you get?
A. Roughly a hundred.
Q. $100,000?
A. I don't know the exact number. It's roughly a hundred.

Page 124

Q. Was there a check that was issued to you?
A. By the trustee, yes.
Q. Did you cash it?
A. Yes.
Q. At what bank?
A. McHenry Bank & Trust.
Q. Do you still have an account there?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you have a copy of the canceled check?
A. I'm sure the bank has a photo thing.
Q. You can request a copy of the check, correct?
A. I could. I could see if they got it.
Q. I would ask you to do that. If you have any other documentation relative to the payouts that were made by the bankruptcy trustee on your behalf, we are requesting that information.
MR. FLYNN: Why don't we take a break and I'm going to look for one document and then we're just about done here.
(WHEREUPON, a recess was had.)
MR. FLYNN: Mark these as the next two.

Page 125

(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 12, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked Exhibit No. 13, for identification, as of 02/19/2020.)
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I'm going to show you what I've marked as Exhibits 12 and 13. Twelve are your answers to Hans Mast's interrogatories. Thirteen is your responses to Popovich's request for production.
Interrogatory No. 1 from Mast asks, "Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach."
Do you understand that?
A. Yes.
Q. So how is it they committed malpractice?
A. May I see it?
Q. I'm going to show it to you in a second. I only have one copy.
This is basically, how did you first become aware that they committed malpractice?

Page 126

That's the essence of that interrogatory.
Here is your response. I can show that to you. It doesn't reflect any discussion with any malpractice lawyer in December of 2016.
Tell me –
A. Let me read it again. We're talking about No. 1 on this?
Q. Correct.
A. Okay.
Q. You understand it?
A. Yes.
Q. Would you agree that the legal opinion you received on December 16, 2016 is responsive to that interrogatory, whatever it is that you were told?
A. Yes.
Q. You didn't identify this December 16, 2016 discussion in the answer to that interrogatory, correct?
A. Say that again.
Q. Your discussion with Mr. Gooch on December 16, 2016, that's referenced in your original complaint, you didn't respond and identify it in this answer to the interrogatory, correct?

Page 127

A. This asks for every way Popovich or Mast breached the duty of care. It didn't ask for Gooch's opinion.
Q. How did you find out that Mast and Popovich breached the duty of care to you? Because Gooch told you, right?
A. Yes.
Q. That's what you've alleged here in this complaint.
A. Yes.
Q. Here I'm asking you, each and every way that they ever breached a duty of care to you. I covered the waterfront. You didn't answer --
A. On the McGuire case it was between October 2013 and January 2014. Yes. There's a multitude of things and that's why I listed a range.
Q. I'm asking when you became aware of it, in that interrogatory. Do you see that?
A. I became aware of that when Thomas Gooch read them and said there's a problem here.
Q. That's not the way you answered the interrogatory, correct?
A. I answered the first part. I did not answer after the comma and the and.

Page 128

Q. There's no objection and indication that any information is being withheld, correct?
A. Excuse me?
Q. There's no objection and an indication that you're withholding –
A. I was not withholding.
Q. I'll show you Exhibit 13. It asks – Exhibit 13 are the production requests to you. Number 8 asks for you to produce a privilege log identifying the creator and recipient of any document withheld, the basis for any claimed privilege, the date the document was created and the date the recipient received the document.
The answer is, "The plaintiff is only withholding attorney-client communication between his successor counsel."
Is that your answer to the production request and did I accurately read No. 8?
A. May I consult with her for a minute?
Q. Sure.
THE WITNESS: Can we go off the record?
MS. WILLIAMS: If you can answer the question, answer the question first.

BY THE WITNESS:
A. It's been a while since I've done this, so I'm not sure who the successor counsel is. Is it her or is it the Boudins or Balke?
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. I think successor counsel, we can both agree, the successor counsel in the underlying case which would be Balke and then Boudin.
You didn't identify any documents withheld other than documents between you and successor counsel, correct?
THE WITNESS: I believe we waived those, didn't we, for Balke and Boudin?
MS. WILLIAMS: For Balke and Boudin we can represent that we waived those.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. Let me ask a different question.
Did Gooch communicate with you in writing relative to his opinion that you had a legal malpractice case against Mast and Popovich?
A. In writing?
Q. Yes.
A. I suppose the agreement between us that he would represent me because I had the case is a document in writing.

Q. Did he tell you – strike that.
The discussion that you reference in the complaint, paragraph 20 of December 16, 2016, was that a face-to-face communication with Gooch?
A. What number is that?
Q. Exhibit 4, paragraph 20. The legal opinion you received, was it verbal, was it written?
A. I believe it was verbal.
Q. Now, I'm going to ask you what he said. There was an objection and that will be addressed by the Court later. Please tell me what Gooch told you.
A. He read what I brought him, looked through some things, and I don't remember if it was the same day that we talked to him or he took a day or two. I don't remember. He got back to me and he said, "You have a case here. You have a valid case."
Q. Did he say why?
A. On the basis of what I brought to him. Yes.
Q. Specifics, though. I don't want to talk about generalities. Did he tell you what Mast and

Page 131

Popovich did wrong and how it injured you?
A. How it injured me? Yeah.
Q. The first part of my question was, did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with your – their representation of you?
A. He probably did. I'm not recalling it right now. I'm pulling a blank.
The parts of the conversation I'm remembering, and for some reason I'm not pulling it. We've been at this a while and this is a long thing. Yes, he said based on what he saw, he saw reason for malpractice.
Q. You don't remember any details, as you sit here? Did you discuss the liability of property owners in Illinois?
A. Well, if they were just property owners in the case, that would be one thing, but they weren't just property owners.
Q. That wasn't my question. I'm asking if you discussed it?
A. Certainly.
Q. You and Gooch discussed the liability of the McGuires in the case?
A. Yes.

Q. What did you say to him and what did he say to you?
A. I showed him the expert opinion.
Q. The chainsaw expert?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you show him any deposition transcripts?
A. Yes.
Q. Which ones?
A. All of them.
Q. And he read them before you talked?
A. I don't remember. Like I said, it may have been a few days between our initial meeting and bringing the whole file that I had and trying to get what the Boudins had and letting him go through it. I don't remember how long that took.
Q. How did you transmit the documents to him –
A. My brother carried them.
Q. Let me finish.
How did you transmit the documents to Mr. Gooch, including the deposition transcripts?
A. I believe we brought him a box.
Q. So you physically handed the documents to him?

A. I didn't physically hand them. My brother did.
Q. Did you communicate with Mr. Gooch by e-mail, at all, leading up to this meeting?
A. No.
Q. Did he ever write you any letters?
A. An e-mail or regular mail or what are you talking about?
Q. Any letters whatsoever.
A. Throughout the course of his representation, yes.
Q. What about in December of 2016?
A. I believe we started communicating in December, yes.
Q. But in writing?
A. In e-mails, sure.
Q. Did he discuss –
A. We may have. I'm not – whenever we started – whenever he started sending me things and going back and forth, I don't remember the exact date, but it was right after he started representing me, sure, we exchanged e-mails and started, yes.
Q. When did Gooch begin representing you?

Page 134

A. The day that he agreed to represent me. I believe it would have been the day that he decided that he had a case.
Q. On or about December 16?
A. Yes.
Q. At that point in time, or shortly thereafter, he communicated with you in writing the details of the breach of the standard of care committed by Popovich and Mast; is that correct?
A. I believe he started to detail those out in the complaint and we were working it back and forth trying to get it right.
Q. When did you first exchange drafts of the complaint?
A. I'd have to look back in the e-mails. I don't remember the dates.
Q. Did you look for any of these e-mails in connection with my discovery requests in this case?
A. At the time I think we thought they were privileged.
Q. That privilege objection wasn't exactly made. My question is, did you look for them?
A. Did I look for them? I have them.
Q. I would ask that you preserve each and every communication between you and Mr. Gooch, all written communications, even phone records that might reflect the dates and times of your phone communications, if any. Did you use a cell phone back then?

A. I used VOIP over a data line.
Q. Who was your carrier?
A. Comcast.
Q. Is that still your carrier?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you have the same phone that you utilized?
A. Same phone number for 50 years, yes.
Q. What else could you remember that Gooch told you on or about the 16th of December 2016 about Mast and Popovich breaching the standard of care and how it damaged you?
A. Say that again.
Q. What, if anything, else do you recall about your discussions with Gooch on December 16 regarding the breach of the standard of care by Popovich and Mast and how it injured you?
A. We discussed the whole scenario between October and January and what happened. It was pretty detailed. We discussed everything that you see that's been communicated in the e-mails. He didn't have much else to go on other than the documents and the e-mails.

Q. You're talking about the e-mails between you and Hans from the fall of 2013?
A. Yes.
Q. Ultimately leading to the $5,000 settlement?
A. Yes.
Q. Other than you have a case, what did Gooch say to you?
A. He said that they definitely committed malpractice.
Q. Did he ever put this in writing?
A. Did he ever put it in writing? I think he backed it up by filing a suit. That's documented.
Q. Again, the suit wasn't filed until November of 2017.
A. Yes, he had some health problems and then his wife had some health problems. Believe me, I was pushing for him to get that done.
Q. From December of 2016 until the complaint was filed, you exchanged some drafts of complaints with him?

A. I believe he let me see what he wanted to put in the complaint. I got to review some things. Of course I had, do this or that's not right. In fact, a couple of these things in here we had to definitely – you caught one. He totally worded it wrong. It was wrong. We had to amend.
MS. WILLIAMS: His question was, did he give you drafts for you to review?
THE WITNESS: Yes.
BY MR. FLYNN:
Q. These were exchanged by e-mail?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. So you would have records of them?
A. Yes.
Q. Any comments with respect to the pleadings, as well, did you ever ask him questions? Did he explain to you the basis for the allegations in the draft complaints, similar to what you did with Hans?
A. Over many times, yes.
Q. This is all reflected in e-mails?
A. Yes.

Page 138

Q. Ultimately, you didn't file until November of 2017?
A. Correct.
Q. Popovich ceased being your lawyer March 19 of 2015, correct?
A. That sounds about right.
Q. Until December 16, 2016, you didn't have any reason to believe there was a malpractice case against –
A. Say the date again.
Q. Until December 16, 2016, you didn't have any other reason to believe there was a malpractice case against Popovich and Mast?
A. I did not know that I had a case, no.
Q. You threatened one with respect to the Gagnon case –
A. Yes.
Q. – at another point in time, correct?
A. I think I threatened him a few times in there. Yeah. I was actually nice to what I really wanted to say.
Q. Subject to the ruling on these objections, you don't recall any other specific details that you discussed with Popovich – I'm sorry – Gooch on December 16, other than what we already talked about?

A. I discussed the exact same things that you – the same documents that you already have. We went over the case that Mast and Popovich had against the McGuires. He followed through all the way to the end. We went over the whole case. You see as much as he did.
Q. Did Gooch ever explain to you why the McGuires would have been liable any more than Mast explained to you that they wouldn't be liable?
A. He said he agreed right away. He said that's obvious.
Q. Did Gooch ever provide you with any cases or statutes?
A. Provide to me, maybe. Maybe. I don't know.
Q. Would that be by e-mail?
A. It could be. I was in his office quite a few times. He may have.
Q. As you sit here today, other than you have a case against Popovich and Mast, what did Gooch tell you specifically that was any different than what Mast and Popovich told you with respect to the McGuires' liability?

A. That they were definitely liable. He tried to say that – like Popovich and Mast were first- or second-year lawyers and that they may have made a mistake here.
I said they've got 20 years in this. You think they'd know the difference. That's the kind of thing. He agreed with me. Twenty years, yeah, they should have known better.
Q. Did you ever discuss the specifics of the McGuires' potential liability with Gooch?
A. Liability with Gooch?
Q. With Gooch, did you ever discuss the specifics of the McGuires' liability other than he thinks you have a case?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he ever tell you why? What was it?
A. Because he agreed with the expert's opinion.
Q. The expert on the chainsaw?
A. Yes. The liability expert.
Q. The expert said you should use safety goggles and gloves and things like that?
A. He said more than that, but yes.

Page 141

Q. Do you know who commissioned that expert report?
A. Boudins.
Q. Do you know when the first draft of that doctor's expert report was circulated?
A. I heard that Boudin got it in February, maybe. I don't think I got it until July, but I'm not sure about that.
Q. July of what year?
A. The same year as the mediation.
Q. Of 2016?
A. Yeah.
Q. So you actually read it in advance of the mediation?
A. I talked about this earlier. I said yes. You don't catch everything the first time you read it. I was sitting there at the mediating table and I was reading it and I caught it and I turned to Randy and I said, after it was over, does this mean – that means.
Q. Means what?
A. Does this mean the McGuires are liable? Yeah, that means they are liable. He said, call my office after everything and I'll give you a name for an attorney you should go see.

MR. FLYNN: Any follow-up, Julia?
MS. WILLIAMS: I have two follow-up questions.

EXAMINATION

BY MS. WILLIAMS:
Q. Did you ever give Hans authority to make a settlement demand regarding Mr. Gagnon?
A. I think at one time in one of my meltdown letters I said get whatever you can, but no, I never actually signed anything saying you have the right to offer a settlement.
Q. Did you ever give Hans authority to make a settlement demand with regard to the McGuires?
A. A demand, no. He said he was going to probe and see what was out there, and I said, if you want to do that, that's fine.
MS. WILLIAMS: I have no further questions.
MR. FLYNN: Signature?
MS. WILLIAMS: We can waive signature.
THE REPORTER: Are you ordering this?
MR. FLYNN: Yes.
THE REPORTER: Regular delivery, e-tran?
MR. FLYNN: Yes.
THE REPORTER: Copy?

DEFENDANTS, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.'S SUPPLEMENTAL REQUESTS FOR PRODUCTION TO PLAINTIFF

NOW COMES Defendant, The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. by and through its attorneys, Karbal, Cohen, Economou, Silk & Dunne, LLC, and pursuant to the provisions of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 214, respectfully requests Plaintiff, Paul Dulberg, to produce within 28 days at the law offices of Karbal, Cohen, Economou, Silk & Dunne, LLC, 150 South Wacker Drive, Suite 1700, Chicago, Illinois 60606, the following photographs, documents, objects, and other tangible things:

SUPPLEMENTAL PRODUCTION REQUESTS

1. Any and all documents relating to your "discovery" of any alleged breach of the standard of care or legal malpractice by Popovich or Mast, and which caused you damages or injury.

RESPONSE:

2. Any and all documents relating to any consultation or advice you received from any attorney or "legal expert" or legal malpractice expert which formed the basis for your alleged discovery of Mast's and Popovich's breach or breaches of the standard of care while they represented you in your claim or lawsuit against William and Caroline McGuire and David Gagnon.

RESPONSE:

3. Any and all documents regarding or reflecting advice from any attorney or legal expert, including but not limited to Tom Gooch, including but not limited to your communications with Tom Gooch in December 2016 (up to and including the date of the filing of your original complaint against Popovich and Mast), which relate to your discovery of any breach of the standard of care by Popovich or Mast and proximately caused damages or injury resulting therefrom.

RESPONSE:

4. Any and all documents regarding any damages you suffered at any time as a result of any breach of the standard of care by Popovich or Mast in their representation of you or provision of legal services to you.

RESPONSE:

5. Any and all documents which provide or form the basis for your contention that you did not discover until December 16, 2016 that you had been injured or damaged by Mast or Popovich's negligence in representing you in the claim or lawsuit against William and Caroline McGuire.

RESPONSE:

6. All documents, including letters and email communications between Tom Gooch on the one hand, and you on the other hand, regarding legal advice he provided to you on December 16, 2016 and thereafter, that you "had a malpractice case" against Popovich, as testified by you at pages 129-142 of your discovery deposition from February 19, 2020.

RESPONSE:

7. Any and all documents reflecting opinions by attorney Randy Baudin regarding the liability of the McGuire's, whether the advice or opinions were rendered at your mediation of the underlying case (on or about December 16, 2016) or prior thereto, as testified at your discovery deposition on February 19, 2020 (see page 141).

RESPONSE:

Respectfully submitted,

Julia:

I write pursuant to rule 201(k) and rule 219(c). Mr. Dulberg is late in responding to discovery pursuant the the extension you requested, and to which I agreed.

It is finally time for Mr. Dulberg to properly answer discovery in conformity to his allegations, and relative to the matters which he has placed at issue.

Once the Gooch discovery is produced, I would like to immediately depose Dulberg and Gooch. Please pass this along to your client.

You and your firm have been nothing but professional and it was a pleasure working with you.

Best regards,

Dear George,

I will certainly pass this along to our client.

Unfortunately, because we are withdrawing, we are not comfortable answering discovery when another counsel may be appearing. Mr. Dulberg is seeking new counsel and would like to have his new counsel answer. I expect that we will be withdrawing on September 10, 2020. The court will grant Mr. Dulberg 21 days to find alternative counsel. Based upon this, it is unlikely that any answers to supplemental discovery will be prepared prior to the end of September.

Thank you again for your time and courtesy in this case. It has been nice to work with you as well.

I just received your firm's motion to withdraw. If you could please pass along to Mr. Dulberg or his new counsel, that we must insist on the outstanding written discovery being answered by August 27, 2020 per our agreement below, it would be appreciated.

I think we have been very patient with Mr. Dulberg in responding to discovery which has been directed at his assertion of the discovery rule in this case, where he is attempting to overcome a statute of limitations defense (issues which are evident from the face of the pleadings and the applicable statutes involved).

The supplemental discovery we served merely clarified and more specifically identified communications and documents which were the subject of prior discovery requests, and some of which were identified at Mr. Dulberg's discovery deposition taken on February 19, 2020.

Please feel free to contact me if you would like to discuss this matter.

DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S MOTION TO SUPPLEMENT DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO COMPEL AND TO REQUEST HEARING ON PLAINTIFF'S COMPLIANCE WITH APRIL 6, 2021 ORDER ON DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO COMPEL

Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast (collectively "Popovich"), by and through their attorneys, Karbal, Cohen, Economou, Silk & Dunne, LLC, and for their Motion to Supplement Defendants' Motion to Compel and To Request Hearing on Plaintiff's Compliance with April 6, 2021 Order on Defendants' Motion to Compel, state as follows:

1) Defendants are bringing this motion to supplement their prior Motion to Compel and request a hearing on Plaintiff's compliance with the Court's April 6, 2021 Order (attached as Ex. A).

2) The Defendants never received a file-stamped copy of the draft order which their counsel submitted to the Court for entry on April 2, 2021 (see Group Ex. B, April 2, 2021 email from Linda Walters, and attached Order). Defendants never received a response, nor received electronic notice of the entry of the Order on April 6, 2021, and accordingly did not diary the June 14, 2021 hearing, and thus did not appear.

3) In the Court's April 6, 2021 Order granting Defendants' motion to compel, the Court ordered the Plaintiff to serve a supplemental answer to Mast's Interrogatory No. 1, and amend its responses to Popovich's Supplemental Request. The Court further ordered, "Plaintiff is directed to provide specific answers and responses to each interrogatory and production request.

4) On June 1, 2021, the Plaintiff served Exhibit C (Plaintiff's Amended Additional Answer to Defendant Hans Mast's Interrogatory to Plaintiff Paul Dulberg), and Exhibit D (Plaintiff's Amended Additional Response to Defendant The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C.'s Supplemental Request for Production). Dulberg also produced fourteen pages of bates labeled records (See Ex. E).

5) The Plaintiff has not complied with the Court's April 6, 2021 Order. Accordingly, Defendants respectfully request that the Court strike the non-responsive portions of Exhibits C, D, and E and close written discovery.

6) With respect to Exhibit C, Dulberg provide a "non-answer." Dulberg was ordered to specifically answer each discovery request. Mast's Interrogatory No. 1 states as follows: Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach. Dulberg's amended additional answer does not describe how there was a breach of the standard of care, he simply identifies a discovery date (December 12, 2016) based upon a binding mediation order. He does not describe the breach of the standard of care, or how, specifically, he became aware of it. He simply writes, "He knew the defendants breached the standard of care due him based upon a verbal discussion with Attorney Tom Gooch on December 16, 2016." He does not describe the discussion or explain how the standard of care was breached, or why his discussion with Tom Gooch enlightened him as to the breach.

7) Moreover, Popovich's supplemental requests for production are aimed specifically at identifying how Dulberg "discovered" his breach of the standard of care, and when he recognized damages as a result of same. In Exhibit D, Dulberg's amended additional response, Dulberg simply attaches various pages from pleadings in this case. He does not attach any discoverable materials, such as emails, letters, etc. Instead, he is simply regurgitating his position in this case. As previously argued in Defendants' Motion to Compel and at hearing, if Dulberg has no documents responsive to the discovery requests, and he has no basis for a tolling of the statute of limitations in this case, then his answer should simply state, "none." Enough is enough. Dulberg's non-responses to this discovery requests should be stricken, and he should be barred attempting to present any additional evidence in support of his tolling theory.

WHEREFORE Defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Hans Mast, respectfully request that this Court grant their Motion to Supplement Defendants' Motion to Compel and set hearing on Plaintiff's compliance with April 6, 2021 Order on Defendants' Motion to Compel, and for any and all further relief this Court deems just and appropriate.

Respectfully submitted,

PLAINTIFF'S AMENDED ADDITIONAL ANSWER TO DEFENDANT HANS MAST'S INTERROGATORY TO PLAINTIFF PAUL DULBERG

Now Comes Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, by and through his attorney Alphonse A. Talarico, and for his Amended Additional Answer to Defendant Hans Mast's Interrogatory #1 states as follows:

1. Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach.

ANSWER: Between October 2013 and January 2014, Mast told Dulberg that Illinois law does not permit a recovery against the McGuires' in the circumstances of Dulberg's case and that he would not receive any recovery from the McGuires. Mast advised Dulberg that the judge would rule in favor of the McGuires on a motion for summary judgment.

EXHIBIT C

Mast further told Dulberg that Dulberg would retain his claim against Gagnon and be able to seek and receive a full recovery from Gagnon.

AMENDED ADDITIONAL ANSWER: Dulberg discovered the pecuniary injury on December 12, 2016 based upon a binding mediation award and knew he had a legal malpractice case on December 16, 2016. He knew that the Defendants breached the standard of care due him based upon a verbal discussion with Attorney Tom Gooch on December 16, 2016.

Dulberg discovered in the defendants' document disclosure, POP 000192, that Mast had in fact sent the McGuires' attorney a $7,500.00 offer on October 22, 2013 without Dulberg's knowledge and that was before the November 4, 2013 meeting in Mast's office when Mast first asked Dulberg if Mast could probe and see what was on the table for a possible settlement with the McGuires.

Respectfully submitted,

Objection-privileged Bates stamped e-mail string 8744-8746

EXHIBIT D

2. Any and all documents relating to any consultation or advice you received from any attorney or "legal expert" or legal malpractice expert which formed the basis for your alleged discovery of Mast's and Popovich's breach or breaches of the standard of care while they represented you in your claim or lawsuit against William and Caroline McGuire and David Gagnon.

Misstates Plaintiff Paul Dulberg's contention was that he discovered the injury on December 16, 2016.

Dulberg actually discovered the pecuniary injury on December 12, 2016 and actually discovered he had a legal malpractice case on December 16, 2016.

2020 IL App (1st) 191953 Nos. 1-19-1953 & 1-19-1973 (consol.) Opinion filed November 30, 2020 Modified upon denial of rehearing December 31, 2020 which is equally available to all parties.

Paul Dulberg

June 1, 2021

LA 178. (Exhibit 2, ¶ 9, and Exhibit 2B)[1]. In late 2013, Dulberg settled with the McGuires and executed a Release in their favor in exchange for the payment of $5,000.00. The McGuires and their insurance carrier, Auto Owners Insurance Company, were released. (Exhibit 2, ¶ 18 and Exhibit 2D). Defendants continued to represent Dulberg until March 2015. (Exhibit 2, ¶ 21). Dulberg retained successor counsel and proceeded to a binding mediation and received a mediation award (Exhibit 2, ¶ 24 and Exhibit 2G). After the mediation, Dulberg allegedly realized for the first time that the information Mast and Popovich had given him was false and misleading and that the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake. He was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016. (Exhibit 2, ¶ 28-29).

B. Alleged Acts of Negligence

Popovich's and Mast's alleged malpractice revolves around the settlement of the underlying case between Dulberg and McGuires. The allegations of a breach of the standard of care are all contained in ¶ 31, subsections a) through o) inclusive. Paragraph 31 states as follows:

> 31. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBERG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:
>
> a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG, for example hiring a liability expert;
> b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

[1] The exhibits to the underlying complaint in Case No. 12 LA 178 will be referenced as Exhibits 2A, 2B, 2C, 2D, 2E, 2F, and 2G.

EXHIBIT E

28. Following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, DULBERG realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information MAST and POPOVICH had given DULBERG was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake.

29. It was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinions that DULBERG retained for the mediation, that DULBERG became reasonably aware that MAST and POPOVICH did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000.00 on an "all or nothing" basis.

30. DULBERG was advised to seek an independent opinion from a legal malpractice attorney and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.

31. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBERG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:

a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG, for example hiring a liability expert;

b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

c) Failed to conduct necessary discovery, so as to fix the liability of the property owners to DULBERG, for example hiring a liability expert;

d.) Failed to investigate the insurance policy amounts of the McGuires and Gagnon;

e.) Incorrectly informed DULBERG that Gagnon's insurance policy was "only $100,000.00" and no insurance company would pay close to that; fact." (Emphasis added) (citation omitted) Abazari v. Rosalind Franklin University of Medicine and Science, 2015 IL App (2d) 140952, ¶37 (2nd Dist., 2015).

44. DULBERG would have had 5 years from the date of discovery to bring his cause of action under fraudulent concealment. "If a person liable to an action fraudulently conceals the cause of such action from the knowledge of the person entitled thereto, the action may be commenced at any time within 5 years after the person entitled to bring the same discovers that he or she has such cause of action, and not afterwards." See 735 ILCS 5/13-215.

45. DULBERG's Complaint states that DULBERG discovery the negligence of the Defendants on December 16, 2016 when he was informed by outside counsel of his claim for malpractice, or at the earliest by December 8, 2016 when DULBERG learned that he was limited in recovering his damages under the binding mediation.

46. Therefore DULBERG would have until December 2021 to file his claims under fraudulent concealment. DULBERG filed his claims well within the five-year fraudulent concealment statute.

CONCLUSION

After review of the allegations in the Complaint, this Honorable Court must find that DULBERG properly filed his claim for legal malpractice and is not judicially estopped from bringing those claims. Also, the claims are not time barred based on the discovery rule and fraudulent concealment. More importantly, due to the factual questions in this case, granting the Motion to Dismiss would be inappropriate. However, in the event this Court grants the Motion, DULBERG requests a reasonable time to file a First Amended Complaint.

RE: Your accident of January 24, 2013

Dear Mr. Dulberg:

Thank you for consulting with our firm on December 31, 2014 in regards to your personal injury case. Unfortunately, we have decided not to accept your case. Therefore, on behalf of Ferris, Thompson & Zweig, Ltd., we will not be taking any further action on your behalf as it relates to this matter. I believe you should not have settled with the property owners for $5,000.00. There are other reasons for my decision.

This is merely our professional opinion and does not mean you do not have a case. We recommend that you attempt to settle the case at the upcoming pretrial conference with your current attorney.

Sincerely,

Saul M. Ferris

On December 8, 2016, the matter was called for binding mediation before the Honorable James P. Etchingham, (Ret.), in Chicago, IL. According to the agreement entered into by the parties, if a voluntary settlement through negotiation could not be reached the mediator would render a settlement award which would be binding to the parties. Pursuant to that agreement the mediator finds as follows:

COUNTY OF McHENRY)

IN THE TWENTY-SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT
McHENRY COUNTY, ILLINOIS

PAUL DULBERG, Plaintiff, vs. THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. and HANS MAST, Defendants.	No. 17 LA 377

ELECTRONICALLY RECORDED Report of Proceedings in the above-entitled cause before the Honorable THOMAS A. MEYER, Judge of said Court of McHenry County, Illinois, on the 19th day of July, 2021, in the McHenry County Government Center, Woodstock, Illinois.

APPEARANCES:

LAW OFFICE OF ALPHONSE A. TALARICO, by MR. ALPHONSE A. TALARICO (via Zoom)

On behalf of the Plaintiff;

KARBAL COHEN ECONOMOU SILK DUNNE, LLC, by MR. GEORGE K. FLYNN

On behalf of the Defendants.

THE COURT: Counsel?

MR. FLYNN: No. 10, your Honor. I see Mr. Talarico. George Flynn on behalf of defendant/movant.

THE COURT: Dulberg versus Mast?

MR. FLYNN: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. I saw Mr. Talarico. All right. Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge. Good morning.

THE COURT: All right. Counselor here in court, what's going on?

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, your Honor. We brought a motion to supplement our motion to compel. The Court ruled on April 6th and granted defendant's motion to compel and set a June 14 compliance date.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: I'm sorry. June 1st compliance date with a June 14 hearing. Somehow I don't believe we got a copy of the file stamped order and it didn't get diaried, so I believe the case was called on June 14 --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: -- and a continue date August 19th.

THE COURT: You got inadequate compliance, is that ultimately --

MR. FLYNN: That's our position, yes.

THE COURT: All right. I'm going to pass this. We'll come back to it. And let me see if I can take a look at the compliance at issue.

Mr. Talarico, just hang in there. I'll be back at the end of the call.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, your Honor.

(Whereupon the afore-captioned cause was recalled.)

THE COURT: Let's go to Dulberg. All right. Plaintiff's counsel for the record, if you could identify yourself.

MR. TALARICO: Good morning, your Honor. My name is Alphonse Talarico. I represent Paul Dulberg.

MR. FLYNN: And good morning again, your Honor. George Flynn on behalf of Popovich and Mast.

THE COURT: All right. So tell me what the issue is.

MR. FLYNN: Again, your Honor, the Court ruled on April 6th that the plaintiff was directed to provide the specific answers and responses to each interrogatory and production request. So we did receive supplemental production responses and a supplemental interrogatory answer. With respect to the supplemental production, there is one document that I consider to be responsive and that is new.

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. FLYNN: There is one document that was produced and I consider it to be responsive and a new production. The rest of the documents that were produced, it's unusual. There are actual pleadings from this case that were attached as responsive documents to my discovery requests. I don't see how those -- which basically just set forth the plaintiff's position in this case in response to the various arguments we've made in motions.

THE COURT: Well, what is it you're looking for? What didn't you get?

MR. FLYNN: I'm looking to strike any of those documents --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: -- that are not responsive.

THE COURT: Is it -- I mean, really is it necessary to go to the trouble of striking them if they're -- I mean, ultimately they're not going to be relevant as a discovery response.

MR. FLYNN: Only -- I just want to make sure there aren't any additional documents that were --

THE COURT: Are there any additional documents, Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I have no idea if -- it's our position we complied completely. We filed our answers on June 1st. If the Court had -- I don't know if the Court remembers, you had ordered us, plaintiff and defendant, to talk up through June 14th to see if there were any issues. The only response I got from the defendants was an e-mail with one word. As I told you on June 14th, the only word was, Thank you. Now I am totally surprised, 73 days later, Judge, and I don't know what else -- I want time to respond in writing, Judge. This is --

THE COURT: I don't -- I don't want to do that.

MR. TALARICO: This has been difficult.

THE COURT: This is --

MR. FLYNN: Yes, it has, Judge.

THE COURT: So what is it you -- what is it you are looking for? Because I have a representation on the record -- and I'm assuming there's an affidavit of compliance.

MR. TALARICO: There is.

THE COURT: Okay. Then -- and he says, I've given you everything.

MR. FLYNN: That's fine with respect to the production response. Now there's the interrogatory answer.

THE COURT: All right. Tell me -- we're moving on to the interrogatory.

MR. FLYNN: And again, this goes to the statute of limitations on a legal malpractice case. The plaintiff is claiming that he didn't discover it until after the 2 years --

THE COURT: Could you keep your voice up a little?

MR. FLYNN: Sure. Plaintiff is arguing for a tolling of the statute of limitations on a legal malpractice case. He was asked in Interrogatory No. 1, Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach.

His response -- his amended additional response discusses his pecuniary injury, that only addresses damages. With respect to the breach of the standard of care and how he discovered it, he simply says he knew that the defendants breached the standard of care due him based upon a verbal discussion with Attorney Tom Gooch on December 16, 2016.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: That describes the date. It doesn't describe how he became aware of it, what Gooch told him. Now, again, I know your Honor is aware of the deposition testimony in this case regarding that December 16 time period. If the answer is that Dulberg doesn't remember what Mr. Gooch told him, if Gooch said simply, You have a case, that's fine. That's what they should say. But I've already taken his deposition. There are no specifics that explain to me why Mr. Gooch crystallized this breach of the standard of care on December 16. But if this is all they have, then that's what he should say, is that I don't remember what Mr. Gooch told me.

THE COURT: I mean, he's -- I think he's complied. I'm not sure --

MR. FLYNN: What is the breach of the standard of care?

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. FLYNN: And what is the breach of the standard of care? That's what I've asked in the interrogatory. They don't say.

THE COURT: Well, I think that -- all right. I guess that is -- my reading on it, it's implied it's a statute of limitations. But --

MR. FLYNN: No, the statute of limitations is the issue in this case.

THE COURT: All right. What is the --

MR. FLYNN: The underlying personal injury case --

THE COURT: What is the breach? Did Mr. Gooch advise him what the breach was?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, all that Mr. Dulberg recalls was relayed in the responses. There were no recordings that were going on. Nothing was done in writing. I'm not sure how I can possibly respond anymore, to give anymore.

THE COURT: I have a representation that this is all there is.

MR. FLYNN: That's satisfactory to me. As long as when I file my summary judgment motion there's not some new discovery discussion as to --

MR. TALARICO: Judge --

MR. FLYNN: -- what the breach was and what --

MR. TALARICO: I'm sorry. I hate to interrupt. Judge?

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. TALARICO: We -- again, we were -- our response, I believe is in total compliance with the Court order of June 6th and your instructions on that day from the court record. And I'd like to respond in writing to establish that we did that.

THE COURT: No. No. I mean, you're -- you only need to respond in writing if we're going to have a hearing. If you want to file a brief that -- just in the file, that's fine, but I think we have a resolution today and I don't want to spend more time reading briefs resolving an issue that's moot. So I think this is resolved. What else is outstanding?

MR. FLYNN: I think that does resolve -- the representation resolves both issues, so --

THE COURT: I have -- you have advised -- well, you've advised that's all there is, so I'm finding you in compliance.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you, your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Is there anything else we need to do?

MR. FLYNN: I suppose with respect to the summary judgment motion that I anticipate, Judge, there was one document that was produced in order to avoid a second deposition of Mr. Dulberg to authenticate this document, which is a letter from Attorney Thompson -- I'm sorry -- Attorney Ferris -- that goes to the issue of the statute of limitations. If Mr. Talarico would stipulate to the authenticity of this March 4, 2015 letter on the record, I don't need to send a request to admit for --

THE COURT: Can you hear all that?

MR. TALARICO: I heard it, Judge, but I'm not familiar with that document. A request to admit would be welcome.

MR. FLYNN: Fair enough.

MR. TALARICO: Just so I can see what it is.

THE COURT: That's fine. We're back again on August 19th. Do you want to delay that date in light of the fact you may be issuing a request to admit?

MR. FLYNN: I think that would make sense.

THE COURT: All right. So let's strike August 19th and tell me when it makes sense to come back.

MR. FLYNN: I'll need at least 30 days, so --

THE COURT: 60 days?

MR. FLYNN: A 60-day date would be great.

THE COURT: How's September 17th? That's a Friday.

MR. TALARICO: Fine with me, Judge.

MR. FLYNN: That works for me.

THE COURT: All right. So that will be at 8:45 and then we'll see what you guys want to do when you come back. And are you withdrawing your motion or ...

MR. FLYNN: I think that --

THE COURT: Or do you want me expressly to find compliance based on representations in open court?

MR. FLYNN: I'm not requesting a hearing any longer. I think we resolved the matter. So yeah, I'll withdraw it.

THE COURT: All right. Motion's withdrawn. The record still stands. I did find that you were in compliance and we'll deal with the next step whenever it comes up. But I will see you September 17th and if you could draft the order.

MR. FLYNN: I will. Thank you, your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

Mr. Talarico, anything else?

MR. TALARICO: No, Judge, thank you for your time.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

Dulberg is providing evidence that the accused attorneys act as a network. Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys protected Dulberg's personal injury attorneys from being discovered committing fraud. When Dulberg initiated a lawsuit against the PI attorneys, the defendants claimed that 2 years has already passed from the time Dulberg "first knew" of any "injury".

This is in fact what happened when Dulberg initiated a legal malpractice claim against Popovich and Mast (17LA377). It also happened when Dulberg initiated a legal malpractice claim against the Baudins (22L010905). In both cases defendants Popovich and Mast and the Baudin defendants moved to be dismissed since more than 2 years had passed since Dulberg "first knew" of any "injury".

This is why what Popovich and Mast did to Dulberg cannot be understood in its entirety without looking at what Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams also did to Dulberg. Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys were protecting Popovich and Mast (and others) against Dulberg.

The ARDC Complaint against Popovich and Mast describes how Popovich and Mast:[1]

- Redirected medical lien liability from the Defendants to Plaintiff
- Forged documents and destroyed evidence (at least 15 examples)
- Corrupted the interrogatory and document production process to sabotage client's case and to benefit defendants (in collaboration with opposing attorneys)
- Suppressed information on mental health issues related to Dulberg's injury
- Corrupted the deposition process to sabotage client's case and to benefit defendants in collaboration with opposing attorneys (9 out of 10 depositions have no valid certification pages)
- Knew Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted to negligence for Dulberg's injury
- Knew Defendant Gagnon committed perjury
- Knew Defendant Carolyn McGuire committed perjury
- Committed settlement fraud
- Violated federal bankruptcy laws

The ARDC Complaint against Balke describes how Balke:[2]

- Contracted with Dulberg and not with the Bankruptcy Trustee (who had standing as plaintiff)
- Told Dulberg (about 11 weeks later) he would withdraw counsel if Dulberg does not settle with Allstate for $50,000
- Violated federal bankruptcy laws

The Baudins were retained by Dulberg after Dulberg fired Balke. The Baudins:[3]

- Contracted with Dulberg instead of with the Bankruptcy Trustee
- Knew or should have known Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted to negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March, 2013
- Moved to cap the value of PI case 12LA178 (with defendants Allstate alone)
- Closed the deal with an upper cap of $300,000 (in violation of the automatic stay)
- Coerced Dulberg to agree and misinformed him of where the 'upper cap' came from
- Moved to contract with Bankruptcy Trustee only after capping value of 12LA178
- Misled Bankruptcy Judge that Dulberg wanted Binding Mediation (about 11 weeks after the deal was closed)

Additionally:

- Dulberg's signature was forged onto the ADR Binding Mediation Agreement
- Dulberg was coerced into signing Allstate Release

After these horrendous experiences with PI attorneys, Dulberg retained legal malpractice attorney Gooch who was recommended by the Baudins. After firing Gooch-Walczyk Dulberg then retained legal malpractice attorneys Clinton-Williams.

The legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams collaborated with opposing counsel to conceal from Dulberg what the personal injury attorneys did to Dulberg. The Baudins covered for Popovich, Mast and Balke. Legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk then covered for Popovich, Mast, Balke, and the Baudins. Legal malpractice attorneys Clinton and Williams then covered for Popovich, Mast, Balke, the Baudins and Gooch-Walczyk. It is a snowball of fraudulent concealment that keeps growing. For this reason it is not possible to fully understand what Popovich and Mast did and how they get away with it without understanding that Dulberg's retained legal malpractice attorneys were covering for Popovich and Mast, Balke and the Baudins (Dulberg's former personal injury attorneys).

'ARDC Complaint against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams' describes how Clinton and Williams collaborated with opposing counsel to benefit the defendants and sabotage Dulberg's case by suppressing large numbers of documents and playing 'hoaxes' on Dulberg including:[4]

- Document dump hoax[5]: where an attorney dumps over 6000 documents on their permanently disabled client just before resigning as counsel. The large dump is designed to hide the fact that many of these documents were being released for the first time (because they were being suppressed until then).
- Repeating document hoax[6]: where an attorney hides documents behind thousands of pages of duplicated, useless and dizzying material. In this case the attorney uses nearly the exact same list of documents arranged in alphabetical order that were released about 14 months earlier and releases them again, also in the exact same alphabetical order, with new bates-stamps claiming they may be new documents but they "aren't sure". This is a great way to appear to give thousands of new pages of documents to opposing counsel without providing a single new document in reality.
- Email hoax[7]: where an attorney horrendously butchers their own client's emails repeatedly before having them bates-stamped and turned over to opposing counsel.

6 Visual Aid 10 - Duplicating long alphabetical list hoax.png and paragraph 48 of "ARDC Complaint against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams"

7 Visual Aid 5 - Email hoax.png and paragraph 42 of "ARDC Complaint against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams"

- Lawyer emails by date hoax[8] : In this hoax an attorney receives the same email collection they already turned over to opposing counsel (which the client organized by month and year only for his own reference). The attorney treats it as a new release of documents to opposing counsel. The emails are then butchered before being bates-stamped and released to opposing counsel as 'new documents'.

- Hiding key evidence hoax (Tilschner)[9]: This hoax directly targets and suppresses a key piece of evidence. Even though an attorney downloads 3 documents together with very similar names, somehow the key document is 'mistakenly' placed in the wrong folder and is never given to opposing counsel or bates-stamped at all. Then, somehow, one of the accompanying documents is copied, given a new name, and placed back with the group to appear to substitute for the 'misplaced' document.

- 17LA377 document insertion hoax:[10] This is where an attorney takes many documents from the Common Law Record of the current case (that don't need to be bates-stamped and turned over to opposing counsel) and separates them from the others, renames all of them, and then adds them (in alphabetical order) to the documents that the attorney will bates-stamp and turn over to opposing counsel. This is a way to pad your bates-stamped documents with hundreds of pages of useless documents to further confuse your permanently disabled client.

Clinton and Williams used the massive suppression of documents and the hoaxes played on their permanently disabled client to:

- Conceal Dulberg's bankruptcy (from the 17LA377 Common Law Record and Reports of Proceedings)
- Suppress emails from Saul Ferris
- Suppress key evidence (Tilschner v Spangler certified slip ruling)
- Suppress large numbers of emails from Brad Balke
- Collaborate with opposing attorney to flood Dulberg with over 6,000 documents just before Clinton-Williams withdrew as Dulberg's counsel
- Suppress all information on what the Baudins did to Dulberg
- Suppress evidence that Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March, 2013.
- Collaborate with opposing counsel to suppress Barch documents before Dulberg's deposition

10 Visual Aid 3 - 377 document insertion hoax.png and paragraph 9 of "ARDC Complaint against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams"

- Collaborate with opposing counsel to weaken verification pages of discovery production
- Collaborate with opposing counsel during the deposition of Hans Mast and after

In addition, the ARDC Complaint Against Thomas W. Gooch and Sabina Walczyk describes how Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams 'teamed-up' to:[11]

- Conceal key evidence in collaboration with each other (Tilschner v Spangler certified slip ruling)
- Conceal admission of negligence of Defendant Gagnon for Dulberg's injury in underlying case 12LA178 in collaboration with each other
- Conceal Bankruptcy and Violations of Federal Bankruptcy Laws (automatic stay, loss of standing to pursue claim, capping value of assets in BK estate, etc) in collaboration with each other
- Conceal true sources of $300,000 upper cap on the value of the PI claim in collaboration with each other
- Intentionally confuse Statute of Limitations toll date, date of "injury", and placing Dulberg's privileged attorney-client communications at issue in collaboration with each other

Duhlberg hoax[12] shows a common 'inside joke' of mocking Dulberg as 'Duh'-lberg that began with Popovich-Mast and was continued by Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams. A court reporter also shared the inside joke[13] by mocking Dulberg.

What Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams did to Dulberg has to be looked at to fully understand what Popovich and Mast did to Dulberg. The malpractice attorneys were intentionally deceiving Dulberg to hide from Dulberg what the PI attorneys did to him. The legal malpractice attorneys were setting up conditions which allowed the defendants to claim Dulberg did not file a complaint within 2 years of when he "knew" or "should have known" of any "injury" done to him by the PI attorneys. They even shared the same inside jokes, both referring to their permanently disabled client as 'Duhlberg'. The PI attorneys then claimed it was 'too late' for Dulberg to file a lawsuit since he "first knew" or "should have known" of a possible "injury" more than 2 years earlier (while the legal malpractice attorneys hide from Dulberg all the acts of fraud). This is how the network is intentionally designed to work: The legal malpractice attorneys help set up a 2 year statute of limitations Summary Judgment for the Defendants so the cases against them will be dismissed.

The overall methods of how Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys worked together to sabotage Dulberg's legal malpractice case 17LA377 against Popovich and Mast can be seen in a series of 9 tables.

12 Visual Aid 11 - Mocking client.png Gooch once again referred to his permanently disabled client as 'Duhlberg' in an angry letter Gooch sent to Dulberg (see "ARDC Complaint Against Thomas W. Gooch and Sabina Walczyk", paragraph 93)

13 Group Exhibit 42_17LA377 purchased by Dulberg/Reports of Proceedings_Folders-Year-Month-Day-Case_Original file names/2018-11-13_17LA377_Duhlberg/

Table 1 shows[14] 4 different efforts that Popovich, Mast, Balke and the Baudins made to place an 'upper cap' on the value of Dulberg's PI case 12LA178. Dulberg reacted to the first effort by filing for bankruptcy. The next 3 attempts were made after Dulberg declared bankruptcy and in violation of the automatic stay and without informing the bankruptcy trustee. The 4th and final attempt place an 'upper cap' on the value of PI case 12LA178 was done successfully by the Baudins and Defendants Allstate, acting alone on or before August 10, 2016. Joseph Olsen, who first received permission to retain the Baudins about 11 weeks later, wasn't even appointed the bankruptcy trustee until August 31, 2016.

Table 2 shows[15] strategies and methods of 5 law firms retained by Dulberg. All successive attorneys to the same (fully disabled) client used the same overall strategy: To intentionally weaken or sabotage their own client's case.

All three personal injury attorneys retained by Dulberg acted in violation of the automatic stay. They continued to appear in the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court (which operated for approximately 25 months in violation of the automatic stay) claiming to represent Dulberg (who had no standing as plaintiff). All 3 PI attorneys made efforts to place a cap on the remaining case without having any authority from the Bankruptcy Court to do so. Both legal malpractice attorneys suppressed all information of how all 3 PI law firms violated federal bankruptcy laws from Dulberg and from the complaints.

All five law firms (3 personal injury law firms and 2 legal malpractice law firms) knew or could easily have discovered that personal injury defendant (who was operating the chainsaw that injured Dulberg) Gagnon effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March, 2013. None of the 5 law firms ever informed Dulberg of this. The original defendant and operator of the chainsaw, Gagnon, admitted to being negligent:

> About 10 months before Dulberg was coerced into settling with the owners of the property (the McGuire's) on which the accident occurred and for whom Gagnon was working.
>
> About 21 months before Dulberg declared bankruptcy.
>
> About 39 months before any binding mediation agreement with Gagnon was mentioned.
> About 40 months before any cap was placed on any binding mediation award from Gagnon.

There was no reason for any of these activities to take place if the defendant who operated the chainsaw already admitted to being negligent.

Table 3 shows[16] 5 incorrect versions of the origin of the $300,000 'upper cap' placed on the value of PI case 12LA178 given by Dulberg's own attorneys. None of the 5 versions are what Dulberg told his attorneys. In addition, the true origin of the 'upper cap' is clearly documented in 17LA377 Reports of Proceedings from June 13, 2016 to August 10, 2016. The 'upper cap' was placed on the value of 17LA377 by the Baudins and Defendants Allstate acting alone and over 7 weeks before the Baudins were authorized by the Bankruptcy Court to act on behalf of the bankruptcy estate. The Baudins and Defendants Allstate acted alone to set a $300,000 'upper cap' on the value of PI case 12LA178 about 3 weeks before bankruptcy trustee Olsen was appointed as bankruptcy trustee.

Table 4A shows[17] 3 incorrect versions of when Dulberg "first knew" of an "injury" given by Dulberg's counsel. Table 4B shows Table 4A in a simpler form.[18] Evidence shows that Gooch was already setting Dulberg up to lose on a 2 year statute of limitations argument during their first meeting together.[19]

Tables 3, 4A and 4B taken together show the methods used by Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys to attempt to discredit Dulberg and sabotage his case against Popovich and Mast. They simply made multiple contradictory and untrue statements in the 17LA377 Common Law Record and in the Records of Proceedings on behalf of Dulberg without his permission or knowledge. Tables 3, 4A and 4B show the base logic Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams used to set Dulberg up to fail.

The logic used in Tables 3, 4A and 4B led to the claims of statute of limitations toll dates shown in Tables 5A and 5B. Table 5A shows[20] toll dates given by opposing counsel Flynn. Table 5B shows[21] toll dates given by Dulberg's own attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams.

Table 6 shows[22] how key elements of opposing counsel Flynn's Summary Judgment arguments in 2022 were set up with the help of Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys since 2016. Flynn's Summary Judgment argument is broken down into 29 key elements. Elements are shown to be directly related to something Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys did to Dulberg. Table 6 shows how Dulberg was set up to fail by his own legal malpractice attorneys from the first day Dulberg met Gooch.

In reply to 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast' Flynn attached his Summary Judgment Motion. Table 6 shows how key elements of Flynn's Motion were set up years before by Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys. Table 6 shows Dulberg was being set up to be accused of Flynn's key claims from the first day Dulberg met Gooch.

Table 7 shows[23] how current Illinois law was applied by Officers of the Court in 17LA377 to Dulberg's case. The key statements made in defense of granting Summary Judgment to Defendants Popovich and Mast are gathered and compared.

Table 8 shows[24] patterns of collaboration between Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams on numerous issues. Dulberg retained Clinton-Williams almost 2 years after first retaining Gooch. It was not possible for Clinton-Williams to successfully suppress key documents unless Gooch-Walczyk suppressed the same key documents before them. They both did so to benefit Popovich and Mast among others.

Table 9 shows[25] 3 different cases of fraud on the court committed at Dulberg's expense. The first was during personal injury case 12LA178. When Dulberg was pressured to settle the remainder of the case for a low amount Dulberg reacted by declaring bankruptcy which opened a federal bankruptcy case in addition to PI case 12LA178. When Dulberg was later forced to accept an 'upper cap' of $300,000 on the value of the PI case Dulberg reacted by initiating legal malpractice claim 17LA377 against Popovich and Mast.

In addition to committing fraud against Dulberg, the named attorneys participated in a series of frauds on the judicial mechanism of the court.[26]

> "Fraud upon the court" has been defined by the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals to "embrace that species of fraud which does, or attempts to, defile the court itself, or is a fraud perpetrated by officers of the court so that the judicial machinery can not perform in the usual manner its impartial task of adjudging cases that are presented for adjudication."[27]

The 7th Circuit further stated:

> "a decision produced by fraud upon the court is not in essence a decision at all, and never becomes final."[28]

Fraud on the court is a fraud:

> "directed to the judicial machinery itself and is not fraud between the parties or fraudulent documents . . . . It is thus fraud where . . . the impartial functions of the court have been directly corrupted."[29]

Interestingly, the term "fraud on the court" is only mentioned in Rule 60(d)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, yet courts have also used this doctrine to order dismissal or default under other rules where a litigant has stooped to the level of fraud on the court.[30]

It is inappropriate for Flynn to represent Mast in the current ARDC complaint for the following reasons:

- Flynn was the opposing counsel in 17LA377 and directly participated in the large majority of acts of 'collaboration' or 'team-work' described in this letter and in 'ARDC Complaint

Snowden, 656 F. Supp. 1267, 1279 (E.D. Ky. 1986) (finding that where fraud is committed upon the court, the court's power to dismiss is inherent "to protect the integrity of its proceedings").

Against Thomas W. Gooch and Sabina Walczyk' and in 'ARDC Complaint against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams'.

- Evidence was given that Attorney Flynn collaborated with Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams from December, 2016 to July, 2020. Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys worked against Dulberg to destroy his case.
- To our knowledge Mr Flynn is listed as a person of interest in at least 2 and possibly 3 investigations being conducted by the Illinois Judicial Inquiry Board concerning the close personal relationship that exists between Judge Thomas Meyer and Thomas Popovich (Mr Flynn's other co-client to Mast) and the contrasting selective Judicial Recusal's and non-recusal's found in multiple cases including (but not limited to) 12LA178, 12LA326, 17LA377 and 18LA370 in the 22nd Judicial Circuit Law Division.

In addition to the acts of collaboration with opposing counsel cited in this reply letter, Mr Urbanski (a certified short hand reporter and owner of Urbanski Reporting) forwarded Dulberg's contact information to a "Carrie Vahl". Dulberg was contacted by someone named "Carrie Vahl" of Vahl Reporting Services and offered 5 deposition certification pages which appear to be forgeries. We do not believe that the person who claimed to be 'Carrie Vahl' was actually her (if Carrie Vahl even exists).[31] It is more likely than not that "Carrie Vahl" is actually an agent working on behalf of Mr Popovich and Mr Urbanski or is Mr Popovich or Mr Urbanski themselves. Flynn was and is opposing counsel and an agent of Popovich. The events suggest the opposing party most probably (1) offered documents to us which are most probably forgeries (as detailed by Omni Document Experts)[32] and (2) impersonated a court reporter named 'Carrie Vahl' conducting business with a client.

Mr Flynn (in case 18LA370) filed with the Circuit Clerk "DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND THOMAS J. POPOVICH'S MOTION/ MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF THEIR MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT". Attached to the memorandum as Exhibit 6, Mr Flynn included Mr Popovich's deposition recorded personally by Michael Urbanski. In his deposition on page 69 lines 10-11 Mr Popovich stated "I trust Mr. Urbanski implicitly, explicitly, in all ways". Since it was Michael Urbanski that connected us to "Carrie Vahl", this strongly suggests that Michael Urbanski has a close personal relationship with Mr Popovich and in no way can be considered a neutral party in any court proceeding involving Popovich.

17LA377 is currently under appeal. Flynn continues to use the same arguments in the appeal and use the same techniques described in this letter. The fraud continues to move through the appeal process as if the fraud does not exist. In this sense the appeal process continues to effectively justify and reward the fraud.

Classical definition of "gaslight" (Cambridge Dictionary):

> "to trick or control someone by making them believe that their memories or beliefs about something are wrong, especially by suggesting that they may be mentally ill"

Re: Thomas Popovich
i/r/t Paul Dulberg,
No. 2023IN03136

Dear Mr. Renfroe,

This responds to the Request for Investigation submitted by Paul Dulberg.

As you know, the Request for Investigation and accompanying materials consists of hundreds of pages. It appears Mr. Dulberg has complained about numerous lawyers with whom he had contact about injuries which he sustained in an accident involving a chainsaw. The accident occurred in 2011.

To the best of Mr. Popovich's recollection, Hans Mast from Mr. Popovich's law firm took in the Dulberg case. The representation agreement is attached. Exhibit 1. The fees were based on a contingency fee arrangement. Mr. Dulberg did not pay money to Mr. Popovich, Mr. Mast or the Popovich law firm. A lawsuit was filed on behalf of Mr. Dulberg in May 2012. Mr. Mast signed the complaint. Exhibit 2.

The case was difficult. The facts, as reported by Mr. Dulberg, were that Mr. and Mrs. McGuire lived in a neighborhood near Mr. Dulberg's house. The McGuire's son/stepson, David Gagnon, was cutting down a tree at the McGuire's home, using a chainsaw owned by the McGuires. Mr. Dulberg was assisting in the cutting down of the tree and offered some of the wood, to be used as fire wood. While the tree was being cut down, Mr. Dulberg's arm was injured when the chainsaw came into contact with his arm.

Mr. Gagnon was not a minor. There was some effort to connect Gagnon's actions to the McGuires, as their agent, acting under their supervision. There was also an issue of Mr. Dulberg's contributory negligence.

At some point after the case was filed, it was determined that claims against Mr. and Mrs. McGuire were not likely to succeed. Mr. Dulberg's claims against the McGuires

Defendants settled for $5,000.00. Mr. Dulberg executed a release, confirming his agreement to the settlement. Exhibit 3. There was a remaining defendant, Gagnon, who remained a defendant in the lawsuit. However, Mr. Dulberg was a difficult client. The Popovich law firm withdrew from representation in 2015 and Mr. Dulberg went on to be represented by other lawyers. Eventually, Mr. Dulberg obtained an arbitration award of $561,000.00 against Mr. Gagnon, which, apparently, exceeded insurance coverage of $300,000.00.

Despite the arbitration award, in 2017, Mr. Dulberg filed a legal malpractice case against Mr. Mast and the Popovich firm. In the lawsuit, Mr. Dulberg was initially represented by Thomas Gooch, III. The basis of the claim was that Mr. Dulberg was "coerced" into settling with Mr. and Mrs. McGuire. Exhibit 4. There were several complaints filed, and at some point, Mr. Dulberg changed lawyers (from Gooch to Edward X. Clinton). Mr. Popovich and his firm have legal malpractice insurance and they defended against the claims. Eventually, their attorney filed a motion for summary judgment, which was granted. Exhibit 3.

It appears that the Request for Investigation is based on the same allegations as the legal malpractice lawsuit. The allegations are strange and false.

The settlement with the McGuire Defendants was completely voluntary. Mr. Dulberg made the decision to settle with those Defendants, and settlement was recommended, because the claim against them was very weak. They did not employ Mr. Gagnon and could not be said to have supervised him because Mr. Dulberg was the person assisting Gagnon. In a multi-defendant case, it is not unusual to eliminate defendants who will eventually be dismissed and prosecute the best claims. That is what occurred with Mr. Dulberg's matter. The best claims were against Gagnon, as demonstrated and confirmed by the arbitration award. Exhibit 5. Counsel who represented Mr. Dulberg after the withdrawal of the Popovich firm did not question the decision.

In any event, even if the advice given was somehow not correct, there was no violation of any Rule of Professional Conduct. Mr. Dulberg had separate legal counsel who represented him after the Popovich firm withdrew. If there had been legal malpractice, then Dulberg had counsel who could have advised him of his rights, with the applicable statute of limitations. 735 ILCS 5/2-214.1.

Overall, it appears that Mr. Dulberg is dissatisfied with the limitations which existed on his claim (insurance coverage limitations, contributory negligence and weak claims against McGuires). None of those limitations were caused by Mr. Popovich or Mr. Mast. The decision to settle with Mr. and Mrs. McGuire was correct. Even if not correct, neither Mr. Popovich nor Mr. Mast violated the Rules of Professional Conduct.

I assure you of Mr. Popovich's cooperation.

Respectfully,

/s/ Adrian Vuckovich

PAUL DULBERG,

Plaintiff,

v.

THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., and HANS MAST, Defendant.

No. 17LA000377

NOTICE

THIS CASE IS HEREBY SET FOR A SCHEDULING CONFERENCE IN COURTROOM 201 ON 02/27/2018, AT 9:00 AM. FAILURE TO APPEAR MAY RESULT IN THE CASE BEING DISMISSED OR AN ORDER OF DEFAULT BEING ENTERED.

COMPLAINT AT LAW
(Legal Malpractice)

COMES NOW your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG (hereinafter also referred to as "DULBERG"), by and through his attorneys, THE GOOCH FIRM, and as and for his Complaint against THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. (hereinafter also referred to as "POPOVICH"), and HANS MAST (hereinafter also referred to as "MAST"), states the following:

1. Your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, is a resident of McHenry County, Illinois, and was such a resident at all times complained of herein.

2. Your Defendant, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., is a law firm operating in McHenry County, Illinois, and transacting business on a regular and daily basis in McHenry County, Illinois.

3. Your Defendant, HANS MAST, is either an agent, employee, or partner of THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. MAST is a licensed attorney in the State of Illinois, and was so licensed at all times relevant to this Complaint.

4. That due to the actions and status of MAST in relation to POPOVICH, the actions and inactions of MAST are directly attributable to his employer, partnership, or principal, being THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPVICH, P.C.

5. Venue is therefore claimed proper in McHenry County, Illinois, as the Defendants transact substantial and regular business in and about McHenry County in the practice of law, where their office is located.

6. On or about June 28, 2011, your Plaintiff, DULBERG was involved in a horrendous accident, having been asked by his neighbors Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, in assisting a David Gagnon in the cutting down of a tree on the McGuire property. DULBERG lived in the neighborhood.

7. At this time, Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw he was using causing it to strike DULBERG. This caused substantial and catastrophic injuries to DULBERG, including but not limited to great pain and suffering, current as well as future medical expenses, in an amount in excess of $260,000.00, along with lost wages in excess of $250,000.00, and various other damages.

8. In May of 2012, DULBERG retained THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., pursuant to a written retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A.

9. A copy of the Complaint filed by MAST on his own behalf, and on behalf of DULBERG, is attached hereto as Exhibit B, and the allegations of that Complaint are fully incorporated into this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

10. An implied term of the retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, was that at all times, the Defendants would exercise their duty of due care towards their client and conform their acts and actions within the standard of care every attorney owes his client.

11. That as Exhibit B reveals, Defendants property filed suit against not only the operator of the chain saw, but also his principals, Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, who purportedly were supervising him in his work on the premises.

12. At the time of filing of the aforesaid Complaint, MAST certified pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 137, that he had made a diligent investigation of the facts and circumstances around the Complaint he filed, and further had ascertained the appropriate law. MAST evidently believed a very good and valid cause of action existed against Caroline McGuire and William McGuire.

13. The matter proceeded through the normal stages of litigation until sometime in late 2013 or early 2014, when MAST met with DULBERG and other family members and advised them there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and told DULBERG he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuire's for the sum of $5,000.00. DULBERG, having no choice in the matter, reluctantly agreed with MAST and to accept the sum of $5,000.00 releasing not only William and Caroline McGuire, but also Auto-Owners Insurance Company from any further responsibility or liability in the matter. A copy of the aforesaid general release and settlement agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

14. MAST and POPOVICH continued to represent DULBERG through to and including March of 2015, following which DULBERG and the Defendants terminated their relationship.

15. Continuously throughout the period of representation, MAST and POPOVICH represented repeatedly to DULBERG there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and lulled DULBERG into believing that the matter was being properly handled. Then, due to a claimed failure of communication, MAST and POPOVICH withdrew from the representation of DULBERG.

16. Thereafter, DULBERG retained other attorneys and proceeded to a binding mediation before a retired Circuit Judge, where DULBERG received a binding mediation award of $660,000.00 in gross, and a net award of $561,000.00. Unfortunately, a "high-low agreement" had been executed by DULBERG, reducing the maximum amount he could recover to $300,000.00 based upon the insurance policy available. The award was substantially more than that sum of money, and could have been recovered from McGuire's had they not been dismissed from the Complaint. A copy of the aforesaid Mediation Award is attached hereto as Exhibit D.

17. The McGuire's were property owners and had property insurance covering injuries or losses on their property, as well as substantial personal assets, including the property location where the accident took place at 1016 West Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, Illinois. McGuire's were well able to pay all, or a portion of the binding mediation award had they still remained parties.

18. DULBURG, in his relationship with POPOVICH and MAST, cooperated in all ways with them, furnishing all necessary information as required, and frequently conferred with them.

19. Until the time of the mediation award, DULBURG had no reason to believe he could not recover the full amount of his injuries, based on POPOVICH'S and MAST'S representations to DULBERG that he could recover the full amount of his injuries from Gagnon, and that the inclusion of the McGuire's would only complicate the case.

20. Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the "high-low agreement" contained therein, and the final mediation award, DULBURG realized for the first time that the information MAST and POPOVICH had given DULBERG was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuire's was a serious and substantial mistake. Following the mediation, DULBERG was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling Legal Malpractice matters, and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.

21. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBURG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:

a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuire's) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG;

b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

c) Failed to conduct necessary discovery, so as to fix the liability of the property owners to DULBERG;

d) Failed to understand the law pertaining to a property owner's rights, duties and responsibilities to someone invited onto their property;

e) Improperly urged DULBURG to accept a nonsensical settlement from the property owners, and dismissed them from all further responsibility;

f) Failed to appreciate and understand further moneys could not be received as against Gagnon, and that the McGuire's and their obvious liability were a very necessary party to the litigation;

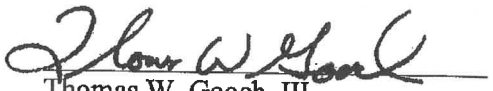
g) Falsely advised DULBURG throughout the period of their representation, that the actions taken regarding the McGuire's was proper in all ways and respects, and that DULBURG had no choice but to accept the settlement;

h) Failed to properly explain to DULBURG all ramifications of accepting the McGuire settlement, and giving him the option of retaining alternative counsel to review the matter;

i) Continually reassured DULBURG that the course of action as to the property owners was proper and appropriate;

j) Were otherwise negligent in their representation of DULBERG, concealing from him necessary facts for DULBURG to make an informed decision as to the McGuire's, instead coercing him into signing a release and settlement agreement and accept a paltry sum of $5,000.00 for what was a grievous injury.

22. That DULBERG suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of MAST and POPOVICH in urging DULBURG to release the McGuire's, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of MAST and THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.



WHEREFORE, your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG prays this Honorable Court to enter judgment on such verdict as a jury of twelve (12) shall return, together with the costs of suit and such other and further relief as may be just, all in excess of the jurisdictional minimums of this Honorable Court.

Respectfully submitted by,

Dulberg is providing evidence that the accused attorneys act as a network. Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys protected Dulberg's personal injury attorneys from being discovered committing fraud against Dulberg. They used a sophisticated system of document and information suppression against their own permanently disabled client. The legal malpractice attorneys shielded Popovich, Mast and other PI attorneys from liability after the PI attorneys committed fraud against their client (and against the Court).

If sued, the PI attorneys use the protection of the legal malpractice attorneys to defend themselves from Dulberg. The PI attorneys claim the 2 year statute of limitations has already passed. But during this same 2 years the PI attorneys were being protected by Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys (who were actively suppressing documents and information while working against their own client Dulberg).

This is in fact what happened when Dulberg initiated a legal malpractice claim against Popovich and Mast (17LA377). It also happened when Dulberg initiated a legal malpractice claim against the Baudins (22L010905). In both cases defendants Popovich and Mast and the Baudin defendants moved to be dismissed since they claimed more than 2 years had passed since Dulberg "first knew" of any "injury". During those same 2 years they were being protected by Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams who used a sophisticated system of document and information suppression against their permanently disabled client.

How the 2 year escape hatch works in a network of attorneys

2 YEAR ESCAPE HATCH

Each Attorney claims:

a) "Dulberg had separate legal counsel who represented him after we withdrew."

b) "If there had been legal malpractice, then Dulberg had counsel who could have advised him of his rights, with the applicable statue of limitations."

This is how fraud remains hidden. Each attorney hides the fraud of the previous attorneys by keeping the information from the client. The client is later blamed for not acting within the 2 year SoL deadline.

This is also how each attorney helps prepare an 'escape hatch' for the attorneys before by allowing 2 years (red) to pass as they 'raise no issue' with the work of the previous attorneys.

If sued, each will claim that 2 years has already passed while Dulberg's subsequent attorneys "raised no issue". This is exactly what Popovich now claims:

> "Mr. Dulberg had separate legal counsel who represented him after the Popovich firm withdrew. If there had been legal malpractice, then Dulberg had counsel who could have advised him of his rights, with the applicable statute of limitations. 735 ILCS 5/2-214.1."

Popovich and Mast, then Balke, then the Baudins, then Gooch and Walczyk, then Clinton and Williams will or already have made the same core claims (while hiding in the network):

(a) "Dulberg had separate legal counsel who represented him after we withdrew".

(b) "If there had been legal malpractice, then Dulberg had counsel who could have advised him of his rights, with the applicable statue of limitations".

For example, if the client sues the Baudins the Baudins claim:

(a) "Dulberg had separate legal counsel Gooch who represented him after we withdrew".

(b) "If there had been legal malpractice, then Dulberg had Gooch as counsel who could have advised him of his rights, with the applicable statue of limitations".

Gooch, by committing fraud and by hiding the fraud of the Baudins (and of Popovich, Mast and Balke), created conditions to allow the Baudins to make the claims above.

If the client sues Gooch-Walczyk then Gooch-Walczyk will claim:

(a) "Dulberg had separate legal counsel Clinton and Williams who represented him after we withdrew".

(b) "If there had been legal malpractice, then Dulberg had Clinton-Williams as counsel who could have advised him of his rights, with the applicable statue of limitations".

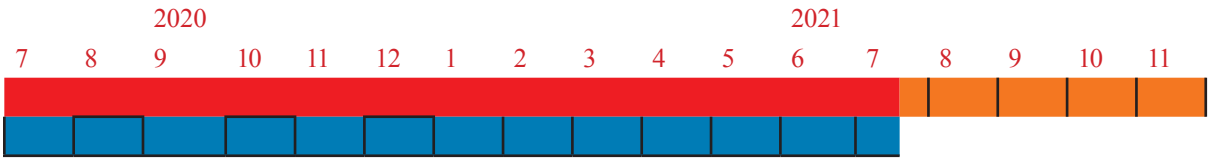
Clinton and Williams then commit more fraud and hide the the fraud of Gooch, Walczyk, the Baudins, Balke , Popovich and Mast. This is their 'run for cover story' in a nutshell. This is how the 2 year SoL escape hatch works (how the game is played).

Chapter 1 of 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams'[1] describes how Clinton-Williams suppressed large numbers of documents and then, just before resigning as counsel, produced over 6000 documents to opposing counsel.

Popovich and Mast took full advantage[2] of the documents and information suppressed by Clinton-Williams (and by Gooch-Walczyk) after Clinton-Williams resigned as counsel to:

1) Demand for detailed supplimental production responses (from the 2020-07-09 flood of over 6000 documents)

2) Demand to be given Dulberg's privileged attorney-client communications with Gooch



3) Pressure Dulberg to admit receiving in the mail a partially forged declination letter from attorney Saul Ferris. (The letter was actually addressed to Flynn's own client Popovich)

---

1 Also Chapter 1 of Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation

2 How opposing counsel maintained pressure on Dulberg is described in 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas W. Gooch and Sabina Walczyk', paragraphs 155 to 171 and Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Gooch-Walczyk Representation paragraphs 155 to 171 and 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams', Chapter 1 and Chapter 2, Section 2B THE EXAMPLE OF SAUL FERRIS and Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation Chapter 1 and Chapter 2, Section 2B

The following graphic shows over how many months these 3 forms of pressure were applied to Dulberg by opposing counsel from when Clinton and Williams withdrew as Dulberg's counsel (on July 27, 2020).

The demand for detailed supplemental discovery answers (shown in red above) lasted until July 19, 2021 (about 12 months). The demand for access to Dulberg's attorney-client privileged communication (shown in blue above) also lasted until July, 2021 (about 12 months). This is when pressure for Dulberg to admit untrue statements about an alleged letter from Saul Ferris[3] (which was actually addressed to Popovich, shown in orange above) began and lasted for 4 more months.

Pressure was applied to Dulberg as pro-se and to Dulberg's new attorney (since Clinton and Williams had already made secret plans to withdraw as Dulberg's counsel by late June, 2020).[4] The 3 ways Dulberg was pressured are directly related to documents and information suppressed by Clinton-Williams. They set Dulberg up to be subject to all 3 forms of pressure to benefit Popovich and Mast.

Clinton-Williams helped prepare their own 2 year escape hatch by keeping Dulberg and his new attorney busy on the 3 made-up issues listed above for over 16 months in addition to setting Dulberg up to be accused.

THE CHAIN OF FRAUD (Each attorney covering the fraud of all previous attorneys)

As one reads this list, please remember that the fraudulant acts being committed by each attorney against their permamently disabled client become 'cleansed' through the 2 year escape hatch system. This system allows successive attorneys to act as is described in the follwing list and face no consequences for their actions,

The 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast' describes how Popovich and Mast:[5]

- Redirected medical lien liability from the Defendants to Plaintiff

3 'ARDC Complaint Against Julia C. Williams and Edward X. Clinton' Chapter 2, Section 2B and Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation Chapter 2, Section 2B

4 'ARDC Complaint Against Julia C. Williams and Edward X. Clinton', Chapter 1, starting paragraph 31 and Chapter 2, Section 2E and Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation starting paragraph 31 and Chapter 2, Section 2E

5 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast' and page 1 of Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation

- Forged documents and destroyed evidence (at least 15 examples)
- Corrupted the interrogatory and document production process to sabotage client's case and to benefit defendants (in collaboration with opposing attorneys)
- Suppressed information on mental health issues related to Dulberg's injury
- Corrupted the deposition process to sabotage client's case and to benefit defendants in collaboration with opposing attorneys (9 out of 10 depositions have no valid certification pages)
- Knew Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted to negligence for Dulberg's injury
- Knew Defendant Gagnon committed perjury
- Knew Defendant Carolyn McGuire committed perjury
- Committed settlement fraud
- Violated federal bankruptcy laws

The 'ARDC Complaint Against Brad Balke' describes how Balke:[6]

- Contracted with Dulberg and not with the Bankruptcy Trustee (who had standing as plaintiff)
- Told Dulberg (about 11 weeks later) he would withdraw counsel if Dulberg does not settle with Allstate for $50,000
- Violated federal bankruptcy laws

Balke basically continued doing what Popovich and Mast already did. The Baudins were retained by Dulberg after Dulberg fired Balke. The 'ARDC Complaint against Wm Randal Baudin II and Kelly N. Baudin' describes how the Baudins:[7]

- Contracted with Dulberg instead of with the Bankruptcy Trustee
- Knew or should have known Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted to negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March, 2013
- Moved to cap the value of PI case 12LA178 (with defendants Allstate alone)
- Closed the deal with an upper cap of $300,000 (in violation of the automatic stay)
- Coerced Dulberg to agree and misinformed him of where the 'upper cap' came from
- Moved to contract with Bankruptcy Trustee only after capping value of 12LA178
- Misled Bankruptcy Judge that Dulberg wanted Binding Mediation (about 11 weeks after the deal was closed)

Additionally:

- Dulberg's signature was forged onto the ADR Binding Mediation Agreement

7 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of 'ARDC Complaint Against Kelly N. Baudin and William Randall Baudin II' and page 1 of Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Baudins Representation

- Dulberg was coerced into signing Allstate Release

'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams'[8] describes how Clinton and Williams collaborated with opposing counsel to benefit the defendants and sabotage Dulberg's case by suppressing large numbers of documents and playing 'hoaxes' on Dulberg and:

- Concealed Dulberg's bankruptcy (from the 17LA377 Common Law Record and Reports of Proceedings)
- Suppressed emails from Saul Ferris
- Suppressed key evidence (Tilschner v Spangler certified slip ruling)
- Suppressed large numbers of emails from Brad Balke
- Collaborated with opposing attorney to flood Dulberg with over 6,000 documents just before Clinton-Williams withdrew as Dulberg's counsel
- Suppressed all information on what the Baudins did to Dulberg
- Suppressed evidence that Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March, 2013.
- Collaborated with opposing counsel to suppress Barch documents before Dulberg's deposition
- Collaborated with opposing counsel to weaken verification pages of discovery production
- Collaborated with opposing counsel during the deposition of Hans Mast and after

They did these things to protect Popovich and Mast (and other PI attorneys) from Dulberg's claims. In addition, the ARDC Complaint Against Thomas W. Gooch and Sabina Walczyk describes how Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams 'teamed-up' to:[9]

- Conceal key evidence in collaboration with each other (Tilschner v Spangler certified slip ruling)
- Conceal admission of negligence of Defendant Gagnon for Dulberg's injury in underlying case 12LA178 in collaboration with each other
- Conceal Bankruptcy and Violations of Federal Bankruptcy Laws (automatic stay, loss of standing to pursue claim, capping value of assets in BK estate, etc) in collaboration with each other
- Conceal true sources of $300,000 upper cap on the value of the PI claim in collaboration with each other
- Intentionally confuse Statute of Limitations toll date, date of "injury", and place Dulberg's privileged attorney-client communications at issue in collaboration with each other

The lower on the list each attorney appears, the more fraud they need to cover up. Each attorney

8 Also described in Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation

9 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas W. Gooch and Sabina Walczyk', and page 1 of Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Gooch-Walczyk Representation. (They are "TEAM-WORK" Examples 1 through 5) escapes (are 'cleansed') from their own fraud and the concealment of fraud by all attorneys higher on the list by claiming:

(a) "Dulberg had separate legal counsel who represented him after we withdrew".

(b) "If there had been legal malpractice, then Dulberg had counsel who could have advised him of his rights, with the applicable statue of limitations".

This is how the permanently disabled client is stripped of constitutional rights while the chain of attorneys are not held accountable for anything they do and are given freedom to go after their next client (victim). Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys were protecting Popovich and Mast (and others) against Dulberg.

It is a snowball of fraudulent concealment that keeps growing. For this reason it is not possible to fully understand what Popovich and Mast did (and how they got away with it) without understanding that Dulberg's retained legal malpractice attorneys Clinton-Williams and Gooch-Walczyk were covering for Popovich and Mast, Balke and the Baudins (Dulberg's former personal injury attorneys) and how they did it.

What Clinton-Williams and Gooch-Walczyk did to Dulberg has to be looked at to fully understand what Popovich and Mast did to Dulberg. The malpractice attorneys were intentionally deceiving Dulberg to hide from Dulberg what the PI attorneys did to him. The legal malpractice attorneys also set up conditions which allowed the defendants to claim Dulberg did not file a complaint within 2 years of when he "knew" or "should have known" of any "injury" done to him by the PI attorneys. They even shared the same inside jokes, both referring to their permanently disabled client as 'Duhlberg'. The PI attorneys then claimed it was 'too late' for Dulberg to file a lawsuit since he "first knew" or "should have known" of a possible "injury" more than 2 years earlier (while the legal malpractice attorneys hid from Dulberg all the acts of fraud). This is how the network is intentionally designed to work: The legal malpractice attorneys help set up a 2 year statute of limitations Summary Judgment 'escape hatch' for the Defendants so that any cases against them will be dismissed.

A 13 Step Approach to Sabotage Your Permanently Disabled Client's Case

After having been the targets of these attacks for over 1 decade, we've found the process the legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams used to sabotage and undermine Dulberg's claims of legal malpractice and fraud are not that difficult to understand. What follows is a 13 step approach a legal malpractice attorney can take to sabotage their own client's case that is simple enough for an average person to understand. (This approach matches point for point what Dulberg experienced with Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams.)

1) bury key evidence:
   This is the legal equivalent of 'crippling' ones own client.

2) bury fraud:
   Bury all evidence of defendant committing fraud on your client.

3) prepare escape hatch:

A 2 year SoL dismissal is pre-planned into the system. Dulberg was being intentionally set up for it during his first meeting with Gooch.

4) choke client:
The documents sent directly from the client to the legal malpractice attorney are primary targets of suppression.

5) give some, keep some, ghost some:
This is a sophisticated system of document and information suppression described in Chapter `1 of 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams'.[10]

6) mince emails:
Methods used against Dulberg are described from Chapter 1, paragraph 42 of 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams'.[11]

7) bury troublesome issues:
How to do it: Make multiple contradictory and untrue statements on the issues on behalf of ones client in the Common Law Record and in Reports of Proceedings. These statements are intended as gifts for the defendants. They were created by the legal malpractice attorneys but they are credited to Dulberg (as if the attorney received the information from Dulberg). The defense will use the multiple statements later to claim your client is 'being evasive' and 'changing his story' by 'fiddling' with his answers.

8) target depositions:
From our experience depositions are a prime target of an attorney that wants to destroy your case.

9) strip case law:
when dealing with client misinterpret and misrepresent case law. An example is when Mast used Tilschner v Spangler as the reason the McGuires were not liable for Gagnon's injury during a meeting with Dulberg and Thomas Kost on November 20, 2023. Another example: The relevant case law in 17LA377 which applies to Dulberg's case (Suburban and related cases) was never brought up to Dulberg by Gooch-Walczyk or Clinton-Williams.

10) starve and flood:
Just before quitting as counsel, dump a waterfall of documents on your permanently disabled client. Hide most of the documents you have been suppressing until then near the bottom of the pile. Continue to suppress certain key documents and never give them a bates-stamp or turn them over to opposing counsel. Overload your client and resign. Described in 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams', Chapter 1, beginning on paragraph 35.[12]

11) set up accused:

---

10 Also in Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation Chapter 1

11 Also paragraph 42 in Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation

12 Also in Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation Chapter 1, beginning on paragraph 35

Described in detail in Table 6 [13]

12) throw privilege under a bus:
Give the defense grounds to demand your client's privileged attorney-client communications. This is done by setting the client up to make the claim that they "first knew" of an "injury" through communications with their legal malpractice attorney. (This is what Gooch did to Dulberg at their first meeting together.) This is demonstrated step by step in 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas W. Gooch and Sabina Walczyk' from paragraph 1.[14]

13) run for cover stories:
Stellar examples of this are claims made by Popovich in the letter of November 28, 2023 and examined in this reply.

This is a basic 13 step outline which matches (step by step) what Gooch and Walczyk and later Clinton and Williams actually did to Dulberg to benefit Popovich and Mast (and others).

Complications in Dulberg's case:

What if the targeted client declares bankruptcy during his PI case as a natural reaction to loosing all financial hope? Federal bankruptcy laws add a number of complications to finishing off your client. This is what happened to Dulberg during PI case 12LA178.

