Dear Mr Talerico,

I have been at it since early this morning trying to track down the issues raised yesterday and know I am getting burned out.

At this moment I can't even find my answers to mast interrogatories to follow through with the pages from the deposition I am looking into.

I am getting frustrated and confused and its a sign that I need to walk away from this and forget about it then reproach it fresh.

To be honest, I haven't had much sleep since the surgery, it hurts to just lay my head on a pillow.

I am not finished looking into number 6 or 7 or the supplemental request for production nor have I begun to look at the original request for production.

I did burn myself out finding what I sent earlier this morning and I think those were good finds for us to look at in more detail.

I am willing to have our phone meeting but know that I am mentally diminished already and am going to just stop looking for a while to try and refresh.

I don't usually burn out this early but I had to put in a lot of searching to find what I sent to you earlier.

Paul