A way to solve it:

a) Ignore bankruptcy court and bankruptcy court trustee.

b) Make repeated efforts to place an 'upper cap' on the value of PI case 12LA178.

c) Do not inform the bankruptcy trustee until an 'upper cap' is already in place and treated as a 'done deal'.

d) Hide the origins of the 'upper cap' from your client and from bankruptcy court.

This is what happened to Dulberg point by point. In short, ram it through anyway.

Section 2K of 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams'[17] shows

16 Also in Section 2C of Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation

17 Also in Section 2K of Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation how the document Tilschner v Spangler inexplicably went missing during the deposition of Hans Mast.

Section 2C, paragraph 2C26 of 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams'[18] describes how Williams inexplicably could not recall anything about Tilschner v Spangler or the contents of 'Exhibit 12' weeks after preparing multiple subpoenas on 'Exhibit 12' and while appearing in court to address the subpoenas because she claimed the events happened 'so long ago'.

After about 6 years of 'burying key evidence' Dulberg mentioned Tilschner v Spangler in a court document in November 23, 2022.[19]

On November 30, 2022 Flynn filed DEFENDANTS THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. AND HANS MAST'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF'S 2nd AMENDED MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE DEPOSITION OF HANS MAST which contains the following point ¶12:[20]

> "12) Of concern is a statement on page 19 of Dulberg's motion in which he argues that Mast had insisted that the decision in the Tilschner v. Spangler case was the reason Dulberg would not prevail in the underlying case against the McGuire's. The statement is inexplicably made "on information and belief." This is unacceptable. Dulberg has made no such disclosure in fact discovery (now closed) about this very specific discussion between Mast and himself regarding the Tilschner case. If Dulberg believes he has disclosed it, he should be required to identify where in his answers and amended answers to discovery or his deposition he has identified such discussion with this amount of specificity. Defendants submit that no such disclosure exists."

Opposing counsel Flynn and Popovich knew Tilschner v Spangler were never mentioned in the record because they collaborated with Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams to successfully 'bury key evidence' for around 6 years.

Table 10 demonstrates that Clinton and Williams actively blocked what Dulberg told them and suppressed documents and information related to Tilschner v Spangler. They did this to benefit Popovich and Mast.

Popovich and Mast also 'buried key evidence' in 12LA178 when Popovich and Mast cut up Dulberg's original Walgreens RX receipt as described in 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast' beginning paragraph 1-95.[21]

2) 'Bury Fraud' To Help Popovich and Mast

On June 8, 2019 Dulberg sent the following folder to Williams after reviewing the opposing party's May 29, 2019 document disclosure for the first time: To Julia

The folder contains a file called _READ_ME.txt which states:

> "The opposing counsel has released one "smoking gun" document that we've never seen before. It is (pop 192). Paul never gave Mast authorization to make this offer. We have ample evidence that Paul never authorized the offer made in (pop 192) and he knew nothing about it until seeing it last week. Note that it is not in the box of files we gave to you. It is not in the box of files that Mast gave to Paul when Mast withdrew from counsel. Also, the Baudin law firm and the Gooch law firm never saw this document."
> "Since we were never able to see (pop 192) until now, we never understood the details of how Mast tricked Paul into such a small settlement. The fact that Mast initiated the settlement process through (pop 192) without Paul's knowledge or permission is proof that this case is about more than Mast's negligence. It is about willful intent or malicious intent to deceive his client.
> Of course you will need convincing proof that (pop 192) was initiated without Paul's knowledge. We have that proof. As I fill in the timeline more and more, the evidence will be stronger and stronger."

Dulberg called for a meeting on July 8, 2019 (in the same email) to discuss this new development. Dulberg was ignored for almost 1 year. Clinton and Williams finally met with Dulberg and Thomas Kost by phone on June 24, 2020 (one day before the deposition of Mast).

TABLE 11 below shows the number of times Dulberg informed his legal malpractice attorneys about "overwhelming evidence" of intentional tort or fraud since first discovering evidence in the first week of July, 2019:

2020-06-24	meeting before Mast deposition	At meeting Thomas Kost (after waiting about 1 year for meeting) explained to Clinton and Williams that there is "overwhelming evidence" that Popovich and Mast committed fraud and intentional tort.

From July 8, 2019 onward Dulberg told Clinton and Williams that he had "overwhelming evidence" that Popovich and Mast intentionally committed fraud. Dulberg claimed to have a 'smoking gun' document he found that proved intentional tort. Dulberg tried to set up a meeting with Clinton and Williams for about 1 year to discuss the consequences of the new discovery of fraud on the case.

At the June 24, 2020 meeting Thomas Kost (after waiting about 1 year to do so) explained to Clinton and Williams that there is "overwhelming evidence" that Mast and Popovich committed intentional tort and fraud. Thomas Kost explained that the 6 points listed in the document evidence_list.txt provides "overwhelming evidence" that Mast and Popovich committed intentional tort and fraud. Clinton made no comment after Thomas Kost explained this.

This information was suppressed and ignored by Clinton and Williams since July 8, 2019. They "choked the client" to "bury fraud" or they would have lost the 2 year SoL 'escape hatch' for defendants Popovich and Mast. What they did can be understood as: choke client to bury key evidence, bury fraud, and set up escape hatch. They did this to benefit Popovich and Mast.

Popovich and Mast also 'buried fraud' many times in 12LA178 which is what Clinton and Williams were trying to hide. Clinton and Williams 'buried fraud' to conceal how Popovich and Mast 'buried fraud'.

5) 'Give some, keep some, ghost some'

This is a sophisticated system of document and information suppression described in Chapter `1 of 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams'[22]. 'Ghosted' documents include 'Rosecrance Treatment Plan' and the certified slip copy of Tilschner v Spangler.

6) 'Mince emails'

As described in 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast'[23] paragraph 1-294 to 1-296:

22 Also in Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation Chapter 1

23 Also in Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation paragraph 1-294 to 1-296

On December 16, 2016 Dulberg retained legal malpractice attorney Thomas Gooch to initiate a claim against Mast and Popovich for legal malpractice. When Dulberg moved to collect his emails with Mast from Dulberg's Comcast account to give to Gooch, Dulberg found that 3 years of emails had been deleted from his Comcast email account.[24] [25]

Dulberg called Comcast to get his emails restored. Dulberg was told by phone that an incident report was created and an internal investigation happened concluding that the missing emails were deleted at by a senior level administrator with Comcast and unfortunately the emails were not retrievable. No other information was provided to Dulberg.

In a state of panic, Dulberg realized that his apple device was set up to utilize a different protocol for sending out emails than the protocol used to receive emails. His outgoing emails were stored on a separate Apple server, different from the incoming emails that are saved on the Comcast servers. On December 27, 2016 Dulberg forwarded all the sent emails from his Apple device to a second Comcast email account and immediately printed out 2 hard copies of all email exchanges on paper so they could not be deleted again.

After Dulberg recovered his emails (with Popovich and Mast) in this way, Dulberg provided the emails to his legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams. How Clinton-Williams received Dulberg's emails with Popovich and Mast, bates-stamped them and turned them over to opposing counsel is described in 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams' beginning paragraph 13.[26]

Visual Aid 5 - Email hoax shows how Clinton-Williams bates-stamped the emails as 4 large 'blocks' (shown in green) and 3 of the 4 email blocks were inexplicably 'minced' or 'butchered' before being bates-stamped and turned over to opposing counsel.

Visual Aid 6 - Lawyer Emails by date hoax shows what happened when Dulberg rearranged the same emails according to month and year and offered them to Williams for reference purposes. They were stripped out of context, 'minced' or 'butchered' before being bates-stamped and turned over to opposing counsel as if they were new documents being 'produced' by Dulberg for the first time.

7) BURY TROUBLESOME ISSUES

How to do it (method #1): Make multiple contradictory and untrue statements on the issues on behalf of ones client in the Common Law Record and in Reports of Proceedings. These statements are intended as gifts for the defendants. They were created by the legal malpractice attorneys but they are credited to Dulberg (as if the attorney received the information from Dulberg). The defense will use the multiple statements later to claim your client is 'being evasive' and 'changing his story' by 'fiddling' with his answers. An example below:

24 Exhibit 97_Missingemails.jpg
25 Exhibit 98_Missing emails-Marked up.pdf
26 Also in Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation beginning paragraph 13

TABLE 3: SOURCE OF THE $300,000 'UPPER CAP' PLACED ON 12LA178 ACCORDING TO DULBERG'S ATTORNEYS
Version 1 2017-11-28 Gooch	"Unfortunately, a "high-low agreement" had been executed by DULBERG, reducing the maximum amount he could recover to $300.000.00 based upon the insurance policy available."
Version 2 2018-05-10 Gooch	WALCZYK: ...And then it looks like there was a high-low agreement signed. THE COURT: Was it signed by Mr. Mast? MS. WALCZYK: Oh, I believe it was signed by Mr. Dulberg. I haven't seen it.
Version 3 2018-06-07 Gooch	"DULBERG was only able to collect $300,000.00 based upon the insurance policy available."
Version 4 2018-12-06 Williams-Clinton	"Dulberg was only able to recovery approximately $300,000 of the award from Gagnon's insurance and was unable to collect from Gagnon personally."
Version 5 2019-09-04 Williams-Clinton	"And the trustee did resolve -- there was an arbitration based on the trustee's recommendation in the bankruptcy for the individual"

The multiple contradictory statements are made to conceal what actually happened: An 'upper cap' on the value of PI case 12LA178 was placed by the Baudins and Defendants Allstate, acting alone on or before August 10, 2016. Joseph Olsen, who first received permission to retain the Baudins about 11 weeks later, wasn't even appointed the bankruptcy trustee until August 31, 2016. Reports of Proceedings from June 13, 2016 to August 10, 2016 prove what actually happened but Dulberg was never informed of any of this. Instead, Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys made 5 incorrect and contradictory statements on the record on Dulberg's behalf as Table 5 shows.

BURY TROUBLESOME ISSUES (method #2): Both opposing parties completely ignore troublesome issue in collaboration with each other. For example, in Dulberg's case the defendant who struck Dulberg with a chainsaw effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March, 2013. It was unmistakably recorded in the 12LA178 Common Law Record. But Dulberg's attorneys Popovich and Mast, then Balke, then the Baudins, then Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys Gooch and Walczyk, and then Clinton and Williams never informed Dulberg that Gagnon admitted negligence.

Another excellent example is bankruptcy. Dulberg has experienced an environment of attorneys in circuit court that will collectively ignore federal bankruptcy protections and proceed for months or years as if they don't exist. The client may never know about the federal bankruptcy protections to which they are entitled because the attorneys collectively ignore them as if it is normal.

8) 'Target depositions'

In the underlying PI case 12LA178 there are no valid certification page for 9 out of 10 depositions. Evidence of forgery exists in many of the alleged certification pages.

The strange deposition of Mast is described in 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X Clinton and Julia C. Williams', Chapter 2, Section 2-K[27], in which key evidence disappears and a number of inexplicable technical glitches take place. The history of the key evidence which disappeared is described in Chapter 2, Section 2-C[28] of the same complaint and Table 10 (pages 9-10).

9) 'Strip case law'

Dulberg's current attorney Mr Talerico is on the record since February 10, 2021 (Mr Talerico was retained on October 23, 2020) explaining the application of Suburban Real Estate v Carlson to Dulberg's case in order to claim that the statute is counted from December 12, 2016. Mr Talerico explained that Suburban Real Estate v Carlson makes clear that if Dulberg filed a legal malpractice suit against Popovich and Mast at any time before December 12, 2016 his filing would have been ruled premature. Mr Talerico explained Illinois law is clear that the first day that Dulberg had standing to file a legal malpractice suit against Popovich and Mast was December 12, 2016 and not one day sooner.

The arguments in Suburban Real Estate Servs. v. Carlson, 2020 Ill. App. 191953 (Ill. App. Ct. 2020) reference 5 other key cases:

Successful Appellant Suburban Real Estate relied on Lucey[29] and Warnock[30] (and Northern Illinois Emergency Physicians[31])

Unsuccessful Appellee Carlson relied on FagelHaber[32] and Nelson[33] (and Goran[34])

The notion of a "financial injury" on December 12, 2016 consistent with Illinois law in Suburban Real Estate v Carlson was never explained to Dulberg by Gooch, Clinton, or Williams, not even as a suggestion or possibility. Opposing counsel Flynn found no relevance in Suburban Real Estate v Carlson. Neither Judge Meyer or Judge Berg saw any relevance in Suburban Real Estate v Carlson and did not recognize any notion of a 'financial injury' occurring on December 12, 2016 consistent with Suburban Real Estate v Carlson in Dulberg's case.

Table 7 lists[35] statements of each of these 17LA377 Officers of the Court when applying Illinois case law to 17LA377. None of the statements in Table 7 made by Judge Meyer, Judge Berg, Defendants Popovich and Mast, Dulberg's former attorneys Gooch, Clinton and Williams reference or are based on any of the case law cited in in Suburban (which is current Illinois law applicable to Dulberg's case).

Case law was also 'stripped' and intentionally distorted in 12LA178 when on November 20, 2013 Mast used the case law Talschner v Spangler as evidence of why the McGuires were not responsible for Dulberg's injury. Mast has denied ever since that he cited Tilschner v Spangler. Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys successfully suppressed the document for around 6 years as described earlier.

10) 'Starve and flood'

The 'flood' is the more than 6000 pages of described in 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia .Williams', Chapter 1 beginning on paragraph 35.[36]

The 'starve' is the suppression of large numbers of documents described in 'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia .Williams', Chapter 1 beginning on paragraph 5. [37]

11) 'Set up accused' to 'use escape hatch'

In Table 6 Flynn's key accusations[38] against Dulberg in his 2022 Summary Judgment are listed in Column 1. Column 2 shows how most every accusation made by Flynn against Dulberg in 2022 were set up and reinforced years earlier by Dulberg's own counsel (acting in collaboration with opposing counsel) to sabotage Dulberg's claims.

Popovich and Mast successfully hid behind Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys. This was the plan from the first time Dulberg met Gooch on December 16, 2016. Comments made by Gooch to Dulberg and Thomas Kost (full trustee of the Paul R. Dulberg Revocable Trust) at Dulberg's first meeting with Gooch on December 16, 2016 directly set up Flynn's Summary

38 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas W. Gooch and Sabina Walczyk'. page 69 and Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Gooch-Walczyk Representation page 69

Judgment arguments in 2022. Gooch-Walczyk set Dulberg up and Clinton-Williams helped finish the job.

Popovich and Mast also 'set up the accused' in 12LA178 when they tried to make their permanently disabled client Dulberg appear as if he was lying about how he obtained medication from Walgreens on the day of his injury. Popovich and Mast needed to 'bury key evidence' and lead defendants Gagnon and Carolyn McGuire to commit perjury during their respective depositions. How they did this step by step is described in 'ARDC Complaint against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast'[39] beginning on paragraph 1-114.

Popovich and Mast then made an offer to the McGuire defendants to settle the case for $7,500 on Dulberg's behalf without informing Dulberg and ultimately forced a settlement of $5,000. How they did this step by step is described in 'ARDC Complaint against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast'[40] beginning on paragraph 1-148.

12) 'Throw privilege under a bus'

This is demonstrated step by step in 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas W. Gooch and Sabina Walczyk' from paragraph 1.[41] Give the defense grounds to demand your client's privileged attorney-client communications. This is done by setting the client up to make the claim that they "first knew" of an "injury" through communications with their legal malpractice attorney. (This is what Gooch did to Dulberg at their first meeting together.)

13) 'Run for cover stories'

The following quotes in italics are statements made by Thomas J. Popovich in his November 28, 2023 letter, followed by our response.

> "It appears Mr. Dulberg has complained about numerous lawyers with whom he had contact about injuries which he sustained in an accident involving a chainsaw."

They are listed on page 1.

> "The case was difficult."

Key evidence supporting Dulbergs claims was cut up by Popovich and Mast. Mast then led both Gagnon and Carolyn McGuire to commit perjury around the 'buried key evidence'. This was done to make Dulberg appear as if he was lying about the events involving the 'buried key evidence'. How they did this step by step is described in 'ARDC Complaint against Thomas J.

41 Also in Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Gooch-Walczyk Representation from paragraph 1

Popovich and Hans Mast'[42] beginning on paragraph 1-114.

Gagnon effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as of March, 2013.[43] Dulberg was not informed of this by Popovich and Mast, then Balke, then the Baudins, then Gooch and Walczyk, and then by Clinton and Williams.

Once Popovich and Mast 'buried key evidence", 'buried fraud', led Gagnon and Carolyn McGuire to commit perjury and hid Gagnon's effective admission of negligence from Dulberg, Popovich and Mast claim the case is 'difficult'. They claim that the case is Dulberg's word against Gagnon's word with no other witnesses. Mast wrote to Dulberg shortly after leading Gagnon to commit perjury during his deposition:

> "Obviously this case is your word against Gagnon's word."[44]

Popovich now claims "the case was difficult". This is a cover story. It may appear plausible if buried key evidence, buried fraud, perjury by Gagnon and Carolyn McGuire, and Gagnon's effective admission of negligence for Dulberg's injury are all suppressed.

> "At some point after the case was filed, it was determined that claims against Mr. and Mrs. McGuire were not likely to succeed."

On October 22, 2013, Popovich and Mast made an offer to the McGuires to settle the case against them for $7,500 without Dulberg's knowledge or permission.[45] On November 20, 2013 Mast told Dulberg and Thomas Kost on that the McGuires were not liable for Dulberg's injury because Tilschner v Spangler confirms that Restatement of Torts 318 was not applicable in Illinois.[46]

Table 10 shows how many times Dulberg informed His legal malpractice attorneys about the importance of Tilschner v Spangler.

'ARDC Complaint Against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams' Chapter 2, Section C and Section K shows the extensive efforts Clinton and Williams made to suppress Tilschner v Spangler.[47]

"The settlement with the McGuire Defendants was completely voluntary. Mr. Dulberg made the decision to settle with those Defendants, and settlement was recommended, because the claim against them was very weak."

This is the cover story. They explained to Dulberg that he had no case against the McGuires because Tilschner v Spangler confirms the Restatement of Torts 318 is not applicable in Illinois. Popovich and Mast, with the collaboration of Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams 'buried key evidence' while denying ever since that they did this.

"Mr. Dulberg's claims against the McGuires Defendants settled for $5,000.00. Mr. Dulberg executed a release, confirming his agreement to the settlement."

This quote is the cover story that Mast, Popovich, opposing counsel Flynn, Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams all collaborated together to 'bury key evidence' and 'bury fraud'.

"There was a remaining defendant, Gagnon, who remained a defendant in the lawsuit. However, Mr. Dulberg was a difficult client. The Popovich law firm withdrew from representation in 2015 and Mr. Dulberg went on to be represented by other lawyers."

Personal injury defendant (who was operating the chainsaw that injured Dulberg) Gagnon effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March, 2013. Popovich and Mast never informed Dulberg of that Gagnon admitted to being negligent:

About 10 months before Dulberg was coerced into settling with the owners of the property (the McGuire's) on which the accident occurred and for whom Gagnon was working.

About 21 months before Dulberg declared bankruptcy.

About 39 months before any binding mediation agreement with Gagnon was mentioned.

About 40 months before any cap was placed on any binding mediation award from Gagnon.

There was no reason for any of these activities to take place if the defendant who operated the chainsaw already admitted to being negligent.

"Mr. Gagnon was not a minor. There was some effort to connect Gagnon's actions to the McGuires, as their agent, acting under their supervision. There was also an issue of Mr. Dulberg's contributory negligence."

Gagnon effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March, 2013.[48] Mast knew that Gagnon committed perjury in his deposition because Mast intentionally led Gagnon to commit perjury.[49] Using the 'buried key evidence' against Dulberg, Mast made his client Dulberg appear to be lying about how Dulberg purchased medications the day of his injury and how he paid for the medication. Mast did this by leading both Gagnon and Carolyn McGuire to commit perjury during their depositions to contradict Dulberg's story.

Clinton and Williams used the same basic techniques and cover story. They first buried key evidence (Table 10) and buried fraud (Table 11). They then claimed that the case is 'difficult' or 'unwinnable'. They even claimed that Dulberg misled them about the evidence.

> "Eventually, Mr. Dulberg obtained an arbitration award of $561,000.00 against Mr. Gagnon, which, pparently, exceeded insurance coverage of $300,000.00."

This is a cover story which Popovich, Mast, opposing counsel Flynn, Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams all collaborated on and used to benefit Popovich and Mast and sabotage Dulberg's case. What actually happened is recorded in 12LA178 ROPs from June 13, 2016 to August 10, 2016.

> "Despite the arbitration award, in 2017, Mr. Dulberg filed a legal malpractice case against Mr. Mast and the Popovich firm. In the lawsuit, Mr. Dulberg was initially represented by Thomas Gooch, III. The basis of the claim was that Mr. Dulberg was "coerced" into settling with Mr. and Mrs. McGuire."

Gooch was informed of the importance of Tilschner v Spangler at his first meeting with Dulberg. Dulberg handed Gooch the original certified slip copy of Tilschner v Spangler which Mast gave to Dulberg on November 20, 2013.

ARDC Complaint against Thomas W. Gooch and Sabina Walczyk documents how Gooch set Dulberg up to lose his case from their first meeting together.

As the above quote shows, Popovich then claims that the statements Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams forced into Dulberg's complaints were originally made by Dulberg. The statements are attributed to Dulberg. This is how the game is played.

> "Counsel who represented Mr. Dulberg after the withdrawal of the Popovich firm did not question the decision."

If sued, each will claim that 2 years has already passed while Dulberg's subsequent attorneys "raised no issue". This is exactly what Popovich now claims:

> "Mr. Dulberg had separate legal counsel who represented him after the Popovich firm withdrew. If there had been legal malpractice, then Dulberg had counsel who could have advised him of his rights, with the applicable statute of limitations. 735 ILCS 5/2-214.1."

Popovich and Mast, then Balke, then the Baudins, then Gooch and Walczyk, then Clinton and Williams will or already have made the same core claims (while hiding in the network):

(a) "Dulberg had separate legal counsel who represented him after we withdrew".

(b) "If there had been legal malpractice, then Dulberg had counsel who could have advised him of his rights, with the applicable statue of limitations".

This is their 'run for cover story' in a nutshell. This is how the 2 year SoL escape hatch works.

> "It appears that the Request for Investigation is based on the same allegations as the legal malpractice lawsuit.

They are completely different. The Complaint. Amended Complaint and Second Amended Complaint were prepared by Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams to set Dulberg up and prepare a 2 year SoL escape hatch to benefit Popovich and Mast and to sabotage the case of their own permanently disabled client.

Duhlberg hoax[50] shows a common 'inside joke' of mocking Dulberg by referring to him as 'Duh'-lberg. The 'inside joke' began with Popovich-Mast and was continued by legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams. A court reporter also shared the inside joke[51] by mocking Dulberg when naming a court document.

"ARDC Complaint Against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast" is completely different. It is based on clear, unambiguous claims Dulberg is making against Popovich which are listed on page 1 of the ARDC Complaint and linkable to all supporting evidence.

> "Overall, it appears that Mr. Dulberg is dissatisfied with the limitations which existed on his claim (insurance coverage limitations, contributory negligence and weak claims against McGuires). None of those limitations were caused by Mr. Popovich or Mr. Mast."

This is a cover story. The Request for Investigation is based on clear, unambiguous claims Dulberg made against Popovich which are listed on page 1 of the ARDC Complaint and linkable to all supporting evidence. Not a single specific accusation has been answered or acknowleged by Popovich. Extensive evidence of forgery and destruction of evidence was provided in 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast'. While ignoring at least 15 acts of evidence manipulation and forgery, Popovich instead inexplicably tries to guess at what 'overall dissatisfied' Dulberg.

Clinton and Williams and Mast also replied to the ARDC complaint against them in a similar way. They follow the same 2 step approach as Popovich:

step 1: Ignore each and every specific accusation listed on page 1 and linked to supporting evidence.

step 2: Substitute for these specific claims by 'speculating' in general terms as to why Dulberg is 'dissatisfied' or how he 'feels'.

According to this pattern, the Baudins, Balke and Gooch-Walczyk will most probably reply to the ARDC complaints against them using a similar generic 2 step approach:

(a) Ignore all specific accusations on page 1. They will not answer any specific claims against them or acknowledge the claims on page 1 to exist.

50 Visual Aid 11 - Mocking client.png Gooch once again referred to his permanently disabled client as 'Duhlberg' in an angry letter Gooch sent to Dulberg shown in 'ARDC Complaint Against Thomas W. 51 Group Exhibit 42_17LA377 purchased by Dulberg/Reports of Proceedings_Folders-Year-Month-Day-Case_Original file names/2018-11-13_17LA377_Duhlberg/

(b) Instead they will speculate in general terms why Dulberg is probably 'dissatisfied'.

This appears to be the 'cover story' that each named attorney will most probably use to avoid and ignore the accusations listed on page 1 of each respective ARDC complaint. It can also be predicted that each responding attorney will used the same pre-planned reason as to why they are not respnsible for anything related to Dulberg:

(a) "Dulberg had separate legal counsel who represented him after we withdrew".

(b) "If there had been legal malpractice, then Dulberg had counsel who could have advised him of his rights, with the applicable statue of limitations".

Each reply to each ARDC complaint by each attorney listed on page 1 will most probably have this same generic "cookie-cutter" pattern.

Popovich is a Friend of the Presiding Judge of both 17LA377and underlying case 12LA178

The Trial Court Judge Thomas A Meyer has retired as of September 2023.[52]

The Trial Court Judge Thomas A. Meyer had at least on one occasion recused himself as a friend of Defendant Thomas J. Popovich in 12LA326, who has also appeared in the matter for Plaintiff-Appellant Paul Dulberg in the underlying case (12LA178). Thomas J. Popovich is the owner and sole stockholder of The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and supervisor of Mr. Mast, the named defendants and current Appellees in 17LA377. [53]

The Trial Court Judge Thomas A. Meyer did not recuse himself in the current matter (17LA377) although his stated friend Thomas J. Popovich's Law Firm is a named Defendant in this matter. Also, we offer as additional proof of Judge Thomas A. Meyers refusing to self recuse when his friend is a defendant. [54]

The Honorable Judge Joel D. Berg, who replaced Judge Thomas A. Meyer in this matter and at least one other matter, Christine M. Interrante v. Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Thomas J. Popovich, individually 18LA370, when the Honorable Thomas A. Meyer was transferred to traffic court at the end of 2022, refused to hear a Motion to Reconsider and sent it back to the Honorable Thomas A. Meyer for hearing.[55]

The Honorable Joel D. Berg only heard one motion in 17LA377, that being a motion for summary judgment that ended the matter in the trial court.

The Honorable Thomas A. Meyers was the trial court judge from inception in 2017 up to the time before the hearing of the Motion for Summary Judgment which ended the matter in the trial court.

The Honorable Judge Joel D. Berg clearly indicated in 18LA370 that he will not entertain a Motion to Reconsider regarding a matter that he was not presented and argued before himself. [56]

The Honorable Judge Joel D. Berg has also self recused in cases where Thomas Popovich was a defendant, the only difference between Judge Berg and Judge Meyer is Judge Berg does not give any reason for recusal. [57]

How the Chain of Fraud Works Mapped in 11 Tables

The overall methods of how Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys worked together to sabotage Dulberg's legal malpractice case 17LA377 against Popovich and Mast can also be seen in a series of 11 tables (called 'Table 1' through 'Table 11)'. a general outline of the 11 Tables is also given at this link:

SUMMARY OF METHODS USED TO SYSTEMATICALLY DEPRIVE AN INJURED PERSON (DULBERG) OF CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS

Table 1 shows[58] 4 different efforts that Popovich, Mast, Balke and the Baudins made to place an 'upper cap' on the value of Dulberg's PI case 12LA178. Dulberg reacted to the first effort by filing for bankruptcy. The next 3 attempts were made after Dulberg declared bankruptcy and in violation of the automatic stay and without informing the bankruptcy trustee. The 4th and final attempt to place an 'upper cap' on the value of PI case 12LA178 was done successfully by the Baudins and Defendants Allstate, acting alone on or before August 10, 2016. Joseph Olsen, who first received permission to retain the Baudins about 11 weeks later, wasn't even appointed the bankruptcy trustee until August 31, 2016.

Table 2 shows[59] strategies and methods of 5 law firms retained by Dulberg. All successive attorneys to the same (fully disabled) client used the same overall strategy: To intentionally weaken or sabotage their own client's case.

All three personal injury attorneys retained by Dulberg acted in violation of the automatic stay. They continued to appear in the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court (which operated for approximately 25 months in violation of the automatic stay) claiming to represent Dulberg (who had no standing as plaintiff). All 3 PI attorneys made efforts to place a cap on the remaining case without having any authority from the Bankruptcy Court to do so. Both legal malpractice attorneys suppressed all information of how all 3 PI law firms violated federal bankruptcy laws from Dulberg and from the complaints.

All five law firms (3 personal injury law firms and 2 legal malpractice law firms) knew or could easily have discovered that personal injury defendant (who was operating the chainsaw that injured Dulberg) Gagnon effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March,

2013. None of the 5 law firms ever informed Dulberg of this. The original defendant and operator of the chainsaw, Gagnon, admitted to being negligent:

About 10 months before Dulberg was coerced into settling with the owners of the property (the McGuire's) on which the accident occurred and for whom Gagnon was working.

About 21 months before Dulberg declared bankruptcy.

About 39 months before any binding mediation agreement with Gagnon was mentioned.

About 40 months before any cap was placed on any binding mediation award from Gagnon.

There was no reason for any of these activities to take place if the defendant who operated the chainsaw already admitted to being negligent.

Table 3 shows[60] 5 incorrect versions of the origin of the $300,000 'upper cap' placed on the value of PI case 12LA178 given by Dulberg's own attorneys. None of the 5 versions are what Dulberg told his attorneys. In addition, the true origin of the 'upper cap' is clearly documented in 12LA178 Reports of Proceedings from June 13, 2016 to August 10, 2016. The 'upper cap' was placed on the value of 12LA178 by the Baudins and Defendants Allstate acting alone and over 7 weeks before the Baudins were authorized by the Bankruptcy Court to act on behalf of the bankruptcy estate. The Baudins and Defendants Allstate acted alone to set a $300,000 'upper cap' on the value of PI case 12LA178 about 3 weeks before bankruptcy trustee Olsen was appointed as bankruptcy trustee.[61]

Table 4A shows[62] 3 incorrect versions of when Dulberg "first knew" of an "injury" given by Dulberg's counsel. Table 4B shows Table 4A in a simpler form.[63] Evidence shows that Gooch was already setting Dulberg up to lose on a 2 year statute of limitations argument during their first meeting together.[64]

Tables 4A and 4B show Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams attributed the statement Gooch made to Dulberg on December 16, 2016 to Dulberg himself. The statement was first made by Gooch the legal malpractice attorney with authority and an air of certainty to the client during their first meeting together. The statement was later transferred to the client and blamed on the client himself .

Gooch asserted the statement, not Dulberg. Gooch informed Dulberg that Gooch is considered an expert on such matters and their first meeting together is when the statute of limitations is tolled. This was later changed to 'Dulberg's claim'.

Gooch is a legal malpractice attorney with over 20 years experience. Clinton is a legal malpractice attorney with over 20 years experience. Yet both imply that it was Dulberg that unilaterally decided that the toll starts at his first meeting with Gooch. Some reality checks:

- Did Gooch have any theory of when the statute of limitations begins to toll? What was it?
- How did Dulberg come up with the idea that the statute of limitations begins to toll from his first meeting with Gooch? How and when did the idea first enter his head?
- After more than 20 years of experience as a legal malpractice attorney in Illinois, where did Gooch get the idea that the statute of limitations begins to toll when a client has their first meeting with a legal malpractice attorney?
- Does Gooch have a history using the same theory with other clients?
- Wouldn't Gooch already know that this claim puts Dulberg's attorney-client privileged communication with him at issue?
- Has Gooch put the attorney-client privileged communication of other clients at issue using the same theory?
- If so, why did he do it again?
- If not, why is this the first time in his career he encountered this situation?

Clinton-Williams were aware that Gooch set up Dulberg with the claim of "first knowing" of an "injury" during Dulberg's first meeting with Gooch on December 16, 2016. Clinton-Williams attributed the claim to Dulberg personally. This is how the game is played.

Gooch set Dulberg up on December 16, 2016. Years later both Clinton and opposing counsel Flynn use the original set-up as an alibi for their own respective claims and as a way to imply that 'Duh'-lberg is to blame. This is true teamwork in action: Both of Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys working seamlessly with opposing counsel Flynn (all effectively in agreement) to benefit Popovich and Mast at Dulberg's expense. 'Duh'-lberg is blamed for everything.

Tables 3, 4A and 4B taken together show the methods used by Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys to attempt to discredit Dulberg and sabotage his case against Popovich and Mast. They simply made multiple contradictory and untrue statements in the 17LA377 Common Law Record and in the Records of Proceedings on behalf of Dulberg without his permission or knowledge. Tables 3, 4A and 4B show the base logic Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams used to set Dulberg up to fail.

The emails[65] and attachments[66] sent to Clinton and Williams and Gooch can be compared to Tables 3, 4A and 4B, Table 10 and Table 11. They demonstrate that:

- Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys ignored what Dulberg actually told them.
- Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys wrote whatever they wanted to write.
- Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys then attributed all these claims to Dulberg.

They did this to set Dulberg up to lose his case and to benefit Popovich and Mast.

Table 5A shows[67] toll dates given by opposing counsel Flynn. Table 5B shows[68] toll dates given by Dulberg's own attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams. The logic used in Tables 3, 4A and 4B led to the claims of statute of limitations toll dates shown in Tables 5A and 5B.

Table 6 shows[69] how key elements of opposing counsel Flynn's Summary Judgment arguments in 2022 were set up with the help of Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys since 2016. Flynn's Summary Judgment argument is broken down into 29 key elements. Elements are shown to be directly related to something Dulberg's own legal malpractice attorneys did to Dulberg. Table 6 shows how Dulberg was set up to fail by his own legal malpractice attorneys from the first day Dulberg met Gooch.

Table 7 shows[70] how current Illinois law was applied by Officers of the Court in 17LA377 to Dulberg's case. The key statements made in defense of granting Summary Judgment to Defendants Popovich and Mast are gathered and compared.

The notion of a "financial injury" on December 12, 2016 consistent with Illinois law in Suburban Real Estate v Carlson was never explained to Dulberg by Gooch, Clinton, or Williams, not even as a suggestion or possibility. Opposing counsel Flynn found no relevance in Suburban Real Estate v Carlson. It was not used or referenced in any of the 14 items in Table 5A and 5B. There is no notion of financial injury or application of Illinois law Suburban Real Estate v Carlson in any of the versions in Table 4A nd 4B. Neither Judge Meyer or Judge Berg saw any relevance in Suburban Real Estate v Carlson and did not recognize any notion of a 'financial injury' occurring on December 12, 2016 consistent with Suburban Real Estate v Carlson in Dulberg's case.

Table 8 shows[71] patterns of collaboration between Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams on numerous issues. Dulberg retained Clinton-Williams almost 2 years after first retaining Gooch. It was not possible for Clinton-Williams to successfully suppress key documents unless Gooch-Walczyk suppressed the same key documents before them. They both did so to benefit Popovich and Mast among others.

Table 9 shows[72] 3 different cases of fraud on the court committed at Dulberg's expense. The first was during personal injury case 12LA178. When Dulberg was pressured to settle the remainder of the case for a low amount Dulberg reacted by declaring bankruptcy which opened a federal bankruptcy case in addition to PI case 12LA178. When Dulberg was later forced to accept an 'upper cap' of $300,000 on the value of the PI case Dulberg reacted by initiating legal malpractice claim 17LA377 against Popovich and Mast.

Tables 10 and 11 were described earlier in this response.

Fraud on the Court

In addition to committing fraud against Dulberg, the named attorneys participated in a series of frauds on the judicial mechanism of the court.[73]

> "Fraud upon the court" has been defined by the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals to "embrace that species of fraud which does, or attempts to, defile the court itself, or is a fraud perpetrated by officers of the court so that the judicial machinery can not perform in the usual manner its impartial task of adjudging cases that are presented for adjudication."[74]

The 7th Circuit further stated:

> "a decision produced by fraud upon the court is not in essence a decision at all, and never becomes final."[75]

Fraud on the court is a fraud:

> "directed to the judicial machinery itself and is not fraud between the parties or fraudulent documents . . . . It is thus fraud where . . . the impartial functions of the court have been directly corrupted."[76]

Interestingly, the term "fraud on the court" is only mentioned in Rule 60(d)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, yet courts have also used this doctrine to order dismissal or default under other rules where a litigant has stooped to the level of fraud on the court.[77]

As explained in 'Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation' Chapter 4 [78] there is evidence of 3 different cases of Fraud on the Court related to the actions of Popovich and Mast.

Fraud on the Court took place in 12LA178. But when Popovich and Mast put pressure on Dulberg to settle with Gagnon in October, 2014, Dulberg declared bankruptcy which initiatied BK case 14-83578. In order to conceal the fraud committed in 12LA178, those participating in Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 were forced to commit Fraud on the Court in BK 14-83578 for 2 reasons: (1) to conceal previous fraud and (2) to force Dulberg to settle with Gagnon.

When Dulberg filed a lawsuit for legal malpractice against Popovich and Mast (17LA377), a third case of 'Fraud on the Court' took place in 17LA377. The purpose of the 'Fraud on the Court' in 17LA377 was to conceal all the acts of fraud that took place in 12LA178 and BK 14-83578.

TABLE 9: 3 DIFFERENT CASES OF FRAUD ON THE COURT COMMITTED AT DULBERG'S EXPENSE

3 DIFFERENT CASES OF 'FRAUD ON THE COURT'			TYPE
1	12LA178	Popovich, Mast, Balke, the Baudins, Allstate, Auto Owners, bankruptcy trustee Olsen, Judge Meyer	Original Fraud
2	BK 14-83578	Popovich, Mast, Balke, the Baudins, Allstate, Auto Owners, bankruptcy trustee Olsen, Judge Meyer	Deflection (Secondary) Fraud
3	17LA377	Gooch, Clinton, Williams, Flynn, Popovich, Mast, Judge Meyer, Judge Berg	To Conceal All Previous Frauds

Case #1: PI fraud or settlement fraud was the original intent

Case #2: But when Dulberg declared bankruptcy, fraud in the bankruptcy court was necessary to 'close the deal'.

Case #3: Fraud in the legal malpratice case was necessary to conceal both the PI fraud and the bankruptcy fraud

New acts of fraud became neccesary to keep everything concealed that came before. The fraud started in one court but eventually spread to at least 5 courts (and counting).

The Continued Living Impacts of Fraud on the Court on Dulberg's Legal Malpractice and Fraud Claims

The 17LA377 dismissal and appeal[79] serves as a demonstration of how centrally important the document and information suppression systems used by Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams against Dulberg were to the outcome of Dulberg's cases.

The key evidence Tilschner v Spangler (Table 10, pages 9-10) and Dulberg's claims of Popovich and Mast committing Intentional Tort and Fraud (Table 11, page 12) would have blocked the 2 year SoL ‘escape hatch’ that Popovich and Mast used to have 17LA377 dismissed.

79 17LA377 appeal documents in chronological order

“Team-work” between Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams was essential in order to completely ‘bury key evidence’ for over 6 years. Without the careful and consistent efforts of Clinton-Williams to ‘bury fraud’ (as shown in Table 11), the case against Popovich and Mast could not have been dismissed through a 2 year SoL ‘escape hatch’.

In fact, Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams deserve more credit for having the case dismissed than opposing counse Flynn. Their coordinated suppression of key evidence and evidence of fraud over 6 years proved to be most decisive in swinging the case in the favor of defendants Popovich and Mast.

Corruption Is A Choice

We claim that the PI case 12LA178 is a documented, mapped example of systematic and widespread fraud on the court and we have provided substantial evidence to support our claims. The fraud on the court was so systematic and pervasive that we challenge anyone who disagrees with us to locate portions of case record of 12LA178 which are NOT either fraud on the court or affected by fraud on the court.

We claim that the legal malpractice case 17LA377 is also a documented, mapped example of systematic fraud on the court and we have provided substantial evidence to support our claims. We challenge anyone who disagrees to locate portions of case record of 17LA377 which are NOT either fraud on the court or affected by fraud on the court.

We cannot allow handicapped, disabled and injured people to be mere food sources for attorneys with no sense of ethics. The attorneys have all the advantages, the injured people have none. Especially dangerous are networks of attorneys as the Dulberg case shows. If they are defended and allowed to continue to work in the legal system, handicapped and disabled people do not have a ‘snowball’s chance in hell’ to make claims to seek justice in Illinois courts.

The named attorney used their memberships in the Illinois Bar as a vehicle to prey on their own permanently disabled client. They collectively treated the Himmel Rule as if it is a joke. The concealment of fraud was so systematic that Dulberg was most probably not their first target. To allow this to continue or to look the other way while it happens is to allow pure predation on injured, disabled and handicapped people to take place while using the Illinois court system and membership in the Illinois Bar as the vehicles to accomplish these ends.

Thank you for your help with this matter and feel free to contact us if you need any additional information or have any specific questions.

Members of the ARDC Committee,

We are submitting an ARDC Complaint against Brad J Balke.

We previously submitted the following ARDC Complaints:

Edward X. Clinton No. 2023IN02517 (submitted on July 27, 2023)

Julia C. Williams No. 2023IN02518 (submitted on July 27, 2023)

Thomas J. Popovich No. 2023IN03135 (submitted on September 15, 2023)

Hans Mast No. 2023IN03136 (submitted on September 15, 2023)

Before Dulberg retained Balke he was represented by Popovich and Mast. In order to understand what Balke did to Dulberg it is important to understand what Popovich and Mast did to Dulberg. The ARDC Complaints against Popovich and Mast describe how Popovich and Mast:[1]

- Redirected medical lien liability from the Defendants to Plaintiff
- Forged documents and destroyed evidence
- Corrupted the interrogatory and document production process to sabotage client's case and to benefit defendants (in collaboration with opposing attorneys)
- Suppressed information on mental health issues related to Dulberg's injury
- Corrupted the deposition process to sabotage client's case and to benefit defendants (in collaboration with opposing attorneys)
- Knew Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted to negligence for Dulberg's injury
- Knew Defendant Gagnon committed perjury
- Knew Defendant Carolyn McGuire committed perjury
- Committed settlement fraud
- Violated federal bankruptcy laws

1 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of "ARDC Complaint Against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast"

Balke received the case file from Popovich and Mast. The ARDC Complaint against Balke describes how:[2]

- Balke contracted with Dulberg and not with the Bankruptcy Trustee
- Balke told Dulberg (about 11 weeks later) he would withdraw counsel if Dulberg does not settle with Allstate for $50,000
- Balke violated federal bankruptcy laws

Dulberg later hired a legal malpractice attorney Gooch-Walczyk and after firing them, Dulberg retained Clinton-Williams. It is not possible to explain what Balke did without also explaining how Balke was covering for Popovich and Mast and being covered by Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams.

The legal malpractice attorneys collaborated with opposing counsel to conceal what the PI attorneys did to Dulberg. Balke covered for Popovich and Mast. The Baudins then covered for Popovich, Mast and Balke. Gooch then covered for Popovich, Mast, Balke, the Baudins and later Clinton and Williams then covered for Popovich Mast, Balke, the Baudins, and Gooch-Walczyk.

The ARDC Complaint against Clinton and Williams describe how Clinton and Williams:[3]

- Suppressed large numbers of documents and how they collaborated with opposing counsel to benefit the defendants and sabotage Dulberg's case by:

- Concealing Dulberg's bankruptcy
- Suppressing emails from Saul Ferris
- Suppressing key evidence (Tilschner v Spangler certified slip ruling)
- Suppressing large numbers of emails from Brad Balke
- Collaborating with opposing attorney to flood Dulberg with over 6,000 documents just before withdrawing as Dulberg's counsel
- Suppressing all information on what the Baudins did to Dulberg
- Suppressing evidence that Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March, 2013
- Collaborating with opposing counsel to suppress Barch documents before Dulberg's deposition
- Collaborating with opposing counsel to weaken verification pages of discovery production
- Collaborating with opposing counsel during the deposition of Hans Mast and after

3 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of "ARDC Complaint against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams"

In addition, the ARDC Complaint against Gooch and Walczyk (submitted at the same time as the Balke ARDC Complaint is being submitted) describe Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams:[4]

- Concealing key evidence in collaboration with each other (Tilschner v Spangler certified slip ruling)
- Concealing admission of negligence of Defendant Gagnon for Dulberg's injury in underlying case 12LA178 in collaboration with each other
- Concealing Bankruptcy and Violations of Federal Bankruptcy Laws (automatic stay, loss of standing to pursue claim, capping value of assets in BK estate, ect) in collaboration with each other
- Concealing true sources of $300,000 upper cap on the value of the PI claim in collaboration with each other
- Intentionally confusing Statute of Limitations toll date, date of "injury", and placing Dulberg's privileged attorney-client communications at issue in collaboration with each other CASE

They did these things to protect Balke (and Dulberg's other PI attorneys). One cannot fully understand what Balke did to Dulberg without understanding how Balke was protected by Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams.

All supporting exhibits are placed on 6 (64 GB) flash-drives that will be mailed to 130 E. Randolph Dr., Ste. 1500 Chicago, IL 60601-6219. Please advise to whom it should be addressed. ARDC COMPLAINT AGAINST BRAD J BALKE

BRAD BALKE CONTROL OF DULBERG'S PERSONAL INJURY CASE 12LA178

Balke contracted with Dulberg and not with the Bankrupty Trustee.

Balke told Dulberg (about 11 weeks later) he would withdraw counsel if Dulberg does not settle with Allstate for $50,000. Dulberg fired Balke.

Relevant Facts:

1. Dulberg filed for bankruptcy in November, 2014.[1]

2. Hans Mast and Thomas Popovich repeatedly tried to get Dulberg to settle with Gagnon for $50,000 or less.[2]

3. Dulberg eventually fired Popovich and Mast in March, 2015, just after canceling a preconference settlement hearing that Mast scheduled in which Mast was proposing on Dulberg's behalf to drop the case against Gagnon for $50,000, telling Dulberg in an email, "There's only $100,000 in coverage. Allstate will never offer anything near the policy limits therefore there's no chance to settle the case. The only alternative is to take the case to trial and I am not interested in doing that." [3]

4. On March 19, 2015 Dulberg retained Attorney Brad Bulke, who claimed he was willing to take the case against Gagnon to trial.

5. After withdrawl, in exchange for release of his attorney lien[4] Balke received $1539.32[5] for exactly what Balke paid to the Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich P.C.. Balke then received an overpayment of $1539.32[6] from Dulberg's Bankruptcy estate for an attorney lien that was already satisfied. Balke profited an extra $1539.32 from Dulberg.

6. As stated In re Enyedi, 371 B.R. 327, 334 (N.D. Ill. 2007):

> It is well established in case law that acts taken in violation of the automatic stay imposed under section 362(a) of the Bankruptcy Code are deemed void ab initio and lack effect. See Middle Tenn. News Co., Inc. v. Charnel of Cincinnati, Inc., 250 F.3d 1077, 1082 (7th Cir. 2001) ("Actions taken in violation of an automatic stay ordinarily are void."); York Ctr. Park Dist. v. (In re Garcia), 109 B.R. 335, 340 (N.D.Ill. 1989) ("[T]he fundamental importance of the automatic stay to the purposes sought to be accomplished by the Bankruptcy Code requires that acts in violation of the automatic stay be void, rather than voidable. Concluding that acts in violation of the automatic stay were merely voidable would have the effect of encouraging disrespect for the stay by increasing the possibility that violators of the automatic stay may profit from their disregard of the law, provided it goes undiscovered for a sufficient period of time."). See also Hood v. Hall, 321 Ill.App.3d 452, 254 Ill. Dec. 470, 747 N.E.2d 510, 512 (2001) ("There is no question that judgments entered in violation of the automatic stay in bankruptcy are void ab initio . . . and that void judgments may be attacked at any time."); Concrete Prod, Inc. v. 7. On April 3, 2015 11:38 AM Dulberg sent an email to Balke stating:[1] "Are we on for the April 9th pretrial in the McHenry County Courthouse?"

8. On April 3, 2015 at 11:59 AM Brad J Balke responded:[2] "Unbeknowst to me, the Judge cancelled the settlement conference. I am going in front of the Judge on 4/10 to get the settlement conference re-scheduled."

9. On April 3, 2015 at 3:22:58 PM CDT Dulberg sent an email to Balke with Subject: Re: April 9 th, stating:[3] "Should I be there?"

10. On April 10, 2015 the following exchange took place in 22nd Judicial Ciruit Court:[4]

THE COURT: Dulberg vs. Gagnon. Mr. Balke. Is this one yours?

MR. BALKE: Which one is this?

THE COURT: Dulberg vs. Gagnon.

MR. BALKE: Yeah. We're waiting for Acardo on that one, too.

THE COURT: All right.

(Whereupon, other matters were heard and the afore-captioned cause was recalled.)

THE COURT: You're the only ones here, so...

MR. BALKE: Yeah. We're waiting for Mr. Acardo, both of us. On my case, which is Dulberg, I think we had a pretrial conference set for today.

THE COURT: On Dulberg?

MR. BALKE: Yeah.

THE COURT: I don't have it on my schedule.

MR. BALKE: Well, I don't think you did anymore because irreconcilable differences between the plaintiff who was being difficult is now more in line.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BALKE: And so I want to get it re-set. I think that's what Acardo wants, too, but I haven't had a chance to talk to him.

THE COURT: I could do --

MR. BALKE: Can you do, like, May 13th? Would that work?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. BALKE: Yes?

THE COURT: We can do it at 11:00 o'clock on May 13th. If I get a -- if I have a trial going, which seems very doubtful at this point, you guys would end up getting kicked; but I would let you know the day before.

MR. BALKE: Sure. So 5-13 at 11:00 a.m. And I'll just set that, and --

THE COURT: Yeah. And if for some reason you can't do the pretrial, show up on that day at 9:00 a.m. for status.

MR. BALKE: Well, like I said, I think they may have some authority, and I want to get the plaintiff in here to --

A VOICE: Judge, I have written down on that day on my order, too (indiscernible) also put on for the same -

THE COURT: Okay. Which one? What number was yours?

A VOICE: Page 4, No. 12 on Judge Caldwell's call. (Indiscernible).

MR. BALKE: That's fortuitous, isn't it?

A VOICE: Yeah. Sometimes it just works that way.

THE COURT: All right.

11. On Apr 29, 2015, at 9:52 AM Brad Balke sent an email to Dulberg stating:[1] "As discussed, Mast gave me a check for $3,333.33 along with the file. See PDF attached. I need to deposit this in my IOLTA before the check expires. To that end, Send me a one-□line e-□mail stating that I have Power of Attorney to endorse the draft on your behalf. The funds will just sit there until we resolve the rest of the case. I'm going to call Perry Accardo again on the settlement conference. He has to call me back." 12. On April 29, 2015 at 10:12:44 AM CDT Dulberg sent an email to Balke stating:[1] "You have power of attorney to endorse the draft on my behalf.Paul Ps. Wish I could make Hans choke on this check for his lies/incompetence that lead to such a small amount!"

13. On May 8, 2015 at 12:34:25 PM CDT Dulberg sent an email to Balke stating:[2] "Yesterday Saul Ferris office called and said they just received back the packet they mistakenly sent to Hans Mast at Popovich law firm. In it is the pretrial settlement memo you wanted to see. There is also the printed depositions of both the homeowners, the defendant and myself. I picked these up this morning. Let me know how to get these to you."

14. On May 13, 2015 the following exchange took place in 22nd Judicial Circuit Court:[3]

NO APPEARANCES GIVEN

THE COURT: Counsel, your turn.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: I'm going to bring back Mr. Dulberg, too.

THE COURT: Okay. That's fine.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Thanks, Judge. Or you wanted to me see me first and then --

THE COURT: No, you both can come back.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: All right.

(Whereupon, a break in the in-courtroom proceedings was had.)

THE COURT: Counsel.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Just me, Judge?

THE COURT: Yeah, just you.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: All right. I'll be right back. It probably won't be long.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Okay.

(Whereupon, a break in the in-courtroom proceedings was had.)

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Sorry. The judge wants to bring me and the plaintiff back one more time. This should go quick.

(Whereupon, a break in the in-courtroom proceedings was had.)

THE COURT: (Indiscernible). We need a new date. What do you want to do?

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Give me at least 30 days probably.

THE COURT: Okay. If we come back for status on June 12th, I can do that. That's exactly 30 days.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Let me check my calendar, Judge. I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Otherwise we're talking the end of the month.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: I actually have pretrials in Lake County that morning.

THE COURT: All right. You might not have to be here.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Okay.

THE COURT: So I'm --

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Okay. Yeah. If we don't necessarily have to be here, then --

THE COURT: Yeah. It doesn't make any difference to me.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Okay.

THE COURT: Because I'm -- My understanding is that they have got to go talk to some people.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Okay.

THE COURT: Is that a fair statement, counsel?

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Yes.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Okay. Understood.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: June 12th, you want to do this, Judge?

THE COURT: Yes. But Mr. Accardo can't be here, so.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Oh, okay.

THE COURT: I mean if you were expecting him to show. That just is the one date I'm here.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Yeah. Let's -- Let's get it set for that day --

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Okay.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: -- and I'll just cover it and --

THE COURT: All right.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: (Indiscernible).

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: All right.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Okay.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Just (indiscernible)

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Is that going to work?

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Yeah.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Do you need the case info?

(Whereupon, a discussion took place off the record.)

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Thanks for working through lunch, Judge.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Thank you, Judge.

THE COURT: Have a good day.

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Don't starve.

15. On May 14, 2015 at 7:16:30 AM CDT Dulberg sent an email to Bulke stating:[1] "Thank you for yesterday. Please find Below is Atty. David Stretch's contact information. He is the Attorney I have to represent myself in the Bankruptcy. If you are not able to read the attachment I can send it in text form.

16. On May 15, 2015 2:17 PM Dulberg sent an email to Balke stating:[2] [3] "I sent you a photo of the discharge order from the bankruptcy yesterday. Is the photo sufficient or do I still need to go to Donahue's office and get you a copy? Also, reading the discharge order it seems to me that the bankruptcy is over and I've been discharged from all debt. If that is so, doesn't that mean there is no 15k limit anymore? Below I have attached another photo of the discharge order."

17. On May 15, 2015 at 3:58 PM Brad J Balke sent an email to Dulberg stating:[4] "The photo is sufficient. Awaiting a call from the trustee. No, the 15k limit is still in force since the case is a recognized asset of yours. Think of it like having real estate, but not selling until after the BK. The asset would still be yours, albeit in a different form."

18. On May 15, 2015 at 6:48:07 PM CDT Dulberg sent an email to Bulke stating:[5] "I don't understand because I do still have real estate after the bankruptcy and I was told I'm now free to refinance it, sell it or keep it so I'm not sure I get the point but ok I guess"

If it turns out the suit is still in play for the bankruptcy I wonder why the order from the court I sent you doesn't list the suit as an exemption from the order. On the back of the order it details what the exemptions listed on the front mean and my order didn't have any exemptions listed. Either way it doesn't matter. My thoughts are, if we get enough to pay the debts all the better. Perhaps we can get enough to undo the bankruptcy altogether. Would be nice not having a bankruptcy on the record. Thanks again, Paul"

21. On May 27, 2015 at 11:23:10 AM CDT Dulberg sent an email to Balke with Subject: Settlement vs. trial, stating:[2] "Talked with my mom and it seems to us that if all I'm going to get is 15k even if we max out the defendants policy limit then I should seriously look at taking this to trial and leaving it up to a jury to decide an appropriate amount. 15k might as well be 0 because it doesn't even begin to pay for the damages I've suffered. I know the risks and that it would cost me almost 20k more in expenses and that the defendant can run off and pay nothing beyond his insurance limits. Assuming that Allstate may claim the act was criminal and that their not responsible has to be overcome. I'm not a mind reader and can't make any claim as to their clients intentions and their client isn't going to self incriminate himself so I don't see how their claim of something criminal can hold water. Especially since their client hasn't been charged with any crimes associated with his actions on that day. At the last court date, The judge asked if I was doing this for principles. I answered no. However, after thinking it through... Seeing as how I'm getting virtually nothing out of this and will eventually lose my home, that I was working most of my life to keep, because SSDI can't cover living here or almost anywhere that I can consider worthy, my principles are evolving and I'm not opposed to going the distance and taking this to trial. I'm willing to make a principled point that people should not get off 'scot free' other than having to find a new insurance company after using a chainsaw on another person causing real life threatening harm with permanent damages. I'm more than positive that a jury will award more than the insurance limits and that we will not recover anything more than those limits, but one thing is almost for sure, the defendant will most likely have to file bankruptcy to protect his assets and the next person he hurts over the next 7-10 years will have full access to his assets because he won't be able to file bankruptcy again for that period. Either way, I get virtually nothing so principles are all I have. On the positive side, If the jury does award an amount more than the insurance limits we get to see if the defendant has any assets that can't be protected and if he does I stand to get the costs of a trial covered a perhaps a smidgen more than 15k, if not, well then I'm in the same boat I am already and nothing changes."

23. On May 27, 2015 at 7:19:56 PM CDT Dulberg sent an email to Balke stating:[2] "Hi Brad, Just got this message and its late. Not sure what kind of thoughts are the right kind of thoughts in this type of situation. Will call tomorrow Paul"

24. Bulke told Dulberg that if he does not agree with a settlement of $50,000, Bulke could not continue to be his attorney.

25. On Jun 9, 2015 at 12:24 PM Brad Balke sent an email to Dulberg stating:[3] "Paul, Please sign on the line near the red "X". If you need a notary, you can go to Donahue's office and sign there."

26. On June 9, 2015 1:39 PM Dulberg sent an email to Balke stating:[4] "Who wrote this, you or Allstate?"

27. On Jun 9, 2015 at 1:40 PM Brad J Balke sent an email to Dulberg stating:[5] "Allstate. It isn't written particularly for your case. They use the same release for everyone."

28. On June 9, 2015 at 4:52:13 PM CDT Dulberg sent an email to Balke stating:[6] "You could have just stopped with this is the best deal you could get but you didn't. You pulled a Hans and assaulted me when you threatened to remove yourself from this case if I didn't sign this release before you see the judge. That's an ultimatum and it's not something I'm going to react to positively. The way I see it, there is more than just the 2 options in your ultimatum… A.) I can take this deal, shut up, go away and keep suffering and praying for SSDI B.) I can refuse to take this deal, lose you as an attorney and have to find new council or simply represent myself and start over with the same 15k on the table and possibly an extra 15k in bankruptcy surplus while still suffering and preying for SSDI. C.) I can stop this suit all together and lose 15k, in which no one gets anything while I suffer and prey for SSDI Any which way I go, I'm the one who's getting thrown under the buss and I'm tired of being a victim of others threats.
As of now I'm leaning towards option "C". As you said, the medical providers have already written off my accounts as loses and that leaves Option "C", me losing 15k, well, it is kind of a cheap way of saying how I feel about the state of my legal representation and their efforts because their afraid they can't prove the defendant put a chainsaw into my arm and that the defendants mother is an elderly woman with whom the jury may sympathize yet didn't see the actual incident, refused to call 911 for help, but did call her insurance followed by a call to the hospital and lied to the staff claiming to be my mother only to disrupt the emergency room treatment not to ask how I was doing but to tell me she was insured. Good for granny, she is insured. Where was her slick phone skills when I needed an ambulance and for god sakes why lie to the hospital staff and call me in the emergency room to tell me the most important thing on her mind... The fact that she was insured. Big deal what did it do to help me?

These people had no concern for anyone's well being other than their own. They are the type that deserve to get sued. Granny or not. This may all make a great documentary one day about the state of legal representation and their ethical commitment to following through once they commit themselves to a client. A series false dichotomies of sorts. It is just a leaning towards option "C" not an actual commitment yet. I need to sleep on the options for a couple nights I'll get back to you with my answer just before court starts later this week. Please remind me, what is the time and date the judge set?Thanks for everything, Paul"

29. On June 11, 2015 10:08 AM Dulberg sent an email to Balke with Subject: Release v trial, stating:[1] "Before I decide to sign this release I'd like to know exactly why it is you don't think this case is easily winnable? And please don't spout that it's his word vs mine. That is obvious and is the situation in most cases. And don't give me the old your only getting 15k no matter what excuse because that's not about this case being winnable or not. I want some honesty
I deserve that much
Please feel free to call me with the answer"

30. On Jun 11, 2015 at 12:24 PM Brad Balke sent an email to Dulberg stating:[2] "It isn't that it's not winnable....A trial would be very unlikely to improve your bottom line. After all, you'd have to win more than the offer, plus expenses, plus the claims on bankruptcy case. In other words, even if you "win" your trial, you might end up with less in your pocket."

31. On June 11, 2015 at 1:19:58 PM CDT Dulberg sent an email to Balke stating:[3] "at this point, the very least of a judgement on the defendants record is priceless And that increases my bottom line in more than just a monetary way" month ago, exactly a month ago, and Paul and I have a difference on how we see the settlement offer, My perspective, it's a max- -

THE COURT: We are on the record.

A VOICE: Yeah, I know.

THE COURT: What - - so what are you asking me for and then we'll work backwards?

A VOICE: Well, we've had an irretrievable break down of the attorney - client relationship .

THE COURT: Okay.

A VOICE: I'd like to withdraw. I'd like to get an order that says that I can withdraw.

THE COURT: Do you understand what he's saying?

A VOICE: I understand what he's asking. I'm asking you not to give it to him.

THE COURT: Okay. I can't make someone be your attorney if - -

A VOICE: I know, but he did take it on knowing that it could go further than this.

THE COURT: And, I mean, there are certain circumstances under which I can deny the motion and that involves situations, for instance, when it's on the eve of trial, but we don't have a trial date. I recognize it's a hardship.

A VOICE: We are at the precipice, though.

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

A VOICE: We are at the precipice if the agreement breaks down.

THE COURT: Well, we haven't - - I haven't set it for trial, so I don't have any critical matters coming upon this case that I think would justify denying his motion. I recognize it's not something you want, but I wouldn't - - I wouldn't force you to stay his client. I wouldn't force h i m to stay your attorney. That's a harm on all of you.

A VOICE: I don't know how it all works, but I do understand he has a lien. He's only been on this for a little bit. And I am asking - - maybe you have the power. I have asked him and he refuses to give up his part of the lien so I can go get somebody else. That would be - - it's a better incentive for the - -

THE COURT: Certainly. But I don't know, and I' m not asking you tell me, I don't know the extent of his lien. I don't know to what extent you feel that his services are justified by that lien. And that's a different kind of a hearing. And I wouldn't ask you to say anything, again, on the record because that's -

A VOICE: Do we need to have that hearing?

THE COURT: If there were a motion filed, yes, we would - - I would entertain that argument, but to be honest, the only time I would really entertain that argument is if you had achieved settlement with the other side because you can't determine - - it's all speculative for me to determine the value of his work if I don't know what the value of the settlement is I mean, if you settle for ten - - and I don't - - I'm picking numbers out of thin air - - if you settle for $10,000, that's one thing. But if you end up settling for a hundred thousand dollars, then there is something else altogether involved, so - -

A VOICE: Well, I think obviously at this point any improvement isn't going to be his doing.

THE COURT: And I would generally agree, but I don't know the basis under which - - I mean, you could present a valid argument that the improvement is based on work he's already performed. I don't know. Everything I'm saying right now is entirely speculative. The end result is that even though you are objecting, I'm going to allow him to withdraw. I will give you time to file your own appearance and/or get an attorney, but I can't in good conscience force him to stay in the case given the status of this matter, and so I would let him withdraw. Do you have any questions about that procedure? I'm assuming you have no other objections other than you don't want him to withdraw.

A VOICE: How long do I've got to find a lawyer?

T H E COURT: You'll have 21 days, and I'm - - if you file your own appearance, he's already paid the fee or you've already paid the fee technically. All you've got to do is file an additional appearance, but you have to file an appearance. If you file your own appearance, then the case will remain pending. In fact, Counsel, I'm going to - - I'll let you withdraw. I'm going to explain this, but I'll let you start on the order. I'm going to continue this until July 10th, and I will grant you leave until July 10th in which to file an appearance or have an attorney file an appearance. If you file an appearance, that's all you've got to do, and it shouldn't cost you any money because the fee has already been paid by somebody else. If you do nothing, though, I have no alternative but to dismiss the case for want of prosecution.

A VOICE: Right

THE COURT: If - - if you are still talking to another attorney, you can file your appearance and that will kind of serve as a place holder and nothing bad will happen. And a new attorney can appear at any point later on in the litigation so that you don't prejudice yourself by filing your own appearance, but you've got to file an appearance and you've got to send a copy to the other side so they know you did. Do you have any questions?

A VOICE: Actually I do, Judge, there is another issue. Mr. Dulberg settled out the claim with a prior defendant, and I'm holding a small amount of funds for him from that defendant. And what I'd like to do is disburse those funds to him subject to all the liens, and that way - - and put that in the order so that we have a very clear understanding of what I'm going to do.

THE COURT: Okay. Do you have any questions about this proposal because I don't know the details and I'm not asking?

A VOICE: The way that it happened last time is the new, whoever I get, would take that from him and put it towards whatever because this is - - this is all tied up to be settled somewhere else

THE COURT: But he's already settled, as I understand, with one of the parties so that you have a finite amount of money.
A VOICE: He didn't actually settle. Somebody else did. He's just holding the funds.

THE COURT: Allright. So do you have any problem with him disbursing the funds under those circumstances? Do you know the exact numbers?

A VOICE: Yes.

A VOICE: I believe that they have to be turned over to a bankruptcy court. That's about it.

THE COURT: Okay

A VOICE: I don't - -

THE COURT: Allright.

A VOICE: Well, he has an exemption up to $15,000 at least, so this is well below that.

THE COURT: Allright. So what's the language you are proposing for that order?

A VOICE: Just that I disburse the funds to him and that's it, subject to whatever liens might exist.

THE COURT: Okay.

A VOICE: I mean, I could hold them - - I could hold them for him if he wants me to, but I'd rather not.

A VOICE: I don't want to (indiscernible) the money, so - -

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

A VOICE: I don't want to lose the money, so wherever it's got to go, it's got to go.

THE COURT: Allright. Well, and he's got to pay the liens anyway, so I have no problem with the entry of that order unless there is something I'm not anticipating that you can advise me of.

A VOICE: I don't know of anything else.

THE COURT: So I will grant that request. He'll put it in the order. I' m putting the case over to July 10. By July 10 th, you've got to file an appearance.

A VOICE: Yes.

THE COURT: If you file an appearance and don't show up, I have to dismiss the case

A VOICE: Yes, sir

THE COURT: So once you file the appearance , you're acting as the attorney and you've got to be here, so - - and if you intend to litigate the case on your own, I can give you a little bit of leeway because you are not an attorney, but I can't ignore the rules. So it is very difficult for somebody who doesn't know the rules to practice law, so I - -

A VOICE: I will be seeking an attorney.

THE COURT: I don't want you to box yourself in to a position by - -

A VOICE: I think that's exactly what we are doing here is I'm trying to unbox that position.

T H E C O U R T : And you are entitled to your opinion. I don't remember the details. I remember the pretrial, but I will put it over to July 10 th. He'll draft the order. If there is - - take a look at the order. If there is a problem, step back up and I'll address it. Okay. Do you have any other questions?

A VOICE: No.

THE COURT: Allright. We'll see you shortly.

A VOICE: Thanks, Judge.

THE COURT: Thank you.

Dulberg was to accept a $50,000 settlement in the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court for a chainsaw injury to his dominent right arm which left him permanently and fully disabled while the case was under automatic stay and both the plaintiff and defense attorneys and Judge knew the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court had no jurisdiction over assets of the Bankruptcy estate. He was to either settle or go without counsel and face a possible dismissal in a court that had no jurisdiction over his case.

Members of the ARDC Committee,

We are submitting an ARDC Complaint against W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly N. Baudin.

We previously submitted the following ARDC Complaints:

Edward X. Clinton No. 2023IN02517 (submitted on July 27, 2023)

Julia C. Williams No. 2023IN02518 (submitted on July 27, 2023)

Thomas J. Popovich No. 2023IN03135 (submitted on September 15, 2023)

Hans Mast No. 2023IN03136 (submitted on September 15, 2023)

It is not possible to fully understand what the Baudins did to their client Dulberg without understanding how the Baudins were covering for Popovich and Mast and being covered by Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams. The legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams collaborated with opposing counsel to conceal from Dulberg wrongdoing the personal injury attorneys did to Dulberg. The Baudins covered for Popovich, Mast and Balke. Gooch then covered for Popovich, Mast, Balke, the Baudins. Clinton and Williams then covered for Popovich Mast, Balke, the Baudins, and Gooch-Walczyk.

The ARDC Complaints against Popovich and Mast describe how Popovich and Mast:[1]

- Redirected medical lien liability from the Defendants to Plaintiff
- Forged documents and destroyed evidence
- Corrupted the interrogatory and document production process to sabotage client's case and to benefit defendants (in collaboration with opposing attorneys)
- Suppressed information on mental health issues related to Dulberg's injury
- Corrupted the deposition process to sabotage client's case and to benefit defendants (in collaboration with opposing attorneys)
- Knew Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted to negligence for Dulberg's injury

1 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of "ARDC Complaint Against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast"

- Knew Defendant Gagnon committed perjury
- Knew Defendant Carolyn McGuire committed perjury
- Committed settlement fraud
- Violated federal bankruptcy laws

The ARDC Complaint against Balke describes how:[2]

- Balke contracted with Dulberg and not with the Bankruptcy Trustee
- Balke told Dulberg (about 11 weeks later) he would withdraw counsel if Dulberg does not settle with Allstate for $50,000
- Balke violated federal bankruptcy laws

The Baudins were retained by Dulberg after Dulberg fired Balke. The Baudins:[3]

- Contracted with Dulberg instead of with the Bankruptcy Trustee
- Moved to cap the value of PI case 12LA178
- Closed the deal with an upper cap of $300,000
- Coerced Dulberg to agree and misinformed him of where the 'upper cap' came from
- Moved to contract with Bankruptcy Trustee only after capping value of 12LA178
- Misled Bankruptcy Judge that Dulberg wants Binding Mediation (about 11 weeks after the deal was closed)

Additionally:

- Dulberg's signature was forged onto the ADR Binding Mediation Agreement
- Dulberg was coerced into signing Allstate Release

Dulberg retained legal malpractice attorney Gooch-Walczyk. After firing Gooch Dulberg retained legal malpractice attorneys Clinton-Williams. It is not possible to fully understand what the Baudins did and how they got away with it without understanding that Baudins were covering for Popovich and Mast and being covered by legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams.

The ARDC Complaint against Clinton and Williams describe how Clinton and Williams:[4]

- Suppressed large numbers of documents

3 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of "ARDC Complaint Against Kelly N. Baudin and William Randall Baudin II"

4 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of "ARDC Complaint against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams" and how they collaborated with opposing counsel to benefit the defendants and sabotage Dulberg's case by:

- Concealing Dulberg's bankruptcy
- Suppressing emails from Saul Ferris
- Suppressing key evidence (Tilschner v Spangler certified slip ruling)
- Suppressing large numbers of emails from Brad Balke
- Collaborating with opposing attorney to flood Dulberg with over 6,000 documents just before withdrawing as Dulberg's counsel
- Suppressing all information on what the Baudins did to Dulberg
- Suppressing evidence that Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March, 2013
- Collaborating with opposing counsel to suppress Barch documents before Dulberg's deposition
- Collaborating with opposing counsel to weaken verification pages of discovery production
- Collaborating with opposing counsel during the deposition of Hans Mast and after

In addition, the ARDC Complaint against Gooch and Walczyk describe Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams:[5]

- Concealing key evidence in collaboration with each other (Tilschner v Spangler certified slip ruling)
- Concealing admission of negligence of Defendant Gagnon for Dulberg's injury in underlying case 12LA178 in collaboration with each other
- Concealing Bankruptcy and Violations of Federal Bankruptcy Laws (automatic stay, loss of standing to pursue claim, capping value of assets in BK estate, ect) in collaboration with each other
- Concealing true sources of $300,000 upper cap on the value of the PI claim in collaboration with each other
- Intentionally confusing Statute of Limitations toll date, date of "injury", and placing Dulberg's privileged attorney-client communications at issue in collaboration with each other

They did these things to protect the Baudins and other attorneys. One cannot fully understand what the Baudins did to Dulberg without understanding how the Baudins were protected by Dulberg's legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams.

All supporting exhibits are placed on 6 (64 GB) flash-drives that will be mailed to 130 E. Randolph Dr., Ste. 1500 Chicago, IL 60601-6219. Please advise to whom it should be addressed. One flash drive is intended for the ARDC and the other five are for the 5 attorneys mentioned in

ARDC COMPLAINT AGAINST KELLY N BAUDIN AND WILLIAM RANDALL BAUDIN II

BAUDIN CONTROL OF DULBERG'S PERSONAL INJURY CASE 12LA178

- Baudins contracted with Dulberg instead of with the Bankruptcy Trustee
- Baudins moved to cap the value of PI case 12LA178
- Baudins closed the deal with an upper cap
- Baudins coerced Dulberg to agree and misinformed him of where the 'upper cap' came from
- Baudins moved to contract with Bankruptcy Trustee only after capping value of 12LA178
- Olsen misled Bankruptcy Judge that Dulberg wants Binding Mediation (about 11 weeks after the deal was closed)
- Dulberg's signature was forged onto the Agreement
- Dulberg was coerced into signing Release

Table 1: 4 DIFFERENT EFFORTS TO PLACE AN UPPER CAP ON THE VALUE OF PI CASE 12LA178

Appendix A: Phone call to Dulberg from Randall Baudin Sr.

Relevant Facts:

1. Dulberg's injury and experiences with Popovich are described in detail in Exhibit 1.

2. Dulberg's experiences with Balke are described in Exhibit 2.

3. In summary, the Baudins continued in the same pattern (with some slight variations) as Popovich and Mast did and as Balke did:

a) Contracted with Dulberg even though they knew Dulberg had no standing as plaintiff in the case (the third consecutive law firm to do so).

b) Agreed to take case to trial when contracting (the third consecutive law firm to do so).

c) Represented Dulberg in 22nd Judicial Circuit Court even though the automatic stay is in place (the third consecutive law firm to do so).

d) Did not sign any agreement with Bankrupty trustee who they knew had standing as plaintiff in the case from September 22, 2015 to October 31, 2016 (the third consecutive law firm to do so).

e) Knew or should have known that Gagnon already effectively admitted to negligence (the third consecutive law firm to do so).

f) Only discernible work done in 22nd Judicial Circuit Court was to get Dulberg to agree to Allstate settlement for $300,000 or less

4. Dulberg's mother knew that Randall Baudin Sr had represented Scott Dulberg a few years back and she recommended Randall Baudin Sr to Dulberg.

5. Dulberg called the office of Baudin & Baudin a few times, but nobody called back.[1]

6. Dulberg along with his mother (Barbara Dulberg) and brother Tom Kost went to meet with Randy Baudin Sr at Baudin & Baudin to discuss possible representation.

7. Upon entering the office of Baudin & Baudin, Dulberg met with a receptionist who called herself Myrna who introduced Dulberg to Randy Jr and Kelly Baudin attorneys of the firm.

8. When Barbara Dulberg inquired about Randy Baudin Sr, she was told that he was not available, not real active these days but doing okay.

9. A meeting took place.

10. Dulberg's fee agreement is with Baudin & Baudin which at the time was located at 2100 Huntington Dr., Suite C Algonquin IL. 60102.[2]

11. W. Randall Baudin II and Kelly Baudin belong to Baudin Law Group, Ltd. which at the time was located at 304 McHenry Ave, Crystal Lake, IL 60014.

12. Many Emails with Myrna Thompson aka Myrna Boyce their secretary are from myrna@blgltd.com and myrna@lawbaudin.com with the logo of Baudin Law Group Ltd.

13. Emails with Randy Baudin Jr are from randybaudin2@gmail.com

14. Emails with Kelly Baudin are addressed kelly@lawbaudin.com

15. Other emails used copier@blgltd.com

16. Dulberg expressed his intentions to take the case to trial clearly and unambiguously to W. Randall Baudin Jr and Kelly Baudin at their opening meeting. After what happened with Popovich, Mast and Bulke, Dulberg did not want an attorney who was not willing to take the case against Gagnon to a jury trial.

17. W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin agreed to take the case to trial if necessary.

18. At their first meeting Dulberg gave W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin 2 different packets of case files, one in a box from Bulke and the other from the Popovich Law Firm in a brown jacket folder. W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin did not want the box of files from Bulke and took only the organized brown jacket folder.

2 Exhibit F1-2015-Baudin_FeeAgreement.pdf

19. On September, 22, 2015 Dulberg hired Baudin & Baudin, W. Randal (Randy) Baudin II and Kelly Baudin to represent him in prosecuting his claims against Gagnon.[1]

20. Popovich hid key documents[2] that supported the version of events of the day of the chainsaw accident told by Dulberg and contradicted the version of events told by Gagnon, Carolyn McGuire, and Bill McGuire from Dulberg, the opposing counsel, and Dulberg's future attorneys, including the Baudins.

21. A $7,500 offer[3] made by Popovich and Mast on October 22, 2013 in Dulberg's name to settle the case with the McGuires was not included in the brown jacket folder (or the box of files) because Popovich and Mast did not include it.

22. A pharmacy receipt[4] with the time of presciption pick up given to Mast by Dulberg at their first meeting on December 1, 2011, which was a key piece of evidence corroborating Dulbergs version of events on the day of the chainsaw accident and directly contradicting the version of events told by Gagnon, Carolyn McGuire and Bill McGuire, was also not included in the brown jacket folder (or the box of files) because Popovich and Mast did not include it.

23. The purpose of the Baudin Defendants representing Dulberg in court (even though they knew or should have known that Dulberg lacked standing and any furtherance of the personal injury case in violation of the automatic stay) appears to have been to place an upper limit on the value of the case.

24. As stated In re Enyedi, 371 B.R. 327, 334 (N.D. Ill. 2007)

> It is well established in case law that acts taken in violation of the automatic stay imposed under section 362(a) of the Bankruptcy Code are deemed void ab initio and lack effect. See Middle Tenn. News Co., Inc. v. Charnel of Cincinnati, Inc., 250 F.3d 1077, 1082 (7th Cir. 2001) ("Actions taken in violation of an automatic stay ordinarily are void."); York Ctr. Park Dist. v. Krilich, 40 F.3d 205, 207 (7th Cir. 1994) (judgment issued against debtors without a modification of the automatic stay must be vacated); Matthews v. Rosene, 739 F.2d 249, 251 (7th Cir. 1984) (orders issued in violation of automatic stay provisions of Bankruptcy Code ordinarily are void); In re Benalcazar, 283 B.R. 514, (Bankr.N.D.Ill. 2002) (same); Garcia v. Phoenix Bond Indem. Co. (In re Garcia), 109 B.R. 335, 340 (N.D.Ill. 1989) ("[T]he fundamental importance of the automatic stay to the purposes sought to be accomplished by the Bankruptcy Code requires that acts in violation of the automatic stay be void, rather than voidable. Concluding that acts in violation of the automatic stay were merely voidable would have the effect of encouraging disrespect for the stay by increasing the possibility that violators of the automatic stay may profit from their disregard of the law, provided it goes undiscovered for a sufficient period of time."). See also Hood v. Hall, 321 Ill.App.3d 452, 254 Ill. Dec. 470, 747 N.E.2d 510, 512 (2001) ("There is no question that judgments entered in violation of the automatic stay in bankruptcy are void ab initio . . . and that void judgments may be attacked at any time."); Concrete Prod, Inc. v. Centex Homes, 308 Ill. App.3d 957, 242 Ill.Dec. 523, 721 N.E.2d 802, 804 (1999) ("[A]cts in violation of the section 362(a) automatic stay are void ab initio.")

25. Upon reviewing Dulberg's case against Gagnon, W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin knew or should have known that on February 1, 2013 a counterclaim[1] was filed against Gagnon by the McGuires on February 1, 2013. W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin knew or should have known:

a) that Gagnon has never filed an answer to the McGuires's counterclaim.

b) that because Gagnon did not answer the counterclaim filed on February 1, 2013, Gagnon was effectively admitting the facts stated in the counterclaim were true. The Baudins never told this to Dulberg.

c) that documents such as "Gagnon deposition exhibit 1" were highly questionable and showed evidence of being manipulated.[2] The Baudins never told this to Dulberg.

d) that Gagnon never filed answers to the interrogatories sent by Popovich and Mast.[3] The Baudins never told this to Dulberg.

26. W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin never asked Gagnon's counsel for the answers to interrogatories. The Baudins never informed the judge that they never received Gagnons answers to interrogatories.

FIRST MOVEMENTS TOWARD BINDING MEDIATION ARE TAKEN BY ALLSTATE AND BAUDINS TOGETHER WITHOUT ANY KNOWLEDGE OR CONSENT OF THE BANKRUPTCY TRUSTEE OR BANKRUPTCY JUDGE AND WITHOUT ANY KNOWLEDGE OR CONSENT OF DULBERG

27. On June 13, 2016, in violation of the automatic stay, in the Circuit Court Allstate attorney Reddington stated that she and the Baudins are considering this case as a possible ADR candidate without Dulberg's knowledge or permission. The Baudins were representing Dulberg in the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court without Dulberg having standing as plaintiff, the case under automatic stay and without being hired as special counsel or receiving leave from the 7th Circuit United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Illinois, Western Division. Allstate attorney Reddington stated in the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court, "I have four motions up this morning. Plaintiff's attorney and I are working on the case to see if it's a possible ADR candidate. He asked that we get our motions entered and continued. They're for an IME." Allstate attorney Reddington also said, "And honestly, if I get a decision sooner, that -- well, I don't know if this is a case we -- we probably wouldn't be able to enter a dismissal order if we went to ADR until after the ADR was done."[1]

28. On June 13, 2016 the following exchange took place in the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court:[2]

> THE COURT: Dulberg versus Gagnon?
> (Whereupon the afore-captioned cause was recalled.)
>
> SPEAKER: Judge, I'm here on Dulberg versus Gagnon.
>
> THE COURT: Yeah.
>
> SPEAKER: I have four motions up this morning. Plaintiff's attorney and I are working on the case to see if it's a possible ADR candidate. He asked that we get our motions entered and continued. They're for an IME.
>
> THE COURT: Okay.
>
> SPEAKER: They're to continue the trial, they're to bar one of his witnesses, and they're to compelhis expert.
>
> THE COURT: Okay.
>
> SPEAKER: For a dep. Randy Baudin and I have been talking all last week. And I said, What do you want to do about today? He's working with a client who's on his third attorney, so.
>
> THE COURT: I had an extensive pretrial, so.
>
> SPEAKER: Yes. And I'm new to it, but I'm like, Okay, we're going to, you know, get it ready for trial if that's what we're going to do.
>
> THE COURT: When did Mr. Baudin want to come back?
>
> SPEAKER: He didn't say. But I know, like myself, he's going to a volleyball tournament with his daughters in Florida.
>
> THE COURT: Okay.
>
> SPEAKER: At the end of the month.
>
> THE COURT: So --
>
> SPEAKER: I don't want to --
>
> THE COURT: We'll get into July. Why don't we go 30 days. What's a day that works for you?
>
> SPEAKER: And honestly, if I get a decision sooner, that -- well, I don't know if this is a case we -- we probably wouldn't be able to enter a dismissal order if we went to ADR until after the ADR was done.

2 Exhibit F2-2016-06-13_CC-Civil - 12LA000178 - 2_24_2022 - - - REOP - -.pdf

THE COURT: Yeah.

SPEAKER: Based on the history. I am gone the first week of July. So after that, I am here July 11th.

THE COURT: Let's come back July 11th.

SPEAKER: Are you comfortable with leaving the trial date until that time?

THE COURT: Yeah.

SPEAKER: Because the trial date's out in September.

THE COURT: Yeah.

SPEAKER: Okay. All right.

THE COURT: It's not like it's extra work for me.

SPEAKER: Well, I just -- you know, for purposes of your calendar.

THE COURT: You're -- you're the number one case, so everybody else will be happy if you go away.

SPEAKER: I'm sure they will. Okay. Thank you, Judge.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

29. On July 11, 2016 the following exchange took place in the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court:[1]

THE COURT: Dulberg. Do we have -- When do you want to come back?

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: We're entering continuing the motions, is that what we're doing?

THE COURT: Yes.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Okay. When's your next available date, Judge?

THE COURT: For a hearing?

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Yes.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Or a brief.

THE COURT: Are we briefed? Has it been briefed?

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: No. They're just motions that I presented as emergencies and then we continued them pending discussions.

THE COURT: Well, when -- if it goes into mediation, the motions become moot. Or do we have to address them regardless? I don't know what they are.

1 Exhibit 129_2016-07-11_CC-Civil - 12LA000178 - 3_2_2022 - - - REOP - - (1).pdf

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: I think the type of mediation we would do, it would be moot because --

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Yeah, other than, possibly, an IME. But, you know, we can certainly work -- we've worked well together so far, so we could certainly see if we can work things out.

THE COURT: Speaking generally, I'd probably grant an IME. I haven't seen your motion, though, so I don't know. I mean, I could put this over to July 21st, and that should give you enough time to decide what you want to do with mediation.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: I can be here.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. And that will be just at 9:00 o'clock for presentation of the motion, and then we'll figure out what we're going to do.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Thank you for your time.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Thank you. Appreciate it.

30. On July 15, 2016 at 2:22 PM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[1] "Kelly and I would like speak with you and your mom Monday night at 630"

31. On July 15, 2016 at 2:27 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[2] "Okay, Monday the 18th at 6:30 pm. Do we need to bring anything?"

32. On July 15, 2016 at 2:29 PM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[3] "Maybe the social security report if you have it? We will Jameson's Charhouse crystal lake at 630 in meeting room there."

35. On July 18, 2016 W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin invited Dulberg and his mother, Barbara Dulberg, to dinner at Jamison Charhouse

36. At the dinner...

37. On July 18, 2016 at 8:54 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[6] "Would we be in a better position if the SSDI decision was already in and would that make a difference in the amount the arbitration judge would award?"

38. On July 18, 2016 at 8:56 PM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[1] "No we have the dr reports. You can tell the judge about it in mediation as well. More informal and you can get more info in without being restricted by rules of evidence. And I can't promise in a trial they won't bring the felony drug charges up. Believe me the binding mediation is the best route. We are in the best spot now with the momentum on our side and being able to present your case in mediation without any new testimony from defendant"

39. On July 18, 2016 at 9:00 PM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[2] "We are in the best spot now with the momentum on our side and being able to present your case in mediation without any new testimony from defendant"

40. On July 18, 2016 at 10:09 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[3] "If we went to trial I'm not worried about those drug charges. I've had to explain myself about that for decades. It's pretty simple, I screwed up at a young age, was honest about it, admitted my wrong and took my punishment. Then I moved on with life, worked hard for 17 years for many employers in this county who all have nothing but good things to say about my time with them while at the same time I created a legitimate business that lasted 12 years till this incident. I believe my past felony will be a non issue because it actually shows a lot about my character, being honest when I'm in the wrong is something most people won't do even if being honest cost me a few years. If Allstate does bring it up, their own client did the same thing only worse, he and his whole family was caught dealing drugs only to underage kids and he was the ringleader. They were just lucky that when they got caught it was before mandatory sentences for those offenses were in place. but it doesn't change what they did, exploiting underage children with drugs for money is far worse than my simple possession charge. I have the actual police reports if we need them. If this does go to trial, Allstate lawyers had better read the depositions of their client and his family. if they do I don't believe their going to put their client or anyone from his family on the stand just to purger themselves over and over again in front of a jury unless the want to lose. All they have is possibly some dr who isn't impartial questioning the results of the dr's I was sent to see. In the end after the Dr's have it out on the stand all that remains is me who nearly died, had 40% of my arm severed and the edges turned to hamburger by a chainsaw then just stitched back together with a few threads with hope that I might get some use yet. Well I do have limited use but it's not enough to do the daily functions we all need to do in order to take care of ourselves and it doesn't take a Ph.D. to see or understand that a chainsaw does that. Ok, I realize I just ranted a lot but its all good. I'll let you know in the morning"

41. On July 18, 2016 at 10:12 PM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[4] "So sorry came in garbled. Are you taking our recommendation as to the binding mediation?"

42. On July 18, 2016 10:13 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall

4 Exhibit 230_Baudin Text messages.pdf (page 45)

Baudin II stating:[1] "You will have an answer tomorrow"

43. On July 19, 2016 at 12:23 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[2] "Sorry but I want to get this to you while its fresh Please answer this in the morning How are costs and attorney fees handled in binding arbitration? Do they come out of the award or are they in addition to the award like a trial?"

44. On July 19, 2016 at 3:57 AM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[3] "Both Handled the same as trail."

45. On July 19, 2016 at 7:02 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[4] "Does that mean your fees and costs are awarded separate from the award or do they still come out of the 300k cap?"

46. On July 19, 2016 at 7:06 AM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[5] "If at trial and win 300 max Costs not above that. Same as mediation. We can ask for judge to award costs in both. Up to judge to award. Also costs mean filing fee service fee. Not the costs like experts bills"

47. On July 19, 2016 at 7:54 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[6] "We are thinking that if we can get Allstate to agree in advance and in writing to cover your % (fee) and all the costs including deposition fees, expert witness fees and medical above and beyond any award the arbiter sees fit then we would be willing to go forward. Let's just see if they are open to it"

48. On July 19, 2016 at 7:56 AM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[7] "They won't. The judge will decide what the award is and that is the award. We again urge you to do the binding mediation."

49. On July 19, 2016 at 8:10 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[8] "I just read the statute on arbitration and it seems to me that your fees and all the costs can be agreed to in advance with the exception of fees for the arbitration itself. I need to feel that there is something covered. Particularly the monies we already laid out otherwise just the momentum in our favor isn't enough because the momentum has always been in our favor. It doesn't hurt to ask Allstate if they would agree to pay these separate from the award"

50. On July 19, 2016 at 8:18 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[9] "In essence Allstate is already setting terms on us not to go after their clients personal assets. Irregardless if their are any assets. So I think it's only fair that they cover fees and costs in advance"

51. On July 19, 2016 at 8:40 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[1] "They are the ones pushing for arbitration correct? Why?"

52. On July 19, 2016 at 8:47 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[2] "I have to run to the dr's appointment. I'd tell Kelly to ask that Allstate wait till possibly Thursday for their answer. It's not like it cost them anything"

53. On July 19, 2016 at 10:07 AM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[3] "I told you they don't care if we arbitrate. We as your lawyers say that it is the best that you do the binding mediation. We are deciding this based on facts and odds as to give you the best outcome. It appears to me that you are still looking for some justification or rationalization to carry on as if it will make it better. It won't. This will give you the best possible outcome."

54. On July 19, 2016 at 1:46 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[4] "Randy, Yes arbitration is appealing because it saves a few thousand dollars and maybe a few years but I don't like the idea of being blindly boxed in on their terms alone without any assurances as to your fees, medical expenses or even what we spent out of pocket in costs to get here. I want some assurances/concessions on their part prior to walking in or it's no deal. Going in blind with no assurances, I can't help but to feel like a cow being herded thinking its dinner time but it's really slaughter time. They need to give somewhere prior to arbitration or it's a good indication as to how they will negotiate once we start. In other wards, if they won't concede anything prior to arbitration then they won't negotiate or concede anything once the arbitration starts and if that's the case, what's the point. We need something to show they are sincere in trying to resolve this. Up the lower limits from 50k to 150k, concede on the medical portion, out of pocket expenses, attorneys fees or how about just resolving their portion and leave their chainsaw wielding idiot open to defend himself in this lawsuit. Perhaps they can give on something I haven't thought of yet, Anything will do but giving on nothing prior to walking in there spells out what I'm going to get and if that's the case then I'll spend money and roll the dice. Convince me I'm not going being lead to slaughter and I'll agree To do it"

55. On July 19, 2016 at 4:28 PM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[5] "So sorry your texts come in out of order. Binding mediation or no."

Randall Baudin II stating:[7] "Randy, I truly appreciate yours and Kelly's honest advice and I hope I continue to receive it in the future. Please don't take this personal because it's not. I value everything you have to offer more than you know. I will be moving forward with litigation at this time. However, should Allstate consider a full settlement with no strings attached in the future so they can save the cost of litigation or a humiliating defeat I'm not opposed to entertaining it and most likely will accept it. This is too important to me and my family. I just cannot give up the protections of a public trial with the possibility of review should something be handled wrongly in the hopes of saving a few thousand dollars and time. Thank you both

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

(Whereupon, the above-entitled cause was passed and subsequently recalled.)

MS. BAUDIN: Okay, Judge. As you know, we had previously been discussing binding mediation. We came to a semi-agreement, --

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. BAUDIN: -- but we would like probably two weeks to just see if we can figure out the details and see if we can reach an agreement on how that is going to proceed. So I think we're looking at an August 4th date for that.

THE COURT: Can't do August 4th --

MS. BAUDIN: Oh, okay. I just was looking at two weeks, Your Honor.

THE COURT: -- because that's when I'm not here.

MS. BAUDIN: Oh, I see on the calendar. I apologize.

THE COURT: Any day after that.

MS. REDDINGTON: The following week, anything?

MS. BAUDIN: Grab my -- Let's say either the 8th or the 10th are probably the best.

THE COURT: Either's fine?

MS. REDDINGTON: My calendar's currently crashed on my -- so I can't answer that, but --

MS. BAUDIN: Why don't we do the 10th, just so it's --

THE COURT: Is there a date you know you're going to be here?

MS. REDDINGTON: No.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. REDDINGTON: Judge, and I have several motions, and what I'd like to do is get the trial stricken which is on 9/- --

MS. BAUDIN: 27th I believe or 22nd?

MS. REDDINGTON: -- the 26th, and then to set it for the status instead on the 8/10, and then I also had a motion on an IME. I'm a little stymied right now because my claim rep is out this week and there's a couple of issues that I can't answer for counsel, but if we do get the agreement in place, what we'd like to do is do the mediation and then come back for a status to dismiss it once the mediation is done, if that's agreeable.

THE COURT: First off, with respect to the motion to strike the trial date, any objection?

MS. BAUDIN: No.

THE COURT: All right. I will -- I will strike the trial date for September 26, as well as the pretrial date of the 23rd.

MS. REDDINGTON: Okay.

THE COURT: I will enter and continue your other motions until we're certain what's going to happen.

MS. REDDINGTON: Okay.

THE COURT: The removal of the trial date pretty much means we can do anything.

MS. REDDINGTON: Takes care of that. Okay. And hopefully we'll come back with everything in place and then we'll just even set a date and then get a status for after that date to be able to come back and say it's done; we're willing to dismiss with prejudice because mediation's binding and it's done.

THE COURT: All right. However you want to do it, it is fine.

MS. REDDINGTON: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Take care.

MS. BAUDIN: Thank you

96. On July 28, 2016 at 6:17 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[3] "Morning Randy, If there was some sort of business contract between Gagnon and his Parents why couldn't any of them even come close as to what the terms were? Secondly, where are the cashed checks or contract? I was there the day this happened. I didn't hear anything that sounded like it was more than a son doing work for his parents as a favor. Nothing more. This seems to me to be yet anything that sounded like it was more than a son doing work for his parents as a favor. Nothing more. This seems to me to be yet another ploy to negate their financial responsibility and was conceived of after the fact."

97. On July 28, 2016 at 6:24 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[4] "If I remember correctly, David said in his dep that he was elected to do the work. Why say elected if he was contracted?"

98. On July 28, 2016 at 6:47 AM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[5] "Sorry, I'm driving and it looks garbled again. But it says if there's an agreement or contract so I'm guessing, if he knows what is not going to give you coverage, he will testify that way. But he has already testified that he was receiving $15 an hour, and that you were going to get the same. What you get is a relevant or what you got, and I know you didn't get paid. It's also irrelevant whether or not he actually got paid, especially in light of how it turned out, I guess it's just whether or not there was an agreement and it didn't have to be in writing. If at trial, they all say that there was some agreement or in an action to exclude coverage before trial, i'm guessing they're all going to be on the same page. The issue as to whether or not there is coverage, is different from the trial. That's a trial before the trial and that is something that we would have to win."

99. On July 28, 2016 at 6:53 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[6] "Since they didn't think enough ahead of the dep to get their storylines straight as to the payment/terms for this supposed agreement I believe that is enough to show there was no agreement and this is just another fabrication. Not unlike the other fabrications created throughout their deps. It is an obvious pattern. Expose it and their done even in front of a conservative jury or a trained judge acting as an bait or or mediator"

Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[6] "It's not even a contract it was just an agreement that doesn't have to be something formal written it's like hey I'll pay you some money to take the tree down. Headed into a meeting. I'll keep you up-to-date on any new information"

124. On July 28, 2016 at 8:25 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[7] "If Carol, as she claimed, had previously entered into a contract with a real professional tree removal company why would she also agree to pay her son to remove the same tree? Unless, this is some sort of afterthought in an attempt to find ways of not paying for the damage they caused. They cannot play both sides of the street at the same time. They lied about this just as they lied about other things that happened that day all attempts to lessen the amount of damage done to me and lessen their responsibilities and misdirect blame and responsibility"

> MS. REDDINGTON: We'd like to have a status date after that date.

> THE COURT: What date works for you? You said December 8?

> MS. REDDINGTON: December 8.

> THE COURT: Okay. How about the following Monday, the 12th? Or do you want to go out further? The 16th, Friday?

134. On August 10, 2016, in violation of the automatic stay, Judge Meyer of the 22nd Circuit Court entered an 'Agreed Order' that stated "This case is continued on Motion of 'by agreement' to 12/12, 2016 at 9:00am for Status on binding Mediation.". The order also stated "Defendants appear by attorney Reddington". Reddington represented Allstate. The Baudins were not present.[2]

135. Allstate and the Baudins misrepresented Dulberg's wishes to the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court and claimed they had an agreement to enter into binding mediation on August 10, 2016. Judge Meyer entered the order and pushed the next status date to December 12, 2016, which is 4 days after the scheduled binding mediation date of December 8, 2016. All this was done in violation of the automatic stay.

136. Table 1 shows what happened on August 10th, 2016 is the 4th time Allstate teamed up with with Dulberg's own attorneys to place an upper cap on the value of case 12LA178

Randall Baudin II stating:[2] "Randy, I have to ask again, why is it wise to agree to mediate before permanent disability is determined by social security since the permanent disability rating would (be a large factor in determining what the insurance adjuster is willing to give? 150. On October 4, 2016 bankruptcy trustee Olsen filed 2 motions with the bankruptcy court.[1] [2]

151. On October 4, 2016 Dr Craig Phillips issues report. He wrote:[3] "He states he is not sure of the exact date, but on the date in question he was holding a tree branch at his neighbor's house to help David, his neighbor's son, cut the tree branch with a chainsaw. He stated he was holding a pine tree branch, which was a few inches thick, s!ill_attachedto the tree.and while David was cutting the branch", be inadvertently cut Mr. Dulberg's right forearm."

"Dr. Talerico:
According to the medical records from MidAmerica Hand to Shoulder, Mr. Dulberg was seen by Dr. Talerico on December 2, 2011. His history is a 41-year-old male, right hand dominant, referred by Dr. Levin, MD, neurologist, for evaluation of an injury sustained to the right medial forearm in June 2011. He was using a chainsaw chainsaw when he accidentally struck the volar medial aspect of his right forearm in roughly the mid forearm range with a chain saw. He had a large open wound down to muscle."

153. Sometime in the first half of October W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin informed Dulberg that the binding mediation process will take place even though Dulberg does not approve of the process and refused to sign the arbitration agreement. W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin informed Dulberg that the bankruptcy judge had the authority to order the process into a mediation agreement without Dulberg's consent, and the judge had already ordered the case into mediation.

154. On October 18, 2016 at 10:50 AM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[1] "Hi Randy, since we haven't received the IME report in 10 days as the Dr stated we would, I'd like to move back the date of the mediation thingy I'm being forced into so we have more than only a few weeks to deal with whatever the report may show. At least 2-3 months should do it considering the defense has already had the treating Dr's reports and depositions for months and years already. Let me know"

155. On October 21, 2016 at 1:47 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[2] "Hi Randy, looks like that board certified dr is quite the fabricator. Wish we had videotaped that because I'd post the video on the web right along side his report and let his patients see what he really is"

156. On October 21, 2016 at 1:54 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[3] "Myrna said your forwarding the report to dr Kujawa. That's good but I don't think we need it to prove Phillips an outright liar who can't pay attention to details. Hmmm... Makes me wonder who the hell passed him in med school"

157. On October 21, 2016 at 1:58 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[4] "Where did he come up with that line that the branch was still attached to the tree?"

158. On October 21, 2016 2:02 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[5] "That's not from anyone's deposition and you were there so you know I gave absolutely no details other than to say that basically a man walked over and used a chainsaw on me."

162. On October 21, 2016 at 2:08 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[4] "While the memories are still fresh"

163. On October 21, 2016 at 2:15 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to W. Defendant Randall Baudin II stating:[5] "Why write a history at all if it's all fabricated? Why say I told him stuff when I did not? Why Lie? This is about as unprofessional as it gets. Phillips should be made an example of. Sure you don't want the chance to cross examine this guy? I sure do"

164. On October 31, 2016 Trustee Olsen appeared before the Honorable Thomas M. Lynch and the following exchange took place:[6]

> MR. OLSEN: Good morning, Your Honor. Joseph Olsen, trustee. This comes before the Court on two motions. One is to authorize the engagement of special counsel to pursue a personal injury litigation, I think it's in Lake County, involving a chainsaw accident of some sort. And then, presumably, if the Court grants that, the second one is to authorize the estate to enter into -- I'm not sure what you call it, but binding mediation. But there's a floor of $50,000, and there's a ceiling of $300,000.
> And I guess I've talked with his attorney. He seems very enthusiastic about it. There may be some issues about the debtor being a good witness or not, I guess. It had to do with a neighbor who asked him to help him out with a chainsaw, and then I guess the neighbor kind of cut off his arm, or almost cut off his arm right after that. There's some bitterness involved, understandably, I guess. But I don't do personal injury work at all, so I'm not sure how that all flows through to a jury, but he didn't seem to want to go through a jury process. He liked this process, so...
> THE COURT: Very well. Mr. Olsen, first of all, with regard to the application to employ the Baudin law firm, it certainly appears to be in order and supported by affidavit. Their proposed fees are more consistent with at least what generally is the market than some of the fees you and I have seen in some other matters. One question for you: Have you seen the actual engagement agreement?

MR. OLSEN: I thought it was attached to my motion.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. OLSEN: If it's not, it should have been. It's kind of an interesting -- actually, this is kind of a unique one. The debtor actually paid them money in advance, and then he's going to get a credit if they actually win, which I guess enures, now, to my benefit, but that's okay. And there's a proviso for one-third, except if we go to trial, then it's 40 percent. So these are getting more creative by the PI bar as we plod along here, I guess, but...

THE COURT: It's a bar that's generally pretty creative. And my apologies. I saw the affidavit, but you did have the agreement attached, and one was in front of the other. And the agreement is just as you describe it. It appears to be reasonable, and so I'll approve the application. Tell me about this binding mediation. It's almost an oxymoron, isn't it?

MR. OLSEN: Well, I guess the mediators don't know there's a floor and a ceiling. I'm not sure where that comes from, but that's -- yeah. And whatever number they come back at is the number we're able to settle at, except if it's a not guilty or a zero recovery, we get 50,000, but to come back at 3 million, we're capped at 300,000.

THE COURT: Interesting.

MR. OLSEN: A copy of the mediation agreement should also be attached to that motion.

THE COURT: And I do see that. That appears to be in order. It's one of those you wish them luck

MR. OLSEN: I don't want to micromanage his case.

THE COURT: But that, too, sounds reasonable. There's been no objection?

MR. OLSEN: Correct.

THE COURT: Very well. I will approve -- authorize, if you will, for you to enter into the binding mediation agreement, see where it takes you.

MR. OLSEN: Thanks, Your Honor.

165. In the exchange Olsen said:[1] "Well, I guess the mediators don't know there's a floor and a ceiling. I'm not sure where that comes from, but that's -- yeah. " The evidence presented with this complaint demonstrates that the "floor "of $50,000 and the "ceiling" of $300,000 could have come from only one source: from Allstate and the Baudins (without Dulberg's or the bankruptcy trustee's or bankruptcy judge's knowledge or consent in violation of the automatic stay before Olsen was appointed Trustee). There can be no other source for the "low" and "high" limits. When the Baudins made this decision they represented nobody since Dulberg had no standing as plaintiff, there is no evidence that trustee Heeg was ever informed or ever entered into any agreement with the Baudins, and Olsen was not yet appointed trustee.

166. On October 31, 2016 an order was issued by the Honorable Thomas M. Lynch:[1]

> "ORDER THIS CAUSE coming on to be heard on this 31st day of October, 2016 upon the Trustee's Motion for Authority to Enter into a "Binding Mediation Agreement", the Court after considering the Motion, the statements of counsel, pleadings on file and being fully advised in the premises: IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Joseph D. Olsen, Trustee herein, is authorized to enter into a "Binding Mediation Agreement" as described in the Trustee's Motion, and the Trustee may execute such documents as are necessary to accomplish the matters set forth herein."

167. Order to employ Special Counsel order here[2]

168. On October 31, 2016 at 10:41AM trustee Olsen sent an email to Randall Baudin II stating:[3] "Randy- The Court authorized your appointment this morning, as well as entry into that "Binding Mediation Agreement"; Do you want the debtor to /s/ the form, or me as trustee? Let me know, thanks."

169. On October 31, 2016 at 10:50AM Randall Baudin II sent an email to Trustee Olsen stating: [4] "You can good ahead sign it."

170. Sometime in November the Baudins told Dulberg (during a telephone conversation) that even though he does not want the binding mediation to take place, he should attend the hearing anyway because the judge will look down on a person that doesn't attend as if they are uninterested in their own case.

171. On December 8, 2016, Dulberg attended the binding mediation with his mother, Barbara Dulberg, even though he did not agree to the process, did not want it to happen, and refused to sign any agreement or consent to the process.

172. Dulberg believed at the time that the Bankruptcy Judge was the person who ordered the case into binding mediation and Dulberg believed the Bankruptcy Judge had the legal authority to make that decision without anyone else's consent. Dulberg beleived this because W. Randall Baudin II told him it was true.

173. When Paul Dulberg and Barbara Dulberg were sitting alone in a room waiting, Dulberg read a document left on the table. The document was written by Lanford.[5]

174. The document contained this comment: "..."[6]

175. The Binding Mediation Judge ordered an award of $560,000.[7]

177. Dulberg asked W. Randall Baudin II if the document by Lanford was true. W. Randall Baudin II said, "That's what it says".

178. Dulberg mentions Malpractice against Popovich to Baudin (for the first time?)

179. W. Randall Baudin II responded, "...".

180. On December 12, 2016 the following exchange took place in the 22nd Judicial circuit Court:[1]

APPEARANCES:

(NO APPEARANCES GIVEN)

> UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Number five, Dulberg. I talked to Baudin & Baudin this morning -- or Baudin Law Group, and Randy Baudin indicated to me he's going to be in another county and his wife's out of state, but they're agreeable with me getting a dismissal with prejudice based on the fact that we've had a binding mediation on Thursday and we're expecting an award.
> THE COURT: Wonderful. All right.
> UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Thank you.
> THE COURT: I'll be curious what the award was. All right. Thank you.

199. According to the U.S. Bankruptcy Code, Section 726 – Distribution of property of the estate

> (a) Except as provided in section 510 of this title, property of the estate shall be distributed—
> (1) first, in payment of claims of the kind specified in, and in the order specified in, section 507 of this title, proof of which is timely filed under section 501 of this title or tardily filed on or before the earlier of—
> (A) the date that is 10 days after the mailing to creditors of the summary of the trustee's final report; or
> (B) the date on which the trustee commences final distribution under this section;
>
> (2) second, in payment of any allowed unsecured claim, other than a claim of a kind specified in paragraph (1), (3), or (4) of this subsection, proof of which is—
> (A) timely filed under section 501(a) of this title;
>
> (B) timely filed under section 501(b) or 501(c) of this title; or
>
> (C) tardily filed under section 501(a) of this title, if—
> (i) the creditor that holds such claim did not have notice or actual knowledge of the case in time for timely filing of a proof of such claim under section 501(a) of this title; and

(ii) proof of such claim is filed in time to permit payment of such claim;

(3) third, in payment of any allowed unsecured claim proof of which is tardily filed under section 501(a) of this title, other than a claim of the kind specified in paragraph (2)(C) of this subsection;

(4) fourth, in payment of any allowed claim, whether secured or unsecured, for any fine, penalty, or forfeiture, or for multiple, exemplary, or punitive damages, arising before the earlier of the order for relief or the appointment of a trustee, to the extent that such fine, penalty, forfeiture, or damages are not compensation for actual pecuniary loss suffered by the holder of such claim;

(5) fifth, in payment of interest at the legal rate from the date of the filing of the petition, on any claim paid under paragraph (1), (2), (3), or (4) of this subsection; and

(6) sixth, to the debtor.

200. Dulberg, as the debtor, was the Sole Residuary Beneficiary of the bankruptcy estate. If the first 5 types of claimants listed in section 726 are paid in full, Dulberg becomes the sole claimant to any remaining money and therefore the sole Sole Residuary Beneficiary of what remains of the bankruptcy estate.

201. Randall Baudin II and Kelly Baudin and The Baudin Law Group were retained by the trustee to represent the bankruptcy estate and Dulberg was the Sole Residuary Beneficiary of all funds in the estate once the first 5 types of claimants listed in section 726 have been paid in full. Therefore Randall Baudin II, Kelly Baudin and The Baudin Law Group acting as legal counsel for the estate owed a duty of due care to Dulberg when acting in this capacity.

202. On December 16, 2016 Dulberg hired legal malpractice attorney Thomas Gooch.[1]

203. Dulberg told Gooch that he was forced into binding mediation and he refused to sign any binding mediation agreement.[2]

204. On January 3, 2017, Trustee Joseph Olsen filed "NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND OTHER PARTIES OF INTEREST" which contains the of binding mediation award and notice of motion to disburse $117,000 to W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin and $15,000 to Dulberg and to pay certain attorneys and medical liens.[3]

205. Baudins profited $117,084.63[4] from Dulberg's bankruptcy estate plus a non-refundable retainer fee of $3,331.33 paid directly by Dulberg to the Baudins totaling $120,415.96.

206. The Baudins received an overpayment of $21,085.96 according to provisions found in the 4 Group Exhibit 37-bankruptcy_docket_Petition # 14-83578/

fee agreement.[1]

HOW DULBERG FIRST DISCOVERED FRAUDULENT ACTS BY BAUDINS

207. On October 25, 2019 the Clinton Law office issued a subpoena to Olsen.[2]

208. On December 2, 2019 Olsen responded "informally" to the Clinton subpoena and emailed documents.[3]

209. On February 10, 2020 Clinton sent Dulberg Olsen's response to the subpoena.[4] Dulberg noticed the following emails between Olsen and Randall Baudin:

> On October 31, 2016 at 10:41 AM Olsen < jolsenlaw@comcast.net> wrote: Randy- The Court authorized your appointment this morning, as well as entry into that "Binding Mediation Agreement"; Do you want the debtor to /s/ the form, or me as trustee? Let me know, thanks.[5]
> On October 31, 2016 at 10:50 AM Randy Baudin II <randybaudin2@gmail.com> responded, "You can good ahead sign it. Thank you so much."[6]

210. When Dulberg read Baudin tell Olsen to sign the proposed Binding Mediation Agreement, this seemed reasonable to Dulberg since Dulberg was told by the Baudin Defendants that it was the Bankruptcy Judge, who forced Dulberg's personal injury case into the Binding Mediation Agreement and it was Olsen who had standing and was approved to enter into binding mediation. As anyone would, Dulberg assumed Olsen signed the ADR agreement from the conversation and the resulting Binding Mediation that took place on 12/8/2016 at ADR SYSTEMS OF AMERICA, LLC.

211. However this exchange shows something entirely different:

a. Trustee Olsen is asking Baudin if Baudin wants the asset/claim to revert back to the DEBTOR or remain part of the ESTATE by asking "Do you want the debtor to /s/ the form, or me as trustee?".

b. Baudin's response is, "You can good ahead sign it." meaning the ESTATE.

212. In Fact:

a) The executed Binding Mediation agreement does not have Trustee Olsen's signature.

b) Trustee Olsen did not act and sign on the advice of his special counsel the Baudins.

c) Trustee Olsen did not "pursue" and "exercise control "over the claim as the Baudin Defendants assert.

d) The personal injury asset appears to be and is abandoned by Trustee Olsen.

e) Abandoned assets reverts back to the DEBTOR.

f) The DEBTOR was represented by attorney David Stretch and not the Baudin Defendants.

g) The Baudin Defendants were approved and hired as Special Counsel for the Estate and in such a capacity had no standing to execute a Binding Mediation Agreement for the DEBTOR.

h) The only party with standing over abandoned assets is now the DEBTOR.

i) The signature page on the Executed Binding Mediation Agreement does not belong to the other pages in the executed Binding Mediation Agreement.

j) ADR SYSTEMS OF AMERICA, LLC. facilitated fraud by failing to take the necessary steps to ensure the signers had standing.

k) Trustee Olsen and the Baudins collected the monies paid out by Allstate after ABANDONING the ASSET that reverted back to the DEBTOR.

213. On September 26, 2022 4:21 PM Dulberg received the 10/31/2016 Bankruptcy Courts Report of Proceeding. Dulberg forwarded the report of proceeding to his attorney Alphonse Talarico stating: "Lets talk after you digest what happened in this one." Dulberg discovered that Trustee Olsen misled the the Honorable Judge Thomas M. Lynch in the transcript.[1]

214. On October 28, 2022 Dulberg received a copy of the executed Binding Mediation Agreement[2] on file with ADR SYSTEMS OF AMERICA, LLC. expecting to see the Trustee Olsens' signature. Instead Dulberg saw his own signature on the executed Binding Mediation Agreement and he knew he never signed the Binding Mediation Agreement. This is when Dulberg first knew:

a) Dulberg's signature is on the executed Binding Mediation Agreement on file with ADR SYSTEMS OF AMERICA, LLC. and Dulberg knew he refused to sign the contract and did not sign the contract. (Discovered on October 28, 2022)

b) Trustee Olsen misled the bankruptcy Judge, "There may be some issues about the debtor being a good witness or not", "he didn't seem to want to go through a jury process", "he liked this process" basically that Dulberg was in agreement with the Binding Mediation Agreement (Discovered on September 26, 2022)

215. On October 28, 2022 Dulberg launched a full scale investigation into the signature's found in the executed Binding Mediation Agreement and quickly found that the signature page does not belong to the rest of the body of the executed Binding Mediation Agreement but is an exact match to the proposed Binding Mediation Agreement approved by the Bankruptcy court.[1]

216. Dulberg first learned that (a) his signature was fraudulently placed on the ADR contract (Discovered on October 28, 2022) and (b) the Bankruptcy Trustee misrepresented Dulberg's consent to the Bankruptcy Judge (discovered on September 26, 2022) and Dulberg believes the discovery of his signature on the ADR contract is when the statute of limitations should be tolled.

217. In order to understand the context of Dulberg's 12/12/2016 statement "Yeah, you two did good, real good, and I thank both of you sincerely. I just can't help it, what I see here is a gift of $261,000 given to those responsible for my injuries." it is important to know the history behind it.

a. On 1/22/2014 When Dulberg was represented by Hans Mast and the Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich P.C., the co-defendants (McGuires) in 12LA178 were inexplicably dismissed with prejudice even though the McGuire's employed their son/step-son Gagnon and were vicariously liable for anything Gagnon could not pay.

b. On 12/12/2016 When Dulberg learned of the Binding Mediation Award and how much he could not collect, his mind instantly went back to the dismissed defendants (McGuire's) that would have been vicariously liable for any monies Gagnon could not pay if they were still in the case. Dulberg realized the pecuniary injury the Popovich law firm caused. Dulberg talked with Randall Baudin II about the issue of the McGuire's release and Randall Baudin told Dulberg to call his office in the morning and his secretary Myrna would provide Dulberg with the contact of a Legal Malpractice Attorney the Baudins have used in the past and Dulberg could go see.

c. On 12/16/2016 Dulberg met with Thomas Gooch, the Legal Malpractice Attorney the Baudins recommended Dulberg see.

d. On 11/28/2017 Thomas Gooch filed suit (17LA377) against Hans Mast and the Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich P.C for Legal Malpractice in 12LA178, specifically for the release of the McGuire defendants, that case is currently on appeal in the 2nd District Case No 2230072.

218. Dulberg was affixing the pecuniary injury of $261,000.00 to the previous firm and the release of the McGuire defendants in his statement when making the 12/12/2016 statement.

219. When on December 12, 2016 Dulberg told the Baudins, "Yeah, you two did good, real good, and I thank both of you sincerely. I just can't help it, what I see here is a gift of $261,000 given to those responsible for my injuries. ", he clearly did not know about the fraudulent acts the Baudins were committing toward him. Dulberg clearly did not know the following:

(a) That Dulberg's signature was fraudulently placed on the Executed Binding Mediation Agreement executed 4 days earlier on December 8, 2016.

(b) That Trustee Olsen misrepresented Dulberg's consent to the Bankruptcy Judge on

1 Exhibit A6-DULBERG 10-31-16-1.pdf

October 31, 2016.

(c) That Allstate, the Baudins and Trustee Olsen knew Dulberg had no standing to pursue the case 12LA178 while the case was under an automatic stay.

(d) That Allstate, the Baudins and Trustee Olsen all knew the case 12LA178 proceeded in the Circuit Court in violation of the automatic stay.

(e) That the Baudins by agreement with Allstate, in violation of the automatic stay, before the Baudins were approved to be hired as special counsel under Trustee Olsen, misrepresented Dulberg as agreeing to Binding Mediation in Circuit Court on August 10, 2016 and asked Associate Judge Meyer to delay the next status hearing to December 12, 2016 after the binding mediation was to take place on December 8, 2016.

(f) That the Baudins' and Allstate's acts in violation of the automatic stay, started laying the groundwork as early as June 16, 2016 and finally set the binding mediation date for December 8, 2016 on August 10, 2016 in the Circuit Court. This happened before Trustee Olsen was even appointed to the position on August 31, 2016 and before Trustee Olsen received permission from the Honorable Judge Thomas M. Lynch, to hire the Baudins' as special counsel and permission to enter into the proposed capped Binding Mediation Agreement on October 31, 2016.

(g) That the Baudins filed their APPEARANCE as REGULAR COUNSEL in 12LA178 on 11/6/2015 in violation of the automatic stay.

(h) That there is no APPEARANCE filed by the Baudin Defendants that is not VOID in case 12LA178.

(i) That the Baudin Defendants' failed to file an APPEARANCE to represent the bankruptcy estate in case 12LA178 after being hired as special counsel by Trustee Olsen.

(j) That Trustee Olsen received permission from the Bankruptcy court to enter into the proposed Binding Mediation Agreement and later made a choice. Trustee Olsen did not act and sign on the advice of his special counsel the Baudins.

(k) That Trustee Olsen did not "pursue" and "exercise control "over the claim/asset and in doing so Abandoned the asset and it reverted back to the DEBTOR.

(l) The Baudin Defendants were approved and hired as Special Counsel for the Estate and in such a capacity had no standing to execute a Binding Mediation Agreement for the DEBTOR.

(m) The only party with standing over abandoned assets is now the DEBTOR.

(n) That there can be no agreement between Allstate and the Baudin Defendants acting as counsel for the bankruptcy estate to have the case dismissed with prejudice in the circuit court on December 12, 2016 since the Baudins failed to file any appearance anywhere that is not VOID and had no standing since they did not represent the DEBTOR.

(o) Trustee Olsen and the Baudins collected the monies paid out by Allstate after ABANDONING the ASSET that then reverted back to the DEBTOR.

220. Dulberg did not know any of this fraud took place when he was awarded $660,000 in the capped Binding Mediation but Allstate, Trustee Olsen and the Baudins must have known. At that time Dulberg believed that the Bankruptcy Judge forced the case into a capped Binding Mediation without Dulberg's consent because that is what the Baudins told Dulberg. Dulberg stating "Yeah, you two did good, real good, and I thank both of you sincerely. I just can't help it, what I see here is a gift of $261,000 given to those responsible for my injuries." just after learning of the capped Binding Mediation Award and that cannot be interpreted as Dulberg knowing about the fraudulent concealment listed as (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), (h), (i), (j), (k), (l), (m), (n), (o) at that time. He was not happy about not being able to collect all that he was awarded, but that does not mean he knew or could have known about the fraudulent concealment listed as (a) through (o).

221. On December 8, 2016 Dulberg filed a complaint against the Baudins, Joseph Olsen, Allstate, ADR Systems, [1]

APPENDIX A

222. On November 7, 2017 at 5:25 PM Plaintiff Dulberg sent a text message to Defendant W. Randall Baudin II stating:[2] "hi Randy, its Paul Dulberg, just recieved a call from Randy Sr. Please call me. Thanks, Paul"

223. On November 7, 2017 at 5:48 PM Defendant W. Randall Baudin II sent a text message to Plaintiff Dulberg stating:[3] "What did he want?"

224. Dulberg later took notes of the conversation from memory. He intended to send the notes to Gooch. He wrote an email to himself to record the notes.

225. On November 9, 2017 at 6:04:03 PM CST Dulberg wrote an email from the address pdulberg@comcast.net to Paul_Dulberg@comcast.net which states:[4]

> Below are a few of the key points that stick out to me. they are in no particular order and the wording is not exact because his questions were fast and he was jumping from subject to subject, its just some of the things I remember him saying and asking as well as how I replied.

Randy Baudin SR. was all over the board with his questions and this is my best recollection of the call. He did wake me from a dead sleep with the call and caught me completely off guard. In retrospect, I was not prepared for this and some of the questions I probably shouldn't have answered. Particularly the ones about the Defendants Caroline and Bill McGuire and about Tom Popovich and Hans Mast.

RBS. Randy Baudin Sr. Introduced himself as the head of baudin and baudin law firm who handled my case and asked if i see its him on my caller id. He also said his assistant was there with him.

PD. I said if its on the caller id than i got it and would have to look later.

RBS. He than said that Thomas Gooch had contacted him and needed some documents and information and that in order to provide that information it is important for me to help fill in some of the blanks or he is in trouble. I said ok because I trusted the baudin firm and Thomas Gooch.

RBS. asked how it was that I came to his firm?

PD. I told him my Mom suggested him because he represented my brother a few decades earlier and that she swears by him because hes willing to fight for his clients

RBS. he asked what case he represented my brother in

PD. I told him that my brother was a passenger in a car that rolled over and that he had taken it to the appellate level

RBS. He asked how it was that Randy Jr took the case and why I didnt Meet with him

PD. I said im not sure why we didnt meet with you, its been a long time since then, all I remember was going to your office and being introduced to Randy Jr.

RBS He asked if it was at the office down near algonquin and lake in the hills

PD I said yes

RBS. Pressed me a few times as to the details of why I didnt meet with him rather than His son.

PD. I figured you were either busy or not in but for whatever reason Randy Jr met with my Mom and I instead. I just figured your all part of the same firm and my mom trusted you.

RBS thanked me and my mom for the high praise.

RBS asked if i had dealt with Kelly and Myrna as well

PD I said yes

RBS said something about his son, Randy JR, Randy JR's wife and Myrna were stealing cases from him

PD I said what is all this about?

RBS replied, oh now your asking me the questions now

PD I said well yeah is everything ok, whats wrong?

RBS said something about being involved in a 7 digit case and that Randy JR was taking cases that he didnt know about.

PD I said Im sorry about all that, I had no idea, is that what this is all about?

RBS asked did you and your mother come to see me?

PD I said at first yes but we ended up Meeting with his son Randy JR

RBS asked if i had met with Randy in Crystal lake and he gave a location

PD I said well yes they said they wanted to meet me at that office at times, why?

RBS asked if Myrna was at that location

PD I said well yes

RBS asked if my mom was doing well

PD I said yes

RBS asked if i liked village squire

PD I said yes

RBS told me to go there on either monday or tuesday because they have half price burgers

RBS gave me his phone numbers, had me write them down, said he would be in touch with me in the future and said he might take me to the village squire sometime.

RBS asked about the case alot

RBS wanted to know what happened, he started asking questions too fast, he asked if it was my dominate arm

PD I told him a basic version of what I knew. I was asked by David if i could use some wood from a tree he was cutting down at his mothers house. I told Dave i would stop by in the morning and see what he had. the next day I went there. His Mother and I got to talking about the people we used to work with while Dave and Bill worked at the tree. Bill got tired after a while and needed to quit. Dave started saying he needed help because he couldn't do it by himself. His mother looked at me and asked if I could help, Dave said come on man help me your just sitting there and all i need you to do is hold branches so they dont move, its easy. besides I helped clean up at your dads when he redid his roof 20 years ago. I said ok, I guess. I got up and helped. everything was going fine for a while then Dave did something stupid and hit the gas while he swung the chainsaw at me, I couldn't get out of its way and he cut my arm in half. The Dr in the ER said I would Have died if I didnt get medical treatment. That is one emergency room trip you never want to take.

RBS oh, im so sorry.

Was it your dominate arm, is it ok?

PD yes its my dominate arm, they put it back togeter but it doesnt work well

RBS how many surguries

PD 3

RBS who were the doctors?

PD do you mean the emergency room dr's?

RBS uh whas it the... yes the er surgion

PD um i remember the name Dr. Ford

RBS ok Ill have a talk with him. who else?

PD um i remember Dr sagerman and Dr Kujawa, I still see her

RBS was it at northwestern?

PD um i dont remember that name but for some reason i remember northwest community but im...

RBS Dr. Kujawa where

RBS ok. Your ok or are you in pain?

PD I have pains

RBS are you on a drip?

PD no nothing like that

RBS You know i know some great Dr's I could send you to see, and he went on about some indian dr and someone he sent there

PD no, no thats ok, ive seen what feels like an army of Dr's already RBS you sure, I can get you their names, hold on while i get...

PD no thats ok Im good with who im seeing

RBS well ok then but im just saying if you want it

PD Im good

RBS ok so i understand you had some sort of arbitration downtown (and he gave a description of the place in chicago)

PD yes it was um I think they called it a binding arbitration but im not sure

RBS it says here 600K no um 300K was it and it looks like its capped

PD um I dont remember any caps but...

RBS

RBS I'm part native american

pd huh

RBS im just joking about that, i made it up

RBS started talking about his relationship with Tom Popovich said he and Tom go way back. He asked why I was suing Tom.

PD Because he had Hans Mast lie to me

RBS oh Hans, I know him, Good Guy

PD Thats debatable

RBS what happened with Hans?

PD Hans lied to me about many things. To start he lied about the Mothers homeowners insurance Policy. Hans Said they would file a summary judgement the next morning at 9 AM and I would get absolutely nothing but if I signed this he could get me 5k on some part of the policy that pays that amount irregardless of who gets hurt on their property. We argued but He even showed me case law that he said was the law of the land and if I didnt take it I wouldnt get anything. something about 3rd party persons on the property. He also said if i didnt sign it his firm would drop me in the suit against the son David Gagnon. and later on he said you cant blame me i was just doing what the boss said to do and if I didnt like it i could take it up with big Tom the owner of the firm. well I'd hate to break it to Hans but just doing what the boss told me to do is not a valid excuse and never has been when its unethical.

RBS well now wait a minute Hans is a good guy I know Hans.

PD Im sure you do have a good relation with Hans but Good people do bad things all the time and Hans is no exception.

RBS This Gagnon Guy, um

His secretary said, he knew him

RBS you knew this Gagnon Guy

PD Yes

RBS Ok so your complaint is that Popovich had you sign a release against the Mothers Homeowners policy?

PD Thats one of my complaints yes

RBS what else

PD well I learned they never actually pulled either policy, lied to me about the limits which caused me to go over and file for bankruptcy which I would never would have done had they not lied. I lost everything.

RBS They cant let one party go

PD what is that true

RBS there is case law that says you cant let one party go in a lawsuit and keep suing the other party involved if both are named.

PD i didnt know that but thats what they did. then to further the harm popovich dropped my case after they tried to get me to mediate for only 50k and i wouldnt do it."

227. The original malpractice lawsuit, filed by Thomas Gooch on October, 2017, claimed damages in excess of $50,000[1] against the Law Office of Thomas J. Popovich and against Hans Mast.[2]

a) Gooch did not allow Dulberg to read the complaint before filing it with the Court.

b) Gooch did not include Thomas J. Popovich, individually as a Defendant.

c) Thomas Gooch did not mention anything about the bankruptcy in the complaint

d) Thomas Gooch did not mention that Dulberg never agreed to enter into binding mediation and never signed any agreement in the complaint.

e) Gooch never mentioned to Dulberg that W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin, the Baudin Law Group or Baudin & Baudin did anything inappropriate or that Dulberg has a malpractice claim against the Baudins.

228. Dulberg's experiences with Thomas Gooch and Sabina Walczyk are described in "Exhibit 4_Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Gooch-Walczyk Representation".

Members of the ARDC Committee,

ARDC Complaints were previously submitted:

Edward X. Clinton No. 2023IN02517 (submitted on July 27, 2023)

Julia C. Williams No. 2023IN02518 (submitted on July 27, 2023)

Thomas J. Popovich No. 2023IN03135 (submitted on September 15, 2023)

Hans Mast No. 2023IN03136 (submitted on September 15, 2023)

The legal malpractice attorneys Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams collaborated with opposing counsel to conceal from Dulberg what the personal injury attorneys did to Dulberg. The Baudins covered for Popovich, Mast and Balke. Gooch then covered for Popovich, Mast Balke, the Baudins. Clinton and Williams then covered for Popovich Mast, Balke, the Baudins, and Gooch-Walczyk.

The ARDC Complaints against Popovich and Mast describe how Popovich and Mast:[1]

- Redirected medical lien liability from the Defendants to Plaintiff
- Forged documents and destroyed evidence
- Corrupted the interrogatory and document production process to sabotage client's case and to benefit defendants (in collaboration with opposing attorneys)
- Suppressed information on mental health issues related to Dulberg's injury
- Corrupted the deposition process to sabotage client's case and to benefit defendants (in collaboration with opposing attorneys)
- Knew Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted to negligence for Dulberg's injury
- Knew Defendant Gagnon committed perjury
- Knew Defendant Carolyn McGuire committed perjury
- Committed settlement fraud

1 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of "ARDC Complaint Against Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast"

- Violated federal bankruptcy laws

The ARDC Complaint against Balke describes how:[2]

- Balke contracted with Dulberg and not with the Bankruptcy Trustee
- Balke told Dulberg (about 11 weeks later) he would withdraw counsel if Dulberg does not settle with Allstate for $50,000
- Balke violated federal bankruptcy laws

The Baudins were retained by Dulberg after Dulberg fired Balke. The Baudins:[3]

- Contracted with Dulberg instead of with the Bankruptcy Trustee
- Moved to cap the value of PI case 12LA178
- Closed the deal with an upper cap of $300,000
- Coerced Dulberg to agree and misinformed him of where the 'upper cap' came from
- Moved to contract with Bankruptcy Trustee only after capping value of 12LA178
- Misled Bankruptcy Judge that Dulberg wants Binding Mediation (about 11 weeks after the deal was closed)

Additionally:

- Dulberg's signature was forged onto the ADR Binding Mediation Agreement
- Dulberg was coerced into signing Allstate Release

Dulberg retained legal malpractice attorney Gooch-Walczyk. After firing Gooch Dulberg retained legal malpractice attorneys Clinton-Williams.

The legal malpractice attorneys worked as a team to cover for the PI attorneys. For this reason it is not possible to fully understand what Gooch and Walczyk did and how they got away with it without understanding that they were covering for Popovich and Mast, Balke and the Baudins and being covered by legal malpractice attorneys Clinton-Williams.

The ARDC Complaint against Clinton and Williams describe how Clinton and Williams:[4]

- Suppressed large numbers of documents

and how they collaborated with opposing counsel to benefit the defendants and sabotage Dulberg's case by:

2 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of "ARDC Complaint Against Brad J. Balke"

3 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of "ARDC Complaint Against Kelly N. Baudin and William Randall Baudin II"

4 All listed items are linked to supporting evidence on page 1 of "ARDC Complaint against Edward X. Clinton and Julia C. Williams"

- Concealing Dulberg's bankruptcy
- Suppressing emails from Saul Ferris
- Suppressing key evidence (Tilschner v Spangler certified slip ruling)
- Suppressing large numbers of emails from Brad Balke
- Collaborating with opposing attorney to flood Dulberg with over 6,000 documents just before withdrawing as Dulberg's counsel
- Suppressing all information on what the Baudins did to Dulberg
- Suppressing evidence that Defendant Gagnon effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as early as March, 2013.
- Collaborating with opposing counsel to suppress Barch documents before Dulberg's deposition
- Collaborating with opposing counsel to weaken verification pages of discovery production
- Collaborating with opposing counsel during the deposition of Hans Mast and after

In addition, the ARDC Complaint against Gooch describe Gooch-Walczyk and Clinton-Williams:[5]

- Concealing key evidence in collaboration with each other (Tilschner v Spangler certified slip ruling)
- Concealing admission of negligence of Defendant Gagnon for Dulberg's injury in underlying case 12LA178 in collaboration with each other
- Concealing Bankruptcy and Violations of Federal Bankruptcy Laws (automatic stay, loss of standing to pursue claim, capping value of assets in BK estate, ect) in collaboration with each other
- Concealing true sources of $300,000 upper cap on the value of the PI claim in collaboration with each other
- Intentionally confusing Statute of Limitations toll date, date of "injury", and placing Dulberg's privileged attorney-client communications at issue in collaboration with each other

Chapter 1: THOMAS GOOCH CONTROL OF DULBERG'S LEGAL MALPRACTICE CASE 17LA377

Relevant Facts:

1. "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178" details how Popovich and Mast:

a) Represented Dulberg in 22nd Judicial Circuit Court even though an automatic stay was in place.

b) Did not sign any agreement with the Bankrupty trustee (who he knew has standing as plaintiff in the case once Dulberg declared bankruptcy)

c) Knew that Gagnon already effectively admitted to negligence for Dulberg's injury

d) Never insisted that Gagnon answer interrogatories

e) Tried to get Dulberg to agree to Allstate settlement for $50,000 or less (while an automatic stay was in place)

2. After Popovich and Mast resigned Dulberg hired Brad Balke. Balke also:

a) Contracted with Dulberg even though he knew Dulberg had no standing as plaintiff in the case.

b) Agreed to take the case to trial when contracting.

c) Represented Dulberg in 22nd Judicial Circuit Court even though the automatic stay was in place.

d) Did not sign any agreement with Bankrupty trustee. (who he knew had standing as plaintiff in the case)

e) Knew or should have known that Gagnon already effectively admitted to negligence for Dulberg's injury.

f) Tried to get Dulberg to agree to Allstate settlement for $50,000 or less. (while an automatic stay was in place)

3. After firing Balke, Dulberg hired the Baudins. The Baudins also:

a) Contracted with Dulberg even though they knew Dulberg had no standing as plaintiff in the case. (the third consecutive law firm to do so)

b) Agreed to take the case to trial when contracting. (the third consecutive law firm to do so)

c) Represented Dulberg in 22nd Judicial Circuit Court even though the automatic stay was in place (the third consecutive law firm to do so)

d) Did not sign any agreement with Bankrupty trustee who they knew had standing as plaintiff in the case from September 22, 2015 to October 31, 2016. (the third consecutive law firm to do so)

e) Knew or should have known that Gagnon already effectively admitted to negligence for Dulberg's injury. (the third consecutive law firm to do so)

f) Worked with Allstate to successfully place an 'upper cap' on the value of PI 12LA178. (while an automatic stay was in place)

These actions are summarized in Table 2 below

TABLE 2: STRATEGIES AND METHODS OF 5 LAW FIRMS RETAINED BY DULBERG

ATTORNEY	STRATEGY	METHODS
Popovich & Mast Personal Injury Case 12LA178	Plaintiff's attorney intentionally weakens or sabotages plaintiff's case	Destruction and concealment of evidence Forged signatures Staged depositions (depositions with no actual court reporter present) Knew defendant Gagnon already admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury Worked in violation of federal bankruptcy court automatic stay to force a settlement against client's wishes Represented a client when they knew client had no standing as plaintiff in court Tried to put a cap of $50,000 on the remaining case (Described in detail in "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178")
Balke Personal Injury Case 12LA178	Plaintiff's attorney intentionally weakens or sabotages plaintiff's case	Knew defendant Gagnon already admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury Worked in violation of federal bankruptcy court automatic stay to force a settlement against client's wishes Represented client when they knew client had no standing as plaintiff in court Tried to put a cap of $50,000 on the remaining case
The Baudins Personal Injury Case 12LA178	Plaintiff's attorney intentionally weakens or sabotages plaintiff's case	Forgery Knew defendant Gagnon already admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury Worked in violation of federal bankruptcy court automatic stay to force a capped binding mediation agreememt against client's wishes Represented client when they knew client had no standing as plaintiff in court Placed a cap of $300,000 on the remaining case
Gooch Legal Malpractice Case 17LA377	Plaintiff's attorney intentionally weakens or sabotages plaintiff's case	Said he would file lawsuit in 7 days but actually filed more than 11 months later Gooch law office did not even scan client's files into digital form for 6 months Knew defendant Gagnon already admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury Suppression of information on bankruptcy, Baudin and Popovich negligence Filed 2 complaints which intentionally included a 'trap door' to allow defendants to get out of the case on 2-619 and 2-615 summary judgment (Described in detail in this document)
Clinton & Williams Legal Malpractice Case 17LA377	Plaintiff's attorney intentionally weakens or sabotages plaintiff's case	Massive and sophisticated suppression of key evidence and information during pleadings and discovery document disclosure process Knew defendant Gagnon already admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury (Described in detailed in "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation")

4. All successive attorneys to the same (fully disabled) client used the same overall strategy: To intentionally weaken or sabotage their own client's case. All three personal injury attorneys retained by Dulberg acted in violation of the automatic stay. They continued to appear in the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court (which operated for approximately 25 months in violation of the automatic stay) claiming to represent Dulberg (who had no standing as plaintiff). All 3 PI attorneys made efforts to place a cap on the remaining case without having any authority from the Bankruptcy Court to do so. Both legal malpractice attorneys suppressed all information of how all 3 PI law firms violated federal bankruptcy laws from Dulberg and from the complaints.

5. All five law firms (3 personal injury law firms and 2 legal malpractice law firms) knew or could easily discover that the personal injury defendant (who was operating the chainsaw that injured Dulberg) Gagnon effectively admitted negligence for Dulberg's injury as of early March, 2013. None of the 5 law firms ever informed Dulberg of this. The original defendant and operator of the chainsaw, Gagnon, admitted to being negligent:

> About 10 months before Dulberg was coerced into settling with the owners of the property (the McGuires) on which the accident occurred and for whom Gagnon was working.
>
> About 21 months before Dulberg declared bankruptcy.
>
> About 39 months before any binding mediation agreement with Gagnon was mentioned.
> About 40 months before any cap was placed on any binding mediation award from Gagnon.

6. There was no reason for any of these activities to take place if the defendant who operated the chainsaw already admitted to being negligent.

7. On December 12, 2016 Randall Baudin recommended Dulberg contact his office and ask Myrna for the name of the legal malpractice attorney they use.

8. On or about December 13, 2016 Myrna Boyce provided Dulberg with the contact information for Thomas Gooch and Dulberg first contacted Thomas Gooch the same day.

9. Dulberg first met with Thomas Gooch on December 16, 2016. Dulberg's brother Thomas Kost also attended the meeting.

10. Dulberg told Gooch about his bankruptcy. Dulberg told Gooch that he was forced into a binding mediation process by the bankruptcy Trustee and Judge.

11. At the first meeting Dulberg explained to Thomas Gooch that an arbitration judge awarded $560,000 but Dulberg could only collect $300,000. Dulberg told Gooch that he never agreed to be entered into binding mediation and he refused to sign the agreement so his signature cannot be found on any agreement.

12. Dulberg gave Gooch a copy of the unsigned mediation agreement.[1]

13. Dulberg gave Gooch a certified slip ruling of the Tilschner v Spangler decision[2] dated the

1 Exhibit 106_33391BMAG - Dulberg v. Gagnon Rvsd. - 12-8-16 (00600056xB3A5A).pdf
2 Exhibit 107_2013-11-20_certified slip ruling of Tilschner v Spangler Mast gave Dulberg.pdf day the ruling was issued, May 6, 2011. Gooch looked up Tilschner v Spangler on his computer, gave the certified slip copy of Tilschner v Spangler back to Dulberg, and told Dulberg he did not need the document because he already has access to the decision through the internet.

14. At the first meeting Dulberg explained to Thomas Gooch that Mast's legal theory of why property owners (the McGuires) were not liable for Dulberg's injury was because the Restatement of Torts 318 is not applicable in Illinois as demonstrated in the case of Tilschner v Spangler.

15. Dulberg explained to Thomas Gooch that Mast explained his legal theory to Dulberg at a meeting with a witness present and with the witness taking notes.

16. Gooch gave Dulberg other documents[1] at their first meeting.

17. On the subject of statute of limitations, Gooch told Dulberg and his brother, Thomas Kost, that the 2 year statute of limitations begins to toll immediately as of Dulberg's first meeting with Gooch. Specializing in legal malpractice, Gooch can be considered an 'expert' on the subject of attorney liability, and therefore Dulberg's first meeting with Gooch establishes the time when Dulberg first "knew" Popovich and Mast breached a duty of care and caused a pecuniary injury. Dulberg and his brother, Thomas Kost, were informed by Gooch that the 2 year statute of limitations begins on December 16, 2016 because this is when Dulberg first learned (from Gooch himself) that he has a valid claim against Popovich and Mast.

18. Gooch did not mention to Dulberg that W. Randal Baudin II and Kelly Baudin, the Baudin Law Group or Baudin & Baudin did anything inappropriate or that Dulberg has a malpractice claim against the Baudins.

19. Gooch did not mention anything about an automatic stay. In fact, Gooch has never mentioned anything about any automatic stay applying to the underlying personal injury case.

20. On December 16, 2016 Gooch produced an ATTORNEY-CLIENT RETAINER AGREEMENT ADVANCED FEE WAIVER.[2]

21. The agreement is signed by Paul R. Dulberg and THOMAS W. GOOCH for GAUTHIER and GOOCH.

22. Thomas Gooch entered into an attorney client relationship with Dulberg.

23. Based upon the attorney client relationship, Thomas Gooch and any other attorneys working for his firm owed professional duties to Dulberg, including a duty of care.

24. The agreement stated:

"This is an Agreement you, Paul R. Dulberg of 4606 Haydew Court, McHenry, Illinois,

1 Exhibit 108_2016-12-16_Gooch 1st meeting Documents.pdf
2 Exhibit 109_2016-12-16_Gooch Retainer.pdf

and I, THOMAS W. GOOCH, of THE LAW OFFICES OF GAUTHIER and GOOCH, have made this 16th day of December, 2016."

25. Section 1 of the agreement stated:

"ENGAGEMENT AGREEMENT - You agree to retain and engage me to represent you in relation to a certain matter relating to an excessive fees case against Thomas J. Popovich, the Law Offices of Thomas J. popovich, P.., and his nominees, you authorize me to appear in any lawsuit which may be filed in this matter, to enter into discussions toward settlement or compromise of any such litigation, or to proceed as I deem advisable with your approval."

26. Section 7 of the letter stated:

"SETTLEMENT - I will not make any settlement of your case without your consent, nor will any proceedings be filed in court without your prior knowledge and consent unless necessary to protect you interests on an emergency basis."

27. On December 16, 2016 Thomas Gooch caused a letter[1] to sent to Thomas Popovich and the Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. at 3416 West Elm St, McHenry. The letterhead stated:

"Law Office Gauthier and Gooch 209 South Main St, Wauconda IL."

28. The letter stated:

"RE: Dulberg v Popovich, "Greetings, I have been retained by Paul R. Dulberg to represent him in a cause of action of legal malpractice against you for the mishandling of his case and the settlement of a specific portion of that case for substantially less than could have been obtained."

29. The letter also stated:

"You should aquaint the adjuster you speak with of my identity and if they so wish they may contact me. However, I intend to file suit against you in the next 7 days."[Emphasis added]

The letter is concluded:

"Very truly yours, Gauthier & Gooch" and is signed by Thomas W. Gooch III.

30. On December 21, 2016 Gooch was involved in the preparation of the Allstate Release Agreement signed by Dulberg.

1 Exhibit 108_2016-12-16_Gooch 1st meeting Documents.pdf, (page 4)

31. On December 27, 2016 at 11:39 AM Dulberg sent an email to David Stretch stating:[1]

"Hi Dave,

33. On December 27, 2016 at 4:11 PM Joe Olsen sent an email to David Stretch stating:[2]

"Dave-
You were going to re-check your notes and advise/amend schedules re potential malpractice claim? Can you let me know where you are at w/ the review etc.?"

34. On December 27, 2016 at 4:20 PM David Stretch sent an email to Joseph Olsen stating:[3]

"Joe,
I did check my notes and found nothing. At the time of filing Paul's attorney was the Popovitch firm, Hans Mast was the attorney. That information was disclosed on Schedule B, as you know. Because I couldn't find anything I emailed Paul and asked him to send me a copy of the complaint from any malpractice action he may have filed.
He responded today with a letter from Attorney Tom Gooch, Waukegan, to Mast, announcing that he, Gooch, intended to file a malpractice action within 7 days. The letter was dated December 16. I have received nothing further from Paul. I, minutes ago, forwarded that letter to you. I will let you know if I receive anything further.
Thanks,
Happy New Year
David L. Stretch"

35. The box of 12LA178 paper case files Dulberg left with Gooch just after their first meeting on December 16, 2016 were not scanned[4] into digital files the until June 26, 2017 to June 28, 2017.[5] (more than 6 months after Gooch wrote the letter to Popovich stating he intended to file suit within 7 days).

36. On November 8th or 9th, 2017 Randall Baudin Sr called Dulberg. After they talked on the phone, sent an email to himself in order to record notes of the conversation. He intended to send the notes to Gooch. Appendix 1 is a record of the exchange.[1]

37. On November 28, 2017 Thomas Gooch filed Dulberg's COMPLAINT AT LAW[2] (which was about 330 days from the time Gooch's letter stating "I intend to file suit within 7 days").

38. The defendants named in the complaint are "The Law Office of Thomas J. Popovich and Hans Mast" Thomas Gooch did not name Thomas J. Popovich individually as a defendant.

39. It is most likely common knowledge among legal malpractice attorneys that a legal malpractice complaint must include both:

1) Claim of how the attorney being sued is legally liable
2) Claim of how the opposing party in the underlying case is legally liable.

This is most likely true for the simple reason that an attorney cannot be held liable for losing a case that was not winnable anyway.

40. COMPLAINT AT LAW consists of 22 paragraphs. There is not a single point in any paragraph related to the duty of care the McGuires owed to Dulberg or any breach of that care (which is considered the"underlying case" or "case within a case" as all legal malpractice attorneys are undoubtably aware).

41. There is no point or paragraph in the complaint which required information to which Gooch did not have access 11 months earlier. There is no evidence that any research had been done from December 16, 2016 to November 28, 2017 that would have caused any delay in filing the COMPLAINT AT LAW.

42. Thomas Gooch did not refer at all to the legal theory (Tilschner v Spangler and the Restatement of Torts 318) which Mast gave to Dulberg to explain why Mast believed the McGuires were not liable for Dulberg's injury in the COMPLAINT AT LAW.

43. Gooch did not include any information about Brad J. Balke, W. Randall Baudin, Kelly Baudin, the Baudin Law Group, Baudin & Baudin or Trustee Olsen or name any of them as defendants. None of their names appeared in the complaint at all.

44. Thomas Gooch did not mention anything about Dulberg's bankruptcy in the complaint or about any attorney violating any automatic stay.

45. Thomas Gooch did not include the fact that Dulberg never agreed to enter into binding mediation and never signed any agreement in the complaint. In fact, in the complaint Gooch wrote that a "high-low agreement" had been "executed by Dulberg" in paragraph 16:

1 See Exhibit 3 Appendix A
2 Exhibit 111_2017-11-28_COMPLAINT AT LAW.pdf

16. Thereafter, DULBERG retained other attorneys and proceeded to a binding mediation before a retired Circuit Judge, where DULBERG received a binding mediation award of $660,000.00 in gross, and a net award of $561,000.00. Unfortunately, a "high-low agreement" had been executed by DULBERG, reducing the maximum amount he could recover to $300,000.00 based upon the insurance policy available. The award was substantially more than the sum of the money, and could have been recovered from the McGuire's had they not been dismissed from the complaint.[Emphasis added]

46. COMPLAINT AT LAW referred to Brad Balke, W. Randall Baudin, Kelly Baudin, Baudin Law Group, and Baudin & Baudin by the term "other attorneys" but never uses the word "Baudin" in any context.

47. Gooch knew or should have known that the CROSS-CLAIM[1] filed on February 1, 2013 by the McGuires against Gagnon was never answered by Gagnon since early March, 2013.

48. Gooch knew or should have known that Popovich and Mast, and Balke, and the Baudins also knew or should have known the CROSS-CLAIM filed by the McGuires against Gagnon was never answered.

49. On February 7, 2018 Defendants Popovich and Mast filed DEFENDANTS' COMBINED MOTION TO DISMISS[2]

50. Item 4 states:

"Dulberg fails to allege requisite facts in support of each and every element of the "underlying" case or "case within a case" against the McGuires".

The statement is true since Gooch completely ignored this issue in his 22 paragraph complaint.

51. Item 8 states:

"Dulberg has failed to file his legal malpractice complaint against Popovich and Mast within the two year statute of limitations period which shall begin to run at "the time the person bringing the action knew or reasonably should have known of the injury for which damages are sought."

52. Item 9 states:

"Here, the Plaintiff did not file his Legal Malpractice Complaint against Defendents until November 28, 2017, at least seven (7) months too late."

(By this statement the defendants imply that the statute of limitations begins to toll when Dulberg fired Popovich and Mast, in March, 2015.)

53. MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANTS' COMBINED MOTION TO DISMISS[1] Flynn page 5 states:

> "Dulberg fails to allege requisite facts in support of each and every element of the "underlying" case or "case within the case" against the McGuires". Simply put, Dulberg fails to plead any facts n support of his conclusions that there was some liability against the McGuires."

54. On March 27, 2018 Gooch filed PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO DEFENDANTS' COMBINED MOTION TO DISMISS. Rather than simply explain how the McGuires (the 'underlying case') were liable for Dulberg's injury as required by law, Gooch answered arguments of the defense motion to dismiss in the following ways:

> 1. A motion to Dismiss pursuant to section 2-615 attacks the legal sufficiency of the Complaint by alleging defects on its face. Weisblatt v. Colky, 265 Ill.App.#d 622, 625, 637 N.E.2d 1198, 1200 (1st Dist. 1994). Section 2-615 motions "raise but a single issue: whether, when taken as true, the facts alleged in the Complaint set forth a good and sufficient cause of action." Visvardis v. Ferleger 375 Ill.App.3d 719, 723, 873 N.E.2d 436, 440 (Ill.App.I Dist. 2007), quoting Scott Wetzel Services v. Regard, 271 Ill.App.3d 478, 480, 208 Ill. De. 98, 648 N.E.2d 1020 (1995).
> 2. When the legal sufficiency of a Complaint is challenged by a section 2-615 Motion to Dismiss, all well-pleaded facts in the Complaint are taken as true and a reviewing court must determine whether the allegations of the Complaint, construed in a light most favorable to the plaintiff, are sufficient to establish a cause of action upon which relief may be granted. Vitro v. Mihelcic, 209 Ill.2d 76, 81, 806 N.E.2d 1155, 1161 (2005). A cause of action should not be dismissed on the pleadings unless it clearly appears that no set of facts can be proved that will entitiled the plaintiff to recover. Zedella v. Gibson, 165 Ill.2d 181, 185, 650 N.E.2d 1000 (1995).

55. The only other section that is related to the 2-615 motion is section 7, which states:

> "Specifically, DULBERG properly established that "but for"the acts of the Defendants in urging DULBERG to release the McGuires, DULBERG suffered substantial damages."

56. Paragraph 10 states:

> "Defendants, in their Motion to Dismiss, are requiring of DULBERG to plead his entire case in a single Complaint."

57. Paragraph 11 states:

> "Plaintiff is not required to prove his case at this stage of the pleadings and the damages as alleged are sufficient to show he was damaged by Defendants' actions and cause of action for legal malpratice. Fox v. Seiden, supra, at 294; Platson v. NSM America, Inc., 322 Ill.App. 3d 138, 143 (2nd Dist., 2001)('Cases are not to be tried in the pleading stage, so a claimant need only show the possibility of recovery, not an absolute right to recover, to survive a 2-615 Motion.'). Here, DULBERG has shown at least a possibility of recovery based on the malpractice of POPOVICH, thus should survive Defendants' 2-615 Motion.

58. Paragraph 12 states:

> "The allegations set forth by DULBERG are not conclusions and are sufficient to sithstand a Section 2-615 dismissal. By looking at the Complaint, DULBERG has clearly set forth each of the elements of legal malpractice."

59. The above statements from PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO DEFENDANTS' COMBINED MOTION TO DISMISS[1] are the entire argument Gooch gives toward defeating the 2-615 motion.

60. Rather than simply listing the ways in which McGuires were liable for Dulberg's injury (as required by Illinois law) Gooch attempted to argue that such a simple list is not necessary. (It was a complaint with a "trap door" written into it. It was a complaint set up to fail.)

61. On April 12, 2018 Dulberg sent an email to Gooch and Margaret G. Buckley that stated:

> "I noticed part of the defense argument was centered around our response to "defendants combined motion to dismiss" #4. In there it states that; "DULBERG's gross award of $660,000 was cut to only $300,000 due to a high-low agreement that was executed as part of the McGuire settlement."
> " was executed as part of the McGuire settlement." must be a typo. "was accepted because of the McGuire settlement" is much closer to the truth.
> Im not exactly sure who or where the hi-low idea originated but I suspect it was Allstate Insurance for GAGNON. Randy Jr & Kelly Baudin would know the details.
> Should I contact them?"

Gooch never replied.

62. On May 10, 2018 defendents' 2-615 motion to dismiss Dulberg's complaint was granted. The reasons given were[2]...

> "Dulberg fails to allege requisite facts in support of each and every element of the "underlying" case or "case within a case" against the McGuires"[3]

Dulberg was given leave to file a first amended complaint.

1 Exhibit 115_2018-03-27_PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE.pdf
2 Exhibit 116_2018-05-10_ROP.pdf
3 Opposing counsel simply used the "trap door" written into the complaint by Gooch to be granted a Motion to Dismiss

63. Around May 20, 2018 Dulberg and Thomas Kost met with Sabina Walczyk just before the first amended complaint was to be filed by Gooch to discuss the complaint before filing it with the court.

Walczyk claimed that legally the discovery of the injury mentioned in 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3(b) was when Dulberg's previous attorneys (The Baudins) in the underlying case received the report from the chainsaw expert Dr Lanford created on Febuary 17, 2016 which stated in part "it is my opinion that Mr. Gagnon was fully responsible for this accident and his parents - the McGuires - were also somewhat responsible by letting their son, Mr. Gagnon, use their chainsaw - a potentially dangerous tool - without enforcing the warnings and instructions available in the owner's manual."

Walczyk insisted that legally Dulberg knew of the injury from the chainsaw expert's report and not the award amount because of the phrase "knew or reasonably should have known" found in 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3(b), an argument later used by Flynn.

Walczyk knew or should have known that:

a. A chansaw expert is not a legal expert when it comes to breaches in the standard of care, tolling a staute of limitation or when a 2 year statute of limitations begins for legal malpractice.

b. The injury had to be a quantifiable financial or pecuniary injury before Dulberg 'knew or reasonably should have known'.

c. That the discovery of the injury is not the discovery of the attorneys 'wrong doing' but rather the discovery of the 'pecuniary loss' that resulted from the attorneys 'wrong doing'.

d. That any cause of action filed for legal malpractice prior to the pecuniary injury on 12/12/2012 would be thown out because the financial loss for the attorney 'wrong doing' could not be quantified and the underlying case had not come to rest.

e. Dulberg and his bothers Thomas Kost were not attorneys and could not define the 'injury' mentioned in 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3(b) on their own and were completely reliant on their legal counsel to do such.

64. On June 7, 2018 FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW[1] was filed with the Court. The FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW consists of 32 paragraphs. The first 13 paragraphs are identical to the original complaint. There were (once again) no paragraphs related to the duty of care the McGuires owed to Dulberg or a breach of that care in the FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT.

65. In the FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW there is no mention of a minimum or maximum award limit at all.

1 Exhibit 117_2018-06-07_FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW.pdf

66. In the FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW, Gooch refers to Brad Balke, W. Randall Baudin II, Kelly Baudin, Baudin Law Group, and Baudin & Baudin as "other attorneys" but never uses the name "Baudin" in any context.

67. Paragraph 24 of FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW states:

> "Thereafter, DULBERG retained other attorneys and proceeded to a court ordered binding mediation before a retired Circuit Judge, where DULBERG received a binding mediation award of $660,000.00 in gross, and a net award of $561,000.00. However, due to the settlement with the McGuires, DULBERG was only able to collect $300,000 based upon the insurance policy available."[Emphasis added]

68. There is no mention of any automatic stay. Thomas Popovich individually is not named as a defendant.

Rather than simply listing the ways in which McGuires were liable for Dulberg's injury (as required by Illinois law), Gooch attempted to argue that such a simple list is not necessary. (The same "trap door" was written into the AMENDED COMPLAINT. It was another complaint set up to fail.)

69. On July 5, 2018 Popovich and Mast filed DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS[1]

70. Item 5 states:

> "Dulberg fails to allege requisite facts in support of a legal malpractice claim, including each and every element of the "underlying" case or "case within a case" against the McGuires."

This statement is identical to the statement in paragraph 49 on their first MTD. Opposing counsel could give an identical reply because Gooch made an identical mistake. (The AMENDED COMPLAINT was set up to fail a second time.)

71. Item 6 states:

> "Dulberg's complaint must be dismissed pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-615."

72. MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW[2] Page 6 states:

> "He also fails to plead any facts concerning the McGuires' liablility in the unlerlying case." This is the same reason the original complaint was rejected."

The statement is true. (This is the "trap door" that was written into both complaints.)

73. Page 3 states:

---

1 Exhibit 118_2018-07-05_DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS.pdf
2 Exhibit 119_2018-07-05_MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANTS'.pdf

"Dulberg retained successor counsel and proceeded to a binding mediation and received a mediation award".

74. On August 17, 2018 Gooch filed PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW[1]. Rather than simply explain how the McGuires (the 'underlying case') owed a duty of care to Dulberg (as an invitee on their property with hazardous work being performed) and were vicariously liable as Gagnon's direct employers for Dulberg's injury as required by law, Gooch answered arguments of the defense motion to dismiss in the following ways:

75. Gooch produced "Argument (under 2-615)"[2] titled "Dulberg sufficiently states a cause of action for legal malpractice against the Defendants" in which in paragraph 1 (line 1) Gooch states:

"In his First Amended Complaint, DULBERG sufficiently set forth the necessary elements of legal malpractice."

76. In "Argument (under 2-615)" Gooch gives a 34 paragraph argument for why the Defendants' 2-615 Motion for Dismissal should not be granted. Not one of the 34 paragraphs addressed why the McGuires owed Dulberg a duty of care the day of the accident. Not one of these items addressed how the McGuires breached that duty to Dulberg.

77. On September 7, 2018 at 10:06 AM Dulberg sent an email to Gooch stating:[3]

"Please find the attached comments_on_Letter_to_Judge_Meyer.txt file

Will see you on Monday to discuss"

In the attached file it stated:

"Comments on "Letter to Judge Meyer" by MAST defendents....

Defendents wrote: "What did they (the McGuires) do wrong?"

a) MCGUIRES purchased and provided GAGNON a chainsaw without following the directions and heeding the warnings clearly printed in the operator's manual's that accompanied the chainsaw. Chainsaw was purchased on 5-22-2011 and was first used on 6-28-2011, the day DULBERG was injured.

b) The operator's manual clearly states in large, bold font: "WARNING - To ensure safe and correct operation of the chainsaw, ths operator's manual should always be kept with or near the machine. Do not lend or rent your chainsaw without the operator's instruction manual."

---

1 Exhibit 120_2018-08-17_PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS FIRST.pdf

3 Exhibit 225_2018-09-07-a_Dulberg-Gooch 100481-100483_Sent_Dulberg vs Law Offices of Thomas J Popovich PC et a_Pages-3.pdf

c) Just under this warning on the same page the operator's manual clearly states in large, bold font: "WARNING - Allow only persons who understand this manual to operate your chainsaw."

d) The manual has a list clearly labeled as "SAFETY RULES". The first listed rule is: "Read this manual carefully until you completely understand and can follow all safety rules, precautions, and operatng instructions before attempting to use the unit."

e) The second listed safety rule is: "Restrict the use of your saw to adult users who understand and can follow safety rules, precautions, and operating instructions found in this manual."

f) The fourth listed safety rule is: "Keep children, bystanders, and animals a minimum of 35 feet (10 meters) away from the work area. Do not allow other people or animals to be near the chainsaw when starting or operating the chainsaw (Fig.2)." There is a large picture next to this rule of people standing at least 35 feet away from a person operating a chainsaw.

g) The MCGUIRES asked DULBERG to help GAGNON. DULBERG did not go to the MCGUIRES property to help cut down a tree. He went to see if he wanted the wood. Only after he was on the property for more than two hour was he asked by the MCGUIRES if he could help GAGNON.

i) Had the MCGUIRES read and followed the warnings and safety rules in the operators manual, the injury to DULBERG could not have occurred.

j) The MCGUIRES were in possession of the owners manual and looked at it while DULBERG was present, however they asked DULBERG to help GAGNON anyway. They had the manual and DULBERG did not. They had access to knowledge about the warnings clearly stated in the manual that DULBERG did not have. "A duty to warn exists where there is unequal knowledge, actual or constructive, and the defendant, possessed of such knowledge, knows or should know that harm might or could occur if no warning is given." (many citations available)

Defendents wrote: "There is no factual allegation as to why such an expert mattered."

The expert on chainsaw use later retained by DULBERG stated that the owners of the chainsaw are liable for not heeding the clear warnings written in bold font on the operator's manual.

Defendents wrote: "DULBERG fails to specify how he was misled. Even if MAST made a mistake about the MCGUIRES' insurance coverage, it made no difference, and there was no damage. DULBERG cannot explain why $300,000 versus $100,000 in coverage made any difference, when he settled for $5,000. Had he settled for $99,999.99, his argument for damages may be colorable. In any event, he alleges no facts in support of the allegation that facts were "concealed.""

MAST never claimed the McGuires insurance policy limit was $100,000. He claimed the GAGNON insurance policy limit was $100,000 when it was actually $300,000. DULBERG never knew what GAGNONs actual coverage was until he retained new counsel.

DULBERG still does not know what the MCGUIRES' policy limit was because MAST never informed him despite repeated requests to MAST by DULBERG for that information. In fact, there is no evidence at all within the case documents later given by MAST to DULBERG that MAST was ever in possession of the MCGUIRES' policy terms or limits.

DULBERG explicitly asked for documents related to the MCGUIRES' insurance policy and was refused by MAST."

The information in the attached file was never included in any of the pleadings or the Gooch case file turned over after Gooch was fired by Dulberg suggesting that Gooch intentionally ignored the contents of this email.

78. On September 7, 2018 Gooch sent an email with the Subject: "Automatic reply: Dulberg vs. Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C., et a" stating:[1]

"I will be on a well deserved vaction thru the morning of September 12. I will however be taking cell phone calls as needed and will be checking email at least twice a day. I will have access to client files. My colleague, Sabina Walczk will be available and may be contacted at our office."

79. On September 10, 2018 Dulberg delivered copies of chainsaw manuals to the office of Gooch. They were scanned and named:

Duhlberg Manual Received on 9.10.18 fr. Client- 3.pdf
Duhlberg Manual Recieved on 9.10.18 fr. Client- 2.pdf

The files were placed in the Gooch digital case file in this folder:

Gooch Thumbdrive/UNDERLYING CASE DOCS[2]

80. As described in "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton -Williams Representation" Clinton and Williams appear to mock their own fully disabled client by repeatedly mis-typing his name as "Duhlburg" (as can be seen in "Visual Aid 11 - Mocking client")[3]. Gooch mocked Dulberg the same way.[4]

81. On September 12, 2018 the hearing on the Motion to Dismiss took place. Neither Gooch nor Sabina appeared in court. They did not anounce they wouldn't attend beforehand. They simply didn't show up. Dulberg was alone in court.

82. On September 12, 2018, over 500 days after Gooch wrote the letter to opposing counsel stating his intention to file a complaint within 7 days, the defense 2-615 motion to dismiss Dulberg's first amended complaint was granted for the same reason the earlier 2-615 motion to dismiss Dulberg's original complaint was granted on May 10, 2018. It is because Gooch did not list a single item in the original COMPLAINT AT LAW[1] or in the FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT[2] that addressed why the McGuires owed a duty of care to Dulberg or how they breached that duty. Dulberg was given leave to submit a second amended complaint.

1 Exhibit 121_2018-09-07_Automatic reply Dulberg vs Law Offices of Thomas J Popovich PC et a.pdf

83. On September 12, 2018 at 12:33 PM Dulberg sent an email to Gooch and Sabina stating:[3]

> "I missed either of you in court this morning. I did not bring my phone into the courthouse so i couldn't call you. Hope nothing bad happened to delay you and that everything is okay. From what i understood, Judge Meyer moved forward without you and struck down the vast majority of our amended pleading as conclusions or redundant."

84. Dulberg explained to Gooch that Judge Meyer gave a number of specific rulings in court which describe why he granted the Motion to Dismiss. Dulberg suggested Gooch should order the Report of Proceedings.

85. On September 19, 2018 Gooch sent an email to Dulberg stating:[4]

> "Court order is not as problem, get it to you today. The transcript is expensive and needs to be ordered frpom the court whih we can do but I believe is a waste of money pls advise oif you wish me to order it. We are preparing the amended complaint."

86. On September 19, 2018 Dulberg sent an email to Gooch stating:[5]

> "I'm willing to pay for the transcript. It details which parts of the order were struck down for redundancy and which were considered conclusions. it should help you in writing the amended complaint."

87. Dulberg then asked his brother, Thomas Kost, to try to figure out why the Gooch complaints were not being accepted by the court and what needed to be done to fix the problem.

88. On October 1, 2018 Thomas Kost wrote a plain text document for Paul Dulberg called "second_amended_complaint_comments.txt"[6] and emailed the document to Dulberg. Dulberg then sent[7] the text document as an email attachment to Thomas Gooch.

89. The end of the text document includes the following statement:

> "Within these notes I tried to explain 3 points:

1) That the first amended complaint failed to adequately address the underlying case that DULBERG had against the MCGUIRES. In other words, we have to show that DULBERG would have prevailed against the MCGUIRES if it wasn't for the actions of MAST. The first amended complaint did not sufficiently address the "case within a case" or the "underlying case", which is against the MCGUIRES.

2) The case against the McGuires could be made by using the restatement of torts 343 or by using general negligence or in any other way that a premises liability or negligence expert would recommend.

3) Arguments which support the liability of MAST have already been made in the first amended complaint. But there are a few additional arguments that that may prove helpful to include. They are the reasons Mast gave to Dulberg why he will get $5,000 or nothing. The only case Mast cited to Dulberg was Tilscher v Spangler, and because the case confirmed that restatement of torts 318 is not applicable in Illinios, Mast told Dulberg he has no case against the McGuires. Mast also told Dulberg the judge would grant a summary judgement if Dulberg refused the offer."

90. The text document has a section titled "HOW TO PRESENT THE LIABILITY OF THE MCGUIRES:" which lists 10 specific items labelled "a" through "i'. The contents are:

"Facts:

a) MCGUIRES purchased and provided GAGNON with a chainsaw without following the directions and heeding the warnings clearly printed in the operator's manual that accompanied the chainsaw. Chainsaw was purchased on 5-22-2011 and was first used on 6-28-2011, the day DULBERG was injured.

There is a large picture next to this rule of people standing at least 35 feet away from a person operating a chainsaw.

g) The MCGUIRES asked DULBERG to help GAGNON. DULBERG did not go to the MCGUIRES property to help cut down a tree. He went to see if he wanted the wood. Only after he was on the property for more than two hours was he asked by the MCGUIRES if he could help GAGNON.

h) The MCGUIRES were in possession of the owners manual and looked at it while DULBERG was present, however they asked DULBERG to help GAGNON anyway. They had the manual and DULBERG did not. They had access to knowledge about the warnings clearly stated in the manual that DULBERG did not have. "A duty to warn exists where there is unequal knowledge, actual or constructive, and the defendant, possessed of such knowledge, knows or should know that harm might or could occur if no warning is given." (Pitler, 92 Ill.App.3d at 745, 47 Ill.Dec. 942, 415 N.E.2d 1255, quoting Kirby v. General Paving Co. (1967), 86 Ill.App.2d 453, 457, 229 N.E.2d 777.)

i) Had the MCGUIRES read and followed the warnings and safety rules in the operators manual, the injury to DULBERG could not have occurred.

As stated in part (g), DULBERG came to the property in order to see if he wanted the wood from the tree and not to help with cutting. Only after being on the property for more than two hours in the MCGUIRES' presence did the MCGUIRES ask DULBERG to help GAGNON. Therefore DULBERG was clearly an invitee and was owed a duty of 'reasonable care' by the MCGUIRES.

The MCGUIRE'S were in possession of the operator's manual of the chainsaw. They were also the owners of the chainsaw. Multiple warnings were clearly printed in bold font in the operator's manual, so the MCGUIRES should have realized that asking DULBERG to help GAGNON while not following any of the warnings described in parts (b), (c), (d), (e), and (f) involved an unreasonable risk of harm to DULBERG.

The MCGUIRES should have expected that since DULBERG did not have access to the operator's manual he was not aware of the explicit warnings described in parts (b), (c), (d), (e), and (f).

Therefore the MCGUIRES failed to exercise reasonable care toward DULBERG. They had access to knowledge about the warnings clearly stated in the manual that DULBERG did not have. "A duty to warn exists where there is unequal knowledge, actual or constructive, and the defendant, possessed of such knowledge, knows or should know that harm might or could occur if no warning is given." (Pitler, 92 Ill.App.3d at 745, 47 Ill.Dec. 942, 415 N.E.2d 1255, quoting Kirby v. General Paving Co. (1967), 86 Ill. App.2d 453, 457, 229 N.E.2d 777.)

The chainsaw accident was or should have been reasonably foreseeable to a person who read the warnings described in parts (b), (c), (d), (e), and (f) and failed to heed those warnings. Had the MCGUIRES read and followed the warnings and safety rules in the operators manual, the injury to DULBERG could not have occurred.

91. The text document includes a section titled "CONCERNING MAST'S LIABILITY" which states:

> " MAST told DULBERG at a meeting in which DULBERG was trying to decide whether to accept the MCGUIRE's offer of $5,000 that because the restatement of torts 318 is not applicable in Illinois, DULBERG had no case against the MCGUIRES and that the MCGUIRES did not have to offer any settlement at all. DULBERG asked MAST to cite case law that shows why the MCGUIRES were not at least partially liable for DULBERG'S injury, and MAST cited Tilscher v Spangler, a case which confirms that restatement of torts 318 is not applicable in Illinois. But note the claim of MCGUIRE'S liability given above relies on restatement of torts 343 or a general neglegence claim. It is completely independent of restatement of torts 318.
> At the same meeting MAST also informed DULBERG that the MCGUIRES made an offer of $5,000 to be nice (they did not have to offer anything) and if DULBERG did not accept the offer it would be withdrawn and the MCGUIRES will ask for summary judgement. MAST informed DULBERG that the presiding judge would grant the MCGUIRES a summary judgement dismissing the case against them, leaving DULBERG with no settlement at all from the MCGUIRES."

92. This text document sent from Dulberg to Gooch included instructions to list the liabilities of McGuires and the liabilities of Mast in a clear and explicit way in the complaint.

93. On 10/2/2018 1:06 PM Thomas Gooch replied to Dulberg by email stating:[1] particular thought to withdrawing my appearance and letting you represent your self or find someone else, understand this is not an empty threat, I will tolerate any more of this. If I need a factual question answered and I'm sure I will in the course of this litigation then I will ask you but kindly stop with rudimentary research. The Google searches of you and your brother are not replacements for my law license.

> Thomas W Gooch"

94. It is described in "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton -Williams representation" Clinton and Williams appear to mock their own fully disabled client by repeatedly mis-typing his name as "Duhlburg" (as can be seen in "Visual Aid 11 - Mocking client")[1]. Note that Gooch begins the letter by writing "Mr. Duhlberg". This appears to be a shared inside joke between Popovich, Mast, Gooch and Clinton and Williams. They all mis-spelled his name the same way.

95. Dulberg responded by email stating[2],

"Hello Tom and Sabina, I didn't understand the last email I received so I need some clarification. I was never rude or not courteous to you staff and your staff was always courteous to me. Yesterday I talked with Nikki breifly just to confirm that the office received the email. She was friendly and courteous. I said nothing rude or offensive.

I never ordered you or anyone to call me yesterday. I honestly don't know why you believe I did. I was not aware there was anything offensive in the attachment I sent. As I read it again I still can't see anything offensive in it.

As you know I have a permanent disability. You may not know I am on medication to control pain and spasms and this medication does not allow me to focus on complex

1 Exhibit 124_Visual Aid 11 - Mocking client.png
2 Exhibit 122_2018-08-31_Dulberg vs Law Offices of Thomas J Popovich PC et a.pdf

subjects to a prolonged time. Since I do not understand your last email and I don't have much time before appearing in court I need to know where I stand.

Are you thinking of not continuing to represent me in this case?

Are you going to submit a second amended complaint on October 10 and appear in court?

Will I be given enough time to review the complaint before it is submitted?

May I comment on it or request changes to it or ask questions about it?

I do not want to offend anyone, so I need to know what I can comment on or ask questions about.

I have no memory of any inappropriate behavior when talking to Nikki yesterday. Please let me know how I can communicate with your staff or what I can include in an email in the future so you are not offended again.

Sorry if I did anything wrong. Sincerely, Paul Dulberg "

96. On October 3, 2018 Gooch replied to Dulberg's email point by point. Gooch responses are in red font. The email[1] is reproduced:

"From: Thomas W. Gooch III gooch@goochfirm.com

Subject: RE: from tom

Date: October 3, 2018 at 12:56 PM

To: Paul Dulberg pdulberg@comcast.net

As you know I have a permanent disability. You may not know I am on medica:on to control pain and spasms and this medica:on does not allow me to focus on complex subjects for a prolonged :me. Since I do not understand your last email and I don't have much :me before appearing in court I need to know where I stand.

You seem to have been very focused when you delivered to me your research notes on the elements of legal malprac8ce, not that I need the wri;en lecture on what legal malprac8ce consists of

Are you thinking of not con:nuing to represent me in this case?

Yes I am considering withdrawing on your behalf. I need no research from you on legal malprac8ce answering my ques8ons on facts is helpful when I ask. I want no more involvement from your brother, Obviously he can talk to you all you want, I can't prevent that but if I perceive further interference from him then I will have to re-evaluate my con8nued ability to competently represent you. I will not allow him to be here in my office for any purpose. "

Are you going to submit a second amended complaint on October 10 and appear in court?

We may seek an extension, we appear on court dates as a general rule always. You do not and have not had any court dates that require your appearance.

1 Exhibit 122_2018-08-31_Dulberg vs Law Offices of Thomas J Popovich PC et a.pdf

Will I be given enough :me to review the complaint before it is submiFed?

When I determine the complaint is in my opinion legally sufficient it gets filed, naturally you will get a copy of it for your records.

May I comment on it or request changes to it or ask ques:ons about it?

You, not your brother, can ask all the ques8ons you wish. I generally do not ask a client if a complaint is legally sufficient, nor do I want a client draFing a complaint that I have to sign. Most clients do not know the difference between pleading conclusions of law or fact, pleading evidence or the correct pleading of ul8mate material factual allega8ons. In as much as you have advised you are on pain medicine unable to "focus on complex subjects I ques8on how much you could help in any event. I can get a lot done when I don't have to answer emails like this one.

I do not want to offend anyone, so I need to know what I can comment on or ask ques:ons about.

Making demands and lecturing me on the law are greats way to be offensive, likewise demanding to know when you will be called and comments about caring about anyone else we represent or other cases is not conducive to not offending us.

97. On October 3, 2018 Dulberg called the Clinton Law Firm. At 10:43 AM on October 3, 2018 Julia Williams of the Clinton Law Firm sent an email to Dulberg which stated[1],

> "Dear Paul, It was nice to talk to you today. We would be able to meet next Friday, let me know if that works for you and a good time."

98. On October 9, 2018 Dulberg could not accept the conditions that Gooch was demanding and fired Gooch.[2]

99. On October 8, 2018 the Gooch firm sent an email to Dulberg stating:[3]

> "Dear Mr.ulberg: Attached please find the plaintiff's discovery requests tio the Defendants in regards to the above-referenced matter. Please note their responses are due by November 5, 2018. Whenever I receive them, I will forward to you. Melissa J. Podgorski Paralegal The Gooch Firm"

100. On October 8, 2018 Thomas Gooch sent out a discovery packet[4] to opposing counsel. Gooch sent out discovery documents "before 5:00PM on October 8, 2018".

4 Group Exhibit 32 Gooch Discovery package

101. On October 9, 2018 Gooch filed a motion to withdraw[1]. The order was granted on October 15, 2018.

102. On October 10, 2018 Dulberg sent a zipped folder[2] as an email attachment to Williams of the Clinton Law Firm which contained the letter which angered Gooch, and on October 12, 2018 Dulberg and his brother, Thomas Kost, met Ed Clinton and Julia Williams. (zipped folder "Duberg Complaint.zip" as exhibit)

103. Dulberg gave Gooch an Advance payment retainer of $10,000.00[3] plus an additional advance of $5000.00[4] for costs. $480.00 went to copy costs and filing fees. The remaining $4520.00 was for hiring an expert witness. Gooch never hired the expert witness and never returned the advance. Gooch profited $14,520.00 from Dulberg, $4520.00 of which should have been returned to Dulberg upon Gooch's withdrawl but never was.

104. On August 20, 2020 at 5:10 AM Dulberg sent an email to Clinton and Williams stating:[5]

> "... I emailed Mary about the case files but I have one other concern. At our first meeting Ed made copies of the checks I wrote to Gooch. I would like a copy of these included in the case file. The retainer check was $10,000 and another $5,000 check was written to cover the initial costs for filing fee's and an expert witness. Ed said he would get the $5,000 back from Gooch. Was anything done with this or does Gooch still have the extra $5,000 for the expert witness that was never hired? ..."

105. Dulberg's experiences with Clinton and Williams are described in "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation".

106. The Gooch case file was received by the Clinton Law firm on or about November 21, 2018.

107. Thumbdrive with the Gooch case file[6] contains switched file names for Saul Ferris letter and Kupets and DeCaro letter

108. There are no "Tilschner v Spangler" references anywhere on the Thumbdrive.

"TEAM-WORK" BETWEEN GOOCH, CLINTON AND WILLIAMS (AND OPPOSING COUNSEL) AND THE KEY INFORMATION THEY TARGET

'TEAM-WORK' EXAMPLE 1: Concealing key evidence (Tilschner v Spangler):

109. The chronology of the suppression of Tilschner v Spangler given below demonstrates intricate "team-work" between Gooch and Clinton and Williams:

6 Key Clinton Folder 1: Dulberg Paul Dulberg Files From Client\Misc (contains switched file names)

1) Gooch was told that Tilschner v Spangler and the Restatement of Torts 318 were the reasons Mast gave Dulberg for why the McGuires are not responsible for Dulberg's injury at his first meeting with Dulberg (on 2016-12-16).

2) Gooch was handed a certified slip copy of Tilschner v Spangler[1] that Mast provided to him and looked at it.

3) Gooch refused it and told Dulberg he can download the information from the internet.

4) Tilschner v Spangler was explicitly cited in the emailed letter[2] that led to the firing of Gooch (in detailed descriptions in 2 different paragraphs on 2018-10-02).

5) There is no mention of Tilschner v Spangler in the Gooch Thumbdrive[3], which is the entire case file from Gooch's office.

6) The same letter (with detailed descriptions of Tilschner v Spangler's importance in 2 different paragraphs) was given to Clinton and Williams during their first meeting.[4]

7) Dulberg and his brother, Thomas Kost, discussed Tilschner v Spangler with Clinton and Williams at the first meeting.

8) Clinton and Williams were informed of the importance of Tilschner v Spangler in detail and in writing at least 6 different times [5]

9) Williams removed Dulberg's references to Tilschner from the second amended complaint.[6]

10) Dulberg sent emails with the certified slip copy of Tilschner v Spangler which Dulberg received from Mast on 2013-10-20.[7]

11) Williams separated it.[8]

12) Williams never Bates-stamped the certified slip copy of Tilschner v Spangler and never handed it over to opposing counsel.[9]

13) There was an inexplicable technical problem with exhibit 12 during the Mast deposition.[10]

14) In October, 2022 Williams could not recall any details about the contents of exhibit 12 when asked only weeks after preparing answers and documents on exhibit 12 in answer to a subpoena.[1]

15) The 6 year suppression was so thorough that when Dulberg mentioned Tilschner v Spangler in a court document in November, 2022 opposing counsel Flynn replied:[2]

"12) Of concern is a statement on page 19 of Dulberg's motion in which he argues that Mast had insisted that the decision in the Tilschner v. Spangler case was the reason Dulberg would not prevail in the underlying case against the McGuire's. The statement is inexplicably made "on information and belief." This is unacceptable. Dulberg has made no such disclosure in fact discovery (now closed) about this very specific discussion between Mast and himself regarding the Tilschner case. If Dulberg believes he has disclosed it, he should be required to identify where in his answers and amended answers to discovery or his deposition he has identified such discussion with this amount of specificity. Defendants submit that no such disclosure exists."

The suppression of Tilschner v Spangler demonstrates an intricate team-work between Gooch, Clinton, Williams and opposing counsel Flynn. It involves an interconnected chain of events from December, 2016 to December, 2022.

"TEAM-WORK" EXAMPLE 2: Concealing Admission of Negligence of Defendant Gagnon in Underlying Case 12LA178

110. On February 1, 2013 Ron Barch filed CROSS-CLAIM FOR CONTRIBUTION AGAINTS CO-DEFENDANT DAVID GAGNON[3]. In the cross-claim the McGuires state as follows:

7. At the time and place alleged, notwithstanding his aforementioned duty, Defendant David Gagnon was then and there guilty of one or more of the following negligent acts and/or omissions:

a. Caused or permitted a chainsaw to make contact with Plaintiffs right arm;

b. Failed to operate said chainsaw in a safe and reasonable manner so as to avoid injuring Plaintiff's right arm;

c. Failed to maintain a reasonable and safe distance between the chainsaw he was operating and Plaintiff's right arm;

d. Failed to properly instruct Plaintiff prior to approaching him with an operating chainsaw;

3 Exhibit 112_2013-02-01_CROSS CLAIM FOR CONTRIBUTION AGAINST CODEFENDANT DAVID GAGNON_CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE_Barch-McGuires copy-OCR.pdf

c. Failed to properly warn Plaintiff prior to approaching him with an operating chainsaw;

f. Failed to maintain the chainsaw in the idle or off position when he knew or should have known that Plaintiff was close enough to sustain injury from direct contact with the subject chainsaw;

g. Failed to maintain a proper lookout for Plaintiff while operating the subject chainsaw;

h. Failed to maintain proper control over an operating chainsaw;

1. Was otherwise negligent in the operation and control of the subject chainsaw.

8. That the injuries alleged by Plaintiff PAUL DULBERG, if any, were the direct and proximate result of negligence on the part of Defendant David Gagnon.

111. David Gagnon or his attorney has never filed an answer to these allegations in the CROSS-CLAIM for contribution. By not filing an answer to CROSS-CLAIM for contribution Gagnon effectively admitted to each of charges (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), (h) and (I) of….

112. As Dulberg's attorneys at that time Popovich and Mast knew Gagnon never filed an answer to the CROSS-CLAIM. As Dulberg's subsequent attorneys in his personal injury case, both Brad Balke and the Baudins also knew Gagnon never filed an answer to the CROSS-CLAIM. Dulberg's first legal malpractice attorney, Gooch, also knew Gagnon never filed an answer to the CROSS-CLAIM. Clinton and Williams also knew Gagnon never filed an answer to the CROSS-CLAIM.

113. Gooch and Clinton and Williams all knew (or should have known that) Mast and Popovich must have known about the CROSS-CLAIM filed by the McGuires against Gagnon and unanswered by Gagnon since early March, 2013. This was not mentioned in COMPLAINT[1] AT LAW or AMENDED COMPLAINT[2] or SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT[3].

114. The original defendant and operator of the chainsaw, Gagnon, admitted to being negligent:

About 10 months before Dulberg was coerced into settling with the owners of the property (the McGuires) on which the accident occurred and for whom Gagnon was working.

About 21 months before Dulberg declared bankruptcy.

About 39 months before any binding mediation agreement with Gagnon was mentioned.

About 40 months before any cap was placed on any binding mediation award from Gagnon.

2 Exhibit 117_2018-06-07_FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW.pdf
3 Exhibit 132_2018-12-06_Second Amended Complaint.pdf

115. There was no reason for any of these activities to take place if the defendant who operated the chainsaw already admitted to being negligent.

"TEAM-WORK" EXAMPLE 3: Concealing Bankruptcy and Violations of Federal Bankruptcy Laws (automatic stay, loss of standing to pursue claim, capping value of assets in BK estate, ect)

116. The following sequence of events demonstrates "team-work" related to bankruptcy:

1) Gooch was told Dulberg declared bankruptcy on November 26, 2014.

2) Gooch did not include any information about Dulberg declaring bankruptcy in the COMPLAINT AT LAW[1].

4) Gooch did not include any information about Dulberg declaring bankruptcy in the AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW[2].

5) Clinton and Williams were told that Dulberg declared bankruptcy on November 26, 2014.

6) Clinton and Williams were told[3] by Dulberg to include paragraphs on bankruptcy in the SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT. CLINTON AND WILLIAMS removed all mention of bankruptcy from the SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT

7) Concerning Dulberg's comments about bankruptcy he wanted included in the SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT Williams told Dulberg:[4]

"Attached please find the revised version of the second amended complaint. We will plan to file it tomorrow by morning. If you can, I request that you send further thoughts and edits by 5pm today. I have a deposition in the afternoon and cannot file it later in the day. I reviewed your comments and edits. Overall, many were accepted. There were some, particularly the language about the bankruptcy, that I thought were unnecessary and would simply muddy the waters for the judge.

In this case, we need to show that Mast/Popovich had a duty to advise you properly and protect your interest, they failed to do that by urging you to settle with the McGuires when you could have continued with the case against them and obtained a much better result, instead you settled and were not able to recover at least $300,000. The bankruptcy proceedings are necessary to this case. They will add color to the case and the information will definitely come out in the discovery process. That being said, I don't want to confuse the issues and the recovery by making allegations about the bankruptcy in the complaint. Further, I don't want to increase any burden of proof we may have by making allegations that are necessary to prove our case. ..."

4 Exhibit 5_"Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation", Chapter 2, Section 2A

8) Williams played "hoaxes"[1] with bankruptcy documents

9) Williams told the judge "I think we produced a number of the bankruptcy issues, but we can talk about it today and definitely try to work out -- there's definitely -- there was a bankruptcy. We're not trying to hide that bankruptcy, so. And the trustee did resolve -- there was an arbitration based on the trustee's recommendation in the bankruptcy for the individual."[2]

10) On February 19, 2020 at 6:09 AM (which was the morning of Dulberg's deposition) Dulberg sent an email with the subject "Capped ADR agreement issue" to Julia C. Williams and Ed Clinton which stated:[3]

"Hi Julia and Ed,

Yesterday we talked about the bankruptcy court ordering the case into ADR with a cap on the amount that could be recovered.

This was an agreement between Allstate, the Baudins and the trustee that put the motion before the bankruptcy court.

I did some talking with at least 12 bankruptcy attorneys on those free legal advise forums last night

All said basically the same thing. This should not have been allowed without the owner of the case/asset, me, agreeing to it.

I was given this example which I believe best explains it.

In chapter 7 bankruptcy
You go into Bankruptcy and the court orders your assets (like your home) to be auctioned off to pay your creditors which is legal
But they took it one step too far when they capped the amount
Since it's already going to auction its not fair to you, the actual owner of the asset or even the creditors, to cap the amount that can be recovered at auction
They are supposed to let the auction play out to recover what the highest bidder pays, not cap it.
Capping the highest bid at an auction makes no sense
The same goes for any recovery from any asset including a personal injury suit
I'm sorry this happen to you

Now that I know this, I'm not 100% here, but I think I understand why the trustee Joe Olsen hired the Baudins to represent him Any advise on this would be helpful ..."

Clinton and Williams did not answer the email.

117. Gooch, Clinton and Williams together have kept all issues related to 'bankruptcy' out of the 17LA377 Common Law Record and Reports of Proceedings for 6 years (except for one minor mention in the 2018-09-05 RoP which was pointed out in EXAMPLE 2).

"TEAM-WORK" EXAMPLE 4: Concealing true sources of $300,000 upper cap on the value of the PI claim.

118. Records of Proceedings of 12LA178 from June 13, 2016 to August 10, 2016 provide clear evidence of:

a) Who placed a $300,000 upper cap on the value of the personal injury case

b) When the agreement was made

c) Where the agreement was made

The evidence was easily available to both Gooch and Clinton and Williams the entire time (in the Reports of Proceedings of the 'underlying' case 12LA178).

a) Who placed a $300,000 upper cap on the value of the personal injury case (The Baudins and Allstate alone)

b) When the agreement was made (On or before August 10, 2016 in violation of the automatic stay)

c) Where the agreement was made (In the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court)

119. On July 11, 2016 the following exchange took place in the 22nd Judicial Circuit Court:[1]

THE COURT: Dulberg. Do we have -- When do you want to come back?

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: We're entering continuing the motions, is that what we're doing?

THE COURT: Yes.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Okay. When's your next available date, Judge?

THE COURT: For a hearing?

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Yes.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Or a brief.

THE COURT: Are we briefed? Has it been briefed?

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: No. They're just motions that I presented as emergencies and then we continued them pending discussions.

THE COURT: Well, when -- if it goes into mediation, the motions become moot. Or do we have to address them regardless? I don't know what they are.

1 Exhibit 129_2016-07-11_CC-Civil - 12LA000178 - 3_2_2022 - - - REOP - - (1).pdf

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: I think the type of mediation we would do, it would be moot because --

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Yeah, other than, possibly, an IME. But, you know, we can certainly work -- we've worked well together so far, so we could certainly see if we can work things out.

THE COURT: Speaking generally, I'd probably grant an IME. I haven't seen your motion, though,so I don't know. I mean, I could put this over to July 21st, and that should give you enough time to decide what you want to do with mediation.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: I can be here.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. And that will be just at 9:00 o'clock for presentation of the motion, and then we'll figure out what we're going to do.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Thank you for your time.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Thank you. Appreciate it.

120. On July 21, 2016 the following exchange took place in 22nd Judicial Circuit Court:[1]

APPEARANCES: THE BAUDIN LAW GROUP LTD., by: MS. KELLY N. BAUDIN, on behalf of the Plaintiff;

LAW OFFICE OF STEVEN A. LIHOSIT, by: MS. SHOSHAN E. REDDINGTON, on behalf of the Defendant David Gagnon.

MS. BAUDIN: Kelly Baudin on behalf of the plaintiff. Mr. Dulberg is present and approaching.

MS. REDDINGTON: Good morning, Judge. Shoshan Reddington for the defendant.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MS. REDDINGTON: We talked last night. We've got some things agreed to, so I would like to just give us a moment to discuss that and step back up.

THE COURT: Okay. I will pass.

MS. BAUDIN: Thank you.

MS. REDDINGTON: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

(Whereupon, the above-entitled cause was passed and subsequently recalled.)

MS. BAUDIN: Okay, Judge. As you know, we had previously been discussing binding mediation. We came to a semi-agreement, --

THE COURT: Okay.

1 Exhibit 130_2016-07-21_CC-Civil - 12LA000178 - 3_2_2022 - - - REOP - - (2).pdf

MS. BAUDIN: -- but we would like probably two weeks to just see if we can figure out the details and see if we can reach an agreement on how that is going to proceed. So I think we're looking at an August 4th date for that.

THE COURT: Can't do August 4th --

MS. BAUDIN: Oh, okay. I just was looking at two weeks, Your Honor.

THE COURT: -- because that's when I'm not here.

MS. BAUDIN: Oh, I see on the calendar. I apologize.

THE COURT: Any day after that.

MS. REDDINGTON: The following week, anything?

MS. BAUDIN: Grab my -- Let's say either the 8th or the 10th are probably the best.

THE COURT: Either's fine?

MS. REDDINGTON: My calendar's currently crashed on my -- so I can't answer that, but --

MS. BAUDIN: Why don't we do the 10th, just so it's --

THE COURT: Is there a date you know you're going to be here?

MS. REDDINGTON: No.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. REDDINGTON: Judge, and I have several motions, and what I'd like to do is get the trial stricken which is on 9/- --

MS. BAUDIN: 27th I believe or 22nd?

MS. REDDINGTON: -- the 26th, and then to set it for the status instead on the 8/10, and then I also had a motion on an IME. I'm a little stymied right now because my claim rep is out this week and there's a couple of issues that I can't answer for counsel, but if we do get the agreement in place, what we'd like to do is do the mediation and then come back for a status to dismiss it once the mediation is done, if that's agreeable.

THE COURT: First off, with respect to the motion to strike the trial date, any objection?

MS. BAUDIN: No.

THE COURT: All right. I will -- I will strike the trial date for September 26, as well as the pretrial date of the 23rd.

MS. REDDINGTON: Okay.

THE COURT: I will enter and continue your other motions until we're certain what's going to happen.

MS. REDDINGTON: Okay.

THE COURT: The removal of the trial date pretty much means we can do anything.

MS. REDDINGTON: Takes care of that. Okay. And hopefully we'll come back with everything in place and then we'll just even set a date and then get a status for after that date to be able to come back and say it's done; we're willing to dismiss with prejudice because mediation's binding and it's done.

THE COURT: All right. However you want to do it, it is fine.

MS. REDDINGTON: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Take care.

MS. BAUDIN: Thank you

121. On August 10, 2016, in violation of the automatic stay, the Baudins and Reddington moved to enter into binding mediation on August 10, 2016, The date of the Binding Mediation hearing was already set for December 8, 2016 by the time the following exchange took place on August 10, 2016 in the Circuit Court:[1]

MS. REDDINGTON: Number one, Dulberg vs. Gagnon. Shoshan Reddington for the defendant. We have (indiscernible) scheduled for 12-8.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. REDDINGTON: We'd like to have a status date after that date.

THE COURT: What date works for you? You said December 8?

MS. REDDINGTON: December 8.

THE COURT: Okay. How about the following Monday, the 12th? Or do you want to go out further? The 16th, Friday?

Even though the information is available in court records of Dulberg's underlying case against Gagnon, neither Gooch's firm nor Clinton's firm ever pointed it out to Dulberg or mentioned it in any court record. Instead, the following comments were made in court records.

On November 28, 2017 the following statement appeared in COMPLAINT AT LAW:[2]

16. Thereafter, DULBERG retained other attorneys and proceeded to a binding mediation before a retired Circuit Judge, where DULBERG received a binding mediation award of $660,000.00 in gross, and a net award of $561,000.00. Unfortunately, a "high-low agreement" had been executed by DULBERG, reducing the maximum amount he could recover to #300.000.00 based upon the insurance policy available. The award was substantially more than the sum of the money, and could have been recovered from the McGuire's had they not been dismissed from the complaint.

In this first version (of 2017-11-28) by Gooch an upper cap was "executed by Dulberg".

122. On May 10, 2018 the following exchange took place between Gooch counsel Sabina Walczyk and opposing counsel Flynn:[1] > page 5, line 19"

> Mr Flynn: "The high-low agreement, which is very confusing to me and to my client, frankly, because he's never seen it, and as I understand it, that's outside of the four corners --
>
> THE COURT: It is outside, but it did lead to an area where I was also a little bit confused. And I -- and I think you touched on -- I'll ask you: Is the complaint having to do with the settlement with the McGuires, or does it somehow relate to the suit that continued with respect to Gagnon and the high-low agreement?
>
> MS. WALCZYK: Well, I think it's a little bit of both, because it started with the suit against McGuires, which settled. And then it looks like there was a high-low agreement signed.
>
> THE COURT: Okay.
>
> MS. WALCZYK: And --
>
> THE COURT: Was it signed by Mr. Mast?
>
> MS. WALCZYK: Oh, I believe it was signed by Mr. Dulberg. I haven't seen it.
>
> THE COURT: Okay.
>
> MS. WALCZYK: However, we can attach it if -- if you want --
>
> THE COURT: If -- if you are going to allege malpractice as a result of entering into the high-low agreement, yes, I would require you, then, to attach it and to make that a little more explicit.
>
> MS. WALCZYK: Yes.
> THE COURT: Because I -- I came away thinking that was not part of your complaint, but I wasn't a 100 percent sure."

In this second version (of 2018-05-10) his own attorney states they have never seen the agreement and they think "Dulberg signed it".

123. In the FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT Gooch stated:[2]

> "24. Thereafter, DULBERG retained other attorneys and proceeded to a Court ordered

1 Exhibit 226_2018-05-10_ROP 17LA377.pdf
2 Exhibit 117_2018-06-07_FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW.pdf

binding mediation before a retired Circuit Judge, where DULBERG received a binding mediation award of $660,000.00 in gross, and a net award of $561,000.00. However, due to the settlement with the McGuires, DULBERG was only able to collect $300,000.00 based upon the insurance policy available. A copy of the aforsaid Mediation Award is attached hereto as Exhibit G."

In this third version (of 2018-06-13) by Gooch the $300,000 cap just seemed to show up. The Judge ordered Gagnon to pay much more but Gagnon apparently didn't because of the "insurance policy available" (and apparently Dulberg pursued the matter no further).'

124. In the SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT Williams stated:[1]

"52. In December of 2016, Dulberg participated in binding mediation related to his claims against Gagnon.

53. In December of 2016, Dulberg was awarded a gross amount of $660,000 and a net award of $561,000 after his contributory negligence was considered.

54. Dulberg was only able to recovery approximately $300,000 of the award from Gagnon's insurance and was unable to collect from Gagnon personally."

In this fourth version (of 2018-12-06) by Clinton and Williams also the $300,000 cap just seemed to show up. The Judge awarded an amount that Gagnon just decided not to pay (and Dulberg apparently pursued the matter no further).'

125. On September 5, 2019 Williams stated in court:[2]

MS. WILLIAMS: I think we produced a number of the bankruptcy issues, but we can talk about it today and definitely try to work out -- there's definitely -- there was a bankruptcy. We're not trying to hide that bankruptcy, so. And the trustee did resolve -- there was an arbitration based on the trustee's recommendation in the bankruptcy for the individual."

In this fifth version (of 2019-09-05) by Williams it is stated for the first time that a bankruptcy trustee was involved in placing an upper cap of $300,000 on the value of the PI case 12LA178. Note that Dulberg retained Gooch on 2016-12-12 and this is the first time either the term "bankruptcy' or "trustee" were ever mentioned in relation to the 'upper cap' (and the last time, too).

126. A summary of 5 different versions of how the $300,000 'upper cap' was placed on the value of PI case 12LA178 which Gooch, Williams and Clinton stated in 17LA377 Common Law Records and Reports of Proceedings are given in Table 3 below.

TABLE 3: SOURCE OF THE $300,000 'UPPER CAP' PLACED ON 12LA178 ACCORDING TO DULBERG'S ATTORNEYS
Version 1 2017-11-28 Gooch	"Unfortunately, a "high-low agreement" had been executed by DULBERG, reducing the maximum amount he could recover to $300.000.00 based upon the insurance policy available."
Version 2 2018-05-10 Gooch	WALCZYK: ...And then it looks like there was a high-low agreement signed. THE COURT: Was it signed by Mr. Mast? MS. WALCZYK: Oh, I believe it was signed by Mr. Dulberg. I haven't seen it.
Version 3 2018-06-07 Gooch	"DULBERG was only able to collect $300,000.00 based upon the insurance policy available."
Version 4 2018-12-06 Williams-Clinton	"Dulberg was only able to recovery approximately $300,000 of the award from Gagnon's insurance and was unable to collect from Gagnon personally."
Version 5 2019-09-04 Williams-Clinton	"And the trustee did resolve -- there was an arbitration based on the trustee's recommendation in the bankruptcy for the individual"

127. Gooch crafted the first 3 versions. The first 3 versions are incompatible with each other.

128. Clinton and Williams crafted Versions 4 and 5. Version 5 contradicts Version 4. They are incompatible.

129. 'Bankruptcy' is never mentioned in any of the 5 versions as having anything to do with an 'upper cap'.

130. Version 1 and Version 2 blame Dulberg for executing an 'upper cap'. Version 3 blames the existence of an insurance limit as the source of an 'upper cap'. Version 4 blames 'insurance available' as the source of an 'upper cap'. Only in Version 5 'bankruptcy' is mentioned (for the first time on 2019-09-04, almost 3 years after Dulberg first met Gooch) and only in passing in a single Report of Proceedings.

131. All 5 Versions in Table 3 are inventions created by Dulberg's own attorneys to conceal the true origin of the 'upper cap'. Even though all 5 different versions are created by Dulberg's attorneys, Dulberg was described as the source of all 5 untrue and incompatible versions.

"TEAM-WORK" EXAMPLE 5: Intentionally confusing Statute of Limitations toll date and placing Dulberg's privileged attorney-client communications at issue

Legal malpractice attorney Thomas Gooch: (1) set an artificial Statute of Limitations toll date[1] to confuse Dulberg and (2) placed Dulberg's privileged attorney client communications at issue[2] at his first meeting with Dulberg. Gooch told Dulberg that their first meeting together is the time when the 2 year statute of limitations to file a complaint against Popovich and Mast begins to accrue.

In doing this Gooch gave Dulberg a false impression of how to determine a statute of limitations accural date. Gooch also created a situation where privileged attorney-client communications may now need to be produced to opposing counsel to "prove" the claim that some event occurred at the first attorney client meeting which "accrues" the statute of limitations.

132. About 18 months after Gooch told Dulberg that the statute of Limitations accrues from their first meeting together and about 6 months after stating the same in COMPLAINT AT LAW, Gooch changed his opinion of when Dulberg's statute of limitations began to accrue.

133. On December 16, 2016 Thomas Gooch caused a letter[3] to sent to Thomas Popovich and the Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. at 3416 West Elm St, McHenry. The letterhead stated: "Law Office Gauthier and Gooch 209 South Main St, Wauconda IL..

134. The letter stated: "RE: Dulberg v Popovich, "Greetings, I have been retained by Paul R. Dulberg to represent him in a cause of action of legal malpractice against you for the mishandling of his case and the settlement of a specific portion of that case for substantially less than could have been obtained."

135. The letter also stated: "You should aquaint the adjuster you speak with of my identity and if they so wish they may contact me. However, I intend to file suit against you in the next 7 days." The letter is concluded "Very truly yours, Gauthier & Gooch" and signed by Thomas W. Gooch III.

136. On December 27, 2016 at 11:39 AM Dulberg sent an email to David Stretch stating:[4]

> "Hi Dave,
> How do I get a copy of all communication between my bankruptcy Trustee's and the law office of Thomas Popovich, Tom Popovich, Hans Mast, Brad Balke and Kelly & Randy Boudin or any of their assistants sent to the office of Thomas Gooch who currently represents me in another matter?

1 In "TEAM-WORK" Example 5 red font is used to highlight quotes and statements that are related to 'setting an artificial Statute of Limitations toll date'.
2 In "TEAM-WORK" Example 5 blue font is used to highlight quotes and statements that are related to 'placing Dulberg's privileged attorney-client communications at issue'.

137. On December 27, 2016 at 4:11 PM Joe Olsen sent an email to David Stretch stating:[1]

"Dave-
You were going to re-check your notes and advise/amend schedules re potential malpractice claim? Can you let me know where you are at w/ the review etc.?"

138. On December 27, 2016 at 4:20 PM David Stretch sent an email to Joseph Olsen stating:[2]

"Joe,
I did check my notes and found nothing. At the time of filing Paul's attorney was the Popovitch firm, Hans Mast was the attorney. That information was disclosed on Schedule B, as you know. Because I couldn't find anything I emailed Paul and asked him to send me a copy of the complaint from any malpractice action he may have filed.
He responded today with a letter from Attorney Tom Gooch, Waukegan, to Mast, announcing that he, Gooch, intended to file a malpractice action within 7 days. The letter was dated December 16. I have received nothing further from Paul. I, minutes ago, forwarded that letter to you. I will let you know if I receive anything further.
Thanks,
Happy New Year
David L. Stretch"

139. The box of paper files Dulberg left with Gooch just after their first meeting on December 16, 2016 were not scanned into digital files the until June 26, 2017[3] [4] (more than 6 months after Gooch wrote the letter to Popovich stating he intended to file suit within 7 days).

140. On November 28, 2017 Thomas Gooch filed Dulberg's COMPLAINT AT LAW[5] (which was about 330 days from the time Gooch's letter stating "I intend to file suit within 7 days").

141. The Defendants Popovich and Mast will later claim that the Statute of Limitations should be tolled from any of the following dates:

1) March 15, 2015 (when Dulberg fired Popovich and Mast)
2) February 26, 2015 (when Dulberg met Saul Ferris)
3) June, 2015 (after Dulberg retained and fired Balke)
4) December 31, 2014 (when Popovich and Mast will try to claim that Dulberg met with Ferris to discuss an "accident" that occurred on January 24, 2013 (the day of Dulberg's deposition, this claim is based on a partially forged letter))

5) September 22, 2015 (when Dulberg's retained the Baudins)

Every one of these claims (1) through (5) would place the toll date more than 2 years earlier than November 28, 2017 when Gooch filed the COMPLAINT AT LAW.

142. But if Gooch filed in 7 days (like he claimed in the letter to the Defendant) the filing date would have been around December 23, 2016, avoiding any problem with any of the toll dates (1) through (5). Instead, Gooch waited about an additional 323 days to file COMPLAINT AT LAW, placing the filing date more than 2 years after dates (1) through (5).

143. During the approximately 323 days it took Gooch to file the complaint Dulberg periodally called or stopped in at Gooch's office and was told the following:

a. Gooch has been away from work for a few months due to his wife's dire health issues.

b. Gooch can't file the complaint because Gooch is still scanning documents.

c. Gooch has a trial in another case this month and can't be disturbed.

d. Gooch is away on vacation for a month.

e. Gooch hasn't been into work for a couple months because he is disabled and has debilitating health issues.

f. Gooch has to wait until he finds the right expert witness to file the complaint.

144. In November of 2017 Dulberg went to Gooch's office and voiced his concerns about the delays and was assured by Gooch the delays are not a problem because we have 2 years to file suit and if we have an issue he knows the Judge. Dulberg told Gooch to get the complaint filed ASAP. After the Judge dismissed the AMENDED COMPLAINT Gooch told Dulberg that Dulberg pressured Gooch to get the complaint filed ASAP caused the mistakes made in the complaint because he was rushed and wasn't finished with his investigation.

145. On November 28, 2017 COMPLAINT AT LAW paragraph 20 stated:

"20. Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the "high-low agreement" contained therein, and the final mediation award, DULBURG realized for the first time that the information MAST and POPOVICH had given DULBERG was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuire's was a serious and substantial mistake. Following the mediation, DULBERG was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling Legal Malpractice matters, and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016."

146. On June 7, 2018 AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW paragraphs 28 to 30 stated a different version of the same event:[1]

1 Exhibit 117_2018-06-07_FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW.pdf

"28. Following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, DULBERG realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information MAST and POPOVICH had given DULBERG was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake.

29. It was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinions that DULBERG retained for the mediation, that DULBERG became reasonably aware that MAST and POPOVICH did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000.00 on an "all or nothing" basis.

30. DULBERG was advised to seek an independent opinion from a legal malpractice attorney and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016."

147. On December 6, 2018 SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT AT LAW (prepared by Clinton and Williams) paragraphs 54 to 57 stated a third version of the same event:[1]

"54. Dulberg was only able to recovery approximately $300,000 of the award fromGagnon's insurance and was unable to collect from Gagnon personally.

55. Only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon did he discover that his claims against the McGuires were viable and valuable.

56. Following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake.

57. It was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation, that Dulberg became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000.00 on an "all or nothing" basis."

These 3 versions of the same event are summarized in TABLE 4A and TABLE 4B below.

Only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon... Following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award...in December of 2016 based on the expert's opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation.

148. In Version 1, Version 2 and Version 3 Dulberg's attorneys Gooch, Clinton and Williams all identify Dulberg's "injury" as the settlement with the McGuires for $5,000. Dulberg's attorneys Gooch, Clinton and Williams all identify Dulberg's "injury" as taking place in January, 2014.

149. Illinois law on this issue toll cannot begin until pecuniary injury is received as explained in: Suburban Real Estate Servs. v. Carlson, 2020 Ill. App. 191953 (Ill. App. Ct. 2020)

The logic that versions 1, 2 and 3 take is very simple: Gooch, Clinton and Williams:

a) Form a basic concept of Dulberg's "injury" (as the settlement with the McGuires in January, 2014).

b) Describe when Dulberg "first discovered" or "knew or should have known" of Dulberg's "injury"

c) Ignore when a pecuniary injury is received (ignore (1) Suburban Real Estate v Carlson and cited cases[1])

d) Omit and ignore that a principal is required to answer for an agent's negligent or wrongful actions.

actions later leads to Judge Berg's confusion and disconnect about when a pecuniary injury can be realized and when a statute of limitations begins in 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3 (b).

151. The column "WHEN IT HAPPENED" in Table 4B contains at least 2 entries for each Version 1, 2 and 3.[1] Opposing counsel Flynn later used the multiple claims to accuse Dulberg of "fiddling" with when he "first knew" of his "injury".

152. On July 2, 2020 Flynn filed a Supplemental Request for Production of Documents.[2]

153. On July 2, 2020, at 12:10 PM Williams sent a forwarded email to Dulberg stating:[3]

> "Opposing Counsel has tendered a supplemental request for production. Please review. A response is due by July 30, 2020. You can begin gathering responsive documents. Some of the document may be subject to attorney-client privilege. Best Regards,"

154. Most of the documents Dulberg would need to gather to answer the supplemental production request were still being suppressed by Williams and were released by Williams for the first time one week later on July 9, 2020 (hidden behind thousands of pages of previously released documents). The more than 6000 pages of documents contained all the previously suppressed emails of Balke, Saul Ferris, the letter from Saul Ferris to Dulberg among other suppressed documents.[4]

155. On July 27, 2020 at 2:24 PM Ed Clinton sent an email to Dulberg stating:

> "... Please see the attached letter. Best Regards ..."[5]

In the attached letter Clinton and Williams resigned as Dulberg's attorneys.

156. From July, 2020 (just after Clinton and Williams resigned) until November, 2021 Flynn maintained the following 3 forms of pressure on Dulberg and his new attorney:

1) Demand for detailed supplimental production responses (from the 2020-07-09 flood of over 6000 documents)

2) Demand to be given Dulberg's privileged attorney-client communications with Gooch

3) Pressure Dulberg to admit receiving in the mail a partially forged declination letter from attorney Saul Ferris. (The letter was actually addressed to Flynn's own client Popovich.

1 This results in multiple incorrect claims of when Dulberg 'first knew" of an "injury" as listed in Table 5B.

How opposing counsel maintained pressure is described in "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation", Chapter 1 and Chapter 2, Section 2B THE EXAMPLE OF SAUL FERRIS. The following paragraphs 155 to 171 further supplement the record of how the opposing counsel maintained pressure on Dulberg.

157. The following graphic shows over how many months these 3 forms of pressure were applied to Dulberg by Flynn.

The demand for detailed supplemental discovery answers (shown in red above) lasted until July 19, 2021 (about 12 months). The demand for access to Dulberg's attorney-client privileged communication (shown in blue above) lasted until July, 2021 also (about 12 months). This is when pressure for Dulberg to admit untrue statements about an alleged letter from Saul Ferris (which was actually addressed to Popovich, shown in orange above) began and lasted for 4 more months.

158. Pressure was applied to Dulberg as pro-se and to Dulberg's new attorney (since Clinton and Williams had already made secret plans to withdraw as Dulberg's counsel by late June, 2020).[1]

159. On July 29, 2020 at 1:56 PM Dulberg sent an email to Ed Clinton and Julia Williams with the subject "Need clarification on outstanding issues before your departure" stating:[2]

> "... Outstanding questions on open issues for Clinton firm before departure:
> ...
> 2. What happened with the objections raised during Dulberg's deposition when Dulberg was questioned about conversations with Dulberg's former counsel Gooch? Did you get a ruling or does that still need to be argued before judge Meyer? ..."

Williams answered:

> "... There has been no motion practice on the issue and thus, there is no ruling. Your future counsel will need to bring that before the Judge at some point. ..."[3]

Dulberg also asked:

> "... 3. Similar to the last question, Have the objections in the Mast deposition been worked out or ruled on by judge Meyer? ..."

3 Exhibit 138_Need clarification on outstanding issues before your departure.pdf (page 2)

Williams answered:

> "... There has been no motion practice on the issue and thus, there is no ruling. Your future counsel will need to bring that before the Judge at some point. ..."

160. On July 30, 2020 at 10:21 AM Williams sent an email to Dulberg stating:[1]

> "These document requests are due today. We have obtained a 28 day extension so the responses are now due August 27, 2020. We anticipate filing our motion to withdraw. Thus, you will need your new counsel to respond or prepare your own response. Best Regards"

161. On July 30, 2020 at 1:50 PM Dulberg sent an email to Williams stating:[2]

> "Thank you for getting this extended. I'm pulling from memory here because I had a Dr's appointment today and am away from my desk I just took your July 2 email and reviewed it. I didn't collect the documents because I thought I had already turned over all the gooch files and emails to you and I thought we waived privilege for Boudin and you have all of that as well. I suppose other than the last request asking for "documents" relating to a conversation between Baudin and myself when we were leaving the ADR the rest of this would be contingent on Judge Meyers decision of the objections over Gooch questioning that were raised during my deposition. I'm still not sure how I'm supposed to have documents from a verbal conversation with Baudin. I will look at all this again when I get home."

162. Clinton and Williams filed a Motion to Withdraw[3] on August 18, 2020. This left Dulberg without an attorney and with the series of incorrect and contradictory statements listed in TABLE 4A and TABLE 4B which is assumed to represent Dulberg's own statements on when he "first discovered" his "injury".

163. On August 18, 2020 at 2:13 PM Flynn sent an email to Williams stating:[4]

> "This correspondence is being forwarded pursuant to Illinois Supreme Court Rule 201(k). I just received your firm's motion to withdraw. If you could please pass along to Mr. Dulberg or his new counsel, that we must insist on the outstanding written discovery being answered by August 27, 2020 per our agreement below, it would be appreciated. I think we have been very patient with Mr. Dulberg in responding to discovery which has been directed at his assertion of the discovery rule in this case, where he is attempting to overcome a statute of limitations defense (issues which are evident from the face of the pleadings and the applicable statutes involved). The supplemental discovery we served merely clarified and more specifically identified communications and documents which were the subject of prior discovery requests, and some of which were identified at Mr. Dulberg's discovery deposition taken on February 19, 2020. Please feel free to contact me if you would like to discuss this matter."

164. On August 18, 2020 at 2:42 PM Williams sent an email to Dulberg stating:[1]

"We previously obtained an extension info time to respond to document discovery in your case—see below—to August 27. Opposing counsel is insisting on the August 27 response date. As we are withdrawing, it is likely more appropriate for your new counsel to respond to the discovery. lternatively, you could seek more time when the matter is before the Judge on Sept 10. Best Regards,"

165. On August 18, 2020 at 2:49 PM Dulberg sent an email to Williams stating:[2]

"Please remind me,

Was this the emails and communications with Gooch that they are after or something else?"

166. On August 18, 2020 at 2:56 PM Williams sent an email to Dulberg stating:[3]

"The requests are attached again here so you can see what they are seeking. Again, they were issued on July 2, 2020. We sent them to you that same day. They were originally due on July 30, 2020. We obtained an extension to August 27, 2020. Best regards,"

167. On August 18, 2020 at 3:11 PM Dulberg sent an email to Williams stating:[4]

"Thanks again for resending those requests from George Flynn. At this point I will not be meeting their deadline of August 27th until I have new council and/or the Judge rules that I must divulge communications with my attorney Gooch from the current case. I'm not an attorney but I believe its common knowledge that what George Flynn is asking for is wrong and strikes at the heart of attorney/client privilege. Kindly let Mr Flynn know he will not be receiving those answers or files until I have new counsel or the Judge rules on our objection at my deposition and orders me to turn over privileged communications."

168. On September 10, 2020 Clinton and Williams withdrew as Dulberg's counsel.[5] [6]

169. On Oct 16, 2020, at 10:38 AM, Paul Dulberg sent an email to Williams stating:[1]

> "... It looks like everything in the "Dulberg Documents to Be Produced 2020 June 25" is in the "Dulberg Docs Produced by Dulberg to OC" with the exception of "Dulberg JCW Notes re Discovery 2020 June 26.docx", which is your notes, and the "Dulberg Paul's Notes on Deposition and handwritten notes 2020 July 1" which is nothing more than a color duplicate of the black and white PDFs produced in the "Dulberg 7893-8551 .pdf"
> Is it safe for me to assume that opposing counsel has been given all documents with the exception of the privileged gooch emails? [Emphasis Added]
>
> Also, I see in the "Dulberg JCW Notes re Discovery 2020 June 26.docx" that you were worried about the waiver issue for Gooch. I don't agree, I answered those questions in the deposition under an objection and certainly didn't waive privilege.
>
> It appears the defense counsel is confused over when I should have known of an injury vs when I learned from an attorney that I had a case in an attempt to pry into privileged communications that cannot change the outcome for their stated goal of reopening the statute of limitations and deposing Gooch and myself for a second time.
> It seems to me to be simple math when calculating the statute of limitations
> 1. The malpractice happened between October 2013 and February 2014 in the underlying case
> 2. The earliest I could or should have known of the injury was December 12th, 2016 from the award in the underlying case
> 3. This case was filed on November 28, 2017
> 4. There is no conversation that could take place between myself and Gooch that could change the first two dates even in the slightest and the third date, the date we filed suit was the culmination of our work product in the current case, not the underlying case.
> One more question, Where do I find all the final answers we sent to opposing counsel for the interrogatories and supplemental interrogatories? ..."

170. On February 10, 2021 in court the following exchange took place. Note that opposing counsel Flynn uses the logic of focusing entirely on (a) while ignoring (b) throughout. Mr Talerico (Dulberg's new attorney) and and Dulberg tell both Flynn and Judge Meyer that they are ignoring (b), yet Judge Meyer doesn't recognize (b) as relevant:[2]

> MR. FLYNN: Sure. Thank you, Your Honor. Mr. Dulberg has placed his communications with his prior lawyer, Thomas Gooch, at issue in this case. Plaintiff has admitted that it filed its complaint -- I'm sorry, plaintiff has filed its complaint more than two years after my clients, his former lawyers, the Popovich firm, withdrew or were terminated from his representation. That's not at issue.

1 Exhibit 141_2020-10-16_1038 AM_SENT_PLEASE HELP WITH CASE FILE.pdf, (page 1)

He has placed the discovery rule at issue in his complaint and his amended complaints. However, he has failed to answer initial discovery, he has failed to respond -- or answer properly questions at his deposition regarding discovery of his malpractice and his understanding of damages related to the Popovich's alleged malpractice. We served supplemental discovery, which is somewhat duplicative of what was previously served, and that was on July 2nd after his deposition. He hasn't even answered it.

The response does nothing to address those issues or object to the discovery that's been propounded, so I would request that he be forced at a minimum to answer this discovery, that any objection be overruled, and essentially that the communications between Dulberg and Mr. Gooch be produced in whatever form. And to the extent that a subpoena to The Gooch Firm would be necessary at a later date, I would rather take it one step at a time and analyze whatever it is that Mr. Dulberg produce. So, in a nutshell, that's the motion.

I didn't know that we'd have to have a hearing. I thought that these would be responded to or at least objected to, but here we are.

THE COURT: Okay. Plaintiff's counsel?

MR. TALARICO: Let's see, Your Honor, (indiscernible) to start with, I think this is a two-step analysis. I hope the court sees it the same way. I think it should be looked upon as a 2-619 motion and at the same time a -- the question of whether there was a waiver of the attorney-client privilege under Rule of Evidence 502. I believe that if the 2-619 is decided -- I'm sorry. Yeah, the 2-619 motion is dismissed and decided against the defendants, then the matter -- the second step would be the waiver of attorney-client privilege which I think my client did not do under either 502(a) or 502(b).

THE COURT: When you -- are you saying that their statute of limitations motion, if I deny that, only in that instance do we get to the issue of the -- of the letter?

MR. TALARICO: No. I think what we're -- what I'm saying is that that clarifies part of the 502(a) section of the argument, what I perceive as 502(a).

THE COURT: Okay. Defense counsel?

MR. TALARICO: If I might --

THE COURT: Go ahead, plaintiff.

MR. TALARICO: -- expound a little bit. I wasn't aware that a 2-619 motion had been up. It was denied by this court, but denied with the ability to get -- to bring it again. All I've seen when I came into the case was a decision saying, you know, denied, so at that point in time I did not, let's say, approach the issues of the statute of limitations or the statute of repose. I think those two issues help clarify the 502 argument. The 502 argument is what -- what information can be gathered, and I think my responses to that would simply be 502(b) and 502(a) have been complied with.

THE COURT: Defense counsel?

MR. FLYNN: I'm a little confused, Judge. There is no pending 619 motion. That was ruled upon years ago. This is simply a motion to compel and, you know, again, looking back, I didn't attach every discovery answer that Mr. Dulberg provided because there were many and there were issues with signature pages throughout written discovery. But here, the overarching supplemental request, Exhibit E, I believe it is, that was served on July 2 has not been answered. It's not been objected to. It's untimely at this point, and, again, it's clear that the discovery of the malpractice and damages has been placed at issue. So we're entitled to explore that discovery. The testimony of Mr. Dulberg at his deposition makes it clear that the only basis to toll any statute of limitations was the December 2016 communications with Tom Gooch and if he's not going to produce those, he has no other basis to toll the statute and, as such, the case should be dismissed. We'll bring the appropriate motion. But you can't have it both ways using the privilege as a sword and a shield.

THE COURT: Plaintiff's counsel, with respect to the latter, your comment?

MR. TALARICO: I guess I'm not clear on what counsel was saying. I respectfully say that we have complied with the -- the 502(b) was inadvertent within the deposition and the attorney at the time, who was -- I think her name was Williams, Julia Williams, objected and objected on a continuing basis for any of the questions regarding that information. Counsel has not brought a motion to have this court decide whether or not that was appropriate, but he had answered under the continuing objection by Miss Williams that this was a protected attorney-client discussion. As to the 502(a), the intentional disclosure, that was, in my estimation -- and I hope the court agrees -- that was done in the pleadings, in the complaint, but it was done in the -- I wouldn't say in the alternative. I would say it's additional information.

THE COURT: What specifically are you referring to when you say it's additional nformation? What was additional information?

MR. TALARICO: The continued comments about when -- when he was aware of -- and when the statute would begin to run, the two-year statute of limitations, as to the filing of a complaint for malpractice. Within that section, I have each one numbered, but at first the comments -- the situation was when the arbitration, the binding arbitration, matter was decided, and it was decided in such a way that my client lost close to over $200,000 because the only other person that was in the lawsuit had a maximum insurance policy of $300,000. At that point in time -- And he alleged that in the complaint, in the first amended complaint, and the second amended complaint, all of which I wasn't party to, but the words are in there, the allegations are in there. I believe that's when the statute of limitations begins to run. Further --

THE COURT: He references -- he references in his complaint -- I assume we're talking about the allegations in the complaint.

MR. TALARICO: Yes.

THE COURT: And he references in the complaint learning information from the expert, if I've read this correctly. Is that a fair statement?

MR. TALARICO: That is one of the allegations, yes.

THE COURT: So why can't -- why isn't that report or communication going to be turned over?

MR. DULBERG: It is. It already is.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, it's my position that that is not relevant to the question. The question is, when did -- when did he become aware, when does the statute start running. And the answer I believe under Illinois law is it begins running when he knows of his injury, and the injury took place with the binding arbitration award; not before, not after. So I'm saying --

THE COURT: And I guess I -- you're losing me because I -- I don't understand how a binding arbitration award is going to disclose to anybody whether or not malpractice had been -- had taken place. The -- your client -- I don't know if you can see him. He keeps raising his hand. I'm ignoring him because he has an attorney. I'm going to -- I'm going to focus on you.

But whether or not there was an award for X dollars or no dollars, that doesn't tell me anything about whether -- whether he knew or should have known at that point. That just told him what those people --

MR. DULBERG: May I clarify on the record.

THE COURT: Mr. Dulberg, you have an attorney. You've elected to have your attorney speak for you.

MR. DULBERG: He's not not lead attorney (indiscernible).

THE COURT: I'm going to limit it to it. I recommend that you limit your conversation or comments to him out of fear that you may say something that could be harmful to your case.

MR. DULBERG: I understand.

THE COURT: In any event, the complaint identified something the expert said as establishing knowledge on behalf of Mr. Dulberg for the first time of the alleged malpractice. So the complaint by its very language tells me that that communication is relevant to the issue of the discovery rule. I don't have a problem with doing an in camera inspection of that particular communication, but I don't see how we avoid it being relevant.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I think in all three -- the original complaint, the first amended complaint and the second amended complaint, all three plead the injury happening with the -- I can't think of the word -- but with the binding arbitration statement. It thereafter talks about other matters and each time the drafter of that complaint, the first -- I'm sorry, the original, the first and the second, adds in different aspects which I believe are really irrelevant. I think the focus is on when the injury occurred. The injury I believe occurred when the binding arbitration award was granted and I think that's when the statute of limitations should run.

THE COURT: But he's entitled to discovery on that. If you're claiming a particular communication established knowledge for the first time, he gets to -- defense gets to see that, because you've linked it to a unique event and he gets to challenge whether that's plausible, so you don't get -- you don't get to make that decision for him.

MR. DULBERG: If I may, I'm going -- I'm going to clarify here.

THE COURT: Mr. Dulberg, you have an attorney.

MR. DULBERG: Yes, I do. And I'm going to clarify.

THE COURT: I'm not asking you to clarify.

MR. DULBERG: The event -- the event, okay, was a series of events --

THE COURT: Counsel, --

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I'm going to object to this as well.

MR. DULBERG: -- (continuing) prior to meeting Mr. Gooch.

THE COURT: I'm ignoring what's being said. Mr. Talarico, do you have a comment?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, we -- Mr. Dulberg, I believe, and our position is, the statute of limitations begins to run on the date of the arbitration -- the binding arbitration, award.

THE COURT: And you could be right, but the discovery rule involves facts and the issue becomes whether you knew or should have known. You, by the complaint you've inherited, established that knowledge came as a result of a particular event and I think it -- by virtue of that allegation, you've made the facts surrounding that event relevant to the investigation of your claim of the discovery rule, its application, that I can't separate that out. If you say that communication gave you knowledge for the first time, then the defendant gets to explore that.

MR. DULBERG: That's not what it said.

THE COURT: Your subjective interpretations aren't going to be controlling.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm not relying on that. All I'm saying is that, with all due respect, that is when he had the knowledge, that is when the statute of limitations begins to run, and that information has been part of the court file long before it became part of this matter.

THE COURT: My reading of the complaint referenced something regarding an expert report and perhaps a letter from former counsel.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, may I clarify that.

THE COURT: Go ahead. Yeah.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you. You know, the plaintiff has attempted I think to use both, a report that he received from a chainsaw -- so-called chainsaw expert, so a liability expert, relative to the underlying case. There's been some confusion with respect to his pleading and reliance on that report. However, what I clarified at his deposition is that he relied on a legal opinion to toll the statute of limitations in this case. It's that legal opinion in December of 2016 which informed him of the malpractice. Again, he wasn't very specific. I tried to question him about each and every violation of the standard of care, breach of the standard of care, and when he found out about it; and you can read the whole deposition, but his answers are evasive. They've been evasive in his original interrogatory answers. We've covered the waterfront with every possible question and interrogatory and production request we could, but it's clear that he is relying on a legal opinion. Now, he's not very specific about what that legal opinion is, and maybe there isn't anything in Gooch's records or in the emails and whatnot to and from Gooch and Dulberg, but, in any event, that's what he testified to, and so it's our position we should be entitled to those legal opinions, whatever they are.

THE COURT: I thought -- and obviously I didn't read the entire deposition. I thought there was one letter that really covered it, based on what I read. Is that a fair statement?

MR. FLYNN: I'm not sure if that's accurate, Judge. I think that -- I think he's pinpointed the time period to December of 2016, but I think he also testified that there was regular email communication between Dulberg and Gooch, you know, --

THE COURT: In any event, I am going to direct production of all those communications on which the plaintiff is basing his claim of the applicability of the discovery rule; and that's a little broader than I first intended, but given the nature of this discussion, it sounds like it's more than just a couple of documents. It might be several of them. I will also have those items produced to me for an in camera inspection so that I can determine to what extent that they are disclosing information relevant to our investigation into the discovery rule, because while I agree the defendant should be allowed to investigate that issue, that doesn't mean he gets the benefit of prior counsel's work product outside of the discovery rule issue. Does that make sense?

MR. FLYNN: So I do understand your ruling. I would just ask that it be specified also, though, to the communications with Mr. Gooch because in anticipation of how this may be produced to Your Honor, if all they produce is this chainsaw expert report, then we haven't made any progress.

THE COURT: There is definitely something from Mr. Gooch, and if I'm not given something from Mr. Gooch, that will be a red flag.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, if I might.

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. TALARICO: If I might speak.

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, my position is that the binding arbitration award document which has been part of the court file, we believe long before I was in this case, is the day that my client knew that he had an action and, before that, it was premature by Illinois law. At the time when the award was given, and the --

THE COURT: I'm not buying that. The arbitrator's award gave you insight as to the value. Where you lose me is -- Well, let me rephrase that. It gave you their insight as to what they perceived the value of the case to be. It did not tell you whether or not you could have known that there was a viable cause of action against another defendant --

MR. DULBERG: (Indiscernible) that.

THE COURT: -- because, again, it's you knew or should have known whether --

MR. TALARICO: Of the injury, --

THE COURT: -- there was another cause of action against that --

MR. TALARICO: -- a financial injury.

THE COURT: And I fail to understand how an arbitrator's award would explain that because I can't imagine -- I certainly don't -- I'm not an arbitrator, I don't know what they put in their decisions, but I would be surprised if they spend a lot of time telling you about people you could have sued but for malpractice, so the issue for me is knew or should have known, and I am going to direct production of those documents.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, my one comment?

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. TALARICO: So it's Illinois law on that matter and a very recent case talked about specifically when the statute begins to run, but I will -- It's called Suburban Real Estate Services, Inc., versus Barus -- I'm sorry, and Barus versus William Carlson. The cite --

THE COURT: But that's a different argument. That's a rule -- that's an argument related to the applicability of -- or, in my analysis, of how the rule applies to the circumstances that we have. It doesn't address the issue of whether you should have known of the existence of the cause of action, and the information I have is that you did not and could not have known about the cause of action until the disclosure from the expert or from Mr. Gooch, and if we're going to explore that issue, you've got to produce that. You've put those items into evidence or at issue, so defense has a right to see them.

MR. DULBERG: May I.

THE COURT: Anything else?

MR. DULBERG: Yeah, yeah. I'd like to comment. You're not going to let me comment?

THE COURT: Mr. Dulberg is attempting to speak. I'm not -- I'm neither listening nor inviting him to speak

MR. DULBERG: I will speak on the record.

THE COURT: So I will --

MR. DULBERG: It's not about when we knew or should have known of the cause of action.

THE COURT: Sir, --

MR. DULBERG: We certainly knew or should have known --

THE COURT: Sir, --

MR. DULBERG: -- of the injury.

THE COURT: Mr. Dulberg, do not presume to tell me what the law is. All right? You understand your place.

MR. DULBERG: Yes.

THE COURT: Do not tell me what the law is. I will make that decision. I've instructed you numerous times not to talk, and yet you feel the need to express yourself. You have an attorney. Your attorney has ably represented you, but I get to make a decision regardless of what your personal thoughts are. So we will go back to my discussion. Forgive the outburst, but I have invited him not to speak and that wasn't acceptable to him. So, in any event, how long, Mr. Talarico, do you need to produce this information?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm not absolutely sure. Whatever the court says I produce I'll produce within 28 days.

THE COURT: Okay. Twenty-eight days is fine with me. Mr. Flynn?

MR. FLYNN: Twenty-eight days is fine, Your Honor. I would also request that, in addition to the documents being produced, that the actual discovery request be responded to and any interrogatories be amended --

THE COURT: You need a privilege log certainly as to the documents, and so I'm going to direct that you be given a privilege log because they are claiming privilege as to these items. I assume there hasn't previously been one. Is that true?

MR. FLYNN: That is true.

THE COURT: All right. So you're entitled to the privilege log. As far as the other interrogatories are concerned, Mr. Talarico -- How many interrogatories do we have outstanding?

MR. FLYNN: The -- I think what we have is some interrogatories that weren't completely answered in the first place. It's probably a handful, Judge, but then there are seven or eight requests for production that simply weren't responded to. Those are the subject of this motion.

THE COURT: And are they covered by the privilege log, do you think?

MR. FLYNN: Well, I think that first we need to know whether there are responsive documents. They haven't even answered that, and then if they are withholding any and submitting them to the court, then the privilege log comes next, I guess, would be my request.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, can you provide a response in 28 days?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Your Honor. I will respond.

THE COURT: All right. And if you don't have documents, you don't have documents. Just tell him. If you're claiming a privilege, identify -- provide some sort of an identification of the document and the privilege you're claiming. With respect to the interrogatories, which ones?

MR. FLYNN: These were the interrogatories propounded by Hans Mast, my other client, and that was Exhibit D, I believe, to the motion. I did not attach his answers, but Hans Mast's interrogatories which were propounded back on March 22 of 2019 -- one, two, three -- just four interrogatories. I do believe that we have a response, but it's incomplete. It doesn't -- it doesn't identify these communications with Mr. Gooch or the legal opinion that has been alleged in the complaint and placed at issue.

THE COURT: Yeah, and I -- my concern is -- and the answer, direct answer, to those is going to require my review of the documents, so I'm going to enter and continue that part of the motion until I make a decision with respect to the documents. Is there anything else?

MR. FLYNN: I think that covers it, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. So, Mr. Flynn, I'm going to direct you to send me an order -- Do you have our email address? You can take a picture if you like.

MR. FLYNN: I believe so. Okay.

THE COURT: Okay? And the order -- we'll pick a new date in a moment. The order will provide that the plaintiff will provide you with a privilege log for those -- provide you answers to the production request as well as a privilege log with respect to any documents that are withheld, and I'm entering and continuing your motion with respect to the interrogatories. Plaintiff will provide me with the documents withheld and identified in the privilege log within 28 days and then we'll come back perhaps two weeks after that. Twenty-eight days is March 10th; two weeks after that would be around March 24th, and I can provide you with my ruling then. So how's March 24th at 1:30?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, I actually have a deposition at 1:00 o'clock that day.

THE COURT: How about the 25th? Thursday.

MR. FLYNN: 25th works. 25th at 1:00 o'clock?

THE COURT: Yeah. Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: One second, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: Fine.

THE COURT: Do we have agreement on the date or are we waiting?

MR. TALARICO: I said it was fine, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Oh, okay. I'm sorry, I missed that. So 1:30. Is there anything else we need covered in the order?

MR. FLYNN: Just may I be clear that the motion is granted in part as stated on the record.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: And I would like to just include Mr. Gooch's name in the written order, that those be included in the production if they exist.

THE COURT: Yeah, I don't -- I don't want -- What I want to -- I guess -- And thank you for bringing that up.

My impression from reading the motion was it boiled down to -- I got the idea that it was a single document or a single communication that conveyed the information at issue. And you're indicating that it was more, it was a number of emails. Are you able to put a timeframe on it?

MR. FLYNN: Well, I think, again, the allegations in the various complaints, complaint and amended complaints, and the testimony, (indiscernible) to December of 2016, so --

THE COURT: Yeah. Say the communications of December of 2016, because I don't want it read as requiring that all communications from Mr. Gooch be produced.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Mr. Talarico, any questions or comments about that?

MR. TALARICO: No, Your Honor. I'll follow the court's order.

THE COURT: All right. Anything else then?

MR. FLYNN: No, Your Honor. I will send a draft of that order to Mr. Talarico for his review and then we will send it to your email address, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll wait to see that. I'll sign it as soon as it's in. Thank you.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you.

THE COURT: See you in March.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, counsel.

THE COURT: All right. Bye.

171. On April 1st, 2021 the following exchange took place in court.[1]

MR. FLYNN: I guess the only thing going forward, we've got the objections in the deposition transcript. Does the court typically just rule on those when ruling on a summary judgment motion?

1 Exhibit 143_2021-04-01 ROP.pdf

THE COURT: No, I -- let me -- I have not had to deal with ruling on objections in a discovery deposition related to a motion for summary judgment.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: So I haven't done that before, but I do think that we have to address that and the only way to address it is to just walk through them, so perhaps if we set -- and I know this is putting it out, but I'm wondering -- and you know better -- whether any of the objections are going to become moot once you have responses to the written discovery. Is that going to fix anything?

MR. FLYNN: I think that a lot of them are already moot. I think that some of the rulings over the last month or so on these objections have probably covered those that are contained in the dep transcripts; however, I just want to make the summary judgment process as clean as possible. Maybe I can talk to Mr. Talarico and we can come up with an agreement on whether some of these objections in the dep are withdrawn, but, again, I just -- I don't want the summary judgment motion to bog down on objections in a dep transcript, so --

THE COURT: Okay. And I don't know.

MR. FLYNN: So -- Okay. I wanted to raise that issue in advance so the court's aware that that might be an issue.

THE COURT: Why don't we put the hearing at 1:30 on Monday, June 14th, and if you are unable to work out the issues on the discovery deposition, then we'll walk through the transcript. You'll need to give me a copy. And -- unless there is one in the court file already. You'll need -- and we'll walk through each one and I'll take argument at that time and --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- I'll rule then. And that may get you where you want to go, and if there are none, great. Then we don't have to deal with it. Does that --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Does that resolve your concern for today at least?

MR. FLYNN: I think so.

THE COURT: All right. So, Mr. Flynn, if you could draft the order. Mr. Talarico, is there anything you want to add?

MR. TALARICO: Well, I've read -- I wasn't present at the deposition, so I'm just trying to get my brain wrapped around it. The objections were attorney-client privilege, sir, was that --

MR. FLYNN: Many of them, yes.

MR. TALARICO: Okay. That's all.

MR. FLYNN: And, again, it goes to the discovery of the malpractice. I think that it's been placed at issue by virtue of the pleadings, so -- and, again, I think that there's been a ruling, at least in part, on some of these issues, but, --

THE COURT: In the alternative --

MR. FLYNN: -- you know, why don't we --

THE COURT: -- if you agree that some of the questions could have been answered, can you do this by way of interrogatory rather than a supplemental deposition?

MR. FLYNN: I think that for the most part Mr. Dulberg answered over the objections.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: And so the record was set there. The objections were made on the record. I think that it could probably be dealt with fairly swiftly.

172. On July 19, 2021 the following exchange took place in court.[1]

THE COURT: All right. Tell me -- we're moving on to the interrogatory.

MR. FLYNN: And again, this goes to the statute of limitations on a legal malpractice case. The plaintiff is claiming that he didn't discover it until after the 2 years --

THE COURT: Could you keep your voice up a little?

MR. FLYNN: Sure. Plaintiff is arguing for a tolling of the statute of limitations on a legal malpractice case. He was asked in Interrogatory No. 1, Identify and describe each and every way that Popovich or Mast breached any duty of care to you, the date of the breach, and when and how you became aware of the breach. His response -- his amended additional response discusses his pecuniary injury, that only addresses damages. With respect to the breach of the standard of care and how he discovered it, he simply says he knew that the defendants breached the standard of care due him based upon a verbal discussion with Attorney Tom Gooch on December 16, 2016.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: That describes the date. It doesn't describe how he became aware of it, what Gooch told him. Now, again, I know your Honor is aware of the deposition testimony in this case regarding that December 16 time period. If the answer is that Dulberg doesn't remember what Mr. Gooch told him, if Gooch said simply, You have a case, that's fine. That's what they should say. But I've already taken his deposition. There are no specifics that explain to me why Mr. Gooch crystallized this breach of the standard of care on December 16. But if this is all they have, then that's what he should say, is that I don't remember what Mr. Gooch told me.

THE COURT: I mean, he's -- I think he's complied. I'm not sure --

1 Exhibit 143_2021-07-19_ROP.pdf

MR. FLYNN: What is the breach of the standard of care?

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. FLYNN: And what is the breach of the standard of care? That's what I've asked in the interrogatory. They don't say.

THE COURT: Well, I think that -- all right. I guess that is -- my reading on it, it's implied it's a statute of limitations. But --

MR. FLYNN: No, the statute of limitations is the issue in this case.

THE COURT: All right. What is the --

MR. FLYNN: The underlying personal injury case --

THE COURT: What is the breach? Did Mr. Gooch advise him what the breach was?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, all that Mr. Dulberg recalls was relayed in the responses. There were no recordings that were going on. Nothing was done in writing. I'm not sure how I can possibly respond anymore, to give anymore.

THE COURT: I have a representation that this is all there is.

MR. FLYNN: That's satisfactory to me. As long as when I file my summary judgment motion there's not some new discovery discussion as to --

MR. TALARICO: Judge --

MR. FLYNN: -- what the breach was and what --

MR. TALARICO: I'm sorry. I hate to interrupt. Judge?

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. TALARICO: We -- again, we were -- our response, I believe is in total compliance with the Court order of June 6th and your instructions on that day from the court record. And I'd like to respond in writing to establish that we did that.

THE COURT: No. No. I mean, you're -- you only need to respond in writing if we're going to have a hearing. If you want to file a brief that -- just in the file, that's fine, but I think we have a resolution today and I don't want to spend more time reading briefs resolving an issue that's moot. So I think this is resolved. What else is outstanding?

MR. FLYNN: I think that does resolve -- the representation resolves both issues, so --

THE COURT: I have -- you have advised -- well, you've advised that's all there is, so I'm finding you in compliance.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you, your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Is there anything else we need to do?

173. Also on July 19, 2021, just after the above exchange, opposing counsel Flynn began to pressure Dulberg about a meeting Dulberg had with Saul Ferris.[1] Issues around Saul Ferris were an invention designed to further confuse the toll date of the Statute of Limitations.

Chapter 2: HOW DULBERG'S OWN COUNSEL HELPED FLYNN ACCUSE DULBERG: FLYNN'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

174. On September 16, 2022 opposing counsel Flynn filed a Motion for Summary Judgement[2] based on a combination of all the messed up arguments Gooch and Clinton and Williams and opposing counsel Flynn have been placing in the Common Law Record and the Reports of Proceedings for the previous 5+ years about how to toll the Statute of Limitations.

175. The core of Flynns argument is reproduced below. In Table 6 (which follows) individual components of Flynn's arguments are analyzed.

p 3:

> In his First Amended Complaint, Dulberg modified his "discovery" allegations and alleged "it was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinion that Dulberg became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000 on an "all or nothing" basis. Exhibit B, ¶29. In ¶30 he reiterates that "Dulberg was advised to seek an independent opinion from a legal malpractice attorney and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016." Exhibit B, ¶30.
> Dulberg's first substitute counsel in this case filed a Second Amended Complaint, further modifying the allegations. It is alleged that "after accepting a $5,000 settlement, Dulberg wrote Mast an email on January 29, 2014 stating that"I trust your judgment." Exhibit C, ¶48. He further alleges in ¶55 of Ex. C that "only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon did he discover that his claims against the McGuires were viable and valuable." Exhibit C, ¶55. He also alleges that following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information that Mast and opovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading and that the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake. Exhibit C, ¶56. He alleged that it was not until the mediation in December 2016 based on the expert's opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation that Dulberg became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000 on an "all or nothing" basis. Exhibit C, ¶57. Dulberg's allegations of Popovich' breaches of the standard of care are contained in Exhibit C, ¶58 as follows:
> > 58. Mast and Popovich, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed Dulberg by violating the standard of care owed Dulberg in the following ways and respects:
> > a) failed to fully and properly investigate the claims and/or basis for liability against

1 Exhibit 5_"Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation", Chapter 2, Section 2B

2 Exhibit 144_2022-09-16_MTD.pdf

the McGuires;

b) failed to properly obtain information through discovery regarding McGuires assets, insurance coverages, and/or ability to pay a judgement and/or settlement against them;

c) failed to accurately advise Dulberg of the McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance coverage related to the claims against them and/or Dulberg's ability to recover through McGuires' and Gagnon's insurance policies, including, but not limited to, incorrectly informing Dulberg that Gagnon's insurance policy was "only $100,000" and no insurance company would pay close to that;

d) failed to take such actions as were necessary during their respective representation of Dulberg to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires) who employed and/or were principals of Gagnon, and who sought the assistance Dulberg by for example failing to obtain an expert;

e) failed to accurately advise Dulberg regarding the McGuires' liability, likelihood of success of claims against the McGuires, the McGuires' ability pay any judgment or settlement against them through insurance or other assets, and/or necessity of prosecuting the[sic] all the claims against both the McGuires and Gagnon in order to obtain a full recovery;

f) Coerced Dulberg, verbally and though emails, into accepting a settlement with the McGuires for $5,000 by misleading Dulberg into believing that he had no other choice but to accept the settlement or else "The McGuires will get out for FREE on a motion." Dulberg has hired a personal injury attorney in 2002 and has hired a corporate lawyer in the past. (Dulberg Deposition, Exhibit E, pp.8, 9).

p 5:

Dulberg has hired a personal injury attorney in 2002 and has hired a corporate lawyer in the past. (Dulberg Deposition, Exhibit E, pp.8, 9). He was injured on June 28, 2011 while assisting David Gagnon with a chainsaw cutting up some branches after they were removed from a tree. (Exhibit E, pp.12, 13). He hired Popovich to sue Gagnon and Bill and Carolyn McGuire in connection with his June 28, 2011 injury. (Exhibit E, pp. 9, 30). Hans Mast was the primary handling attorney. (Exhibit E, p. 30). Brad Balke substituted for Dulberg on March 19, 2015 when Popovich withdrew. (Exhibit E, p. 35). Dulberg asked hundreds of lawyers to take over his case when Popovich withdrew, but none accepted. (Exhibit, E, p. 36). Dulberg fired Balke prior to the binding arbitration, and he was then represented by the Baudin Law Firm. While Brad Balke handled the case, Balke never gave him an opinion as to the liability of the McGuires and whether the prior settlement was appropriate. (Exhibit E, p. 42). At some point, Dulberg hired The Daley Disability Law Firm to assist him with a Social Security disability claim. A criminal lawyer represented him in a guilty plea for drug possession in 1990. (Exhibit E, pp.34-35) (Exhibit E, p. 43). At some point during the case, it was Hans Mast's opinion that the McGuires did not have liability because they did not control the work David Gagnon was doing. (Exhibit E, pp. 50, 51). Mr. McGuire was inside the house for 45 minutes before the accident happened. (Exhibit E, pp. 51, 52).

p 6:

The case continued against Gagnon through discovery and some of Dulberg's doctors were deposed. (Exhibit E, pp. 78, 79). Dulberg told Mast "First, I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to prove David cut me with a chainsaw." Dulberg already started looking for new lawyers in the summer of 2014. Mast thought the case against David Gagnon was difficult. (Exhibit E, p.81). Mast told Dulberg that he did not make a good witness at his deposition. (Exhibit E, p.82). Dulberg and Gagnon were the only people who witnessed the accident. (Exhibit E, p.83). TI1ere were differences between the factual testimony provided by Gagnon and Dulberg in the underlying case. (Exhibit E, p.83). His relationship with Mast was deteriorating over the fall and winter of 2015, even long before that. (Exhibit E, p.86). On February 22, 2015, Dulberg wrote in an email to Mast "Now I'm left wondering ... how hard it is to sue an attorney?" (Exhibit F). When asked what the reference to suing an attorney meant he replied:

A. That was me being angry.

Q. With Hans?

A. Yes. I was seeing red.

Q. You're suggesting that you may sue him?

A. Yeah. I didn't know that I could. I'm wondering about it.

Q. You, basically, made a threat, whether it be a veiled threat or an overt threat to sue him, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You, ultimately, sued him for legal malpractice, right?

A. Yes

On February 22, 2015, Mast wrote in an email to Dulberg "Paul, I can no longer represent you in the case. We obviously have differences of opinion as to the value of the case." (Exhibit E, p.91). Mast speculated that seven out of ten times he would lose the case outright. (Exhibit E, p.92). Dulberg filed for bankruptcy. He was ordered by the bankruptcy trustee to participate in binding mediation on December 8, 2016. (Exhibit E, p.96). Dulberg admitted that the allegation in his complaint regarding Popovich being involved with the high/low agreement in the mediation was a mistake. (Exhibit E, p.103). Dulberg testified that it was Baudin that advised him to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters. (Exhibit E, p.108). The lawyer he received the legal opinion on December 16, 2016 was Thomas Gooch, the drafter of the Complaint in this case. (Exhibit E, p.108). It was confirmed by Gooch on December 16 2016 that Dulberg had a valid case against Popovich. (Exhibit E, p.113). He did not file a lawsuit until nearly a year later because "Thomas Gooch had some health issues and that his wife had some health issues. It took a while." (Exhibit E, p.114). Dulberg agreed that the legal opinion he received on December 16, 2016 was responsive to Interrogatory No. I from Dulberg's answers to Mast's lnterrogatories. (Exhibit E, pp.125, 126). The legal opinion Dulberg received from Gooch was verbal. (Exhibit E, p.130). Gooch simply stated, "You have a case here. You have a valid case." (Exhibit E, p.130). When asked did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with your - their representation of you, Dulberg replied "He probably did. l 'm not recalling it right now. l 'm pulling a blank." (Exhibit E, p.131).

Dulberg was questioned further: "Other than you have a case, what did Gooch say to you?" Dulberg responded, "He said they definitely committed malpractice." When asked whether Gooch ever put this in writing, Dulberg replied, "I think he backed it up by filing a suit. That's documented." (Exhibit E, p.136). Dulberg was asked, "As you sit here today, other than you have a case against Popovich and Mast, what did Gooch tell you specifically that was any different than what Mast and Popovich told you with respect to the McGuires' liability? Answer: They were definitely liable. He tried to say that - like Popovich and Mast were first - or second year lawyers and that they may have made a mistake here." (Ex. E, pp.139-140).

p10:

While Popovich denies breaching any standard of care or proximately causing Dulberg any damages, assuming arguendo there was malpractice, Dulberg knew or should have known of his injury and that it was wrongfully caused when Popovich withdrew. In the alternative, Dulberg should have investigated any potential claims when he questioned the appropriateness of settling with the McGuires.

In his various pleadings, Dulberg alleged that Popovich concealed his malpractice and coerced him to settle with the McGuires, but his own testimony does not bear out any such concealment. He also attempts to plead that he did not discover the malpractice and his injury until December 12, 2016, but his anticipatory pleading is not supported by his own testimony. Under any analysis, Dulberg knew or should have known of the alleged malpractice and his injury by the time Popovich withdrew. Dulberg fails to meet his burden of proving a discovery date that would toll the limitations period.

p 13:

Dulberg has fiddled with his "discovery" allegations, going back and forth as to when and how he became aware of his malpractice claim and damages. First, he plead that he sought a legal opinion. and received that opinion on December 16, 2016. The legal opinion was supplied by the same attorney who filed his first two pleadings in this case. Then he changed his pleading and theory and attempted to rely on discovery by virtue of the report of a "chainsaw expert" he read in connection with the December 2016 mediation. However, he actually received the opinion (Exhibit I) in July 2016 but "you don't catch everything the first time you read it." (Exhibit D, p.141). Notably the report from Dr. Lanford is dated much earlier, February 27, 2016 and was addressed to Dulberg's then attorney, Randy Baudin.

p 14:

> Here defendants painstakingly attempted to seek discovery as to how Popovich allegedly breached the standard of care, and when and how Dulberg became aware of any damages. Dulberg's discovery responses and deposition testimony were repeatedly evasive. See Dulberg testimony, Exhibit D, pages 106 to 141. This behavior continued and caused the need for a motion to compel (See Group Exhibit J, Motion to Compel, Motion to Supplement Motion to Compel, and July 19, 202 l transcript from hearing).
> Moreover, Dulberg's dissatisfaction with Popovich's representation surfaced much earlier, and he even threatened in writing to sue Mast as early as February 22, 2015. Dulberg, no "babe in the woods" when it comes to experience with litigation retention, met with "hundreds" of attorneys and had opportunity after opportunity to investigate and inquire as to whether Popovich breached the standard of care and caused him any damage in connection with the case (including prosecution of the case against Gagnon and the McGuires). The many cases cited above establish the Plaintiffs duty to inquire, and here Dulberg had the tools, the information, and opportunity to inquire. His contrived late discovery of his claims and damages should not be countenanced by this court. He was clearly questioning whether he should agree to accept the McGuires' offer, and he deliberated on it extensively. Nothing prevented him from seeking a second opinion. Likewise, nothing prevented him from inquiring of Mr. Balke or the Baudin finn whether his injury was wrongfully caused. Summary Judgment must be entered as his claims are barred by the two-year statute of limitations.

According to the quotes in paragraph 167 Flynn implied that all dates listed in Table 5A below could be used to toll Dulberg's statute of limitations.

3	December 8, 2016 (after reading Lanford's findings)	2016-12-08

176. Every one of Flynn's dates (Table 5A) and reasons ignores the McGuire's Vicarious Liability for the agent's negligent actions. Flynn claims the "injury" is the McGuire settlement.

177. Dulberg's attorneys Gooch, Clinton and Williams (Table 5B) also ignores the McGuire's Vicarious Liability for it's agent's negligent actions. Gooch, Clinton and Williams claim the "injury" is also the McGuire settlement.

178. Both (Table 5A and Table 5B) omit and ignore that the Vicarious Liability aspect makes it impossible to quantify a pecuniary injury attributable to the principal before the amount is awarded for its agent's negligent actions.

179. In simple terms:

a. If the agent paid the whole award for its negligent actions then the principal wouldn't owe the plaintiff anything because the amount owed is zero and there is nothing left to quantify or realize as a pecuniary loss or injury.

b. If the agent cannot pay the whole award for its negligent actions then the principal would owe the plaintiff greater than zero and the amount can be quantified and realized as a pecuniary loss or injury.

c. If the plaintiff was found to be greater than 50% at fault then neither the agent nor its principal would owe the plaintiff and there is nothing left to quantify or realize as a pecuniary loss or injury.

In any scenario above the plaintiff's pecuniary injury attributable to a principal vicariously liable for its agent's negligent actions cannot be calculated, quantified or realized until an award is issued for the agent's negligent actions.

180. Illinois law on this issue states that toll cannot begin until pecuniary injury is received as explained in Suburban Real Estate Servs. v. Carlson, 2020 Ill. App. 191953 (Ill. App. Ct. 2020).

181. Vicarious Liability and exactly when the statute of limitations begins in 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3(b) is well founded in Illinois law.

182. In a recent opinion handed down on April 21, 2022, the Illinois Supreme Court now allows direct and vicarious liability actions against employers. If the decision (McQueen v. Green, 2022 IL 126666) was available in the years 2012-2014 then and only then could the McGuires be held directly liable separate from their agent. That may have changed when a pecuniary injury could have been realized for a principal independent of its agent and perhaps have changed when the statute of limitations begins in 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3 (b) when it pertains to Principals sued directly for their agent's negligence.

183. Dulberg could not use McQueen v. Green, 2022 IL 126666 to bring suite 'direct' against McGuire in the years 2012-2014 for the negligent actions of McGuire's agent Gagnon.

184. All entries in Table 5A and Table 5B were inventions of Flynn and Dulberg's attorneys to give false impressions of Dulberg claiming late discovery of an "injury" that occurred in January, 2014. Dulberg never used the discovery rule since according to Suburban Dulberg filed within 1 year of the final judgment in 12LA178. None of the reasons given in Table 5A and 5B are founded in Illinois law (Suburban Real Estate v Carlson and cited cases).

185. All entries in Tables 4A and 4B were inventions of Dulberg's attorneys to give the false impression of a late discovery of an "injury' while ignoring Suburban Real Estate v Carlson and McGuire's Vicarious Liability for its agent's negligent actions as the first time Dulberg could realize a pecuniary injury.

186. Dulberg's own attorneys set him up with the toll dates and reasons listed in Tables 4A, 4B and 5B which are not founded in Illinois law. Flynn gave his own toll dates and reasons (in Table 5A) which are also not founded in Illinois law.

187. The reasons given in Tables 4A, 4B, 5A and 5B ignore Suburban Real Estate v Carlson and its cited cases. Dulberg never used the discovery rule since according to Suburban. Dulberg filed within 1 year of the final judgment in 12LA178 and McGuire's Vicarious Liability for its agent's negligent actions could be quantified and realized for the first time.

188. All 5 Versions in Table 3 are inventions created by Dulberg's attorneys to conceal the true origin of the 'upper cap'. None of them are accurate. Dulberg was described as the source of all 5 versions.

189. In Table 6 below Flynn's key accusations against Dulberg in his 2022 Summary Judgment are listed in Column 1. Column 2 shows how most every Flynn's accusation made by Flynn against Dulberg in 2022 were set up and reinforced years earlier by Dulberg's own counsel (acting in collaboration with opposing counsel) to sabotage Dulberg's claims.

TABLE 6: HOW OPPOSING COUNSEL'S SUMMARY JUDGMENT ARGUMENTS IN 2022 WERE SET UP BY DULBERG'S OWN ATTORNEYS SINCE 2016

	TABLE 6 FLYNN'S ACCUSATIONS:	HOW DULBERG'S OWN COUNSEL SET UP DULBERG TO BE ACCUSED:
1	In his First Amended Complaint, Dulberg modified his "discovery" allegations and alleged "it was not until the mediation in December 2016, based on the expert's opinion that Dulberg became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000 on an "all or nothing" basis.	Accusation 1 was set up by Gooch. Gooch filed Version 1 (COMPLAINT[1]) of when Dulberg "first knew" of his "injury". About 7 months later Gooch filed Version 2 which is different than Version 1. Accusation 1 quotes Version 2 (AMENDED COMPLAINT[2]) Gooch identified his first meeting with Dulberg as the date from which the toll runs. Gooch expressed this opinion clearly at his first meeting with Dulberg and never expressed any doubt about this to Dulberg. 18 months later Gooch changed his opinion on when to toll the statute of limitations when Gooch filed Version 2. (See Table 4A and Table 4B for summary of Gooch statements)
2	Dulberg's first substitute counsel in this case filed a Second Amended Complaint, further modifying the allegations. It is alleged that "after accepting a $5,000 settlement, Dulberg wrote Mast an email on January 29, 2014 stating that "I trust your judgment."	Accusation 2 was set up by Williams and Clinton. They filed a third version (Version 3, Table 4A and Table 4B) in SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT[3].
3	Dulberg has hired a personal injury attorney in 2002 and has hired a corporate lawyer in the past.
4	He further alleges in ¶55 of Ex. C that "only after Dulberg obtained an award against Gagnon did he discover that his claims against the McGuires were viable and valuable."	Accusation 4 was set up by Gooch and reinforced by Clinton and Williams.

5	He also alleges that following the execution of the mediation agreement and the final mediation award, Dulberg realized for the first time in December of 2016 that the information that Mast and Popovich had given Dulberg was false and misleading and that the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake.	Accusation 5 was set up by Gooch and reinforced by Clinton and Williams by making an identical statement in Version 3.
6	He alleged that it was not until the mediation in December 2016 based on the expert's opinions that Dulberg retained for the mediation that Dulberg became reasonably aware that Mast and Popovich did not properly represent him by pressuring and coercing him to accept a settlement for $5,000 on an "all or nothing" basis.	Accusation 6 was set up by Gooch in AMENDED COMPLAINT[1] (Version 2 in Tables 4A and Table 4B) Accusation 6 was reinforced by Clinton and Williams in SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT[2] where they repeated the statement. (Version 3 in Table 4A and Table 4B) Flynns accusations 1 to 6 all claim that Dulberg made each statement. Neither Version 1, 2 or 3 (in Table 4A and Table 4B) are what Dulberg told his attorneys. None of the 3 versions are accurate. It was Gooch that told Dulberg Version 1 on December 16, 2016. Gooch wrote Version 1 on November 28, 2017. It was also Gooch that chose to change from Version 1 to Version 2 on June 6, 2018. In each case it was the attorney that told their client how to toll the statute. Dulberg is then accused of changing his statement. Dulberg is being made to appear "evasive". Version 1 changes to Version 2 (by Gooch) and then changes to Version 3 (by Clinton and Williams) as Dulberg is accused of "fiddling with" a "contrived" toll date and "changing his theory".

	TABLE 6 FLYNN'S ACCUSATIONS:	HOW DULBERG'S OWN COUNSEL SET UP DULBERG TO BE ACCUSED:
7	Dulberg asked hundreds of lawyers to take over his case when Popovich withdrew, but none accepted.	Accusation 7 was set up by Popovich and Mast. "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation" (Exhibit 1) gives detailed descriptions and evidence of Popovich and Mast forging and manipulating many documents, destroying evidence, leading witnesses to commit perjury, suppressing admissions of negligence and fault from ones own client.
8	Brad Balke substituted for Dulberg on March 19, 2015 when Popovich withdrew. While Brad Balke handled the case, Balke never gave him an opinion as to the liability of the McGuires and whether the prior settlement was appropriate.	Accusation 8 was set up by Williams and Clinton. They suppressed around 40 email documents between Balke and Dulberg.[1] The emails included Balke waiting for a package of documents seemingly in the possession of attorney Saul Ferris for about 2 months.[2] [3] Flynn also attempted to accuse Dulberg of receiving a letter by mail at Dulberg's home.[4] The letter was actually in the possession of his client Popovich for about 2 months and had the address of Popovich at the top of the letter.
9	Dulberg wrote in an email to Mast "Now I'm left wondering ... how hard it is to sue an attorney?"	Accusation 9 was set up by Popovich and Mast. was set up by Popovich and Mast. "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation" (Exhibit 1) gives detailed descriptions and evidence of Popovich and Mast forging and manipulating many documents, destroying evidence, leading witnesses to commit perjury, suppressing admissions of negligence and fault from ones own client. With this concealed from Dulberg, Flynn claimed the 2 year toll begins to run when Dulberg states dissatisfaction with how he was treated or makes negative comments about Popovich or Mast. Accusation 9 was reinforced by Clinton and Williams who suppressed email documents around the quote and the event.[5]

	TABLE 6 FLYNN'S ACCUSATIONS:	HOW DULBERG'S OWN COUNSEL SET UP DULBERG TO BE ACCUSED:
10	Dulberg told Mast "First, I'm sorry that I'm not a better witness to prove David cut me with a chainsaw."	Accusation 10 was set up by Popovich and Mast. See answer to accusation #7 and #9 (column 2). Accusation 10 was reinforced by Clinton and Williams when they suppressed email documents around the quote and the event.[1]
11	Dulberg admitted that the allegation in his complaint regarding Popovich being involved with the high/low agreement in the mediation was a mistake.	Accusation 11 was set up by Gooch. He created 3 different versions of how the 'upper cap' of $300,000 was placed on the value of PI case 12LA178 (Table 3, Versions 1, 2 and 3). None of the versions were true. Gooch also suppressed all information about Dulberg's bankruptcy from court records as explained in "TEAM-WORK" Example 3 Accusation 11 was reinforced by Clinton and Williams when they created 2 more (untrue) versions of how the 'upper cap' was placed on the value of PI case 12LA178 (Table 3, versions 4 and 5). Clinton and Williams also suppressed information which would connect a "high/low" agreement with bankruptcy.[2] Dulberg's counsel is on record stating (at least) 5 different versions of the source of the 'upper cap placed on the value of PI case 12LA178 (see Table 3). Dulberg is assumed to be the source of all 5 versions. None of the 5 versions are accurate. Dulberg never told his attorneys any of the 5 versions. The true source of the 'upper cap' was available in 17LA377 Reports of Proceedings 2016-06-13 to 2016-08-10. All 5 versions in Table 3 were intentionally invented by Dulberg's own counsel to leave Dulberg vulnerable to accusation 11. The true origin of the "high-low agreement" is shown in "TEAM-WORK" EXAMPLE 4.
12	Dulberg testified that it was Baudin that advised him to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters.	Dulberg asked Baudin if he wanted to pursue Popovich and Mast. Baudin answered, "I can't I have to work here and we do business with Popovich."[paraphrasing] Baudin recommended Gooch as a legal malpratice attorney on 2016-12-12.

	TABLE 6 FLYNN'S ACCUSATIONS:	HOW DULBERG'S OWN COUNSEL SET UP DULBERG TO BE ACCUSED:
13	The lawyer he received the legal opinion on December 16, 20l6 was Thomas Gooch, the drafter of the Complaint in this case. (Exhibit E, p. 108). It was confirmed by Gooch on December 16 2016 that Dulberg had a valid case against Popovich.	Accusation 13 was set up by Gooch. On December 16, 2016 Gooch told Dulberg that Gooch is considered an "expert" in legal malpractice and since Gooch as "expert" informed Dulberg he has a valid case on December 16, 2016 (at their first meeting), Gooch told Dulberg the Statute of Limitations starts from the day of Dulberg's first meeting with Gooch. Gooch wrote the same in the COMPLAINT[1]. Gooch must have known that this is not how the statute of limitations starts in Dulberg's case. Gooch then changed his opinion about 18 months later and filed Version 2 in AMENDED COMPLAINT[2]. Defendant's Popovich and Mast then claim Dulberg is responsible for making all the statements.
14	He did not file a lawsuit until nearly a year later because "Thomas Gooch had some health issues and that his wife had some health issues. It took a while."	Accusation 14 was set up by Gooch. Gooch sent a letter to Popovich in December 16, 2016 claiming he intended to file suit within 7 days.[3] Gooch did not even scan Dulberg's documents at his office for about 6 months[4] and did not file a complaint for about 11 months. Gooch used excuses such as health issues and needing to contact an expert witness. Gooch filed about 330 days from the time he claimed he would file within 7 days. Dulberg was set up by Gooch to be left vulnerable to accusation 14.

	TABLE 6 FLYNN'S ACCUSATIONS:	HOW DULBERG'S OWN COUNSEL SET UP DULBERG TO BE ACCUSED:
15	Dulberg alleged that Popovich concealed his malpractice and coerced him to settle with the McGuires, but his own testimony does not bear out any such concealment	Accusation 15 was set up by Popovich and Mast. "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation" (Exhibit 1) gives detailed descriptions and evidence of Popovich and Mast forging and manipulating many documents, destroying evidence, leading witnesses to commit perjury, suppressing Defendant's admissions of negligence and fault from ones own client. Accusation 15 was reinforced by Gooch, Clinton and Williams when they successfully suppressed the certified slip ruling of Tilschner v Spangler that Mast gave to Dulberg for over 6 years.[1] [2]
16	He also attempts to plead that he did not discover the malpractice and his injury until December 12, 2016, but his anticipatory pleading is not supported by his own testimony.	Accusation 16 was set up by Gooch, Clinton and Williams. They created 3 incorrect versions of how Dulberg "first knew" of the "injury" (in Tables 4A and 4B). Each of the 3 versions inexplicably gives multiple times when Dulberg "first knew" of his "injury". Table 5B lists 3 different toll dates which Dulberg's own attorneys claimed and attributed to Dulberg.
17	Dulberg agreed that the legal opinion he received on December 16, 2016 was responsive to Interrogatory No. 1 from Dulberg's answers to Mast's lnterrogatories.	Accusation 17 was set up by Gooch. Gooch told Dulberg this with conviction at their first meeting and Dulberg simply repeated what Gooch told Dulberg at their first meeting. Gooch changed his own claim 18 months later and wrote it in AMENDED COMPLAINT[3].
18	Dulberg has fiddled with his "discovery" allegations, going back and forth as to when and how he became aware of his malpractice claim and damages.	Accusation 18 was set up by Gooch, Clinton and Williams. 3 different versions (each with multiple toll dates listed) were designed to produce the appearance of Dulberg "fiddling with" and "contriving" a "late toll date". (Table 4A and Table 4B)

	TABLE 6 FLYNN'S ACCUSATIONS:	HOW DULBERG'S OWN COUNSEL SET UP DULBERG TO BE ACCUSED:
19	First, he plead that he sought a legal opinion. and received that opinion on December 16, 2016. The legal opinion was supplied by the same attorney who filed his first two pleadings in this case.	Accusation 19 was set up by Gooch. This is what Gooch told Dulberg during their first meeting. This is what Gooch claimed to Dulberg and what Gooch wrote in the COMPLAINT[1].
20	Then he changed his pleading and theory and attempted to rely on discovery by virtue of the report of a "chainsaw expert" he read in connection with the December 2016 mediation.	Accusation 20 was set up by Gooch on June 13, 2018 (Version 2, Tables 4A and 4B). Gooch created Version 1 on November 28, 2017. Gooch created Version 2 on June 7, 2018. Flynn accuses: "Then he changed his pleading and theory..". Gooch, an experienced legal malpractice attorney, first claimed with confidence the toll of the statute of limitations begins when Dulberg first met Gooch. Gooch created Version 1 without telling Dulberg. Gooch then created Version 2 without telling Dulberg. Gooch waited 11 months to file a complaint and 18 months after Gooch first met Dulberg Gooch changed his mind on when the toll begins. Accusation 20 can then claim Dulberg "changed his pleading and theory".
21	he actually received the opinion (Exhibit I) in July 2016 but "you don't catch everything the first time you read it." Notably the report from Dr. Lanford is dated much earlier, February 27, 2016 and was addressed to Dulberg's then attorney, Randy Baudin.	Accusation 21 was set up by Gooch. Gooch told Dulberg at their first meeting that the statute tolls from when Dulberg first talked to Gooch since Gooch is considered an 'expert'. In Version 1 (Table 4A and 4B) Gooch claimed the "independent opinion" came from Gooch. In Version 2 Gooch claimed that the "Expert opinion" came from Lanford. (Table 4A and 4B). Once Gooch changed Version 1 into Version 2, the further confusion allowed Flynn to make accusation 21 and 22 in an attempt to move the toll date yet again. Each of these "changes of pleadings" is then blamed on Dulberg.

	TABLE 6 FLYNN'S ACCUSATIONS:	HOW DULBERG'S OWN COUNSEL SET UP DULBERG TO BE ACCUSED:
22	Here defendants painstakingly attempted to seek discovery as to how Popovich allegedly breached the standard of care, and when and how Dulberg became aware of any damages. Dulberg's discovery responses and deposition testimony were repeatedly evasive. See Dulberg testimony, Exhibit D, pages 106 to 141. This behavior continued and caused the need for a motion to compel (See Group Exhibit J, Motion to Compel, Motion to Supplement Motion to Compel, and July 19, 2021 transcript from hearing).	Acccusation 22 was set up by Gooch when Gooch changed from Version 1 to Version 2 (in Tables 4A and 4B) and reinforced by Clinton and Williams when they wrote Version 3. Clinton and Williams intentionally 'flooded' their permanently disabled client (Dulberg) with over 6000 documents[1] (concealing many documents they suppressed up to that time just before they withdrew as counsel). Dulberg was left with no attorney. Defendants Popovich and Mast then claim Dulberg was "evasive" of supplimental interrogatories issued one week before Dulberg's counsel released over 6000 documents and withdrew as counsel.
23	Moreover, Dulberg's dissatisfaction with Popovich's representation surfaced much earlier, and he even threatened in writing to sue Mast as early as February 22, 2015.	Accusation 23 was set up by Popovich and Mast. "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation" (Exhibit 1) gives detailed descriptions and evidence of Popovich and Mast forging and manipulating many documents, destroying evidence, leading witnesses to commit perjury, suppressing Defendant's admissions of negligence and fault from ones own client.

1 See "TEAM-WORK" Example 5 and Exhibit 5_"Evidence of Fraud on the Court During Clinton-Williams Representation", Chapter 1 starting paragraph 35 and Chapter 2, Section 2E

	TABLE 6 FLYNN'S ACCUSATIONS:	HOW DULBERG'S OWN COUNSEL SET UP DULBERG TO BE ACCUSED:
24	Dulberg, no "babe in the woods" when it comes to experience with litigation retention, had opportunity after opportunity to investigate and inquire as to whether Popovich breached the standard of care and caused him any damage in connection with the case (including prosecution of the case against Gagnon and the McGuires).	Accusation 24 was set up through the "team-work" of Popovich, Mast, Gooch, Clinton and Williams. All 3 Law Firms targeted their permanently disabled client from basically the first time they met and stripped Dulberg of key evidence he needed to defend himself.[1] [2] [3] Popovich and Mast then claimed Dulberg had experience and knowledge in litigation and access to attorneys.
25	The many cases cited above establish the Plaintiffs duty to inquire, and here Dulberg had the tools, the information, and opportunity to inquire.	Accusation 25 was set up through the 'team-work' of Popovich, Mast, Gooch, Clinton and Williams. This document, in addition to "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation" (Exhibit 1) and "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation" (Exhibit 5) demonstrates that Dulberg's own attorneys systematically stripped Dulberg of the tools, the information and opportunity to inquire into their fraudulant actions. Defendants Popovich and Mast then claim Dulberg had "duty to inquire, and here Dulberg had the tools, the information, and opportunity to inquire. "

	TABLE 6 FLYNN'S ACCUSATIONS:	HOW DULBERG'S OWN COUNSEL SET UP DULBERG TO BE ACCUSED:
26	His contrived late discovery of his claims and damages should not be countenanced by this court.	Accusation 26 of Dulberg "contriving" a "late discovery" was set up by Gooch at his first meeting with Dulberg on December 16, 2016. Accusation 26 was reinforced by Gooch on November 28, 2017 (Version 1, Tables 4A and 4B). Accusation 26 was reinforced again by Gooch on June 7, 2018 (Version 2, Tables 4A and 4B). Accusation 26 was further reinforced by Williams and Clinton on December 6, 2018 (Version 3, Tables 4A and 4B).
27	He was clearly questioning whether he should agree to accept the McGuires' offer, and he deliberated on it extensively.	Accusation 27 was set up by suppressing 2 key documents: (1) Walgreens RX receipts with timestamps[1] and (2) certified slip ruling of Tilschner v Spangler[2]. Accusation 27 was set up by Popovich and Mast. "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation" (Exhibit 1) gives detailed descriptions and evidence of Popovich and Mast forging and manipulating many documents, destroying evidence, leading witnesses to commit perjury, suppressing Defendant's admissions of negligence and fault from ones own client. Accusation 27 was then reinforced by Gooch and Clinton and Williams by suppressing key evidence[3] of a certified slip ruling of Tilschner v Spangler which Mast gave to Dulberg as justification for why the McGuires were not liable for Dulberg's injury.[4]

	TABLE 6 FLYNN'S ACCUSATIONS:	HOW DULBERG'S OWN COUNSEL SET UP DULBERG TO BE ACCUSED:
28	Nothing prevented him from seeking a second opinion.	Accusation 28 was set up by Popovich and Mast. "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During popovich-Mast Representation" (Exhibit 1) gives detailed descriptions and evidence of Popovich and Mast forging and manipulating many documents, destroying evidence, leading witnesses to commit perjury, suppressing Defendant's admissions of negligence and fault from ones own client. a) Dulberg's key evidence[1] (Walgreens RX receipts with timestamps) was being actively suppressed by Popovich and Mast. b) Mast released an extremely disorganized version of the case file on March 23 or 24, 2015.[2] c) Mast and Popovich kept a packet of depositions in their office that Dulberg needed for about 2 months without Dulberg being aware of it.[3] All these acts are concealed from Dulberg so Defendants Popovich and Mast can later claim "Nothing prevented him from seeking a second opinion."
29	nothing prevented him from inquiring of Mr. Balke or the Baudin firm whether his injury was wrongfully caused.	Accusation 29 was set up by Clinton and Williams. They suppressed around 40 email documents between Dulberg and Balke.[4] The suppression of Dulberg's actual exchanges with Balke is concealed so Defendants Popovich and Mast can later claim "nothing prevented him from inquiring of Mr. Balke".

190. Table 6 shows there is a direct one-on-one relation between Flynn's accusations in the 2022 MSJ and how Dulberg's own attorneys intentionally left Dulberg vulnerable to Flynn's accusations. In fact, most every accusation Flynn made against Dulberg in his Summary Judgment (on left) can be shown to have been originally set up by Dulberg's own attorneys (on right):

*Gooch was setting Dulberg up to be accused by Flynn of items in Column 1, Table 6 from the first time they met.

1 Exhibit 1_ "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation", starting paragraph 1-95

2 Exhibit 1_ "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation", starting paragraph 1-254

3 Exhibit 1_ "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation", starting paragraph 1-240

4 Exhibit 5_ "Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation", Chapter 1, Chapter 2, Section 2D

*Dulberg was set up by Clinton and Williams within days of their first meeting[1].

*Dulberg was set up by Popovich and Mast within days of their first meeting.[2]

All 3 Law Firms targeted their own permanently disabled client basically from the moment Dulberg first met them. The Baudins and Balke also targeted Dulberg from about their first meeting.

191. On February 1, 2023, Judge Berg, in his first day as Judge in the case, granted[3] the opposing counsel's arguments in support of an Motion for Summary Judgment based on statute of limitation arguments Flynn gave. Judge Berg tolled the statute of limitations this way:

> Dulberg's 'injury" was the settlement with the McGuires (receiving $5,000)
> The settlement with the McGuires took place in January, 2014
> Dulberg "knew or should have known" of his "injury" since January, 2014 (because it was public information).
> Dulberg may have experienced another "injury" on December 12, 2016 due to an 'upper cap' limit that was placed on the value of PI case12LA178 but that injury happened way after Popovich and Mast were "out of Dodge".

192. On February 1, 2023 Flynn made the following claims against Dulberg in court.

> So Mr. Gooch met with him. Allegedly provided an opinion that there was a case without any reason and then almost a year later filed a lawsuit. Again, first Mr. Dulberg raised privilege when I asked him how -- how and what -- how you became aware of this legal malpractice case, the injury and the wrongful causation, he claimed privilege. Finally, that was waived or otherwise disposed of, and then, he admitted he couldn't -- I said the legal opinion Dulberg received from Gooch was verbal. Gooch simply stated you have a case here. You have a valid case. When asked did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with the representation, Dulberg said he probably did. I'm not recalling it right now. I'm pulling a blank. There are no specifics.

193. Gooch misled Dulberg into believing a false claim that the toll starts on December 16, 2016 because Dulberg met with Gooch and Gooch is an expert in such matters.:The quote in paragraph 184 by opposing counsel Flynn shows how a permanently disabled client was set up through collaboration between opposing attorneys and was intentionally misinformed by his own attorney from the first meeting. Gooch was playing with his permanently disabled client by setting Dulberg up in December, 2016 so that Flynn could make the above accusations against Dulberg on February, 2023.

194. As Flynn implied in the quote (long after Gooch resigned, was fired or changed his claim) Dulberg is left hanging as if it was Dulberg's idea that the toll starts when he met Gooch

1 Exhibit 5_"Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 17LA377 During Clinton-Williams Representation", Chapter 1
2 Exhibit 1_"Evidence of Fraud on the Court in 12LA178 During Popovich-Mast Representation", Chapter 1
3 Exhibit 145_2023-02-01_ROP dismissal of case.pdf

for the first time. Then Dulberg is pressed, "why does the toll start when you first met Gooch?" "What happened during the first meeting to toll the statute? Gooch must have known from his first meeting with Dulberg that Gooch was setting Dulberg up to later be accused like Flynn does in paragraph 184.

195. Flynn again used the way Gooch set up Dulberg to make the following claim:[1]

> Mr. Dulberg had every opportunity in discovery through interrogatories, production requests, I took his deposition. I asked him over and over again in several different ways how he first became aware of his injury and that it was wrongfully caused. The only response he could give was that a lawyer told him that he had a case. He couldn't provide any specifics. He has a burden of proving the -- a late discovery. He cannot meet it. He will never be able to meet it.

196. The only notions of an "injury" Dulberg received from Gooch, Clinton and Williams is included in Tables 4A and 4B. The only notions by Gooch, Clinton and Williams of how Dulberg "first discovered" his "injury" and when are in Tables 4A, 4B and Table 5B. The only reason both Gooch and Clinton and Williams gave for tolling from December 8, 2016 is because Dulberg "read Lanford's letter". At no time over 6 years did Gooch, Clinton or Williams claim, write or inform Dulberg that December 12, 2016 tolls Dulberg's financial injury. Gooch, Clinton and Williams all omit or ignore that McGuire's Vicarious Liability for its agent's negligent actions could be quantified and realized for the first time on December 12, 2016 as a financial or pecuniary injury for when the statute of limitations begins in 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3 (b).

197. Over a period of 6 years Gooch, Clinton and Williams never referred to pecuniary injury as cited in Suburban Real Estate v Carlson or the related cases[2] cited within and they all omited or ignored that McGuire's Vicarious Liability for its agent's negligent actions could be quantified and realized for the first time on December 12, 2016 as a pecuniary injury. Neither Judge Meyer nor Judge Berg could see any relevance in Suburban Real Estate v Carlson or the notion of receiving a 'financial injury' on December 12, 2016. Judge Meyer "didn't buy" the claim. Judge Berg found no relevance in the claim of a 'financial injury' that was received on December 12, 2016.

198. On Suburban Real Estate v Carlson opposing counsel Flynn also found no relevance and stated:

> The only case cited by the plaintiff in its response with respect to the accrual of the injury was a Suburban Real Estate case which is a transactional legal malpractice case, not a litigated matter. I think the -- all of the cases we have cited and including the dicta in that Suburban Real Estate case indicates that the accrual date in a litigated matter is the date of settlement, judgment or dismissal.

The above quote is the only comment opposing counsel Flynn made concerning a claim of 'financial injury' on December 12, 2016 over a period of about 6 years.

199. About the 'upper cap' Judge Berg stated:

> So how is his change in strategy somehow extend -- so in other words, what you're saying -- well, I'm trying to wrap my head around this. You are saying that that agreement your client never wished to enter into, he didn't sign, Popovich didn't sign, Mr. Mast didn't sign. His actual third attorney signed it, Mr. Baudin, not even Mr. Balke. But because that was somehow signed and in effect, then the cause of action against Mast and Popovich for legal malpractice is extended out to the date of the final mediation hearing because of an agreement and limitation on damages at the mediation hearing over which they had zero control?

Judge Berg referred to "a change of strategy" as if Dulberg changed his story to try to make Popovich and Mast responsible for the effect of an 'upper cap' that took place on August 10, 2016 in 12LA178 in violation of the bankruptcy courts automatic stay and was executed on December 8, 2016.

> Mr. Talarico, and please correct me if I'm wrong because this is where I'm getting the disconnect, the but-for portion of this analysis but for the high-low agreement limiting damages to the policy amount of $300,000, he would have had a judgment for the entire $660,000 if Tom Popovich and Hans Mast had never even existed What I'm asking is isn't the failure to recover the $660,000 as opposed to 300,000 attributable to the high-low agreement that was entered into well over a year or if not two or more years after Popovich and Mast were out of the case? But again, counsel -- but again, my point being I don't really care if he signed it or didn't sign it. My point being that it is that agreement that limited his damages, and that agreement was entered into way after Popovich and Mast withdrew from this case, right?

Judge Berg claimed that the 'upper cap' is Dulberg's "injury". Judge Berg doesn't know how the 'upper cap' came into being, doesn't care and doesn't care if Dulberg signed the agreement. The simple point according to Judge Berg is that it has nothing to do with Popovich and Mast so none of it matters in this case.

200. According to Judge Berg, a financial transaction that took place in December 12, 2018 cannot be connected to Popovich and Mast, who ended their contract with Dulberg in March 2015 and are accused of "injuring" Dulberg during a settlement in January. 2014. Judge Berg cannot "wrap his mind around" Mr Talerico citing Suburban Real Estate v Carlson since (to Judge Berg) the claim seems so outrageous and quite a stretch. This is also what Judge Meyer "won't buy". Judge Berg also perceived this claim as Dulberg making a "change in strategy" implying Dulberg earlier had a "different strategy" ("injury" being settlement with the McGuires in January, 2014) and then made a "change in strategy" ("injury being capped award on December 12, 2016). This is the impression that Versions 1, 2 and 3 in Table 4A and 4B and Versions 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 in Table 3 crafted by Gooch, Clinton and Williams were intended to create: That Dulberg somehow changed his claim and legal strategy since first filing his suit. Judge Berg, just like Defendants Popovich and Mast, are accusing Dulberg of changing his legal theory well after he filed his complaint.

201. According to Judge Berg, Dulberg was "injured" by an 'upper cap' on a settlement judgment on December 12, 2016. Popovich and Mast never signed an 'upper cap' so they have no relation to the 'upper cap' as Dulberg's "injury". Dulberg's only other "injury" was during the McGuire settlement in January, 2014 which is now subject to the statute of limitations.

202. On how and when Dulberg "knew or should have known" about his "injury" Judge Berg stated:

> He was clearly alerted. Let's cut to the chase. He was hesitant -- he was hesitant to ever even sign the settlement agreement to the point where it took him over two months to do it. He clearly had his doubts. He clearly had his lack of faith. He signed the settlement agreement anyway. A year later, the attorneys withdrew. He went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Went to another attorney, still raised the issue.
> Met with hundreds of attorneys. He was clearly alerted. When did the pecuniary loss occur? Here is the amazing part, and this is what -- where the disconnect comes on this case and it's why I'm having so much trouble with it, I'm being urged that the pecuniary loss occurred when the decision was given on the binding mediation. But the reason I believe that's a disconnect is because -- for two reasons. The loss that occurred on the binding mediation that is being urged upon the Court is a loss of what appears to be $360,000. The difference between the $660,000 that the mediator indicated the -- were the appropriate measure of damages against Mr. Gagnon and the $300,000 insurance policy limit, that $360,000 difference and the amount that was awarded and the amount that the mediator claimed should have been awarded is based on an agreement that somebody entered into. We don't know who that somebody was, but we know for a fact that that somebody was not Hans Mast or the Law Offices of Tom Popovich because the agreement occurred well after they were out of Dodge
> But didn't the pecuniary loss itself, in fact, occur if there was a cause of action to which you were alerted? The pecuniary loss occurred when he only got $5,000. I agree with defense counsel. Statute of limitations lapsed. Merely denying the statute of limitation without more in the depositions and the sworn testimony does not itself create an issue of material fact.

203. Judge Berg identified Dulberg's "injury" with a "pecuniary loss" that occurred when Dulberg received $5,000 from the McGuires. Judge Berg identified a different "injury" to Dulberg on December 12, 2016 which Judge Berg identifed as the 'upper cap' placed on the award.

204. Judge Berg knew nothing about where the cap came from or why. Judge Berg didn't know if the 'upper cap' was legal or illegal or whether it was fraudulent. Judge Berg didn't care because the "injury" of the 'upper cap' "occurred well after they [Popovich and Mast] were out of Dodge".

205. About the true origin of the 'upper cap' Judge Berg stated: "that $360,000 difference and the amount that was awarded and the amount that the mediator claimed should have been awarded is based on an agreement that somebody entered into. We don't know who that somebody was, but we know for a fact that that somebody was not Hans Mast or the Law Offices of Tom Popovich because the agreement occurred well after they were out of Dodge"

206. By this statement Judge Berg implied that Popovich and Mast were so distant from the 'upper cap' that they couldn't have anything to do with an "injury" that happened on December 12, 2016 through an 'upper cap'. Nobody seems to know where the 'upper cap' came from and Dulberg claimed he refused to agree and refused to sign any agreement. But in this case none of it matters because any limit from an 'upper cap' cannot be connected to Popovich and Mast since the "agreement occurred well after they were out of Dodge".

207. Dulberg's current attorney Mr Talerico is on the record since February 10, 2021 (Mr Talerico was retained on October 23, 2020) explaining the application of Suburban Real Estate v Carlson to Dulberg's case in order to claim that the statute is counted from December 12, 2016. Mr Talerico explained that Suburban Real Estate v Carlson makes clear that if Dulberg filed a legal malpractice suit against Popovich and Mast at any time before December 12, 2016 his filing would have been ruled premature. Mr Talerico explained Illinois law is clear that the first day that Dulberg had standing to file a legal malpractice suit against Popovich and Mast was December 12, 2016 and not one day sooner.

208. This notion of a "financial injury" on December 12, 2016 consistent with Illinois law in Suburban Real Estate v Carlson was never explained to Dulberg by Gooch, Clinton, or Williams, not even as a suggestion or possibility. Opposing counsel Flynn found no relevance in Suburban Real Estate v Carlson. It was not used or referenced in any of the 14 items in Table 5A and 5B. There is no notion of financial injury or application of Illinois law Suburban Real Estate v Carlson in any of the versions in Table 4A nd 4B. Neither Judge Meyer or Judge Berg saw any relevance in Suburban Real Estate v Carlson and did not recognize any notion of a 'financial injury' occurring on December 12, 2016 consistent with Suburban Real Estate v Carlson in Dulberg's case. The views of each of these officers of the court are summarized in Table 7 below:

TABLE 7: 12LA178 OFFICERS OF THE COURT APPLYING CURRENT ILLINOIS LAW AND DULBERG'S CASE

TABLE 7: Judge Meyer Describing the Relation between Suburban Real Estate v Carlson and Dulberg's case:
I'm not buying that. The arbitrator's award gave you insight as to the value. Where you lose me is -- Well, let me rephrase that. It gave you their insight as to what they perceived the value of the case to be. It did not tell you whether or not you could have known that there was a viable cause of action against another defendant --
I fail to understand how an arbitrator's award would explain that because I can't imagine -- I certainly don't -- I'm not an arbitrator, I don't know what they put in their decisions, but I would be surprised if they spend a lot of time telling you about people you could have sued but for malpractice, so the issue for me is knew or should have known, and I am going to direct production of those documents.

TABLE 7: Judge Meyer Describing the Relation between Suburban Real Estate v Carlson and Dulberg's case:
But that's a different argument. That's a rule -- that's an argument related to the applicability of -- or, in my analysis, of how the rule applies to the circumstances that we have. It doesn't address the issue of whether you should have known of the existence of the cause of action, and the information I have is that you did not and could not have known about the cause of action until the disclosure from the expert or from Mr. Gooch, and if we're going to explore that issue, you've got to produce that. You've put those items into evidence or at issue, so defense has a right to see them.

TABLE 7: Judge Berg describing the relation of Suburban Real Estate v Carlson to Dulberg's case:
He was clearly alerted. Let's cut to the chase. He was hesitant -- he was hesitant to ever even sign the settlement agreement to the point where it took him over two months to do it. 209. The arguments in Suburban Real Estate Servs. v. Carlson, 2020 Ill. App. 191953 (Ill. App. Ct. 2020) reference 5 other key cases:

Successful Appellant Suburban Real Estate relied on Lucey[1] and Warnock[2] (and Northern Illinois Emergency Physicians[3])

Unsuccessful Appellee Carlson relied on FagelHaber[4] and Nelson[5] (and Goran[6])

210. None of the statements in Table 7 made by Judge Meyer, Judge Berg, Defendants Popovich and Mast, Dulberg's former attorneys Gooch, Clinton and Williams reference or are based on any of the case law cited in paragraph 201 (which is current Illinois law applicable to Dulberg's case).

211. None of the statements made in Table 3 are accurate though Dulberg's attorneys entered them into the record on behalf of Dulberg. None of the entries in Table 4A and Table 4B are in accordance with Illinois law cited in paragraph 201. None of the entries of Table 5A or Table 5B are in accordance with Illinois law cited in paragraph 201.

212. Even if taking Flynn's dates of discovering the pecuniary injury as true, Popovich and Mast's fraudlent concealment of the initial offer to Barch/McGuire on October 22, 2013 (which remained concealed until May 30, 2018) is a legitimate legal justification for Dulberg to toll the statute of limitations.

SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION SUBMITTED TO THE ARDC OF DULBERG'S EFFORTS TO NOTIFY THE ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT (THROUGH THE ARDC) AND PRESIDING JUDGES OF THE CLINTON-GOOCH-POPOVICH NETWORK OF FRAUD ON THE COURT SINCE FIRST DISCOVERING IT (IN OCTOBER, 2022)

Group Exhibit 49 contains the timeline of Dulberg's first discovery of Clinton-Gooch-Popovich fraud on court and of Dulberg's efforts over more than 1 year to notify presiding Judges and the Illinois Supreme Court (through the ARDC) of fraud on the court. Visual Aid 24 helps see how the timeline shows Dulberg's efforts over more than 1 year to notify the Illinois Supreme Court (through the ARDC) after first discovering the fraud.

The timeline provides detailed evidence of the following:

- Dulberg first discovered that Clinton and Williams suppressed large numbers of documents to benefit the opposing party between October 22 and October 28, 2022.
- Thomas Kost required about 90 pages of handwritten notes and around-the-clock effort over 6 days to "reverse engineer" and map the sophisticated system of document and information suppression that Clinton and Williams used against Dulberg.
- About one week later on November 4, 2022 Clinton and Williams appeared in court in 17LA377 to address a subpoena they were issued.
- On November 9, 2022 Dulberg sent a folder of documents called document_suppression_smoking_gun to Alphonse Talerico. The folder contained a detailed description of how documents were suppressed.
- The suppressed documents favor the defendants. Clinton-Williams were collaborating with opposing counsel to sabotage Dulberg's case (which is why the author used the term "smoking gun" to name the folder).
- Dulberg sent Alphonse Talerico drafts of an ARDC Complaint to file on Clinton and Williams less than 1 week later.
- The timeline demonstrates that Dulberg has made repeated efforts since November, 2022 to notify the ARDC and presiding Judges of the sophisticated system of document and information suppression that Clinton and Williams used against Dulberg.
- In December 8, 2022 Dulberg filed a complaint against the Baudins.

After the events listed above, the following events occurred:

- On February 1, 2023 defendants Popovich and Mast were dismissed from the case based on 2 year SoL argument. The Judge stated that Dulberg 'should have known or inquired' during the time Dulberg was represented by Popovich and Mast, Balke, and the Baudins.
- On May 25, 2023 defendants were dismissed from the case based on 2 year SoL argument. The Judge stated that Dulberg 'should have known or inquired' during the time Dulberg was represented by Clinton-Williams and Gooch-Walczyk.
- On August 29, 2023 the Baudin defendants were dismissed from the case based on 2 year SoL argument. The Judge stated that Dulberg 'should have known or inquired' during the time Dulberg was represented by Clinton-Williams and Gooch-Walczyk.
- When 17LA377 was appealed the issue of collaboration between Clinton-Williams and opposing counsel was never raised. We were told we could not raise the issue.
- We are also being told that if 17LA377 appeal is brought before the Supreme Court we will not be able to raise the issue of the 9 ARDC complaints we have filed about fraud on the mechanism of the court itself during 17LA377.

Group Exhibit 49 shows (document by document) the many ways that Dulberg tried to raise these issues since first discovering them in October, 2022. Despite these many efforts the issues were never raised before any presiding Judge. Throughout the timeline Dulberg was asking his attorney the questions shown in the table below:

REPORTING FRAUD WITNESSED DURING LITIGATION IN ILLINOIS COURTS
(ACCORDING TO ILLINOIS PROTOCOL)

FOR CLIENT	FOR ATTORNEY
CASE 1: How does client raise issue of fraud committed during litigation by opposing counsel?	CASE 1: How does attorney raise issue of fraud committed during litigation by opposing counsel? 1) Follow Himmel Rule: Through ARDC (only authorized agent of Supreme Court) promptly
CASE 2: How does client raise issue of fraud committed during litigation by ones own attorney or former attorney to sabotage case?	CASE 2: How does attorney raise issue of fraud committed during litigation by client's former attorney to sabotage case? 1) Follow Himmel Rule: Through ARDC (only authorized agent of Supreme Court) promptly
CASE 3: How does client raise issue of fraud of collusion during litigation between ones own atty and opposing counsel?	CASE 3: How does attorney raise issue of fraud of collusion during litigation between client's former atty and opposing counsel? 1) Follow Himmel Rule: Through ARDC (only authorized agent of Supreme Court) promptly

We are not attorneys. We do not know how to answer the questions in red. It is clear that an Illinois attorney must follow the Himmel Rule in cases 1, 2 and 3. We have tried to raise these issues from November, 2022 to the present (as documented in the timeline). We were told we could not raise these issues to a presiding Judge and we are still being told we cannot raise these issues. Perhaps it is true.

It does not seem reasonable for us to be asked to endure fraud in the court that we know is happening as it happens and not inform any presiding Judge. I will cite 3 examples:

1) a high stakes poker game
2) children playing together
3) criminal rape

If during a high stakes poker game a person was caught cheating during a hand, the game would (most probably) be stopped immediately and the cheating would be dealt with before anything else. It is not sensible to ask those who were being cheated to finish the hand as if the cheating was not happening, and then to deal with the cheating at some later date.

Even groups of children playing a game tend to call out a cheater at the time the cheating is detected. They wouldn't allow a known cheater to gain significant advantage during a game and then "deal with it later", only after the game is won or lost.

As for rape, it is not possible for us to believe that the act should only be confronted after allowing the rapist time to finish the act of rape. Prompt intervention in an act of 'newly discovered' and ongoing rape is instinctive common sense and common decency.

The timeline shows that Dulberg has made repeated attempts to treat evidence of collusion with opposing attorney as a "front-burner" issue since first discovering it. The timeline shows that Dulberg's attorney has treated evidence of collusion with opposing counsel as a "back-burner" issue. This is what the timeline shows month after month for around 15 months. Dulberg is constantly trying to place evidence of collusion with opposing counsel on the "front-burner" (and bring it to the attention of a Judge). Alphonse Talerico is constantly pushing it to a "back-burner" (and taking no interest in bringing evidence of collusion to the attention of a Judge).

We question this because of the examples of cheating in poker, or how children will call out a 'cheater' when caught, or the example of rape cited earlier. We have never understood why evidence of collaboration between Clinton-Williams and opposing counsel was repeatedly pushed to a "back-burner" by Dulberg's own attorney for the last 15 months. We do not know if or when Alphonse Talerico filed his own ARDC complaints (so we do not know if he violated the Himmel rule). We have reason to believe that Alphonse Talerico only filed his own ARDC complaints sometime after September 28, 2023 (in response to seeing our website online) but we do not know for sure.

We are certain that we have never been given a legally coherent explanation as to why a presiding Judge should not be informed of evidence of collusion between opposing attorneys that strongly influences the case over which they are issuing orders. We are certain of this because the timeline does not have a single document which provides a legally coherent explanation. In fact, we couldn't not find any explanation at all given to Dulberg in the whole timeline.

For the reasons stated above Dulberg is using an approach coined by Reagan and Gorbachev called "Trust but Verify". Applying Reagan's maxim here, Dulberg is providing an open detailed timeline (with supporting evidence) to both the ARDC and to the general public of:

(a) when and how Dulberg first learned of the Clinton-Williams system of document and information suppression and collaboration with opposing counsel to sabotage Dulberg's case

(b) efforts Dulberg has made since then to notify presiding Judges and the proper authorities about the system of document and information suppression we discovered.

5) The number of days that will have elapsed from the date of filing of the Notice of Appeal to the date that the case will be ready for disposition is three hundred twenty-nine days. (Local Rule 104(a)(3), Local Rule 106(b) and Local Rule 108(a) & (b))

6) Appellant filed his Notice of Appeal on March 3, 2023.

7) The Record on Appeal was filed on April 24, 2023 and made available for download on April 25, 2023 at 8:48 AM. (Please see Appellant Exhibit F attached)

7a. Common Law Volume 1 has a creation date of April 24, 2023 at 9:31 AM. Common Law Volume 2 has a creation date of April 24, 2023 at 9:28 AM. The Reports of proceedings has a creation date of April 25, 2023 at 806 AM. (Please see Exhibit G attached)

7b. Common Law Record Volume 1, Common Law Record Volume 2 and Reports of proceedings all have a submission date of April 24, 2023 from 10:00 Am to 10:03 AM. (Please see Appellant Exhibit H attached)

8) Appellant's Brief due date was first extended sixty days by this Honorable Court to July 31, 2023.

9) Appellant's Brief due date was thereafter extended a second time by this Honorable Court to September 29, 2023.

10) Appellant's Brief due date was extended a third time by this Honorable Court to November 3, 2023.

11) Twenty-One days is insufficient to prepare and file Appellant's Brief for the following reasons:

(a) The record on appeal consists of three volumes totaling 2,660 pages; Appellant requested the entire record be prepared, but Appellant's attorney has discovered missing Report of Proceedings, mismatched sections, documents with only one of the Defendants' names where it should be all, Memorandums of Law where the body of the motions should be, violations of the Supreme Court of Illinois Standards and Requirements for Electronic Filing the Record on Appeal (Revised- Effective March 1, 2022) regarding §1. Definitions (i) Hyperlink... and so on. (Investigation Continues.)

(b) Appellant's attorney has made extensive efforts to have Appellant's Brief ready for filing by the November 3, 2023 considering his extremely heavy court schedule, with two active Appellate cases, two active Decedent's Estates, a First Judicial Law Division with nineteen named Defendants … and being a sole proprietor without full time staff and the following facts that relate to this matter.

II. APPELLANT's BASIS FOR AN EMERGENCY MOTION

1) Appellant has recently discovered that the Trial Court Judge for this case, 2017LA000377 from inception on November 28, 2017 to December 21, 2022 was a friend of Defendant The Law Offices of Thomas J Popovich, P.C.'s owner Thomas J. Popovich and said Judge had recused himself from at least one case where Thomas J. Popovich was a named Defendant. (Please see Appellant's Exhibit A attached)

2) That the Trial Court Judge for this case, 2017LA000377 from inception on November 28, 2017 to December 21, 2022 was also the Judge at all times in 2012 LA 000178 where Appellant herein was represented by the Law Offices of Thomas A. Popovich P.C. and Thomas J. Popovich individually. (Please see Appellant's Exhibits B page 3 L22 to page 4 L5, C page 4L8-10) where the afore- mentioned Judge acknowledged this fact at least two separate times on the record.

3) That the Trial Court Judge refused a subpoenaed certified electronic thumb drive complete recording by the certified Shorthand Reporter of the deposition of Defendant Hans Mast which reflects the violations of Supreme Court rules and local rules during a hearing to strike the Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast. (Please see appellant's Exhibit D page 477 L21-24 to page 481 line 9)

4) Appellant has discovered missing Transcripts and a materially changed transcript to support Appellant's request for a professional audit trail be produced by an independent service and to supplement the questionable Record on Appeal. The Auditor's Report was finalized and submitted late in the day yesterday, November 2, 2023 (and was the reason for the delay in filing and serving of this Emergency Motion).(Please see Appellant Exhibit E which is a sample test of changed and missing transcripts by an independent service.)

Wherefore, Plaintiff-Appellant prays that this Honorable Court recognize Plaintiff-Appellant's Attorney good faith and extensive efforts to comply with the extended briefing schedules, the problems caused by the Record on Appeal based on its page size and the errors by the Clerk of the 22nd Judicial Circuit in preparation of the Record on Appeal, grant Appellant a 35-day extension of time to file Appellant's Brief, allow Appellant to amend his Docketing Statement to include related cases, order the Clerk of the 22nd Judicial District to amend the Record on Appeal to include all missing documents and hyperlinks, allow Appellant to Request the Record on Appeal for all related cases, file and for any and all additional relief this Honorable Court deems equitable and just.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, Your Honor.

MS. WILLIAMS: -- for plaintiff.

MR. FLYNN: George Flynn for defendants.

THE COURT: Okay. What are we doing?

MS. WILLIAMS: We're just going to set it out again for status on discovery. We are pretty well finished with written discovery, at least between the parties.

THE COURT: Really old for F1 written --

MS. WILLIAMS: Right. Here's our -- we're actually -- we should be done today. We had some 201(k) issues.

So I think we're actually going to be fully completed with that today and looking to do -- getting ready to do deps, I think, is our next step --

THE COURT: How many are --

MS. WILLIAMS: -- for depositions.

THE COURT: How many F1 deps do you anticipate?

MS. WILLIAMS: Well, we'll have probably two. One from the firm and one -- defendant counsel and then defendant firm.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WILLIAMS: And then, obviously, the plaintiff. Now, whether we need more witness deps -- this is a legal malpractice case. Witness deps were taken in the underlying case. I don't know if we're going to need to take those a second time to --

MS. WILLIAMS: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: I think I did see Your Honor's name in connection with maybe one order in the case; but I don't see it as an issue.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll periodically throw it out there. But in any event, so if we come back in 60 days, do you think that gives you enough time to complete?

THE COURT: Let's go to work on Dulberg.

MS. WALCZYK: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MS. WALCZYK: Sabina Walczyk on behalf of Dulberg.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning. George Flynn on behalf of the Popovich firm and Hans Mast.

THE COURT: It is -- it is rare when I know both the plaintiff and the defendant ahead of time. Only through the courtroom, but still unusual.

I looked at -- I'm going to tell you what I'm thinking. And then if you choose to argue, you can to -- if you wish to convince me that I'm wrong; or we can go forward. Either is fine.

I felt that the 2-615 motion was appropriate because I felt that -- and I -- for a specific reason, not -- not perhaps all the reasons that were cited by the defendant. I felt that the complaint, when it talked about how -- I'm looking for the words, misled -- when it said that the attorneys misled -- lied and misled Mr. Dulberg, I felt that there was some specificity that was going to be required. Because they -- ultimately, these things are going to factor into the statute of limitations issue. And if you're going to say that it was a breach of his duty in lying or misleading, I think we need more particularity in the allegations. You can't just make a conclusory statement to that effect.

That's my perspective. What would you like -- I'll give you an opportunity -- opportunity to replead; but if you want to argue against my thinking, I'll listen.

MS. WALCZYK: Well, Your Honor, I -- I won't argue with the Court. If Your Honor would like some more specificity as to those certain terms, we can certainly replead and plead those a little bit more specifically to --

THE COURT: And with respect to the discovery rule issue --

MS. WALCZYK: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: -- since it's going to come up one way or another, although I think it's a question of fact, I would like to see it touched upon, because I'm not following the -- the fact that he got more from the arbitrator than had been initially suggested by his attorneys, isn't really telling me anything. So I need maybe a little bit more information to understand the relationship of the two things.

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

With respect to the issue of -- on the 2-619, I felt that in light of how I was going with the 2-615, I really couldn't rule on the -- the application of the discovery rule. And, ultimately, I saw that in the long run, it was going to be a question of fact, and I would probably need -- and I could only address that with some more facts than what's just contained in the complaint.

With respect to estoppel, I didn't agree -- and you can tell me why you think I'm wrong, but I didn't agree with the argument that you were making because it -- it, carried to its logical conclusion, I could mislead and lie to my client about the -- about the implications and why he should settle, and then once he agrees to it, then I'm -- I'm released from my breach of my duty.

So I don't think that it -- that that was the type of scenario involved when the courts were discussing the estoppel issue.

Do you have anything -- do you want to contest that?

MR. FLYNN: Not at this time, Your Honor. I --

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

I've always learned that it's better to quit while you're ahead. And with -- without giving a roadmap to the plaintiff, I do think that having their best complaint on file benefits us all.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: So going back to the 2-615 issues, again, a legal malpractice case, they've got to plead and prove, not only the legal malpractice, but the elements of the underlying case. And it seemed to me, and as we pointed out, that -- that all of the allegations were very conclusory. That they would have gotten more, they wouldn't have done this, that the -- that Hans Mast and the Popovich firm should have undertaken additional actions in the underlying case, but they don't say what those are. And I think that they -- they're required to if they believe that there was a breach of a duty that led to damages.

The high-low agreement, which is very confusing to me and to my client, frankly, because he's never seen it, and as I understand it, that's outside of the four corners --

THE COURT: It is outside, but it did lead to an area where I was also a little bit confused. And

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

I -- and I think you touched on -- I'll ask you: Is the complaint having to do with the settlement with the McGuires, or does it somehow relate to the suit that continued with respect to Gagnon and the high-low agreement?

MS. WALCZYK: Well, I think it's a little bit of both, because it started with the suit against McGuires, which settled. And then it looks like there was a high-low agreement signed.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: And --

THE COURT: Was it signed by Mr. Mast?

MS. WALCZYK: Oh, I believe it was signed by Mr. Dulberg. I haven't seen it.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: However, we can attach it if -- if you want --

THE COURT: If -- if you are going to allege malpractice as a result of entering into the high-low agreement, yes, I would require you, then, to attach it and to make that a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Yes.

THE COURT: Because I -- I came away thinking

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

that was not part of your complaint, but I wasn't a 100 percent sure.

Also, let's see -- yeah, I need to know with some specificity what facts were concealed and how he was misled. I had problems with, particularly, I had -- paragraphs 20 and 21 and felt that you should have included more in that. And I won't probably say more than that.

MS. WALCZYK: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: And I -- on the estoppel argument, as I've said, I don't think that it is clear that the signing of the release was something that could be assumed to be knowing and voluntary when the plaintiff is alleging that he was misled as to the ramifications of that. Excuse me. Let's see. Okay.

Any -- so I'm granting on the 2-615. I will grant you leave to refile or replead.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And what else? Is there anything else that we need?

MR. FLYNN: Just as a housekeeping, again, depending on what theory you're going under, if it's related to the Gagnon settlement, and we may have more people coming to the party; but if not, then that's it.

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

THE COURT: Yeah. I mean, if you're going to draw that in, then I need it a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And I got -- in fact -- I'm reading from my notes. I need facts on what was false, misleading and what -- what you mean by coercion.

MR. FLYNN: So the 615 is granted with leave to replead.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: I wasn't clear, I guess, on whether there's an actual ruling on the 619 or --

THE COURT: 619, I'm denying because --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- there's a question of fact --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- at this stage.

And I think that even if they include additional facts in their complaint, I would still come back to it being a question of fact, because I -- there's going to be a lot more about their relationship than I think can be reflected in merely the complaint. I would -- so I mean, if you were to bring another 2-619, feel free.

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

MR. FLYNN: Sure.

THE COURT: But I would still think it's going to be a question of fact as to what is clear -- Dulberg's claims are with respect to how he was misled or facts were concealed.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Because it's going to depend on their interaction.

MR. FLYNN: And it is the -- the language of statute is "knew or reasonably should have been known." And, again, this -- he does have counsel that came in right after my clients got out. So, again, the Blue Water Partners case says you -- potentially, you can't bury your head in the sand.

THE COURT: No, you can't. But because I -- of the absence of information --

MR. FLYNN: Fair enough.

THE COURT: -- I was reluctant to go further. The statute of limitations, you might get a little bit farther, but I still might run into a fact question.

MR. FLYNN: Understood.

THE COURT: So how long do you need?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. WALCZYK: We have a trial coming up.

THE COURT: And to answer or otherwise plead?

MR. FLYNN: 28, please.

THE COURT: All right. That would -- excuse me. Why don't we come back in -- 60 days is July 9th. How about July 11th, a Wednesday? Or do you have -- it's all the same to me, so long as I am here.

MR. FLYNN: Let's see. I believe I'm going to be out of state that week.

THE COURT: Okay. When is it convenient for you to come here? She's here all the time, so I don't --

MR. FLYNN: The following week would be --

THE COURT: What day works for either of you the following week?

MS. WALCZYK: We may actually have a trial that week. That may or may not go; I'm not sure at this point. At least the first two days, if we could do towards the end of week, that would be great for us.

THE COURT: 20th?

MR. FLYNN: 20th works.

THE COURT: For the record, this is on Dulberg versus Mast.

Plaintiff's counsel, if you could identify yourself.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor. My name is Alphonse Talarico.

THE COURT: And defendant.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, your Honor. George Flynn for the defendants.

THE COURT: And for the record, I -- Mr. Dulberg is in attendance, and once again, I hope we're not being recorded. That being said, we'll move on to the motion.

Plaintiff, you have a motion.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge. I'd like to -- we filed our motion -- we filed -- counsel filed a response, we filed a reply. We'd like to rely on that, with one additional presentation or request of the Court.

THE COURT: Okay. What is that?

MR. TALARICO: I'd like to offer an informal proof -- an offer of proof, which is the exact and -- and -- what is the best way -- the audio transmission of the deposition, in full, with all the parties, which was sent to us through a subpoena.

THE COURT: Okay. You mean from Mr. Mast's -- or Mast's -- deposition?

MR. TALARICO: Correct. Everything that -- that would help the Court understand all of these problems. Because you --

THE COURT: Well, we do have -- we have the transcript.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor, but the transcript is selective.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, comment.

MR. FLYNN: I would object, Judge. The plaintiff has already filed a second amended motion and response. He's had plenty of opportunity to bring this to the Court's attention.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, final word.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, this is for the aid to -- for the Court -- this Honorable Court to understand what's going on.

As to the second amended, I replied to that, that -- the only difference between the amended and the second amended, Judge, was the stamp on Exhibit 17 didn't show up, so I re-filed it. But it was filed timely. As soon as I realized the stamp didn't show up on Exhibit 17, I re-filed it with an emphasis on the Exhibit 17. Mr. Flynn received it on time with notification that it's Exhibit 17.

THE COURT: Well, that's not the issue, but the issue is --

MR. FLYNN: It's not. And just for the record, there was a typo in my response brief. I wasn't taking issue with the timing of the filing of the second amended, other than the fact that it's two years after the deposition.

THE COURT: But that -- that's a different --

MR. FLYNN: But --

THE COURT: That's a different issue.

MR. FLYNN: Exactly.

THE COURT: The first issue is whether or not to -- the Court will accept plaintiff's request to submit the audio of the deposition at issue of Mr. Mast that, I believe, was taken June 25th, 2020.

And, Mr. Talarico, anything else to say in support of that oral motion?

MR. TALARICO: No, Judge. That -- that's -- if you'll accept it, it's in the -- I believe

Mr. Dulberg is in the courtroom, and if he may approach the bench, he will hand it to you.

THE COURT: No, he's on Zoom. In any event, I'm going to deny the -- oh, are you -- Come on up.

MR. SCOTT DULBERG: Do you mind if I just hand it here?

THE COURT: Well, no, you're going to come up. I'm not going to accept that.

Your name, sir?

MR. SCOTT DULBERG: Scott Dulberg.

THE COURT: Okay. And you're here to deliver a Zip drive of the audio; am I correct?

MR. SCOTT DULBERG: Yes.

THE COURT: All right. And I -- But I'm going to rule on plaintiff's motion. I'm not going to accept it. I'm not going to consider it for purposes of the hearing on this motion. So you can keep it, but thank you for -- for showing up and bringing it.

MR. SCOTT DULBERG: Thank you.

THE COURT: Because -- I'm not going to accept it because I don't think it adds, materially, to my understanding of what transpired. I've got the deposition transcript. I've read the parts that I believe are relevant. I've read the motions. I've heard this argument.

I don't think that the audio tran- -- the audio recording is going to assist me in any way, based upon my understanding of what the ultimate issue is on this motion.

So that will be denied, and we'll incorporate that into the motion -- or in the order. I'm sorry.

Moving on to the motion, this is plaintiff's motion to either re-depose or strike, or both, the deposition of Mr. Mast taken June 25th, 2020; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: And, further, am I correct that the -- the reason for this is issues with respect to what's identified as Exhibit 12?

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. That's just one small part of it. The entire motion is based on Supreme Court rules and on -- or in effect at the time the deposition was taken.

THE COURT: No, no, no. Tell me the substance. Don't tell me what the rules are. Because my reading of your motion focused on Exhibit 12 and the failure -- or the alleged failure to produce it prior to the deposition or give an exhibit list.

So tell me, what is the reason why you want to re-depose Mr. Mast? Because I think that's ultimately your request.

MR. TALARICO: That's right. Judge, within our motion and our reply, we've indicated that it's not just Exhibit 12. Focusing on Exhibit 12 makes it too easy. The entire deposition -- the Internet went down almost the entire time. It's in the notes that I highlighted. It's in the transcript. They were not seeing Exhibits 1 through 15 at the same time. They weren't seeing them. They weren't being uploaded to the admin- -- the administer of -- of oath. 12 wasn't even part of it. It was added, I don't know, 14 days later.

THE COURT: But, ultimately --

MR. TALARICO: So we --

THE COURT: -- the exhibits were seen; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: No. They were not seen.

THE COURT: None of the exhibits were seen?

MR. TALARICO: They were not seen in accordance with the rules, your Honor.

MR. TALARICO: The rules --

Did the deponent see the exhibits, yes or no?
MR. TALARICO: No.
THE COURT: Mr. Flynn, comment.
MR. FLYNN: Judge, to say that the Internet was down for --
THE COURT: I don't want to go down there. Did the -- did Mr. Mast see the exhibits?
MR. FLYNN: My recollection and understanding is that Mr. Mast saw all of the exhibits. There may have been an issue with a portion of Exhibit 12; however, he was -- he was cross-examined at Page 49 through 52 regarding Exhibit 12, generally speaking, and the case law that was contained in his file.
The bottom line is, it doesn't add anything. He didn't recall the specific cases that he discussed with -- exhibit in its entirety.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: It -- But it wasn't necessarily provided to him, so --

THE COURT: For purposes of this record, Exhibit 12 is copies of case law; am I correct?

MR. FLYNN: Generally speaking, correct.

THE COURT: Mr. Talarico.

MR. TALARICO: That's correct, Judge. But, again, we're not just focusing on Exhibit 12. We're focusing on all the exhibits that were supposedly shown to Mr. -- to Mr. Mast. He didn't see them. He didn't see them.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: There was confusion as to what the numbers were.

THE COURT: Whose exhibits were they?

MR. TALARICO: They were the plaintiff's, but it was the defendant's equipment that caused the problem.

THE COURT: And the plaintiff conducted the deposition; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: That is correct.

THE COURT: And the plaintiff was aware of any -- the plaintiff's attorney, at that time, was aware of any glitches or difficulties with respect to having the deponent view all of the exhibits; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: That's correct, your Honor.

THE COURT: And the plaintiff (sic) who was representing Mr. Dulberg at the time, for whatever reason, did not raise an objection at the time or ever with respect to the manner in which the deposition proceeded.

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. (Indiscernible) she left it to me -- or to the following counsel. She said to Mr. Dulberg, Mr. Dulberg, whatever those objections are, your next counsel has to make them.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, that -- but the handling attorney at the time who represented Mr. Dulberg's interests proceeded with the deposition and did not give notice to anyone of any complaint with respect to the manner in which it was conducted; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct.

THE COURT: Okay. What else do you want me to know?

MR. TALARICO: I want you to know, Judge, also, that not only does the objection have to take place at the time of the deposition itself. When the evidence is being brought -- when the evidence is being subject to admission, I can bring that -- I can raise that now and object to it.

THE COURT: Okay. But the -- the exhibits were always in control of the plaintiff's attorneys, and you're asking to penalize the defendant for what appears to be a -- an issue you have with the manner in which prior counsel conducted the deposition.

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. It's -- as far as the defendant, it's their electronic equipment that failed.

THE COURT: And there were no objections made at the time or subsequent, and this motion was brought approximately two and a half years after the deposition in question; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct. But it's also within the time of the ruling. I can do this now.

THE COURT: You can file any motion you like, but I'm -- I'm going to deny your request. I don't think that there's any reasonable basis under which I can compel the defendant to appear for a second deposition because of these issues. It appears that prior counsel was satisfied with the -- her ability to conduct the deposition, and she was always in control of all of the exhibits, so I don't see a problem there.

If anybody should have been raising an objection about the problems, it should have been defendant, not -- not the plaintiff two and a half years after the deposition they proceeded with. So I'm going to deny the request.

Anything else that we need to do today?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, just that there was some additional relief requested in the latest reply brief filed, and that included a request that the Court take judicial notice of -- what's really an implication. I think this is on Page 17 of the response.

I would just request that that specific request for relief also be denied in connection with the motion.

THE COURT: Okay. Let me just call it up. I'm looking at Page 18. What is it?

MR. FLYNN: I believe it was on Page 17 of the response -- I'm sorry -- the reply brief that was just filed.

THE COURT: Okay. The notice of the adjudicative facts?

MR. FLYNN: Correct. I think it says in Paragraph 12(j), plaintiff requests that this Honorable Court take judicial notice of the adjudicative fact that the references to Restatement (Second) of Torts Section 318 impliedly references Tilschner versus Spangler.

THE COURT: That -- that's not really ultimately the purpose of this motion, and it's not contained in the prayer for relief. That strikes me as a new motion. Wasn't going to consider it, and so I'm -- to the extent that I have to rule on it, on an issue I don't even think that's in front of me appropriately --

MR. FLYNN: It's just relief that was in -- in this response that I didn't have any opportunity to address.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

MR. TALARICO: Absolutely.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, your Honor, George Flynn on behalf of the defendants.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Flynn. We are before the Court for a hearing on pending motions. The one most notable is the summary judgment. What else are we hearing this morning, gentlemen?

THE COURT: Good. Because that's all I read.

MR. TALARICO: That's all I know, Judge.

THE COURT: Now I feel way better. It just said pending motions. All I could find was summary judgment. I read the motion. I read the response. I read the reply. I have read all the attachments, as they were relevant. It's your motion.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. And I wasn't sure I -- with Judge Meyer's standing orders, with respect to courtesy copies, I wasn't sure if the Court had a chance to review the briefs, but since your Honor has indicated that you have --

THE COURT: I have read everything. It's all based on a two-year statute of limitations on a lawsuit over a chain saw.

MR. FLYNN: That's exactly right. So I will be brief. The only case cited by the plaintiff in its response with respect to the accrual of the injury was a Suburban Real Estate case which is a transactional legal malpractice case, not a litigated matter. I think the -- all of the cases we have cited and including the dicta in that Suburban Real Estate case indicates that the accrual date in a litigated matter is the date of settlement, judgment or dismissal.

Here, we had a January 14 settlement that was consummated. There was a good faith finding and dismissal at that time. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Mr. Dulberg for another year or so and prosecuting the case against the other defendant in the case.

Dulberg became disillusioned with Mast, admitted that he was looking for additional counsel -- or substitute counsel even as early as July of 2014. Ultimately, Mast and Popovich withdrew in March of 2015. The case proceeded against Gagnon. There was a mediation in December of 2016 at which time he indicates now that he first became aware of his legal malpractice case.

Mr. Dulberg had every opportunity in discovery through interrogatories, production requests, I took his deposition. I asked him over and over again in several different ways how he first became aware of his injury and that it was wrongfully caused. The only response he could give was that a lawyer told him that he had a case. He couldn't provide any specifics. He has a burden of proving the -- a late discovery. He cannot meet it.

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

He will never be able to meet it.

THE COURT: Do we know, by the way, how did he come to me because the lawyer, if I recall, was Mr. Gooch. So he was represented by I believe Mr. Balke if I recall correctly followed by Mr. Baudin.

MR. FLYNN: That's correct.

THE COURT: Where did Mr. Gooch come into this? Who shipped him off to Mr. Gooch to even get opinion, do we know?

MR. FLYNN: One of those two lawyers, I think, recommended that he seek an opinion from a lawyer, generally speaking, that handles legal malpractice cases. Whether it was a direct referral, I don't know if the evidence shows that. I think Mr. Dulberg testified that I believe it was Mr. Baudin recommended that he see a legal malpractice attorney.

So Mr. Gooch met with him. Allegedly provided an opinion that there was a case without any reason and then almost a year later filed a lawsuit. Again, first Mr. Dulberg raised privilege when I asked him how -- how and what -- how you became aware of this legal malpractice case, the injury and the wrongful causation, he claimed privilege. Finally, that was waived or otherwise disposed of, and then, he admitted he couldn't -- I said the legal opinion Dulberg received from Gooch was verbal. Gooch simply stated you have a case here. You have a valid case. When asked did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with the representation, Dulberg said he probably did. I'm not recalling it right now. I'm pulling a blank. There are no specifics.

So again, the burden is his to prove a later discovery. He's not able to do that. I'm happy to answer any questions the Court has, but again, I'll rest on the briefs.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. Mr. Talarico, sir?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, sir. I'm -- what would you like me to address first? I guess we could start with the fact that defendant didn't follow the local rules, and therefore, plaintiff could not properly respond. And the local rule says that if they do not follow the local rules, you can strike the motion or deny it.

All I'm asking is deny the motion based on the fact that they did not follow the local rules.

THE COURT: I respectfully decline to do so, sir. A written motion could have been filed expressly asking for that relief. A response was filed that addressed it. I've read the response. I understand your concerns that by not following the local rules, they may have made it more difficult for us to suss out what are the disputed issues of material fact and what aren't. But I've been able to pretty much get a grip on everything the way it's been filed.

MR. TALARICO: All right. Thank you, Judge. The second thing is, again, we didn't follow the rules that (indiscernible) we didn't respond -- we responded generally. So I would like that the ruling you just made to extend to our response too.

THE COURT: Of course it does.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you, sir. Okay. Then, the next issue is the Suburban case. Plaintiff -- defendant, I'm sorry, defendant seems to indicate -- well, he does indicate that the reason that Suburban doesn't apply is that there is a difference between a transactional case and a litigation case. Now, I read the Suburban case many, many times over and the Supreme Court does not distinguish that their ruling is for one type of case or the other. What their ruling is is that the statute of limitation and they construed the exact specific statute does not begin until there is a pec -- pecuniary loss.

Prior to that, Mr. Dulberg would have brought an action, he would have had no damages. So that -- what that does is because the general rule and which has been voiced in -- by the Illinois Supreme Court Justice Thomas in the Porter case is that when the Supreme Court construes a statute, that becomes part of the statute until the -- the -- I can't think of the word, legislation -- legislature decides to change it. So what we have is the prior cases cited by Mr. Dulberg are not effective because he's citing it to the rule and not to the particular case we are talking about. The Suburban case says no damages, the statute does not begin to run. And that is part of the statute. It hasn't been changed.

Now, as to the last thing, we have raised many affirmative -- I mean, I'm sorry, many issues of material fact that are in dispute. But most important -- the clearest ones, Judge, are the defendant's affirmative defenses. There are four affirmative defenses which -- which plaintiff has denied all four.

Now, there is a recent case, if you'll hold on just one second, and I'll find it, but the indication -- it's not that recent, but it's -- the indication is that -- this is West Suburban Mass Transit versus Consolidated Rail Corporation. It's 1-89-2916. If this was done the Appellate Court but it was by the -- the opinion was by Justice McMorrow, who of course became Supreme Court judge, that summary judgment is not appropriate when there is affirmative defenses in dispute.

I think that pretty much sums it all, Judge. We have got many material facts in dispute, including four affirmative defenses which were denied specifically by plaintiff.

THE COURT: Respectfully, sir, merely saying something is in dispute does not make it so though, does it?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm saying that the answer filed was it was in dispute.

THE COURT: So by filing a response to their affirmative defense denying the affirmative defense, you're telling me that that in and of itself is sufficient to defeat summary judgment.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, I am.

THE COURT: What if your client --

MR. TALARICO: I --

THE COURT: What if your client at subsequent depositions testifies inconsistent with the answer?

MR. TALARICO: In the case that I cited, Judge, the burden is upon the person, in effect, in this case the defendant, to eliminate that dispute. The dispute exists as he did not resolve that dispute.

THE COURT: So when did the cause of action arise?

MR. TALARICO: December 12, 2016, I believe.

THE COURT: Why on that date?

MR. TALARICO: Because there was an arbitrary -- a mandatory arbitration hearing which I included the -- the findings that showed that the judge -- the retired judge in that case evaluated it at $660,000, and Mr. Dulberg was not able to obtain anything close to that.

THE COURT: And why not?

MR. TALARICO: Well, for two reasons, one, because he settled first improperly for $5,000 with the landowner, and the second case is because he was instructed improperly to -- to sign -- well, he actually claims he never signed the agreement, but that there was an agreement to do a binding arbitration limited to the policy amount of 300,000.

THE COURT: Who entered into that agreement?

MR. TALARICO: That is a question of fact. I don't know, but Dulberg says he did not sign it and never wanted to.

THE COURT: When was the agreement entered into?

MR. TALARICO: I don't have the exact date, Judge. A few months before that. I can only say that that was -- that was during the time that Mr. Dulberg was in bankruptcy, and that was also part of the Baudin's instruction.

THE COURT: So the agreement to limit recovery to 300,000 was signed well after the Popovich firm was no longer representing Mr. Dulberg on this matter?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, that's true.

THE COURT: So how is his change in strategy somehow extend -- so in other words, what you're saying -- well, I'm trying to wrap my head around this. You are saying that that agreement your client never wished to enter into, he didn't sign, Popovich didn't sign, Mr. Mast didn't sign. His actual third attorney signed it, Mr. Baudin, not even Mr. Balke. But because that was somehow signed and in effect, then the cause of action against Mast and Popovich for legal malpractice is extended out to the date of the final mediation hearing because of an agreement and limitation on damages at the mediation hearing over which they had zero control?

MR. TALARICO: What I am saying, Judge, is the analysis in the Suburban case, the damages -- prior to that, Mr. Dulberg had no actual damages, therefore, he couldn't bring an action. He had nothing to say that Mast cost him this much or this much or Popovich cost him this much because that would -- that would have been stricken for -- they had no damages, so he had no cause of action.

The damages arrive -- arose on the days that Mr. Dulberg found out through the binding arbitration that the case was worth so much more than what he's going to get, and therefore -- that -- that enumerates the damages.

THE COURT: But respectfully, Mr. Talarico, and please correct me if I'm wrong because this is where I'm getting the disconnect, the but-for portion of this analysis but for the high-low agreement limiting damages to the policy amount of $300,000, he would have had a judgment for the entire $660,000 if Tom Popovich and Hans Mast had never even existed.

MR. TALARICO: I'm not clear on what you are asking, Judge. Could you --

THE COURT: What I'm asking is isn't the failure to recover the $660,000 as opposed to 300,000 attributable to the high-low agreement that was entered into well over a year or if not two or more years after Popovich and Mast were out of the case?

MR. TALARICO: Well, Judge, I -- first of all, he didn't enter into it. He's claimed over and over that that's not his signature. It was forged. There is many issues about that in the bankruptcy.

THE COURT: But again, counsel -- but again, my point being I don't really care if he signed it or didn't sign it. My point being that it is that agreement that limited his damages, and that agreement was entered into way after Popovich and Mast withdrew from this case, right?

MR. TALARICO: That's right, but --

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

THE COURT: He so would have got -- so he would have gotten all 660,000 had that agreement not been entered into.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, but at -- before the judge ruled in that binding mediation, he had no idea how much the case was worth. They had told him it was worth $5,000 and then some. That -- that date -- that's the date when he knows when there was a factual pecuniary damage. He knows the case is worth much more than they told him and he's got numbers behind it. Before that, he had nothing to plead.

THE COURT: Respectfully, the case is worth that much against Mr. Gagnon, not necessarily against Mr. Gagnon's -- I believe it was his parents, the two people that settled out of it. The $660,000 is a finding of liability against Mr. Gagnon, isn't it?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: So how is it a finding of liability against the two people that were settled with?

MR. TALARICO: Because those people were settled with instructions by Mr. Mast that they could not win any money against them. His instructions were that they -- they would get out on summary judgment, he would get nothing, take $5,000 as a gift. He was over and over that that -- that that argument was made between Mast and between Dulberg, and some of those documents are part of what we filed.

THE COURT: All right. Anything else, Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Not at the moment, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, sir. Final word, please.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. Just briefly with respect to the pecuniary loss, the loss or the injury, which is the language used in the statute, was in January of 2014 when the case against the McGuires, Bill and Caroline McGuire. Caroline was Gagnon's mother. Bill McGuire was the stepfather. That case was foreclosed in January of 2014. No recovery could have been had other than the $5,000 at that point in time. That's when there was an injury.

The question -- the second prong of the analysis is when did he have a reasonable belief that the injury was wrongfully caused. Dulberg had every opportunity, he admitted that he had talked to hundreds of lawyers. He could have asked Balke, he could have asked Baudin. He didn't ask any of them, allegedly.

Under Illinois law, he has a duty to investigate if he thinks there is an issue. He had -- he became disillusioned with Mast in 2014. Mast withdrew in March of 2015. Again, the injury is January 2014.

THE COURT: Thank you very much.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, may I say one thing?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you. The Supreme Court case, the Suburban case makes it clear that being alerted to a problem or alerted to malpractice is not sufficient enough until -- they use the specific word alerted and say that is not sufficient. There has to be a pecuniary loss.

So whether he talked to a thousand attorneys and whether they all told him all different things, he's alerted but he had to face a loss. That's all, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you. He was clearly alerted. Let's cut to the chase. He was hesitant -- he was hesitant to ever even sign the settlement agreement to the point where it took him over two months to do it. He clearly had his doubts. He clearly had his lack of faith. He signed the settlement agreement anyway. A year later, the attorneys withdrew. He went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Met with hundreds of attorneys. He was clearly alerted.

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

When did the pecuniary loss occur? Here is the amazing part, and this is what -- where the disconnect comes on this case and it's why I'm having so much trouble with it, I'm being urged that the pecuniary loss occurred when the decision was given on the binding mediation. But the reason I believe that's a disconnect is because -- for two reasons. The loss that occurred on the binding mediation that is being urged upon the Court is a loss of what appears to be $360,000. The difference between the $660,000 that the mediator indicated the -- were the appropriate measure of damages against Mr. Gagnon and the $300,000 insurance policy limit, that $360,000 difference and the amount that was awarded and the amount that the mediator claimed should have been awarded is based on an agreement that somebody entered into. We don't know who that somebody was, but we know for a fact that that somebody was not Hans Mast or the Law Offices of Tom Popovich because the agreement occurred well after they were out of Dodge.

But didn't the pecuniary loss itself, in fact, occur if there was a cause of action to which you were alerted? The pecuniary loss occurred when he only got $5,000. I agree with defense counsel. Statute of limitations lapsed. Merely denying the statute of limitation without more in the depositions and the sworn testimony does not itself create an issue of material fact.

The motion for summary judgment is heard. It is most respectfully allowed. Thank you very much, gentlemen.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you.

THE COURT: Both of you, outstanding. Even though they didn't comply with local rules, I will say gentlemen, to both of you, outstanding pleadings. Very thorough, very well written. I had no issues going through them. I spent three days going through all of them repeatedly, and you both made my job -- well, I'm not going to say easy, but you certainly did your jobs. MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. And for what it's worth, I apologize for not doing numbered paragraphs on the statement of facts. I did follow that format with Judge Meyer in another summary judgment motion that was granted. This case was originally before Judge Meyer. So --

AFFIDAVIT

Saira Pasha, being first duly sworn on oath, deposes and states as follows:

1. I am a licensed attorney in Illinois. I graduated from Chicago-Kent College of Law in 2012 and was admitted to the bar the same year. I have a Bachelor of Science degree in Operations and Information Management with an emphasis in information systems from Northern Illinois University. Since August 2020, I have worked as an independent consultant and testifying expert specializing in audit trail analysis, specifically in medical malpractice cases. I consult for and testify on behalf of both plaintiffs and defendants. A large portion of my work focuses on data integrity and completeness of production, such as obtaining prior versions of modified records and identifying, requesting, and obtaining data and records that were created but have not yet been produced. I have reviewed over 300 audit trails from more than 20 electronic medical record systems. The underlying concepts of audit trails for systems and the storage and retrieval of data from a database are essentially universal and apply to many kinds of systems, including court filing systems.

2. An audit trail is a timestamped report of actions performed by all users in a system, such as view, edit, add, delete, print, etc. In addition to audit trails, there are other reports and analytical tools that can be performed on record systems to conduct a comprehensive forensic analysis of electronically stored information.

3. I have been retained as a consultant by The Law Office of Alphonse A. Talarico for the purpose of evaluating file content discrepancies and missing file contents for a case under appellate review.

4. I reviewed the following materials for my analysis:

    - Transcript of court proceeding from 9/16/2022 titled “Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Transcript of court proceeding from 9/16/2022 titled “Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Emails to and from court reporters related to the transcripts listed above
    - Report titled “[Compare Report] Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Table of Contents of the Report of Proceedings filed on 4/24/2023 for the appellate case (2-23-0072) listing all Report of Proceedings in the file in chronological order
    - McHenry County Circuit Court’s Public Case Access website information for the underlying case (2017LA000377)

5. Based on my analysis of these materials, I conclude to a reasonable degree of professional certainty and recommend as follows:

- There are multiple substantive differences, including modifications and deletions, between two transcripts for the same court proceeding that took place on 9/16/2022. One of the edits is about a material issue: whether expert discovery was closed. To verify the accuracy of what was said at this proceeding, I recommend a forensic investigation, including but not limited to obtaining a copy of the original recording and obtaining an audit trail for the recording system itself. Based on what the audit trail from the audio recording system shows, a live forensic inspection of the system may be warranted.

- The Table of Contents for the Report of Proceedings for the appellate review that was filed on 4/24/2023 does not list all court proceeding recordings that were created in the underlying matter. It is also inconsistent with representations made on the McHenry County Circuit Court Public Case Access website. I recommend an audit trail of the appellate court's filing system(s) be produced to objectively determine which documents were uploaded to its system(s), when they were uploaded, the user(s) who uploaded the documents, and if applicable, which documents were removed from the appellate review file. Based on what the audit trails from the systems show, a live forensic inspection of the systems may be warranted.

- Because there are allegations of removing the existence of recordings from specific court proceedings from the public access website for the McHenry County Circuit, I recommend an audit and forensic investigation to obtain objective facts and the timeline of when data was added and then removed from the underlying case's record. I recommend obtaining the audit trails for McHenry County Circuit Court's filing system(s) and performing a live forensic inspection of the system if warranted by the audit trail data.

Discrepancies between two transcripts for the 9/16/2022 court proceeding

6. A court proceeding was held on 9/16/2022 in Judge Meyer's courtroom in the McHenry County Circuit Court courthouse for the underlying case (2017 L 000377).

7. The McHenry County Circuit Court courthouse uses technology that creates audio recordings of court proceedings which court reporters can access to create transcripts of those proceedings.

8. There are two distinct transcripts for this proceeding. The first transcript was emailed from a court reporter to Plaintiff on 9/26/2022 and is titled "Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg." The second transcript was emailed from a different court reporter to Plaintiff on 9/27/2022 and is titled "Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg." (The names of the files were presumably created to distinguish the transcripts).

9. There are multiple substantive differences between the two transcripts. Below is one example of a significant substantive difference in a statement made by defense counsel George Flynn about a material issue: expert discovery. The first transcript includes the phrase "You gave a ruling that expert discovery is completed" (page 5, lines 12-13)

So those (indiscernible) all relied on facts regarding the accident itself that would have taken, you know, additional five to ten pages of facts that are -- So we'd like to do that separately. In fact, we might wait until -- You gave a ruling that expert discovery is completed, but I'm going to (indiscernible) but I think (indiscernible).

10. The second transcript includes phrase "if and when expert discovery is completed" for the same page and line numbers:

So those (indiscernible) all relied on facts regarding the accident itself that would have taken, you know, additional five to ten pages of facts that are -- So we'd like to do that separately. In fact, we might wait until if and when expert discovery is completed, but -- I'm going to have some more thoughts, but I think we have plenty to chew on now.

11. These two statements are not only substantively different, they also do not sound alike when spoken aloud.

12. Another substantive difference between the two transcripts is the inclusion of the word "dilatory" in two sentences.

13. In the "Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg" transcript (page 11, line 2) the court reporter uses "(indiscernible)", implying that the word stated by Mr. Flynn could not be understood. In the next line, there are hyphens at the end of "do" in Mr. Talarico's response, implying Mr. Talarico never said any word after "do."

just don't see what the issue is.  It seems as if it's a (indiscernible) tactic to avoid --
    MR. TALARICO:  I don't do --
    THE COURT:  Hold on.  I can't rule on the motion until I see it.  I can't rule -- I can't determine

14. In "Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg," page 11, line 2, the transcription of defense counsel's statement by replacing the "(indiscernible)" with "dilatory " On the next line, plaintiff's Mr. Talarico's response is transcribed as "I don't to dilatory.." implying that the word was spoken, while the original transcript indicates no word was spoken nor was there an indiscernible sound.

```
I just don't see what the issue is.  It seems as if it's a another dilatory tactic to avoid --
    MR. TALARICO:  I don't do dilatory --
    THE COURT:  Hold on.  I can't rule on the motion until I see it.  I can't rule -- I can't determine

15. These are two examples of significant and substance differences between the two transcripts that warrant further investigation to confirm accuracy.

16. To verify the accuracy of both transcripts and determine what was actually said by the parties on 9/16/2022, I recommend obtaining the original recording of the proceeding from the McHenry County Circuit Court's audio recording system. I also recommend simultaneously obtaining an audit trail for the specific audio recording file at issue, from 9/16/2022 through present, to identify all parties who accessed the recording, when they accessed it, if any edits were made to the recording, and other objective data pertaining to the veracity of the recording.

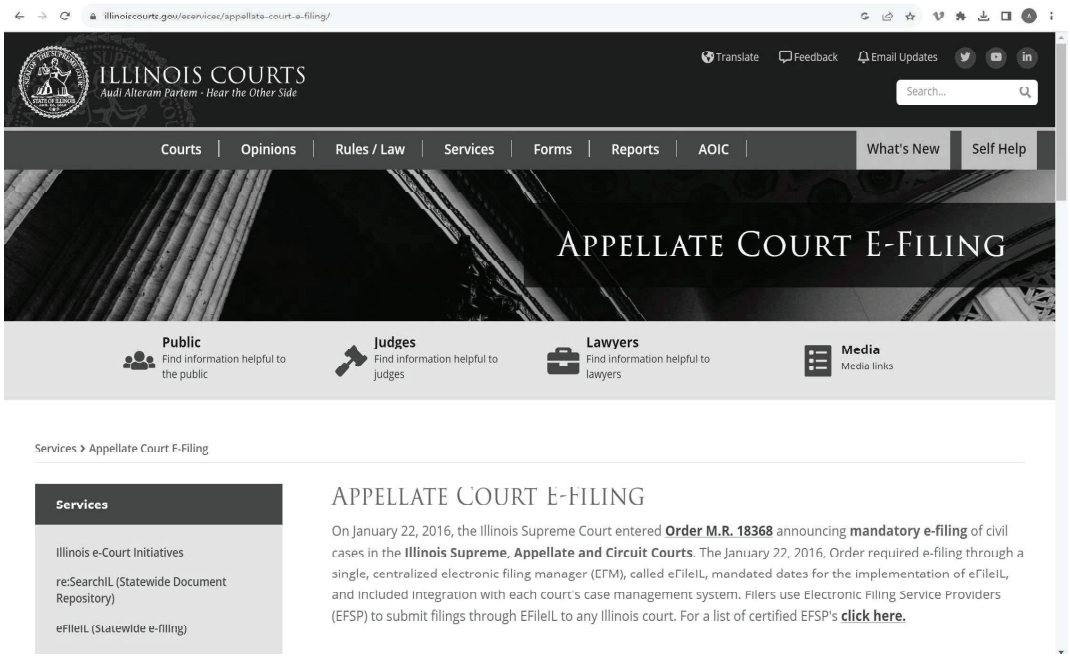
20. As seen in the screen shot above, there was a court event on 1/10/2018 during which a motion to extend time was granted and a court event on 2/27/2019 during which a motion to dismiss was set for hearing. The third court event listed took place on 5/10/2018.

21. The recordings from the first two court events in the underlying case were not included in the file contents for appellate review. I did perform a line-item check for evert court event; it is possible recordings for other events are also missing.

22. The 1/10/2018 court event was listed as "Motion – Extend Time." I reviewed the Table of Contents to determine if any recording for a "Motion- Extend Time" court event existed and found one for 3/15/2021. Therefore, there is no reason to conclude that the 1/10/2018 recording was not included in the file materials because that type of court event is not recorded.

02/10/2021	HEARING - MOTION COMPEL	R 101-R 124 (Volume 1)
03/15/2021	MOTION - EXTEND TIME	R 125-R 153 (Volume 1)
03/25/2021	HEARING - MOTION COMPEL	R 154-R 159 (Volume 1)

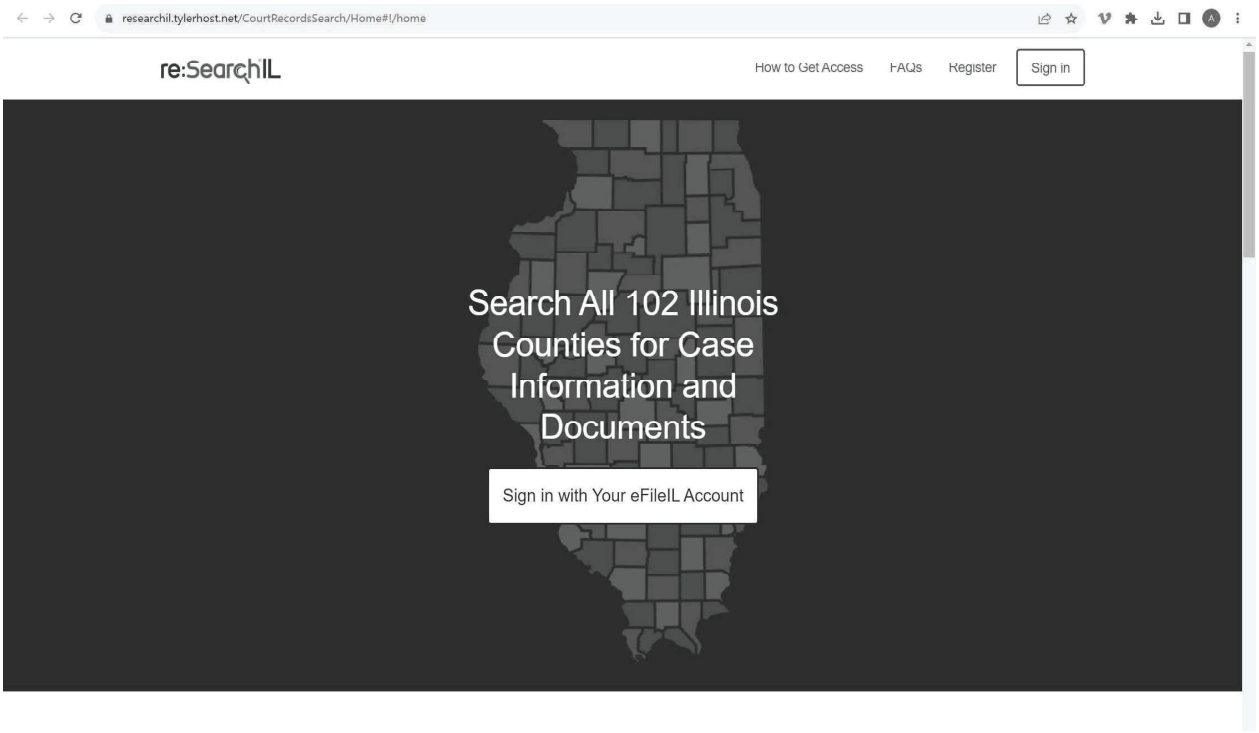
23. Plaintiff/Appellant alleges that the public record access system for McHenry County originally listed recordings for these two 2018 proceedings under the documents tab but were removed at a later date. Below is a screen shot of the top portion of the "Documents" tab for the underlying case. As the image below indicates, "Report – Proceedings" is a type of document included in the list.



24. To objectively determine if the "Documents" tab of the McHenry County Circuit Court public portal ever included a listing of "Report – Proceedings" for the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events, I recommend a forensic audit of the system(s) in which these data elements are stored and used to display information on the public access portal website.

25. To objectively determine if the recordings from the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events were 1)ever part of the McHenry County Circuit Court file for the underlying, 2) were transmitted/uploaded to the appellate court filing system, and 3) were ever received or were part of the appellate court's filing system or file, audit trails from each of the respective systems must be generated and produced. Based on the data included in those reports, a live forensic inspection of the systems may be warranted. If audit trails from those systems are not produced, I recommend performing a live forensic inspection of the systems at issue.

26. To objectively determine if recordings were created for the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events, an audit trail from the McHenry County Circuit Court audio recording system must be generated and produced. Based on the data contained in those reports, a live forensic audit of the audio recording system may be necessary.



27. The website for Illinois's court systems makes reference to two distinct systems: one document repository system and efiling systems.

28. The website displays several options for efiling:

29. The document repository system link takes you to a separate system called re:SearchIL, managed by Tyler Technologies.

30. Based on my preliminary review of these websites and technologies, the systems used by both the appellate court and the circuit court in this case are capable of producing audit trails for regulatory and compliance reporting. These reports can also be used to verify the integrity of the records and data in this matter.

Under penalty of perjury, I certify the above statements are true and correct.

COURT CLERK HAS SUPPLEMENTED AND/OR CORRECTED THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO FILE APPELLANT'S BRIEF

I. APPELLANT'S FOURTH MOTION FOR AN EXTENSION OF TIME TO FILE APPELLANT'S BRIEF

1) On November 2, 2023, Plaintiffs Attorney communicated with Appellees' Attorney indicating the nature of this Motion, to which Appellees' Attorney indicating his objection to the Motion. (Ill. S. Ct. 361(a) and Local Rule Article 1 General Rules 102(b).

3) The number of days previously requested is 211, the number of days previously granted is 155, and the total number of days is 155. (Local rule 104 (a)(l))

4) The total number of days requested, and the total number of days granted to other parties are (0) none. (Local Rule 104(a)(2))

5) The number of days that will have elapsed from the date of filing of the Notice of Appeal to the date that the case will be ready for disposition is three hundred twenty-nine days. (Local Rule 104(a)(3), Local Rule 106(b) and Local Rule 108(a) & (b))

6) Appellant filed his Notice of Appeal on March 3, 2023.

7) The Record on Appeal was filed on April 24, 2023 and made available for download on April 25, 2023 at 8:48 AM. (Please

see Appellant Exhibit F attached)

7a. Common Law Volume 1 has a creation date of April 24, 2023 at 9:31 AM. Common Law Volume 2 has a creation date of April 24, 2023 at 9:28 AM. The Reports of proceedings has a creation date of April 25, 2023 at 806 AM. (Please see Exhibit G attached)

7b. Common Law Record Volume 1, Common Law Record Volume 2 and Reports of proceedings all have a submission date of April 24, 2023 from 10:00 Am to 10:03 AM. (Please see Appellant Exhibit H attached)

8) Appellant's Brief due date was first extended sixty days by this Honorable Court to July 31, 2023.

9) Appellant's Brief due date was thereafter extended a second time by this Honorable Court to September 29, 2023.

10) Appellant's Brief due date was extended a third time by this Honorable Court to November 3, 2023.

11) Twenty-One days is insufficient to prepare and file Appellant's Brief for the following reasons:

(a) The record on appeal consists of three volumes totaling 2,660 pages; Appellant requested the entire record be prepared, but Appellant's attorney has discovered missing Report of Proceedings, mismatched sections, documents with only one of the Defendants' names where it should be all, Memorandums of Law where the body of the motions should be, violations of the Supreme Court of Illinois Standards and Requirements for Electronic Filing the Record on Appeal (Revised- Effective March 1, 2022) regarding §1. Definitions (i) Hyperlink... and so on. (Investigation Continues.)

(b) Appellant's attorney has made extensive efforts to have Appellant's Brief ready for filing by the November 3, 2023 considering his extremely heavy court schedule, with two active Appellate cases, two active Decedent's Estates, a First Judicial Law Division with nineteen named Defendants … and being a sole proprietor without full time staff and the following facts that relate to this matter.

II. APPELLANT's BASIS FOR AN EMERGENCY MOTION

1) Appellant has recently discovered that the Trial Court Judge for this case, 2017LA000377 from inception on November 28, 2017 to December 21, 2022 was a friend of Defendant The Law Offices of Thomas J Popovich, P.C.'s owner Thomas J. Popovich and said Judge had recused himself from at least one case where Thomas J. Popovich was a named Defendant. (Please see Appellant's Exhibit A attached)

2) That the Trial Court Judge for this case, 2017LA000377 from inception on November 28, 2017 to December 21, 2022 was also the Judge at all times in 2012 LA 000178 where Appellant herein was represented by the Law Offices of Thomas A. Popovich P.C. and Thomas J. Popovich individually. (Please see Appellant's Exhibits B page 3 L22 to page 4 L5, C page 4L8-10) where the afore- mentioned Judge acknowledged this fact at least two separate times on the record.

3) That the Trial Court Judge refused a subpoenaed certified electronic thumb drive complete recording by the certified Shorthand Reporter of the deposition of Defendant Hans Mast which reflects the violations of Supreme Court rules and local rules during a hearing to strike the Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast. (Please see appellant's Exhibit D page 477 L21-24 to page 481 line 9)

4) Appellant has discovered missing Transcripts and a materially changed transcript to support Appellant's request for a professional audit trail be produced by an independent service and to supplement the questionable Record on Appeal. MS. WILLIAMS: Yes, that's correct. And I'm --

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, Your Honor.

MS. WILLIAMS: -- for plaintiff.

MR. FLYNN: George Flynn for defendants.

THE COURT: Okay. What are we doing?

MS. WILLIAMS: We're just going to set it out again for status on discovery. We are pretty well finished with written discovery, at least between the parties.

THE COURT: Really old for F1 written --

MS. WILLIAMS: Right. Here's our -- we're actually -- we should be done today. We had some 201(k) issues.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WILLIAMS: We are going to the law firm to look through their -- through their documents today. I believe everything has been produced, but we just

So I think we're actually going to be fully completed with that today and looking to do -- getting ready to do deps, I think, is our next step --

THE COURT: How many are --

MS. WILLIAMS: -- for depositions.

THE COURT: How many F1 deps do you anticipate?

MS. WILLIAMS: Well, we'll have probably two. One from the firm and one -- defendant counsel and then defendant firm.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WILLIAMS: And then, obviously, the plaintiff. Now, whether we need more witness deps -- this is a legal malpractice case. Witness deps were taken in the underlying case. I don't know if we're going to need to take those a second time to --

THE COURT: I think I pre-tried the underlying case. I have a recollection of this, so -- but I'm not a hundred percent sure, so just throwing that

MS. WILLIAMS: Okay.

MR. FLYNN: I think I did see Your Honor's name in connection with maybe one order in the case; but I don't see it as an issue.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll periodically throw it out there. But in any event, so if we come back in 60 days, do you think that gives you enough time to complete?

MR. FLYNN: I think it gives us enough time to complete the main F1 witnesses.

MS. WILLIAMS: At least the three parties.

MR. FLYNN: There were -- there were four -- four or five doctors deposed in the underlying case. And four other five other --

THE COURT: Let's go to work on Dulberg.

MS. WALCZYK: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MS. WALCZYK: Sabina Walczyk on behalf of Dulberg.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning. George Flynn on behalf of the Popovich firm and Hans Mast.

THE COURT: It is -- it is rare when I know both the plaintiff and the defendant ahead of time. Only through the courtroom, but still unusual.

I looked at -- I'm going to tell you what I'm thinking. And then if you choose to argue, you can to -- if you wish to convince me that I'm wrong; or we can go forward. Either is fine.

I felt that the 2-615 motion was appropriate because I felt that -- and I -- for a specific reason, not -- not perhaps all the reasons that were cited by the defendant. I felt that the complaint, when it talked about how -- I'm looking for the words, misled -- when it said that the attorneys misled -- lied and misled Mr. Dulberg, I felt that there was some specificity that was going to be required. Because they -- ultimately, these things are going to factor into the statute of limitations issue. And if you're going to say that it was a breach of his duty in lying or misleading, I think we need more particularity in the allegations. You can't just make a conclusory statement to that effect.

That's my perspective. What would you like -- I'll give you an opportunity -- opportunity to replead; but if you want to argue against my thinking, I'll listen.

MS. WALCZYK: Well, Your Honor, I -- I won't argue with the Court. If Your Honor would like some more specificity as to those certain terms, we can certainly replead and plead those a little bit more specifically to --

THE COURT: And with respect to the discovery rule issue --

MS. WALCZYK: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: -- since it's going to come up one way or another, although I think it's a question of fact, I would like to see it touched upon, because I'm not following the -- the fact that he got more from the arbitrator than had been initially suggested by his attorneys, isn't really telling me anything. So I need maybe a little bit more information to understand the relationship of the two things.

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

With respect to the issue of -- on the 2-619, I felt that in light of how I was going with the 2-615, I really couldn't rule on the -- the application of the discovery rule. And, ultimately, I saw that in the long run, it was going to be a question of fact, and I would probably need -- and I could only address that with some more facts than what's just contained in the complaint.

With respect to estoppel, I didn't agree -- and you can tell me why you think I'm wrong, but I didn't agree with the argument that you were making because it -- it, carried to its logical conclusion, I could mislead and lie to my client about the -- about the implications and why he should settle, and then once he agrees to it, then I'm -- I'm released from my breach of my duty.

So I don't think that it -- that that was the type of scenario involved when the courts were discussing the estoppel issue.

Do you have anything -- do you want to contest that?

MR. FLYNN: Not at this time, Your Honor. I --

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

I've always learned that it's better to quit while you're ahead. And with -- without giving a roadmap to the plaintiff, I do think that having their best complaint on file benefits us all.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: So going back to the 2-615 issues, again, a legal malpractice case, they've got to plead and prove, not only the legal malpractice, but the elements of the underlying case. And it seemed to me, and as we pointed out, that -- that all of the allegations were very conclusory. That they would have gotten more, they wouldn't have done this, that the -- that Hans Mast and the Popovich firm should have undertaken additional actions in the underlying case, but they don't say what those are. And I think that they -- they're required to if they believe that there was a breach of a duty that led to damages.

The high-low agreement, which is very confusing to me and to my client, frankly, because he's never seen it, and as I understand it, that's outside of the four corners --

THE COURT: It is outside, but it did lead to an area where I was also a little bit confused. And

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

I -- and I think you touched on -- I'll ask you: Is the complaint having to do with the settlement with the McGuires, or does it somehow relate to the suit that continued with respect to Gagnon and the high-low agreement?

MS. WALCZYK: Well, I think it's a little bit of both, because it started with the suit against McGuires, which settled. And then it looks like there was a high-low agreement signed.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: And --

THE COURT: Was it signed by Mr. Mast?

MS. WALCZYK: Oh, I believe it was signed by Mr. Dulberg. I haven't seen it.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: However, we can attach it if -- if you want --

THE COURT: If -- if you are going to allege malpractice as a result of entering into the high-low agreement, yes, I would require you, then, to attach it and to make that a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Yes.

THE COURT: Because I -- I came away thinking

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

that was not part of your complaint, but I wasn't a 100 percent sure.

Also, let's see -- yeah, I need to know with some specificity what facts were concealed and how he was misled. I had problems with, particularly, I had -- paragraphs 20 and 21 and felt that you should have included more in that. And I won't probably say more than that.

MS. WALCZYK: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: And I -- on the estoppel argument, as I've said, I don't think that it is clear that the signing of the release was something that could be assumed to be knowing and voluntary when the plaintiff is alleging that he was misled as to the ramifications of that. Excuse me. Let's see. Okay.

Any -- so I'm granting on the 2-615. I will grant you leave to refile or replead.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And what else? Is there anything else that we need?

MR. FLYNN: Just as a housekeeping, again, depending on what theory you're going under, if it's related to the Gagnon settlement, and we may have more people coming to the party; but if not, then that's it.

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

THE COURT: Yeah. I mean, if you're going to draw that in, then I need it a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And I got -- in fact -- I'm reading from my notes. I need facts on what was false, misleading and what -- what you mean by coercion.

MR. FLYNN: So the 615 is granted with leave to replead.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: I wasn't clear, I guess, on whether there's an actual ruling on the 619 or --

THE COURT: 619, I'm denying because --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- there's a question of fact --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- at this stage.

And I think that even if they include additional facts in their complaint, I would still come back to it being a question of fact, because I -- there's going to be a lot more about their relationship than I think can be reflected in merely the complaint. I would -- so I mean, if you were to bring another 2-619, feel free.

Received 01-25-2021 11:17 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 01-25-2021 11:24 AM / Transaction #11951962 / Case #17LA000377

MR. FLYNN: Sure.

THE COURT: But I would still think it's going to be a question of fact as to what is clear -- Dulberg's claims are with respect to how he was misled or facts were concealed.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Because it's going to depend on their interaction.

MR. FLYNN: And it is the -- the language of statute is "knew or reasonably should have been known." And, again, this -- he does have counsel that came in right after my clients got out. So, again, the Blue Water Partners case says you -- potentially, you can't bury your head in the sand.

THE COURT: No, you can't. But because I -- of the absence of information --

MR. FLYNN: Fair enough.

THE COURT: -- I was reluctant to go further. The statute of limitations, you might get a little bit farther, but I still might run into a fact question.

MR. FLYNN: Understood.

THE COURT: So how long do you need?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. WALCZYK: We have a trial coming up.

THE COURT: And to answer or otherwise plead?

MR. FLYNN: 28, please.

THE COURT: All right. That would -- excuse me. Why don't we come back in -- 60 days is July 9th. How about July 11th, a Wednesday? Or do you have -- it's all the same to me, so long as I am here.

MR. FLYNN: Let's see. I believe I'm going to be out of state that week.

THE COURT: Okay. When is it convenient for you to come here? She's here all the time, so I don't --

MR. FLYNN: The following week would be --

THE COURT: What day works for either of you the following week?

MS. WALCZYK: We may actually have a trial that week. That may or may not go; I'm not sure at this point. At least the first two days, if we could do towards the end of week, that would be great for us.

THE COURT: 20th?

MR. FLYNN: 20th works.

Plaintiff, you have a motion.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge. I'd like to -- we filed our motion -- we filed -- counsel filed a response, we filed a reply. We'd like to rely on that, with one additional presentation or request of the Court.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor, but the transcript is selective.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, comment.

MR. FLYNN: I would object, Judge. The plaintiff has already filed a second amended motion and response. He's had plenty of opportunity to bring this to the Court's attention.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, final word.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, this is for the aid to -- for the Court -- this Honorable Court to understand what's going on.

As to the second amended, I replied to that, that -- the only difference between the amended and the second amended, Judge, was the stamp on Exhibit 17 didn't show up, so I re-filed it. But it was filed timely. As soon as I realized the stamp didn't show up on Exhibit 17, I re-filed it with an emphasis on the Exhibit 17. Mr. Flynn received it on time with notification that it's Exhibit 17.

THE COURT: Well, that's not the issue, but the issue is --

MR. FLYNN: It's not. And just for the record, there was a typo in my response brief. I wasn't taking issue with the timing of the filing of the second amended, other than the fact that it's two years after the deposition.

THE COURT: But that -- that's a different --

MR. FLYNN: Exactly.

THE COURT: The first issue is whether or not to -- the Court will accept plaintiff's request to submit the audio of the deposition at issue of Mr. Mast that, I believe, was taken June 25th, 2020.

MR. SCOTT DULBERG: Do you mind if I just hand it here?

THE COURT: Well, no, you're going to come up. I'm not going to accept that.

Your name, sir?

MR. SCOTT DULBERG: Scott Dulberg.

THE COURT: Okay. And you're here to deliver a Zip drive of the audio; am I correct?

MR. SCOTT DULBERG: Yes.

THE COURT: All right. And I -- But I'm going to rule on plaintiff's motion. I'm not going to accept it. I'm not going to consider it for purposes of the hearing on this motion. So you can keep it, but thank you for -- for showing up and bringing it.

MR. SCOTT DULBERG: Thank you.

THE COURT: Because -- I'm not going to accept it because I don't think it adds, materially, to my understanding of what transpired. I've got the deposition transcript. I've read the parts that I believe are relevant. I've read the motions. I've heard this argument.

I don't think that the audio tran- -- the audio recording is going to assist me in any way, based upon my understanding of what the ultimate issue is on this motion.

So that will be denied, and we'll incorporate that into the motion -- or in the order. I'm sorry.

Moving on to the motion, this is plaintiff's motion to either re-depose or strike, or both, the deposition of Mr. Mast taken June 25th, 2020; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: And, further, am I correct that the -- the reason for this is issues with respect to what's identified as Exhibit 12?

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. That's just one small part of it. The entire motion is based on Supreme Court rules and on -- or in effect at the time the deposition was taken.

THE COURT: No, no, no. Tell me the substance. Don't tell me what the rules are. Because my reading of your motion focused on Exhibit 12 and the failure -- or the alleged failure to produce it prior to the deposition or give an exhibit list.

So tell me, what is the reason why you want to re-depose Mr. Mast? Because I think that's ultimately your request.

MR. TALARICO: That's right. Judge, within our motion and our reply, we've indicated that it's not just Exhibit 12. Focusing on Exhibit 12 makes it too easy. The entire deposition -- the Internet went down almost the entire time. It's in the notes that I highlighted. It's in the transcript. They were not seeing Exhibits 1 through 15 at the same time. They weren't seeing them. They weren't being uploaded to the admin- -- the administer of -- of oath. 12 wasn't even part of it. It was added, I don't know, 14 days later.

THE COURT: But, ultimately --

MR. TALARICO: So we --

MR. TALARICO: No. They were not seen.

THE COURT: None of the exhibits were seen?

MR. TALARICO: They were not seen in accordance with the rules, your Honor.

MR. TALARICO: The rules --

Did the deponent see the exhibits, yes or no?
MR. TALARICO: No.
THE COURT: Mr. Flynn, comment.
MR. FLYNN: Judge, to say that the Internet was down for --
THE COURT: I don't want to go down there. Did the -- did Mr. Mast see the exhibits?
MR. FLYNN: My recollection and understanding is that Mr. Mast saw all of the exhibits. There may have been an issue with a portion of Exhibit 12; however, he was -- he was cross-examined at Page 49 through 52 regarding Exhibit 12, generally speaking, and the case law that was contained in his file.

THE COURT: For purposes of this record, Exhibit 12 is copies of case law; am I correct?

MR. FLYNN: Generally speaking, correct.

MR. TALARICO: That's correct, Judge. But, again, we're not just focusing on Exhibit 12. We're focusing on all the exhibits that were supposedly shown to Mr. -- to Mr. Mast. He didn't see them. He didn't see them.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: There was confusion as to what the numbers were.

THE COURT: Whose exhibits were they?

MR. TALARICO: They were the plaintiff's, but it was the defendant's equipment that caused the problem.

any -- the plaintiff's attorney, at that time, was aware of any glitches or difficulties with respect to having the deponent view all of the exhibits; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: That's correct, your Honor.

THE COURT: And the plaintiff (sic) who was representing Mr. Dulberg at the time, for whatever reason, did not raise an objection at the time or ever with respect to the manner in which the deposition proceeded.

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. (Indiscernible) she left it to me -- or to the following counsel. She said to Mr. Dulberg, Mr. Dulberg, whatever those objections are, your next counsel has to make them.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, that -- but the handling attorney at the time who represented Mr. Dulberg's interests proceeded with the deposition and did not give notice to anyone of any complaint with respect to the manner in which it was conducted; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct.

that not only does the objection have to take place at the time of the deposition itself. When the evidence is being brought -- when the evidence is being subject to admission, I can bring that -- I can raise that now and object to it.

THE COURT: Okay. But the -- the exhibits were always in control of the plaintiff's attorneys, and you're asking to penalize the defendant for what appears to be a -- an issue you have with the manner in which prior counsel conducted the deposition.

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. It's -- as far as the defendant, it's their electronic equipment that failed.

THE COURT: And there were no objections made at the time or subsequent, and this motion was brought approximately two and a half years after the deposition in question; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct. But it's also within the time of the ruling. I can do this now.

THE COURT: You can file any motion you like, but I'm -- I'm going to deny your request. I don't think that there's any reasonable basis under which I can compel the defendant to appear for a second deposition because of these issues. It appears that prior counsel was satisfied with the -- her ability to conduct the deposition, and she was always in control of all of the exhibits, so I don't see a problem there.

If anybody should have been raising an objection about the problems, it should have been defendant, not -- not the plaintiff two and a half years after the deposition they proceeded with. So I'm going to deny the request.

Anything else that we need to do today?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, just that there was some additional relief requested in the latest reply brief filed, and that included a request that the Court take judicial notice of -- what's really an implication. I think this is on Page 17 of the response.

I would just request that that specific request for relief also be denied in connection with the motion.

just filed.

THE COURT: Okay. The notice of the adjudicative facts?

MR. FLYNN: Correct. I think it says in Paragraph 12(j), plaintiff requests that this Honorable Court take judicial notice of the adjudicative fact that the references to Restatement (Second) of Torts Section 318 impliedly references Tilschner versus Spangler.

THE COURT: That -- that's not really ultimately the purpose of this motion, and it's not contained in the prayer for relief. That strikes me as a new motion. Wasn't going to consider it, and so I'm -- to the extent that I have to rule on it, on an issue I don't even think that's in front of me appropriately --

MR. FLYNN: It's just relief that was in -- in this response that I didn't have any opportunity to address.

THE COURT: Good. Because that's all I read.

MR. TALARICO: That's all I know, Judge.

THE COURT: Now I feel way better. It just said pending motions. All I could find was summary judgment. I read the motion. I read the response. I read the reply. I have read all the attachments, as they were relevant. It's your motion.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. And I wasn't sure I -- with Judge Meyer's standing orders, with respect to courtesy copies, I wasn't sure if the Court had a chance to review the briefs, but since your Honor has indicated that you have --

THE COURT: I have read everything. It's all based on a two-year statute of limitations on a lawsuit over a chain saw.

MR. FLYNN: That's exactly right. So I will be brief. The only case cited by the plaintiff in its response with respect to the accrual of the injury was a Suburban Real Estate case which is a transactional legal malpractice case, not a litigated matter. I think the -- all of the cases we have cited and including the dicta in that Suburban Real Estate case indicates that the accrual date in a litigated matter is the date of settlement, judgment or dismissal.

Here, we had a January 14 settlement that was consummated. There was a good faith finding and dismissal at that time. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Mr. Dulberg for another year or so and prosecuting the case against the other defendant in the case.

Dulberg became disillusioned with Mast, admitted that he was looking for additional counsel -- or substitute counsel even as early as July of 2014. Ultimately, Mast and Popovich withdrew in March of 2015. The case proceeded against Gagnon. There was a mediation in December of 2016 at which time he indicates now that he first became aware of his legal malpractice case.

Mr. Dulberg had every opportunity in discovery through interrogatories, production requests, I took his deposition. I asked him over and over again in several different ways how he first became aware of his injury and that it was wrongfully caused. The only response he could give was that a lawyer told him that he had a case. He couldn't provide any specifics. He has a burden of proving the -- a late discovery. He cannot meet it.

He will never be able to meet it.

THE COURT: Do we know, by the way, how did he come to me because the lawyer, if I recall, was Mr. Gooch. So he was represented by I believe Mr. Balke if I recall correctly followed by Mr. Baudin.

MR. FLYNN: That's correct.

THE COURT: Where did Mr. Gooch come into this? Who shipped him off to Mr. Gooch to even get opinion, do we know?

MR. FLYNN: One of those two lawyers, I think, recommended that he seek an opinion from a lawyer, generally speaking, that handles legal malpractice cases. Whether it was a direct referral, I don't know if the evidence shows that. I think Mr. Dulberg testified that I believe it was Mr. Baudin recommended that he see a legal malpractice attorney.

So Mr. Gooch met with him. Allegedly provided an opinion that there was a case without any reason and then almost a year later filed a lawsuit. Again, first Mr. Dulberg raised privilege when I asked him how -- how and what -- how you became aware of this legal malpractice case, the injury and the wrongful causation, he claimed privilege. Finally, that was waived or otherwise disposed of, and then, he admitted he couldn't -- I said the legal opinion Dulberg received from Gooch was verbal. Gooch simply stated you have a case here. You have a valid case. When asked did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with the representation, Dulberg said he probably did. I'm not recalling it right now. I'm pulling a blank. There are no specifics.

So again, the burden is his to prove a later discovery. He's not able to do that. I'm happy to answer any questions the Court has, but again, I'll rest on the briefs.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. Mr. Talarico, sir?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, sir. I'm -- what would you like me to address first? I guess we could start with the fact that defendant didn't follow the local rules, and therefore, plaintiff could not properly respond. And the local rule says that if they do not follow the local rules, you can strike the motion or deny it.

All I'm asking is deny the motion based on the fact that they did not follow the local rules.

THE COURT: I respectfully decline to do so, sir. A written motion could have been filed expressly asking for that relief. A response was filed that addressed it. I've read the response. I understand your concerns that by not following the local rules, they may have made it more difficult for us to suss out what are the disputed issues of material fact and what aren't. But I've been able to pretty much get a grip on everything the way it's been filed.

MR. TALARICO: All right. Thank you, Judge. The second thing is, again, we didn't follow the rules that (indiscernible) we didn't respond -- we responded generally. So I would like that the ruling you just made to extend to our response too.

THE COURT: Of course it does.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you, sir. Okay. Then, the next issue is the Suburban case. Plaintiff -- defendant, I'm sorry, defendant seems to indicate -- well, he does indicate that the reason that Suburban doesn't apply is that there is a difference between a transactional case and a litigation case. Now, I read the Suburban case many, many times over and the Supreme Court does not distinguish that their ruling is for one type of case or the other. What their ruling is is that the statute of limitation and they construed the exact specific statute does not begin until there is a pec -- pecuniary loss.

Prior to that, Mr. Dulberg would have brought an action, he would have had no damages. So that -- what that does is because the general rule and which has been voiced in -- by the Illinois Supreme Court Justice Thomas in the Porter case is that when the Supreme Court construes a statute, that becomes part of the statute until the -- the -- I can't think of the word, legislation -- legislature decides to change it. So what we have is the prior cases cited by Mr. Dulberg are not effective because he's citing it to the rule and not to the particular case we are talking about. The Suburban case says no damages, the statute does not begin to run. And that is part of the statute. It hasn't been changed.

Now, as to the last thing, we have raised many affirmative -- I mean, I'm sorry, many issues of material fact that are in dispute. But most important -- the clearest ones, Judge, are the defendant's affirmative defenses. There are four affirmative defenses which -- which plaintiff has denied all four.

Now, there is a recent case, if you'll hold on just one second, and I'll find it, but the indication -- it's not that recent, but it's -- the indication is that -- this is West Suburban Mass Transit versus Consolidated Rail Corporation. It's 1-89-2916. If this was done the Appellate Court but it was by the -- the opinion was by Justice McMorrow, who of course became Supreme Court judge, that summary judgment is not appropriate when there is affirmative defenses in dispute.

I think that pretty much sums it all, Judge. We have got many material facts in dispute, including four affirmative defenses which were denied specifically by plaintiff.

THE COURT: Respectfully, sir, merely saying something is in dispute does not make it so though, does it?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm saying that the answer filed was it was in dispute.

THE COURT: So by filing a response to their affirmative defense denying the affirmative defense, you're telling me that that in and of itself is sufficient to defeat summary judgment.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, I am.

THE COURT: What if your client --

MR. TALARICO: I --

THE COURT: What if your client at subsequent depositions testifies inconsistent with the answer?

MR. TALARICO: In the case that I cited, Judge, the burden is upon the person, in effect, in this case the defendant, to eliminate that dispute. The dispute exists as he did not resolve that dispute.

THE COURT: So when did the cause of action arise?

MR. TALARICO: December 12, 2016, I believe.

THE COURT: Why on that date?

MR. TALARICO: Because there was an arbitrary -- a mandatory arbitration hearing which I included the -- the findings that showed that the judge -- the retired judge in that case evaluated it at $660,000, and Mr. Dulberg was not able to obtain anything close to that.

THE COURT: And why not?

MR. TALARICO: Well, for two reasons, one, because he settled first improperly for $5,000 with the landowner, and the second case is because he was instructed improperly to -- to sign -- well, he actually claims he never signed the agreement, but that there was an agreement to do a binding arbitration limited to the policy amount of 300,000.

THE COURT: Who entered into that agreement?

MR. TALARICO: That is a question of fact. I don't know, but Dulberg says he did not sign it and never wanted to.

THE COURT: When was the agreement entered into?

MR. TALARICO: I don't have the exact date, Judge. A few months before that. I can only say that that was -- that was during the time that Mr. Dulberg was in bankruptcy, and that was also part of the Baudin's instruction.

THE COURT: So the agreement to limit recovery to 300,000 was signed well after the Popovich firm was no longer representing Mr. Dulberg on this matter?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, that's true.

THE COURT: So how is his change in strategy somehow extend -- so in other words, what you're saying -- well, I'm trying to wrap my head around this. You are saying that that agreement your client never wished to enter into, he didn't sign, Popovich didn't sign, Mr. Mast didn't sign. His actual third attorney signed it, Mr. Baudin, not even Mr. Balke. But because that was somehow signed and in effect, then the cause of action against Mast and Popovich for legal malpractice is extended out to the date of the final mediation hearing because of an agreement and limitation on damages at the mediation hearing over which they had zero control?

MR. TALARICO: What I am saying, Judge, is the analysis in the Suburban case, the damages -- prior to that, Mr. Dulberg had no actual damages, therefore, he couldn't bring an action. He had nothing to say that Mast cost him this much or this much or Popovich cost him this much because that would -- that would have been stricken for -- they had no damages, so he had no cause of action.

The damages arrive -- arose on the days that Mr. Dulberg found out through the binding arbitration that the case was worth so much more than what he's going to get, and therefore -- that -- that enumerates the damages.

THE COURT: But respectfully, Mr. Talarico, and please correct me if I'm wrong because this is where I'm getting the disconnect, the but-for portion of this analysis but for the high-low agreement limiting damages to the policy amount of $300,000, he would have had a judgment for the entire $660,000 if Tom Popovich and Hans Mast had never even existed.

MR. TALARICO: I'm not clear on what you are asking, Judge. Could you --

THE COURT: What I'm asking is isn't the failure to recover the $660,000 as opposed to 300,000 attributable to the high-low agreement that was entered into well over a year or if not two or more years after Popovich and Mast were out of the case?

MR. TALARICO: Well, Judge, I -- first of all, he didn't enter into it. He's claimed over and over that that's not his signature. It was forged. There is many issues about that in the bankruptcy.

THE COURT: But again, counsel -- but again, my point being I don't really care if he signed it or didn't sign it. My point being that it is that agreement that limited his damages, and that agreement was entered into way after Popovich and Mast withdrew from this case, right?

MR. TALARICO: That's right, but --

THE COURT: He so would have got -- so he would have gotten all 660,000 had that agreement not been entered into.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, but at -- before the judge ruled in that binding mediation, he had no idea how much the case was worth. They had told him it was worth $5,000 and then some. That -- that date -- that's the date when he knows when there was a factual pecuniary damage. He knows the case is worth much more than they told him and he's got numbers behind it. Before that, he had nothing to plead.

THE COURT: Respectfully, the case is worth that much against Mr. Gagnon, not necessarily against Mr. Gagnon's -- I believe it was his parents, the two people that settled out of it. The $660,000 is a finding of liability against Mr. Gagnon, isn't it?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: So how is it a finding of liability against the two people that were settled with?

MR. TALARICO: Because those people were settled with instructions by Mr. Mast that they could not win any money against them. His instructions were that they -- they would get out on summary judgment, he would get nothing, take $5,000 as a gift. He was over and over that that -- that that argument was made between Mast and between Dulberg, and some of those documents are part of what we filed.

THE COURT: All right. Anything else, Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Not at the moment, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, sir. Final word, please.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. Just briefly with respect to the pecuniary loss, the loss or the injury, which is the language used in the statute, was in January of 2014 when the case against the McGuires, Bill and Caroline McGuire. Caroline was Gagnon's mother. Bill McGuire was the stepfather. That case was foreclosed in January of 2014. No recovery could have been had other than the $5,000 at that point in time. That's when there was an injury.

The question -- the second prong of the analysis is when did he have a reasonable belief that the injury was wrongfully caused. Dulberg had every opportunity, he admitted that he had talked to hundreds of lawyers. He could have asked Balke, he could have asked Baudin. He didn't ask any of them, allegedly.

Under Illinois law, he has a duty to investigate if he thinks there is an issue. He had -- he became disillusioned with Mast in 2014. Mast withdrew in March of 2015. Again, the injury is January 2014.

THE COURT: Thank you very much.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, may I say one thing?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you. The Supreme Court case, the Suburban case makes it clear that being alerted to a problem or alerted to malpractice is not sufficient enough until -- they use the specific word alerted and say that is not sufficient. There has to be a pecuniary loss.

So whether he talked to a thousand attorneys and whether they all told him all different things, he's alerted but he had to face a loss. That's all, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you. He was clearly alerted. Let's cut to the chase. He was hesitant -- he was hesitant to ever even sign the settlement agreement to the point where it took him over two months to do it. He clearly had his doubts. He clearly had his lack of faith. He signed the settlement agreement anyway. A year later, the attorneys withdrew. He went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Met with hundreds of attorneys. He was clearly alerted.

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

When did the pecuniary loss occur? Here is the amazing part, and this is what -- where the disconnect comes on this case and it's why I'm having so much trouble with it, I'm being urged that the pecuniary loss occurred when the decision was given on the binding mediation. But the reason I believe that's a disconnect is because -- for two reasons. The loss that occurred on the binding mediation that is being urged upon the Court is a loss of what appears to be $360,000. The difference between the $660,000 that the mediator indicated the -- were the appropriate measure of damages against Mr. Gagnon and the $300,000 insurance policy limit, that $360,000 difference and the amount that was awarded and the amount that the mediator claimed should have been awarded is based on an agreement that somebody entered into. We don't know who that somebody was, but we know for a fact that that somebody was not Hans Mast or the Law Offices of Tom Popovich because the agreement occurred well after they were out of Dodge.

But didn't the pecuniary loss itself, in fact, occur if there was a cause of action to which you were alerted? The pecuniary loss occurred when he only got $5,000. I agree with defense counsel. Statute of limitations lapsed. Merely denying the statute of limitation without more in the depositions and the sworn testimony does not itself create an issue of material fact.

The motion for summary judgment is heard. It is most respectfully allowed. Thank you very much, gentlemen.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you.

THE COURT: Both of you, outstanding. Even though they didn't comply with local rules, I will say gentlemen, to both of you, outstanding pleadings. Very thorough, very well written. I had no issues going through them. I spent three days going through all of them repeatedly, and you both made my job -- well, I'm not going to say easy, but you certainly did your jobs. And I very much appreciate your time. Thank you, gentlemen.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. And for what it's worth, I apologize for not doing numbered paragraphs on the statement of facts. I did follow that format with Judge Meyer in another summary judgment motion that was granted. This case was originally before Judge Meyer. So --

THE COURT: I take no offense. I take no offense by anybody. The pleadings were what they were, and I had no issue reading them. Thank you all very much for your time.

AFFIDAVIT

Saira Pasha, being first duly sworn on oath, deposes and states as follows:

1. I am a licensed attorney in Illinois. I graduated from Chicago-Kent College of Law in 2012 and was admitted to the bar the same year. I have a Bachelor of Science degree in Operations and Information Management with an emphasis in information systems from Northern Illinois University. Since August 2020, I have worked as an independent consultant and testifying expert specializing in audit trail analysis, specifically in medical malpractice cases. I consult for and testify on behalf of both plaintiffs and defendants. A large portion of my work focuses on data integrity and completeness of production, such as obtaining prior versions of modified records and identifying, requesting, and obtaining data and records that were created but have not yet been produced. I have reviewed over 300 audit trails from more than 20 electronic medical record systems. The underlying concepts of audit trails for systems and the storage and retrieval of data from a database are essentially universal and apply to many kinds of systems, including court filing systems.

2. An audit trail is a timestamped report of actions performed by all users in a system, such as view, edit, add, delete, print, etc. In addition to audit trails, there are other reports and analytical tools that can be performed on record systems to conduct a comprehensive forensic analysis of electronically stored information.

3. I have been retained as a consultant by The Law Office of Alphonse A. Talarico for the purpose of evaluating file content discrepancies and missing file contents for a case under appellate review.

4. I reviewed the following materials for my analysis:

    - Transcript of court proceeding from 9/16/2022 titled “Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Transcript of court proceeding from 9/16/2022 titled “Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Emails to and from court reporters related to the transcripts listed above
    - Report titled “[Compare Report] Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Table of Contents of the Report of Proceedings filed on 4/24/2023 for the appellate case (2-23-0072) listing all Report of Proceedings in the file in chronological order
    - McHenry County Circuit Court’s Public Case Access website information for the underlying case (2017LA000377)

5. Based on my analysis of these materials, I conclude to a reasonable degree of professional certainty and recommend as follows:

- There are multiple substantive differences, including modifications and deletions, between two transcripts for the same court proceeding that took place on 9/16/2022. One of the edits is about a material issue: whether expert discovery was closed. To verify the accuracy of what was said at this proceeding, I recommend a forensic investigation, including but not limited to obtaining a copy of the original recording and obtaining an audit trail for the recording system itself. Based on what the audit trail from the audio recording system shows, a live forensic inspection of the system may be warranted.

- The Table of Contents for the Report of Proceedings for the appellate review that was filed on 4/24/2023 does not list all court proceeding recordings that were created in the underlying matter. It is also inconsistent with representations made on the McHenry County Circuit Court Public Case Access website. I recommend an audit trail of the appellate court's filing system(s) be produced to objectively determine which documents were uploaded to its system(s), when they were uploaded, the user(s) who uploaded the documents, and if applicable, which documents were removed from the appellate review file. Based on what the audit trails from the systems show, a live forensic inspection of the systems may be warranted.

- Because there are allegations of removing the existence of recordings from specific court proceedings from the public access website for the McHenry County Circuit, I recommend an audit and forensic investigation to obtain objective facts and the timeline of when data was added and then removed from the underlying case's record. I recommend obtaining the audit trails for McHenry County Circuit Court's filing system(s) and performing a live forensic inspection of the system if warranted by the audit trail data.

Discrepancies between two transcripts for the 9/16/2022 court proceeding

6. A court proceeding was held on 9/16/2022 in Judge Meyer's courtroom in the McHenry County Circuit Court courthouse for the underlying case (2017 L 000377).

7. The McHenry County Circuit Court courthouse uses technology that creates audio recordings of court proceedings which court reporters can access to create transcripts of those proceedings.

8. There are two distinct transcripts for this proceeding. The first transcript was emailed from a court reporter to Plaintiff on 9/26/2022 and is titled "Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg." The second transcript was emailed from a different court reporter to Plaintiff on 9/27/2022 and is titled "Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg." (The names of the files were presumably created to distinguish the transcripts).

9. There are multiple substantive differences between the two transcripts. Below is one example of a significant substantive difference in a statement made by defense counsel George Flynn about a material issue: expert discovery. The first transcript includes the phrase "You gave a ruling that expert discovery is completed" (page 5, lines 12-13)

So those (indiscernible) all relied on facts regarding the accident itself that would have taken, you know, additional five to ten pages of facts that are -- So we'd like to do that separately. In fact, we might wait until -- You gave a ruling that expert discovery is completed, but I'm going to (indiscernible) but I think (indiscernible).

10. The second transcript includes phrase "if and when expert discovery is completed" for the same page and line numbers:

So those (indiscernible) all relied on facts regarding the accident itself that would have taken, you know, additional five to ten pages of facts that are -- So we'd like to do that separately. In fact, we might wait until if and when expert discovery is completed, but -- I'm going to have some more thoughts, but I think we have plenty to chew on now.

11. These two statements are not only substantively different, they also do not sound alike when spoken aloud.

12. Another substantive difference between the two transcripts is the inclusion of the word "dilatory" in two sentences.

13. In the "Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg" transcript (page 11, line 2) the court reporter uses "(indiscernible)", implying that the word stated by Mr. Flynn could not be understood. In the next line, there are hyphens at the end of "do" in Mr. Talarico's response, implying Mr. Talarico never said any word after "do."

just don't see what the issue is.  It seems as if it's a (indiscernible) tactic to avoid --
    MR. TALARICO:  I don't do --
    THE COURT:  Hold on.  I can't rule on the motion until I see it.  I can't rule -- I can't determine

14. In "Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg," page 11, line 2, the transcription of defense counsel's statement by replacing the "(indiscernible)" with "dilatory " On the next line, plaintiff's Mr. Talarico's response is transcribed as "I don't to dilatory.." implying that the word was spoken, while the original transcript indicates no word was spoken nor was there an indiscernible sound.

```
I just don't see what the issue is.  It seems as if it's a another dilatory tactic to avoid --
    MR. TALARICO:  I don't do dilatory --
    THE COURT:  Hold on.  I can't rule on the motion until I see it.  I can't rule -- I can't determine

15. These are two examples of significant and substance differences between the two transcripts that warrant further investigation to confirm accuracy.

16. To verify the accuracy of both transcripts and determine what was actually said by the parties on 9/16/2022, I recommend obtaining the original recording of the proceeding from the McHenry County Circuit Court's audio recording system. I also recommend simultaneously obtaining an audit trail for the specific audio recording file at issue, from 9/16/2022 through present, to identify all parties who accessed the recording, when they accessed it, if any edits were made to the recording, and other objective data pertaining to the veracity of the recording.

Missing recordings of court proceedings from January and February 2018

17. The Table of Contents for the Report of Proceedings from the appellate case was filed on 4/24/2023. It lists all reports of proceedings from the underlying case included in chronological order beginning on 5/10/2018, as seen in the excerpt below:

20. As seen in the screen shot above, there was a court event on 1/10/2018 during which a motion to extend time was granted and a court event on 2/27/2019 during which a motion to dismiss was set for hearing. The third court event listed took place on 5/10/2018.

21. The recordings from the first two court events in the underlying case were not included in the file contents for appellate review. I did perform a line-item check for evert court event; it is possible recordings for other events are also missing.

22. The 1/10/2018 court event was listed as "Motion – Extend Time." I reviewed the Table of Contents to determine if any recording for a "Motion- Extend Time" court event existed and found one for 3/15/2021. Therefore, there is no reason to conclude that the 1/10/2018 recording was not included in the file materials because that type of court event is not recorded.

02/10/2021	HEARING - MOTION COMPEL	R 101-R 124 (Volume 1)
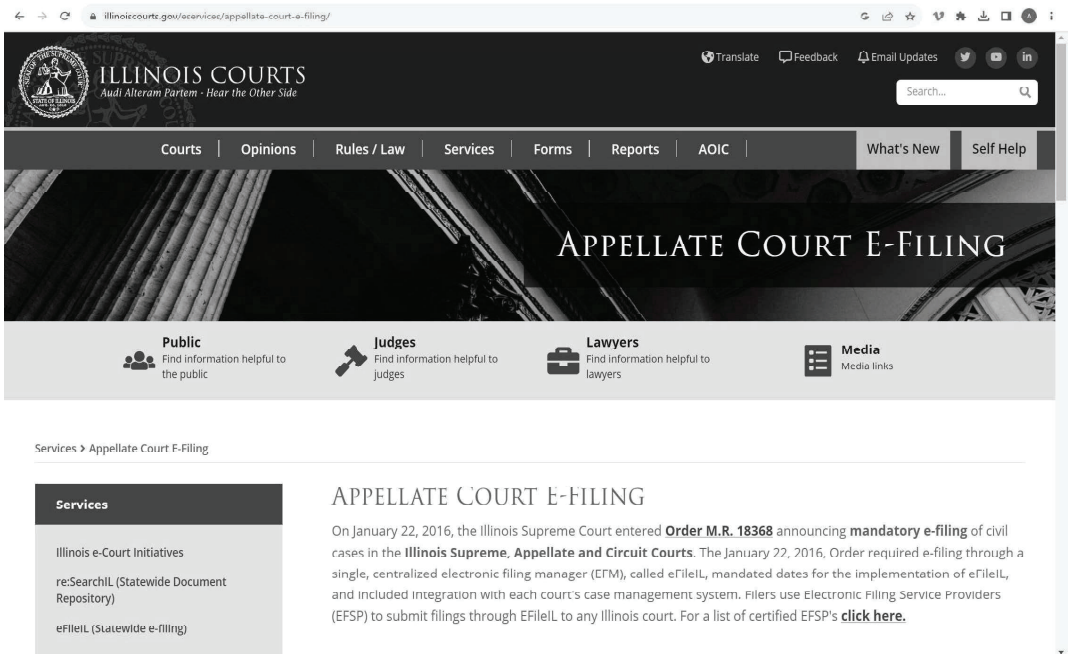
03/25/2021	HEARING - MOTION COMPEL	R 154-R 159 (Volume 1)

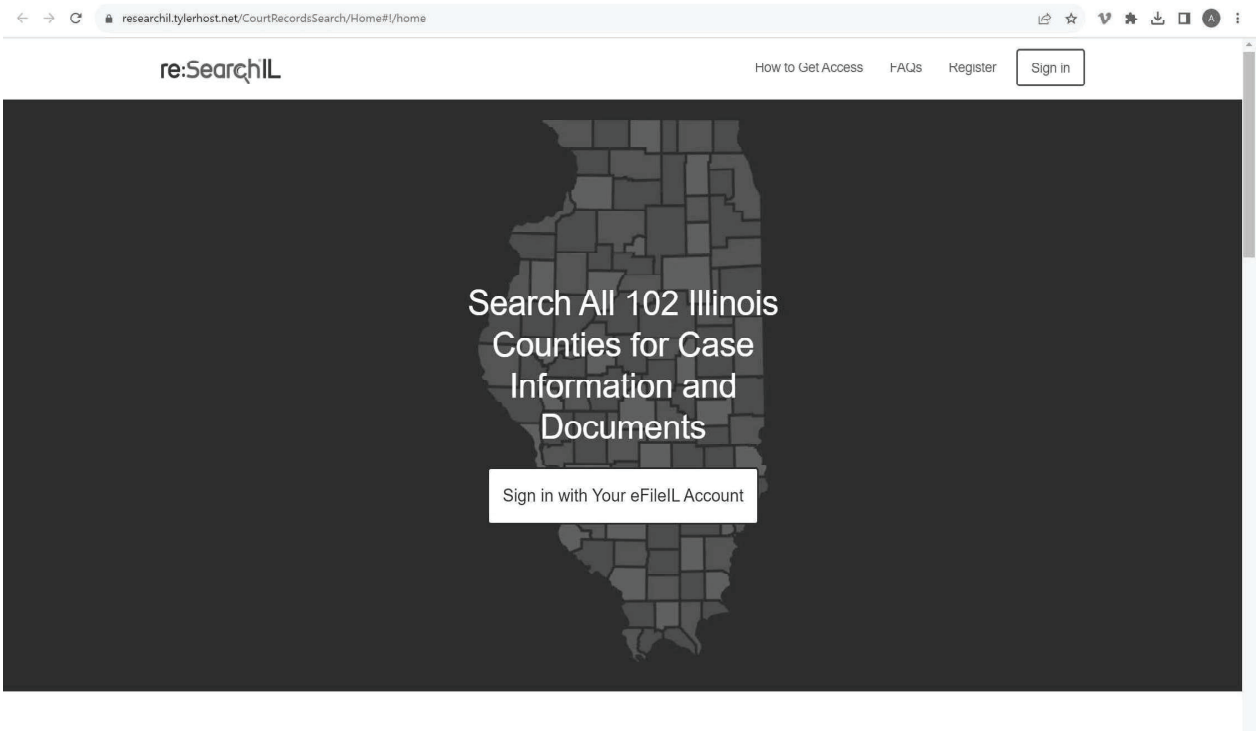
23. Plaintiff/Appellant alleges that the public record access system for McHenry County originally listed recordings for these two 2018 proceedings under the documents tab but were removed at a later date. Below is a screen shot of the top portion of the "Documents" tab for the underlying case. As the image below indicates, "Report – Proceedings" is a type of document included in the list.



24. To objectively determine if the "Documents" tab of the McHenry County Circuit Court public portal ever included a listing of "Report – Proceedings" for the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events, I recommend a forensic audit of the system(s) in which these data elements are stored and used to display information on the public access portal website.

25. To objectively determine if the recordings from the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events were 1)ever part of the McHenry County Circuit Court file for the underlying, 2) were transmitted/uploaded to the appellate court filing system, and 3) were ever received or were part of the appellate court's filing system or file, audit trails from each of the respective systems must be generated and produced. Based on the data included in those reports, a live forensic inspection of the systems may be warranted. If audit trails from those systems are not produced, I recommend performing a live forensic inspection of the systems at issue.

26. To objectively determine if recordings were created for the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events, an audit trail from the McHenry County Circuit Court audio recording system must be generated and produced. Based on the data contained in those reports, a live forensic audit of the audio recording system may be necessary.



27. The website for Illinois's court systems makes reference to two distinct systems: one document repository system and efiling systems.

28. The website displays several options for efiling:

29. The document repository system link takes you to a separate system called re:SearchIL, managed by Tyler Technologies.

30. Based on my preliminary review of these websites and technologies, the systems used by both the appellate court and the circuit court in this case are capable of producing audit trails for regulatory and compliance reporting. These reports can also be used to verify the integrity of the records and data in this matter.

Under penalty of perjury, I certify the above statements are true and correct.

Hi Ms. Williams -- This is Barb Smith, the court reporter from US Legal that was present at the dep of Hans Mast on 6-25-20. I am currently working on the transcript and while preparing the exhibits I noticed that Exhibit No. 12, which is the 27 pages of legal research, did not download completely. The Exhibit 12 that I have has blank pages 1-22 and only pages 23-27 have print on them. I just wanted to let you know and check if you wanted to resend or if that's how No. 12 is supposed to be.

Thank you.

Hi Noelle -- Hope you're doing well. I just want to let you know I submitted this job, 923267, last night. Two things I wanted to let you know about. First, this job and 925187 were both submitted last night. These are the first two I used Box for the exhibits. I hope I did them correctly. If there's any problems, please let me know.

For 923267 I have another issue. One of the exhibits, #12, was downloaded during the Zoom session. It's 27 pages and when I first looked at it I noticed that pages 1-22 were blank. I emailed Julia Williams, our client, on 7-2 about this. She responded and the message section of her email was blank. I waited for another email but received none. On 7-6 I called and left her a message and have not received a response. I did note all of this information in the email that I sent the job with.

The main reason I'm telling you all of this is that I am going to be out of town Thursday and Friday. My daughter is getting married in Arkansas so I will not be bringing my computer with me and will be quite busy. Hopefully I hear from her on Wednesday.

Thanks,

Barb

MEMORANDUM

TO: Tom, Marla, Diana and Alarie

FROM: Hans

DATE: December 5, 2011

SUBJECT: PAUL DULBERG - NEW CLIENT

HAM
B/C the accident occurred on their premises, their H.O. med-pay will cover the bills.

On December 1, 2011, I met Paul Dulberg and his mother, concerning a recent injury that Paul suffered at a friend's house due to a chainsaw accident on June 28, 2011. Paul was referred to our office by a former client, Hubert McArtor. Paul had previously been with Francisco Botto in Woodstock but they rejected the case. He did sign a contract with Botto but we have correspondence in the file that they rejected him and sent him away. They did not refer him to us. Apparently, they rejected the case because they did not think that they would be able to prove that the defendant was more than 50% negligent causing the accident. I disagree.

Paul's contact information is as follows:

Paul Dulberg
4606 Hayden Court
McHenry, IL 60051
847/497-4250
SSN 323-76-4001
DOB 03-19-70
DOA 06/28/11

Paul describes that he was at a friend's house, Caroline and Bill McGuire who live at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, McHenry, IL 60051, phone 815/344-4274. The McGuire's son, Dave was at the home and Dave was cutting up some tree limbs in the yard. Caroline had called Paul over to the house earlier to see if he wanted the wood for firewood. Dave asked Paul to hold some tree limbs while he cut them up. He had held two tree branches previously and then about an hour after he arrived he was holding another branch and Dave suddenly swung around with the chainsaw rising it in the air and cutting his Paul's forearm severely while holding on to a branch. Paul said that the chainsaw went about 40% through his forearm. Dave took him immediately to NIMC where they stitched him up. It was a very deep and open wound. Unfortunately, he did not take any photos of the wound. Instead, he followed up with his family physician, Dr. Frank Sek on Route 120 in McHenry who removed the stitches about a week later. Dr. Sek thought there was going to be possible nerve damage due to his arm being very painful. About two weeks later he went to a doctor at the Associates in Neurology in Libertyville and they took and EMG test which found that there were some branch nerves that had been severed which may be the cause of his ongoing pain. They thought that the pain was probably more ligamentous and they referred him to Dr. Paul Papierski, phone 847/247-0547. That was in August. He has not returned to see Dr. Papierski because apparently they needed an MRI and he did not have money to pay for an MRI. I urged him to return to see Dr. Papierski and to have the MRI done even if they have to hold a lien on our case. His arm is very painful when he lifts anything and he drops things continuously. He said that he will follow up with Dr. Papierski and advise me further what needs to be done as far as treatment.

At the time of the accident he was not employed but he had been just recently hired when the accident occurred by AMS Screw Products in Spring Grove. He was going to earn $12 an hour for 40 hours per week. He had talked to Karen over at AMS Screw and she agreed to hire him, but unfortunately, he was injured before he could start work. Their phone number is 732/545-8888x231.

The central issue in my view in this case is whether there is insurance coverage. Since the son was not living with the McGuire's at the time of the accident, it may be that David Gagnon is not going to be insured for the accident. However, Paul and his mother advised me that Dave also had a home and lived at 39010 90th Place in Genoa City, Wisconsin. Therefore, hopefully he has homeowner's insurance that will apply to this claim as well as med-pay coverage to help pay for the MRI that needs to be done.

The McGuire's were insured by:

Claim No. 13-2779-11

By copy of this memo, I ask Alarie to set up a new file.

By copy of this memo, I ask Marla to order the medical records and bills from NIMC, Dr. Frank Sek and Associates in Neurology in Libertyville. Please also diary the 1 and 2 year SOL deadlines in this case.

Thanks,

Paul, here are my thoughts regarding your case. There are two issues. The first liability, or whether Mr. Gagnon is liable for your injury. If he is not proven liable, then it does not matter how badly you were hurt since he will not be found responsible for your damages. The second issue is your damages, or to what extent you were injured due to Mr. Gagnon’s acts.
Both of these issues are strongly contested in your case.
As to liability, there were no witnesses to the accident. So, whether Mr. Gagnon will be held responsible for your damages is uncertain and a gamble. That is because it is your word against his word. Our argument is that you were simply holding a limb when he caused the chain saw to strike you. His argument is that you moved your arm in the path of the chain saw unexpectedly. If the jury determines that we did not prove your "version" of the accident, then they can find against you and in favor of Mr. Gagnon at trial.
As to damages, the issue is complicated. That is because your treating physicians do not all agree on exactly what injury you suffered or whether your had a fully recovery or not.
Dr. Talerico at MidAmerica Hand and Shoulder, saw you twice. The first time was in December, six months after your injury. He was not supportive of your claim in most respects. He didn’t really feel there was anything wrong with you - as to the forearm. He said that you complained mostly of pain radiating down the forearm from the laceration site with numbness and tingling. On exam he noted no tenderness and it was mostly a normal presentation. Strength was good. He did not see any nerve problem. He prescribed physical therapy due to a muscular sort of symptomology - not nerve related. Apparently you did only 2 sessions of therapy and returned January, 2012. No new complaints at the time. The EMG was normal. He did not believe you were disabled. He continued you on therapy. He saw no evidence of nerve problems. The only symptoms were subjective - not represented by any abnormal exam finding.
Dr. Sagerman has also been deposed. I will summarize his testimony for your soon. His was more favorable, but still limited in what he related to the chain saw accident. Apparently he does not believe you presently have any symptoms relatable to the chain saw injury.
Think about these issues. I will provide you Dr. Sagerman’s summary soon.
Hans

Morning Hans,Wanted to touch base this morning because the call from you about something not being medically linked has been on my mind.I'm not sure what was said during that deposition with the drs that prompted the call but I have been thinking about what it could be. Most likely it was the right elbow procedure. During my deposition I remember being asked if the two were linked and I answered yes. Let me explain my answer to you. If the chainsaw had not gone through my arm then the procedure on my elbow wouldn't have happened. That procedure was exploratory to find what was bothering the arm from the chainsaw. Upon opening up the arm they did find some compressions which from my understanding was nothing unusual for a male of my age and very well may or may not have happened during my retreat from the chainsaw when I ended up half way across the yard on the ground. Incidental finding or not it still would not have been found if I hadn't had the chainsaw incident. So as I see it they are linked good or bad and cannot be separated. The exploratory procedure was to find and possibly fix issues relating to the chainsaw incident. They also removed a ton of scar tissue in the forearm on the same day during the same exploratory procedure that was a direct result of the chainsaw.

Hope this helps explain things better.Let me know,Thanks,Paul

Below is a link to an article talking about the integration of digital cameras at the centegra facilities.

A friend of mine who works at NIMC for well over a decade just replied to me and she says everything is recorded and available exactly for the purposes we discussed.

I still don't get how they don't feel responsible for work done on their property by their own son that ended up cutting through 40% of my arm.

Perhaps their negligence is the fact that they didn't supervise the work close enough but they did oversee much of the days activity with David. Just because Dave was doing the work doesn't mean they were not trying to tell their kid what to do. They told him plenty of times throughout the day what to do. How is that not supervising?

Case: Paul Dulberg v. David Gagnon, Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire
(McHenry County Case No. 12 LA 178)

Issued For Settlement Purposes Only

Dear Mr. Mast:

I am writing to confirm our telephone conversation earlier this morning, wherein I advised you that I was authorized to propose settlement of Mr. Dulberg's claim against Carolyn and Bill McGuire for a lump-sum total of $5,000.00. The settlement would of course be contingent upon customary settlement documents, including a release, a good faith settlement finding and dismissal.

Pursuant to your request, I searched my file materials for lien notices. The only notice of lien contained in my file at this time is your Attorney's Lien (enclosed). I have asked my contact at Auto-Owners Insurance Company to confirm no lien notices have arrived on his end since Mr. Dulberg's case was assigned to me for the defense of Mr. and Mrs. McGuire. I do not anticipating any lien notices, but just wanted to be safe.

I understand that you intend to run my settlement proposal by Mr. Dulberg. I look forward to hearing from you once you have had a chance to confer with him.

Very truly yours,

DATE: November 20, 2013

SUBJECT: PAUL DULBERG

On November 20, 2013, I met with Paul and his friend to discuss the McGuire's $5,000 settlement offer and other issues with regard to this case. I also told them there is a dispute as to McGuire's liability, as they maintain that they were not directing Dave's work. Paul maintains that the McGuire's controlled everything that Dave was doing. I told him that that's not what the evidence seems to show. I told them the McGuire's could possibly get out of the case on motion, and the alternative is to accept the $5,000 offer. Paul wants to read the deps of the McGuire's and also wants us to order his and Dave's dep to review. I agreed to do so.

By copy of this memo, I ask Sheila to order copies of Paul and Dave's deps. I think defense counsel ordered them, so all we need to do is get copies. Please let me know if the copies have not been already ordered so we don't have to order the originals.

Thanks,

Hans

power plant to recover for injuries sustained when he slipped and fell on wet concrete floor. The Circuit Court, Cook County, Dean Sodaro, J., granted summary judgment for owner, and employee appealed. The Appellate Court, Cerda, P.J., held that owner's duty to maintain safe workplace did not include mopping up water that accumulated on floor when snow and ice from pipes used in construction project melted onto floor, causing puddles of water.

Affirmed.

1. Judgment ⇐185(2)

Although plaintiff does not have to try his case on defendant's motion for summary judgment, he must provide factual basis which would arguably entitle him to judgment.

2. Appeal and Error ⇐949

Determination that summary judgment is appropriate will not be reversed absent abuse of trial court's discretion such that plaintiff's right to fundamental justice is violated.

3. Negligence ⇐32(2.10)

Landowner owed duty to independent contractor's employee to maintain reasonably safe workplace.

4. Negligence ⇐50

Landowner's duty to independent contractor's employee to maintain reasonably safe workplace did not extend to taking precautions against water tracked inside from natural accumulation outside.

5. Negligence ⇐2, 10

Duty is determined by considering number of factors, including foreseeability of harm, likelihood of injury, magnitude of burden of guarding against it, consequences of placing that burden on defendant, public policy, and social considerations.

6. Negligence ⇐29, 44

Landowner owes no duty where natural accumulation of snow, ice or water exists on outside or is tracked into building by pedestrian traffic.

7. Negligence ⇐28

Property owner has duty and may be liable in negligence when injuries are result of unnatural or artificial accumulation of snow, ice or water, or natural condition aggravated by owner's use of area and creation of condition.

8. Negligence ⇐50

Duty owed by owner of nuclear power plant to independent contractor's employee to provide reasonably safe workplace did not include duty to mop up water that accumulated on concrete floor when snow and ice from pipes being brought in from outside for use in construction project melted onto floor, causing puddles of water, where there was no evidence that owner did anything to aggravate that condition, but instead condition was continuation of natural accumulation.

Lane and Munday, Thomas J. Nathan, Chicago, for plaintiff-appellant.

Johnson, Cusack and Bell, Ltd., John W. Bell, Michael B. Gunzburg and Thomas H. Fegan, Chicago, for defendant-appellee.

Presiding Justice CERDA delivered the opinion of the court:

Plaintiff, Byong K. Choi, brought this action against defendant Commonwealth Edison Company seeking recovery for injuries sustained when plaintiff fell on a concrete floor while working at a construction site. The trial court granted defendant's motion for summary judgment. On appeal, plaintiff argues that the trial court erred in granting defendant's motion for summary judgment because a genuine issue of material fact exists. In addition, he argues that the trial court erred by failing to recognize defendant's duty to provide a safe workplace for workmen engaged in construction work on its premises and by failing to extend that duty to include taking precautions against the accumulation of water inside the building.

On January 10, 1979, plaintiff Choi was employed by Universal Power Piping, Inc. (UPP) as a welder at the Dresden Nuclear Power Plant, which is owned by defendant

Dulberg 000302

Commonwealth Edison Company. UPP was a subcontractor hired by Commonwealth Edison to complete installation of a decontamination flushing system in the Reactor 1 building. Plaintiff was working on the third-floor turbine deck receiving pipes brought in from the outside by UPP employees. While stored outside, the pipes became encrusted with snow and ice. Once inside, the pipes were raised from the ground floor to the third-floor turbine deck area by an overhead crane, which was operated by a Commonwealth Edison employee. Then, the pipe was taken from the crane, placed on a cart, and moved through the interlock hatch to the reactor building by UPP employees, including plaintiff. Snow and ice melted from the frozen pipes, forming puddles of water on the deck wherever the pipes were transported. Plaintiff was working in this manner all day prior to the accident.

As plaintiff and a co-worker were carrying a pipe, approximately 20 feet long and 10 inches in diameter, plaintiff slipped on water that was on the concrete floor. He fell backward, hitting his back on a pipe, and a floor spacer fell across his mid-section, causing injuries.

Previously, the appellate court upheld the trial court's summary judgment order for defendant regarding a Structural Work Act (Ill.Rev.Stat.1983, ch. 48, pars. 60 through 69). (Choi v. Commonwealth Edison Co. (1984), 129 Ill.App.3d 878, 85 Ill. Dec. 17, 473 N.E.2d 385.) In plaintiff's second amended complaint, he alleged that defendant was guilty of several negligent acts in its supervision of the construction work. Defendant filed a motion for summary judgment, arguing that under Illinois law, it had no duty to take precautions against natural accumulations of snow, ice or water that were tracked into a building. Defendant noted that the UPP foreman's deposition stated that he did not inform Edison of the condition because it was the duty of the contractor's own employees to clean up after themselves. Defendant pointed out that the snow came from pipes that plaintiff and his co-workers had brought in and carried to the area.

In response to defendant's motion for summary judgment, plaintiff argued that defendant owed him a duty to maintain a reasonably safe work place because it retained control over the construction work performed by UPP employees and could stop the work in progress for safety or other reasons. Plaintiff also argued that defendant breached that duty by failing to provide a reasonably safe workplace and by failing to stop work that was being performed in an unsafe manner. In addition, plaintiff contended that the melted snow and ice that caused the unsafe condition did not accumulate naturally, was not transported into the building by pedestrian traffic, and was caused by defendant's refusal to allow the pipes to be brought into the building and cleaned off before being transported to the work area. Plaintiff notes that the deposition of Commonwealth Edison's superintendent stated that Commonwealth Edison employees had the responsibility to clean snow and ice which came into the building, had the authority to stop work being performed in an unsafe manner, and regularly inspected the area.

Concluding that the facts were essentially undisputed, the trial court ordered summary judgment for defendant. The trial court stated that there was a common law duty of an occupier of land to exercise reasonable care for the safety of people lawfully on the premises, but that duty did not extend to a building owner being required to mop up water from an accumulation of snow, ice or water brought inside a building construction site. The trial court indicated that it would be an impossible burden placed on an owner of a building construction site to require following the independent contractor's employees around, mopping up every drip of water brought in from the outside. The trial court further ruled that Commonwealth Edison did not create the dangerous condition, but merely failed to clean up a mess which is common whenever building materials from the outside of a building are moved into a building.

The trial court analogized this case to Lohan v. Walgreens Co. (1986), 140 Ill. App.3d 171, 173, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679, which ruled that a landowner has no duty to clean up snow, ice or water that is tracked into a building from a natural accumulation on the outside. The trial court made no finding whether the accumulation inside the building was natural or unnatural, but did state that the water began as a natural accumulation of snow and ice on the pipes outside, and was brought into the building the same way as people tracking it on their feet. The trial court did not consider the expert's affidavit and deposition because it was not factually based. The expert did not actually examine the premises, the court noted, but merely looked at photographs.

After the trial court denied plaintiff's motion to reconsider, plaintiff appealed the summary judgment order. Plaintiff's argument emphasizes that Commonwealth Edison owed him a duty to maintain a safe workplace even though he was employed by an independent contractor hired by Commonwealth Edison. He asserts that the duty included mopping up water that accumulated on the building's floor when snow and ice from the pipes melted onto the floor, causing puddles of water. Plaintiff relies on cases holding that the landowner owes a duty to the employee of an independent contractor if the owner retains sufficient control over the contractor's work. Claudy v. City of Sycamore (1988), 170 Ill.App.3d 990, 120 Ill.Dec. 812, 524 N.E.2d 994; See Haberer v. Village of Sauget (1987), 158 Ill.App.3d 313, 110 Ill.Dec. 628, 511 N.E.2d 805; Tsourmas v. Dineff (1987), 161 Ill.App.3d 897, 113 Ill.Dec. 758, 515 N.E.2d 743; Weber v. Northern Illinois Gas Co. (1973), 10 Ill.App.3d 625, 295 N.E.2d 41; Pasko v. Commonwealth Edison Co. (1973), 14 Ill.App.3d 481, 302 N.E.2d 642. These cases state that the duty owed is to maintain a reasonably safe workplace.

Even if the water began as a natural accumulation on the outside, plaintiff asserts, Commonwealth Edison's intervening acts caused the water to be unnaturally accumulated on the inside of the building. In the alternative, plaintiff states, the condition was aggravated by Commonwealth Edison because it would not allow the pipes to be stored inside where the snow and ice could be safely removed after it melted. Furthermore, plaintiff argues, the pipes were brought in from the outside and loaded onto an overhead crane operated by a Commonwealth Edison employee. The overhead crane then took the pipes to the third floor of the building, where UPP employees transported the pipes through a tunnel into the reactor building. By the time the pipes reached the third floor, the snow and ice was melting, and water from the pipes was dripping on the floor. It is on that water that plaintiff fell and injured himself.

Defendant responds that the water was a natural accumulation tracked in from the outside by UPP employees, including plaintiff. It asserts that this situation should be treated the same as a natural accumulation tracked in from the outside by pedestrian traffic, thus creating no duty by the landowner.

Defendant relies on two types of cases: those concerning natural accumulations of snow, ice or water outdoors and those concerning snow, ice or water tracked into a building from the outside, whether tracked in by pedestrians' shoes, coats or umbrellas. In Lohan, 140 Ill.App.3d at 172, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679, the plaintiff slipped and fell on water that had been tracked from the outside into the common hallway of the defendants' stores. The appellate court ruled that the owners did not have a duty to continuously remove the tracks left by customers who had walked through the natural accumulations of snow or water outside, tracking them inside. Even if the owner has knowledge that the accumulation caused a dangerous condition, the court stated, there is no duty if the accumulation is natural. (Lohan, 140 Ill.App.3d at 173, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679.) See also Handy v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1989), 182 Ill.App.3d 969, 131 Ill.Dec. 471, 538 N.E.2d 846 (summary judgment in favor of defendant store affirmed where plaintiff slipped and fell on water located within store); Shoemaker v. Rush–Presbyterian–St. Luke's Medical Center (1989), 187 Ill.App.3d 1040, 135 Ill.Dec. 446, 543 N.E.2d 1014 (hospital had no duty to clean up natural accumulation of water tracked into hospital on pedestrians' coats and umbrellas); Serritos v. Chicago Transit Authority (1987), 153 Ill.App.3d 265, 106 Ill.Dec. 243, 505 N.E.2d 1034 (city transit authority had no duty where plaintiff fell on snow and slush covered steps of bus owned and operated by defendant).

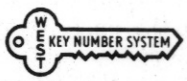
[1, 2] The purpose of summary judgment is to determine whether a triable issue of fact exists. (Haberer, 158 Ill.App.3d at 316, 110 Ill.Dec. 628, 511 N.E.2d 805.) It may be granted if the pleadings, exhibits, affidavits, and depositions on file establish that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. (Ill.Rev. Stat.1985, ch. 110, par. 2–1005(c); Branson v. R & L Investment, Inc. (1990), 196 Ill. App.3d 1088, 1090, 143 Ill.Dec. 689, 554 N.E.2d 624.) Although the plaintiff does not have to try his case, he must provide a factual basis which would arguably entitle him to judgment. (Handy, 182 Ill.App.3d at 972, 131 Ill.Dec. 471, 538 N.E.2d 846.) The determination that summary judgment is appropriate will not be reversed absent an abuse of the trial court's discretion such that the plaintiff's right to fundamental justice is violated. Breeze v. Payne (1989), 181 Ill.App.3d 720, 727, 130 Ill.Dec. 386, 537 N.E.2d 453.



[3–5] Commonwealth Edison owed plaintiff the duty to maintain a reasonably safe workplace, but it did not extend to taking precautions against water tracked inside from a natural accumulation outside. Duty is determined by considering a number of factors: the foreseeability of harm (Breeze, 181 Ill.App.3d at 727, 130 Ill.Dec. 386, 537 N.E.2d 453), the likelihood of the injury, the magnitude of the burden of guarding against it, the consequences of placing that burden on the defendant, public policy, and social considerations. Dealers Service & Supply Co. v. St. Louis National Stock. (1987), 155 Ill.App.3d 1075, 1080, 108 Ill.Dec. 664, 508 N.E.2d 1241.

[6, 7] In Illinois, a landowner owes no duty where a natural accumulation of snow, ice or water exists on the outside or is tracked into a building by pedestrian traffic. (Lohan, 140 Ill.App.3d at 172, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679.) However, a property owner does have a duty and may be liable where the injuries are a result of an unnatural or artificial accumulation, or a natural condition aggravated by the owner's use of the area and creation of the condition. (Handy v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1989), 182 Ill.App.3d 969, 971, 131 Ill. Dec. 471, 538 N.E.2d 846.) To establish a duty, the plaintiff must make an affirmative showing of an unnatural accumulation or an aggravation of a natural condition before recovery will be allowed. (McCann v. Bethesda Hospital (1979), 80 Ill.App.3d 544, 549, 35 Ill.Dec. 879, 400 N.E.2d 16.) Plaintiff made no such showing in this case.

[8] Therefore, summary judgment for defendant was proper. The water in the nuclear power plant was a continuation of a natural accumulation. There was no evidence presented that Commonwealth Edison did anything to aggravate the condition. To require an owner of a construction site to follow workmen around and immediately clean up any melting snow, ice or water that had been brought in from the outside would be too high a burden.

Affirmed.

9. State the name and address of each witness that knows or claims to know the circumstances of the alleged accident, how it occurred or how the Plaintiff became injured – as alleged in the Complaint.

ANSWER: On information and belief, David Gagnon and Paul Dulberg were present at the time of the alleged occurrence and therefore know the circumstances surrounding the occurrence. Answering further, Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire were not present at the time of the occurrence but knew that David Gagnon and Paul Dulberg were present on the date of the occurrence. From conversations with David Gagnon, the answering Defendants believe that Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg had been cutting logs and tree branches into smaller sections without incident. While in the process of cutting tree branches Paul Dulberg unexpectedly and without warning moved his right arm directly in the path of the running chain saw. Investigation continues.

10. With respect to the chain saw that was being operated on the premises at the time of the alleged injury, state as follows:

a. Who was operating the chain saw at the time of the Plaintiff's alleged injury;

b. Who owned the chain saw at the time of Plaintiff's alleged injury;

c. who requested that the chain saw be used to perform work at the time of Plaintiff's injury.

ANSWER:

a. On information and belief, David Gagnon was operating the chain saw at the time Mr. Dulberg was injured.

b. Bill McGuire was the owner of the chain saw on the date of the occurrence.

c. David Gagnon had Bill McGuire's permission to use the chain saw.

11. With respect to David Gagnon's experience in use of a chain saw prior to the date of the alleged accident, state as follows:

a. How many times had David Gagnon operated the same or similar chain saw prior to the date of alleged accident;

b. What formal training did David Gagnon receive in use or operation of a chain saw prior to the occurrence alleged;

c. Who, if any, (names and addresses) trained David Gagnon in use or operation of a chain saw prior to the occurrence.

ANSWER:

a. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, and to the best of the answering parties' knowledge, David Gagnon has used chain saws in the past but the answering parties do not known how often he has used chain saws in the past.

b. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, the answering parties do not know whether David Gagnon has been formally trained the use or operation of a chain saw. Answering further, the answering parties are aware that Mr. Gagnon has used chain saws many times in the past and he appears/appeared to know what he is doing.

c. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, the answering party do now know whether or by whom David Gagnon was trained in the use of chain saws. Answering further, the answering parties are aware that Mr. Gagnon has used chain saws many times in the past and he appears/appeared to know what he is doing.

12. What was the scope of work or task David Gagnon was engaged in with use of the chain saw at or about the time of the alleged accident.

ANSWER:

To the extent "scope of work" or "engaged" constitute legal conclusions, the answering Defendants object to Interrogatory No. 12. Answering subject to objection, at the time of the alleged occurrence, the answering Defendants were in the process of replacing an old shed on their property. Paul Dulberg helped David Gagnon tear down the old shed. The answering Defendants further believe that Mr. Dulberg took the components of the old shed to his property for eventual reassembly. On the date of the occurrence, Mr. Dulberg was helping David Gagnon take down several trees to make room for a new shed. On information and belief, prior to the occurrence Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg had been cutting logs and tree branches into smaller sections without incident. While in the process of cutting tree branches Paul Dulberg unexpectedly and without warning moved his right arm directly in the path of the running chain saw. Answering further, the answering Defendants did not engage, hire or pay either individual for their activities on site. Nor did either answering Defendant dictate, control or otherwise supervise the methods and means by which Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg performed the tree and branch cutting at issue.

13. Who (names and addresses) requested or chose to engage Gagnon in the "task" of use and operation of the chain saw at or about the time of the alleged accident.

ANSWER:

To the extent the words "chose" and "engage" constitute legal conclusions, the answering Defendants object to Interrogatory No. 13. Answering subject to objection, David Gagnon undertook the tree cutting and trimming in question as a favor to his parents. He was not engaged, hired or paid for the activities in question.

14. What instructions or guidance, if any, was given to Gagnon prior to Plaintiff's alleged injury/accident with regard to how he was to perform the chain saw work at the premises.

ANSWER: See response to Interrogatory No. 11.

Investigation continues.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Tom, Marla, Diana and Alarie

FROM: Hans

DATE: December 5, 2011

SUBJECT: PAUL DULBERG - NEW CLIENT

HAM
B/C the accident occurred on their premises, their H.O. med-pay will cover the bills.

On December 1, 2011, I met Paul Dulberg and his mother, concerning a recent injury that Paul suffered at a friend's house due to a chainsaw accident on June 28, 2011. Paul was referred to our office by a former client, Hubert McArtor. Paul had previously been with Francisco Botto in Woodstock but they rejected the case. He did sign a contract with Botto but we have correspondence in the file that they rejected him and sent him away. They did not refer him to us. Apparently, they rejected the case because they did not think that they would be able to prove that the defendant was more than 50% negligent causing the accident. I disagree.

Paul's contact information is as follows:

Paul Dulberg
4606 Hayden Court
McHenry, IL 60051
847/497-4250
SSN 323-76-4001
DOB 03-19-70
DOA 06/28/11

Paul describes that he was at a friend's house, Caroline and Bill McGuire who live at 1016 W. Elder Avenue, McHenry, IL 60051, phone 815/344-4274. The McGuire's son, Dave was at the home and Dave was cutting up some tree limbs in the yard. Caroline had called Paul over to the house earlier to see if he wanted the wood for firewood. Dave asked Paul to hold some tree limbs while he cut them up. He had held two tree branches previously and then about an hour after he arrived he was holding another branch and Dave suddenly swung around with the chainsaw rising it in the air and cutting his Paul's forearm severely while holding on to a branch. Paul said that the chainsaw went about 40% through his forearm. Dave took him immediately to NIMC where they stitched him up. It was a very deep and open wound. Unfortunately, he did not take any photos of the wound. Instead, he followed up with his family physician, Dr. Frank Sek on Route 120 in McHenry who removed the stitches about a week later. Dr. Sek thought there was going to be possible nerve damage due to his arm being very painful. About two weeks later he went to a doctor at the Associates in Neurology in Libertyville and they took and EMG test which found that there were some branch nerves that had been severed which may be the cause of his ongoing pain. They thought that the pain was probably more ligamentous and they referred him to Dr. Paul Papierski, phone 847/247-0547. That was in August. He has not returned to see Dr. Papierski because apparently they needed an MRI and he did not have money to pay for an MRI. I urged him to return

Exhibit 3
Witness: Hans Mast
Date: 6/25/20
Court Reporter: Barb Smith

to see Dr. Papierski and to have the MRI done even if they have to hold a lien on our case. His arm is very painful when he lifts anything and he drops things continuously. He said that he will follow up with Dr. Papierski and advise me further what needs to be done as far as treatment.

At the time of the accident he was not employed but he had been just recently hired when the accident occurred by AMS Screw Products in Spring Grove. He was going to earn $12 an hour for 40 hours per week. He had talked to Karen over at AMS Screw and she agreed to hire him, but unfortunately, he was injured before he could start work. Their phone number is 732/545-8888x231.

The central issue in my view in this case is whether there is insurance coverage. Since the son was not living with the McGuire's at the time of the accident, it may be that David Gagnon is not going to be insured for the accident. However, Paul and his mother advised me that Dave also had a home and lived at 39010 90th Place in Genoa City, Wisconsin. Therefore, hopefully he has homeowner's insurance that will apply to this claim as well as med-pay coverage to help pay for the MRI that needs to be done.

The McGuire's were insured by:

Auto Owners Insurance

847/531-5420

Claim No. 13-2779-11

By copy of this memo, I ask Alarie to set up a new file.

By copy of this memo, I ask Marla to order the medical records and bills from NIMC, Dr. Frank Sek and Associates in Neurology in Libertyville. Please also diary the 1 and 2 year SOL deadlines in this case.

Thanks,

Hans

Paul, here are my thoughts regarding your case. There are two issues. The first liability, or whether Mr. Gagnon is liable for your injury. If he is not proven liable, then it does not matter how badly you were hurt since he will not be found responsible for your damages. The second issue is your damages, or to what extent you were injured due to Mr. Gagnon’s acts.
Both of these issues are strongly contested in your case.
As to liability, there were no witnesses to the accident. So, whether Mr. Gagnon will be held responsible for your damages is uncertain and a gamble. That is because it is your word against his word. Our argument is that you were simply holding a limb when he caused the chain saw to strike you. His argument is that you moved your arm in the path of the chain saw unexpectedly. If the jury determines that we did not prove your "version" of the accident, then they can find against you and in favor of Mr. Gagnon at trial.
As to damages, the issue is complicated. That is because your treating physicians do not all agree on exactly what injury you suffered or whether your had a fully recovery or not.
Dr. Talerico at MidAmerica Hand and Shoulder, saw you twice. The first time was in December, six months after your injury. He was not supportive of your claim in most respects. He didn’t really feel there was anything wrong with you - as to the forearm. He said that you complained mostly of pain radiating down the forearm from the laceration site with numbness and tingling. On exam he noted no tenderness and it was mostly a normal presentation. Strength was good. He did not see any nerve problem. He prescribed physical therapy due to a muscular sort of symptomology - not nerve related. Apparently you did only 2 sessions of therapy and returned January, 2012. No new complaints at the time. The EMG was normal. He did not believe you were disabled. He continued you on therapy. He saw no evidence of nerve problems. The only symptoms were subjective - not represented by any abnormal exam finding.
Dr. Sagerman has also been deposed. I will summarize his testimony for your soon. His was more favorable, but still limited in what he related to the chain saw accident. Apparently he does not believe you presently have any symptoms relatable to the chain saw injury.
Think about these issues. I will provide you Dr. Sagerman’s summary soon.
Hans

Morning Hans,Wanted to touch base this morning because the call from you about something not being medically linked has been on my mind.I'm not sure what was said during that deposition with the drs that prompted the call but I have been thinking about what it could be. Most likely it was the right elbow procedure. During my deposition I remember being asked if the two were linked and I answered yes. Let me explain my answer to you. If the chainsaw had not gone through my arm then the procedure on my elbow wouldn't have happened. That procedure was exploratory to find what was bothering the arm from the chainsaw. Upon opening up the arm they did find some compressions which from my understanding was nothing unusual for a male of my age and very well may or may not have happened during my retreat from the chainsaw when I ended up half way across the yard on the ground. Incidental finding or not it still would not have been found if I hadn't had the chainsaw incident. So as I see it they are linked good or bad and cannot be separated. The exploratory procedure was to find and possibly fix issues relating to the chainsaw incident. They also removed a ton of scar tissue in the forearm on the same day during the same exploratory procedure that was a direct result of the chainsaw.

Hope this helps explain things better.Let me know,Thanks,Paul

Below is a link to an article talking about the integration of digital cameras at the centegra facilities.

A friend of mine who works at NIMC for well over a decade just replied to me and she says everything is recorded and available exactly for the purposes we discussed.

I still don't get how they don't feel responsible for work done on their property by their own son that ended up cutting through 40% of my arm.

Perhaps their negligence is the fact that they didn't supervise the work close enough but they did oversee much of the days activity with David. Just because Dave was doing the work doesn't mean they were not trying to tell their kid what to do. They told him plenty of times throughout the day what to do. How is that not supervising?

Case: Paul Dulberg v. David Gagnon, Caroline McGuire and Bill McGuire
(McHenry County Case No. 12 LA 178)

Issued For Settlement Purposes Only

Dear Mr. Mast:

I am writing to confirm our telephone conversation earlier this morning, wherein I advised you that I was authorized to propose settlement of Mr. Dulberg's claim against Carolyn and Bill McGuire for a lump-sum total of $5,000.00. The settlement would of course be contingent upon customary settlement documents, including a release, a good faith settlement finding and dismissal.

Pursuant to your request, I searched my file materials for lien notices. The only notice of lien contained in my file at this time is your Attorney's Lien (enclosed). I have asked my contact at Auto-Owners Insurance Company to confirm no lien notices have arrived on his end since Mr. Dulberg's case was assigned to me for the defense of Mr. and Mrs. McGuire. I do not anticipating any lien notices, but just wanted to be safe.

I understand that you intend to run my settlement proposal by Mr. Dulberg. I look forward to hearing from you once you have had a chance to confer with him.

Very truly yours,

RONALD A. BARCH

MEMORANDUM

TO: File

FROM: Hans

DATE: November 20, 2013

SUBJECT: PAUL DULBERG

On November 20, 2013, I met with Paul and his friend to discuss the McGuire's $5,000 settlement offer and other issues with regard to this case. I also told them there is a dispute as to McGuire's liability, as they maintain that they were not directing Dave's work. Paul maintains that the McGuire's controlled everything that Dave was doing. I told him that that's not what the evidence seems to show. I told them the McGuire's could possibly get out of the case on motion, and the alternative is to accept the $5,000 offer. Paul wants to read the deps of the McGuire's and also wants us to order his and Dave's dep to review. I agreed to do so.

By copy of this memo, I ask Sheila to order copies of Paul and Dave's deps. I think defense counsel ordered them, so all we need to do is get copies. Please let me know if the copies have not been already ordered so we don't have to order the originals.

Thanks,

Hans

SUBJECT: PAUL DULBERG

On December 18, 2013, I called Paul today after an email and we had a long discussion about the McGuire's liability and he seemed to concede and understand that probably based on the testimony there is nothing we can prove against the McGurie's and he is willing to take their $5,000 settlement offer.

9. State the name and address of each witness that knows or claims to know the circumstances of the alleged accident, how it occurred or how the Plaintiff became injured – as alleged in the Complaint.

ANSWER: On information and belief, David Gagnon and Paul Dulberg were present at the time of the alleged occurrence and therefore know the circumstances surrounding the occurrence. Answering further, Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire were not present at the time of the occurrence but knew that David Gagnon and Paul Dulberg were present on the date of the occurrence. From conversations with David Gagnon, the answering Defendants believe that Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg had been cutting logs and tree branches into smaller sections without incident. While in the process of cutting tree branches Paul Dulberg unexpectedly and without warning moved his right arm directly in the path of the running chain saw. Investigation continues.

10. With respect to the chain saw that was being operated on the premises at the time of the alleged injury, state as follows:

a. Who was operating the chain saw at the time of the Plaintiff's alleged injury;

b. Who owned the chain saw at the time of Plaintiff's alleged injury;

c. who requested that the chain saw be used to perform work at the time of Plaintiff's injury.

ANSWER:

a. On information and belief, David Gagnon was operating the chain saw at the time Mr. Dulberg was injured.

b. Bill McGuire was the owner of the chain saw on the date of the occurrence.

c. David Gagnon had Bill McGuire's permission to use the chain saw.

11. With respect to David Gagnon's experience in use of a chain saw prior to the date of the alleged accident, state as follows:

a. How many times had David Gagnon operated the same or similar chain saw prior to the date of alleged accident;

b. What formal training did David Gagnon receive in use or operation of a chain saw prior to the occurrence alleged;

c. Who, if any, (names and addresses) trained David Gagnon in use or operation of a chain saw prior to the occurrence.

ANSWER:

a. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, and to the best of the answering parties' knowledge, David Gagnon has used chain saws in the past but the answering parties do not known how often he has used chain saws in the past.

b. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, the answering parties do not know whether David Gagnon has been formally trained the use or operation of a chain saw. Answering further, the answering parties are aware that Mr. Gagnon has used chain saws many times in the past and he appears/appeared to know what he is doing.

c. Objection. This interrogatory is better directed to David Gagnon. Answering subject to objection, the answering party do now know whether or by whom David Gagnon was trained in the use of chain saws. Answering further, the answering parties are aware that Mr. Gagnon has used chain saws many times in the past and he appears/appeared to know what he is doing.

12. What was the scope of work or task David Gagnon was engaged in with use of the chain saw at or about the time of the alleged accident.

ANSWER:

To the extent "scope of work" or "engaged" constitute legal conclusions, the answering Defendants object to Interrogatory No. 12. Answering subject to objection, at the time of the alleged occurrence, the answering Defendants were in the process of replacing an old shed on their property. Paul Dulberg helped David Gagnon tear down the old shed. The answering Defendants further believe that Mr. Dulberg took the components of the old shed to his property for eventual reassembly. On the date of the occurrence, Mr. Dulberg was helping David Gagnon take down several trees to make room for a new shed. On information and belief, prior to the occurrence Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg had been cutting logs and tree branches into smaller sections without incident. While in the process of cutting tree branches Paul Dulberg unexpectedly and without warning moved his right arm directly in the path of the running chain saw. Answering further, the answering Defendants did not engage, hire or pay either individual for their activities on site. Nor did either answering Defendant dictate, control or otherwise supervise the methods and means by which Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Dulberg performed the tree and branch cutting at issue.

13. Who (names and addresses) requested or chose to engage Gagnon in the "task" of use and operation of the chain saw at or about the time of the alleged accident.

ANSWER:

To the extent the words "chose" and "engage" constitute legal conclusions, the answering Defendants object to Interrogatory No. 13. Answering subject to objection, David Gagnon undertook the tree cutting and trimming in question as a favor to his parents. He was not engaged, hired or paid for the activities in question.

14. What instructions or guidance, if any, was given to Gagnon prior to Plaintiff's alleged injury/accident with regard to how he was to perform the chain saw work at the premises.

ANSWER: See response to Interrogatory No. 11.

ANSWER: (a) thru (f): See summary of oral communication received from David Gagnon set forth in response to Interrogatory No. 9. Answering further, on information and belief, a few weeks after the subject occurrence Paul Dulberg did roofing work and moved heavy pieces of lumber for Mike Thomas, 460 Walbeck Drive, Twin Lakes, WI 53181 (312/961-9655). Investigation continues.

19. Do you know of any statements made by any person relating to the occurrence complained of by the plaintiff? If so, give the name and address of each such witness, the date of said statement, and state whether such statement was written and/or oral.

ANSWER: Yes. In June 2011 Carolyn and Bill McGuire had a contractor take down a large tree on their property. The contractor left the fallen limbs. power plant to recover for injuries sustained when he slipped and fell on wet concrete floor. The Circuit Court, Cook County, Dean Sodaro, J., granted summary judgment for owner, and employee appealed. The Appellate Court, Cerda, P.J., held that owner's duty to maintain safe workplace did not include mopping up water that accumulated on floor when snow and ice from pipes used in construction project melted onto floor, causing puddles of water.

Affirmed.

1. Judgment ⇐185(2)

Although plaintiff does not have to try his case on defendant's motion for summary judgment, he must provide factual basis which would arguably entitle him to judgment.

2. Appeal and Error ⇐949

Determination that summary judgment is appropriate will not be reversed absent abuse of trial court's discretion such that plaintiff's right to fundamental justice is violated.

3. Negligence ⇐32(2.10)

Landowner owed duty to independent contractor's employee to maintain reasonably safe workplace.

4. Negligence ⇐50

Landowner's duty to independent contractor's employee to maintain reasonably safe workplace did not extend to taking precautions against water tracked inside from natural accumulation outside.

5. Negligence ⇐2, 10

Duty is determined by considering number of factors, including foreseeability of harm, likelihood of injury, magnitude of burden of guarding against it, consequences of placing that burden on defendant, public policy, and social considerations.

6. Negligence ⇐29, 44

Landowner owes no duty where natural accumulation of snow, ice or water exists on outside or is tracked into building by pedestrian traffic.

7. Negligence ⇐28

Property owner has duty and may be liable in negligence when injuries are result of unnatural or artificial accumulation of snow, ice or water, or natural condition aggravated by owner's use of area and creation of condition.

8. Negligence ⇐50

Duty owed by owner of nuclear power plant to independent contractor's employee to provide reasonably safe workplace did not include duty to mop up water that accumulated on concrete floor when snow and ice from pipes being brought in from outside for use in construction project melted onto floor, causing puddles of water, where there was no evidence that owner did anything to aggravate that condition, but instead condition was continuation of natural accumulation.

Lane and Munday, Thomas J. Nathan, Chicago, for plaintiff-appellant.

Johnson, Cusack and Bell, Ltd., John W. Bell, Michael B. Gunzburg and Thomas H. Fegan, Chicago, for defendant-appellee.

Presiding Justice CERDA delivered the opinion of the court:

Plaintiff, Byong K. Choi, brought this action against defendant Commonwealth Edison Company seeking recovery for injuries sustained when plaintiff fell on a concrete floor while working at a construction site. The trial court granted defendant's motion for summary judgment. On appeal, plaintiff argues that the trial court erred in granting defendant's motion for summary judgment because a genuine issue of material fact exists. In addition, he argues that the trial court erred by failing to recognize defendant's duty to provide a safe workplace for workmen engaged in construction work on its premises and by failing to extend that duty to include taking precautions against the accumulation of water inside the building.

On January 10, 1979, plaintiff Choi was employed by Universal Power Piping, Inc. (UPP) as a welder at the Dresden Nuclear Power Plant, which is owned by defendant

Dulberg 000302

Commonwealth Edison Company. UPP was a subcontractor hired by Commonwealth Edison to complete installation of a decontamination flushing system in the Reactor 1 building. Plaintiff was working on the third-floor turbine deck receiving pipes brought in from the outside by UPP employees. While stored outside, the pipes became encrusted with snow and ice. Once inside, the pipes were raised from the ground floor to the third-floor turbine deck area by an overhead crane, which was operated by a Commonwealth Edison employee. Then, the pipe was taken from the crane, placed on a cart, and moved through the interlock hatch to the reactor building by UPP employees, including plaintiff. Snow and ice melted from the frozen pipes, forming puddles of water on the deck wherever the pipes were transported. Plaintiff was working in this manner all day prior to the accident.

As plaintiff and a co-worker were carrying a pipe, approximately 20 feet long and 10 inches in diameter, plaintiff slipped on water that was on the concrete floor. He fell backward, hitting his back on a pipe, and a floor spacer fell across his mid-section, causing injuries.

Previously, the appellate court upheld the trial court's summary judgment order for defendant regarding a Structural Work Act (Ill.Rev.Stat.1983, ch. 48, pars. 60 through 69). (Choi v. Commonwealth Edison Co. (1984), 129 Ill.App.3d 878, 85 Ill. Dec. 17, 473 N.E.2d 385.) In plaintiff's second amended complaint, he alleged that defendant was guilty of several negligent acts in its supervision of the construction work. Defendant filed a motion for summary judgment, arguing that under Illinois law, it had no duty to take precautions against natural accumulations of snow, ice or water that were tracked into a building. Defendant noted that the UPP foreman's deposition stated that he did not inform Edison of the condition because it was the duty of the contractor's own employees to clean up after themselves. Defendant pointed out that the snow came from pipes that plaintiff and his co-workers had brought in and carried to the area.

In response to defendant's motion for summary judgment, plaintiff argued that defendant owed him a duty to maintain a reasonably safe work place because it retained control over the construction work performed by UPP employees and could stop the work in progress for safety or other reasons. Plaintiff also argued that defendant breached that duty by failing to provide a reasonably safe workplace and by failing to stop work that was being performed in an unsafe manner. In addition, plaintiff contended that the melted snow and ice that caused the unsafe condition did not accumulate naturally, was not transported into the building by pedestrian traffic, and was caused by defendant's refusal to allow the pipes to be brought into the building and cleaned off before being transported to the work area. Plaintiff notes that the deposition of Commonwealth Edison's superintendent stated that Commonwealth Edison employees had the responsibility to clean snow and ice which came into the building, had the authority to stop work being performed in an unsafe manner, and regularly inspected the area.

Concluding that the facts were essentially undisputed, the trial court ordered summary judgment for defendant. The trial court stated that there was a common law duty of an occupier of land to exercise reasonable care for the safety of people lawfully on the premises, but that duty did not extend to a building owner being required to mop up water from an accumulation of snow, ice or water brought inside a building construction site. The trial court indicated that it would be an impossible burden placed on an owner of a building construction site to require following the independent contractor's employees around, mopping up every drip of water brought in from the outside. The trial court further ruled that Commonwealth Edison did not create the dangerous condition, but merely failed to clean up a mess which is common whenever building materials from the outside of a building are moved into a building.

The trial court analogized this case to Lohan v. Walgreens Co. (1986), 140 Ill. App.3d 171, 173, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679, which ruled that a landowner has no duty to clean up snow, ice or water that is tracked into a building from a natural accumulation on the outside. The trial court made no finding whether the accumulation inside the building was natural or unnatural, but did state that the water began as a natural accumulation of snow and ice on the pipes outside, and was brought into the building the same way as people tracking it on their feet. The trial court did not consider the expert's affidavit and deposition because it was not factually based. The expert did not actually examine the premises, the court noted, but merely looked at photographs.

After the trial court denied plaintiff's motion to reconsider, plaintiff appealed the summary judgment order. Plaintiff's argument emphasizes that Commonwealth Edison owed him a duty to maintain a safe workplace even though he was employed by an independent contractor hired by Commonwealth Edison. He asserts that the duty included mopping up water that accumulated on the building's floor when snow and ice from the pipes melted onto the floor, causing puddles of water. Plaintiff relies on cases holding that the landowner owes a duty to the employee of an independent contractor if the owner retains sufficient control over the contractor's work. Claudy v. City of Sycamore (1988), 170 Ill.App.3d 990, 120 Ill.Dec. 812, 524 N.E.2d 994; See Haberer v. Village of Sauget (1987), 158 Ill.App.3d 313, 110 Ill.Dec. 628, 511 N.E.2d 805; Tsourmas v. Dineff (1987), 161 Ill.App.3d 897, 113 Ill.Dec. 758, 515 N.E.2d 743; Weber v. Northern Illinois Gas Co. (1973), 10 Ill.App.3d 625, 295 N.E.2d 41; Pasko v. Commonwealth Edison Co. (1973), 14 Ill.App.3d 481, 302 N.E.2d 642. These cases state that the duty owed is to maintain a reasonably safe workplace.

Even if the water began as a natural accumulation on the outside, plaintiff asserts, Commonwealth Edison's intervening acts caused the water to be unnaturally accumulated on the inside of the building. In the alternative, plaintiff states, the condition was aggravated by Commonwealth Edison because it would not allow the pipes to be stored inside where the snow and ice could be safely removed after it melted. Furthermore, plaintiff argues, the pipes were brought in from the outside and loaded onto an overhead crane operated by a Commonwealth Edison employee. The overhead crane then took the pipes to the third floor of the building, where UPP employees transported the pipes through a tunnel into the reactor building. By the time the pipes reached the third floor, the snow and ice was melting, and water from the pipes was dripping on the floor. It is on that water that plaintiff fell and injured himself.

Defendant responds that the water was a natural accumulation tracked in from the outside by UPP employees, including plaintiff. It asserts that this situation should be treated the same as a natural accumulation tracked in from the outside by pedestrian traffic, thus creating no duty by the landowner.

Defendant relies on two types of cases: those concerning natural accumulations of snow, ice or water outdoors and those concerning snow, ice or water tracked into a building from the outside, whether tracked in by pedestrians' shoes, coats or umbrellas. In Lohan, 140 Ill.App.3d at 172, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679, the plaintiff slipped and fell on water that had been tracked from the outside into the common hallway of the defendants' stores. The appellate court ruled that the owners did not have a duty to continuously remove the tracks left by customers who had walked through the natural accumulations of snow or water outside, tracking them inside. Even if the owner has knowledge that the accumulation caused a dangerous condition, the court stated, there is no duty if the accumulation is natural. (Lohan, 140 Ill.App.3d at 173, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679.) See also Handy v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1989), 182 Ill.App.3d 969, 131 Ill.Dec. 471, 538 N.E.2d 846 (summary judgment in favor of defendant store affirmed where plaintiff slipped and fell on water located within store); Shoemaker v. Rush–Presbyterian–St. Luke's Medical Center (1989), 187 Ill.App.3d 1040, 135 Ill.Dec. 446, 543 N.E.2d 1014 (hospital had no duty to clean up natural accumulation of water tracked into hospital on pedestrians' coats and umbrellas); Serritos v. Chicago Transit Authority (1987), 153 Ill.App.3d 265, 106 Ill.Dec. 243, 505 N.E.2d 1034 (city transit authority had no duty where plaintiff fell on snow and slush covered steps of bus owned and operated by defendant).

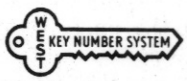
[1, 2] The purpose of summary judgment is to determine whether a triable issue of fact exists. (Haberer, 158 Ill.App.3d at 316, 110 Ill.Dec. 628, 511 N.E.2d 805.) It may be granted if the pleadings, exhibits, affidavits, and depositions on file establish that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. (Ill.Rev. Stat.1985, ch. 110, par. 2–1005(c); Branson v. R & L Investment, Inc. (1990), 196 Ill. App.3d 1088, 1090, 143 Ill.Dec. 689, 554 N.E.2d 624.) Although the plaintiff does not have to try his case, he must provide a factual basis which would arguably entitle him to judgment. (Handy, 182 Ill.App.3d at 972, 131 Ill.Dec. 471, 538 N.E.2d 846.) The determination that summary judgment is appropriate will not be reversed absent an abuse of the trial court's discretion such that the plaintiff's right to fundamental justice is violated. Breeze v. Payne (1989), 181 Ill.App.3d 720, 727, 130 Ill.Dec. 386, 537 N.E.2d 453.



[3–5] Commonwealth Edison owed plaintiff the duty to maintain a reasonably safe workplace, but it did not extend to taking precautions against water tracked inside from a natural accumulation outside. Duty is determined by considering a number of factors: the foreseeability of harm (Breeze, 181 Ill.App.3d at 727, 130 Ill.Dec. 386, 537 N.E.2d 453), the likelihood of the injury, the magnitude of the burden of guarding against it, the consequences of placing that burden on the defendant, public policy, and social considerations. Dealers Service & Supply Co. v. St. Louis National Stock. (1987), 155 Ill.App.3d 1075, 1080, 108 Ill.Dec. 664, 508 N.E.2d 1241.

[6, 7] In Illinois, a landowner owes no duty where a natural accumulation of snow, ice or water exists on the outside or is tracked into a building by pedestrian traffic. (Lohan, 140 Ill.App.3d at 172, 94 Ill.Dec. 680, 488 N.E.2d 679.) However, a property owner does have a duty and may be liable where the injuries are a result of an unnatural or artificial accumulation, or a natural condition aggravated by the owner's use of the area and creation of the condition. (Handy v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1989), 182 Ill.App.3d 969, 971, 131 Ill. Dec. 471, 538 N.E.2d 846.) To establish a duty, the plaintiff must make an affirmative showing of an unnatural accumulation or an aggravation of a natural condition before recovery will be allowed. (McCann v. Bethesda Hospital (1979), 80 Ill.App.3d 544, 549, 35 Ill.Dec. 879, 400 N.E.2d 16.) Plaintiff made no such showing in this case.

[8] Therefore, summary judgment for defendant was proper. The water in the nuclear power plant was a continuation of a natural accumulation. There was no evidence presented that Commonwealth Edison did anything to aggravate the condition. To require an owner of a construction site to follow workmen around and immediately clean up any melting snow, ice or water that had been brought in from the outside would be too high a burden.

Affirmed.

Plaintiff-Appellant Paul R Dulberg (Appellant) moves this Honorable Court for an EXTENSION OF TIME TO FILE APPELLANT"S BRIEF and MOTION TO ALLOW APPELLANT TO AMEND HIS DOCKETING STATEMENT TO INCLUDE RELATED CASES / TO ORDER THE CLERK OF THE 22nd JUDICIAL CIRCUIT TO AMEND THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO INCLUDE ALL MISSING DOCUMENTS AND HYPERLINKS AT NO ADDITIONAL COST TO APPELLANT AND TO INCLUDE AN AFFIDAVIT OF COMPLETENESS & CERTIFICATION /ALLOW APPELLANT TO REQUEST THE RECORD ON APPEAL FOR ALL RELATED CASES/ TO FILE A BRIEF IN EXCESS OF THE PRESCRIBED PAGE LIMITS ALL PURSUANT TO SUPREME COURT RULES 323(b), 329, 341(b), 343(c), 361, 366(a)(3) and (a)(5) and 608. and in support of said motion states as follows:

I. APPELLANT'S AMENDED MOTION FOR AN EXTENSION OF TIME TO FILE APPELLANT'S BRIEF

1. On September 28, Plaintiff's Attorney spoke with Appellees' Attorney indicating the nature of this Motion, to which Appellees' Attorney indicated a need to contact his clients regarding any objection to the Motion. Appellees' Attorney stated that he would get back to me as soon as the Appellees decide, and Appellees Attorney's response is attached to this Amended Motion as Appellant's Exhibit A. Appellees object to all relief requested in this Amended Motion and counter with no objection to a 21-day extension to file Appellant's Brief. (Ill. S. Ct. 361(a) and Local Rule Article 1 General Rules 102(b). Please see Appellants Exhibit A attached)
2. Appellant's Attorneys also e-mailed a copy of this Amended Motion to Appellees' Attorneys before filing it.
3. The number of days previously requested is 120, the number of days previously granted is 120, and the total number of days is 120. (Local rule 104 (a)(1))
4. The total number of days requested, and the total number of days granted to other parties are (0) none. (Local Rule 104(a)(2))

5. The number of days that will have elapsed from the date of filing of the Notice of Appeal to the date that the case will be ready for disposition is three hundred forty-nine days. (Local Rule 104(a)(3), Local Rule 106(b) and Local Rule 108(a) & (b))
6. Appellant filed his Notice of Appeal on March 3, 2023.
7. The Record on Appeal was filed on April 24, 2023 and made available for download on April 25, 2023.
8. Appellant's Brief due date was first extended sixty days by this Honorable Court to July 31, 2023.
9. Appellant's Brief due date was thereafter extended a second time by this Honorable Court to September 29, 2023.
10. Sixty days is insufficient to prepare and file Appellant's Brief for the following reasons:

(a) The record on appeal consists of three volumes totaling 2,660 pages;

(b) Appellant requested the entire record be prepared, but Appellant's attorney has discovered missing Report of Proceedings, mismatched sections, documents with only one of the Defendants' names where it should be all, Memorandums of Law where the body of the motions should be, violations of the Supreme Court of Illinois Standards and Requirements for Electronic Filing the Record on Appeal (Revised- Effective March 1, 2022) regarding §1. Definitions (i) Hyperlink … and so on. (Investigation Continues.)

(c) Appellant's attorney has made extensive efforts to have Appellant's Brief ready for filing by the September 29, 2023 considering the above listed problems and his Court hearing/filing schedule on April 25, 2023 case # 2021P008775 Public Administrator's motion, May 4, 2023 case # 2022L010905 where he argued a "Motion for a Special Order'" and additionally he had to brief two separate 735 ILCS 5/2-619.1 motions and a Separate 735 ILCS 5/2-615 motion for hearings on May 25, 2023 and July 31, 2023, resolve a dispute regarding an order to be entered on May 4, 2023 where the Honorable Judge declined to choose between proposed orders and there wasn't a Court Reporter present, drafting and filing/serving case # 2023CH04351 on May 2, 2023 a Complaint for Declaratory Judgment with an expiring Statute of Limitations against a municipal corporation and twenty-one additional defendants and two emergency personal problems as previously stated in support of Appellant's first Motion for Extension of Time.

Subsequent to the filing of Appellant's initial Motion for Extension of Time the following court schedule required Appellant's Attorney's preparation and appearances: May 31, 2023 The Estate of Hutchinson, Deceased 19PR000098 continuing after remand from the Illinois Appellate Court, 2nd District for further proceedings; Dulberg v. Baudins et al 2022L010905 drafting and filing Response to Defendants' 735 ILCS 2-619.1 Motions to Dismiss; Dulberg v. Olsen Notice of Supreme Court rule 304(a) Appeal First District 1-23-1142 on June 26, 2023; (on June 28, 2023 a traumatic personal event that was experienced by Appellant Paul R. Dulberg" attorney that continues to the filing of this Second Motion for Extension of Time and onward (Please see below); preparation for a sur-response in Dulberg v. Baudins et al; preparation for an Amended Complaint and Response for a Motion for Summary Judgment due with an appearance July 31, 2023 in 2022L010905, Court Appearance on July 20, 2023 two separate Defendants' 735 ILCS 5/2-615 Motions to Dismiss Case 2023CH 04351, First District, Kost v. Village of Mt. Prospect et al; August 22, 2023 The Estate of Hutchinson, Deceased 19PR000098 Hearing and Decision on Motion to Reconsider; August 29, 2023 Dulberg v. Baudins et al 2022L010905 Hearing on Defendants' 735 ILCS 2-619.1 Motions to Dismiss; September 18, 2023 Dulberg v. Baudins et al 2022L010905 drafting, filing, and serving Plaintiffs' 7 page 735 ILCS 5/2-1005(c) Counter-Affidavit; throughout the second 60 days consulting and advising client regarding his allegations of custodial parent's child abuse based upon 2015D007566; consulting and advising client regarding his allegations of wrongful taking without personal jurisdiction based upon 2017M1108676; September 21, 2023 Hearing on Motion for Summary Judgment, Dulberg v. Baudins et al 2022L010905; September 26, 2023 The Estate of Hutchinson, Deceased 19PR000098 Hearing Motion to Compel.

(d) Appellant's Attorney traumatic ongoing event that began on June 28, 2023 and continues. On June 28, 2023 Appellant's Attorney's Fiancée entered the airport in Manila, Philippines to take a flight to the United States to meet with future family, current friends, and Appellant's Attorney. The schedule flight was to stop in Tokyo, Japan for a short lay over then on to O'Hare International Airport (ORD) Illinois. June 28, 2023 in the Manilla, Philippines was the last time anyone has seen or heard from her. She did not arrive at O'Hare and a cooperative customs agent told Appellant's Attorney that she was not being detained by customs in the United States and upon further investigation stated she was not on the passenger manifest of the connecting flight in Tokyo, Japan. Subsequently, the Embassies in both countries were contacted, an international investigation firm was hired that did not produce any information and resigned after over a month of investigations and local government personnel began an independent investigation that was also fruitless.

It was thereafter discovered that the Japanese customs and criminal police had confiscated her ticket from Tokyo, Japan to the United States and then obtained an air ticket back to the Philippines that she was forced to use.

The stress of an active practice coupled with the stress of a missing loved one for over 27 days, who was finally discovered to be detained in a Japanese jail, having been handcuffed and weighted leg chained, hair involuntarily cut, forced interrogations for 72 hours without the right to have legal counsel or contact with family or friends, put on trial and released as not guilty but with all personal property and money retained to be returned in the future, that Appellant's Attorney is still attempting to have returned, through first contacting the Japanese Embassy in Tokyo, Japan and thereafter the Philippine Embassy in Japan affected Appellant's Attorney in many negative ways.

11. Appellant is a sole practitioner and has no full-time staff to help in the preparation of Appellant's Brief.

II. APPELLANT'S AMENDED MOTION TO ALLOW APPELLANT TO AMEND HIS DOCKETING STATEMENT BY INCLUDING A STATEMENT OF RELATED CASE

12. Appellant's Attorney used and filed the approved Illinois Supreme Court Docketing Statement (Civil) form DS-S 4603.2 but failed to add the required Related-case statement (RULES OF THE ILLINOIS APPELLATE COURT, SECOND DISTRICT October 4, 2022 Rule 113)
13. Appellant's Attorney believes that a full and complete understanding of the issues rulings and decisions cannot be properly presented to this Honorable Court without the underlying case and current pending related cases.
14. Appellant's Attorney affirmatively states that this error was inadvertent and that Appellant's case and this Honorable Courts complete understanding of this matter which began on June 28, 2011 and continues through the date of the filing of this Motion requires the addition of documents from said related cases.

15. The related cases are as follows:

a) 2012LA000326 MCDONALD JULIE ESTATE OF VS POPOVICH THOMAS J. LAW OFFICES, ET AL CLOSED

b) 2012LA000178 DULBERG, PAUL VS GAGNON, DAVID, ET AL CLOSED

c) 2022L010905 Dulberg ET AL VS BAUDIN, KELLY N. , ET AL :

c1) Defendant ADR Systems of America , L.L.C. dismissed;

c2) the "Olsen Defendants" combined Motion to Dismiss pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-619.1 was granted on May 25, 2023 and a Rule 304(a) Appeal is pending 1-23-1142;

C3) the "Baudin Defendants" Motion to Dismiss was granted on Statute of Limitations grounds only on August 29, 2023;

c4) Defendant Allstate Property and Casualty Insurance Company Motion for Summary Judgment was granted on September 21, 2023;

d) In re: DULBERG, PAUL R. Debtor, UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT, NORTHERN DISTRICT OF ILLINOIS, WESTERN DIVISION Case 14-83578 CLOSED

e) NORTHERN DISTRICT OF ILLINOIS, WESTERN DIVISION Paul Dulberg v. Carolyn Colvin, No. 15C50219

III. APPELLANT'S AMENDED MOTION TO ORDER THE CLERK OF THE 22nd JUDICIAL CIRCUIT TO AMEND THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO INCLUDE ALL MISSING DOCUMENTS AND HYPERLINKS AT NO ADDITIONAL COST TO APPELLANT AND TO INCLUDE AN AFFIDAVIT OF COMPLETENESS & CERTIFICATION

16. As first stated in Appellant's Second Motion for Extension of Time to file Appellant's Brief, a major obstacle to preparing said Brief was the problems caused by the Record on Appeal being improperly prepared by the Clerk of the 22nd Judicial Circuit .

17. In Appellant's Second Motion for Extension of Time to file Appellant's Brief the discovered problems were exposed: Appellant requested the entire record be prepared, but Appellant's attorney has discovered missing Report of Proceedings; mismatched sections; documents with only one of the Defendants' names where it should be all; Memorandums of Law where the body of the motions should be; violations of the Supreme Court of Illinois Standards and Requirements for Electronic Filing the Record on Appeal (Revised- Effective March 1, 2022) regarding §1. Definitions (i) Hyperlink-… and so on. (Investigation Continues.) (Please see Appellant's Second Motion for Extension of Time to file Appellant's Brief Sections 9(a) and 9(b).

18. Appellant's attorney has diligently attempted to discover all the errors in the Record on Appeal but has concluded that he neither has the hours or resources to produce a complete rendering of said errors.

19. The Clerk of the 22 Judicial Circuit has the complete record at her disposal and the staff to properly prepare the requested complete Record on Appeal.

20. The Clerk of the 22 Judicial Circuit should be ordered to prepare the complete record with all Reports of Proceeding and all hyperlinks, all documents … that equates a complete Record on Appeal and to certify not only the Records submitted but a certification that states affirmatively that the entire file is includer or to list what has been destroyed or lost.

21. This amended Record on Appeal should be done at the Clerk's expense as the preparation of the Record on Appeal is one of her tasks and Appellant has already paid an extensive amount for what she has already submitted.

IV. ALLOW APPELLANT TO REQUEST THE RECORD ON APPEAL FOR ALL RELATED CASES

22. Appellant believes that an ORDER from this Honorable Court would be viewed by other Clerks of Court in order to obtain their cooperation in submitting a Record on Appeal that would give this Honorable Court a complete picture of not only this case but all related cases also.

V. ALLOW APPELLANT TO FILE A BRIEF IN EXCESS OF THE PRESCRIBED PAGE LIMITS

23. Appellant reasonably believes that the current page limit will be inadequate to inform this Honorable Court of all the issues that support his position.

Wherefore, Plaintiff-Appellant prays that this Honorable Court recognize Plaintiff-Appellant's Attorney good faith and extensive efforts to comply with the extended briefing schedules, the problems caused by the Record on Appeal based on its page size and the errors by the Clerk of the 22nd Judicial Circuit in preparation of the Record on Appeal, grant Appellant a 90-day extension of time to file Appellant's Brief, allow Appellant to amend his Docketing Statement to include related cases, order the Clerk of the 22nd Judicial District to amend the Record on Appeal to include all missing documents and hyperlinks, at no additional cost to Appellant and to include an affidavit of completeness and the required certification, allow Appellant to Request the Record on Appeal for all related cases, file Appellant's Brief in excess of the prescribed page limits, and for any and all additional relief this Honorable Court deems equitable and just..

PAUL R. DULBERG, Plaintiff-Appellant, HANS MAST and the LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. Defendants-Appellees	Appeal from the Circuit Court of the 22nd Judicial Circuit, McHenry County, Illinois Relief Sought: RECONSIDER THIS HONORABLE COURT'S NOVEMBER 9, 2023 ORDER MADE AS A MISTAKE OF LAW Honorable Joel D. Berg, Judge Presiding Date of Notice of Appeal March 3, 2023 Date of Judgment February 1, 2023, 2017 LA 000377 Date of Post judgment Motion Order: None Circuit Court 2017LA000377

MOTION TO RECONSIDER THIS HONORABLE COURT'S ORDER ENTERED ON NOVEMBER NINTH (9), 2023 AS A MISTAKE OF LAW

(CIVIL)

I. ON NOVEMBER 9, 2023 THIS HONORABLE COURT DENIED APPELLANTS' EMERGENCY MOTION AND FOURTH MOTION TO EXTEND TIME TO FILE APPELLANTS' BRIEF "PURSUANT TO APPELLEES' RESPONSE"

A) Appellants' EMERGENCY MOTION AND FOURTH MOTION TO EXTEND TIME TO FILE APPELLANTS' BRIEF (AND) EMERGENCY MOTION TO CONDUCT AN AUDIT OF THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO DISCOVER CHANGED OR MISSING DOCUMENTS; SUPPLEMENT THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND, IF GRANTED, FOR 35 DAYS EXTENSION OF TIME AFTER THE TRIAL COURT CLERK HAS SUPPLEMENTED AND/OR CORRECTED THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO FILE APPELLANT'S BRIEF is attached to this MOTION TO RECONSIDER as EXHIBIT 1.

B) Appellees' DEFENDANTS/APPELLEES HANS MAST AND THE LAW

OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF/ APPELLANT PAUL R. DULBERG'S EMERGENCY MOTION FOR 4TH EXTENSION TO FILE APPELLANT'S BRIEF, TO CONDUCT AN AUDIT OF THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO DISCOVER CHANGED OR MISSING DOCUMENTS, AND TO SUPPLEMENT THE RECORD ON APPEAL is attached to this MOTION TO RECONSIDER as EXHIBIT 2.

C) Order of the ILLINOIS APPELLATE COURT SECOND DISTRICT DATED NOVEMBER 9, 2023 and signed by Jeffrey H. Kaplan, Clerk of the Court is attached to this MOTION TO RECONSIDER as EXHIBIT 3.

II. ERRORS OF LAW BY APPELLEES AND ACCEPTED BY THIS HONORABLE COURT WITHOUT REPLY BY APPELLANT

ARGUMENT as stated by Appellees in their Response:

I. This Court should deny Dulberg's Motion as it does not present an emergency.

Appellants Response:

As has been consistent during the entirety of this case, Appellees, take on the role of not only Advocates but Judge (in this case Appellate Judge) and state that the First Extension based upon a death and the second Extension based upon a disappearance while traveling to the United States of America in Tokyo, Japan followed by a false Imprisonment without the right to counsel nor the right to contact anyone and retention of all assets and currency should be viewed, not as an incredibly stressful and emotional time on Appellant and Appellant's Counsel, but just as additional time to comply with procedural 2 requirements of this Appeal.

The Facts that Appellant, an Illinois fully disabled resident's lifelong friend and live in care taker was unexpectedly found dead in Appellant's home and the consequential stress and time requirements of arranging for a funeral and replacement care taker plus the subsequent disappearance and false imprisonment of Appellant's Attorney's Fiancée, in Japan, would not delay the investigation of missing and altered parts of the Record on Appeal consisting of , at least:

2 Volume(s) of the Common Law Record, containing 2148 pages

1 Volume(s) of the Report of Proceedings, containing 512 pages

0 Volume(s) of the Exhibits, containing 0 pages.

Appellees, cavalierly declare and cite Ill. S. Ct. Rule 361(g) "Except in the most extreme and compelling circumstances, a motion for an extension of time will not be considered an emergency" to declare that Appellant's two Motions for Extension of Time that were denied were not emergencies.

Thus, Appellee declares: a death; a disappearance in a foreign country; a Record on Appeal of at least 2,660 pages with some missing, and some blatantly altered, as discussed within the Affidavit of Saira Pasha that was attached to the prior Emergency Motion as Exhibit E (see again attached herein as EXHIBIT E within EXHIBIT 1 attached), not sufficient to be categorized as an "Emergency"

Please note that one of the issues raised in the Affidavit of Saira Pasha on page 4 and 5 number 17 Missing recordings of court proceedings from January 10, 2018 and February 27 2018 has been established as true as the trial court record, but not the Record on Appeal has been supplement sua sponte on November 9, 2023 (nearly 6 years later)

Please also note that the dates of the Records of Proceedings do not match the dates that the filed stamp date in the upper right hand corner state, that being November 9, 2023 and those dates do not match the Received Date on the bottom of each page, that being November 13, 2023 and finally those dates do not match the Accepted date of November 14, 2023 also on the bottom of each page. (Please see EXHIBITS 4 and 5 attached)

Unnumbered second argument in Appellees' Argument 1. Although not presented in numbered bold print, Appellees attempt to insert another different issue within their Argument I. when they "change horses in midstream" by falsely asserting that Appellant did not comply with the requirements of Ill. S. Ct. Rule 329.

Appellant's Response:

THE FOLLOWING "MISTAKES IN THE LAW" WERE ADVANCED BY APPELLEES AND ADOPTED BY THIS HONORABLE COURT AS EVIDENCED BY THE STATEMENT "Appellant's "emergency" motion is denied pursuant to appellees' response." (Please see Appellant's EXHIBIT 3, 2nd par. 1st sentence):

A) Appellees state "If there is any issues with the record on appeal, then Dulberg should have followed the procedures for supplementing the record in Ill. S. Ct. Rule 329. He failed to do so, as further discussed below." (Appellees thereafter continued this erroneous argument first inserted in Unnumbered second argument in Appellees' Argument 1 with the following, "III. The Court should again deny Dulberg's request for leave to supplement the record on appeal due to Dulberg's delay and failure to follow proper procedures."

B) Ill. S. Ct. Rule 329 states:

Rule 329. Supplement to the Record on Appeal . The record on appeal shall be taken as true and correct unless shown to be otherwise and corrected in a manner permitted by this rule. Material omissions or inaccuracies or improper authentication may be corrected by stipulation of the parties or by the trial court, either before or after the record is transmitted to the reviewing court, or by the reviewing court or a judge thereof. [emphasis added] Any controversy as to whether the record accurately discloses what occurred in the trial court shall be submitted to and settled by that court and the record made to conform to the truth. If the record is insufficient to present fully and fairly the questions involved, the requisite portions may be supplied at the cost of the appellant. If necessary, a supplement to the record may be certified and transmitted. The clerk of the circuit court shall prepare a certified supplement to the record which shall be filed in the reviewing court upon order issued pursuant to motion. Amended May 28, 1982, effective July 1, 1982; amended October 14, 2005, effective January 1, 2006; amended June 22, 2017, eff. July 1, 2017.

C) Ill. S. Ct. Rule 329 Committee Comments state:

Committee Comments (Revised May 1982) This rule is a comprehensive provision covering amendment of the record on appeal, correction of improper authentication, and the settling of any questions concerning whether the record conforms to the truth. It contains portions of former Rules 36(3) and (4). Under this sweeping provision, it will be possible to supply omissions, correct inaccuracies or improper authentication, or settle any controversy as to whether the record on appeal accurately discloses what occurred at the trial by the procedure that will most appropriately solve the particular problem. [emphasis added] In view of the liberal terms of this paragraph, the rather elaborate provisions of former Rule 36(4), requiring that a claim as to improper authentication be raised by motion before or at the time of the filing of the brief of the party making the claim, were eliminated as no longer necessary. Unless there is some real prejudice involved, there will be no incentive for claiming improper authentication. Rule 329 was amended in 1982 to permit a single judge of the reviewing court to correct the record. [emphasis added]

D) It is clear from a fair reading of Ill. S. Ct. Rule 329 and the Committee Comments that requesting the trial court judge or Appellees' Counsel to supplement the missing and altered documents is a futile, if not impossible act., (the reasons why will be elaborated upon below) and the Appellant complied with Ill. S. Ct Rule 329 and the accompanying Committee Comments by twice filing Motions to accomplish the necessary supplementations, and being denied based upon Appellants' erroneous Response forces Appellant to file this Motion To Reconsider because of a Mistake of law.

E) THE LAW NEVER REQUIRES THE DOING OF A USELESS THING

E1. Justice Robert D. McLaren, Appellate Court of Illinois, Second District in PNC BANK, National Association, v. Jeremy T. Wilson and Michelle M. Wilson 2017 Il App (2d) 151189, 74 N.E.3d 100, 107¶26 (2017) stated:

"The law does not require futile acts as prerequisites to the filing of legal proceedings. "[A] demand is not necessary where the circumstances indicate its futility. [Citations.] In order to excuse the requirement of a demand for the surrender of property, the evidence must show the demand would have been unavailing." First Illini Bank v Wittek Industries, Inc. , 261 Ill.App.3d 969, 970–71, 199 Ill.Dec. 709, 634 N.E.2d 762 (1994). In addition, "where it appears that a demand would have been of no avail, then none is required, for PNC Bank, Nat'l Ass'n v. Wilson, 2017 IL App (2d) 151189, 74 N.E.3d 100 (Ill. App. 2017) the law never requires the doing of a useless thing." Carroll v. Curry , 392 Ill.App.3d 511, 515, 332 Ill.Dec. 86, 912 N.E.2d 272 (2009). Further, the alleged failure did not prejudice Jeremy's ability to ameliorate a mortgage contract that he nullified by his voluntary act of discharge in bankruptcy without reaffirmation. Thus, although the regulation at issue requires proof of mailing, in this particular case this defense is unavailing as the discharge without reaffirmation would have rendered PNC Bank's efforts futile. There is neither purpose nor policy that would countenance a determination of prejudicial error."

E2. Justice Griffin, Appellate Court of Illinois, First District in Sylva v. Baldwin Court Condominium Association, Inc. 2018 Il App (1st) 170520, 106 N.E.3d 431, 436 ¶22 (2018) indicated a like thinking stating:

"It is one of the oldest and perhaps the wisest maxims of equity that the law will not require a person to do a useless act." Rock Island Y.W.C.A. v. Bestor , 48 Ill. App. 3d 761, 765, 6 Ill.Dec. 731, 363 N.E.2d 413 (1977) ; see also PNC Bank National Ass'n v. Wilson, 2017 IL App (2d) 151189, ¶ 25, 411 Ill.Dec. 791, 74 N.E.3d 100 (futile acts are usually excused)."

F) REQUESTING SUPPLEMENTING THE RECORD ON APPEAL WITH MISSING DOCUMENTS, REPLACING ALTERED DOCUMENTS AND MAKING THE AUDIO RECORDING OF DEFENDANT HANS MAST'S DEPOSITION OBTAINED PURSUANT TO SUBPOENA WOULD BE

A USELESS/FUTILE/IMPOSSIBLE ACT FOR THE FOLLOWING REASONS:

F1. The Trial Court Judge Thomas A Meyer has retired as of September 2023. (see EXHIBIT 6 attached)

F2. The Trial Court Judge Thomas A. Meyer has previously denied the supplementing of the record with the audio recording of the discovery deposition of Defendant Hans Mast received and certified by the certified Reporter pursuant to subpoena because Judge Meyer, without hearing the audio file, determined it does not add materially to his understanding of what transpired. (see again attached herein as EXHIBIT D page 5 line 11 through page 6 line 9 within EXHIBIT 1 attached.)

F3. The Trial Court Judge Thomas A. Meyer had at least on one occasion self-recused himself as a friend of Defendant Thomas J. Popovich in 12LA326, who has also appeared in the matter for Plaintiff-Appellant Paul Dulberg in the underlying case (12LA178). Thomas J. Popovich is the owner and sole stockholder of The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and supervisor of Mr. Mast, the named defendants and current Appellees in 17LA377. (see again attached herein as EXHIBIT A within EXHIBIT 1 attached and EXHIBIT 8 attached and ROP_Vol_1_of_1_230421_1628_8FF9DDF1.pdf pages R292 Line 14 through R300 Line 13)

F4. The Trial Court Judge Thomas A. Meyer did not self-recuse himself in the current matter (17LA377) although his stated friend Thomas J. Popovich's Law Firm is a named Defendant in this matter. Also, we offer as additional proof of Judge Thomas A. Meyers refusing to self recuse when his friend is a defendant. (see EXHIBIT 9)

F5. The Honorable Judge Joel D. Berg, who replaced Judge Thomas A. Meyer in this matter and at least one other matter, Christine M. Interrante v. Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich, P.C. and Thomas J. Popovich, individually 18LA370, when the Honorable Thomas A. Meyer was transferred to traffic court at the end of 2022, refused to hear a Motion to Reconsider and sent it back to the Honorable Thomas A.

Meyer for hearing. (see EXHIBIT 7 attached.)

F6. The Honorable Joel D. Berg only heard one motion in 17LA377, that being a motion for summary judgment that ended the matter in the trial court.

F7. The Honorable Thomas A. Meyers was the trial court judge from inception in 2017 up to the time before the hearing of the Motion for Summary Judgment which ended the matter in the trial court.

F8. The Honorable Judge Joel D. Berg clearly indicated in 18LA370 that he will not entertain a Motion to Reconsider regarding a matter that he was not presented and argued before himself. (again see EXHIBIT 7 attached.)

F9. The Honorable Judge Joel D. Berg has also self recused in cases where Thomas Popovich was a defendant, only difference betweem Judge Berg and Judge Meyer is Judge Berg does not give any reason for recusal. (see GROUP EXHIBIT 10)

F10. The Appellees and their counsel have made it clear by objecting to all relevant request regarding supplementing and correcting the Record on Appeal that continuing to ask for such relief is a futile, useless activity. The specific objections can be made available upon this Courts request.

Therefore Appellant prays that this Honorable Appellate Court finds that the procedural steps under Ill. S.C. Rule 329 to get agreement from the Trial Court or Appellees and Appellees Counsel was and is a futile, useless and additionally an impossible thing and Appellants' Requests permitted under Ill. S. Ct Rule 329 as further explained under the Committee Comments for Ill.S.Ct. Rule 329 asking this Honorable Appellate Court to grant Appellants Motions to supplement and correct altered documents be reconsidered in light of all the above. Appellants further pray that after reviewing Appellant's Motion to Reconsider, this Honorable Appellate Court grant the requests previously requested in Appellants' prior denied Motions to supplement and correct the Record on Appeal.

AND FOURTH MOTION TO EXTEND TIME TO FILE APPELLANT"S BRIEF

(CIVIL)

EMERGENCY MOTION TO CONDUCT AN AUDIT OF THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO DISCOVER CHANGED OR MISSING DOCUMENTS; SUPPLEMENT THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND, IF GRANTED, FOR 35 DAYS EXTENSION OF TIME AFTER THE TRIAL

COURT CLERK HAS SUPPLEMENTED AND/OR CORRECTED THE RECORD ON APPEAL TO FILE APPELLANT'S BRIEF

I. APPELLANT'S FOURTH MOTION FOR AN EXTENSION OF TIME TO FILE APPELLANT'S BRIEF

1) On November 2, 2023, Plaintiffs Attorney communicated with Appellees' Attorney indicating the nature of this Motion, to which Appellees' Attorney indicating his objection to the Motion. (Ill. S. Ct. 361(a) and Local Rule Article 1 General Rules 102(b).

2) Appellant's Attorneys e-mailed a copy of this Motion to Appellees' Attorneys before filing it.

3) The number of days previously requested is 211, the number of days previously granted is 155, and the total number of days is 155. (Local rule 104 (a)(l))

4) The total number of days requested, and the total number of days granted to other parties are (0) none. (Local Rule 104(a)(2))

5) The number of days that will have elapsed from the date of filing of the Notice of Appeal to the date that the case will be ready for disposition is three hundred twenty-nine days. (Local Rule 104(a)(3), Local Rule 106(b) and Local Rule 108(a) & (b))

6) Appellant filed his Notice of Appeal on March 3, 2023.

7) The Record on Appeal was filed on April 24, 2023 and made available for download on April 25, 2023 at 8:48 AM. (Please

see Appellant Exhibit F attached)

7a. Common Law Volume 1 has a creation date of April 24, 2023 at 9:31 AM. Common Law Volume 2 has a creation date of April 24, 2023 at 9:28 AM. The Reports of proceedings has a creation date of April 25, 2023 at 806 AM. (Please see Exhibit G attached)

7b. Common Law Record Volume 1, Common Law Record Volume 2 and Reports of proceedings all have a submission date of April 24, 2023 from 10:00 Am to 10:03 AM. (Please see Appellant Exhibit H attached)

8) Appellant's Brief due date was first extended sixty days by this Honorable Court to July 31, 2023.

9) Appellant's Brief due date was thereafter extended a second time by this Honorable Court to September 29, 2023.

10) Appellant's Brief due date was extended a third time by this Honorable Court to November 3, 2023.

11) Twenty-One days is insufficient to prepare and file Appellant's Brief for the following reasons:

(a) The record on appeal consists of three volumes totaling 2,660 pages; Appellant requested the entire record be prepared, but Appellant's attorney has discovered missing Report of Proceedings, mismatched sections, documents with only one of the Defendants' names where it should be all, Memorandums of Law where the body of the motions should be, violations of the Supreme Court of Illinois Standards and Requirements for Electronic Filing the Record on Appeal (Revised- Effective March 1, 2022) regarding §1. Definitions (i) Hyperlink... and so on. (Investigation Continues.)

(b) Appellant's attorney has made extensive efforts to have Appellant's Brief ready for filing by the November 3, 2023 considering his extremely heavy court schedule, with two active Appellate cases, two active Decedent's Estates, a First Judicial Law Division with nineteen named Defendants … and being a sole proprietor without full time staff and the following facts that relate to this matter.

II. APPELLANT's BASIS FOR AN EMERGENCY MOTION

1) Appellant has recently discovered that the Trial Court Judge for this case, 2017LA000377 from inception on November 28, 2017 to December 21, 2022 was a friend of Defendant The Law Offices of Thomas J Popovich, P.C.'s owner Thomas J. Popovich and said Judge had recused himself from at least one case where Thomas J. Popovich was a named Defendant. (Please see Appellant's Exhibit A attached)

2) That the Trial Court Judge for this case, 2017LA000377 from inception on November 28, 2017 to December 21, 2022 was also the Judge at all times in 2012 LA 000178 where Appellant herein was represented by the Law Offices of Thomas A. Popovich P.C. and Thomas J. Popovich individually. (Please see Appellant's Exhibits B page 3 L22 to page 4 L5, C page 4L8-10) where the afore- mentioned Judge acknowledged this fact at least two separate times on the record.

3) That the Trial Court Judge refused a subpoenaed certified electronic thumb drive complete recording by the certified Shorthand Reporter of the deposition of Defendant Hans Mast which reflects the violations of Supreme Court rules and local rules during a hearing to strike the Deposition of Defendant Hans Mast. (Please see appellant's Exhibit D page 477 L21-24 to page 481 line 9)

4) Appellant has discovered missing Transcripts and a materially changed transcript to support Appellant's request for a professional audit trail be produced by an independent service and to supplement the questionable Record on Appeal. The Auditor's Report was finalized and submitted late in the day yesterday, November 2, 2023 (and was the reason for the delay in filing and serving of this Emergency Motion).(Please see Appellant Exhibit E which is a sample test of changed and missing transcripts by an independent service.)

Wherefore, Plaintiff-Appellant prays that this Honorable Court recognize Plaintiff-Appellant's Attorney good faith and extensive efforts to comply with the extended briefing schedules, the problems caused by the Record on Appeal based on its page size and the errors by the Clerk of the 22nd Judicial Circuit in preparation of the Record on Appeal, grant Appellant a 35-day extension of time to file Appellant's Brief, allow Appellant to amend his Docketing Statement to include related cases, order the Clerk of the 22nd Judicial District to amend the Record on Appeal to include all missing documents and hyperlinks, allow Appellant to Request the Record on Appeal for all related cases, file and for any and all additional relief this Honorable Court deems equitable and just.

THE COURT: How many F1 deps do you anticipate?

MS. WILLIAMS: Well, we'll have probably two. One from the firm and one -- defendant counsel and then defendant firm.

THE COURT: Okay.

limitations issue. And if you're going to say that it was a breach of his duty in lying or misleading, I think we need more particularity in the allegations. You can't just make a conclusory statement to that effect.

That's my perspective. What would you like -- I'll give you an opportunity -- opportunity to replead; but if you want to argue against my thinking, I'll listen.

MS. WALCZYK: Well, Your Honor, I -- I won't argue with the Court. If Your Honor would like some more specificity as to those certain terms, we can certainly replead and plead those a little bit more specifically to --

THE COURT: And with respect to the discovery rule issue --

MS. WALCZYK: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: -- since it's going to come up one way or another, although I think it's a question of fact, I would like to see it touched upon, because I'm not following the -- the fact that he got more from the arbitrator than had been initially suggested by his attorneys, isn't really telling me anything. So I need maybe a little bit more information to understand the relationship of the two things.

With respect to the issue of -- on the 2-619, I felt that in light of how I was going with the 2-615, I really couldn't rule on the -- the application of the discovery rule. And, ultimately, I saw that in the long run, it was going to be a question of fact, and I would probably need -- and I could only address that with some more facts than what's just contained in the complaint.

With respect to estoppel, I didn't agree -- and you can tell me why you think I'm wrong, but I didn't agree with the argument that you were making because it -- it, carried to its logical conclusion, I could mislead and lie to my client about the -- about the implications and why he should settle, and then once he agrees to it, then I'm -- I'm released from my breach of my duty.

So I don't think that it -- that that was the type of scenario involved when the courts were discussing the estoppel issue.

Do you have anything -- do you want to contest that?

MR. FLYNN: Not at this time, Your Honor. I --

I've always learned that it's better to quit while you're ahead. And with -- without giving a roadmap to the plaintiff, I do think that having their best complaint on file benefits us all.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: So going back to the 2-615 issues, again, a legal malpractice case, they've got to plead and prove, not only the legal malpractice, but the elements of the underlying case. And it seemed to me, and as we pointed out, that -- that all of the allegations were very conclusory. That they would have gotten more, they wouldn't have done this, that the -- that Hans Mast and the Popovich firm should have undertaken additional actions in the underlying case, but they don't say what those are. And I think that they -- they're required to if they believe that there was a breach of a duty that led to damages.

The high-low agreement, which is very confusing to me and to my client, frankly, because he's never seen it, and as I understand it, that's outside of the four corners --

THE COURT: It is outside, but it did lead to an area where I was also a little bit confused. And

I -- and I think you touched on -- I'll ask you: Is the complaint having to do with the settlement with the McGuires, or does it somehow relate to the suit that continued with respect to Gagnon and the high-low agreement?

MS. WALCZYK: Well, I think it's a little bit of both, because it started with the suit against McGuires, which settled. And then it looks like there was a high-low agreement signed.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: And --

THE COURT: Was it signed by Mr. Mast?

MS. WALCZYK: Oh, I believe it was signed by Mr. Dulberg. I haven't seen it.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WALCZYK: However, we can attach it if -- if you want --

THE COURT: If -- if you are going to allege malpractice as a result of entering into the high-low agreement, yes, I would require you, then, to attach it and to make that a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Yes.

THE COURT: Because I -- I came away thinking that was not part of your complaint, but I wasn't a 100 percent sure.

Also, let's see -- yeah, I need to know with some specificity what facts were concealed and how he was misled. I had problems with, particularly, I had -- paragraphs 20 and 21 and felt that you should have included more in that. And I won't probably say more than that.

MS. WALCZYK: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: And I -- on the estoppel argument, as I've said, I don't think that it is clear that the signing of the release was something that could be assumed to be knowing and voluntary when the plaintiff is alleging that he was misled as to the ramifications of that. Excuse me. Let's see. Okay.

Any -- so I'm granting on the 2-615. I will grant you leave to refile or replead.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And what else? Is there anything else that we need?

MR. FLYNN: Just as a housekeeping, again, depending on what theory you're going under, if it's related to the Gagnon settlement, and we may have more people coming to the party; but if not, then that's it.

THE COURT: Yeah. I mean, if you're going to draw that in, then I need it a little more explicit.

MS. WALCZYK: Okay.

THE COURT: And I got -- in fact -- I'm reading from my notes. I need facts on what was false, misleading and what -- what you mean by coercion.

MR. FLYNN: So the 615 is granted with leave to replead.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. FLYNN: I wasn't clear, I guess, on whether there's an actual ruling on the 619 or --

THE COURT: 619, I'm denying because --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- there's a question of fact --

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: -- at this stage.

And I think that even if they include additional facts in their complaint, I would still come back to it being a question of fact, because I -- there's going to be a lot more about their relationship than I think can be reflected in merely the complaint. I would -- so I mean, if you were to bring another 2-619, feel free.

MR. FLYNN: Sure.

THE COURT: But I would still think it's going to be a question of fact as to what is clear -- Dulberg's claims are with respect to how he was misled or facts were concealed.

MR. FLYNN: Okay.

THE COURT: Because it's going to depend on their interaction.

MR. FLYNN: And it is the -- the language of statute is "knew or reasonably should have been known." And, again, this -- he does have counsel that came in right after my clients got out. So, again, the Blue Water Partners case says you -- potentially, you can't bury your head in the sand.

THE COURT: No, you can't. But because I -- of the absence of information --

MR. FLYNN: Fair enough.

Plaintiff's counsel, if you could identify yourself.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor. My name is Alphonse Talarico.

THE COURT: And defendant.

MR. FLYNN: Good morning, your Honor. George Flynn for the defendants.

THE COURT: And for the record, I -- Mr. Dulberg is in attendance, and once again, I hope we're not being recorded. That being said, we'll move on to the motion.

Plaintiff, you have a motion.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, Judge. I'd like to -- we filed our motion -- we filed -- counsel filed a response, we filed a reply. We'd like to rely on that, with one additional presentation or request of the Court.

THE COURT: Okay. You mean from Mr. Mast's -- or Mast's -- deposition?

MR. TALARICO: Correct. Everything that -- that would help the Court understand all of these problems. Because you --

THE COURT: Well, we do have -- we have the transcript.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor, but the transcript is selective.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Flynn, comment.

MR. FLYNN: I would object, Judge. The plaintiff has already filed a second amended motion and response. He's had plenty of opportunity to bring this to the Court's attention.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Talarico, final word.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, this is for the aid to -- for the Court -- this Honorable Court to understand what's going on.

As to the second amended, I replied to that, that -- the only difference between the amended and the second amended, Judge, was the stamp on Exhibit 17 didn't show up, so I re-filed it. But it was filed timely. As soon as I realized the stamp didn't show up on Exhibit 17, I re-filed it with an emphasis on the Exhibit 17. Mr. Flynn received it on time with notification that it's Exhibit 17.

THE COURT: Well, that's not the issue, but the issue is --

MR. FLYNN: It's not. And just for the record, there was a typo in my response brief. I wasn't taking issue with the timing of the filing of the second amended, other than the fact that it's two years after the deposition.

THE COURT: But that -- that's a different --

MR. FLYNN: But --

THE COURT: That's a different issue.

MR. FLYNN: Exactly.

THE COURT: The first issue is whether or not to -- the Court will accept plaintiff's request to submit the audio of the deposition at issue of Mr. Mast that, I believe, was taken June 25th, 2020.

And, Mr. Talarico, anything else to say in support of that oral motion?

So that will be denied, and we'll incorporate that into the motion -- or in the order. I'm sorry.

Moving on to the motion, this is plaintiff's motion to either re-depose or strike, or both, the deposition of Mr. Mast taken June 25th, 2020; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: And, further, am I correct that the -- the reason for this is issues with respect to what's identified as Exhibit 12?

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. That's just one small part of it. The entire motion is based on Supreme Court rules and on -- or in effect at the time the deposition was taken.

THE COURT: No, no, no. Tell me the substance. Don't tell me what the rules are. Because my reading of your motion focused on Exhibit 12 and the failure -- or the alleged failure to produce it prior to the deposition or give an exhibit list.

So tell me, what is the reason why you want to re-depose Mr. Mast? Because I think that's ultimately your request.

MR. TALARICO: That's right. Judge, within our motion and our reply, we've indicated that it's not just Exhibit 12. Focusing on Exhibit 12 makes it too easy. The entire deposition -- the Internet went down almost the entire time. It's in the notes that I highlighted. It's in the transcript. They were not seeing Exhibits 1 through 15 at the same time. They weren't seeing them. They weren't being uploaded to the admin- -- the administer of -- of oath. 12 wasn't even part of it. It was added, I don't know, 14 days later.

MR. FLYNN: Judge, to say that the Internet was down for --
THE COURT: I don't want to go down there. Did the -- did Mr. Mast see the exhibits?
MR. FLYNN: My recollection and understanding is that Mr. Mast saw all of the exhibits. There may have been an issue with a portion of Exhibit 12; however, he was -- he was cross-examined at Page 49 through 52 regarding Exhibit 12, generally speaking, and the case law that was contained in his file.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TALARICO: There was confusion as to what the numbers were.

THE COURT: Whose exhibits were they?

MR. TALARICO: They were the plaintiff's, but it was the defendant's equipment that caused the problem.

any -- the plaintiff's attorney, at that time, was aware of any glitches or difficulties with respect to having the deponent view all of the exhibits; am I correct?

THE COURT: Okay. Well, that -- but the handling attorney at the time who represented Mr. Dulberg's interests proceeded with the deposition and did not give notice to anyone of any complaint with respect to the manner in which it was conducted; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct.

that not only does the objection have to take place at the time of the deposition itself. When the evidence is being brought -- when the evidence is being subject to admission, I can bring that -- I can raise that now and object to it.

THE COURT: Okay. But the -- the exhibits were always in control of the plaintiff's attorneys, and you're asking to penalize the defendant for what appears to be a -- an issue you have with the manner in which prior counsel conducted the deposition.

MR. TALARICO: No, your Honor. It's -- as far as the defendant, it's their electronic equipment that failed.

THE COURT: And there were no objections made at the time or subsequent, and this motion was brought approximately two and a half years after the deposition in question; am I correct?

MR. TALARICO: You are correct. But it's also within the time of the ruling. I can do this now.

THE COURT: You can file any motion you like, but I'm -- I'm going to deny your request. I don't think that there's any reasonable basis under which I can compel the defendant to appear for a second deposition because of these issues. It appears that prior counsel was satisfied with the -- her ability to conduct the deposition, and she was always in control of all of the exhibits, so I don't see a problem there.

If anybody should have been raising an objection about the problems, it should have been defendant, not -- not the plaintiff two and a half years after the deposition they proceeded with. So I'm going to deny the request.

Anything else that we need to do today?

MR. FLYNN: Judge, just that there was some additional relief requested in the latest reply brief filed, and that included a request that the Court take judicial notice of -- what's really an implication. I think this is on Page 17 of the response.

I would just request that that specific request for relief also be denied in connection with the motion.

THE COURT: Okay. The notice of the adjudicative facts?

MR. FLYNN: Correct. I think it says in Paragraph 12(j), plaintiff requests that this Honorable Court take judicial notice of the adjudicative fact that the references to Restatement (Second) of Torts Section 318 impliedly references Tilschner versus Spangler.

THE COURT: That -- that's not really ultimately the purpose of this motion, and it's not contained in the prayer for relief. That strikes me as a new motion. Wasn't going to consider it, and so I'm -- to the extent that I have to rule on it, on an issue I don't even think that's in front of me appropriately --

MR. FLYNN: It's just relief that was in -- in this response that I didn't have any opportunity to address.

THE COURT: You are here on Dulberg against Mast?

MR. FLYNN: I am, Judge.

THE COURT: I have the other side here on that as well. Well, no. I have Mr. Dulberg here. I have Mr. Talarico as well. Mr. Talarico, are you ready for a hearing if I call it early, sir? I'm sorry, sir, you are muted. I'm not --

MR. TALARICO: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning. Are you ready for hearing a couple minutes early, sir?

MR. TALARICO: Absolutely.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. This is Dulberg against Mast, et al. I have Mr. Talarico present via Zoom as is Mr. Dulberg. Counsel, would you please state your name?

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, your Honor, George Flynn on behalf of the defendants.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Flynn. We are before the Court for a hearing on pending motions. The one most notable is the summary judgment. What else are we hearing this morning, gentlemen?

MR. FLYNN: That's all we have, as far as I know, Judge.

THE COURT: Good. Because that's all I read.

MR. TALARICO: That's all I know, Judge.

THE COURT: Now I feel way better. It just said pending motions. All I could find was summary judgment. I read the motion. I read the response. I read the reply. I have read all the attachments, as they were relevant. It's your motion.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. And I wasn't sure I -- with Judge Meyer's standing orders, with respect to courtesy copies, I wasn't sure if the Court had a chance to review the briefs, but since your Honor has indicated that you have --

THE COURT: I have read everything. It's all based on a two-year statute of limitations on a lawsuit over a chain saw.

MR. FLYNN: That's exactly right. So I will be brief. The only case cited by the plaintiff in its response with respect to the accrual of the injury was a Suburban Real Estate case which is a transactional legal malpractice case, not a litigated matter. I think the -- all of the cases we have cited and including the dicta in that Suburban Real Estate case indicates that the accrual date in a litigated matter is the date of settlement, judgment or dismissal.

Here, we had a January 14 settlement that was consummated. There was a good faith finding and dismissal at that time. Mast and Popovich continued to represent Mr. Dulberg for another year or so and prosecuting the case against the other defendant in the case.

Dulberg became disillusioned with Mast, admitted that he was looking for additional counsel -- or substitute counsel even as early as July of 2014. Ultimately, Mast and Popovich withdrew in March of 2015. The case proceeded against Gagnon. There was a mediation in December of 2016 at which time he indicates now that he first became aware of his legal malpractice case.

Mr. Dulberg had every opportunity in discovery through interrogatories, production requests, I took his deposition. I asked him over and over again in several different ways how he first became aware of his injury and that it was wrongfully caused. The only response he could give was that a lawyer told him that he had a case. He couldn't provide any specifics. He has a burden of proving the -- a late discovery. He cannot meet it.

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

He will never be able to meet it.

THE COURT: Do we know, by the way, how did he come to me because the lawyer, if I recall, was Mr. Gooch. So he was represented by I believe Mr. Balke if I recall correctly followed by Mr. Baudin.

MR. FLYNN: That's correct.

THE COURT: Where did Mr. Gooch come into this? Who shipped him off to Mr. Gooch to even get opinion, do we know?

MR. FLYNN: One of those two lawyers, I think, recommended that he seek an opinion from a lawyer, generally speaking, that handles legal malpractice cases. Whether it was a direct referral, I don't know if the evidence shows that. I think Mr. Dulberg testified that I believe it was Mr. Baudin recommended that he see a legal malpractice attorney.

So Mr. Gooch met with him. Allegedly provided an opinion that there was a case without any reason and then almost a year later filed a lawsuit. Again, first Mr. Dulberg raised privilege when I asked him how -- how and what -- how you became aware of this legal malpractice case, the injury and the wrongful causation, he claimed privilege. Finally, that was waived or otherwise disposed of, and then, he admitted he couldn't -- I said the legal opinion Dulberg received from Gooch was verbal. Gooch simply stated you have a case here. You have a valid case. When asked did he tell you exactly what they did wrong in connection with the representation, Dulberg said he probably did. I'm not recalling it right now. I'm pulling a blank. There are no specifics.

So again, the burden is his to prove a later discovery. He's not able to do that. I'm happy to answer any questions the Court has, but again, I'll rest on the briefs.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. Mr. Talarico, sir?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, sir. I'm -- what would you like me to address first? I guess we could start with the fact that defendant didn't follow the local rules, and therefore, plaintiff could not properly respond. And the local rule says that if they do not follow the local rules, you can strike the motion or deny it.

All I'm asking is deny the motion based on the fact that they did not follow the local rules.

THE COURT: I respectfully decline to do so, sir. A written motion could have been filed expressly asking for that relief. A response was filed that addressed it. I've read the response. I understand your concerns that by not following the local rules, they may have made it more difficult for us to suss out what are the disputed issues of material fact and what aren't. But I've been able to pretty much get a grip on everything the way it's been filed.

MR. TALARICO: All right. Thank you, Judge. The second thing is, again, we didn't follow the rules that (indiscernible) we didn't respond -- we responded generally. So I would like that the ruling you just made to extend to our response too.

THE COURT: Of course it does.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you, sir. Okay. Then, the next issue is the Suburban case. Plaintiff -- defendant, I'm sorry, defendant seems to indicate -- well, he does indicate that the reason that Suburban doesn't apply is that there is a difference between a transactional case and a litigation case. Now, I read the Suburban case many, many times over and the Supreme Court does not distinguish that their ruling is for one type of case or the other. What their ruling is is that the statute of limitation and they construed the exact specific statute does not begin until there is a pec -- pecuniary loss.

Prior to that, Mr. Dulberg would have brought an action, he would have had no damages. So that -- what that does is because the general rule and which has been voiced in -- by the Illinois Supreme Court Justice Thomas in the Porter case is that when the Supreme Court construes a statute, that becomes part of the statute until the -- the -- I can't think of the word, legislation -- legislature decides to change it. So what we have is the prior cases cited by Mr. Dulberg are not effective because he's citing it to the rule and not to the particular case we are talking about. The Suburban case says no damages, the statute does not begin to run. And that is part of the statute. It hasn't been changed.

Now, as to the last thing, we have raised many affirmative -- I mean, I'm sorry, many issues of material fact that are in dispute. But most important -- the clearest ones, Judge, are the defendant's affirmative defenses. There are four affirmative defenses which -- which plaintiff has denied all four.

Now, there is a recent case, if you'll hold on just one second, and I'll find it, but the indication -- it's not that recent, but it's -- the indication is that -- this is West Suburban Mass Transit versus Consolidated Rail Corporation. It's 1-89-2916. If this was done the Appellate Court but it was by the -- the opinion was by Justice McMorrow, who of course became Supreme Court judge, that summary judgment is not appropriate when there is affirmative defenses in dispute.

I think that pretty much sums it all, Judge. We have got many material facts in dispute, including four affirmative defenses which were denied specifically by plaintiff.

THE COURT: Respectfully, sir, merely saying something is in dispute does not make it so though, does it?

MR. TALARICO: Judge, I'm saying that the answer filed was it was in dispute.

THE COURT: So by filing a response to their affirmative defense denying the affirmative defense, you're telling me that that in and of itself is sufficient to defeat summary judgment.

MR. TALARICO: Yes, I am.

THE COURT: What if your client --

MR. TALARICO: I --

THE COURT: What if your client at subsequent depositions testifies inconsistent with the answer?

MR. TALARICO: In the case that I cited, Judge, the burden is upon the person, in effect, in this case the defendant, to eliminate that dispute. The dispute exists as he did not resolve that dispute.

THE COURT: So when did the cause of action arise?

MR. TALARICO: December 12, 2016, I believe.

THE COURT: Why on that date?

MR. TALARICO: Because there was an arbitrary -- a mandatory arbitration hearing which I included the -- the findings that showed that the judge -- the retired judge in that case evaluated it at $660,000, and Mr. Dulberg was not able to obtain anything close to that.

THE COURT: And why not?

MR. TALARICO: Well, for two reasons, one, because he settled first improperly for $5,000 with

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

the landowner, and the second case is because he was instructed improperly to -- to sign -- well, he actually claims he never signed the agreement, but that there was an agreement to do a binding arbitration limited to the policy amount of 300,000.

THE COURT: Who entered into that agreement?

MR. TALARICO: That is a question of fact. I don't know, but Dulberg says he did not sign it and never wanted to.

THE COURT: When was the agreement entered into?

MR. TALARICO: I don't have the exact date, Judge. A few months before that. I can only say that that was -- that was during the time that Mr. Dulberg was in bankruptcy, and that was also part of the Baudin's instruction.

THE COURT: So the agreement to limit recovery to 300,000 was signed well after the Popovich firm was no longer representing Mr. Dulberg on this matter?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, that's true.

THE COURT: So how is his change in strategy somehow extend -- so in other words, what you're saying -- well, I'm trying to wrap my head around this. You are saying that that agreement your client never wished to enter into, he didn't sign, Popovich didn't sign, Mr. Mast didn't sign. His actual third attorney signed it, Mr. Baudin, not even Mr. Balke. But because that was somehow signed and in effect, then the cause of action against Mast and Popovich for legal malpractice is extended out to the date of the final mediation hearing because of an agreement and limitation on damages at the mediation hearing over which they had zero control?

MR. TALARICO: What I am saying, Judge, is the analysis in the Suburban case, the damages -- prior to that, Mr. Dulberg had no actual damages, therefore, he couldn't bring an action. He had nothing to say that Mast cost him this much or this much or Popovich cost him this much because that would -- that would have been stricken for -- they had no damages, so he had no cause of action.

The damages arrive -- arose on the days that Mr. Dulberg found out through the binding arbitration that the case was worth so much more than what he's going to get, and therefore -- that -- that enumerates the damages.

THE COURT: But respectfully, Mr. Talarico, and please correct me if I'm wrong because this is where

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

I'm getting the disconnect, the but-for portion of this analysis but for the high-low agreement limiting damages to the policy amount of $300,000, he would have had a judgment for the entire $660,000 if Tom Popovich and Hans Mast had never even existed.

MR. TALARICO: I'm not clear on what you are asking, Judge. Could you --

THE COURT: What I'm asking is isn't the failure to recover the $660,000 as opposed to 300,000 attributable to the high-low agreement that was entered into well over a year or if not two or more years after Popovich and Mast were out of the case?

MR. TALARICO: Well, Judge, I -- first of all, he didn't enter into it. He's claimed over and over that that's not his signature. It was forged. There is many issues about that in the bankruptcy.

THE COURT: But again, counsel -- but again, my point being I don't really care if he signed it or didn't sign it. My point being that it is that agreement that limited his damages, and that agreement was entered into way after Popovich and Mast withdrew from this case, right?

MR. TALARICO: That's right, but --

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

THE COURT: He so would have got -- so he would have gotten all 660,000 had that agreement not been entered into.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, but at -- before the judge ruled in that binding mediation, he had no idea how much the case was worth. They had told him it was worth $5,000 and then some. That -- that date -- that's the date when he knows when there was a factual pecuniary damage. He knows the case is worth much more than they told him and he's got numbers behind it. Before that, he had nothing to plead.

THE COURT: Respectfully, the case is worth that much against Mr. Gagnon, not necessarily against Mr. Gagnon's -- I believe it was his parents, the two people that settled out of it. The $660,000 is a finding of liability against Mr. Gagnon, isn't it?

MR. TALARICO: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: So how is it a finding of liability against the two people that were settled with?

MR. TALARICO: Because those people were settled with instructions by Mr. Mast that they could not win any money against them. His instructions were that they -- they would get out on summary judgment,

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

he would get nothing, take $5,000 as a gift. He was over and over that that -- that that argument was made between Mast and between Dulberg, and some of those documents are part of what we filed.

THE COURT: All right. Anything else, Mr. Talarico?

MR. TALARICO: Not at the moment, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, sir. Final word, please.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you, Judge. Just briefly with respect to the pecuniary loss, the loss or the injury, which is the language used in the statute, was in January of 2014 when the case against the McGuires, Bill and Caroline McGuire. Caroline was Gagnon's mother. Bill McGuire was the stepfather. That case was foreclosed in January of 2014. No recovery could have been had other than the $5,000 at that point in time. That's when there was an injury.

The question -- the second prong of the analysis is when did he have a reasonable belief that the injury was wrongfully caused. Dulberg had every opportunity, he admitted that he had talked to hundreds of lawyers. He could have asked Balke, he could have asked Baudin. He didn't ask any of them, allegedly.

Under Illinois law, he has a duty to investigate if he thinks there is an issue. He had -- he became disillusioned with Mast in 2014. Mast withdrew in March of 2015. Again, the injury is January 2014.

THE COURT: Thank you very much.

MR. TALARICO: Judge, may I say one thing?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. TALARICO: Thank you. The Supreme Court case, the Suburban case makes it clear that being alerted to a problem or alerted to malpractice is not sufficient enough until -- they use the specific word alerted and say that is not sufficient. There has to be a pecuniary loss.

So whether he talked to a thousand attorneys and whether they all told him all different things, he's alerted but he had to face a loss. That's all, Judge. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you. He was clearly alerted. Let's cut to the chase. He was hesitant -- he was hesitant to ever even sign the settlement agreement to the point where it took him over two months to do it. He clearly had his doubts. He clearly had his lack of faith. He signed the settlement agreement anyway. A year later, the attorneys withdrew. He went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Went to another attorney, still raised the issue. Met with hundreds of attorneys. He was clearly alerted.

Received 02-08-2023 10:49 AM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2023 11:21 AM / Transaction #21382269 / Case #2017LA000377

When did the pecuniary loss occur? Here is the amazing part, and this is what -- where the disconnect comes on this case and it's why I'm having so much trouble with it, I'm being urged that the pecuniary loss occurred when the decision was given on the binding mediation. But the reason I believe that's a disconnect is because -- for two reasons. The loss that occurred on the binding mediation that is being urged upon the Court is a loss of what appears to be $360,000. The difference between the $660,000 that the mediator indicated the -- were the appropriate measure of damages against Mr. Gagnon and the $300,000 insurance policy limit, that $360,000 difference and the amount that was awarded and the amount that the mediator claimed should have been awarded is based on an agreement that somebody entered into. We don't know who that somebody was, but we know for a fact that that somebody was not Hans Mast or the Law Offices of Tom Popovich because the agreement occurred well after they were out of Dodge.

But didn't the pecuniary loss itself, in fact, occur if there was a cause of action to which you were alerted? The pecuniary loss occurred when he only got $5,000. I agree with defense counsel. Statute of limitations lapsed. Merely denying the statute of limitation without more in the depositions and the sworn testimony does not itself create an issue of material fact.

The motion for summary judgment is heard. It is most respectfully allowed. Thank you very much, gentlemen.

MR. FLYNN: Thank you.

THE COURT: Both of you, outstanding. Even though they didn't comply with local rules, I will say gentlemen, to both of you, outstanding pleadings. Very thorough, very well written. I had no issues going through them. I spent three days going through all of them repeatedly, and you both made my job -- well, I'm not going to say easy, but you certainly did your jobs. AFFIDAVIT

Saira Pasha, being first duly sworn on oath, deposes and states as follows:

1. I am a licensed attorney in Illinois. I graduated from Chicago-Kent College of Law in 2012 and was admitted to the bar the same year. I have a Bachelor of Science degree in Operations and Information Management with an emphasis in information systems from Northern Illinois University. Since August 2020, I have worked as an independent consultant and testifying expert specializing in audit trail analysis, specifically in medical malpractice cases. I consult for and testify on behalf of both plaintiffs and defendants. A large portion of my work focuses on data integrity and completeness of production, such as obtaining prior versions of modified records and identifying, requesting, and obtaining data and records that were created but have not yet been produced. I have reviewed over 300 audit trails from more than 20 electronic medical record systems. The underlying concepts of audit trails for systems and the storage and retrieval of data from a database are essentially universal and apply to many kinds of systems, including court filing systems.

2. An audit trail is a timestamped report of actions performed by all users in a system, such as view, edit, add, delete, print, etc. In addition to audit trails, there are other reports and analytical tools that can be performed on record systems to conduct a comprehensive forensic analysis of electronically stored information.

3. I have been retained as a consultant by The Law Office of Alphonse A. Talarico for the purpose of evaluating file content discrepancies and missing file contents for a case under appellate review.

4. I reviewed the following materials for my analysis:

    - Transcript of court proceeding from 9/16/2022 titled “Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Transcript of court proceeding from 9/16/2022 titled “Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Emails to and from court reporters related to the transcripts listed above
    - Report titled “[Compare Report] Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg”
    - Table of Contents of the Report of Proceedings filed on 4/24/2023 for the appellate case (2-23-0072) listing all Report of Proceedings in the file in chronological order
    - McHenry County Circuit Court’s Public Case Access website information for the underlying case (2017LA000377)

5. Based on my analysis of these materials, I conclude to a reasonable degree of professional certainty and recommend as follows:

- There are multiple substantive differences, including modifications and deletions, between two transcripts for the same court proceeding that took place on 9/16/2022. One of the edits is about a material issue: whether expert discovery was closed. To verify the accuracy of what was said at this proceeding, I recommend a forensic investigation, including but not limited to obtaining a copy of the original recording and obtaining an audit trail for the recording system itself. Based on what the audit trail from the audio recording system shows, a live forensic inspection of the system may be warranted.

- The Table of Contents for the Report of Proceedings for the appellate review that was filed on 4/24/2023 does not list all court proceeding recordings that were created in the underlying matter. It is also inconsistent with representations made on the McHenry County Circuit Court Public Case Access website. I recommend an audit trail of the appellate court's filing system(s) be produced to objectively determine which documents were uploaded to its system(s), when they were uploaded, the user(s) who uploaded the documents, and if applicable, which documents were removed from the appellate review file. Based on what the audit trails from the systems show, a live forensic inspection of the systems may be warranted.

- Because there are allegations of removing the existence of recordings from specific court proceedings from the public access website for the McHenry County Circuit, I recommend an audit and forensic investigation to obtain objective facts and the timeline of when data was added and then removed from the underlying case's record. I recommend obtaining the audit trails for McHenry County Circuit Court's filing system(s) and performing a live forensic inspection of the system if warranted by the audit trail data.

Discrepancies between two transcripts for the 9/16/2022 court proceeding

6. A court proceeding was held on 9/16/2022 in Judge Meyer's courtroom in the McHenry County Circuit Court courthouse for the underlying case (2017 L 000377).

7. The McHenry County Circuit Court courthouse uses technology that creates audio recordings of court proceedings which court reporters can access to create transcripts of those proceedings.

8. There are two distinct transcripts for this proceeding. The first transcript was emailed from a court reporter to Plaintiff on 9/26/2022 and is titled "Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg." The second transcript was emailed from a different court reporter to Plaintiff on 9/27/2022 and is titled "Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg." (The names of the files were presumably created to distinguish the transcripts).

9. There are multiple substantive differences between the two transcripts. Below is one example of a significant substantive difference in a statement made by defense counsel George Flynn about a material issue: expert discovery. The first transcript includes the phrase "You gave a ruling that expert discovery is completed" (page 5, lines 12-13)

So those (indiscernible) all relied on facts regarding the accident itself that would have taken, you know, additional five to ten pages of facts that are -- So we'd like to do that separately. In fact, we might wait until -- You gave a ruling that expert discovery is completed, but I'm going to (indiscernible) but I think (indiscernible).

10. The second transcript includes phrase "if and when expert discovery is completed" for the same page and line numbers:

So those (indiscernible) all relied on facts regarding the accident itself that would have taken, you know, additional five to ten pages of facts that are -- So we'd like to do that separately. In fact, we might wait until if and when expert discovery is completed, but -- I'm going to have some more thoughts, but I think we have plenty to chew on now.

11. These two statements are not only substantively different, they also do not sound alike when spoken aloud.

12. Another substantive difference between the two transcripts is the inclusion of the word "dilatory" in two sentences.

13. In the "Dash Dash 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg" transcript (page 11, line 2) the court reporter uses "(indiscernible)", implying that the word stated by Mr. Flynn could not be understood. In the next line, there are hyphens at the end of "do" in Mr. Talarico's response, implying Mr. Talarico never said any word after "do."

just don't see what the issue is.  It seems as if it's a (indiscernible) tactic to avoid --
    MR. TALARICO:  I don't do --
    THE COURT:  Hold on.  I can't rule on the motion until I see it.  I can't rule -- I can't determine

14. In "Dilatory Dilatory 09-16-2022 17LA377 Dulberg," page 11, line 2, the transcription of defense counsel's statement by replacing the "(indiscernible)" with "dilatory " On the next line, plaintiff's Mr. Talarico's response is transcribed as "I don't to dilatory.." implying that the word was spoken, while the original transcript indicates no word was spoken nor was there an indiscernible sound.

```
I just don't see what the issue is.  It seems as if it's a another dilatory tactic to avoid --
    MR. TALARICO:  I don't do dilatory --
    THE COURT:  Hold on.  I can't rule on the motion until I see it.  I can't rule -- I can't determine

15. These are two examples of significant and substance differences between the two transcripts that warrant further investigation to confirm accuracy.

16. To verify the accuracy of both transcripts and determine what was actually said by the parties on 9/16/2022, I recommend obtaining the original recording of the proceeding from the McHenry County Circuit Court's audio recording system. I also recommend simultaneously obtaining an audit trail for the specific audio recording file at issue, from 9/16/2022 through present, to identify all parties who accessed the recording, when they accessed it, if any edits were made to the recording, and other objective data pertaining to the veracity of the recording.

Missing recordings of court proceedings from January and February 2018

17. The Table of Contents for the Report of Proceedings from the appellate case was filed on 4/24/2023. It lists all reports of proceedings from the underlying case included in chronological order beginning on 5/10/2018, as seen in the excerpt below:

18. The public case access website for the McHenry County Circuit Court allows users to search for court events and documents related to cases. For the underlying case at issue, the top of the "Court Events" tab looks like this:

19. Scrolling to the bottom of the same tab reveals the court events beginning from 1/10/2018.

20. As seen in the screen shot above, there was a court event on 1/10/2018 during which a motion to extend time was granted and a court event on 2/27/2019 during which a motion to dismiss was set for hearing. The third court event listed took place on 5/10/2018.

21. The recordings from the first two court events in the underlying case were not included in the file contents for appellate review. I did perform a line-item check for evert court event; it is possible recordings for other events are also missing.

22. The 1/10/2018 court event was listed as "Motion – Extend Time." I reviewed the Table of Contents to determine if any recording for a "Motion- Extend Time" court event existed and found one for 3/15/2021. Therefore, there is no reason to conclude that the 1/10/2018 recording was not included in the file materials because that type of court event is not recorded.

02/10/2021	HEARING - MOTION COMPEL	R 101-R 124 (Volume 1)
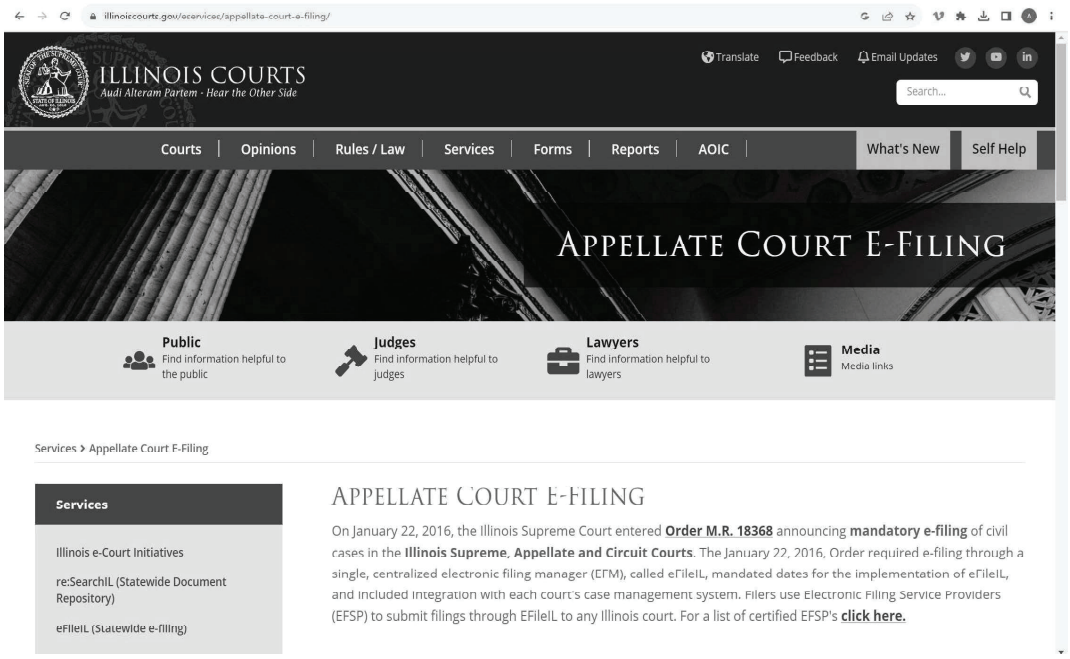
03/25/2021	HEARING - MOTION COMPEL	R 154-R 159 (Volume 1)

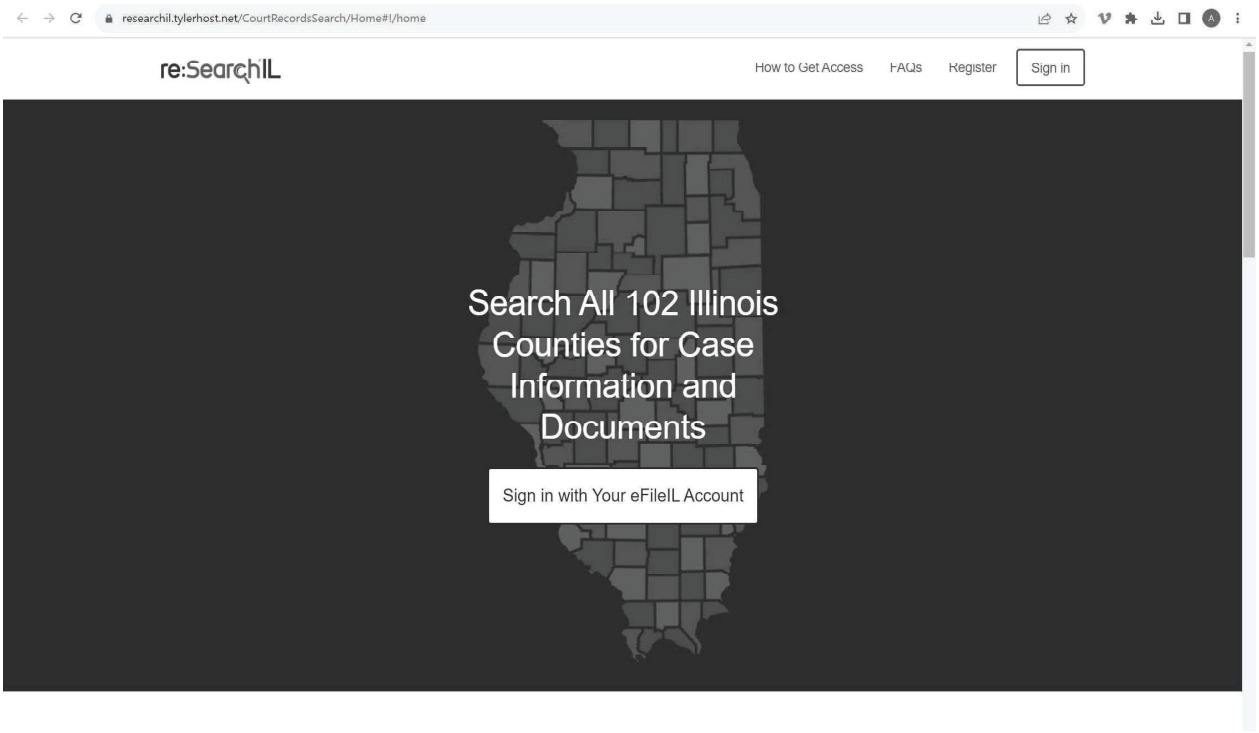
23. Plaintiff/Appellant alleges that the public record access system for McHenry County originally listed recordings for these two 2018 proceedings under the documents tab but were removed at a later date. Below is a screen shot of the top portion of the "Documents" tab for the underlying case. As the image below indicates, "Report – Proceedings" is a type of document included in the list.



24. To objectively determine if the "Documents" tab of the McHenry County Circuit Court public portal ever included a listing of "Report – Proceedings" for the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events, I recommend a forensic audit of the system(s) in which these data elements are stored and used to display information on the public access portal website.

25. To objectively determine if the recordings from the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events were 1)ever part of the McHenry County Circuit Court file for the underlying, 2) were transmitted/uploaded to the appellate court filing system, and 3) were ever received or were part of the appellate court's filing system or file, audit trails from each of the respective systems must be generated and produced. Based on the data included in those reports, a live forensic inspection of the systems may be warranted. If audit trails from those systems are not produced, I recommend performing a live forensic inspection of the systems at issue.

26. To objectively determine if recordings were created for the 1/10/2018 and 2/27/2018 court events, an audit trail from the McHenry County Circuit Court audio recording system must be generated and produced. Based on the data contained in those reports, a live forensic audit of the audio recording system may be necessary.



27. The website for Illinois's court systems makes reference to two distinct systems: one document repository system and efiling systems.

28. The website displays several options for efiling:

29. The document repository system link takes you to a separate system called re:SearchIL, managed by Tyler Technologies.

30. Based on my preliminary review of these websites and technologies, the systems used by both the appellate court and the circuit court in this case are capable of producing audit trails for regulatory and compliance reporting. These reports can also be used to verify the integrity of the records and data in this matter.

Under penalty of perjury, I certify the above statements are true and correct.

PAUL DULBERG,

Plaintiff,

v.

THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., and HANS MAST, Defendant.

No. 17LA000377

NOTICE

THIS CASE IS HEREBY SET FOR A SCHEDULING CONFERENCE IN COURTROOM 201 ON 02/27/2018, AT 9:00 AM. FAILURE TO APPEAR MAY RESULT IN THE CASE BEING DISMISSED OR AN ORDER OF DEFAULT BEING ENTERED.

COMPLAINT AT LAW
(Legal Malpractice)

COMES NOW your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG (hereinafter also referred to as "DULBERG"), by and through his attorneys, THE GOOCH FIRM, and as and for his Complaint against THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. (hereinafter also referred to as "POPOVICH"), and HANS MAST (hereinafter also referred to as "MAST"), states the following:

1. Your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, is a resident of McHenry County, Illinois, and was such a resident at all times complained of herein.

2. Your Defendant, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., is a law firm operating in McHenry County, Illinois, and transacting business on a regular and daily basis in McHenry County, Illinois.

3. Your Defendant, HANS MAST, is either an agent, employee, or partner of THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. MAST is a licensed attorney in the State of Illinois, and was so licensed at all times relevant to this Complaint.

Received 11-28-2017 04:31 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-29-2017 09:53 AM / Transaction #17111117451 / Case #17LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

4. That due to the actions and status of MAST in relation to POPOVICH, the actions and inactions of MAST are directly attributable to his employer, partnership, or principal, being THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPVICH, P.C.

5. Venue is therefore claimed proper in McHenry County, Illinois, as the Defendants transact substantial and regular business in and about McHenry County in the practice of law, where their office is located.

6. On or about June 28, 2011, your Plaintiff, DULBERG was involved in a horrendous accident, having been asked by his neighbors Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, in assisting a David Gagnon in the cutting down of a tree on the McGuire property. DULBERG lived in the neighborhood.

7. At this time, Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw he was using causing it to strike DULBERG. This caused substantial and catastrophic injuries to DULBERG, including but not limited to great pain and suffering, current as well as future medical expenses, in an amount in excess of $260,000.00, along with lost wages in excess of $250,000.00, and various other damages.

8. In May of 2012, DULBERG retained THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., pursuant to a written retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A.

9. A copy of the Complaint filed by MAST on his own behalf, and on behalf of DULBERG, is attached hereto as Exhibit B, and the allegations of that Complaint are fully incorporated into this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

10. An implied term of the retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, was that at all times, the Defendants would exercise their duty of due care towards their client and conform their acts and actions within the standard of care every attorney owes his client.

Received 11-28-2017 04:31 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-29-2017 09:53 AM / Transaction #17111117451 / Case #17LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

11. That as Exhibit B reveals, Defendants property filed suit against not only the operator of the chain saw, but also his principals, Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, who purportedly were supervising him in his work on the premises.

12. At the time of filing of the aforesaid Complaint, MAST certified pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 137, that he had made a diligent investigation of the facts and circumstances around the Complaint he filed, and further had ascertained the appropriate law. MAST evidently believed a very good and valid cause of action existed against Caroline McGuire and William McGuire.

13. The matter proceeded through the normal stages of litigation until sometime in late 2013 or early 2014, when MAST met with DULBERG and other family members and advised them there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and told DULBERG he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuire's for the sum of $5,000.00. DULBERG, having no choice in the matter, reluctantly agreed with MAST and to accept the sum of $5,000.00 releasing not only William and Caroline McGuire, but also Auto-Owners Insurance Company from any further responsibility or liability in the matter. A copy of the aforesaid general release and settlement agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

14. MAST and POPOVICH continued to represent DULBERG through to and including March of 2015, following which DULBERG and the Defendants terminated their relationship.

15. Continuously throughout the period of representation, MAST and POPOVICH represented repeatedly to DULBERG there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and lulled DULBERG into believing that the matter was being properly handled. Then, due to a claimed failure of communication, MAST and POPOVICH withdrew from the representation of DULBERG.

Received 11-28-2017 04:31 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-29-2017 09:53 AM / Transaction #17111117451 / Case #17LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

16. Thereafter, DULBERG retained other attorneys and proceeded to a binding mediation before a retired Circuit Judge, where DULBERG received a binding mediation award of $660,000.00 in gross, and a net award of $561,000.00. Unfortunately, a "high-low agreement" had been executed by DULBERG, reducing the maximum amount he could recover to $300,000.00 based upon the insurance policy available. The award was substantially more than that sum of money, and could have been recovered from McGuire's had they not been dismissed from the Complaint. A copy of the aforesaid Mediation Award is attached hereto as Exhibit D.

17. The McGuire's were property owners and had property insurance covering injuries or losses on their property, as well as substantial personal assets, including the property location where the accident took place at 1016 West Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, Illinois. McGuire's were well able to pay all, or a portion of the binding mediation award had they still remained parties.

18. DULBURG, in his relationship with POPOVICH and MAST, cooperated in all ways with them, furnishing all necessary information as required, and frequently conferred with them.

19. Until the time of the mediation award, DULBURG had no reason to believe he could not recover the full amount of his injuries, based on POPOVICH'S and MAST'S representations to DULBERG that he could recover the full amount of his injuries from Gagnon, and that the inclusion of the McGuire's would only complicate the case.

20. Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the "high-low agreement" contained therein, and the final mediation award, DULBURG realized for the first time that the information MAST and POPOVICH had given DULBERG was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuire's was a serious and substantial mistake. Following the mediation, DULBERG was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling Legal Malpractice matters, and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.

Received 11-28-2017 04:31 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-29-2017 09:53 AM / Transaction #17111117451 / Case #17LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

21. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBURG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:

a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuire's) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG;

b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

c) Failed to conduct necessary discovery, so as to fix the liability of the property owners to DULBERG;

d) Failed to understand the law pertaining to a property owner's rights, duties and responsibilities to someone invited onto their property;

e) Improperly urged DULBURG to accept a nonsensical settlement from the property owners, and dismissed them from all further responsibility;

f) Failed to appreciate and understand further moneys could not be received as against Gagnon, and that the McGuire's and their obvious liability were a very necessary party to the litigation;

g) Falsely advised DULBURG throughout the period of their representation, that the actions taken regarding the McGuire's was proper in all ways and respects, and that DULBURG had no choice but to accept the settlement;

Received 11-28-2017 04:31 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 11-29-2017 09:53 AM / Transaction #17111117451 / Case #17LA000377
Purchased from re:SearchIL

h) Failed to properly explain to DULBURG all ramifications of accepting the McGuire settlement, and giving him the option of retaining alternative counsel to review the matter;

i) Continually reassured DULBURG that the course of action as to the property owners was proper and appropriate;

j) Were otherwise negligent in their representation of DULBERG, concealing from him necessary facts for DULBURG to make an informed decision as to the McGuire's, instead coercing him into signing a release and settlement agreement and accept a paltry sum of $5,000.00 for what was a grievous injury.

22. That DULBERG suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of MAST and POPOVICH in urging DULBURG to release the McGuire's, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of MAST and THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.

WHEREFORE, your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG prays this Honorable Court to enter judgment on such verdict as a jury of twelve (12) shall return, together with the costs of suit and such other and further relief as may be just, all in excess of the jurisdictional minimums of this Honorable Court.

Respectfully submitted by,

PAUL DULBERG, Plaintiff, by his attorneys THE GOOCH FIRM,

DEFENDANTS' COMBINED MOTION TO DISMISS

Defendants, LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., and HANS MAST, by and through their attorneys, GEORGE K. FLYNN, and CLAUSEN MILLER P.C., pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-615, 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(5) and 735 ILCS 5/2-619.1, move to dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint, and state as follows:

1. The Plaintiff Paul Dulberg ("Dulberg") retained defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich P.C. ("Popovich") to prosecute a personal injury claim on his behalf against his next door neighbors, Carolyn and Bill McGuire and their adult son (Dulberg's lifelong friend), David Gagnon ("Gagnon")). Hans Mast ("Mast") handled the case for the firm. This legal malpractice case arises out of that underlying personal injury case.

2. In Illinois, to establish a legal malpractice claim, a plaintiff must plead and prove the existence of an attorney client relationship; a duty arising from that relationship; a breach of that duty, the proximate causal relationship between the breach of duty and the damage sustained; and actual damages. Glass v. Pitler, 276 Ill. App. 3d 344, 349 (1st Dist. 1995).

3. The plaintiff in a legal malpractice claim must plead a case within the case. Ignarski v. Norbut, 271 Ill. App. 3d 522 (1995).

4. Dulberg fails to allege requisite facts in support of each and every element of the "underlying" case or "case within the case" against the McGuires.

5. Dulberg's complaint must be dismissed pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-615.

6. Dulberg admits in ¶13 of his Complaint, that he agreed to a $5,000.00 settlement with the McGuires.

7. The doctrine of judicial estoppel provides that a party who assumes a particular position in a proceeding is estopped from assuming a contrary position in a subsequent proceeding. Larson vs. O'Donnell, 361 Ill. App. 3d 388, 398 (1st Dist. 2005), rev'd on other grounds. Dulberg is estopped from bringing this legal malpractice case because he expressly agreed to settle his case against the McGuires, and then continued to pursue his case against Gagnon. Dismissal is mandated under 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).

8. Dulberg has failed to file his legal malpractice complaint against Popovich and Mast within the two year statute of limitations for claims against attorneys. 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3 provides for a two year statute of limitations period which shall begin to run at "the time the person bringing the action knew or reasonably should have known of the injury for which damages are sought.

9. Here, the Plaintiff did not file his Legal Malpractice Complaint against Defendants until November 28, 2017, at least seven (7) months too late.

10. His claim must be dismissed with prejudice pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(5).

WHEREFORE, Defendants, LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., and HANS MAST, pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-615 and 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(5), and 735 ILCS 5/2-

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANTS' COMBINED MOTION TO DISMISS

Defendants, LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., and HANS MAST, by and through their attorneys, GEORGE K. FLYNN, and CLAUSEN MILLER P.C., pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-615, 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(5) and 735 ILCS 5/2-619.1, submit this Memorandum in Support of Defendants' Combined Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint with prejudice, and state as follows:

I. INTRODUCTION

The Plaintiff Paul Dulberg ("Dulberg") retained defendants The Law Offices of Thomas J. Popovich P.C. ("Popovich") to prosecute a personal injury claim on his behalf against his next door neighbors, Carolyn and Bill McGuire and their adult son (Dulberg's lifelong friend), David Gagnon ("Gagnon")). Hans Mast ("Mast") handled the case for the firm. Dulberg was on the McGuires' property, assisting Gagnon trim some tree branches with a chainsaw, when Dulberg's right arm was lacerated by the chainsaw. Dulberg agreed to a settlement with the McGuires. Thereafter, he and Mast reached an impasse. Mast and the firm withdrew, and successor counsel continued to prosecute the case against Gagnon.

Dulberg now has a case of "buyer's remorse," admitting that he agreed to accept the McGuires' settlement offer. He has not plead the requisite elements of a legal malpractice case against Popovich and Mast, or the requisite elements of the underlying case (the "case within the case"). Moreover, his agreement to settle the case with the McGuires, approved by the court along with a good faith finding of settlement, estops him from now taking a contrary position. Finally, his legal malpractice claim is barred by the applicable two-year statute of limitations.

II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. The Following Facts Can Be Gleaned From The Complaint (Exhibit 1) and Its Exhibits

On June 28, 2011, Dulberg was assisting David Gagnon in the cutting down of a tree on the property of Carolyn and Bill McGuire. (Exhibit 1, ¶ 6). Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw and caused personal injury to Dulberg. (Exhibit 1, ¶ 7). In May of 2012, Dulberg retained Popovich. (Exhibit 1, ¶8). On May 15, 2012, Mast filed a Complaint on behalf of Dulberg against Gagnon and McGuires in the Circuit Court of McHenry County, Illinois, Case No, 12 LA 178. (Exhibit 1, ¶ 9, and Exhibit 1B)[1]. In late 2013, Dulberg settled with the McGuires and executed a Release in their favor in exchange for the payment of $5,000.00. The McGuires and their insurance carrier, Auto Owners Insurance Company, were released. (Exhibit 1, ¶ 13 and Exhibit 1C). Defendants continued to represent Dulberg until March 2015. Dulberg retained successor counsel and proceeded to a binding mediation at which time he apparently executed a High-Low Agreement and received a mediation award (Exhibit 1, ¶ 16 and Exhibit 1D). After the mediation, Dulberg allegedly realized for the first time that the information Mast and Popovich had given him was false and misleading and that the dismissal of the McGuires was a serious and substantial mistake. He was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016. (Exhibit 1, ¶ 20).

B. Alleged Acts of Negligence

In Exhibit 1, ¶ 21, Dulberg alleges that Defendants failed to take actions as were necessary to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuires), alleging that they employed Gagnon and sought the assistance of Dulberg. It is alleged that they failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against the property owners, failed to conduct necessary discovery, failed to understand the law pertaining to a property owner's rights, duties and responsibilities to someone invited onto their property, and improperly urged Dulberg to accept a "non-sensical" settlement from the property owners. It is also alleged that Defendants concealed necessary facts from Dulberg preventing him from making an informed decision as to the McGuires and "coercing" him in signing a Release and Settlement Agreement.

III. DULBERG FAILS TO STATE A CLAIM FOR LEGAL MALPRACTICE UNDER 735 ILCS 5/2-615

A. Legal Standard

It is clearly established that Illinois is a fact pleading jurisdiction, requiring the plaintiff to present a legally and factually sufficient complaint. Winfrey v. Chicago Park Dist., 274 Ill. App. 3d 939, 942 (1st Dist. 1995). A plaintiff must allege facts sufficient to bring his or her claim within the cause of action asserted. Jackson vs. South Holland Dodge, 197 Ill. 2d 39 (2001). To pass muster a complaint must state a cause of action in two ways: first, it must be legally sufficient -- it must set forth a legally recognized claim as its avenue of recovery, and second, the complaint must be factually sufficient -- it must plead facts, which bring the claim within a legally recognized cause of action as alleged. People ex rel. Fahner v. Carriage Way West, Inc., 88 Ill. 2d 300, 308 (1981). Dismissal of a complaint is mandatory if one fails to meet both requirements. Misselhorn v. Doyle, 257 Ill. App. 3d 983, 985 (5th Dist. 1994). In ruling on a Section 2-615 motion, "only those facts apparent from the face of the pleadings, matters of which the court can take judicial notice, and judicial admissions in the record may be considered." Mount Zion State Bank and Trust v. Consolidated Communications, Inc., 169 Ill. 2d 110, 115 (1995).

In Illinois, to establish a legal malpractice claim, a plaintiff must plead and prove the existence of an attorney client relationship; a duty arising from that relationship; a breach of that duty, the proximate causal relationship between the breach of duty and the damage sustained; and actual damages. Glass v. Pitler, 276 Ill. App. 3d 344, 349 (1st Dist. 1995). The injuries resulting from legal malpractice are not personal injuries but pecuniary injuries to intangible property interests. Glass at 349. Damages must be incurred and are not presumed. Glass at 349. It is the plaintiff's burden to establish that "but for" the attorney's negligence, the client would not have suffered the damages alleged. Glass at 349. "The proximate cause element of legal malpractice claim requires that the plaintiff show that but for the attorney's malpractice, the client would have been successful in the undertaking the attorney was retained to perform. Green v. Papa, 2014 IL App. (5th) 1330029 (2014), quoting Owens v. McDermott Will & Emery, 316 Ill. App. 340 (2000), at 351. The plaintiff in a legal malpractice claim must plead a case within the case. Ignarski v. Norbut, 271 Ill. App. 3d 522 (1995).

B. Dulberg Fails to Plead Facts in Support of His Conclusory Allegations

Dulberg's pleading and theory of recovery is confusing. Presumably, since Dulberg retained successor counsel in the underlying case, he is only complaining here about the

Received 02-07-2018 01:20 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2018 09:41 AM / Transaction #17111133930 / Case #17LA000377

McGuires' underlying liability, and nothing with respect to case against David Gagnon (when an attorney is discharged and transfers a then viable matter to a successor attorney, the first lawyer cannot be held to have proximately caused the client's lost claim, see Mitchell v. Shain, Fursel, and Burney, Ltd., 332 Ill. App 3d 618 (1st. Dist. 2002), and Cedeno v. Gumbiner, 347 Ill. App. 3d 169 (1st Dist. 2004)).

Setting aside the Estoppel and Statute of Limitations issues which will be discussed below, Dulberg's complaint for legal malpractice is rife with unsupported conclusory allegations. Dulberg fails to allege requisite facts in support of each and every element of the "underlying" case or "case within the case" against the McGuires. Simply put, Dulberg fails to plead any facts in support of his conclusions that there was some liability against the McGuires. In ¶ 21 of his complaint, Dulberg alleges negligence against Popovich and Mast, but fails to identify what actions should have been taken and were not. In ¶ 21 (a), Dulberg fails to identify what investigation and discovery should have been undertaken. In ¶¶ 21 (b) and (c), Dulberg fails to identify or discuss the law that "defendants failed to understand." In ¶ 21 (d), Dulberg fails to plead any facts about why the settlement with the McGuires was improper or "non-sensical."

Under Illinois fact pleading requirements, much more is needed. In a case of alleged professional liability, the plaintiff cannot simply allege in conclusory terms that the defendants were negligent, and that the Plaintiff could have proved up liability against the underlying defendants. He must allege why and how. Dulberg's complaint must be dismissed pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-615.

IV. DULBERG'S SETTLEMENT WITH THE MCGUIRES AND THE DOCTRINE OF JUDICIAL ESTOPPEL BAR HIS LEGAL MALPRACTICE CLAIM

Dulberg admits in ¶13 of his Complaint, that he agreed to a $5,000.00 settlement with the McGuires. Attached to this Complaint, is an unsigned copy of the Settlement Agreement, Exhibit 1C.[2] Because Dulberg agreed to the settlement with the McGuires, waived and released all claims against them and their insurance carrier, and allowed the Court to enter an Order on a Good Faith Finding of Settlement (a joint tortfeasor Gagnon remained in the case), he is now estopped from taking a contrary position that the settlement was appropriate, fair, knowing and voluntary.[3]

The doctrine of judicial estoppel provides that a party who assumes a particular position in a proceeding is estopped from assuming a contrary position in a subsequent proceeding. Larson vs. O'Donnell, 361 Ill. App. 3d 388, 398 (1st Dist. 2005), rev'd on other grounds. In Larson, a plaintiff became unemployed during the pendency of his divorce. At settlement, he agreed to pay a specified dollar amount for child support and specified dollar amount for maintenance, based on the income he earned prior to his having become unemployed. Larson at 391. The parties and their attorneys appeared before the court to present the marital settlement agreement for approval at a "prove up". Larson at 392. At the prove up hearing, the plaintiff gave unequivocal testimony that he understood the terms and conditions of the agreement and acknowledged the amounts he was required to pay under the agreement. Larson at 392. After entry of the judgment for dissolution of marriage, the plaintiff began paying support based on a

---

[2] It does not appear that Dulberg is denying the authenticity of the Settlement Agreement, despite the fact that his signature is not attached. Mast is in possession of a signed copy of the Settlement Agreement, which Dulberg executed on January 29, 2014.

[3] For the Court's convenience, attached as Exhibits 2 and 3 are the Motion for the Good Faith Finding and Court's Order granting the Good Faith Finding of Settlement. The Court may take judicial notice of its own court docket see All Purpose Nursing Service v. Human Rights Com., 205 Ill. App. 3d 816, 823 (1st Dist. 1990). Notably, the McGuires also filed a counterclaim for contribution against Gagnon in the underlying case.

Received 02-07-2018 01:20 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2018 09:41 AM / Transaction #17111133930 / Case #17LA000377 percentage of his unemployment income rather than the amounts required by the judgement for dissolution. He was later held in contempt for failure to pay the amounts prescribed in the judgment of dissolution and attorney's fees were assessed against him in the divorce court. He sued his former attorneys for breach of fiduciary duty and legal malpractice. Larson at 393. The court held that the plaintiff in Larson was judicially estopped from attempting to create a question of fact regarding his "actual" understanding for purposes of summary judgment by later contradicting his previous position. Larson at 398.

Like Larson, Dulberg cannot now claim that he did not knowingly and voluntarily settle and release his claims against the McGuires. Moreover, Dulberg, like all adults, is "presumed to know the contents and meaning of the obligations he undertakes when he signs a written agreement." Premier Elec. Const. Co. vs. Ragnar Benson, Inc. 111 Ill. App. 3d 855, 865 (1st Dist. 1982). Accordingly, Dulberg is estopped from claiming that his agreement to settle the underlying case with the McGuires was not "knowing and voluntary," and he cannot claim that he was coerced. The final decision was his alone. Dulberg is estopped from now asserting a claim for legal malpractice against his former counsel. His Complaint must be dismissed with prejudice pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).

V. DULBERG'S CLAIM IS BARRED BY THE TWO YEAR STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS FOR CLAIMS AGAINST ATTORNEYS

Dulberg has failed to file his legal malpractice complaint against Popovich and Mast within the two year statute of limitations for claims against attorneys. 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3 provides for a two year statute of limitations period which shall begin to run at "the time the person bringing the action knew or reasonably should have known of the injury for which damages are sought. Ogle v. Hotto, 273 Ill. App. 3d 313, 318 (5th Dist. 1995). 735 ILCS 5/13-214.3(b) reads as follows:

Received 02-07-2018 01:20 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2018 09:41 AM / Transaction #17111133930 / Case #17LA000377

> (b) An action for damages based on tort, contract, or otherwise (i) against an attorney arising out of an act or omission in the performance of professional services or (ii) against a non-attorney employee arising out of an act or omission in the course of his or her employment by an attorney to assist the attorney in performing professional services must be commenced within two years from the time the person bringing the action knew or reasonably should have known of the injury for which damages are sought.

Dulberg's Complaint must be dismissed with prejudice pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(5) because on its face, his claims are untimely.

Dulberg admits in ¶ 14 of Exhibit 1 that Popovich's and Mast's representation ceased in March of 2015. Without some exception to the rule, a claim for legal malpractice would have been required to be filed by March 2017. Here, the Plaintiff did not file his Legal Malpractice Complaint against Defendants until November 28, 2017 (Exhibit 1), at least seven (7) months too late. Apparently realizing that his claims are untimely, Dulberg attempts to rely on the "discovery rule." He alleges in ¶ 20, without any factual support, that the information regarding the McGuires' liability as a property owner, was "false and misleading." As discussed above, Dulberg fails to allege any specific facts about any false and misleading information or other specifics as to Mast and Popovich's negligent conduct. Dulberg fails to plead facts in support of the case within the case, i.e. the McGuires' liability in the underlying cause of action. Dulberg alleges that he was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling legal malpractice matters on or about December 16, 2016, but provides no other explanation about why he was unaware of a claim until December 16, 2016. What happened after he signed the agreement on January 29, 2014?

While there was nothing preventing Dulberg at the time of the McGuire settlement from seeking a second opinion concerning the propriety or "sense" in settling, Illinois law requires a plaintiff relying on the discovery rule to plead facts in support of reliance on the discovery rule.

Received 02-07-2018 01:20 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 02-08-2018 09:41 AM / Transaction #17111133930 / Case #17LA000377

In other words, the plaintiff must explain why he did not discover the cause of action until December 16, 2016. The plaintiff has the burden of proving the date of discovery. Hermitage Corp. v. Contractors Adjustment Co., 166 Ill.2d 72, 85 (1995). Moreover, under Illinois law, actual knowledge of the alleged malpractice is not a necessary condition to trigger the running of the statute of limitations. SK Partners I, LP v. Metro Consultants, Inc., 408 Ill. App. 3d 127, 130 (1st Dist. 2011) ("under the discovery rule, a statute of limitations may run despite the lack of actual knowledge of negligent conduct") (emphasis in original)). A statute of limitations begins to run when the purportedly injured party "has a reasonable belief that the injury was caused by wrongful conduct, thereby creating an obligation to inquire further on that issue." Bluewater Partners v. Mason, 2012 IL App (1st 102165 at *p. 50).

Here, Dulberg fails to allege any facts to support a delay or tolling of the statute. He retained subsequent counsel after the defendants withdrew, and could have requested a legal opinion regarding the McGuires' liability then, why did he wait? His claim must be dismissed with prejudice pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(5).

COMPLAINT AT LAW
(Legal Malpractice)

COMES NOW your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG (hereinafter also referred to as "DULBERG"), by and through his attorneys, THE GOOCH FIRM, and as and for his Complaint against THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. (hereinafter also referred to as "POPOVICH"), and HANS MAST (hereinafter also referred to as "MAST"), states the following:

1. Your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, is a resident of McHenry County, Illinois, and was such a resident at all times complained of herein.

2. Your Defendant, THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., is a law firm operating in McHenry County, Illinois, and transacting business on a regular and daily basis in McHenry County, Illinois.

3. Your Defendant, HANS MAST, is either an agent, employee, or partner of THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. MAST is a licensed attorney in the State of Illinois, and was so licensed at all times relevant to this Complaint.

4. That due to the actions and status of MAST in relation to POPOVICH, the actions and inactions of MAST are directly attributable to his employer, partnership, or principal, being THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPVICH, P.C.

5. Venue is therefore claimed proper in McHenry County, Illinois, as the Defendants transact substantial and regular business in and about McHenry County in the practice of law, where their office is located.

6. On or about June 28, 2011, your Plaintiff, DULBERG was involved in a horrendous accident, having been asked by his neighbors Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, in assisting a David Gagnon in the cutting down of a tree on the McGuire property. DULBERG lived in the neighborhood.

7. At this time, Gagnon lost control of the chainsaw he was using causing it to strike DULBERG. This caused substantial and catastrophic injuries to DULBERG, including but not limited to great pain and suffering, current as well as future medical expenses, in an amount in excess of $260,000.00, along with lost wages in excess of $250,000.00, and various other damages.

8. In May of 2012, DULBERG retained THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C., pursuant to a written retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A.

9. A copy of the Complaint filed by MAST on his own behalf, and on behalf of DULBERG, is attached hereto as Exhibit B, and the allegations of that Complaint are fully incorporated into this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

10. An implied term of the retainer agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, was that at all times, the Defendants would exercise their duty of due care towards their client and conform their acts and actions within the standard of care every attorney owes his client.

11. That as Exhibit B reveals, Defendants property filed suit against not only the operator of the chain saw, but also his principals, Caroline McGuire and William McGuire, who purportedly were supervising him in his work on the premises.

12. At the time of filing of the aforesaid Complaint, MAST certified pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 137, that he had made a diligent investigation of the facts and circumstances around the Complaint he filed, and further had ascertained the appropriate law. MAST evidently believed a very good and valid cause of action existed against Caroline McGuire and William McGuire.

13. The matter proceeded through the normal stages of litigation until sometime in late 2013 or early 2014, when MAST met with DULBERG and other family members and advised them there was no cause of action against William McGuire and Caroline McGuire, and told DULBERG he had no choice but to execute a release in favor of the McGuire's for the sum of $5,000.00. DULBERG, having no choice in the matter, reluctantly agreed with MAST and to accept the sum of $5,000.00 releasing not only William and Caroline McGuire, but also Auto-Owners Insurance Company from any further responsibility or liability in the matter. A copy of the aforesaid general release and settlement agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

14. MAST and POPOVICH continued to represent DULBERG through to and including March of 2015, following which DULBERG and the Defendants terminated their relationship.

15. Continuously throughout the period of representation, MAST and POPOVICH represented repeatedly to DULBERG there was no possibility of any liability against William and/or Caroline McGuire and/or Auto-Owners Insurance Company, and lulled DULBERG into believing that the matter was being properly handled. Then, due to a claimed failure of communication, MAST and POPOVICH withdrew from the representation of DULBERG.

16. Thereafter, DULBERG retained other attorneys and proceeded to a binding mediation before a retired Circuit Judge, where DULBERG received a binding mediation award of $660,000.00 in gross, and a net award of $561,000.00. Unfortunately, a "high-low agreement" had been executed by DULBERG, reducing the maximum amount he could recover to $300,000.00 based upon the insurance policy available. The award was substantially more than that sum of money, and could have been recovered from McGuire's had they not been dismissed from the Complaint. A copy of the aforesaid Mediation Award is attached hereto as Exhibit D.

17. The McGuire's were property owners and had property insurance covering injuries or losses on their property, as well as substantial personal assets, including the property location where the accident took place at 1016 West Elder Avenue, in the City of McHenry, Illinois. McGuire's were well able to pay all, or a portion of the binding mediation award had they still remained parties.

18. DULBURG, in his relationship with POPOVICH and MAST, cooperated in all ways with them, furnishing all necessary information as required, and frequently conferred with them.

19. Until the time of the mediation award, DULBURG had no reason to believe he could not recover the full amount of his injuries, based on POPOVICH'S and MAST'S representations to DULBERG that he could recover the full amount of his injuries from Gagnon, and that the inclusion of the McGuire's would only complicate the case.

20. Following the execution of the mediation agreement with the "high-low agreement" contained therein, and the final mediation award, DULBURG realized for the first time that the information MAST and POPOVICH had given DULBERG was false and misleading, and that in fact, the dismissal of the McGuire's was a serious and substantial mistake. Following the mediation, DULBERG was advised to seek an independent opinion from an attorney handling Legal Malpractice matters, and received that opinion on or about December 16, 2016.

21. MAST and POPOVICH, jointly and severally, breached the duties owed DULBURG by violating the standard of care owed DULBERG in the following ways and respects:

a) Failed to take such actions as were necessary during their representation of DULBERG to fix liability against the property owners of the subject property (the McGuire's) who employed Gagnon, and sought the assistance of DULBERG;

b) Failed to thoroughly investigate liability issues against property owners of the subject property;

c) Failed to conduct necessary discovery, so as to fix the liability of the property owners to DULBERG;

d) Failed to understand the law pertaining to a property owner's rights, duties and responsibilities to someone invited onto their property;

e) Improperly urged DULBURG to accept a nonsensical settlement from the property owners, and dismissed them from all further responsibility;

f) Failed to appreciate and understand further moneys could not be received as against Gagnon, and that the McGuire's and their obvious liability were a very necessary party to the litigation;

g) Falsely advised DULBURG throughout the period of their representation, that the actions taken regarding the McGuire's was proper in all ways and respects, and that DULBURG had no choice but to accept the settlement;

h) Failed to properly explain to DULBURG all ramifications of accepting the McGuire settlement, and giving him the option of retaining alternative counsel to review the matter;

i) Continually reassured DULBURG that the course of action as to the property owners was proper and appropriate;

j) Were otherwise negligent in their representation of DULBERG, concealing from him necessary facts for DULBURG to make an informed decision as to the McGuire's, instead coercing him into signing a release and settlement agreement and accept a paltry sum of $5,000.00 for what was a grievous injury.

22. That DULBERG suffered serious and substantial damages, not only as a result of the injury as set forth in the binding mediation award, but due to the direct actions of MAST and POPOVICH in urging DULBURG to release the McGuire's, lost the sum of well over $300,000.00 which would not have occurred but for the acts of MAST and THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C.

WHEREFORE, your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG prays this Honorable Court to enter judgment on such verdict as a jury of twelve (12) shall return, together with the costs of suit and such other and further relief as may be just, all in excess of the jurisdictional minimums of this Honorable Court.

Respectfully submitted by,

MOTION FOR GOOD FAITH FINDING AND FOR ORDER OF DISMISSAL WITH PREJUDICE BY DEFENDANTS BILL McGUIRE AND CAROLYN McGUIRE

Defendants, BILL McGUIRE (aka William McGuire) and CAROLYN McGUIRE (improperly named Caroline), by and through their attorneys, Cicero, France, Barch & Alexander, P.C., hereby move this Court to dismiss all claims against them with prejudice and further request this Court to find that the settlement set forth in this motion was made in good faith and within the meaning and contemplation of the Illinois Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors Act, 740 ILCS 100/1, et seq. In support of their Motion, Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire state as follows:

1. On or about March 15, 2012, Plaintiff Paul Dulberg filed a multiple count complaint seeking damages for personal injuries he generally attributes to a chain saw incident that occurred on or about June 28, 2011, at and upon the premises owned by Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire, known commonly as 1016 West Elder Avenue, City of McHenry, County of McHenry, State of Illinois.

2. Plaintiff generally alleges that Defendant David Gagnon injured him with a chain saw while working under the supervision and control of Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire. Defendant David Gagnon denies any and all liability for Plaintiff Paul Dulberg's injuries. Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire also deny any and all liability for Plaintiff Paul Dulberg's injuries and further deny that Defendant David Gagnon was under their control and supervision and working or acting as their employee or agent at the time of the alleged chain saw incident.

3. On February 1, 2013, Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire filed a cross-claim for contribution against Defendant David Gagnon. The cross-claim for contribution seeks contribution from Defendant David Gagnon for injuries claimed by Plaintiff Paul Dulberg and is based upon the terms and provisions of the Illinois Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors Act, 740 ILCS 100/1, et seq.

4. Plaintiff Paul Dulberg and Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire have negotiated a settlement of all claims which Plaintiff brought or could have brought against Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire. The settlement was negotiated at arm's length over a substantial period of time, and with the advice of counsel on the part of both parties. There is no collusion or fraud on the part of any of the parties to the negotiation.

5. Pursuant to Section 100/2(c) of the Contribution Act, an alleged tortfeasor that settles with a claimant in good faith shall be discharged from liability for contribution to any other tortfeasors.

6. Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire deny and continue to deny liability to Plaintiff Paul Dulberg and further contest the nature and scope of the injuries Plaintiff Paul Dulberg attributes to the subject chain saw incident.

7. The lump-sum payment of $5,000.00 to Plaintiff Paul Dulberg by or on behalf of Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire constitutes adequate consideration for purposes of a good faith settlement under Section 100/2(c) of the Contribution Act.

8. Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire respectfully suggest that the settlement with Plaintiff Paul Dulberg is and was made in good faith within the meaning of the Illinois Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors Act, 740 ILCS 100/2(c).

WHEREFORE, the Defendants, BILL McGUIRE and CAROLYN McGUIRE, respectfully pray for the Court as follows:

(1) For an Order declaring that the settlement between Plaintiff Paul Dulberg and Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire was made and entered into in good faith within the meaning of the Illinois Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors Act, 740 ILCS 100/1, et seq.;

(2) For an Order dismissing all civil complaints, cross-claims, counterclaims and contribution claims currently pending against Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire, and arising out of or otherwise connected to the injuries claimed by Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, with prejudice;

(3) For an Order declaring that any potential future claims against Defendants Bill McGuire and Carolyn McGuire, including, without limitation, claims for contribution arising out of or otherwise connected to the chain saw incident and injuries claimed by Plaintiff Paul Dulberg, are barred;

(4) For an Order declaring for purposes of Illinois Supreme Court Rule 304(a) that there is no just reason to delay enforcement or appeal of the Dismissal Order; and

No.: 17 LA 377

PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO DEFENDANTS' COMBINED MOTION TO DISMISS

NOW COMES, your Plaintiff, PAUL DULBERG, (hereinafter referred to as "DULBERG") by and through his attorneys, THE GOOCH FIRM, and for his Response to Defendants' THE LAW OFFICES OF THOMAS J. POPOVICH, P.C. and HANS MAST (hereinafter collectively referred to as "POPOVICH" or "Defendants") Combined Motion to Dismiss states to the Court the following:

INTRODUCTION

Defendants brought this Combined Motion to Dismiss DULBERG's Complaint. (See Defendants' Memorandum in Support of Defendants' Combined Motion to Dismiss attached hereto without exhibits as Exhibit A.) In their Motion, Defendants argue that DULBERG failed to state a claim for legal malpractice, that DULBERG's claims are barred by judicial estoppel, and that the claims are time barred. However, after review of the facts in the Complaint, this Honorable Court will determine that DULBERG's Complaint is sufficient to survive this Motion to Dismiss.

STANDARD OF REVIEW FOR SECTION 2-615

1. A Motion to Dismiss pursuant to section 2-615 attacks the legal sufficiency of the Complaint by alleging defects on its face. Weisblatt v. Colky, 265 Ill.App.3d 622, 625, 637

Received 03-27-2018 01:48 PM / Circuit Clerk Accepted on 03-28-2018 09:49 AM / Transaction #17111147104 / Case #17LA000377

N.E.2d 1198, 1200 (1st Dist. 1994). Section 2–615 motions "raise but a single issue: whether, when taken as true, the facts alleged in the Complaint set forth a good and sufficient cause of action." Visvardis v. Ferleger 375 Ill.App.3d 719, 723, 873 N.E.2d 436, 440 (Ill.App.1 Dist. 2007), quoting Scott Wetzel Services v. Regard, 271 Ill.App.3d 478, 480, 208 Ill. Dec. 98, 648 N.E.2d 1020 (1995).

2. When the legal sufficiency of a Complaint is challenged by a section 2–615 Motion to Dismiss, all well-pleaded facts in the Complaint are taken as true and a reviewing court must determine whether the allegations of the Complaint, construed in a light most favorable to the plaintiff, are sufficient to establish a cause of action upon which relief may be granted. Vitro v. Mihelcic, 209 Ill. 2d 76, 81, 806 N.E.2d 632, 634 (2004); King v. First Capital Financial Services Corp. 215 Ill.2d 1, 12, 828 N.E.2d 1155, 1161 (2005). A cause of action should not be dismissed on the pleadings unless it clearly appears that no set of facts can be proved that will entitled the plaintiff to recover. Zedella v. Gibson, 165 Ill.2d 181, 185, 650 N.E.2d 1000 (1995).

STANDARD OF REVIEW FOR SECTION 2-619

3. A section 2-619 motion should be denied unless a Plaintiff cannot prove a set of facts that would entitle him to relief sought. Safeway Ins. Co. v. Daddono, 334 Ill. App 3d 215, 218 (1st Dist. 2002). A cause of action should not be dismissed on the pleadings unless it clearly appears that no set of facts can be proved that will entitle the plaintiff to recover. Zedella v. Gibson, 165 Ill.2d 181, 185, 650 N.E.2d 1000 (1995).

4. The Court must view all the factual allegations in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. Lloyd v. County of DuPage, 303 Ill.App.3d 544, 688 707 N.E.2d 1252, 1258 (2d Dist. 1999). Also the court must construe the facts liberally in favor of the plaintiff. Id. In ruling on a

2-619 motion, the court may consider pleadings, affidavits and depositions. Weisblatt v. Colky, 265 Ill.App.3d 622, 625, 637 N.E.2d 1198, 1200 (1st Dist. 1994). The purpose of a Motion to Dismiss under section 2–619 of the Code of Civil Procedure is to afford litigants a means to dispose of issues of law and easily proved issues of fact at the outset of a case, reserving disputed questions of fact for a jury trial. Zedella, at 185, 650 N.E.2d 1000.

ARGUMENT
(under 2-615)

I. Dulberg sufficiently states a cause of action for legal malpractice.

1. In his Complaint, DULBERG sufficiently set forth the necessary elements of legal malpractice. "To prevail on a legal malpractice claim, the plaintiff client must plead and prove that the defendant attorneys owed the client a duty of due care arising from the attorney-client relationship, that the defendants breached that duty, and that as a proximate result, the client suffered injury." Northern Illinois Emergency Physicians v. Landau, Omahana & Kopka, Ltd., 216 Ill.2d 294, 306-307 (Ill. 2005).

2. First, when DULBERG agreed to retain POPOVICH and POPOVICH agreed to represent DULBERG, a duty of due care was established based on the attorney-client relationship between DULBERG and POPOVICH. (See Complaint attached hereto without exhibits as Exhibit B, ¶ 8-10.) Thereafter, POPOVICH owed DULBERG a duty of due care as his attorney and POPOVICH breached that duty.

3. DULBERG's malpractice action is proper because DULBERG properly established that due to POPOVICH's malpractice, the case was settled for an amount much lower than what DULBERG expected. "Attorney malpractice action should be allowed where it can be shown that the plaintiff had to settle for a lesser amount than she could reasonably expect without the malpractice." Brooks v. Brennan, 255 Ill.App. 3d 260, 270 (5th Dist., 1994).

4. In his Complaint, DULBERG specifically alleges that he was essentially forced to settle his case for $5,000.00 against the McGuires and the Auto-Owners Insurance Company. (See Complaint attached hereto as Exhibit B, ¶13, 21(j).) Thereafter at the binding arbitration DULBERG's gross award of $660,000.00 was cut to only $300,000.00 due to a "high-low agreement" that was executed as part of the McGuire settlement. DULBERG further pleads that had the McGuires not been dismissed from the case, he would have recovered more. (See Complaint attached hereto as Exhibit B, ¶16, 22.)

5. DULBERG properly plead proximate cause and damages in his Complaint. (See Complaint attached hereto as Exhibit B, ¶21, 22.)

6. Fox v. Seiden, 382 Ill.App. 3d 288, 294 (1st Dist. 2008) is analogous to this case because the Fox Plaintiff similarly pled proximate cause and the Appellate Court held that this was sufficient, "the plaintiff alleged, 'But for [the law firm's] negligence and malfeasance, [Miriam] would not have had judgment entered against her for attorney's fees under the [Act].' We find the alleged facts, liberally construed, taken as true, and viewed in the light most favorable to the plaintiff, sufficiently plead the element of proximate cause." Id., at 299.

7. Specifically, DULBERG properly established that "but for" the acts of the Defendants in urging DULBERG to release the McGuires, DULBERG suffered substantial damages. (See Complaint attached hereto as Exhibit B, ¶ 22.)

8. More importantly, the issues of proximate cause and damages must be determined by a jury or trier of fact after all proper evidence and testimony is presented at trial. Proximate cause is a question of fact to be decided by a jury. (internal citation omitted) (Emphasis added) Hooper v. County of Cook, 366 Ill.App.3d 1, 7 (1st Dist., 2006). "The determination of damages is a question of fact that is within the discretion of the jury and is entitled to substantial deference." (Emphasis added.) Linhart v. Bridgeview Creek Development, Inc., 391 Ill.App.3d 630, 636 (1st Dist., 2009).

9. POPOVICH states in his Motion that DULBERG's pleading and theory is confusing. (See Defendants' Memorandum attached hereto as Exhibit A, pg.4). However, there is nothing confusing about the issues at hand. DULBERG clearly and sufficiently pled in his Complaint that the wrongful acts, i.e. POPOVICH urging settlement and release of the McGuires in the case caused DULBERG to lose out on over $300,000.00.

10. Defendants, in their Motion to Dismiss, are requiring of DULBERG to plead his entire case in a single Complaint.

11. "Plaintiff is not required to prove his case at this stage of the pleadings and the damages as alleged are sufficient to show he was damaged by Defendants' actions and cause of action for legal malpractice. Fox v. Seiden, supra, at 294; Platson v. NSM America, Inc., 322 Ill.App. 3d 138, 143 (2nd Dist., 2001) ('Cases are not to be tried at the pleadings stage, so a claimant need only show a possibility of recovery, not an absolute right to recover, to survive a 2-615 Motion.'). Here, DULBERG has shown at least a possibility of recovery based on the malpractice of POPOVICH, thus should survive Defendants' 2-615 Motion.

12. The allegations set forth by DULBERG are not conclusions and are sufficient to withstand a Section 2-615 dismissal. By looking at the Complaint, DULBERG has clearly set forth each of the elements of legal malpractice.

13. Further, because this instant case is filled with factual questions, dismissing the Complaint at this stage of the pleadings is improper and this Honorable Court should deny Defendants' Motion in order to allow the case to be fully and properly litigated.

II. Dulberg's claims are not barred by judicial estoppel.
